Team takes second in overall event

By Sgt. Kimberly Nelson
staff writer

Members of the 64th Flying Training Wing received 11 awards and took second place overall at Torchlight 1989, held Oct. 11 through Saturday at Randolph AFB, Texas.

Along with placing second overall, Reese received the following individual and team awards:

The T-37 'A' team of SrA. Roy Paz and SSgt. Brian Williams took second in the T-37 condition and reliability competition with tail number 68-7989. The T-38 'A' and 'B' teams, comprised of SSgt. Angela Schmidt and Sgt. Shane O'Hearn, and A1Cs Todd Korn and Ann Schofield, respectively, tied for first place in the T-38 portion of the competition. "Reese tail numbers 67-4850 and 66-8400 were recognized as the best jets in ATC," said 1st Lt. Chris Cook, maintenance team captain.

SrA. Rick Angell and Sgt. Paul Quintana received second place in the top T-37 maintenance crew competition, while Sergeants Schmidt and O'Hearn placed first in the T-38 maintenance crew competition.

During the "dummy" pre-flight competition, Torchlight officials placed 10 discrepancies on a hangared jet from Randolph. The competing teams, comprised of a crew chief and pilot, were allowed 10 minutes to discover the discrepancies. The greatest number of "placed" discrepancies found by any one team was six, while Airman Angell and 1st Lt. Daniel Goeres discovered a total of 22 placed and unplaced discrepancies, and only had time to inspect one side and the cockpit of the jet.

The T-38 engine change team of Sergeant Schmidt, SSgt. Allen Haynes and Airman Korn placed first in that category, scoring 90 out of 90 points plus 10 additional points for having the fastest time. The team completed with a record-breaking time of 17:19.40, approximately one minute faster than last year's winning time by the 47th FTW out of Laughlin AFB, Texas.

Reese also placed second in the overall wing maintenance competition.

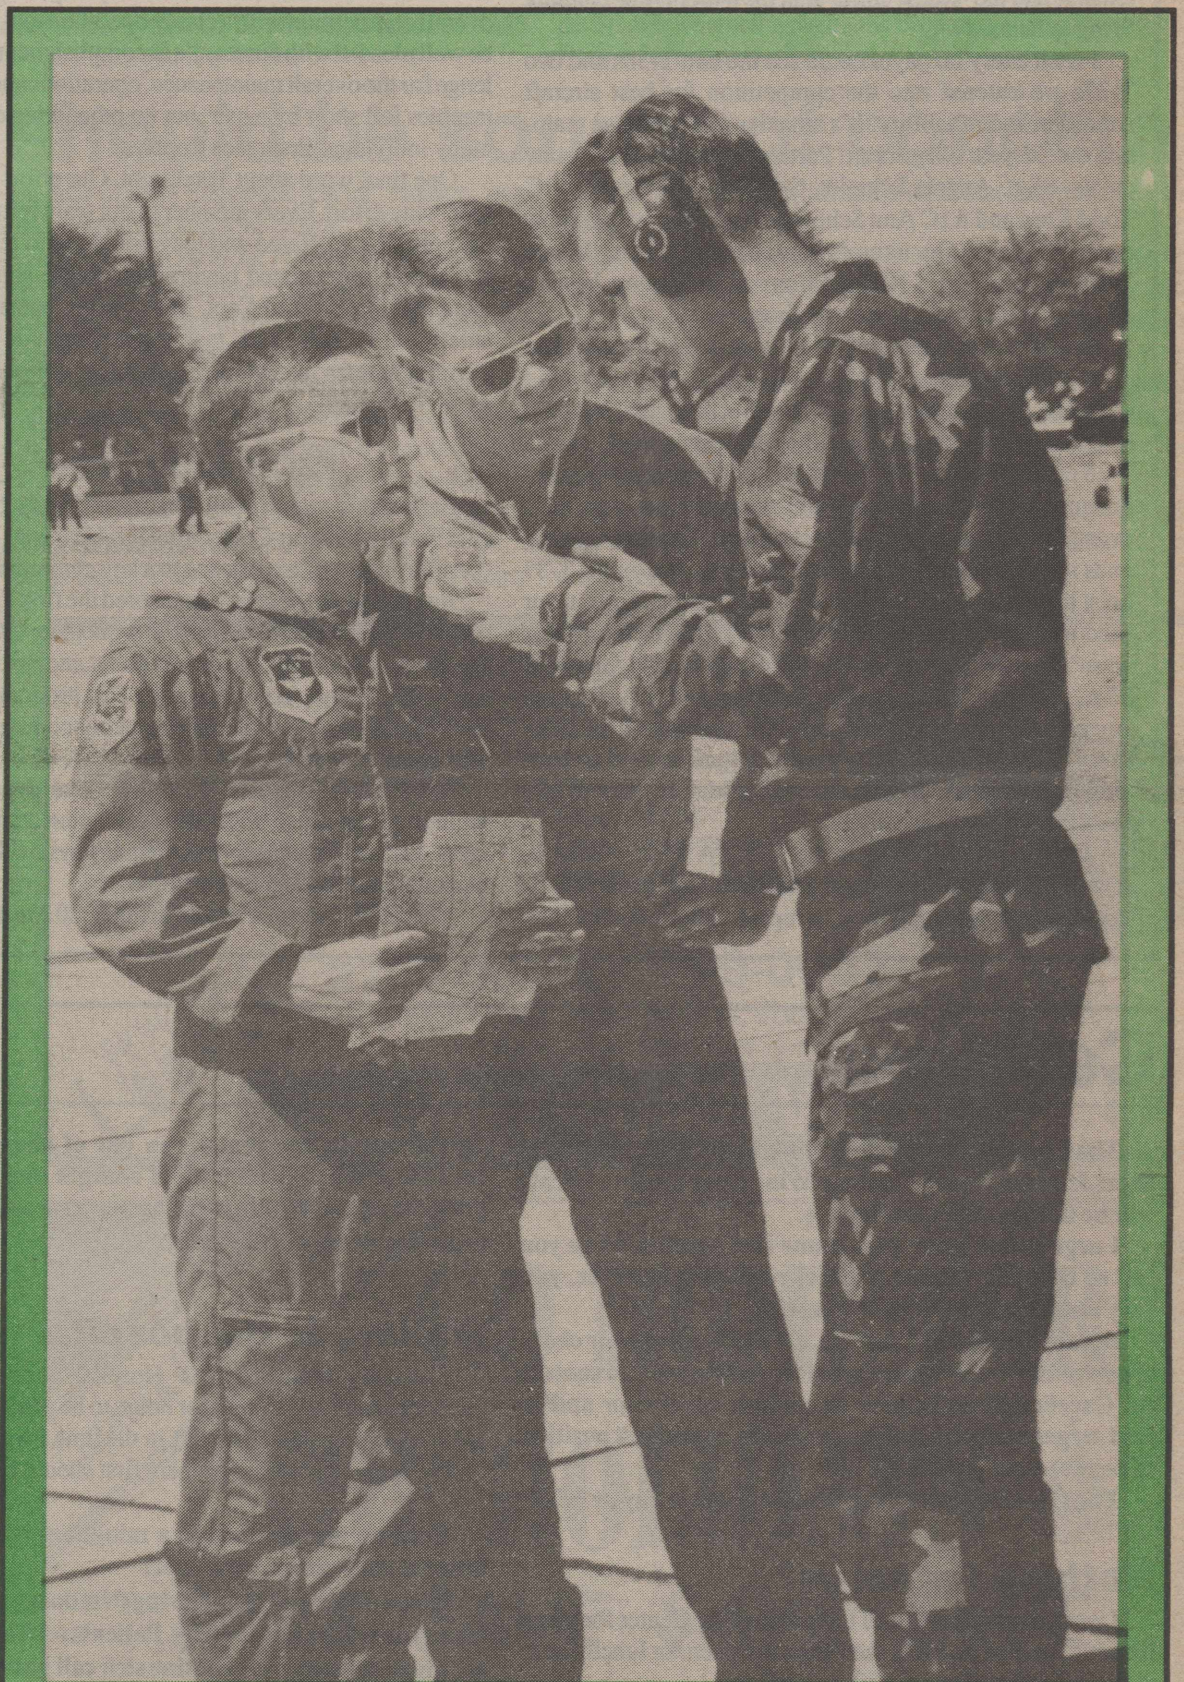

First place in the T-37 aircrew competition went to Reese 'A' team members, 1st Lts. Darin Middleton and Robert Shepherd.

The Reese T-37 teams ranked third in the T-37 operations squadron competition and placed second in the overall operations competition.

The T-37 'A' maintenance and operations teams also received first place in the T-37 combined maintenance operations competition. Award recipients were Lieutenants Middleton and Shepherd, Sergeant Williams and Airman Paz.

Other maintenance team members included: CMSgt. Arthur

Early out program to repeat for fourth year

For the fourth year in a row, enlisted people are being offered an early release from the Air Force. This program applies to people stationed in the continental United States with a date of separation in fiscal year 1990.

"The Air Force uses the early release program to help offset significant dollar shortages in the military personnel appropriations account," said CMSgt. Walt Ritter, chief of the airman separations section at the Air Force Military Personnel Center.

This year's early release program is expected to separate 6,000 airmen. Similar action taken in fiscal 1989 to save personnel dollars resulted in approximately 5,200 airmen separating early.

First- and second-term airmen who are ineligible to re-enlist and have a separation date of February through September 1990 will separate in January, Chief Ritter said. No

Air Force Specialty Code is exempt.

First-term airmen who are eligible to re-enlist may cross-train, according to SSgt. John M. Slusser II of the Reese Separations Office. However, cross-training applications must be turned in by Dec. 10.

First-term airmen in certain eligible AFSCs, with a separation date of February through September 1990 will have to either re-enlist or separate in January, Chief Ritter said. Separations has a complete list of eligible AFSCs.

Unit commanders may request exemptions for people due to mission degradation or for hardship reasons. People exempted will be allowed to re-enlist or separate on their normal separation date.

For more information, contact separations at 3420.

Commander's perspective

By Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr.
64th FTW commander

I couldn't be prouder of the Reese Torchlight Team and the outstanding manner in which they represented the Wing down at Randolph AFB, Texas, last week. It was a class act — one that will be hard to beat next year. Although we didn't bring home the trophy for Best Wing, we sure made a strong bid for it — taking second place overall with five first-place victories and "placing" in six other categories. Most importantly, our torchlighters demonstrated the teamwork between operations and maintenance and the "Reese spirit" that the 64th Flying Training Wing is famous for.

I wish every taxpayer could see the two T-38s and two T-37s we entered into the competition for best aircraft condition and reliability. It's amazing how well we maintain our 30-year old aircraft! Particular praise goes to crew chiefs, SSgt. Angela Schmidt, Sgt. Shane O'Hearn, A1C Todd Korn and A1C Ann Schofield for taking best in show on the T-38 side. Our aircraft were so good, in fact, the two T-38s tied for Best T-38 Condition and Reliability, besting all other competitors to take top honors.

In addition to the best T-38 aircraft, we also took "Top T-38 Maintenance Crew" — Sergeants Schmidt and O'Hearn. Our maintainers were leading the overall maintenance competition right up to the final event, the T-37 and T-38 engine change. The T-38 crew, consisting of Sergeant Schmidt, Sgt. Allen Haynes and Airman Korn won their event, setting a new Torchlight record of 17 minutes, 19 seconds in the process; but a broken pump handle on the T-37 hoist in the middle of the head-to-head competition put our folks in a hole from which they couldn't recover. It certainly wasn't from lack of effort. The T-37 engine change crew of SSgt. Anthony Hardrick, SrA. Roy Paz and SrA. Richard Angell performed magnificently. Unfortunately, the folks from Vance AFB, Okla., were able to pull second on both engine changes to capture the overall Maintenance trophy by the narrowest of margins.

On the operations side, the T-37 "A Team," 1st Lts. Darin Middleton and Robert Shepherd, was the best T-37 aircrew in the competition, a repeat victory for the 35th Flying Training Squadron from last year. Even better, those same two pilots teamed up with SSgt. Brian Williams and Airman Paz to win the Best Joint Operations/Maintenance T-37 Team, a showing that exemplifies the teamwork that made this team so special. Our T-38 operators were right in the thick of it, too. Our second place team finish was built on solid performances by all team members, reflecting the excellent depth and balance of this year's Torchlight team.

To give you an idea of the excellence of the competition, both of our formations (T-37 and T-38) passed the tower at Randolph within a second of their scheduled arrival time — a remarkable feat. However, the arrival competition was won by Laughlin AFB, Texas, only 19/100th of a second off their assigned time. All the competitions were equally close. It is heartening to see the superb overall level of performance by all the six pilot training wings in Air Training Command.

We have to hand it to Vance; they edged us out in the overall competition with a classy operation too. But we can be well pleased with our team's accomplishments. Our challenge for the overall maintenance, operations and best wing trophies fell short by a hair, but no other wing captured as many individual first place trophies.

One final word about Torchlight. Our effort was truly a total wing effort. Every member of our team felt the support the entire base offered and they asked me to tell you how much they appreciated having the "Reese spirit" behind them. My hat's off to Capt. Matt Youter, operations team chief; 1st Lt. Chris Cook, maintenance captain; their entire Torchlight team; and all of you at Reese who supported us so well. Thanks!

FSC Support Center

Earlier this month, Phil Thierry officially became the new Family Support Center director. He brings a wealth of "people program" experience to a key community activity.

Just last week the center sponsored the first Teen Forum, which included a personal growth workshop. On page 10 of this week's Roundup, are details about another FSC initiative — the Home Alone Program. This program addresses one of the most important aspects of our community — the well being of our children.

The Family Support Center offers a variety of services including assistance with: childcare, education, employment, financial management, mental/physical health care, personal security and much more.

The center is open weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Moving?

New office requires call to 1958th CS

By SSgt. Vincent Johnson
1958th CS

With all of the relocations taking place on base, the 1958th Communications Squadron has been kept quite busy trying to keep everybody talking. One of the biggest problems, however, is that no one has been talking to the 1958th Communications Squadron.

The commercial communications section of the 1958th CS is responsible for managing all telephone assets and requirements for the base. This means that if you need a telephone moved or a feature added, these are the people you need to talk to.

Lately, though, people have been moving their offices and functions before contacting commercial communications about having their telephones moved. This has caused some very serious problems and is fast becoming a management nightmare.

On the average, it takes about four weeks from the time a request for telephone service is received by the commercial communications manager until the work is accomplished by the base telephone contractor. This takes into account processing time by both organizations and the ever-changing priorities and mission requirements of the base.

Many delays are created for all concerned when someone moves an office and then thinks about having their telephone moved. The key to solving this problem is planning.

If your organization or section is planning to do some relocating, even if you're only switching people and desks around, and you are going to need your telephones changed, remember it takes about four weeks to get this kind of work done. This must be taken into consideration when planning any kind of action that involves your telephone service. The sooner you let the telephone people know about your requirement, the sooner they can begin to work it for you.

Be realistic in the service dates you request. It takes time for all the telephone work orders on base to be worked. You wouldn't move into an office without electricity; don't try to move into one without telephones, either.

If you have any questions about how to submit a request for service, whether it be for new service or for changes, contact me at 3597.

Proper storage can prevent bike thefts

With the warm weather approaching an end, many people will be putting away their bicycles until spring. How you store your bicycle may determine whether you have it next year or not.

More than 500,000 bikes were stolen in America this year. At Reese, four bicycles were stolen last quarter. The majority of these thefts involved insecure bikes without proper locks. The average loss to each owner was $140.

To steal a bicycle, the thief requires the ability, desire and opportunity. Owners cannot control the ability or desire of the thief; however, they can control the opportunity by securing the property.

Each owner must be aware of the chance of theft and take measures to stop it. Secure pilferable items with chains. When you chain your bicycle, chain it to an immovable object such as a bike rack or other structure. Bicycles hanging in carpools and dormitory breezeways are not secure unless they are chained.

If you do not wish to use a chain, several other kinds of locking devices are on the market. If you have a storage shed or space available, use it. The old adage "out of sight, out of mind" applies in this case. Bicycle locks are available at the Reese Shoppette.

Remember, October is Crime Prevention Month. Help the 64th Security Police Squadron prevent a crime by making bike theft less attractive to the criminal community. (Courtesy of the 64th SPS)

Careline

The Careline is your direct link to me, Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr., 64th Flying Training Wing commander. All calls will be held in strict confidence.

I urge you to leave your name and number when you call so that you can get a direct response; however, you may remain anonymous if you wish.

Before calling the Careline, consider using your chain of command to solve your problem. While you can contact the Careline directly, your immediate supervisor and/or first sergeant/commander are usually in the best position to resolve your problem.

The Careline can be reached 24 hours a day at 3273.

Nothing for lunch?

I went into the Windmill Lane Bowling Center for lunch recently, only to find that they were not open for lunch due to cleaning (the grills were being cleaned).

Since the grill wasn't working, I decided to get chips and a drink; however, when I went to charge it on my club card, I was told they were all out of charge slips.

Why can't the cleaning be done at some other time of day?

I regret your inconvenience. On the day you're referring to, the contractor who cleans the grills took longer than usual to finish the job. The vents are usually cleaned before the snack bar is open.

The reason the center ran out of charge slips was because of the high number of charges they had the two preceding days. We are working new procedures to ensure these problems will not recur.

Waiting in the hospital

I recently went to USAF Hospital Reese with an ear infection, and I had to wait for hours to be seen. Many people came in, were treated, and left in the time I waited.

I feel that people that get here first should be treated first.

Keeping waiting time to a minimum is a goal of the hospital staff. So why the wait?

In non-emergencies, arriving first does not necessarily mean you will be treated first. Patients with appointments are given priority over routine sick call patients, who are seen in the order of arrival.

On the day you visited the hospital, the ear, nose and throat specialist was booked with patients and did his best to work you in. Although the wait may have seemed long, the hospital was following the established priorities.

If ever anyone has to wait more than 10 minutes past a scheduled appointment time, they should notify a nurse or technician who will try to find the problem or at least give you a reasonable explanation for the delay.

Esteem

Self-image dependent upon good attitude

By Capt. Steve Barrett
clinical social worker
Williams AFB, Ariz.

What is self-esteem? We all have it, some more than others. I hear a lot of people talk about their lack of self-esteem. Let's take a look at this thing called self-esteem and see how we can nurture a positive self-image.

Self-esteem is our self-image, or how we feel about ourselves. Our self-esteem is usually described in terms of worth or worthlessness in our successes or failures.

If we have high self-esteem, we see ourselves in a positive and realistic light. We are flexible, able to accept life's difficulties, place them into proper perspective and continue on with life.

On the other hand, if we view ourselves in a negative and unrealistic light, then we have low self-esteem. This means we feel ineffective, worthless, incompetent and unloved. In other words, we don't like ourselves.

This can turn into a vicious cycle. We have a distorted view of ourselves and others, which makes us unhappy. This develops into a lack of self-confidence and we become poor performers. This confirms our negative and distorted view of ourselves.

Fortunately, this cycle can be broken. It requires basic motivation and a desire to feel better.

How do they do that? There is something we all have, regardless if we have a positive or negative view of ourselves. It is called our inner voice, thoughts or self-talk. It is that "little person" inside us who is always talking to us, usually in sentence form. If we can make some of those sentences positive, we will begin to feel better about ourselves.

Start by listing six of the qualities you like about yourself. If you can't think of any, ask a trusted friend why they like you. That should help get you started. Be objective. Your "like list" about yourself may initially be why others like you, but soon you may start to believe it yourself.

A key element is to be realistic. Don't sell yourself short. On the other hand, don't give yourself abilities you realistically don't have.

Once you have your list, keep reading it to yourself out loud. We cannot think something positive and negative at the same time. By reading the positive, we are not focusing on the negative. If we do this continually, we will start to change our self-concept. Remember, it takes motivation to change our self-esteem. It takes motivation to do this on a regular basis.

An important thing to remember is to give ourselves credit when we accomplish something positive, regardless how big or small.

Reward yourself. We can't always expect others to reward us. So give yourself a pat on the back and smile. (American Forces Information Service)

Cholesterol levels should be source of concern

By SSgt. Terry L. Engelkamp
USAF Hospital Reese

Most of us are concerned with our cholesterol levels lately, but how many of us even know what cholesterol is, or for that matter, what is a triglyceride or "HDL" and "LDL?"

Cholesterol is a waxy, fatty material manufactured by the body and found in all animal and human tissues. Cholesterol builds up in the arteries and may cause atherosclerosis or hardening of the arteries, which can lead to heart attack or stroke.

The main sources of cholesterol are saturated fats, which are most commonly found in whole milk, the marbling and fat in steak, cheddar cheese, chocolate, bacon, sausage, egg yolk, non-dairy creamers and sour cream.

A triglyceride is what most fat is made up of and is the major component of fatty tissues. Triglycerides are derived primarily from fats consumed in food or it can be made in the body from sugar, fat or alcohol.

Therefore, high triglycerides can affect cholesterol, even though it can be attributed to a high consumption of sweets or alcohol. It is vital to remember that even if a product says "no cholesterol," especially cooking oils and margarines, it's mainly a fat item and therefore will ultimately affect triglycerides and your cholesterol level.

HDL stands for high density lipoproteins. Lipoproteins are complexes of lipid (fat) and protein that transport all fat in the blood plasma.

HDL particles transport cholesterol away from cells or tissues to the liver for excretion. Consequently, HDLs are lipoproteins that contain a small amount of cholesterol and a large amount of protein.

An LDL is just the opposite. There are your low density lipoproteins that carry the largest amount of cholesterol in the blood. LDLs are thought to be responsible for depositing cholesterol in the artery walls.

The key thing to remember with the lipoproteins is that you're doing well when the HDLs are higher and the LDLs are lower.

Phase two of housing renovation set

A contractor has been selected to renovate 188 family housing units and funds have already been released, Reese housing officials have announced.

It is expected that the first units will be completed by early 1990 and those occupants residing in "Phase II" units, but not affected by the maintenance conversion, can begin moving into what will essentially be a brand new home. As the units are completed, residents will be notified and invited to the Reese

Housing Office to review the floor plans. The following units are included in phase two:

Andrews: 102, 103, 104, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 115.

McGuire: 101, 103, 105, 107, 203, 205, 207, 209, 211, 213, 215, 217, 219, 221, 223, 225, 227.

Yount: 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110.

Housing officials estimate that approximately 65 families will be required to move; all of them will be moved into renovated units as they are completed.

The government will cover the cost of moving household goods and telephone/cable transfer (if applicable). Also, Housing does not expect to move any unwilling maintenance families prior to their departure from Reese.

Housing officials said assistance is needed from each housing occupant to ensure the renovation works smoothly. A survey sheet was mailed in July to each family affected by the renovation to determine which occupants expected to depart station. However, only 90 of the 188 forms mailed were returned to the housing office.

People who did not return the survey or whose family information has changed since the survey was done, may get a unit to occupy which is not suitable for their rank and family size.

Appreciation days honor area retirees

In an effort to acknowledge the contributions that military retirees have made and continue to make to both the military and civilian communities, Retiree Appreciation Days were held Oct. 13 and Saturday on Reese.

The observance was in conjunction with the proclamation of Retiree Appreciation Days in Lubbock by Mayor B. C. "Peck" McMinn.

Several events were held on base during the two-day observance. They included:

□ A golf tournament for retirees as well as other wing members was held Oct. 13 on the High Plains Golf Course. About 54 people competed in the 18-hole event, which was won by the team of Gene Seward, Al Chock, Jo Terry and Ron Nusz. Prizes were given to all competitors.

□ Tours were set up for interested retirees to the Llano Estacado and Pheasant Ridge wineries.

□ The Mathis Recreation Center was the site of several retirement-related briefings Saturday morning. Speakers came from agencies such as the Noncommissioned Officers Association, the Reese Exchange and Commissary, and the Scheduled Airline Ticket Office to talk to retirees. Information was also available on social security and CHAMPUS, the Civilian Health and Medical Plan of the Uniformed Services.

□ More than 130 retirees received physical examinations Saturday as USAF Hospital Reese provided special weekend service to members of the Reese retiree community.

□ A banquet was held Friday evening in the Reese Officers' Open Mess. The guest speaker was Army Col. Jerry Laws, 75th Field Artillery Brigade commander, Fort Sill, Okla.

"The appreciation days were an excellent opportunity for the base to show the regard it has for our retirees," said Col. Monroe S. Sams Jr., 64th Flying Training Wing commander. "The contributions these people have made to the service is invaluable, and events like this give us all a chance to show our gratitude."

Zoe Kennemore gets her blood pressure checked Saturday by Lt. Suzanne Trapani at USAF Hospital Reese. Physical exams were part of Retiree Appreciation Days.

Reese started out the competition in first place Oct. 11, holding a one-point lead over Laughlin, last year's champs.

When the scores were posted Oct. 12, Reese assumed a 13.1 point lead over the 71st FTW out of Vance AFB, Okla., who had moved into second place.

Following the Oct. 13 posting, Vance had climbed into first with a 46 point lead over Reese, who had fallen to second. When the competition ended Saturday, Vance had taken the Torchlight '89 title by 54.9 points over second-place Reese.

Torchlight was sponsored by Air Training Command and hosted by the 12th Flying Training Wing at Randolph. The competition is intended to test various phases of instructor pilot proficiency and maintenance capability, enhance esprit de corps, increase training efficiency based on competition experience, and recognize the best aircrews and maintenance teams within the command.

Ninety-nine aircrew members, 102 maintenance people and 41 aircraft participated this year. Other participants include members from the 14th FTW, Columbus AFB, Miss.; 80th FTW, Sheppard AFB, Texas; 82nd FTW, Williams AFB, Ariz.; 323rd FTW, Mather AFB, Calif.; and the Officer Training School, Lackland AFB, Texas. Aircraft included T-37 Tweets, T-38 Talons, one T-41 Mescalero and one T-43 Navigator.

Aircrews were judged on personal appearance, formation, contact and instrument flying skills and low level navigation. The maintenance crews were also judge on personal appearance, along with launch and recovery tasks and tire and engine changes.

Awards were presented during a ceremony Saturday by Lt. Gen. Robert C. Oaks, ATC commander; Maj. Gen. Sam W. Westbrook III, ATC deputy commander for operations; Brig. Gen. W. John Soper, ATC deputy chief of staff for logistics; and Col. Ronnie K. Morrow, 12th FTW commander.

NCOLS graduates Thursday

Reese Noncommissioned Officers Leadership School Class 90-A will graduate in ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Enlisted Open Mess.

People interested in attending should call SSgt. Clinton Friday, Reese Professional Military Education Center, at 3147 by Tuesday.

COMM gets national award

The 1958th Communications Squadron was recently awarded the President's Award Letter from the National Safety Council for achievement in ground safety for 1988.

This marks the third consecutive year the unit has compiled a perfect safety record to take the award.

Hospital lab gets accreditation

The laboratory at USAF Hospital Reese has been awarded a two-year accreditation by the Commission on Laboratory Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists.

The accreditation is the result of a recent inspection. Laboratories cited by the commission are recognized as having exceeded standards even more stringent than those set forth by the government.

Flu shots going on

Flu immunizations for this year began Monday, and officials in USAF Hospital Reese are reminding wing members to bring their shot records with them to their appointments. Orderly rooms will notify their people of appointment times.

Also, people who have waivers for the influenza injection must bring the waiver to the immunization clinic or they will be listed as a no-show.

Retirees and dependents who want flu shots can get them beginning Nov. 17 for as long as supplies last. For details, call SSgt. Ernesto Maligaya at 3846.

Claim with the government?

Wing members who plan to file claims with the government for acts of vandalism on privately owned vehicles may have to recover their loss from other sources, according to the Reese Legal Office.

Payment of such claims is not allowed if the loss can be recovered through other means, such as insurance or from the vandal (Texas law holds parents responsible for acts of vandalism committed by minor dependents).

People filing claims must provide a copy of the auto insurance and documentation on the damage and expected repair cost. For details, call the legal office at 3505.

POW/MIA vigil on tap

A prisoner of war/missing in action vigil will be held Nov. 11-12 by the Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps at Texas Tech University.

Following the vigil, a ceremony will be held at noon Nov. 12. Wing members are welcomed to attend.

WIC moves to Bldg. 75

The Woman, Infant and Child Program has moved to Bldg. 75, next to the Reese Photo Lab.

All WIC recipients on base who have been getting WIC cards at USAF Hospital Reese can now get them at Bldg. 75.

AU briefing team visits area

The Air University National Security Briefing Team will be in the Reese area Nov. 15-17 to give unclassified briefings to interested organizations.

The briefings will deal in part with events in the news and what role they play in national security concerns. To schedule a briefing for your organization, call Capt. David H. Emery, Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps, at 742-2143.

BASH program set to begin

The 64th Civil Engineering Squadron kicked off their Bird Air Strike Hazard Prevention Program recently, which involves shooting off "scare-away" cannons to scare away the migratory birds in the Reese area.

This is done to protect pilots and aircraft from injury and damage. The cannons are harmless to people or wildlife.

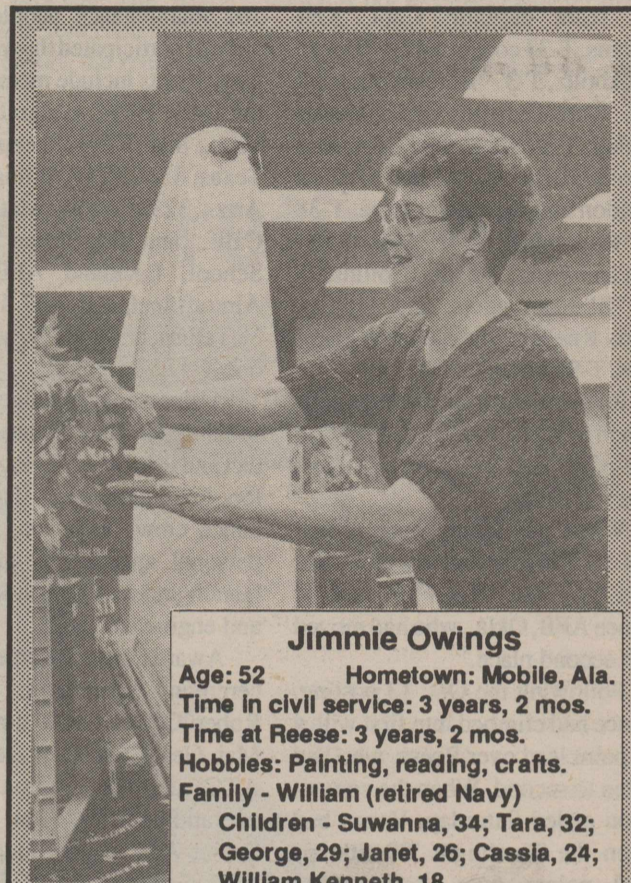

The cannons will be fired from 5 - 7 a.m. Monday through Friday until Nov. 13, when they will be fired from 5 - 7 a.m. Monday through Friday every other week until May.

For more information, call 3663.

Correction

In the Oct. 13 issue of the Roundup, Joseph Burnett and Felix Zuniga of the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron were incorrectly identified as members of the 64th Supply and Field Maintenance Squadrons, respectively (pages six and seven).

Also, the Torchlight article on page one said the Reese T-37 arrival time was 11:45 and 87 seconds; in actuality, the time was 11:45:00.87.

Reese man aids quake relief effort

Bill Orr, Reese Readiness Division, has been using his ham radio to assist in the California quake relief effort.

A member of the Reese Readiness Division is part of a nationwide network of ham radio operators providing critical communications to the earthquake-torn San Francisco area.

Bill Orr, a ham radio operator who serves as wing plans officer and deputy chief of the readiness division, has worked several hundred radio transmissions since the quake struck northern California Tuesday evening.

The earthquake, the strongest in California since the "Great One" in 1906, left much of the area without normal communication.

"I worked about 200 pieces of traffic Tuesday night," said Mr. Orr. "A lot of traffic was people trying to get information on relatives. What we ham operators try to do is concentrate on critical communications."

Mr. Orr defined critical communications as information vital to relief efforts. For example, ham operators might be asked to relay data from the disaster area to relief agencies.

"Before aid can be sent, relief agencies must assess what help is needed," said Orr. "We provide a mode of communications for these agencies."

Mr. Orr said he is one of several local ham radio operators assisting in relief efforts.

The Reese civil servant is part of a Texas Department of Safety emergency network and operates the Lubbock County Liaison Station.

California officials have estimated damage from the quake in the billions of dollars. The death toll was estimated at 270 people at press time.

Hail and farewell

Air University commander dies at 53

Lt. Gen. Ralph E. Havens, commander of Air University at Maxwell AFB, Ala., died suddenly Oct. 6 in Clemson, S.C. He was 53.

General Havens spoke to Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps detachment at Clemson University earlier in the day and was attending a cadet dining-in when he collapsed about 11 p.m.

Attempts to revive the general were unsuccessful and he was pronounced dead 20 minutes later at Oconee Memorial Hospital in Seneca, S.C.

A command pilot with more than 3,000 flying hours, General Havens flew more than 200 combat missions during the Vietnam War.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Virginia Atkins of Washington, D.C.; a son, Richie; two daughters, Mary Victoria and Kimberly Lynn; and his parents. (Air Force News Service)

Reese displays finest jets during Torchlight '89 on the runway at Randolph AFB, Texas.

A1C Ann Schofield selects tools needed for the T-38 tire change.

Torchlight

By Sgt. Kimberly Nelson
staff writer

All was quiet at Torchlight '89 until the Reese T-37 'A' team began the tire change competition. To the astonishment of most of the competitors, judges and onlookers accustomed to working and watching in silence, the Reese team did its work to the accompaniment of a great roar of cheers...cheers that came from not only the Torchlight members awaiting their next turn, but also from the Reese Torchlight Support Team.

Reese was the only base at Torchlight to provide its own cheering section — which doubled as support for the competing Reese members. A major on the Vance AFB, Okla., team was heard saying, "I'm really impressed with the fact that Reese brought its own pep squad. I wish we'd thought of that." Similar comments were heard coming from the other bases throughout the four days of competition.

The Torchlight support team, led by 1st Lt. Ron Smith, consisted of various people whose jobs in one way or another helped to support those preparing for Torchlight. Members included: MSgt. Pat Krepps (first sergeant), SSgt. Sam Hook, Sgt. Tim Hadsell, SrA. Ken Reed, A1C Mark Williams, Bobby Chapman and Tony Gallagher from the 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron; SSgts. Mike Neff and Gary Fleenor and Sgts. William Selby and Ron Peck from the 64th Field Maintenance Squadron; TSgt. Glenn Cruz, from the Reese Professional Military Education Center; and SSgt. O.J.

William ce Squadron; TSgt. Glenn ion Center; and SSgt. O.J.

Williams, Sgt. Joe Durst and AICs Gary Dancy and Paul Tumicki from areas within the 64th Supply Squadron.

During the competition, whenever Reese was on line, the sidelines were manned by familiar faces, shouting encouragement with such phrases as:

"Come on, Ann, you can do it."

"Go, Shane."

"Get it on there, Brian."

"Let's go, Buck."

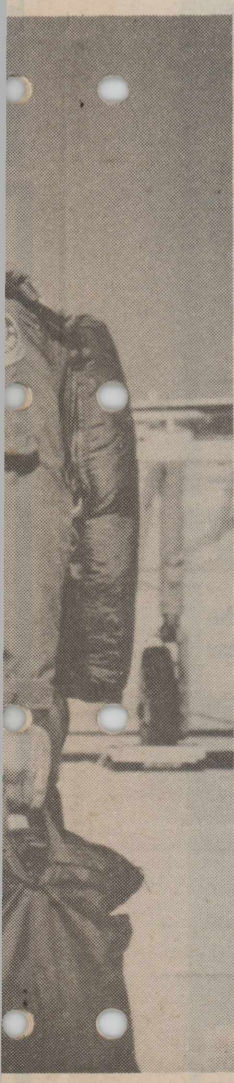

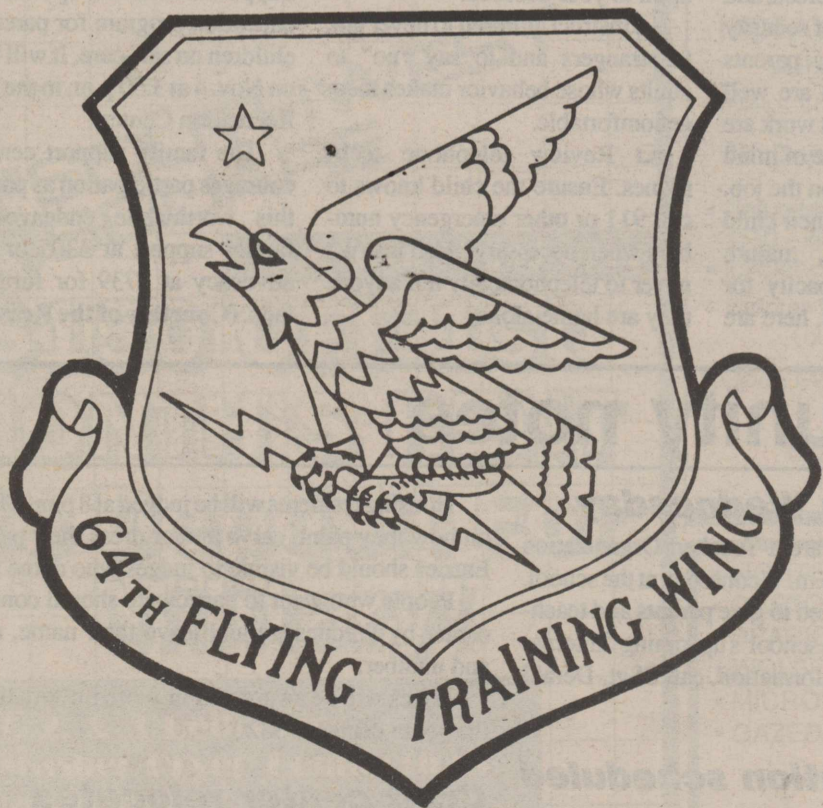

"Show 'em what Reese is made of!"

Of course, cheering wasn't the only support these team members were responsible for. The support team was on hand from the beginning of each day's competition until that day's end. Whenever the Torchlight team needed something, whether it was something to drink or eat, equipment from the storage trailer or just an ego boost, the support team was there to provide it. And when special circumstances arose, such as an unexpected emergency leave and the need to return to the base early, the support team was there to help make the necessary arrangements.

At the end of the competition, when Reese received notification that they had placed second overall, support still continued, with one goal in mind—to show the Reese team that no matter what the judges say, Reese is still the best.

FSC sponsors coloring contest

The Reese Family Support Center is sponsoring a coloring contest in conjunction with their "Home Alone" Program. Children should color in the safety cartoon above and send it to the center (Bldg. 310 or "64th MSS/MSF/60") by Nov. 2. The contest will have categories for 5-7 year olds and 8-10 year olds. Winners will receive a $15 certificate redeemable at the Reese Federal Credit Union.

Center aims to help kids

Children left on their own several hours a day after school because parents are at work is a major concern to officials at Reese. While concerns revolve around the safety of our children, there are also some additional issues.

Children should have the opportunity to develop their interests and talents and have a sense of security while young. Additionally, parents who know their children are well cared for while they are at work are more likely to have peace of mind and be more productive on the job.

For parents who feel their child is old enough legally, mature enough and has the capacity for short periods of self-care, here are some tips to consider.

- Make rules and ensure they are clear. If the child is old enough, a written agreement can be signed and posted on the refrigerator.
- Designate a neighbor as a point of contact. There should always be someone the child can rely upon in your absence.
- Instruct children to never talk to strangers and to say "no" to adults whose behavior makes them uncomfortable.
- Review telephone techniques. Ensure the child knows to call 911 or other emergency numbers when necessary. Also instruct never to telephonically tell anyone they are home alone.

□ Encourage children to talk to you about problems they are experiencing in self-care. Perhaps it's boredom or fears or loneliness. Perhaps planning fun activities as well as chores would be helpful.

The Red Cross, family advocacy officer, and Reese Family Support Center are sponsoring an education program for parents and children on self-care. It will be held on Nov. 4 at 3:30 p.m. in the Mathis Recreation Center.

The family support center encourages participation as parents in this worthwhile endeavor. Call family support at 3305 or family advocacy at 3739 for further details. (Courtesy of the Reese FSC)

Community notes

PTO meeting Wednesday

A Reese Elementary Parent-Teachers Organization meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the school. The meeting is designed to give parents and teachers a chance to discuss the school's upcoming "International Day." For more information, call SSgt. Derald Jones at 6399.

CCAF graduation scheduled

Sixteen wing members will graduate from the Community College of the Air Force in ceremonies at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Enlisted Open Mess. For details, call the Reese Education Center at 3469/6391.

Center sponsors contest

The Reese Youth Center will sponsor a pumpkin-decorating contest in Reese Village.

COMM holds edge in IM play

By Sgt. Greg Spraggins
staff writer

Almost six weeks into the intramural football season, the 1958th Communications Squadron's 5-0 record is the best in the league as of Oct. 12.

COMM, the 1987-88 and 1988-89 champions, are setting their sights on another title.

Following closely on their heels, also in the National League, is the 54th Flying Training Squadron, currently 4-0. The 54th FTS was runner-up in the 1988-89 season.

Andre Harley, quarterback for COMM, said the other teams in the league are very strong and have put up a good fight. "We hope to play as well through the remainder of the season," he said.

The 64th Field Maintenance Squadron, leaders in the American League with a 4-2 record, are being followed closely by 64th Flying Training Wing Resource Management with a 4-3 record.

The intramural season is scheduled to end Nov. 2, with playoffs beginning Nov. 7.

According to SrA. Joel Salonga, varsity sports director, the top three teams in each league will advance to the playoffs. Also, two teams with the next best records will advance.

For more information on intramural football, call A1C Robert Killen, fitness center, 3783.

Golf playoffs continue

As of Wednesday, four teams were still in the hunt for the intramural golf title.

Organizational Maintenance Squadron, a playoff winner last week over the Security Police, has qualified for the finals of the single-elimination, select-ball, match-play tournament.

The Security Police had the top record during regular season play.

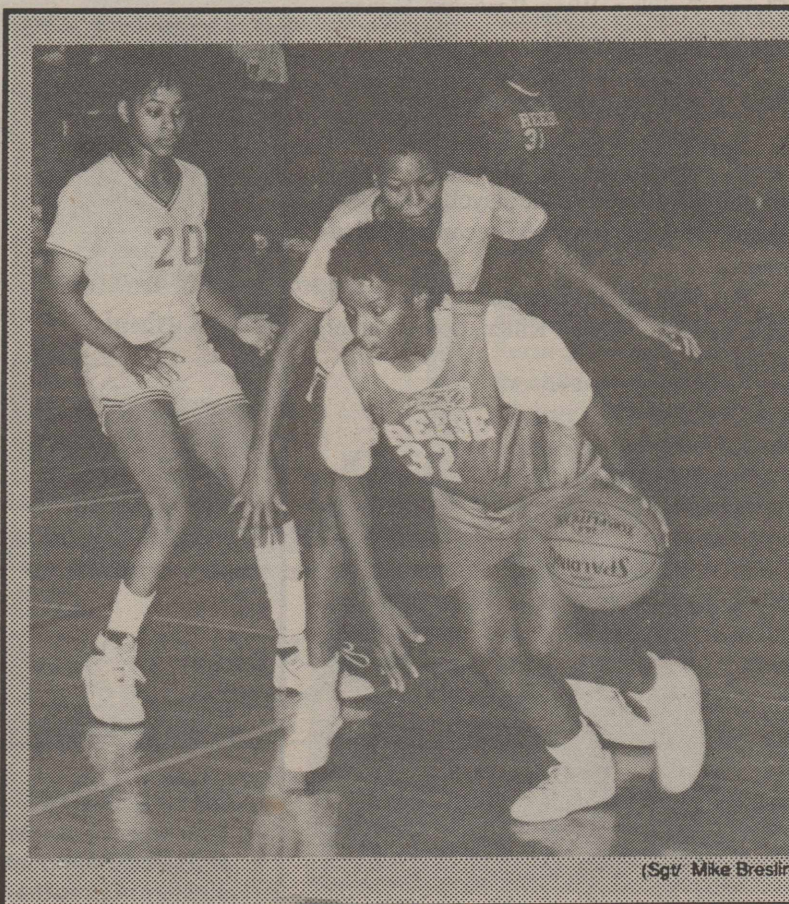

Thursday, the Hospital was to have faced the 54th Flying Training Squadron. The winner of that match is slated to go against the 35th FTS in the semifinals. That victor will face OMS for the title.

Frenship homecoming on tap

The Frenship Tiger football team tries to get back on track tonight in a homecoming matchup with Division 1-4A foe Dumas.

Tonight's game kicks off at 7:30 at the Frenship High School football field.

The Tigers are coming off a heartbreaking 26-23 loss at Borger last week. Dumas lost by seven to division darkhorse Randall.

Teamwork:

"No where in medicine does a doctor and nurse work so closely together as in an emergency situation. Side by side, hour after hour..."
Fred Hagedorn, MD, medical director of Lubbock General Hospital's Emergency Center, first came here because of the university hospital setting. Now Dr. Hagedorn's here because of the people and the challenge.
"Our Emergency Center has the resources of virtually every medical specialty via the many different physicians here on-staff twenty-four hours a day. And our nurses are excellent. They're critical to our team of emergency specialists."
