It is being planned to make this a real West Texas celebration when the weather clears and the roads are again passable.

The Roby & Northwestern Railroad was recently purchased by the West Texas Utilities Company. The roadbed has been rebuilt and new equipment purchased and today it is one of the most modern and up-to-date railroads in all West Texas—operated by electricity.

Watch for the announcement of the opening celebration, which will be made at an early date, and make your plans to attend.

9.49 INCHES RAIN DURING OCTOBER

Judge P. D. Sanders, local weather observer, reports the greatest rainfall for the month of October, 1923, since the records have been kept, covering a period of about 30 years. All records were broken when the precipitation of 9.49 inches for the month was reached. Below is given a few of the years showing the greatest rainfall during the month of October during the past 26 years:

1906-5.78 inches. 1907-4.25 inches. 1912-4.21 inches. 1913-6.57 inches. 1914-4.53 inches. 1918-3.76 inches, 1919-4.89 inches. 1920-3.48 inches, 1923-9.49 inches.

The month of October was without rainfall only one time, and that was in 1921. In other years the rainfall did not exceed one inch, but more or less rain fell during the month. The average rainfall for the month of October prior to 1923 is 2.55 inches. The heaviest rainfall during any month of the years shown in the records is the month of May, with an average rainfall of 3.32 inches. The greatest number of inches in any one month of the year is reported in June, 1909, when the precipitation was 10.17 inches during the month, but from the statements of those who were living in Haskell at that time, the above rain fell in a short period of time and was accompanied by a dangerous wind and hall and much damage was done, and several people killed and injured. The October downpour of this year has fallen very slowly and most of the rain has been taken up by the ground, and no damage to the bridges have been reported. Bad roads are reported from all sections of the county and in many places the roads are impassable. There is no question about a bottom season

It is just here where the parents duty comes in. The parents should see that their children in high school study at least two and a half hours each school night at home. The ordinary high school boy and girl can not look far enough into the future to see the great rewards that will come to them as a result of close application to their studies. They live more in the present. Because of the parents' experience and judgment and the interest they should have in their children's success, they should see that their children carry out this suggestion of the schools that they do real studying at home each school night of a period of from two and one-half to three hours. Even most grown people these days will not do more than is required of them. So we can not expect many of our children to do more than is required of them.

Then, again, the results of this World War has demoralized people. It has begotten a spirit of indifference to things worth while. Many people want to have a good time and want to be entertained continually. It is going to require must attention and interest o the part of us parents to prevent this dangerous and demoralizing spirit from getting a strong hold upon our children. It is going to require complete cooperation of the home and the school to overcome that dangerous influence.

Before closing this article, we must also say that the work in the lower grades of the elementary school was no better this semester than that of the high school. We were in a seventh grade class today when 75 per cent of the class indicated that they had done practically no home studying.

The fifth, sixth and seventh grades should study from one and a half to two hours at home each night. The third and fourth grades should study at least an hour at home.

Our advice to the parents of all high school and grammar grade pupils is that they carefully prepare their lessons at home and then they should review them at scool before they recite.

The People's Car

CHEVROLET brings to the world's workers modern, personal transportation at the lowest cost per mile and per year.

Each Chevrolet is the finished product resulting from the brains and skill of thousands.

From forest, plantation, mine, mill and laboratory come the lumber, rubber, cotton, steel, copper, glass, enamels and other materials required.

Skilled and unskilled labor, expert mechanics, technically educated engineers, metallurgists and chemists, deft women upholsterers-all have a part in producing the world's lowest priced quality automobile: Chevrolet—The People's Car.

The production, sales and service of Chevrolets give steady employment at good pay to about a quarter million of people.

We are the world's second largest manufacturer of motor cars, and our exceptional growth has been due to fair treatment and good value given to the public.

Shower for Miss Ruth Lewis

Mrs. W. H. Murchison gave a most lelightfully planned shower for Miss Buth Lewis Wednesday afternoon. The Halloween idea was carried out. The home was very pretty with its softly glowing lights with witches, black cats and jack o' lanterns peeping out from nnexpected places. The flowers were vellow marigolds, nasturtiums and chrysanthemums. The bride elect and Mrs. John Oates gave each one a little booklet on which was written "Miss Ruth Lewis and Mr. Frank Reid, Nov. 23rd, 1923." In the book there were twelve questions about the bridal couple to be answered with the name of a book. Miss Verna Oates received the prize, which she presented to Miss Lewis. Then Miss Ruby Fitzgerald, in a witches costume, appeared on the scene and called on Mrs. O. E. Oates. who gave a toast "To the Little Girl She Used to Be." Then the ghost of a schoolmate, impersonated by Mrs. Charles Conner, gave a toast on "Just How to Please Reid." The witch then asked the bride elect to "Come With Us to Goblin Land." The dining room doors were thrown open and it was indeed a beautiful sight which met the eye. Little Misses Geraldine Conner. Wair and Tubbs, veritable fairles, with golden wings, were stationed on a table where reposed a large yellow pumpkin and the little fairies took many lovely and useful gifts from the pumpkin and presented them to Miss Lewis. There was also a pretty bride's book tied with black and yellow ribbon in which the guests were asked to register. Each one was also asked to write a telegram to the bride elect beginning each word with a letter of the grooms name. and while everyone was admiring the gifts Misses Maurine Couch, Mary Sherrill, Thelma Williams, Mary Helen Barron, Galen Robertson and Maurine Shook served yellow pumpkin ice with a fortune stuck in it, and cake. The girls wore Halloween caps and aprens, The following enjoyed this delightful affair. Mesdames J. U. Fields, N. I. McCollum, Hill Oates, J. B. and H. S. Post. E. A. Irby, J. E. A Magic Loan Office. The village of Churt, on the Hampshire border, near Surrey, England, where Mr. Lloyd George has recently built his new home, is the scene of a quaint legend. The name of the viltage means a rough common overrun with gorse, broom, and bracken, and on the common are three curious conical sandhills called "The Devil's Jumps." The legend ran that if one of the inhabitants knocked on a great stone on one of these hills and asked for the loan of any utensil, he would be sure to find the thing he asked for waiting for him on reaching home. But it was a necessary condition of the loan that he must return whatever he had borrowed. One day a neglectful inhabitant borrowed a large kettle and did not return it, whereupon the supernatural loan office ceased to function. In Frensham church, two miles away from Churt, the "Identical" copper kettle is exhibited.
