Red Cord Blood Drive

The Meek Blood Drive for the Red Cord Program will be held today from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Special Events Center in Winters. Students who give blood twice, will receive a red cord to be worn during graduation.

The Red Honor Cord Program is designed to recognize high school seniors who make the courageous decision to give someone the gift of life through the selfless act of blood donation. High schools hosting two or more blood drives during the school year are eligible to participate in the program. To qualify, seniors must give blood twice during the school year, either at their school drive, another blood drive or the Meek Blood Center donor center.

The last drop

A cold front brought several inches of rain to Runnels County as the fall season began. Temperatures are almost normal for this time of year according to the National Weather Service in San Angelo.

The cold front moved Runnels County on Saturday and Sunday, dumping as much as four inches of rain on some areas.

The NWS reported Ballinger received .2.69 inches of precipitation, while Wingate reported 4.12 inches and San Angelo reported 2.75 inches of rain.

Partly cloudy and cool conditions will prevail at game time Friday, the high is only expected to be 78 and another cold front is expected to come through. By 8 p.m. the temperatures should be in the 60s, so football fans need to take a jacket. Rain is not in the forecast for the coming week, but fall weather will prevail, with bringing high temperatures down to the mid 80s and lows in to the

So far this year, Ballinger has received 23.85 inches of rainfall, with 26.99 inches reported in Wingate and 28.88 inches received in San Angelo.

Winters creates positives from tragedy

BY EVAN REN ABILENE REPORTER NEWS

WINTERS — It is a common roadside marker, near the Winters city limits on U.S. Highway 83, designating the location of a fatality.

For those simply passing through this small agricultural community, 40 miles south of Abilene, the site is not unlike countless other such markers they have seen along Texas highways. For local residents, however, the location has held a special significance ever since the early morning hours of Nov. 15, 2015, when Winters football player Scott Lange lost his

It was one of more than 3,500 traffic fatalities in Texas last year. But in Runnels County, this particular accident has left something indelible.

The event marked a turning point of sorts for the community, which has not only rallied behind the Lange family, but has grown closer as a whole in the process.

If it is possible for positives to spring forth through tragic events, the town of Winters is now attempting to make it happen.

A NIGHT OF SHOCK A high school junior who had yet to reach his 17th birthday, Lange and a friend were returning home from a hunting trip when their pickup rolled over and struck a tree.

The driver was injured and released from the hospital the next day. But Lange, who was the lone passenger, died at the scene.

Shortly after the crash, the unfortunate situation grew even worse. The first law enforcement officer at the scene recognized Lange and knew that his father, James, was a member of the Winters he Winters Blizzards trounced the Texas Leadership Charter Academy Eagles 42-6 in Friday's last nonleague challenge.

"This was the first time this year that the boys played a complete game from beginning to end and really understood what we can do if we play with all out effort for 48 minutes,' said Blizzard Coach Matt McCarty. "I was very proud of them but they understand that TLCA is over and we have to get our eyes on Albany next who is our first district game.'

The Blizzards will now prepare for the game against the Albany Lions who will arrive at the challenge with a 4-1 record after being ripped by Cisco, 34-7 in last week's non-league challenge.

"Albany is going to be the toughest team that we have faced this year,' McCarty said. "They are very fundamentally sound in everything that they do. If we don't have negative plays (turnovers, penalties) and we go out and make plays offensively and defensively, I believe that we have a shot to go get our first district win."

During last Friday night's match up, Blizzard Chris Diaz pulled off an eight yard run in the first quarter but the kick failed. The Blizzards scored 14 points in the second quarter with two touchdowns, followed by another TD

St. Boniface and Olfen School celebrate 115 years

SPECIAL TO THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE

OLFEN - The St. Boniface Catholic Church at Olfen will be hosting the annual Fall Festival Sunday, October 9 at the parish hall in Olfen. This year's theme is "Celebrating 115 Years with St. Boniface Church and Olfen School."

The St. Boniface Parish is in the Diocese of San Angelo under the direction of Bishop Michael Sis. The church was originally built in 1901 after the first settlers arrived in the later 1890s and constructed a church and school combination building to meet the religious needs of the people and to educate their children.

According to the Handbook of Texas, Olfen, 10 miles north of the confluence of the Colorado and Concho rivers in Runnels County, is a German Catholic community. In the early 1890s German Catholics who had immigrated to Colorado, Fayette, and other counties in Southeast Texas from 1846 to 1890 looked toward West Texas for farmland, a healthy climate, and a place to establish a Catholic environment.

By the 1890s the railroad had built as far as Ballinger on the Colorado River. Bernard Matthiesen, from Ellinger in Fayette County, went by train to Ballinger in June 1891 and again in October 1891 by horse and wagon to look for farmland. In 1893 he bought land and moved his wife

Adeline Elizabeth Holder

Adeline Elizabeth Holder, 91, died of natural causes Sunday September 25, 2016 at Winters Assisted Living Center. Adeline was born July 21, 1925, to Reinhold and Mary (Franke) Hoelscher. She spent most of her youth growing up on a family farm near Dry Ridge between Olfen and Ballinger. To support the WW II effort, that farm along with other farms became what is now Bruce Field. The family then bought and moved to a farm in the Norton community when Adeline was 16. She attended Catholic schools in Rowena and Olfen. She also attended public school at Dry Ridge. Adeline married Robert Holder on April 15, 1947, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Ballinger. As a homemaker and farmer's wife, she and Robert worked together on farms near Norton, Maverick and Winters, raising their family and providing their children an opportunity to get college educations. When her youngest child was a senior in high school she began working at Dry's Manufacturing in Winters. She enjoyed working there until she retired after 18 years. She was a membe of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Ballinger, Mount Carmel Catholic Church in Winters and a returning member of St. Mary's in Ballinger during the last several years. She was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW.

She was preceded in death by her parents, her husband Robert, brothers Marvin Hoelscher and Emmitt Hoelscher, sister, Francine Halfmann and infant son Harold Joseph

Surviving siblings include her sisters Lynette Lange, Virginia Holder, Ethel Berger (Eugene) of San Angelo and Mary Lou Jansa (Lester) of Midland, her brothers Glen Hoelscher (Anna) and Clifford Hoelscher (Jean) of Midland. Additional survivors include her daughter Anna

Rice of Ballinger, son, Richard Holder (Janice) of San Angelo, grandson, Kenneth Holder (Heather) of San Antonio, great-grandson Perrin and great-granddaughter Vesper.

Rosary will be held at 7:00 P.M. Tuesday September 27, 2016 at Winters Funeral Home. Mass of Christian Burial will be celebrated at 10:00 A.M. Wednesday September 28, 2016 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Ballinger. Burial will follow in Winters Lakeview Cemetery.

Nephews, relatives and family friends will serve as pall bearers.

The family thanks the dedicated staffs at North Runnels Home Health Agency, Winters Nursing Home, North Runnels Hospital, Dr. Mark McKinnon, P.A. Judy Zuspann for all their long-term kindness, care and support. Additionally, thank you Shanna Fuentes, and all your staff at the Winters Assisted Living Center, for your devoted care of "Ms. Adeline"

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to American Diabetes Association, 1701 North Beauregard Street, Alexandra, VA. 22311, or your favorite charity.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear residents of Runnels County,

The employees of the Runnels County Aging would like to take this opportunity say farewell to all of the clients that we have served in Runnels County. It is an unfortunate end to a great program.

However, there is a light at the end of the tunnel. Meals on Wheels, Plus of Abilene is going to take over serving home delivered meals to the clients from Title XX program in Ballinger and Winters. They feel they can help as long as each community provides both volunteer and financial support. Each of the respective Ministerial Alliances are stepping up to help coordinate with Meals on Wheels to get the meals picked up in Abilene and distributed in Ballinger and Winters.

Also, Meals for the Elderly will be serving home bound in Miles and will be coordinating with the local Churches of Miles for pickup and delivery.

If you are a senior, or person with disabilities living in Winters or Ballinger and you feel that a home delivered meal would benefit your living circumstances please contact the following number to be put on their waiting list.

Financial Focus

It is National Retirement Week — so take action

SUBMITTED BY LARRY GILBERT

Congress has dedicated the third week of October as National Save for Retirement Week. Clearly, the government feels the need to urge people to do a better job of preparing for retirement. Are you doing all you can?

Many of your peers aren't - or at least they think they aren't. In a recent survey conducted by Bankrate.com, respondents reported that "not saving for retirement early enough" was their biggest financial regret. Other evidence seems to show they have good cause for remorse: 52% of households 55 and older haven't saved anything for retirement, according to a report from the U.S. Government Accountability Office, although half of this group reported having a pension.

Obviously, you'll want to avoid having either financial regrets or major shortfalls in your retirement savings. And that means you may need to consider making moves such as these:

■ Take advantage of all your opportunities. You may well have access to more than one tax-advantaged retirement plan. Your employer may offer a 401(k) or similar plan, and even if you participate in your employer's plan, you are probably still eligible to contribute to an IRA. You may not be able to afford to "max out" on both plans, but try to contribute as much as you can afford. At the very least, put in enough to your employer's plan to earn a matching contribution, if one is offered, and boost your annual contributions every year in which

■ Create an appropriate investment mix. It's not enough just to invest regularly through your IRA, 401(k) or other retirement plan - you also need to invest wisely.

You can fund your IRA with virtually any investments you choose, while your 401(k) or similar plan likely offers an array of investment accounts. So, between your IRA and 401(k), you can create portfolios that reflect your goals, risk tolerance and time horizon. It's especially important that your investment mix offers sufficient growth potential to help you make progress toward the retirement lifestyle you've envisioned.

■ Don't "raid" your retirement accounts early. If you start withdrawing from your traditional IRA before you turn 59½, you may have to pay a 10% tax penalty in addition to normal income taxes due. (If you have a Roth IRA and start taking withdrawals before you are 59½, the earnings will be taxed and may be subject to a 10% penalty but contributions can be withdrawn without any tax and penalty consequences.) As for your 401(k) or similar plan, you may be able to take out a loan, but you'll have to pay yourself back to avoid any tax or penalty consequences. (Also, not all plans offer a loan option.) More importantly, any money you take out early is money that no longer has a chance to grow to help you meet your goals. Try to do everything you can, then, to keep your retirement plans intact until you actually do retire. One suggestion: Build an emergency fund containing three to six months' worth of living expenses, kept in a liquid, low-risk vehicle outside your IRA or 401(k).

National Save for Retirement Week reminds us that we all must act to help ourselves retire comfortably. By making the moves described above, you can do your part.

The 1950s and 1960s introduced Americans to television and riveted audiences with tales of the frontier. One of the most noted actors of the era was Texan Fess Parker. He became one of the most popular actors of the time, giving life to legendary American figures such as Davy Crockett and Daniel Boone in his portrayals.

Fess Elisha Parker, Jr., was born in Fort Worth in 1924. At a young age, his family moved to a farm outside San Angelo where he grew up. His childhood was largely uneventful, but this soon changed. When World War II erupted, he enlisted in the navy. He was too tall to

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is reminding Texans in advance of the upcoming General Election that Election Identification Certificates (EIC), which can be used for voting purposes, are available year-round at all Texas driver license offices. In an ongoing effort to ensure Texans have access to EICs, DPS is offering Saturday hours on Oct. 22 and Oct. 29 at select driver license offices to issue EICs. In addition, EIC mobile stations will be deployed to various locations across the state, and alternate approved locations are issuing EICs in select counties.

On August 10, 2016, identification requirements for voting in Texas changed. For information regarding required identification for voting in person, please visithttp://www. votetexas.gov/register-tovote/need-id.

The 2016 General Election is Nov. 8, and early voting starts Oct. 24 and continues through Nov. 4. Texans can obtain an offices during regular business hours throughout the

■ Select driver license offices on Saturday, Oct. 22 and Oct. 29, from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. (EIC transactions only)

■ EIC mobile station locations (EIC transactions

■ Alternate approved locations issuing only EICs in select counties

One form of identification that can be used for voting purposes is an EIC. You may apply for an EIC at no charge. However, if you already have any of the following forms of identification, you are not eligible for an EIC: Texas driver license unexpired

■ Texas personal identification card - unexpired

■ Concealed Handgun License (CHL) or License to Carry (LTC) - unexpired

■ U.S. passport book or card - unexpired

To apply for an EIC, applicants must visit one of the locations listed above and complete an application for a Texas Election Identification Certificate (DL-14C). (For the Spanish language version of the EIC application, see http:// www.dps.texas.gov/internetforms/forms/DL-14CS.

To qualify for an EIC, an applicant must: Bring documentation U.S. citizenship and Identity ■ Be eligible to vote in Texas (Bring a valid voter registration card or submit a voter registration application through the Texas Department of Public Safety) ■ Be a Texas resident ■ Be 17 years and 10 months or older

To avoid delays or complications, DPS urges potential applicants to make sure they have the necessary documentation before arriving at the office, mobile station or alternate approved location.

The EIC receipt an individual receives will include their photo and can be used for voting purposes until the permanent card is delivered by mail.

The EIC is free of charge to qualifying applicants and is valid for six years. There is no expiration date for an EIC for citizens 70 years of age or older. The EIC can only be used for voting purposes and may not be used as personal identification.

For more information on the requirements and process for obtaining an EIC, please visit: http://www. txdps.state.tx.us/DriverLicense/electionID.htm.

Just Around the Corner Vacations are good, always

Celinda

Hawkins

Vacations are never long enough.

Last week, I had the wonderful opportunity to head down to Port Aransas with family and friends and enjoyed a few days of R & R in a lovely condo at the Port Royale

Ahhh, yes, late September in Texas when the temperature is still creeping up to 100 degrees and you can still hang around the pool or the ocean for rest and relaxation.

Port A as the locals call it, is located in Nueces County about 180 miles southeast of San Antonio. And, it is just across the bridge from Corpus Christi - and on the other side, a ferry ride from Aransas Pass. It is nestled between the dunes of Mustang Island and the Corpus Christi ship channel.

The little community grows each weekend especially during the off season, which is currently underway. The off season is a good time to go, because you can get good rates on condos and accommodations.

Who knew that this little town has such as rich history, from its early days as an Indian settlement, to the Pirates of Port Aransas, to the settlement by Europeans, the lifesaving station at the lighthouse to the historic Tarpon Inn there is plenty to do. Plus, the kids and adults alike will like going inside the giant shark's mouth while shopping in Port A. It's on the main drag, you can't miss it.

As far as food, there is lots of great seafood something we miss having out here in West Texas. You can opt to eat out at places like Castaways or Moby Dick's or you can do what we did and hit one of the many fresh seafood markets grab a few pounds of shrimp and other goodies and take it back to the condo and prepare it yourself - that' always fun when you have a crowd.

One thing's for sure, there's nothing like a little time off to rejuvenate the soul. And you know what, Gatehouse Media is promoting such a thing right here in Ballinger.

If you head over to First National Bank of Ballinger or Parsons Heating Air Conditioning and Appliance Service, you can enter to win one of the two vacation giveaways being offered right here in

All you have to do, is stop in to one or both locations and fill out your entry to win a 3-day, 2-night stay for two at a Wyndham Hotels and Resorts, Hilton, Hyatt or Marriott property located in 48 states. There are over 400 properties to choose from. Sound like fun? You bet, the deadline to enter is Oct. 6. A drawing will be held after the deadline and the winner will be announced. And, there will be two winners in Ballinger!

So be sure and get over to FNB or Parsons and get your entry in - it's all about a vacation, right?

As always, if you've got a story to tell, a question or a story idea, come visit me at our office at 709 Hutchings Ave. because for most I'm just around Elizabeth (Hoelscher) and family to what is now Olfen. In 1901 Matthiesen and Willy Glass wrote to Bishop John Anthony Forest in San Antonio and obtained permission to build a school, to be used also as a church. Father Frank Maas was the first pastor. The community was first called Fussy Creek, then Maas, and finally Olfen, after Olfen in Westphalia. The first mass in the churchschool was the wedding mass of Bernard Niehues and Amalia Matthiesen.

As more settlers arrived, a larger church was erected in 1910 under the pastorate of Rev. Frank Garmann. In January 1922 after Sunday afternoon services the church burned to the ground. All that was left was the large bell from the bell tower which now sits in front of the present day church. By November of the same year, a larger brick church was built and was dedicated by Bishop Arthur Drossaerts, Bishop of San Antonio.

The Olfen public school sits adjacent to the church and enrolls children through the 8th grade. School class pictures dating many, many years back line the hallways of the school.

In the first festivals which started back in the 1920's, the construction of the new St. Boniface Church was under way and the festival was thought to be held to raise funds for the completion of the church. Since there was no cafeteria hall for the meals, the Olfen school building was used. Next to the school building a large tent was erected and tables and chairs were set up for the noon meal. Cotton bales were auctioned off the back of a pick-up truck.

On Oct. 9, visitors can enjoy a traditional lunch meal of homemade German sausage, turkey and dressing which will be served from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Dine-in, take-out and drive through plates-to-go will be available. Adult plates and all platesto-go are $10 and children under 10 years are $5.

Each year, the men of the parish make thousands of pounds of raw sausage which is for sale for $5 per pound, Pre-orders for raw sausage are recommended and can be mailed to St. Boniface Sausage Sales at 1829 FM 584, San Angelo, TX 76904.

Other activities for the day include games and concessions starting at 12 noon, a live auction at 1 p.m., candy drop at 3 p.m. homemade food and items for sale at the fancy stand, quilt raffle and sausage sandwiches will be sold in the afternoon. Handicap parking and shuttle bus will be available. Drive through platesto-go will need to enter Olfen from the west off of FM 1678 on to County Road 234 and dinein and walk up plates-to-go can enter Olfen from the north on FM 1874.

Come out to the country and celebrate the wonderful history of this church and school! For more information contact the parish office at 325-442-2893.

"I had some big shoes to fill," Taylor said of her predecessor.

And Taylor has carried on her legacy as well.

"I was honored that she followed in my footsteps in a program that was well established," Hohensee said. "I was totally pleased with the way she worked and strived to put her whole self

Taylor jumped in and has promoted Family Consumer Science programs and beyond for five 4-H clubs in Ballinger, Winters, Miles and Rowena and one for Runnels County.

There are 225 youth in 4-H in Runnels County and the clubs are known for their participation and dedication statewide in all events. Taylor will be going to a program that currently has one club and 60 mem-

"It can only go up from there," Taylor said.

Taylor has had two teams go to national 4-H food contests and three of her students placed in the 4-H Round Up in College Station in 2015. In fact, every year she's been in Runnels County her 4-H members make the top three in the Food Show. She helped develop and grow the Leaders for Life Program, has taught adult cooking classes like "Cooking with Friends" and "Dinner Tonight."

In 2016, Taylor along with Milissa Wright of Concho County was named Outstanding County Extension Agent - Family Consumer Sciences by the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association. The two agents worked together on the Dinner Tonight program.

Before coming to Runnels County, Taylor was an extension agent in New Mexico, working in Grants, Estancia and Bernalillo. She has a Bachelor's and a Master's degree in Family and Consumer Science from New Mexico State University. She's a world traveler and a genuine lover of life. And; she loves what she does and has done, in Runnels County and beyond because she loves every aspect of her profession. For her, it's a team effort, with not only the 4-H members devoting a lot of time, but their parents too. "We have great kids and families," Taylor said. "They don't have to be in it but the ones who want to be, really try hard and that's why they get so much out of it. We work together, that's why

"Sandy has been a big asset to the Runnels County program," Bredemeyer said. "She is a ray of sunshine and her professionalism and enthusiasm is exceptional."

Bredemeyer's son Ethan is one of many students who received a scholarship thanks in part to Taylor's efforts. He was awarded a $24,000 scholarship and is now a sophomore at Texas A & M.

"She holds a high moral value for the kids," Bredemeyer said. "Their gain is our loss. She will be greatly

She has been instrumental in collecting many dollars in scholarships for many students over the years. Over the last 15 years, Runnels County 4-H students have received $1 million in scholarships.

Another one of those students was Paige Zentner, who was in the Rowena 4-H and graduated in 2011. She received a $10,000 scholarship and is set to graduate from Angelo State University in December with a Bachelor's degree in accounting.

"I won third place at state and could not have done that without her," Paige Zentner said. "She went above and beyond to help me find the perfect recipe for Tofu Smoothies.

She still communicates with Taylor and gets advice on job interviews and other issues.

"I'm moving to Midland and she'll be in Big Spring, so we'll not lose touch," Paige Zentner said.

Her mother, who was a club leader, agreed that Taylor has been a huge asset to Runnels County.

"We just loved her," said Paige's mother Pennye Zentner. "She brought a lot of great positive attitude and was really good with the kids. She put a lot of time and effort to help the kids venture out, expand and grow - she put her all in making our program a success.

Norma Multer, former club leader for Rowena 4-H, said helped her son Adam Multer, who graduated in 2016 in the leadership program. Multer, a freshman at Angelo State University, is pursuing an engineering degree thanks to an $18,000 scholarship he received at the Houston Livestock Show. Her daughter Abbey also received an $18,000 scholarship.

"She really kept the kids active," she said.

Taylor said she'll never forget her time in Runnels County, the students, the parents or the events and especially a recent farewell luncheon, with the Ballinger 4-H group.

"They gave me a card that said 'we are thankful that you are our agent," Taylor said. "It was so special."

Her coworkers are also sad to see her go.

"After her 8 years as our County Extension Agent here in Ballinger, we will truly miss Sandy's energy and optimism as she moves on to the Family Consumer Science position in Howard County, " said Nancy Halfmann, office manager at the Runnels County office. "We wish her all the best in her endeavors.

become a pilot as he had hoped, and he eventually served as a radio operator in the Marines.

After his discharge from the service, he enrolled at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene in 1946 through the G. I. Bill. His interest in acting developed, and he appeared in a number of student plays. The next year, he transferred to the University of Texas where he majored in history. He earned a history degree from UT in 1950 and transferred to the University of Southern California in Los Angeles to study theater history. He quickly found work as an actor, albeit a small role. In what became his first film role, he had an uncredited appearance in the classic 1950 comedy Harvey as a limousine driver.

Parker appeared in various student plays at USC while working on his outside acting career. He would ultimately appear in 40 films and television shows. He appeared in several westerns and television shows in the early 1950s. One movie included a role in the sciencefiction film Them! (1954) about a race of mutated, Texas-sized ants.

In 1954, the Walt Disney Company offered him a film contract and signed him to play the legendary Texas hero Davy Crockett in a series of one-hour televised features. He appeared in all seven episodes between 1954 and 1956, forever making Parker and Crockett synonymous with the coonskin cap. Just as television was capturing the imagination of American viewers, Fess Parker became a hero to countless children and families across the nation.

In 1957, he appeared in another Disney classic, Old Yeller, portraying the father of a young boy who found and befriended a yellow dog. Frustrated that the roles that Disney offered were all variations on a theme, Parker left in 1958 to find other roles. He found work in several movies, including westerns such as The Hangman (1959) and war movies such as Hell is for Heroes (1962). In 1962, he also starred in a short-lived series Mr. Smith Goes to Washington, a television version of the classic 1939 film.

Shortly afterward, he won the role of another legendary frontier figure, this time playing famed Kentucky frontiersman Daniel Boone. The show lasted for six years on NBC. After Daniel Boone left the air in 1970, Parker had only two more screen appearances.

In spite of the many fans he had after his iconic roles playing Davy Crockett and Daniel Boone, Parker grew frustrated with the few parts he was otherwise offered. After 1974, he largely retired from acting. He began a successful winery operation in California. His wines are known for having a coonskin cap on the labels, and his family still operates the company today.

Parker died quietly at his home in California in 2010, leaving behind his wife of 50 years, two children, and a generation of fans.

Volunteer Fire Department, which was en route to help.

Upon the crew's arrival, the officer had James escorted away to spare him any unnecessary anguish.

"She stopped me," James said.
"She told all of us who's pickup it was. ... I never saw Scott. They scooted me away and I didn't have much choice in the matter."

In the predawn hours, word spread quickly in a zigzagging barrage of phone calls between friends, teammates, coaches and community members.

By daybreak, the town of Winters was in shock.

"I had turned my phone off that night and the next morning I had about 50 missed calls," Winters football Coach Matt McCarty said. "It was one of those unbelievable things that you don't think is real at the time."

Yet it was.

Scott Lange, a bright and popular local teenager, was gone in an

"That's the loudest silence I've ever heard," senior Winters football player A.J. Smith said. "Everything was silent all day.

"You could just feel what everyone was thinking."

YOUR TYPICAL TEXAS TEEN
In many respects, Scott Lange was the prototypical Texas teen-

He loved football and had worked his way into a starting position as the team's varsity center. He was also an avid outdoorsman, who loved hunting — illustrated by his gravestone, which is adorned with both a football and a deer.

From an early age he dreamed of becoming a fireman. And though he wasn't the most vocal player in the field house, his consistent work ethic had the Winters coaching staff viewing him as a future team captain.

"He was a quiet kid who came out and did his job," McCarty said. "People say that about a lot of kids, but Scott really never would come out and complain.

"He was your typical teenager and that's what made this so much harder for everyone here. He was such a good kid. Nobody had problems with him in the classroom. He always came out and did what he was supposed to do."

Scott had several close friends, many of whom he had known since elementary school and with whom he would have graduated with this spring.

Among them, senior Andrew Sanchez, who is now one of many trying to put the loss into perspective.

"I woke up in the morning to my mom screaming," Sanchez said. "Then she came in and told me what happened and I just started crying. It was very painful.

"I've learned that life is short and you have to keep your friends close because you don't know what can happen at any moment."

THE QUESTION OF WHY?

Why do bad things happen to good people? It is a question the spiritual often wrestle with and one that many others often want answered.

The Langes, while running the full gamut of emotions following the accident, have faced the "why" head-on for the last 10 months.

"The 'why' question is still there — it's not gone," said Scott's mother, Debbie. "But I know we're not supposed to question God, therefore I don't question him.

"But it's always there. Why? Why my child?"

The Langes are gradually finding peace with the answer they've found, but the hurt still lingers.

"We're still learning how to deal with this," James said. "Every day I look around and I might see something of his and the memories come right back up and the tears start flowing. Every day, it goes through your mind — why? Why did it happen to him? How could it happen to him?

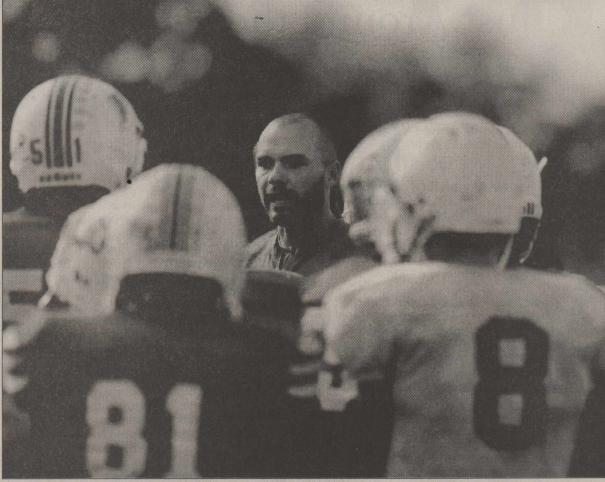

"But my wife and I know in our hearts that God had better plans

STILL A PART OF THE TEAM In the wake of Scott's death, the town of Winters simply hasn't allowed the Langes to feel alone.

The Winters football team has taken a lead role in this, by refusing to allow their fallen team-mate's memory to fade. To this day, Scott's locker remains untouched, with his helmet, towel and personal items in the exact location where he left them last year.

His number (51) is currently on the back of every Winters varsity helmet. And though the number is not officially retired, it is unlikely to see any use by a Winters football player in the foreseeable future.

"Not as long as I'm here, it won't be," McCarty said. "I purchased new jerseys this year and didn't even get a number 51."

Scott's old jersey is now carried by team members on to the field before each game. Its likeness was recently painted by boosters on the 50-yard line — artwork that was unveiled at homecoming two weeks ago.

Scott's parents, who still regularly attend home games, were on hand for the ceremony.

"It was breathtaking," James said. "For the individuals in the booster club to do something like that ... I can't say the right words. It's totally amazing and it almost took my wife and I to our knees.

"It's been unbelievable. Everyone in this community and at the school — the kids, the coaches, everybody — from the day it happened have been giving us support."

FINDING COMFORT IN LOVE Positive from negative. Hope from despair.

While the Winters community comes to grips with the Lange tragedy, its people are taking note of the positives they can find.

A greater sense of togetherness has risen from the anguish. Lessons have been learned and very little is now being taken for granted.

"None of us coaches had ever had to deal with something like that before," McCarty said. "We knew it would be tough on the kids and it has been.

"But Winters is a small Texas town and when something like this happens, you really see how much a town cares for its people."

Perhaps in that sense, it could be argued that Scott Lange made his greatest contribution.

"Words can't (describe) what I feel," Debbie said. "Our son is living on through this community. His legacy is here.

"I feel like God put Scott here and he did what the Good Lord wanted him to do in the 16 years that he lived. It's hard, but I know I'm going to see him again.

"He's going to be my angel to take me home."

Clinton and Trump battle fiercely over taxes, race, terror in first debate

ASSOCIATED PRESS

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. — In a combative opening debate, Hillary Clinton emphatically denounced Donald Trump Monday night for keeping his personal tax returns and business dealings secret from voters and peddling a "racist lie" about President Barack Obama. Businessman Trump repeatedly cast Clinton as a "typical politician" as he sought to capitalize on Americans' frustration with Washington.

Locked in an exceedingly close White House race, the presidential rivals tangled for 90-minutes over their vastly different visions for the nation's future. Clinton called for lowering taxes for the middle class, while Trump focused more on renegotiating trade deals that he said have caused companies to move jobs out of the U.S. The Republican backed the controversial "stop-andfrisk policing" tactic as a way to bring down crime, while the Democrat said the policy was unconstitutional and

The debate was heated from the start, with Trump frequently trying to interrupt Clinton and speaking over her answers. Clinton was more measured and restrained, but also needled the sometimes-thin-skinned Trump over his business record and wealth.

"There's something he's hiding," she declared, scoffing at his repeated contention that he won't release his tax returns because he is being audited.

Trump aggressively tried to turn the transparency questions around on Clinton, who has struggled to overcome voters' concerns about her honestly and trustworthiness. He said he would release his tax information when she produces more than 30,000 emails that were deleted from the personal internet server she used as secretary of state.

Tax experts have said there is no reason the businessman cannot make his records public during an audit. Clinton was contrite in addressing her controversial email use, saying simply that it was a "mistake". She notably did not fall back on many of the excuses she has her four years as secretary of state. "If I had to do it over again, I would obviously do it dif-

often used for failing to use a government email during ferently," she said. The televised face-off was the most anticipated moment in an election campaign that has been both historic and unpredictable. Both sides expected a record-setting audience for the showdown at Hofstra University in suburban New York, reflecting the intense national interest in the race to become America's 45th president.

The candidates sparred over trade, taxes and how to bring good-paying jobs back to the United States. Clinton said her Republican rival was promoting a Trumped-up" version of trickle-down economics — a philosophy focused on tax cuts for the wealthy. She called for increasing the federal minimum wage, spending more on infrastructure projects and guaranteeing equal pay for women.

Trump panned policies that he said have led to American jobs being moved overseas, in part because of international trade agreements that Clinton has supported. He pushed Clinton aggressively on her past support for the Trans-Pacific Partnership trade pact while she was serving in the Obama administration. She's since said she opposes the sweeping deal in its final form.

WINTERS CHEERLEADERS GET THE CROWD GOING AT PEP RALLY

The sacrifices parents make

I had a little time while my wife was shopping so I decided to go to a small airport nearby and look at the small airplanes. I have always enjoyed just looking at or watching them take off and land. I happened to notice a man pushing a small plane out of a hanger and putting a For Sale sign on it. I went over and talked to him. He said he needed to sell it so he could pay his daughter's college tuition. He went on to say that he loved flying very much but he loved his daughter more and her education was very important. No one really knows all the sacrifices parents make for their families. The Bible talks about a sacrifice that was made for us that we will never totally understand. It was when Jesus Christ died on the cross, (Romans 5:6&8). It was by the shedding of His sinless, innocent blood that we have the hope of the forgiveness of our sins. And by His resurrection from the grave we also have the hope of eternal life, (Matthew 25:46, Titus 1:2) that is life forever with Jesus in Heaven, (1 John 5:11&13). There is another promise from God, the rejection of God and His word and not accepting Jesus Christ as Lord leads to eternal separation, hell, from God, (Luke 12, 2 Peter 2:4, John 3:16&17). See you in Church next Sunday.
