Caprock captures ATC Hennessy

by Sgt. Kimberly Nelson
assistant editor

More than 108,000 meals.
Over $800,000 of food.

That's what is served at the Caprock Cafe annually. It's because of the "top-notch" way all of these meals are prepared and served that the cafe was recently selected to represent Air Training Command for the Air Force Hennessy Food Service Award.

This award acknowledges food service excellence. Award selection is based on findings gathered during a three-day inspection, during which the ATC Hennessy Team rated everything involved in food service operations, from monetary gains/losses to personnel and food preparation.

"It was a very extensive inspection they performed," said Capt. Steve Governale, 64th Services Squadron commander. "There were 12 major areas, each with subcategories, in which each base is inspected."

Some of the areas inspected were food preparation (menus, recipes and actual preparation); facility appearance and maintenance; equipment condition; sanitation, energy conservation programs and support; and management, to include commanders', first sergeants' and superintendents' interest in the food service program.

Reese also received points based upon customer comments, "from whom much of our winning success came. Everyone the team talked to had nothing but good things to say about the cafe, its staff and services overall," said Captain Governale. "Thanks to all of you!"

made an initial review of all bases in the command and then determined which bases were in the running for the award. Reese then received notification of the team's arrival and began fine tuning the cafe's operation.

"We had to find every discrepancy we possibly could — from the obvious to those not so obvious, such as a loose screw in a lighting plate. If we didn't find it, the team's fine-toothed comb may have," added the captain, who was commander of the services squadron at Keflavik AB, Iceland when that unit won the award.

"By receiving an award as distinguished as this, workers are more apt to feel good about their job and to take extra strides to excel. At the same time, patrons tend to frequent establishments recognized for quality," he added. "We will need this extra support over the next few months as Reese prepares for the Air Force Hennessy team, expected to arrive sometime in February.

Even though the cafe was ready for the ATC team, its staff cannot be over confident for the next visiting team, which will consist of food service experts from major food chains as well as the military. "Those members will have no mercy while they judge," concluded Captain Governale.

From my perspective

by Col. Bill Henny
64th FTW commander

On Veterans Day this Sunday, we might observe a parade, listen to speeches or go to special services honoring U.S. military veterans who died in battle. But Veterans Day is also set aside to recall the reasons why so many individuals have risked or given their lives in defense of this nation.

Veterans have fought for many rights that we now often take for granted. The right to vote, freedom to live the lifestyle we wish, freedom of speech and the right to express our faith in any religion.

Belief in democracy

In battle or in peace, American veterans have protected our rights because they believed in their country. They believed in this democratic nation where the majority rules and Americans strive toward equality of opportunity.

For these reasons, many combat veterans are still on active duty, ready to defend their nation. Veterans from our earliest history to the present have been ready and willing to protect American ideals even at the expense of their own lives.

Enjoy your weekend and the holiday, but take a moment to remember those who served with honor, distinction and pride.

Welcome to Reese!

On behalf of the entire wing, I'd like to extend greetings to SMSgt. Carl Simmons, and his wife, Sheron.

Sergeant Simmons, the new electrical superintendent in the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, comes to Reese from Andersen AFB, Guam. Welcome to the wing team!

Smokeout

Annual observance set for Thursday

Various Reese agencies are joining forces with the American Cancer Society in support of the 1990 Great American Smokeout Thursday.

The smokeout, held each year on the third Thursday of November, was designed to encourage smokers to take a day off from smoking just to prove to themselves they can. At Reese, there are about 1,800 members assigned — 302 of which are smokers, according to Maj. Rodney Hemmitt, smokeout project officer. "To break it down even more, 146 of these smokers are under the age of 32," he added.

In support of this day, the following activities have been planned:

- A table with information packets and "adopt a smoker" sign-up sheets will be set up in the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital lobby. Members can also obtain information on the free smoking cessation classes offered during and after duty hours by the Reese Mental Health Clinic, or information can be obtained by calling 3739.

- Information packets will also be available in the entrance of the Commissary.

- A "Run Your Butts Off" fun run will begin at 12:15 a.m. at the Reese Picnic Grounds.

- The Adopt a Smoker Program will also be supported across the base.

Last year's smokeout proved victorious for 5.2 million people (or 10 percent of America's smokers) who gave up

Want to quit?

For wing smokers interested in breaking the habit, daily "stay quit" tips have been provided by the American Cancer Society to assist members reach their goal over a 31-day period. These tips will be broken into groups and run weekly in the Roundup, the first being:

□ Thursday, day one — The Great American Smokeout: People wanting to quit smoking should discard all cigarettes first by breaking them in half, then by wetting them down. Next, they should clean out all ashtrays in their home, car and office and put them away. Matches should be discarded and lighters should be hidden.

Day two through eight will appear in the Nov. 16 Roundup.

cigarettes for the entire day. One to three days later, 3.9 million of those people were still not smoking.

Although the number of smokers in the military has declined significantly in recent years, the rates are still unacceptable. Therefore, Air Training Command has set a goal this year to reduce the total number of smokers by at least 10 percent. "If, through various planned activities and support from everyone on base we can help 30 members break the habit, not only have we reached the command goal, but we may even have helped prevent 30 less cases of lung cancer this year," said Major Hemmitt.

Many people believe that smokeless tobacco is a safe alternative to cigarettes and cigars. According to American Cancer Society officials, a past report by the Advisory Committee to the Surgeon General concludes that there is strong scientific evidence that snuff use causes cancer in humans. Oral cancer occurs several times more frequently among snuff dippers compared to non-tobacco users, and the risk of cheek and gum cancer increases 50-percent for long-term dippers. Therefore, smokeless tobacco product users are also included in the smokeout and are encouraged to give up dipping or chewing for at least 24 consecutive hours.

"With everyone's help, we can make this year's campaign a winner," said Major Hemmitt.

For more information about smoking and its effects, stop by one of the booths or call the Reese Health Promotions Office at 3554.

CHAMPUS offers tips for first-timers

Desert Shield deployments of stateside military medical staffs may mean some families will turn to CHAMPUS for the first time.

The Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services shares the cost of covered health care received from civilian sources by eligible families.

Before seeking health care under CHAMPUS, first-time users here should contact Carolyn Johnson, the health benefits advisor, at 3581. She will verify the user's eligibility for CHAMPUS care by checking the Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System. The advisor also can answer questions about health benefits in general and help patients decide how to get the best care at the least cost.

Active-duty and retired military sponsors normally enter their family members into the reporting system through their military personnel office. Sponsors should report errors or changes through the Reese Consolidated Base Personnel Office in Bldg. 920.

Families of mobilized reservists may also be eligible for CHAMPUS benefits if the reservist has orders to serve on active duty more than 30 consecutive days. Eligibility begins on the first day of the active duty period covered by the orders. Reservists provide information on their dependents to their local Reserve centers and Reserve units. Dependents who need them will be issued military identification cards with CHAMPUS eligibility indicated on the back.

The health benefits adviser generally can issue non-availability statements; CHAMPUS users who live within 40 miles of a military hospital must get one before seeking non-emergency inpatient care from a civilian source.

Users submit their statement and claim to the contract claims processor. Non-emergency inpatient care claims will be rejected if the patient did not get a non-availability statement. For example, birth of a full-term, healthy baby is not considered an emergency.

Contract claims processors can also provide CHAMPUS information. The toll-free phone number for the regional CHAMPUS claims processor is: 1-800-236-6000. (Adapted from American Forces Information Service)

AF leaders send Veterans Day message

by Donald Rice
Secretary of the Air Force

and Gen. Merrill McPeak
Air Force chief of staff

Air Force people have long been a mainstay in our nation's defense. On this Veterans Day, we have a powerful, effective and ready Air Force, built on the service of past Air Force leaders and airmen.

Veterans Day acknowledges the contributions men and women in uniform make at home and abroad. This year, the performance of our people serving on Desert Shield is especially noteworthy. All who believe in liberty know how important our job is. We salute each of you and thank you for your service.

Reese surpasses CFC goal

Over the top!
That's how this year's Combined Federal Campaign at Reese can be described, having exceeded its goal of $100,000.

"People on base contributed $103,726 during CFC," said Lt. Col. Joseph Buchwald, Reese CFC project officer, on the last day of the drive Nov. 2. "There was some uncertainty about the campaign at first, what with this being the first CFC here without the military maintainers, but the wing really came through."

Colonel Buchwald credited the efforts of campaign keyworkers with the success.

He added that several organizations on base had gone well above their goals. At the deputate level, Logistics and Resource Management (131 percent), the 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital (125 percent) and the 64th Air Base Group (100 percent) all surpassed their goals.

Overachievers at the squadron/section level included the Maintenance Quality Assurance Section (272 percent), Contracting Division (215 percent), 41st Flying Training Squadron (186 percent) and the Logistics Plans Section (177 percent).

In addition to the funds generated by direct contact from keyworkers, money was also raised during the annual "Jail Your Boss" Day. That event raised $300 for CFC.

"Our performance in this year's campaign is indicative of the type of people we have here," said Col. Bill Henny, 64th FTW commander. "Reese people are always quick to extend a helping hand, and this year's CFC is further proof of that.

"Those who helped can be extremely proud of their efforts," Colonel Henny said.

81 wing members earn second bar

Eighty-one of Reese's first lieutenants were selected for promotion to captain. The announcement was made Thursday. The selectees are:

- 64th Flying Training Wing — Susan Teague.
- 33rd Flying Training Squadron — David Busenitz, Walter Diener, Rhea Dobson, Perry Elvin, Bernard Giegler, Paul Gloyd, Richard Harper, Christopher Long, Robert McCartney, David Rogelstad, Robert Shepherd, Paul Silvestri, Gary Smith and Robert Wetzel.

Enlisted banquet one week away

The 1990 Reese Enlisted Awards Banquet is Nov. 17 at the Officers' Open Mess. Guest speaker for the event will be retired CMSAF Paul W. Airey.

Tickets for the evening event can be purchased from unit first sergeants. They cost $12 each, but the Air Force Sergeants Association and Noncommissioned Officer Academy Graduates Association are subsidizing costs for staff sergeants and below. For that group, tickets are $3 per person and $5 per couple; however, tickets are $6 per couple if both people are military.

Also, banquet officials said that the Reese Child Development Center will be open that evening from 6 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. that evening, offering a rate of $1 per hour per child. Parents should call the center by Nov. 16 to make a reservation so that an adequate number of caregivers are on hand.

This year's banquet theme is "Don't forget where you came from," and reflects the feelings of the banquet's sponsors — the AFSA, NCOAGA and the Reese First Sergeants Council — and Chief Airey.

Scully, Michael Stewart, Robert Vaughn, Clifton Wade and John Whitney.

□ 54th FTS — Steven Adkins, Joseph Arcate, Scott Baker, Richard Denton, Bryan Fulton, Andrew Gogan, Ian Haliscak, Christopher Kauffman, Kelly Latimer, Jeffrey Poland, Michael Psaromatis, Robert Rowe, Michael Russel, Raymond Salsky, Andrew Smith, Todd White, Kirk Willburger and Robert Young.

□ 64th Supply Squadron — Kerri Bedesem and James Nelson.

□ 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital — Michael Birgenheir, Karen Fischer, Pearl Lowe and Delia Santiago.

□ 64th Mission Support Squadron — Mitchell Sibley-Jett.

□ 64th Civil Engineering Squadron — Phillip Moessner and Ronald Smith.

□ 64th Services Squadron — William McNeill.

Reese Elementary earns state honors

Reese Elementary School recently earned an Exemplary Performance Award from the Texas Governor's Educational Excellence Committee.

The award recognizes outstanding public schools for exceptional gains and achievement in student performance on the Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills, or "TEAMS," Test.

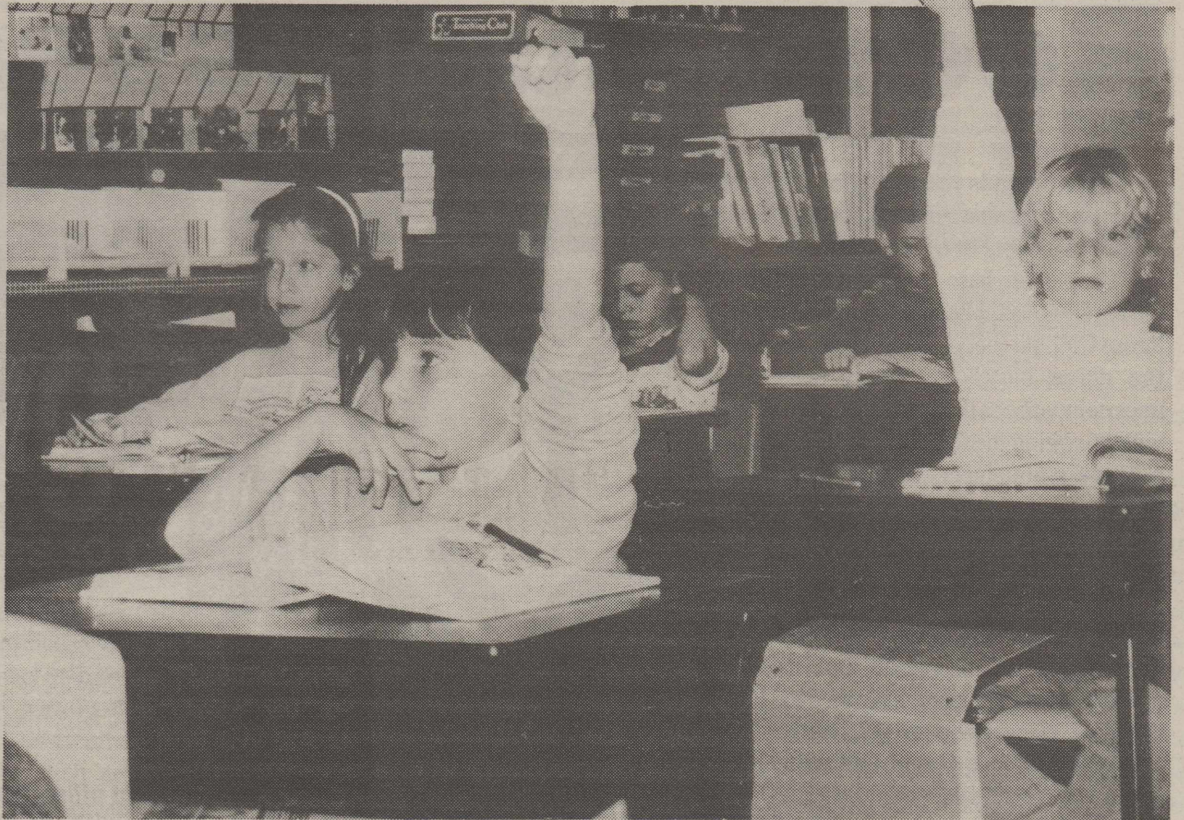

Schools recognized had a minimum achievement level 10 percent above the Texas TEAMS score average during the last three years.

"Our success is a result of hard work from a dedicated instructional staff and a success-oriented student body, as well as tremendous support from parents," said Principal Dan Newberry of Reese Elementary.

In addition, Reese Elementary has also been presented certificates of achievement from the Texas Education Agency State Board of Education for exceptional achievement the past five years.

The award places Reese Elementary in the top 5 percent of about 6,392 Texas schools, based on academic performance indicators.

Third-graders at Reese Elementary School go through a reading exercise Monday.

Parents should be on guard against drug danger

Young children could become the victims of a drug distribution scheme that may lure unsuspecting children with drug-laced tattoos, stamps and stickers sporting popular cartoon characters and designs.

According to SSgt. Rudy Hernandez, noncommissioned officer in charge of the 64th Security Police Squadron Resource Protection and Crime Prevention Branch, parents should make sure that children of all ages are warned about the danger of accepting any form of tattoo, stamp or sticker from anyone other than a parent or teacher.

"This is one of those times when parents need to sit down and have an in-depth talk with their kids," said Sergeant Hernandez.

While Lubbock law enforcement agencies have received no reports of these drugs being distributed to local children, there is confirmed adult use of these drugs in the area.

One of the most dangerous drugs circulating in the area is a wet-and-rub-on tattoo that may be called the "Blue Star."

The tattoo is sold on a sheet of paper containing several blue stars, each about the size of a pencil eraser head. Each star is saturated with LSD. Just handling the paper can allow the drug to be absorbed through the skin.

Other drug-carrying items reported in the area are brightly colored pieces of paper resembling postage stamps.

These "stamps" may carry photos of butterflies, clowns, Mickey Mouse and other Disney characters.

Other stamps feature designs such as red or blue pyramids and grids that can be cut out. All are laced with drugs.

"Naturally, these stamps are very appealing to young children," said Sergeant Hernandez.

"One way to help identify the stamps is that they are normally sold in boxes wrapped in aluminum foil."

The sergeant also said that some symptoms associated with exposure to LSD include; hallucinations, severe vomiting, uncontrolled laughter, mood changes and changes in body temperature.

Sergeant Hernandez recommends that parents counsel children to simply "say no" to anyone offering to give or sell them tattoos or stamps.

He also said children should be instructed to report any such offers to their teachers or parents.

Wing names quarter's best

A1C Lawrence Garcia
...Airman of the Quarter

Unit: 64th Civil Engineering Squadron

Duty Title: Exterior power line specialist.

Time in Service: Two years

Time at Reese: 18 months

Hometown: El Paso, Texas

Achievements during the quarter: "He is a real self-starter," said Maj. Per Korslund, CES commander. "Airman Garcia is the type of person who does his job to the utmost without asking 'why it has to be done' but instead 'when'."

Airman Garcia is a significant member of the Prime BEEF training area renovation team, added the major. He assisted other team members with renovation of the training site to make it more efficient for training mobility personnel. The project cost in excess of $10,000.

The airman's assistance in replacement of the 48 high-intensity security lights in the airfield ramp towers resulted in a highly reliable system requiring less maintenance and upkeep, according to Major Korslund.

SSgt. Mark Payne
...NCO of the Quarter

Unit: 41st Flying Training Squadron
Duty title: Noncommissioned officer in charge of the 54th FTS Life Support Section.

Time in Service: Eight years

Time at Reese: Five years

Hometown: Lexington, N.C.

Achievements during the quarter: "Sergeant Payne provides quality life sustaining equipment to more than 300 aircrew members," said Lt. Col. John DiPiero.

Sergeant Payne's knowledge of life support equipment enabled him to identify and correct many deficiencies while reorganizing the 35th FTS Aircrew Life Support Shop. As an overall result of this, productivity increased as did members' morale.

Sergeant Payne's efforts as the life support trainer for newly assigned T-37 NCOs were reflected in improvements in equipment inspection scheduling, equipment certification and the students' initial briefing. In recognition of this, he was later appointed as training manager for the 64th Flying Training Wing Life Support Branch.

More than 600 Air Force Academy cadets visit Reese each year and are sized and fitted for flight equipment necessary for incentive flights, pointed out Colonel DiPiero. "Thanks to Sergeant Payne's organization of the ROTC Orientation Flight Program, this can be accomplished without a flaw." His program organization also ensures the wing is able to provide cadets, Reese students and instructors with top-quality equipment.

Past awards: Wing support technician of the year, squadron NCO of the year and quarter.

Education: He is working toward an associates degree in search and rescue through the Community College of the Air Force.

Goals: To finish his degree and make technical sergeant the next time he tests.

Hobbies: Fishing, camping and helping with the local boy scout troop.

MSgt. Roy Napper
...Senior NCO of the Quarter

Unit: 64th Civil Engineering Squadron

Duty Title: Assistant chief for technical services at the Reese Fire Department.

Time in Service: 16 years

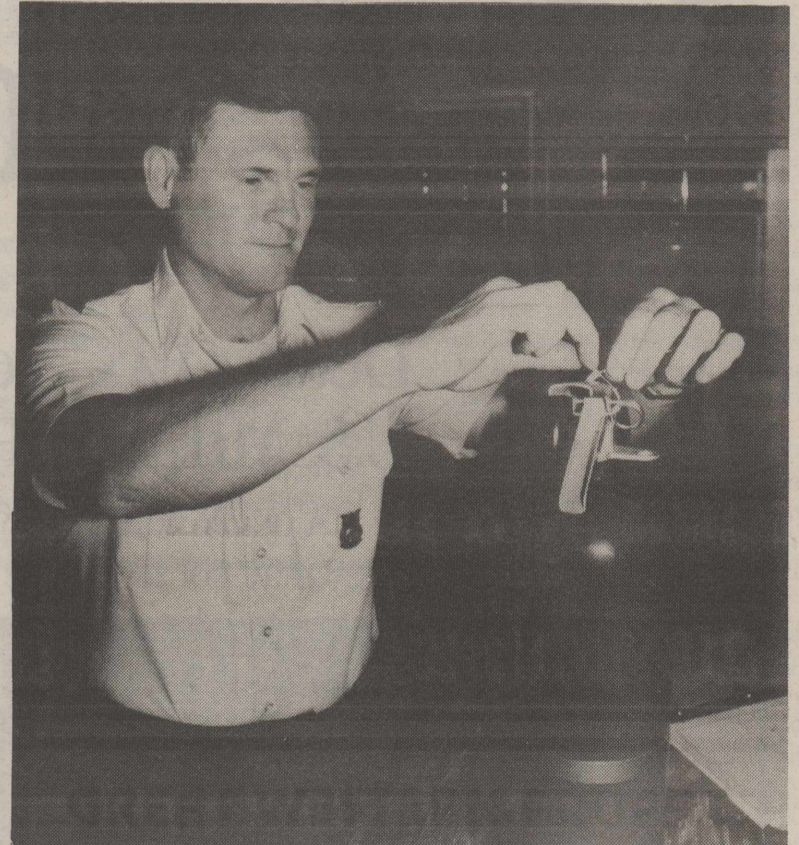

Time at Reese: 18 months

Hometown: Memphis, Tenn.

Achievements during the quarter: Sergeant Napper's enthusiasm for fire prevention and safety enabled the wing to maintain the second lowest fire-loss statistics in Air Training Command last fiscal year, said Maj. Per Korslund, CES commander. His development, implementation and management of a new fire prevention program also prevented the wing from any financial losses due to fire damage during the last quarter.

"Sergeant Napper was instrumental in providing wing members with the "fire-safe" awareness they've grown accustomed to," said Major Korslund. In support of this, Sergeant Napper can be credited with the establishment of a smoke detector awareness campaign directed toward Reese Village occupants. The on-going campaign provides residents with information concerning the maintenance and testing of smoke detectors to ensure their reliability.

The sergeant's interest in fire prevention/safety is not only limited to the base and village, it also extends to the local community, as he is a member of the Lubbock Fire Safety House Steering Committee. Sergeant Napper has assisted the committee with a multi-thousand dollar fund raising project needed to build the mobile fire house. This house will be used by Reese and Lubbock fire fighters to demonstrate to elementary school children the "safe" way to exit a burning or smoke-filled building.

Past awards: 1990 Government Employees Insurance Company Fire Safety Award and squadron senior NCO of the quarter.

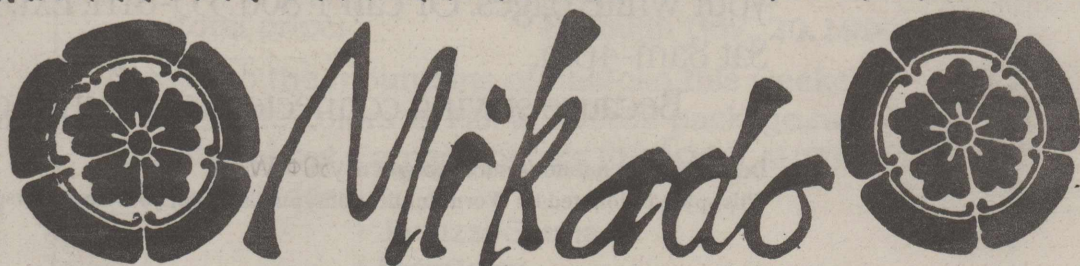

Education: Received an associate degree in automotive technology from the Pima Community College in Tucson, Ariz., and is currently working on a degree in fire science.

Goals: Make chief master sergeant by his 20-year service mark.

Hobbies: Running, weightlifting, carpentry and vehicle repair.

Reese achievers

(Editor's note: Notices in "Reese achievers" are based solely on inputs to the Roundup staff. People or units with items for the column should contact the Roundup staff at 3236 or stop by the newspaper office in Bldg. 800)

Roundup snares ATC awards

The Reese Roundup staff snared four awards during the 1990 Air Training Command newspaper contest.

□ Sgt. Kimberly Nelson took first place in the sports category and came in second in the photos in support of a story category.

□ MSgt. Ralph Monson received top honors in the feature story category.

□ SSgt. Mike Breslin took second place in the print journalist of the year category.

First-place winning entries will go on to compete in the upcoming 1990 Air Force Newspaper Competition.

COMM member earns award

Sgt. Rita Samartino, 1958th Communication Squadron, was recently named the Air Training Communications Division Public Affairs Representative of the Year.

Sergeant Samartino provided the Air Force Communication Command Intercom newspaper and the Roundup with individual and unit accomplishments over the year. She also coordinated squadron tours for more than 750 people, managed the squadron's Family Correspondence Program and was responsible for more than 50 personal letters informing families of their service member's accomplishments.

In addition to her own award, Sergeant Samartino also assisted the squadron in obtaining the ATCD "Write Stuff" Award for three consecutive quarters, and the 1990 Golden Quill Award for the squadron's public affairs program.

HOSP names top members

The following 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital members were recently selected as squadron award winners:

□ MSgt. Peter Davenport, HOSP services superintendent, was selected as the senior noncommissioned officer of the quarter.

□ Sgt. Todd Caro, NCO in charge of dental health, was selected as the NCO of the quarter.

□ Amn. Cassie McCord, dental specialist, was named airman of the quarter.

MSS names civilian of quarter

Mary Mayekawa, education guidance counselor, was recently selected as the 64th Mission Support Squadron civilian of the quarter. Ms. Mayekawa's professional conduct, self development and superb job performance place her at the top of a list of outstanding nominations from the unit, according to MSS officials.

One of the extensions in the Reese Public Affairs Division - 3410 - is not working. If you can't get through, please dial 3236.

Dunking booth planned

A dunking booth will be set up from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday on the Reese Exchange Gazebo. SMSgt. J.T. Washington, commandant of the Reese Professional Military Education Center, will be in the booth.

It will cost $1 a throw to try and dunk Sergeant Washington. In addition, burritos will be on sale for $1.50. Proceeds will benefit the 64th Mission Support Squadron intrasquadron sweetheart competition and the Reese Enlisted Wives' Club Scholarship Fund.

Fashion show planned

People who would like to see SMSgt. J.T. Washington, commandant of the Reese Professional Military Education Center, in women's clothing will have a chance at the Reese Thrift Shop's fashion show Nov. 16.

The show will start at 5 p.m. in the Enlisted Open Mess; admission is $2 and will benefit the 64th Mission Support Squadron intrasquadron sweetheart competition and the Reese Enlisted Wives' Club Scholarship Fund. For tickets, call Margaret Ramey at 6494.

Child CPR class set

A class on infant and child cardiopulmonary resuscitation, or CPR, will be offered Nov. 20 on base. For details and to sign up, call Pat Linan at 3297.

OWC plans function

The Reese Officers' Wives Club will be getting ready for the holiday season with a craft fair/bazaar Thursday. Holiday decorating ideas will be demonstrated by Percilla Sims.

The event begins with a social at 6:30 p.m., and is followed by dinner at 7 p.m. Cost is $4.85 for OWC members and their guests.

OWC officials are encouraging people to come out and pick up recipes and craft ideas for Christmas gifts. R.S.V.P. is due Monday; the November issue of the OWC "Breeze" has more information.

HOSP automates patient appointment system

The 64th Flying Training Wing Hospital will implement an automated computer appointment Nov. 26.

HOSP officials said people will experience a slight delay getting through to a clerk when making their first appointment under the new system, since people will have to be registered under the new system. Registration will take about five minutes for each family.

HOSP members plan to get some information from other computer tapes to ease the delays.

The information needed for registration will include the name, rank, sponsor's social security number, service, address and phone number.

Once registration is complete, getting appointments should take less time, according to HOSP officials. They added that the system will allow them to monitor the availability of appointments more effectively.

Anyone who has a problem should contact Capt. Robin Lake at 6487.

SPS recovers items

The 64th Security Police Squadron has recovered two bicycles. Anyone who thinks one or both may belong to them should call the SPS Investigations Section at 3999.

Shield update

Special leave accrual okayed

The secretary of defense has approved a special leave accrual policy for people supporting Operation Desert Shield.

The policy allows special leave accrual for deployed people as well as for those not deployed, but who could not take leave because of duties in support of the operation. Only those days of leave a person could possibly have taken can be submitted for special leave accrual. People who have leave restored have until Sept. 30, 1993, to use or lose the excess leave.

Unit commanders may request special leave accrual for people with more than 60 days of leave after the end of the fiscal year. The September 1990 end-of-month leave and earnings statement will be used to determine if a person is eligible to apply and has more than 60 days of leave.

Special leave accrual authority has been delegated to the major command, separate operating agency and direct reporting unit levels. For details, call the Reese Personal Affairs Office at 3402. (Air Force News Service)

Reservists needed

The Air Force Reserve is conducting a nationwide search for Reserve volunteers in medical career fields to back-fill positions left vacant by medical personnel deployed in support of Operation Desert Shield.

At one point, more than 2,000 reservists volunteered to fill these vacancies. However, the need for volunteers is ongoing, because many reservists cannot leave their civilian jobs for an extended period of time, AFRES officials said.

"Headquarters AFRES and Air Reserve Personnel Center were asked to recruit Reserve volunteers to support urgent medical manning assistance," said Col. (Dr.) F.D. Giles, deputy chief of staff for health services at Headquarters AFRES. "These volunteers are in addition to the ones who volunteered for and are in the Middle East in support of Operation Desert Shield."

Some of the positions to be filled are family physicians, orthopedic surgeons, general surgeons, environmental health officers, bioenvironmental engineers, dental officers, obstetrical-gynecological physicians, operating room nurses, nurse anesthetists, clinical nurses and surgery technicians.

"Our medical personnel are well trained," said Colonel Giles. Most of them practice their medical skills in their civilian occupation. They provide the Air Force with an excellent source of medical care."

Unit-assigned reservists can volunteer through their unit, and individual mobilization augmentees can apply through the ARPC in Denver. (Air Force News Service)

Bird strike!

CES project lessens risk to pilots

(SSgt. Mike Breslin)
SrA. Daniel Blackwell (right), 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, cleans out the "disk" device used to clear vegetation in one of Reese's ponds Monday, while (inset) TSgt. Manuel Lima of CES and Capt. Lawrence Gudger of the Reese Safety Office discuss the project's progress.

To a pilot, a bird strike is one of the more unpleasant experiences that can be encountered while flying. This prompted the 64th Civil Engineering Squadron, along with the Reese Safety Office, to take action.

A project began Monday at a pond on the High Plains Golf Course designed to lessen the chance of bird strikes in that area.

"We're running a 'disk' back and forth across the bottom of the pond, cutting up the grass growing there where the birds nest," said MSgt. Robert Thomas of CES. The disk is an assembly used by farmers to plow their fields. It holds a dozen circular cutters lined up next to each other, which dig into the pond bed as it's pulled back and forth. Two bulldozers attached to a 2,000-foot steel cable and pulley linkage were used in the process.

The result is the removal of the grass at the roots. Getting rid of the grass, which grows about a foot above the water, takes away the birds' reason for staying without harming them.

The project wasn't a quick one, according to Sergeant Thomas. "It took about a week to get the job done. We made about 1,000 sweeps of the lake before we were through," he said.

The project resulted from the birds' tendency to fly in mass out from the lake at certain times of the day, despite the flight traffic in that area. Cutting the vegetation in and around the pond isn't the only plan for reducing flying hazard potentials around the golf course.

"We've already had a visit from the BASH (Bird-Aircraft Strike Hazard) people out of Tyndall (AFB, Fla.), during which time they looked at the problem with the birds," said Capt. Lawrence Gudger of flying safety.

"They'll be back before the end of the year with a new project, which will use a radio-controlled boat to 'patrol' the lake and keep the birds away."

Captain Gudger noted that, as with the grass cutting, the boat will chase the birds away without harming them.

Beefing up

Commissary strives to please all

People may have noticed the recent increase in beef prices, especially in specialty cuts, at the Reese Commissary. This increase is a result of the regional contractor having to pay higher prices for beef.

In an effort to hold down these skyrocketing costs, the commissary will supplement its line of "choice" grade beef with "select" grade specialty cuts.

According to 2nd Lt. Clay McAnally, the new commissary store manager, the specialty cuts include ribeye, New York strip, T-bone and porterhouse steaks.

Commissary customers should see the "select" specialty cuts in the meat counter by the end of the week. They will be labeled as "select" cuts. All beef not labeled by grade is "choice." The different grades will be displayed separately, but merchandised for easy price comparison.

"Currently, all the beef in the commissary is choice grade, except when we supplement our specialty cuts," said Lieutenant McAnally. "Choice is a higher quality grade than select. The average retail grocery outlet carries select grade beef."

The lieutenant stressed that "select" is the third highest grade of beef you can buy. The difference in quality between "choice" and "select" can range from very little to noticeable.

A choice cut is usually more reliable in quality and consequently, more expensive.

"Our aim is to provide an option to our customers—those who want to pay the higher prices for choice can do so. But, we will also have the select grade available to our customers. This provides the commissary customers with the grades of beef that best fit their shopping budgets," said Lieutenant McAnally.

This initiative is part of the commissary's ongoing commitment to customer satisfaction.

"The bottom line," said the lieutenant, "is that we are going to do everything we can to provide quality service at the lowest cost possible."

Anyone with questions or suggestions about commissary operations should contact Lieutenant McAnally or commissary officer Lila Andermatt at 5386.

Workers in the Reese Commissary Meat Department prepare items for sale.

A competitor in Saturday's tournament lines up a drive on the fourth hole of the High Plains Golf Course.

Turkey shoot tourney held

Golfers brave cold snap

The last scheduled Reese golfing event for 1990 was the Turkey Shoot Tournament Saturday on the High Plains Golf Course.

Despite the cold weather and continuous winds, 33 wing members took part in the day-long four-man scramble. During a scramble, the four players each tee off, then all four players play off the best ball (the one closest to the hole) and the single best score is taken for the team. If in the event someone hits a hole-in-one, that play is automatically scored and the team advances to the next hole.

Taking first in this tournament was the team of Coy Martin, Danny Thomas, Jack Gray and John Mattern with a par of 32.

Second place went to teammates Ray Bean, Larry Hurd, Ernie Petrash and John Wolfe for their par of 33. While Joe Buchwald, Wes Daugherty, W.D. Davis and Paula Coakley teamed together to take third with a par 33.

On Veteran's Day, the course will be open from 8 a.m. to dusk. Throughout the winter months, the course will remain open until dusk. For actual times or fees, contact Dick Davis at 3819.

Updates

Free Tech seats for Reese

Texas Tech University has reserved a 2,000 seat section of Jones Stadium for Reese personnel and their families at the Nov. 17 football game between the Red Raiders and the Southern Methodist Mustangs.

According to university officials, the general admission seats are being reserved in observance of Veteran's Day and in recognition of Reese's support for Texas Tech and the Lubbock community activities.

Reese members who want to go to attend the game should go to Gate 3 on the northeast side of the stadium. No tickets will be issued. Reese members and their families will be admitted upon presentation of a current Department of Defense identification card (this includes military, dependent, civilian and contractor identification cards.)

Red Raider fans are encouraged to arrive at the stadium by 1:30 p.m. to enjoy the pregame ceremonies. Several Air Force units will participate in pregame and halftime activities, including the Reese color guard and firing party, the 50 state flag unit and the Air Force Band of the West from Lackland AFB, Texas.

Kickoff is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Tae Kwon Do tournament set

The 1990 Lubbock Invitational Tae Kwon Do Championship is Saturday in the Reese Physical Fitness Center. Registration is from 8-10 a.m. Forms competition begins at 10 a.m. and sparring at 2 p.m.

For more information, call 789-6976.

Veteran's Day hours set

Various Reese organizations have changed their operating hours for Veterans Day Monday. They are:

- The Physical Fitness Center will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
- The High Plains Golf Course will be open from 8 a.m. to dusk.
- The Windmill Lanes Bowling Center hours are noon to 6 p.m.

Parent/child basketball set

The Reese Youth Center is sponsoring a parent/child basketball game at 7 p.m. Nov. 19 in the Physical Fitness Center. The game is one of the family-oriented events planned for National Family Week Nov. 19-22.

For more information or to sign up, call 3820.

Bowling for $1 begins

The Windmill Lanes Bowling Center is offering bowling from noon to 6 p.m. Saturdays and Mondays for $1 per game. For more information, call the center at 3116.

(Sgt. Greg Spraggins)

IM basketball on tap

Daniel Allers goes for a slam Monday in the Reese Physical Fitness Center. This year's intramural basketball season gets under way Tuesday in the center. Full details will appear in future Roundups.

Family Support Center offers programs, events

"Operation Informed Spouse" and National Family Week activities are among the many programs being offered by the Reese Family Support Center in the coming weeks. The offerings include:

□ Parenting presentation — A Charter Plains Hospital representative will give this briefing from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Nov. 19 in the Reese Officers' Open Mess. All Reese people are welcome to attend the presentation and have lunch in the Jack Davis Room. Call Margaret Ramey, 6494, for more information and to sign up.

□ Literature fair — This event will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Nov. 20-23 in the center; information at the fair will cover issues that affect individuals and families.

□ Operation Informed Spouse — This program is designed to ensure spouses are knowledgeable on matters affecting their welfare and security, and able to handle the programs, policies, benefits and special problems associated with military life. The program is scheduled for 6-8:30 p.m. Nov. 27; free child care will be available. For details or to sign up, call 3305.

□ Job hunting workshop — Scheduled from 6-8 p.m. Dec. 6, this event will focus on job search strategies and opportunities. Call Margaret Ramey to sign up.

□ Resume/interviewing skills workshop — Learning how to "sell" yourself in writing and in person will be the aim of this session. It's set for 6-8 p.m. Dec. 13. Call Margaret Ramey.

□ Desert Shield mailing — The center is the focal point for all mail being sent to people deployed in support of Operation Desert Shield; they have the addresses of all deployed members. To send a package, stop by the center, Bldg. 310.

□ Holiday season videos — Wing members can videotape holiday greetings to loved ones using center video equipment. People have to provide the tape.

Details on any center activity can be obtained by calling 3305.
