I. H. YATES BURIED HERE WEDNESDAY

The body of I. H. Yates a former school teacher of Haskell was brought here Tuesday night on the 9:15 East Bound Wichita Valley train and carried to the home of his daughter Mr. and Mrs. John Simpson and held until funeral services were held Wednesday morning at the Haskell cemetery by Rev. Ben F. Roberts of this city at 11 o'clock after which the remains were given burial.

Mr. Yates died after a lingering illness at the Baptist Sanitarium in Abilene Tuesday morning. He was 77 years of age when the end came. He has lived in Haskell for many years and was known as an honest, honorable christian gentleman. He had been a member of the Baptist church for 45 years and his life was spent in fighting the battles of life in

E. H. Harris of the Rule Review was a Haskell visitor early Tuesday morning. While in the city he was in the Irish potato growing contest with himself. He planted some potatoes last year and according to Editor Harris he has already made three crops of potatoes from the one planting. The chances are good for another crop. Mr. Harris. We do not really know whether the success lies in the ability of Mr. Harris as a potato grower or the fertility of the soil in the town in which he lives.

MIDWAY

(By Velma Frierson)

You will find the people of Midway very busy again this week. Some are still planting while others have finished planting and are just fighting the weeds.

With such fine weather already and then the gentle rain which fell last Saturday every body went to work with a smile on their faces.

Miss Helen Clifton has been real sick the past week but we are glad to know she is able to go back to school this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Newsome of our community were in with us at Sunday school again Sunday. We are glad to welcome them back again.

There are other fathers and mothers with their children at our Sunday school that don't attend our Sunday school, who ought to. It is to your interest, as well as to your children that you are keeping out of a school that is more important than your literacy. It is not only the child, but the parent who is held responsible for his child's education. So let's all get up for a while and think, am I doing my duty for myself and my children? My neighbors children and my own when I take no hand in Sunday school or church work. There's a Place for every one and work for all to do, you are needed at Midway Sunday school. If you haven't been attending regularly.

Rev. Ben Harris will preach Sunday after Sunday at the usual hour 3:30 p. m. at the school a Mr. Scroggins and Mr. Jones from near Haskell. Glad to see you and welcome you back every Sunday.

FRESH AIR AND SUNSHINE ON HIGHWAY TO HEALTH

By Herman N. ... Paraphrasing ... stop taking stuffy air, only ... your motor car windows and ... for your health.

You'll find fresh air and sunshine on the highway to health. An excellent ... to improve the health of mind and body is to ride out in the open air in the spring time.

Fresh air is a stimulating agent which helps to get us fit, and taken together with ... it is a true tonic, benefiting both the well and the ill. Every person should be encouraged to take a place in the sun.

Pure air promotes physical and mental perfection. Breathing deeply helps to prevent an accumulation of fat, quickens the digestive processes and aids in ridding the body of poisonous waste products.

We need fresh, pure air all of the time, sleeping or waking, resting or working, sick or well, our supply of fresh air never should be curtailed either in quality or quantity.

Nothing can compare with a ride in an open vehicle out along sunny parks and into the countryside. There is gaiety in the skies and health in the woodlands. With each draught of fresh air there comes new courage and greater effectiveness in meeting the problems of working and living.

Let us partake of the fresh air and sunshine in abundance. The invigorating elements will clear up the old winter cold and cough and bring red blood again to the veins.

Let us ride in the open, in a frame of mind to enjoy the best of the benefits of every day life and as we ride, let us not only look but see, nothing removal of life in its many forms and manifestations.

Have your car windows opened so you may have every opportunity to breathe fresh air. Be sure to drive for the open of course. See that the car has enough oil, water and gas, then throw the throttle wide open, when you place where fresh air and sunshine abound.

Be not afraid of cold. Drive slowly, but if you can, let a cool wind sweep by continually to clear the air of the stoves of spring, the and the smell of winter. Avoid getting the wind and the sun in the wind.

There are cars in open as the top of the car, but you can be protected with a light exterior car cover. They are ideal. They keep them open and secure during winter. If the sun comes out, the fresh air is a tonic that enriches your respiratory health.

THE FOLLY OF IT

A fellow dropped into town recently and sold 72 potato slices for $1.00 each. The same slicer was on sale at local stores for 35c. Smooth salesmen always reap the long green when people are inclined to be generous.—Grapeland Messenger.

It always looks better across the creek. For this reason a great many people think they are getting more for their money and more nearly what they want if they buy out of town. And in most instances, the purchaser is a sucker and pays dearly for his foolishness, yet regardless of this fact he continues to "bite" again when the opportunity offers. It's a safe plan never to buy out of town unless you know exactly what you are getting and know also that it can not be secured from home merchants or that it is being sold at a figure materially under that charged by local dealers. If this plan were followed, most of these fly-by-night salesmen would be put out of business and people would do their trading with merchants whom they know and who will make adjustments on unsatisfactory purchases.—Denton News-Chronicle.

The True Education

Graduation time is here and it is to be hoped that many young men and women going out from American schools and colleges this year have attained somewhat of the true education, which is the ability to think. Education is not a mere trick of memory, storing up all the known facts about various items and dogmas. Educators of the day are beginning to realize that the supreme function of the educational systems and institutions is to make men think, to stir their minds to work out the problems of the times. The world is full of sheep, tagging along first after one leader and then another. But the independent thinkers, the leaders, are, as always, too few. That should be the field of the institutions of higher education—to make men think. And according to no less a person than President Hibben of Princeton University, in all his 40 years of association with college youth it is his experience that at no time has the student been so eager to fit himself to be of practical service to his kind as at the present, and he expects great achievements from the youth now being prepared under this more comprehensive method. If man can be prodded into taking thought, the scope of his possible achievement is truly illimitable.

The Way It Works

One of the Seattle aldermen who was municipal development of electric power, in giving a reason why costs have been doubled over estimates says: "It is no fault of public ownership, but it is due to the absurd estimates of the engineers and to deplorable wastes during construction."

The councilman could have given no better indictment of municipal ownership policies than this statement. The city government of Seattle which is in the hands of its aldermen, appointed the man who estimated at $4,800,000 the cost of a plant which, so far, has cost about $11,000,000, who built a timber crib dam in place of a masonry dam, a single line of wooden poles in place of a double line of steel towers, who did not build city substations and rearrange the distribution system with in the higher estimate, and who provided 50,000 horse power for only four instead of 12 months in the year. This may not be any fault of "public ownership" but it is the fault of public officials who constitute the "management" under public ownership.

Private enterprise employs one engineer to check the estimates of another. Seattle officials in charge of this municipally-owned undertaking acted on the first erroneous estimate, and when that proved too low, acted again on a further estimate which has also proved too low. It is now "estimated" that full execution of original $4,800,000 plan will cost from $17,000,000 to 27,000,000. Some $10,000,000 is allowed between $17,000,000 and $27,000,000 as a margin for error.

Private enterprise could not figure that way. It is accountable to stockholders and cannot fall back on taxpayers to make up deficits.

The history of municipal undertakings is that original cost is estimated low in order to secure votes for the proposition. After the unfortunate taxpayer is launched on the enterprise, he is bled white by taxation to continue the project.

What would happen to the Seattle aldermen if they had started a private hydroelectric development on an estimated cost such as that proposed for Seattle, had dragged the experiment over a number of years without giving service and had run their estimates for completing the project over five times the original amount? Could such management succeed in private business? If not, is there any reason to suppose it will succeed better in handling municipal undertakings with taxpayers' funds?

Under political management the people must pay in taxes to meet the inflated costs of municipal operation of plants which are not subject to state regulation or taxation.

Maintaining American Wages

Sugar is selling at a low-record price for the year, down to $4.70 for raw Porto Rican and $5.60 for fine granulated. The Hawaiian crop is estimated at 25,000 tons above last year's rains have interfered with the Cuban harvest. Indian sugar yield is estimated much below the average. But so many other countries are producing more sugar, both beets and cane, that the total crop is estimated well above last year's yield.

The position of the sugar market today illustrates the wisdom of a reasonable tariff which prevents the annihilation of the American beet sugar industry and saves to the farmers and workmen millions of dollars in wages which would otherwise be wiped out. This is of much greater advantage to the American public than a few dollars which might be saved temporarily due to low foreign sugar prices. As this phase of the tariff question is more generally understood it will gradually be eliminated from politics.

The commuters' smoking car was filled, mostly with proud young fathers who had been relating everlasting anecdotes of the clever remarks made by their offspring. Finally Mr. Spiffington seeing a hole in the conversation, horned in by saying: "I don't like to talk, but I honestly think that boy of mine is the most remarkable little fellow I ever saw."

Everybody yawned. "Yes," pursued Mr. Spiffington. He's six years old and, so far as I recollect, he never said a bright thing in his life.

Fire Insurance Not A Commodity

"Fire insurance is not a commodity to be bought and placed on the shelf," said a recent report of the Committee on Fire Insurance of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association. "It is a contract which includes continuing service on the part of the agent, and a possible future contingent payment in case of disaster. The buyer of this contract should exercise the same care in selecting his insurance representative that he would in choosing his attorney.

"Do not under-estimate the value of the services of an experienced insurance man in preparing forms of contract selecting the best arrangement for protection, as well as pointing out possible reductions in costs through removal of hazards and increasing fire protection and the permanent improvement of your premises by better construction.

It's Dangerous Now

To ignore a man who is trudging along the road as you whirl by in your auto looks on its face to be a pretty mean custom, and yet in these days of guncarrying and loose ideas about other people's property rights it is best to remember that self-preservation is nature's first law.

Within two weeks in the state of Ohio recently one man who offered a stranger a ride was shot and killed and another shot, robbed and left along the road in a dying condition. Both were the victims of their own generosity—hikers along the road had asked them for rides and then proved to be highway robbers. Not only are such crimes being perpetrated in Ohio but in every state in the union. All ways the driver is at a disadvantage when he takes a stranger into his car for a ride because he has both hands occupied.

There are too many questionable characters walking the roads now to take chances, and the roads around Haskell might not prove different from the roads in other sections in this respect. The motorist who would be safe should keep this in mind, and especially when driving at night. He should hold fast to one rule, and that is that when a foot traveler unknown to him hails him for a ride, to drive on. It is better to be sorry for the pedestrian left behind than for yourself later, for the chances are very good at the present rate that crimes are increasing, that you will be the one left behind if the ride is given. It has reached the point where driving on is the only sure means of escaping robbery and possible death.

The Real Man

The real man never talks about what the world owes him, the happiness he deserves, and the chances he ought by right to have, and all that.

A real man is just as honest alone in the dark in his own room as he is in public.

A real man does not want pulls and favors. He wants work and honest wages.

A real man does not expect something for nothing, so the get-rich-quick people can not use him.

A real man does a little more than he promises.

A real man is dependable. His simple word is as good as his oath.

A real man is loyal to his friends and guards his reputation as his own.

A real man can not hurt a woman, physically or morally. He sticks to his wife. He can be loyal even if love is impossible.

A real man minds his own business. He does not judge other persons beyond sure knowledge—not presuming to "search hearts."

A real man has excuses for others, never for himself. He is patient and charitable to others, to himself he is strict.

A real man does not hunt danger but never dodges it when he ought to meet it.

A real man is glad to live and not afraid to die.

SLOWING UP THE REAPER.

Education in driving automobiles was not so costly in 1924 as the year before in rate of increase of killed and injured, but it is a hideous record, nevertheless, says the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. Automobile accidents in the one year were double the total of all our killed and wounded in the World War. Nineteen thousand were killed, and 40,000 injured. Motor cars killed each day 52 and injured 1,180. The equivalent of the total population of a city like Abilene or Amarillo, and it would take the whole population of two of the largest cities in the State to supply the injured quota.

These hurts and deaths are an inevitable price we pay for every great advance in transportation and the greater the advance the higher the price exacted. Human life pays for it all until experience and education in safety reduces the accidents to a minimum. Practically every casualty is the result of hurry and desire for speed. In 1924 the rate of increase in motor casualties was less than 1923, but the total was larger.

With reckless adults and children driving cars, with any man or woman able to buy a car allowed the privileges of the highways and streets with power vehicles and without any requirements of training as a rule, what could be expected but death and injury?

Of An Ancient Family

Two colored men were standing on the corner discussing family trees. "Yes, suh, man," said Ambrose. "I can trace my relations back to a family tree?" "Chase 'em back to a family tree," said Mose. "Naw, man, trace 'em, trace 'em—get me?" "Well, they ain't but two kinds of things dat live in trees, birds and monkeys, and you suh ain't got no feathers on you."

Some people are exceptionally bright or smart, or intelligent, or whatever you choose to call it but they are too blunt. They say what they think, and their thoughts, though they may be gems of truth, sometimes touch tender spots. Others know little and say less. They are good listeners because they do not possess the ability to become anything else. Their silent attention is often misconstrued into a compliment by the one who is talking. "Keep in the middle of the road."

SANCTITY OF THE MAILS

There is something of a sacredness about the contents of a letter. The writer often reveals more of himself on a written page than he would in direct conversation. This relation of course, is designed only for the eyes of the correspondent.

In this country a wholesome respect has been built up for the sanctity of a letter but it is not so respected in many other countries where the opening and reading of sealed mail becomes, at times, so prevalent that the practice has earned the appellation "cracking seals."

The average American would be filled with wrath and the timid soul would shrink with horror at the thought of a third person, and a stranger at that, reading his "personal correspondence."

Yet, that is exactly what happens to 21,000,000 letters a year and will continue so long as letter writers fail to put their return address on their envelopes.

When a letter, without a return address, can not be delivered for any reason it is sent, after a certain time, to the Dead Letter Office.

There it is opened and read—not for the possible scandal it may contain—but with a view to finding some clue which will enable forwarding on to the addressee or returning to the sender.

Out of every five letters received at the Dead Letter Office such a clue is found in one and it is sent merrily on its delayed way to to one or the other of the two persons most interested in its disposition. The other four are destroyed.

Every person knows his own address and if he or she would put it on the envelope, the contents would remain inviolate and the letter would be returned with notice of non-delivery.

Not only that but the Dead Letter Office and all its attendant expense would go out of business because less than one letter in a hundred reaching that institution contains a return address.

USE YOUR HEAD

If Haskell citizens will take time to glance through a Monday morning paper printed in any of our larger cities they will quickly see that it takes more than the hands and feet to operate an auto. The paper will tell of death and injury all over the United States, largely due to the fact that the thousands of drivers on Sunday drives were at the mercy of many who do not use their heads as well as their hands and feet. If we could speak but one sentence into our auto drivers it would be this: "Use your head." Take it easy, watch the other fellow as well as yourself—don't take anything for granted—the other many may do exactly the opposite of what you guessed he was going to do. If you are using your head, then your own car is in perfect control all the time, and you can prevent an accident that he might have been responsible for. We're all too busy making a living to have to stop and attend unnecessary funerals. So use your head as well as your hands and feet when you're driving and we'll have fewer of them.

The Old Fish's Baccalaureate Address.

The 1925 class of bass and trout had their swimming diplomas and were about to go forth into the great sea. Before they left the safe old home under the big rock they gathered for the commencement address, which was delivered by a wise old buffalo from a neighboring bay, who, according to one of our popular young cartoonists, spoke as follows:

"Now, students, you have graduated and are about to swim forth into the world! Before I say farewell to you let me say a few words of advise. Do not snap at every thing you see! Dodge the tin butterfly, the bass beetle or any thingamajig that wiggles, sparkles and looks alive. Steer clear of little pieces of red flannel, also angle worms shaped like question marks up side down! Avoid anything tempt- ing that has a string tied to it! I lost a father, mother eighty-six thou- sand brothers and ninety-one thousand sisters through their biting at fake dainties and bogus bon-bons! So I know where of I speak!"

Good Advice

President Elect Hindenburg says to Germany: "Get to work!"

Finance Minister Cailaux says to France: "Cut expenses to the bone!"

Both see that their nations need to forget the luxury of hate and waste, and think only of the vital necessity of industrial regeneration.

The advice of these two European's is as valuable here in the United States it is exactly what President Coolidge has emphasized from the first day of his presidency.

Anybody Would.

Teacher—If a farmer sold 1,470 bu. of wheat at three dollars and seventeen cents a bushel, what would he get?

Boy—An automobile.

Ford Building All-Metal Freight Carrying Airplanes

The Ford plant at Detroit has com- menced to turn out airplanes and within the past few weeks has estab- lished its own freight-carrying planes between Detroit and Chicago, on a reg- ular schedule. The new Ford plane, which may some day reach an enor- mous output, will carry 2000 pounds of useful load at 130 to 140 miles an hour. Officials contend that within five years regular freight-carrying airplane lines will be in operation all over the country, and especially in the South where strawberries, oranges and other fruits can be carried direct from the truck patches into New York City in a single day's flying time. Thus will the ex- pense of refrigeration and packing be saved and the consumer should be benefited through lower prices. In other sections perishable products can also be carried to market by airplane, and the producers saved from heavy loss en- countered when they have to depend upon trucks or trains.

HOW THE BRAZOS RIVER RECEIVED ITS NAME

The Spanish word braza means arm; thus un braza (an arm) of the sea, and as applied to streams the word may mean fork or branch. The com- plete name of the great Texas river as given by the Spanish was Los Brazos de Dios—The Arms of God. The name is remarkable and in attempting to explain its origin, legend has been no less remarkable.

When the Spanish in 1621 struck what is now called Little River in Bell County they called it "Esperitu Santo" (Holy Ghost), having reached it on the eve of Pentecost.

The Brazos in 1690 had been given this name "Esperitu Santo" or Holy Ghost by DeLeon, who struck it be- fore its branching. Its name in 1691 was a Francisco Salano. Its next name was La Trinidad. Its next name was Colorado de los Brazo de Dios.

But why the arms de Dios is asked? It was thought by those early Catholics that by giving places and rivers sacred words for names would be a protection against harm. Such places as Corpus Christi and many rivers—at La Trini- dad (Trinity), Navidad (Nativity); Arroyo de las Beneditas Animas (Creek of the Blessed Souls). Thra- ll says that Trinidad and Navidad were so named because they were discovered on Trinity Sunday and Christmas Day.

The best known legend of the nam- ing of the Brazos is given by Mr. J. P. Underwood of Columbia, whose mother was one of the "first three hundred" of Austin's colonists. The legend is:

"Hostile Indians were pursuing a body of Indians under the care of the Catholics who were trying to reach the Tockanono "mighty water of the Tejas." (Indian name of Brazos). They reached it in time to gain the opposite shore but the hostile trying to follow were swept away by a mighty current. The joy of the padre and company was expressed by their calling the Tockanono—"Los Brazos de Dios"—The Arms of God."

This is the best or most authentic of several other legends. Compiled from Texas Folk Lore and Legends.

Wisdom Of Farm Aid Is Recognized By Investors Who Have Advanced Millions To Soil Tillers Of Nation

BREAKING CANADIAN PRAIRIE

(c) Underwood & Underwood

The wisdom of affording every financial aid within reason to farmers and farming communities has been repeatedly emphasized by Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Insurance Company, particularly in a recent address dealing with farm mortgage loans as investments for life insurance funds, made before the Bonus Club at New Jersey.

Prudential lent $205,699,186.25 a smaller amount of Prudential farm loans indicated a progress towards prosperity in agricultural districts.

Referring particularly to farm loans, Mr. Duffield said: "Then, too, another form of investment in this question of farm loans. Of course, it is useless to adopt any of these other methods of aiding the country if you are not going to aid the man who produces that which we eat, upon whom we are absolutely dependent, and so those companies are largely in the field of investment in farm loans, aiding the farmer to harvest and develop his crop, enabling him to bring in land for development purposes which otherwise he might not have been able to do, aiding him in so conducting in a scientific way these farm operations that as a result thereof the food of everyone in the United States has been made cheaper and easier to obtain than it otherwise would have been." In 1924 the Prudential loaned $37,967,402.97 on farm properties in the United States. They have also relieved the housing situation by extensive loans on small dwellings.

Brother and Sister Live As Man and Wife Fifteen Years

Rolla, Mo., Sept. 11.—Sixteen years ago A. H. Kattler, then a farmer in Nebraska, befriended a girl member of a band of gypsies. They were married. An annulment of the marriage was granted here today. They were brother and sister.

Mrs. Kattler, whose maiden name was De Longton, was born in Louisville Ky. about thirty-eight years ago, according to the strange story as revealed Circuit Judge W. E. Barton here. When a child her parents separated and she was taken by another family to raise. She was kidnapped by a band of gypsies, who held her until she was about 16 years old.

A dozen or so years later her birth brother was born who left home when 11 years old. He lived with an uncle, who adopted her. That was A. H. Kattler.

After Kattler, in 1908, acquired through adoption of his uncle, was grown he went to Nebraska and became a farmer. He married a gypsy named Hopkins. Also, there was Bessie I. Hopkins. She was mistreated and Kattler intervened in her behalf. A friendship developed into romance and they were married in 1907.

Kattler had never met his father since he left home until about a year ago while on a visit to Chicago. From facts and photographs and other incidents obtained from his father and through other agencies, Kattler learned his wife was the sister, born a year after he left home, whom he had never seen or heard of. With the facts fully verified they immediately ceased to live together, except as brother and sister.

Senator Frank H. Harris in the last term of circuit court filed a suit for Brittanina I. Kattler asking the annulment of her marriage to her brother. Last week the brother and sister appeared in court and presented the facts to Judge Barton, who has now granted a decree of separation.

There were no children. Miss De Longton is employed at Newburg and Kattler is working for a road contracting firm on the state highway between Newburg and the Polaski county line.

Cut Outs Must Be Cut Out

The first interpretation of the new anti-cutout law has been made by the Attorney General's Department in an opinion to John W. Hornsby, Travis county attorney, in which it is held outright that cutouts must come off automobiles and motorcycles, the same as a person is forbidden to carry a pistol, even though he may not use it. The law becomes effective June 18. It is further held that the law applies solely to the elimination of cutouts and that it does not prevent the use of gases from the muffler for other purposes, such as the operation of devices on the car. The opinion by L. C. Sutton, Assistant Attorney General.

Center Point School Program

The school children and teachers of the Center Point School entertained the community with a real good program Thursday night May 28. In spite of the rain the program was carried on and enjoyed by all. Prof. A. J. Heathington, County Supt., was present and made a good talk on school work.

Prof. W. M. Bowman Superintendent of the Weimert High School was a pleasant visitor to Haskell Tuesday afternoon and made our office a very pleasant call.

About Straw Hats

Straw hat figures ought to make good warm weather reading, despite the well-known tendency of all statistics toward heaviness. The Census Bureau no doubt chose the occasion for making public the fact that Americans spend $32,000,000 a year for head coverings made of straw. In 1901 the Nation's bill on this account was only $10,000,000. The point is made that while the population increased 33 per cent the value of the straw hat output increased 200 per cent during 20 years. Those statistical experts who find pleasure in mere juggling with figures are unable to tell us whether we are wearing more hats per capita (for the first time we have been able to use that word in its strictly correct sense) or whether we are merely wearing better hats. In either case, the straw hat makers have not suffered.

The average man entertains a vague notion that when the wheat crop is good the output of straw hats ought to be abundant. The fact is there is no relation between the straw hat industry and the farmers of the wheat belt. The straw used in hats comes from special varieties of wheat grown in China, Japan and Italy. The stalks are pulled before ripening, bleached in the sun and dew, and the straw woven into braids ready for shipment. According to figures supplied by The Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, the United States imported straw materials valued at $8,000,000 in 1923. From that amount was made straw hats which sold for $32,000,000, which is one part of the tax which the American people pay for summer lightheadedness.

WHY THE EDITOR LEFT THE TOWN

Somebody sent the editor of the Pickettown Gazette a few bottles of home brew. The same day he received for publication a notice of an auction for publication a wedding announcement and a notice of an auction sale. Here are the results as printed in his paper.

William Smith and Miss Lucy Anderson were disposed of at public auction at my farm a mile east of a beautiful cluster of roses on her breast and two white doves, before a back ground of farm equipments too numerous to mention in the presence of about twenty guests including two milk cows, six calves and one big dog. Ben Jackson tied the rope that held the 200 feet of his rope and the bundle of tools left on one good John Deere going place for an extended trip with terms to suit purchasers. They will be at home to their many friends with one good baby larger and a few chickens, attending after 10 o'clock on date of sale to responsible parties and some 50 children.

North Pole Hunters Been Heard From Who Have Never

The Amundsen expedition, in its attempt to reach the North Pole by air from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, follows in the path of a new long-forgotten pioneer, Solomon August Andree, a Swedish scientist and aeronaut...

Twenty-eight years have passed since the little company on Amsterdam Island of the Spitzbergen group saw the balloon 'Le Pole Nord' shoot up into a swirl from the south...

A shot had been heard during the night, and the next morning there were bloodstained footprints around the trailer at the bank. The odd, unusual nature of the footprints showed them to be of a man with an abnormal foot...

In the quarter of a century which has elapsed since that July morning, great strides have been made in aviation. The Atlantic has been spanned, continents have been crossed and yet it is only now that an expedition is being planned to make the dash Andree planned and embarked upon so long ago.

After months of waiting for favorable weather the crew set out for its goal, 550 miles away in the heart of the frozen Northland, and from that hour nothing has been seen of the balloon or its occupants, and only unverified rumors have ever come back to account for the probable fate of the three brave men.

As a means of communication, Andree had carried with him several carrier pigeons and a number of specially constructed aerial buoys to which were attached cylinders in which messages could be stored and sealed. Four days after Andree had sailed, a carrier pigeon was shot on board the whaler Algon in the North Seas carrying the following message in Andree's handwriting: 'July 13, 12 30 o'clock noon. Latitude 82 degrees 2 minutes. Longitude 15 degrees 3 minutes east. Good speed eastward. 70 degrees to south. All well on board. This is the third pigeon sent.' Andree's message indicated that in forty-four hours after starting the balloon had made only 187 miles of the 550 necessary to complete the trip to the pole.

After gaining the information about the man's death in the hospital, the officers continued their investigation, which came to light Sunday with the arrest of the three men in Fort Worth. Application for writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Acton was filed with Criminal Court Clerk Balch shortly before noon Monday. Arthur Lee Moore, attorney for Acton, was then advised that Acton was being held in the city jail and that the charges had been filed at Aspermont.

Hill was taken to Aspermont Sunday by Sheriff Bigham of Stone-wall County. Acton and Belton remain in Fort Worth. Rhodes said Acton has a nickname 'One Gone,' as he has only one leg.—Ft. Worth Star Telegram.

Mother Goose Brought Up To Date

The old woman of Mother Goose Tales who had so many children she didn't know what to do, but who managed, notwithstanding, to get them all in a shoe, finds a modern rival in C. T. Lobb of Sedan, New Mexico.

Mr. Lobb built future American Congressmen and President-elect from an area outside of Sedan, New Mexico, to the Sedan Public Schools. The picture here shown is one morning's load—15 lusty young Americans ready for their daily drill in the three R's, gathered from as many miles of territory and all transported at one time in a stock model five-passenger Star car.

Mr. Lobb tells us that this picture does not do full justice to the Star car used for the transportation of his passengers, since ordinarily when he was a juvenile prodigy, it is very easy to take a family of four across stream under the condition named, with the papa and mamma weighing one hundred pounds each, the sons fifty pounds each and the canoe capable of carrying a maximum of only one hundred pounds.

Under the present method steam is used, and since all motive power used in the operation of the machinery of the mill is electrically driven, the completion and installation of units where by the mill may be cooled by electricity will convert the mill into 100 per cent electrically operated institution.

The experiments, which have been made convince those in charge that that this can be accomplished at a smaller cost than is possible under the old method. Oil men in various parts of Texas have been keeping in close touch with the experiment at Munday.

Mrs. Starkey Duncan and son of Stamford were Haskell visitors last Thursday. very simple, when you have a strong mind to manage it."

FIFTEEN CARS NEEDED FOR PADUCAH DELEGATION

The Haskell Board of City Development will try and send a strong delegation also the Haskell Municipal Band to Paducah Texas on the 18th of this month seeking and asking that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce District Convention be held in Haskell.

The next convention comes about this time next year. We will have our new hotel to house them and with our many places of entertainment we feel sure that the eight hundred delegates we more will have no regrets, if they will but accept the hospitality of the city of health, wealth and happiness. This trip will be made a good will or booster trip, as we will visit enroute to Rochester, O'Brien, Knox City, Benjamin and Crowell going up and Monday and Weiners on the return.

This trip will take but three hours without stops, however it is planned to start early and pay a short visit in each of the towns above mentioned leaving here at 5 o'clock and arriving at Paducah at 11 to 12 o'clock. Give your name to the Secretary and join the bunch of boosters and help Haskell grow and advertise.

VERGES 3-CENT TAX ON GAS TO CONSTRUCT HIGHWAYS

The salvation for Texas highways is for this state to vote $150,000,000 in new bonds on a 3-cent gasoline tax, declares Joe W. Burkett, member of the State Highway Commission.

"I shall advocate a $150,000,000 bond issue," continued Mr. Burkett, "which would be repaid within fifteen years if based on a 3-cent gasoline tax, that is, 3-cent gallon, and there would probably be a large surplus remaining. There would not be the slightest burden on the taxpayers of this state; in fact, it would entirely relieve the counties of raising bonds for the through or trunk line highways.

With the proceeds of these bonds the commission could build hard-surfaced roads and connect every designated highway in the state, crossing and recrossing Texas in many directions. There now are approximately 20,000 miles of such highways, of which 4,000 miles have been hard-surfaced.

THE COUNTY JAIL IS NOW EMPTY

Sheriff J. C. Turnbow of Haskell reports the county jail doors thrown open for the first time since he took charge of the Sheriff's office about the first of the year. He and his deputies have been very diligent in suppressing and ferreting out crime, but despite their activities the County Bastille was declared by Sheriff Turnbow to be without an inmate Wednesday. There has been times since the present officials have had charge that the jail cells were crowded to full capacity, but most of the prisoners were those who had drifted in here from other parts and woke up behind the iron bars to find that Haskell County proved not to be a health resort for their ailments and they are now looking for other territory which they believe to be more inviting.

The State Epileptic Colony at Abilene, the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Carlsbad, and the State Insane Asylums at Wichita Falls, Austin, Terrell and San Antonio ceased to exist at 12:01 a. m. Monday June 1, 1925. They vanished completely.

All because of a new state law enacted by the legislature, changing the names of each of the state institutions mentioned above.

The Abilene Epileptic Colony is now the Abilene State Hospital. Similarly the insane asylums drop the old but offensive title and become the Terrell State Hospital, the Austin State Hospital, etc.

HASKELL CITIZEN DIES AFTER BRIEF ILLNESS

James Crawford Holt Sr. a man of wide acquaintance throughout Haskell county and held in highest esteem by all, has left the walks of men and will be keenly missed by many who knew him well and found in him a true noble man of earth. Mr. Holt passed away at his residence in this city at 5:10 Monday morning June 1, after a very brief illness. He was born in Louisiana November 14, 1860 and came to Haskell county 21 years. In early life he fathered a widow and mother and supported of all his undertakings and proved himself a financier in early life. He was wearing his 65th birthday when the end came. He had always enjoyed good health and his death was unexpected and came as a shock to his loved ones and his many friends. He is survived by his widow and four children, Walter, J. C. Jr., Willie and Mrs. Opal Patterson who were all present at his bedside during the illness and passing away. Funeral services were held at Willow cemetery Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. N. Avey after which his remains were laid to rest beneath a bank of lovely flowers placed on his bier by young friends which is a token of the high esteem in which he was held. Active Paul Bearers were J. B. Post, M. H. Post, R. C. Cook, J. U. Fields, Courtney Hunt and W. M. Mask. Honorary pallbearers were J. D. Conley, J. L. Johnson, M. S. Watson, M. S. Shock, A. Tom and Chas. McGregor.

Mr. Holt was an upright conscientious man loyal to his friends and honest and honorable in all his dealings. He joined the Baptist church in 1918 and was Baptized into that body. He was always kind hearted and his many noble acts and friendly deeds bespeak for him the greatness of his soul for good and better things in life. Sad in deed was the sudden taking away of this husband and father. No words can comfort those who mourn for him, but the prayers of all our people is that the father who alone can heal bleeding hearts will speak peace to those upon whom the rod of affliction rests so heavily.

Demitt Hughes of the Post community and his father John D. Hughes of Georgetown left Monday for Mineral Wells where they are to stay a few days. From there Mr. John D. Hughes is going back home and Demitt will return to his ranch south of town.

Miss Nita Woodward of Stephens is spending several days with her mother, Mrs. M. M. McNeese of this city.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method to thank many friends and neighbors for assistance and words of sympathy tendered during the illness and death of our beloved husband and father. God's richest blessings rest upon one of you, is our earnest prayer. This our sad hour of sorrow.

Mrs. J. C. Holt and child
