Robs Calomel of Nausea and Danger

Medicinal Virtues Retained and Improved—Dangerous and Sickening Qualities Removed. Perfected Tablet Called "Calotabs."

The latest triumph of modern science is a "de-nauseated" calomel tablet known to the drug trade as "Calotabs." Calomel, the most generally useful of all medicines thus enters upon a wider field of popularity,—purified and refined from those objectionable qualities which have heretofore limited its use.

In biliousness, constipation, headache and indigestion, and in a great variety of liver, stomach and kidney troubles calomel was the most successful remedy, but its use was often neglected on account of its sickening qualities. Now it is the easiest and most pleasant of medicines to take. One Calotab at bedtime with a swallow of water,—that's all. No taste, no griping, no nausea, no salts. A good night's sleep and the next morning you are feeling fine, with a clean liver, a purified system and a big appetite. Eat what you please. No danger.

Calotabs are sold only in original, sealed packages, price thirty-five cents for the large, family package; ten cents for the small, trial size. Your druggist is authorized to refund the price as a guarantee that you will be thoroughly delighted with Calotabs.—(Adv.) 28-13c

"Well! Strong!"

Mrs. Anna Clover, of R. F. D. 5, Winfield, Kans., says: "I began to suffer some months ago with womanly troubles, and I was afraid I was going to get up bed. Each month I suffered with my head, back and sides—a weak, aching, nervous feeling. I began to try medicines as I knew I was getting worse. I did not seem to find the right remedy until someone told me of

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

I used two bottles before I could see any great change, but after that it was remarkable how much better I got. I am now well and strong. I can recommend Cardui, for it certainly benefited me.

If you have been experimenting on yourself with all kinds of treatment remedies, better get Cardui, the medicine for women, about which you have always heard, which has helped many thousands of others, and which should help you, too. Ask your neighbor about it; she has probably used it.

OBITUARY

Thornton K. Hamby, an old pioneer and Indian fighter, departed this life August 22, 1923. His remains were laid to rest in the Round Timbers cemetery near his old home.

Perhaps there never was a braver spirit in West Texas than this man. He came to Young County in 1856, when it was indeed a wild domain, and when the Red Man roamed it at will and was master of all he surveyed. He first settled on Elm Creek near the town of Proffit. He was one of my father's nearest neighbors. When the Civil War broke out, he volunteered for service in the Confederacy. He came home on a furlough in October 1864. A few days after his arrival home, he was engaged in one of the hardest Indian fights ever fought in Young County. This fight was on the old George Bragg ranch, about one and one-half miles southwest of the town of Proffit on Elm Creek. He was the last survivor of the battle. Dr. Wilson was killed and George Bragg and Thornton Hamby's father were wounded. Thornton Hamby and his father saw the Indians (one thousand in number) coming; they hid the family in a cave and started out to notify the few settlers, and were overtaken at the above named battle ground. They held the Indians at bay from twelve o'clock noon until sundown that evening, when the Indians retreated, leaving twelve dead and carrying off six prisoners from the neighborhood.

He moved to Baylor County in 1874 and settled near Round Timbers, where he lived the remainder of his life.

There was never a better neighbor or truer friend than this man. A kind and loving father; a true and devoted husband. In the passing of this man, our country has lost a noble and loyal citizen, whose life, eternity alone can measure its fruits.

Rev. J. W. Beville, of the Executive Board meeting last during the Baptist Association, J. W. Beville, of Kosse Texas, was missionary to succeed Rev. I. who is retiring from office.

Brother Alvis has served faithfully and capacity during the past three years and has many friends throughout the association as a result of his personality and labors. The resolution by rising vote passed unanimously commending him for what he has done, praying God's blessing upon him wherever he may be called to serve.

Brother Beville is a man widely known among Baptists having served as representative for William College in Missouri for a number of years and as general evangelist for the association with headquarters at Brown and at Greenville for several years. He has a charming wife and a family who will be good additions to our city. Brother Beville after having lived in this western country could not stay in the lowlands but wanted to come to a higher altitude and better climate. Haskell's wonderful health conditions helped to secure the services of these fine people. They will arrive the later part of the week and begin work at once. Leon M. Gambrell.

Enforcement of this law will be made by the county officers beginning Tuesday, it was stated.—Abilene Reporter.

Value in a Motor Car

Can be easily overlooked by considering the first cost as the main item. When you contemplate buying an automobile consider the dependability, performance, appearance, and upkeep expense before buying. The Studebaker is noted for these and many other worthy features, and in addition has a re-sale value that can not be overlooked. Thus it is a real value among automobiles. PIONEER CITIZEN PASSES AWAY LAST FRIDAY

David Medicus Winn, the subject of this sketch, was born October 28 th, 1857 at Blountsville, Alabama, and died at Haskell Texas, August 31st, 1923, making him 65 years, 10 months and 3 days old. He was the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Winn of Sherman Texas, where he was educated. To his parents were born six sons and two daughters. Of these children three sons are now dead.

D. M. Winn was married February 10, 1880 to Miss Florence Cummins of Belton Texas, and settled in Haskell in July, 1884. Of this union six children were born, five of whom are living. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, five children, three brothers two sisters and a host of friends. The children are: Doda, now Mrs. J. G. Sadler of Henderson, Texas, Julius Winn of Seymour Texas, Julia, now Mrs. H. T. Morgan of Texas City Texas, Felix Winn of Haskell Texas, and Mary, now Mrs. A. G. Rohmeyer of Santa Rosa California. The living brothers are: Frank B. Winn of Haskell Texas, Dr. Foster R. Winn of Alvin Texas, and Allen M. Winn of Minneapolis Minn. The sisters are: Mary, now Mrs. Mary Winn Smoots of Dallas Texas and Nellie, now Mrs. D. G. Stoneham of Stoneham Texas.

D. M. Winn was for 22 years a member, a charter member, of the I. O. O. F. Lodge of Haskell, and was buried with the impressive ceremony of his lodge. His funeral, which was held at the residence by Rev. R. E. Hooker, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock, was attended by all the family, and a host of friends. He was an unassuming man, friendly given to hospitality, peaceable and charitable to his fellowmen. He was one of Haskell County's earliest residents, had always taken the liveliest interest in its welfare, and his death is a distinct loss to the community.

A beautiful floral offering of richest hues and sweetest fragrance was placed upon his bier by many loving hands in remembrance of him.

AN APPRECIATION

Expressed by R. E. Sherrill (At the Funeral)

Friends, some day with each of us the silver cord of life will break, and our bodies like that of our friend and brother here will be waiting to be put to rest by the hands of loving friends. No words can increase his virtues or change his condition; but it is a privilege permitted me to review our friendship and express my appreciation of our departed friend.

Half a century ago, full fifty years ago, when we were boys, we played games and studied together. Our fathers were friends and members of the same church. We attended different schools together and for a time were in college together. My older brother and this my friend often struggled together in school debates, each respecting the other, while we admired them both. His father was a man of fine ability, and all the children were intellectual people with a high sense of honor, not one of them a weakling, each meeting the difficulties of life and grappling with them without fear.

We separated for a few years, each going his own way, mixing with the peoples of our country. We married, moved west and settled down, again finding ourselves in the same little western town. We two alone of all the hundreds of our school mates, found ourselves settled together, he preceding me by 5 or 6 years.

Unfamiliar with the hazards of business in an undeveloped country where the people were all poor and crops uncertain, I soon found myself in need of cooperation and help from some one not only with energy, but nerve, brains, judgement and experience. My friend here filled the place perfectly. Twice, yea—three times and more he counseled and helped me when in need of co-operation.

A bold independent thinker, he read thought and solved the problems of life for himself, in his own way, depending on no one for his conclusions. Always cheerful and hopeful, a charming companion. Though beset with difficulties and surrounded with irritating and provoking conditions he was always self-controlled, a perfect gentleman. I never saw him lose his temper. During fifty years I never heard from him an expression of bitterness. He was preeminently a friend "a friend who helps thee in thy need." Always ready to accommodate; always ready to go out of his way to do a kind act; Not:

"One who serves and seeks for gain And follows but for form, Who peaks when it begins to rain, And leaves thee in the storm," but a "friend who feels a brother's sigh and bears a brother's part." If his kind deeds could be collected the record would make a book, and if the recipients were here today their gratitude would cover his body like a robe and lay it tenderly to rest.

I love to grasp his friendly hand And feel that drawa finger, The kindest touch a human can, And there our love would linger. He was one of Haskell's earliest citizens. Of the men already here when he came there now remain alive, so far as I can learn, only fourteen. Nine of these have moved away, and five still live here.

He was charitable to others; if he had failings, forget them. He had virtues, let us cherish and practise them, imitations example of cheerfulness and continual performance of kindness.

It is indeed a solemn thing for a man to give back his spirit to God who gave it. After that no word of praise can add or detract from his happiness. He will be missed by his many friends; he will be missed by his brothers, sisters, sons, daughters; he will be missed by his wife; one vacant place, no one can fill it.

To the family we extend our sympathy, and trust all will work together for good.

Since his death I have learned that he accepted Christ as his Savior. I thank God for that, and for the hope that friends may meet again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Driskill of Rule were here Friday. Mr. Driskill says crops are good in his section and they have plenty of moisture to mature a good crop of cotton without any more rain.

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value. Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply Iron and Quinine suspended in syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Sunshine Jones formerly of the Midget Cafe returned from Walnut Springs this week where he was employed on a railroad. He says that in some of his travels he has told his friends that he had no home. But now he says emphatically that Haskell is his home and that it will be his home no matter where he goes. He is just as glad to get back to Haskell as a boy is of a new pair of shoes. He is again with the Midget Cafe.
