Judge calls for investigation

Runnels Count Judge Barry Hilliard has enlisted the help of the Texas Rangers to assist in an investigation on Ameriway Construction of Kerrville, the original contractor for the HOME project, a program administered through the Texas Department of Housing and Community Affairs.

Hilliard has received complaints from sub-contractors from the Ballinger project and other projects who are reporting they have not been paid by Ameriway for their work. Officials with the TCHCA confirmed Tuesday they are looking into complaints as well.

The county received an extension last month, and hired Jerry Brewer of San Angelo to complete the project at the home at 705 11th St. Hilliard said progress is being made on the Ballinger project which is set to be completed in early May.

The last drop

An upper level low combined with a cold front brought much needed rainfall to Runnels County Monday and Tuesday, officials with the National Weather Service in San Angelo reported.

The front brought seasonal temperatures back to the area with highs reaching the mid-40s Tuesday and gusty winds reported up to 30 miles per hour. Low temperatures were back down in to the mid 30s Tuesday and Wednesday.

On Tuesday, the NWS reported that Ballinger received .67 inches of rainfall, with .41 inches reported in Wingate and .64 reported in San Angelo. San Angelo has also received .16 inches of rain since Jan. 1.

Mints: Improve infrastructure, bring development

What are the most important issues you want to address if elected as the Precinct 3 Runnels County Commissioner?

Basically, I want to insure each county resident receives the most for every dollar in taxes that we pay, and Precinct 3 is represented well. There are many responsibilities in the guidelines for Texas county commissioners. These are some areas I'm interested in:

■ Improving Precinct 3 infrastructure maintenance and repair.

A better understanding and protection of our current & future senior citizen services.

■ A strong alliance with Runnels County law enforcement concerning illegal drug issues.

■ Exploring possible revenue generation, as implemented in other counties.

■ Making the commissioner's

Scott: Project completion, frugal spending key issues

What are the most important issues you want to address if elected as the Precinct 3 Runnels County Commissioner?

As a part of the State of Texas, the structures and duties of county government are set forth in the Texas Constitution. Counties can only do those things that are authorized by Texas law and we must do those things that are required to be done by law. They are mandated and they are many. Financially they take a huge chunk of our budget each year.

After they are paid for, what remains should be used to provide services for our citizens. These should be services that enhance the quality of both individual lives and the community as a whole. At the present time, we have major problems with wear and tear at both our county jail and

RRC assesses fines to Runnels County operator

STAFF REPORT

AUSTIN - The Railroad Commission of Texas assessed $567,834 in fines involving 233 enforcement dockets against operators and businesses at the Commissioners' conference earlier this month, which included a company that operates wells in Runnels County.

The Commission has primary oversight and enforcement of the state's oil and gas industry and intrastate pipeline safety.

Operators were assessed $175,276 after failing to appear at Commission enforcement proceedings. Details on these Master Default Orders can be found here.

"Protection of public safety and our natural resources is the Railroad Commission's highest priority," said Ramona Nye, public information officer for the RRC. "The Railroad Commission's oil and gas rules are in place to ensure operators are protecting public safety and our natural resources. Oil and gas operators listed in our enforcement release—not surface landowners—are assessed penalties outlined in this news release."

A public conference was held in Austin Feb. 3, where the RRC detailed violations including several from Upstream Properties, which have been drilling in several locations in Runnels County. The RRC stressed that it is the operators, not the land owners who are assessed and must pay the penalities.

Runnels County violations against Upstream Properties, LLC included the E. Gottschalk lease Well No. 1 in Runnels County. Upstream was ordered to plug the well and place Well No. 3 into compliance and pay a fine of Upstream was ordered to plug a well and assessed a $9,045 penalty for the Wallace Brown Lease, Well No. 1 in Runnels County. Upstream was ordered to pay a $13,339 penalty and plug wells or place them in compliance on the C.J. Schwertner Lease which includes Wells No. 2 and 3 at the Ballinger Field in Runnels County.

Keeping eyes healthy during winter

MORE CONTENT NOW

Our wardrobes aren't the only things that change when the weather turns chilly. Our bodies are often affected not only by the outdoor changes, but inside changes as well. The body part that receives most of the brunt from winter weather is our eyes.

Between the harsh winter winds and the dry heat radiating inside, our eyes can suddenly feel irritated and scratchy. In fact, exposure to these atmospheres can cause moisture to evaporate inside our eyes. As a result, our tear glands cannot adequately produce the fluid needed to maintain the eyes' protective, liquid coating. The result is itchy, dry eyes that can cause pain, blurred vision, a burning sensation or even watery vision as our eyes try to compensate for

While it is difficult to avoid dry eyes altogether during the winter months, there are several steps that you can take to ensure your eyes stay soothed while indoors this season.

Help for the home

During the frigid winter months, a home's humidity level can easily dip below the 30-55 percent range required for our eyes to stay lubricated. Offset this dry air by using a humidifier in your home. Also, refrain from using a ceiling fan while sleeping at night, as drafts can also exacerbate symptoms.

Fill up on fluids

Even mild dehydration can negatively affect how dry your eyes feel, as cold temperatures can dampen the body's thirst mechanism and artificial heat hastens tear evaporation. Keep eyes hydrated by sipping water throughout the day. Also, increase your intake of fluid-rich foods like soup, fruits and veggies.

Nourish your body

Many clinical studies show omega-3 fatty acids, which are considered essential fatty acids, may protect adult eyes from dry eye syndrome. Omega-3s support healthy tear production and keep eyes moisturized. In addition to omega-3s, other ingredients like Vitamin A, D3, green tea and evening primrose oil can significantly accelerate the time it takes to feel relief.

Watery eye help

In cold and windy conditions, many complain their eyes water more than normal. Typically the symptoms of watery eye are excessive tearing, which is made worse by being outdoors. Wearing spectacles will provide protection against the wind, even if you don't usually wear them outdoors. In some cases, excessive watering of the eyes may be a sign of a blockage of tear ducts or infection of the eye.

If you are concerned about the health of your eyes, visit your optometrist. Your eye care professional will be able to advise you on the best course of action.

-Brandpoint CHILDREN'S HEALTH

Babies, children and teenagers have different eye health needs than adults. It's crucial to protect their sight from injury, bad habits like smoking or other poor choices. The American Academy of Ophthalmology advises to watch your child for signs of poor vision or crossed eyes. If you notice any eye problems, have your child examined right away so that the problem doesn't become permanent. KidsHealth.org notes, if caught early, eye conditions often can be corrected.

SENIOR HEALTH

There's an existing nutrient that is incredibly important to your eye health. However, odds are you've probably never heard of it. The nutrient is called zeaxanthin (pronounced Zee-ah-zan-thun). The antioxidant, along with lutein, is found in the back of the eye and help protect your sight. Zeaxanthin and lutein act like "internal sunglasses." Zeaxanthin can be found in foods, like paprika and goji berries.

NEW RESEARCH

According to an article in Medical News Today, researchers at Columbia University Medical Center in New York, New York, have created "smart" contact lenses. The study shows how these lens can help identify which patients with glaucoma - a leading cause of blindness are most likely to experience disease progression. These contact lens have a built-in sensor that can monitor eye pressure 24 hours a day. Any change in pressure is collected via portable recorder worn by patients. Researchers found those with more changes experience faster glaucoma progression.

The Texas Tuition Promise Fund, the state's prepaid college tuition program, allows participants to purchase tuition units based on current prices and avoid future increases in the cost of undergraduate tuition and school-wide required fees at Texas public colleges and universities

"Families concerned about the rising costs of higher education can lock in today's rates at Texas public colleges and universities by prepaying tuition and school-wide required fees through the Promise Fund," Hegar said. "The plan has a range of payment options that gives Texas parents and grandparents the flexibility they need to plan ahead and provide future opportunities for their children and grandchildren.'

Under the plan, families can prepay tuition and school-wide required fees for a four-year degree, two years of community college or just a few semesters at Texas public colleges and universities by purchasing tuition units. Enrollment in the program at 2015-16 prices will close Feb. 29. This deadline extends to July 31 for children younger than 1. The next annual enrollment period begins Sept. 1, with new contract prices based on Texas public college costs for the 2016-17 academic year.

Complete plan information, current prices, enrollment forms and more are available online at Tuition-Promise.org, or call 1-800-445-GRAD (4723), Option 5.

Q: What's the difference between mist and drizzle?

A: The real difference is only a slight one, says Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University. "Mist is composed of tiny droplets of water, so tiny they are suspended in the atmosphere," he explains. "Mist reduces visibility, but not as much as fog, which it closely resembles. Technically speaking, during mist, visibility is one-half mile or more. Drizzle, on the other hand, is fairly uniform precipitation and is composed of small water drops that fall to the ground. The only real difference between drizzle and actual rain is that the droplets in drizzle are much smaller.

The Market Perspective

Counter trend rally likely ending for stocks

The IPO market is foundering. Of the almost 175 companies that made their US stock market debuts I 2015, more than 70% are now trading below their IPO prices. Nine of the ten largest IPOs of 2015 are trading below their initial sale prices.

Elam

Clearly the social mood towards IPOs has changed over the last year. A positive attitude on the part of investors has them shelling out money for new ideas. The more positive the attitude, the easier it is to sell investors on whatever idea one might have. Now though, some 2,000 Dow points lower, investors are having second thoughts on what might have been dicey propositions. We have noted that stock prices rose on a sea tide of zero interest rate stock buy backs, rather than real productivity increases.

The Transports have been the leading index to the downside as it topped first in November, 2014. A week ago Friday February 12 the Transports began a week long rally. This relieved the quite oversold condition of the market. Is it over already?

The Transports need a weekly close over 7466 to turn the trend at least neutral. Transports actually bottomed January 20 and have been in an uptrend ever since.

But it looks like the Transports have, pardon the pun, run out of gas. This index is now overbought and has reached our target of 7400. Next week will tell the tale but I suspect the counter-trend rally for most indexes is already done. Expect a choppy volatile next week as the markets consolidate before finding a new direction.

Energy

We have maintained that energy prices have been seeking a bottom here. Last week the USO ETF for oil prices briefly dropped below $8.00 and then rallied-for four days. This week news reports surfaced that Russia, Qatar, Saudi, and Venezuela would self impose some sort of production levels. The idea is that until world supply diminishes, it will be hard for prices to advance. However Iran put the kibosh on the idea saying it had no intention of throttling back on its production. Recall that Iran is emerging from longer term sanctions which restricted its ability to sell oil. And as a Shiite enemy of Sunni Saudi Arabia, there is not love lost between the two. This is the case even though it would benefit Iran to at least stay quiet, implying they are going along in which case prices would rise. But alas, as we write today, that is not the case.

FRAK the ETF for Shale producers is at best sideways trading near above the recent low of $10 at today's $11.58. It has failed to rise above its 50 day Moving Average at $12.36.

Natural gas futures dove to a new low at $1.85 yesterday which is not a positive development.

The natural gas ETF which is UNG is as a result also at a new low today. So, our expected energy rally has fizzled for now. This suggests a potential re-test of that $26-27 area for

West Texas Intermediate.

TEXAS HISTORY MINUTE

William Barret Travis and his legacy

William Barret Travis is perhaps one of the most memorable figures from the Texas Revolution and the siege of the Alamo. His name has since been honored with the naming of Travis County, a park in San Antonio, and numerous schools across the state. Like many heroic figures, his life was one fraught Travis was born in Saluda County, South Carolina, on August 1, 1809. He was the first of eleven children born to farmer Mark and Jemima Travis. He came from a family of pioneers who had settled in Virginia as early as 1627. Eager for new opportunities, the family headed westward and settled in southern Alabama in 1817. He briefly became a school teacher before gaining his law license through an apprenticeship in 1828. Everything in his life seemed to be going in his direction at this point. He was ambitious, becoming steadily more successful, and making himself an important part of the community. In 1829, his new wife gave birth to their first child. In addition to his law practice, he started a newspaper, the Claiborne Herald. He joined the local Masonic lodge and also joined the Alabama Militia. But in less than two years, he lost it all.

His weekly newspaper turned into a disaster as his continual typesetting mistakes, missed deadlines, and poor decisions pushed the once-promising publication into insolvency. He found himself unable to attract any significant clients to his law firm. Of the few clients he had, he was unable to collect any legal fees or awards. The bills piled up, no money was coming in, and he now faced the suspected infidelity of his wife.

By early 1831, he owed $834 to various creditors, an immense sum at the time. Unable to pay, he was taken to court and found liable. By March, an order for his arrest was made for the unpaid debts. Buried in debt and on the run from the law, Travis left Alabama in disgrace.

Dr. Ken Bridges

He went to Texas to recover his fortunes. He started a modest law firm at Anahuac, near modern-day Houston. In 1832, he was arrested following a legal dispute over three slaves who had escaped from Louisiana. The incident touched off a violent encounter with the Mexican Army that left six dead.

In 1834, Travis moved his law practice to San Felipe as relations between Mexico and Texas settlers deteriorated. By 1835, he was made a lieutenant colonel in San Antonio and ordered to recruit volunteers for the defense of the city, but he found few people willing to join him. In early 1836, troops began reinforcing the old mission at the Alamo, which at that time was just outside San Antonio. By mid-February, Col. James Neill took a leave of absence to attend to his family, leaving Travis in command of about 50 men. One hundred more soon joined, under the command of Jim Bowie.

In spite of Gen. Sam Houston's orders that the mission be abandoned, Travis and the other men decided to make their stand. He sent urgent appeals for reinforcements. On Feb. 24, he sent an open letter addressed "To the People of Texas and All the Americans in the World," asking for troops "in the name of liberty, of patriotism, and everything dear to the American character." He proclaimed, "I shall never surrender or retreat.'

By the time the final siege started, there were only 183 defenders at the Alamo, compared to the thousands of soldiers attacking the mission. On March 6, the final attack started, and the men of the Alamo faced their destiny. Travis died at the Alamo on that fateful day. He lived a short 26 years, but in one fateful moment in history, he became a

I want to bring a new energy to the representation of Precinct 3 patrons.

With years of managerial decision making experience, I will bring a strong work ethic and the necessary accountability standards. I am keenly aware this opportunity to serve requires a servant's heart of willingness to listen and deal with people issues. When the economy is booming and the dollars flowing, budgets are easier to manage, but the reality is we are all living with tight budgets, requiring everyone and every penny to be accountable.

What do you feel qualifies you for the Precinct 3 Runnels County Commissioner position?

I am ready and willing to serve the people of Precinct 3 as their county commissioner. My life experiences of 40 years in construction management, engineering, and budget management bring the required talents for service. The right decision, the right thing to do, will always be how I base any vote to protect and serve the patrons I represent. our courthouse and surrounding infrastructures. We are going to have to address and take care of those issues.

On the precinct level, I would like to complete what we have started with the County Transportation Infrastructure Fund Grant Program (Certz Grant). Each precinct has been allotted a certain amount of dollars from the State, and the county has to only put up 10% of the total funds for the road repairs. This will expire if unused. TxDOT has also agreed to pay for the cost to replace three of our bridges in Precinct 3 and we need to get that done in a timely manner.

Money is and will continue to be an issue for Runnels County. We lost $450,000 of taxable value from the oil and gas industry last year and it will not be good once again this year when budget time rolls around. Frugality will be key in the near future. With less than $.17 out of each of our property tax dollars going into the coffers of county government, we have to tighten our belts and work within our means.

What do you think you can bring to the position if elected?

I bring a wealth of experience and knowledge from the on the job training I received from being a Road and Bridge employee of Runnels County for the five years prior to being elected the Precinct 3 Commissioner for Runnels County. This experience exposed me to all aspects of road maintenance, and construction. I also am very capable of equipment maintenance and operation, which I help out with when we are shorthanded for whatever reason.

I am now in my fourth year as County Commissioner and have a very good working relationship with all the employees and elected officials of Runnels County. We are all very committed to serving the citizens of our county.

The Commissioner's Court that I serve on, is composed of five very strong willed and dedicated servants to the public. I stand strong for my beliefs, fighting for what I feel is the best thing for my constituents, as do all the others on the Court. When the battles are over, we are all united together to go back to work and do what is best for Runnels County and its citizens. While I have been associated with my fellow Commissioners, we have shared our time, knowledge, and resources to help each other help ALL citizens of Runnels County. This will continue if re-elected.

What do you feel qualifies you for the Precinct 3 Runnels County Commissioner position?

Being born and raised in Runnels County, my roots and loyalty to our citizens run very deep.

I know and appreciate the value of hard work and the value of a dollar. I will always do my best to ensure we always respect both.

I have over four decades of working closely with the public in both the public school system and in county government. I have been in charge of the budgetary processes of taxpayer monies in both systems for well over 20 years.

THE IDLE AMERICAN Changing Options to Celebrate Life...

The funeral service was much like many of the hundreds I attended in the century just past. The old parson-officiating in the country church-made the identical statement six times. "We won't need any undertakers in heaven."

Each time, I glanced at the late Groner Pitts, funeral director at the service and best man at the wedding for Brenda and me almost 50 years ago. Groner's facial expression didn't change. After all, he'd conducted thousands of services, pretty much seeing and hearing it all.

Later, I ribbed him about the preacher's assurance that no undertakers will be needed in heaven. Pitts smiled, answering, "Heaven doesn't need any preachers, either-just song leaders."...

During Pitts' 50+ years in the profession, funeral services changed ever so gradually, particularly in smaller communities.

He's been gone for a dozen years, and in this short span, there have probably been more changes than during his entire career.

But so has life in general. Still, Groner would be shocked by so many changes, including different settings--often absented by the body of the person whose life is being celebrated. Most noteworthy is the trend toward cremation....

At Martin Thompson and Son Funeral Home in Fort Worth, more than half of the families served choose cremation. Second and third generation in the profession, dad and son follow in the footsteps of the late Guy Thompson, a pioneer undertaker who owned Thompson's Harveson and Cole Funeral Home in Fort Worth. In the judgment of many, Guy was arguably the most studied, committed, dignified and admired in the

"Dad never took a vacation as such," Martin said, "Because serving others at their time of need was what he most wanted to do. So he stayed close to home.'

Guy introduced solid hardwood caskets in the south. During World War II. when metal caskets weren't being made, he opted to order handmade, solid hardwood caskets from Marsellus Casket Company of New York. Learning the company's policy precluded shipments west of the Mississippi River, Guy made it clear he wanted a train car load of 80 caskets. Marsellus changed its policy...

Martin, a graduate of Texas Wesleyan College, worked 22 years for his dad. In 1998, Martin opened his own funeral home in Grapevine, adding others in Keller traditional services. "We can honor most requests, whether for cremation or traditional services,' Martin said. "We strive to meet every need possible in a new era when funerals are far more celebratory than before."...

There's a good chance a fourth generation Thompson may become involved in the profession. Who knows? Jon's son, Palmer, is just two years old.

Should he choose to do so,-he'll be assisting mostly with cremations. In 2013--the most recent national statistical data available--cremations reached 45.4%, with burials slightly ahead at 48.7%. Cremations were projected to dominate in 2015, 48.5% to 45.6%. By 2020, cremations are expected to rule, 56.2% to 37.9%

On this side of heaven, we'll still need undertakers, whose biggest challenges still are to comfort the bereaved. It is well to keep in mind Charlie Brown's cartoon reminder to Snoopy, while they were fishing. He said, "Someday, we're all going to die, Snoopy."

To which his canine friend responded. "True, but on all the other days, we will

I never expect to attend a service more unique than the one for Darren Nix, 36, a dozen years ago. The larger part was traditional; then, the minister "changed gears," mentioning Darren's love of moon pies.

"Darren loved 'em, and he loved hearing the Big Bopper's 'Chantilly Lace'." As the some 500 friends passed the coffin, they were handed moon pies, as "Chantilly Lace" lyrics flooded the auditorium...

The Crippled Bull

Years ago I had a very good herd bull and he sired many beautiful calves but he got into a fight with a younger bull and got crippled. It was his hip and he had a hard time keeping up with the cows. So I loaded him up and took him to the livestock auction barn and I thought well at least I will get something for him. I went to get my check for the bull and they informed something was wrong and I had to go across town to the dog food plant. I went over there and they told me the bull did not pass inspection so they sent him to the dog food plant. One thing the meat inspectors do if an animal does not pass inspection they brand them with a big C on their jaw. That means they are condemned and not fit for human consumption. That bull reminds me of something in the Bible. When people refuse to honor God, do what He says, worship other things or they may even try to ignore or deny God the Bible says they are condemned, (Mark16:16, John 3:17-21). That means they will never be allowed into heaven and they will be judged and sent to everlasting punishment, hell (Matthew 12:35-37, Revelation 20:11). But those who accept Jesus Christ and obey it is a different story, (Psalm 34:22, John 3:16&17, Revelation 22:11-15). See you in church next Sunday.

A sweet treat for the troops Winters church members aim to bake 800 dozen cookies

SPECIAL TO THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

The community of Winters is embarking on a sweet project designed to lift the hearts of those serving the military all over the world by baking 800 dozen cookies for the troops.

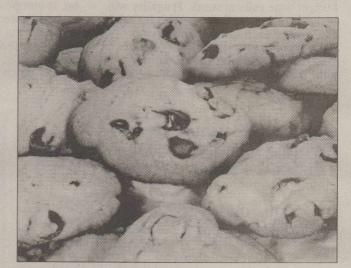

The project involves Winters citizens and church members as well as members of the First United Methodist Church of Ballinger.

The Ministerial Alliance in Winters, which has 17 member churches is overseeing the project under the direction of Pastor Bob Murchison of the First United Methodist Church in Winters. Murchison decided to continue the efforts started at Christmas by Doris Haynes of Novice Methodist Church for a cookies for troops project she undertook at Christmas. Wes Hays, Sr., of Novice, has been responsible forcoordinating the efforts at Christmas and Easter.

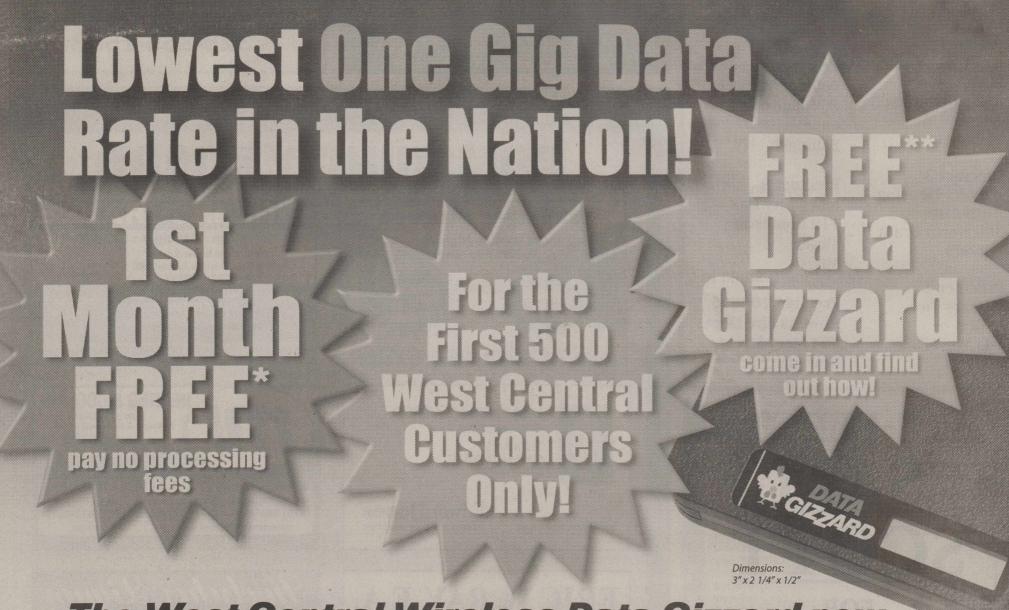

Once the sweet treats are baked by community members, the cookies will be picked up by retired Air Force sergeants on March 18 and delivered to Dyess Air Force Base in Abilene. Dyess AFB will then be responsible for delivering the cookies before Easter.

The cookies will be baked by the members of the churches, placed in bags, which in turn will be placed in to shipping boxes.

'The (members of the) Ministerial Alliance is hoping that 800 dozen cookies will be baked and delivered to the women and men, serving our country overseas in the armed forces," Murchison said.

Those interested in participating or contributing cookies, please contact any of the local churches in Winters for more information.

Now, that all the girls teams from District 7-2A have been eliminated from the playoffs, the All-District selections may be released. The Winters Lady Blizzards were represented well on the teams.

Academic All-District selections included Green, Justine Alvarado, Bailee Busher, Megan Jacob, Christy Kruse, K'Lee Lindley, and Cha-Cha Lovelace. Honorable Mention All-District selections included Busher, Kruse and Monique

PAID POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT BY JOHN BEST FOR 119TH DISTRICT ATTORNEY

TO THE CITIZENS OF RUNNELS COUNTY:

I will not tell you I am something that I am not. I am a small town country boy who grew up in Santa Anna, Texas. I have served both the citizens of Coleman and Runnels County for the last 21 years to the best of my ability. I am not a college graduate and am not involved in numerous civic organizations. I applaud my opponent for those accomplishments, however, over the last 21 years ALL of my time has been spent serving the citizens I have sworn to protect.

I will NOT tell you, as my opponent has on his campaign web page, newspaper advertising, and campaign Facebook page, that I will do things that are honestly, with our County's current financial situation, not feasible.

I will tell you that I will work with the Runnels County Commissioners' Court to bring about increases in Sheriff Office and jail and dispatch staffing, as well as pay increases, which are needed in those departments to retain our currently trained staff and to attract future qualified, reliable employees.

I will tell you that I will work with the Runnels County Commissioners' Court to further the Sheriff's Office and jail and dispatch departments' technological needs, when those funds are available to the County.

I will tell you I will continue to work with other Runnels County law enforcement agencies, surrounding city and county agencies, as well as other local first responders and state and federal agencies, to better serve the citizens of Runnels County. I will tell you that any citizen of Runnels County will always be welcome to visit with me by phone or in person to discuss any issues one might have concerning law enforcement issues.

I will tell you that if elected your sheriff, ALL currently employed Sheriff"s Office personnel will keep their jobs! These people have served the citizens of Runnels County faithfully and deserve the opportunity to continue to do so!

I also want to encourage each citizen to help US to help YOU. We can do so much more if we all work together.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Citizens of Runnels County for the support you have shown my wife Cherie and I over the years. We did not grow up here, however, this has become our home.

I also want to thank Sheriff Bill Baird for giving me the opportunity 14 years ago to become a part of his team. I would also like to thank him for the confidence he has had in the work I have done in this County over the years. I would also like to thank the Runnels County deputies I have worked with over the years. They are all an incredible group of men and women. The people of Runnels County do not understand the stresses of this job and the toll it can take on a person mentally and physically, however, the deputies I have served with have shown nothing but incredible resolve in serving the citizens they are sworn to protect and for that I thank them all! I also want to thank the Runnels County jail and dispatch staff for their outstanding service to Runnels County over the years. These men and women never get the credit they deserve, however, I hope you will take the time to shake their hands and tell them "thank you for your service" when you see them because they deserve at least that much for helping protect the Citizens of Runnels County. In closing, I again thank you all for your support for my wife Cherie and I over the years. I ask for your vote for CARL SQUYRES for Runnels County Sheriff.

Thank you
