South Plains Health Provider Preparing to Open Silverton Clinic

Word was received recently of South Plains Health Provider Organization's intent to file a proposal with the Department of Health and Human Services for the establishment and operation of a comprehensive primary health care clinic for the population of Briscoe County. Officials from S.P.H.P.O. visited with the Briscoe County Clinic board members recently and toured the clinic facility. The proposed clinic which will be located in the existing Briscoe County Clinic in Silverton, will be staffed full-time with a Family Nurse Practitioner, a Licensed Vocational Nurse, and a billing/medical records clerk. A physician will visit the clinic twice weekly to see patients and will provide full-time support of the Family Nurse Practitioner, so that patient care may be provided five days per week.

Briscoe County has been recognized for sometime as being medically needy. As a community and migrant health center in existence for 14 years, S.P.H.P.O. continues to provide services in Hale, Floyd, Lamb, Crosby, Castro, Deaf Smith, Bailey and Motley counties. A wide array of health services are available, including primary and ancillary health care, health promotion and disease prevention, the Women, Infants and Children's Supplemental Food Program, specialist referrals, health education, nutrition, pharmacy, lab, and social services.

It is clearly evident that a need exists for a clinic in Briscoe County. Local nurses and support personnel are available to staff the clinic. Community support is very important for the proposal to receive further consideration. If you have any questions regarding this clinic or its services, please contact one of the clinic board members (Lynn Frizzell, Anthony Kingery, Jimmy Davidson) or Becky Woods, R.N., M.S.N. at 823-2511. Letters of support should be sent to Ben H. Flores, MPH, Executive Director, South Plains Health Provider Organization, Inc., 2801 West 8th Street, Plainview, Texas 79072.

In its meeting Monday night of this week, the Silverton City Council endorsed the S.P.H.P.O. clinic proposal.

Church To Serve Thanksgiving Dinner

First United Methodist Church in Silverton will be serving a Thanksgiving Dinner complete with turkey and all the trimmings (including dessert) beginning at 11:15 a.m. Sunday, November 16, in the school cafeteria. Everyone is invited.

Adult tickets are $3.50, children 12 and under will be served for $2.00, and children under two will be served free of charge.

All proceeds of the dinner are to be used to repair the church steeple, and members ask that you support this community project to help maintain one of Silverton's more visible landmarks.

There will also be a silent auction of baked goods made by the Methodist Men. The baked goods will be placed on a table, and each one who wishes to bid may do so by placing the amount bid for the product on a slip of paper with his name.

Dave Francis To Speak At PTA Meeting

Lubbock Christian College is pleased to announce that Dave Francis will be speaking at the First State Bank in Silverton at 8:00 p.m. November 18 for the Parent-Teacher Association.

Mr. Francis is a senior psychology major at Lubbock Christian College. His studies emphasize drug and alcohol dependence. He is currently a peer counselor at Charter Plains Hospital where his responsibilities focus on working with chemically-dependent adolescents and their families.

Mr. Francis has recently attended a very selective honors program at Rutgers University. His current activities include conducting workshops in the general overview of alcoholism from a research perspective. He also holds speaking engagements with a personal narrative about his experiences as a recovering addict. He has been in recovery since August 22, 1984.

State Senator Involved In Minor Crash Here

A single-engine Beechcraft Sierra, piloted by State Senator Bill Sarpalius of Canyon, had a particularly rough landing Friday at the Silverton airport.

Sarpalius said Saturday that during the otherwise routine landing on the grass runway at Silverton, the airplane apparently hit a spot of mud, ripping the nose wheel from the plane. The right landing gear also was ripped off during the accident and the propeller was damaged.

Accompanying Sarpalius were his son and another youth. There were no injuries.

"It was scary, but there wasn't a lot of damage," Sarpalius said. "The plane had slowed down quite a bit before it happened."

The trio were visiting Silverton on a hunting trip, he said.

According to Silverton law officers, the airplane had been rented from Tradewinds Airport. The accident occurred between 5:30 and 6:00 p.m.

Currier and Ives published more than 7,000 prints.

Owls Hosting Cotton Center In Season's Last Game

Silverton's Owls will be hosting Cotton Center Friday night in their last game of the season. Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m. All fans are urged to pack the stands to cheer the Owls to victory.

Friday is color day, and everyone is encouraged to wear red and white in support of the team.

The Owls lost to Southland Friday night, 42-16. Plagued with injuries, the Owls were unable to move the ball until the fourth quarter. Several costly turnovers resulted in scores for Southland. The Owls looked good offensively and defensively at times, but were unable to play consistently.

Starting without the services of Clay Schott and Ryan Smith, the Owls had inexperienced players in the lineup and players in positions with which they were not familiar. Smith did play some before the game ended.

Corey Robertson completed passes to Sloan Grabbe, Bryan Ramsey, Neal Edwards and Jamie Frizzell. Robertson also intercepted a pass early in the second quarter.

Early in the second half, the Owl defense played well and a sack from defensive lineman Robby McWaters helped the Owls take over possession on fourth down, but an interception by Southland stopped the drive.

With 7:20 left in the game, Edwards broke for a 42-yard touchdown. Grabbe's extra points kick was good.

On the next possession, Edwards scored again, this time on a 30-yard run, and Grabbe's PAT kick again was successful.

Friday night's game will be the last of the high school football careers of Seniors Corey Robertson and Sloan Grabbe. Even though the Owls didn't make the playoffs this year, this rebuilding season hasn't been all bad and the team deserves your support here Friday night.

Commodities To Be Given Friday

Commodities will be given to those qualifying and signed up for them beginning at 9:00 a.m. Friday, November 14, at the Silverton Community Center.

Please remember to bring a box or sack to carry home your commodities.

4-H Food Show Is November 20

The Briscoe County 4-H Food Show is set for Thursday, November 20, in the Silverton School Cafeteria.

Judging will begin at 4:30 p.m., with the public viewing and awards program following at 6:45 p.m.

Four-H food and nutrition project members have been meeting with volunteer leaders to learn about nutrition, food preparation, food buying, meal planning and food safety.

Four-H members are reminded to turn in their day's menu and food show recipe on an index card no later than noon, November 17, to Lynda Fogerson in the Extension Office. They are to bring the completed project record form to the Food Show.

Forty-four boys and girls are enrolled in this year's project. Leaders teaching the project are Gail Wyatt, Dorothy Martin, Lee O'Neal, Linda O'Neal, Patsy Towe, Nancy Wood, Paula Bomar and Vici Baird for the Silverton club. Valley club leaders are Juanita Gray, Cora Chestnut, Margie Pinkerton, Heather Gray and Vera Pinkerton.

Immunization Clinic Is November 21

An immunization clinic offering vaccines that give protection against several childhood diseases is scheduled for Friday, November 21, from 12:30 until 1:30 p.m. in the Silverton Elementary School. Protection offered is against polio, diphtheria, lock jaw (tetanus), whooping cough (pertussis), measles, rubella and mumps.

On November 1, the Texas Department of Health began to charge money to help with the cost of keeping the immunization clinics open. The amount of money charged will be based on family income and size, and the ability to pay.

Thousands of one finger piano pieces were written during the 19th century.

Mrs. Lillian Lindsey underwent surgery Tuesday at Hendrick Hospital in Abilene for repair of a broken hip.

J. D. Nance was transferred from Central Plains Hospital in Plainview to a Lubbock hospital Tuesday for an angiogram.

November 21, 1946—The district committee, composed of representatives of the schools at Claude, Vega, Groom, Happy, Estelline, Turkey, Flomot, Quitaque, Kress and Silverton (with Silverton and Flomot having no vote) ruled in Amarillo Saturday of last week, that the Silverton football team is ineligible for play in the District championship contest this year on the grounds that one boy who has been participating in games was not scholastically eligible. According to Coach Bailey and Superintendent Wm. F. Talley, the rule was laid down after 16 hours of deliberation and was considered a fair decision by all parties involved. The coach and superintendent both agreed that the decision was fair in view of the records brought to bear in the case. CONSERVATION RESERVE PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS MAY CHANGE

If you are planning to put land into the Conservation Reserve Program during the next signup, you should be aware of some changes being proposed by USDA. In past signups, we have been able to qualify most of the cropland in Briscoe County based on wind and water erosion; however, proposed changes in how eligibility is decided may make it much harder to qualify your farm for the program in the next signup. This could mean that some of the flatter soils, such as the Pullman soils above the caprock, may not qualify in the next signup.

Producers who have not planted their wheat this year because they anticipate putting their land in the CRP, should go ahead and get their wheat crop planted. If, by chance, their land is accepted in the next signup, the wheat can be used as a dead litter crop to seed native grass into. And, if their land is not accepted, they will have a crop already planted.

The changes, if inacted, will decide eligibility of a field based strictly on soil type and the soil's potential to erode. It will not take into account past crops or farming practices. While this may be a more equitable and fair method of determining eligibility, it could work a hardship on farmers who have not planted their wheat because they plan to put their land in the CRP.

Our advice is that you go ahead and get a crop planted just like there was no Conservation Reserve Program signup, and keep in touch with the Soil Conservation Service office and ASCS to find out the latest information. We will let you know if the changes will be made as soon as we hear something.

You can come by the Soil Conservation Service office in Silverton or call us at 823-2320.

Crop Team Wins Regional Contest

The West Texas State University collegiate crops team won the Southwest Regional Collegiate Crops Contest held at Oklahoma State University November 1. OSU placed second and Eastern Oklahoma State College placed third in the competition.

The competition was in three phases: (1) identification of 200 specimens of plants, seeds, weeds, crops or diseases; (2) seed analysis; and (3) grain grading (grains for commercial use). WTSU placed first in all three phases in the regional contest.

WTSU's David Mann, a senior history major from Los Angeles, was the overall winner of the competition, scoring 1785 out of a possible 1800. Mann scored 591 in seed analysis, 594 in identification, and a perfect 600 in commercial grading to place first in all three phases.

Patrick Weinheimer, a sophomore plant science major from Groom, placed second in the competition. He scored second in commercial grading and seed analysis and third in identification.

Bill Settle, a junior plant science major from Silverton, placed third overall. He was third high in commercial grading and seed analysis and fifth in identification.

Coby Kriegshauser, the team alternate, placed tenth overall, ranking ninth in seed analysis, eleventh in identification and thirteenth in commercial grading. Coby is a sophomore plant science major from Hereford.

The team will compete in the American Royal Collegiate Crops Contest in Kansas City November 18 and the Chicago Board of Trade Contest November 22.

FOR A CACTUS, SPINES ARE FINE

by Dick Hanna

All plants give off water, mostly through their leaves. In places that get lots of rain, this doesn't matter much—the plants can quickly get more water from the soil. But in the desert this loss of water would be a big problem for plants.

Cactuses, such as the giant saguaro (suh-WAHR-oh), have solved the problem by getting rid of their leaves. Over the ages, their leaves have gotten smaller and smaller—until they've become spines. But cactuses can still lose some water through their skins, especially when the wind blows. Spines help by sheltering a cactus' skin from the wind, and even more water is saved.

Yams or sweet potatoes — whichever you call them — are a delicious, nutritious fall vegetable which was a critically important food during the American Revolution and Civil War. History indicates that during the Revolutionary War, troops short on rations found they could live indefinitely on sweet potatoes. I remember Scarlett O'Hara's family existing on "yams" in "Gone With the Wind."

There are two types of sweet potatoes grown in the U. S. The Jersey type has a dry, mealy flesh, remains firm when cooked, and is less sweet than "yams."

The Southern sweet potatoes, called "yams", turn soft and moist when cooked and are sweet tasting. Neither variety of sweet potatoes is a true yam.

Sweet potatoes are one of the most all-around nutritious foods in the world. The carbohydrate, protein, mineral and vitamin contents of sweet potatoes make them a nearly balanced food. One medium-sized, boiled, peeled sweet potato contains 141 calor-

Texas' First 'Scientists' Described In Texas Almanac

Texas didn't have any prehistoric Albert Einsteins or Jonas Salks. But it had plenty of "scientists" among the ranks of the Indians that lived within the state's borders.

That's the opinion of Mike Kingston, editor of the Texas Almanac. In the article in the 1986-87 Texas Almanac, Science in Early Texas, Kingston points out that like all early people, prehistoric Texans had well-developed senses of curiosity. "And that's really the beginning of science," Kingston notes. "First people want to know how and why something works and then how it can be controlled."

Evidence of this curiosity abounds, the Almanac editor asserts. The ancient atlatl, or throwing stick used to propel spears, required some understanding of physics. As a consequence, early man mechanically enhanced the strength of his arm.

Through experience in anatomy, the first Texans learned which parts of an animal were nutritious, and a primitive study of botany told them which plants were edible, which were poisonous and which had medicinal value. This early practice of science had a direct and immediate use, Kingston argues.

Perhaps the best examples of observation come in the rock art and architecture of dwellings left by early inhabitants. There are drawings in at least two rock shelters that some astronomers think are attempts to record the supernova that created the Crab Nebula in 1054 A.D. If so, the Texas sky watchers were ahead of their European counterparts, who did not record the event, though Chinese astronomers did.

Along the Rio Grande, archaeologists from Texas A&M University discovered a painting that they think is a record of a previous visit of Halley's comet or some similar phenomenon.

"The sky was important to all ancient peoples. From it they learned when to plant their crops, and religious ceremonies were based on the position of heavenly bodies, so they gave astronomical observations careful attention," Kingston says. In East Texas, there is some evidence that the ancient Caddoes built their houses with the doors positioned to catch the first rays of the summer and winter solstices.

While reviewing the development of science in Texas through the 19th century for the Almanac article, Kingston also notes that one of the most unheralded figures in the state's history is a scientist, Mark Francis of Texas A&M. "He developed an inoculation against Texas Fever and created a dip to kill the tick that carried the disease. With these contributions, Texas cattlemen could upgrade their herds with imported cattle that previously would have died from the fever," Kingston explains.

Why does the current Almanac include a history of science in early Texas? Today we have ambitions to become a high-tech industrial state and a scientific research center, Kingston points out. "If we achieve that goal, we need to know how we got there.

Junior Girl Scouts, Leader Participate In Various Activities

October 6, Mrs. Lois Hill took Beginner Troop Camper Course at the Girl Scout Service Center in Lubbock, and October 10-11 she took the rest of the camper course at Camp Rio Blanco near Crosbyton. Mrs. Hill learned to start a campfire, cook on a campfire in the rain, build a fire in a fireplace and cook in the fireplace, learned to tie different kinds of knots and to pitch a tent.

And this history is a small step in that direction."

The Texas Almanac is available at the Briscoe County News in Silverton. The book sells for $8.95 plus tax in paperback.

October 13, Mrs. Hill took Staci Hill, Christi McWaters, Christina Stephens, Kara Kingery and LaToya Baker to Junior Jungle Junket at Camp Rio Blanco. The girls learned how to make a compass, how to tie different kinds of knots, environmental awareness and are doing a landfill project. They will receive a badge when the landfill project is finished. After Junior Jungle Junket, the group drove to Silver Falls for a hike.

Brannon Receives National Honor

W. G. (Butch) Brannon of Abilene, son of Mrs. Farris Martin of Roscoe and Fred Brannon of Silverton, has been selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1986.

In receiving this distinctive honor, Brannon joins an elite group of young men in the United States who have demonstrated their excellence in professional endeavors and civic activities. They work diligently to make their communities, as well as their country, better places in which to live, and deserve recognition for their outstanding achievements.

A former student in the Silverton Schools, he was graduated from Hedley High School and has earned his bachelor of science degree in nursing. He is a nursing supervisor at Hendrick Hospital in Abilene.

November 8, Mrs. Hill took Staci Hill, LaToya Baker and Christina Stephens to Junior Workshop at the Girl Scout House in Plainview. They learned about stars and planet constellations, what floats in salt water and fresh water, grew crystals, observed waves in motion and some other science projects. They received their Science Sleuth badges.

Pigs Have Been Around a Long Time

The next time you make jokes about pigs, remember, they have been around 36 million years, and according to Ranger Rick magazine, they are very useful animals. Not only can their meat be eaten and made into bacon but pig skin is used for footballs, saddles, jackets and to treat people with severe burns. Chemicals produced from pigs are used to treat humans who suffer from diabetes, and pig heart valves are used to replace human heart valves.

Some fish, such as groupers and flatfish, are able to change color to match the background on which they are lying.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock sent checks totaling $104.6 million in local sales tax to 1,033 cities that levy the one percent city tax, and said the 1986 payments to date were down 1.7 percent as compared to the payments to date in November of last year.

Houston's check was the largest—$16.1 million—bringing total payments in 1986 to $132.9 million, down five percent from last year. Dallas' payment was $12.7 million for a 1986 total of $99.2 million, a five percent decrease from 1985.

Texas Capital Once Was In Louisiana

Here's a quick Texas trivia quiz: What former capital of Texas was located in neither present-day Texas nor Mexico?

It was Los Adaes, located near Robeline, Louisiana. "And the Louisianans have done a superb job preserving the site," says Mike Kingston, editor of the 1986-87 Texas Almanac.

The current Almanac presents a feature article on this former state capital that few Texans associate with the state's history. But from 1721 to 1773, it served as a frontier capital of the Spanish province of Texas.

"Very little of present-day Texas was developed at the time," Kingston explains. "And the capital was located near a French fort at Natchitoches to give the Spanish a presence in the area."

The Almanac recounts the establishment of a mission at the site in 1716 to serve the Adaes tribe of the Caddo Indians. The French expelled a small Spanish garrison in 1719, but the mission and a presidio were re-established by the Marquis de Aguayo in 1721.

"Trade between the French and Spanish settlers was forbidden," the Almanac editor notes. "But archaeological excavations have found that this wasn't enforced. Both English and French artifacts, as well as Indian, have been found in the remains of the dwellings at the site." Spanish trade policy required settlers to buy only goods imported at Veracruz and transported overland to Los Adaes, which skyrocketed the prices. So the Spanish settlers did what all consumers do naturally: They looked for the best deal they could get, and that was from French traders.

Even after the French ceded the Louisiana Territory to Spain in the early 1760s, Los Adaes remained the capital of Texas. In 1773, the capital finally was moved to San Antonio.

Residents of Robeline have preserved the site since the 1930s, and the State of Louisiana has built an archaeological laboratory on the site. Further development is planned when funds are available. In 1986, the U. S. Department of Interior gave the site official status as a National Historic Landmark.

"Los Adaes served as a Texas capital much longer than more venerated sites at Washington-on-the-Brazos, Velasco, Columbia or Houston," Kingston points out. "It deserves a more prominent place in the state's history."

The 1986-87 Texas Almanac is available at the Briscoe County News in Silverton, in paperback for $8.95 plus tax.

Short Memories

Most butterflies have short memories. According to International Wildlife magazine, a scientist at the University of Colorado found that butterflies feed repeatedly from the same flower species because it takes too long to learn their way around new ones. If they venture to a new flower, then return to the old one, they must relearn the path to the nectar.

Health Problems Invade the Wealthy Neighborhoods

Just because you live in a wealthy neighborhood, it doesn't mean you are immune from health problems caused by toxic waste. According to International Wildlife magazine, a study by the Council on Economic Priorities found that middle-income neighborhoods, not the poorest neighborhoods, have the highest levels of toxic waste and related cancer deaths. One of the worst places to live is Short Hills, New Jersey, with an average household income of $91,000. The best place is probably Beverly Hills, California, which has virtually no toxic waste.

Turtles Deserve Timid Reputation

Most turtles deserve their timid reputations, hastily withdrawing their heads, feet and tails into their shells at the slightest sign of danger. But, according to National Wildlife magazine, this act of cowardice has paid off. While more aggressive reptiles, such as dinosaurs, have died out, turtles have thrived for some 250 million years on every continent but Antarctica. Maybe the dinosaurs would still be with us today, if they, like the turtles, had carried their homes with them.

It used to be that a picture like this could only mean harvest time — big orange pumpkins, shiny red apples, colorful stalks of Indian corn. And, of course, a turkey in the pantry.

But what about today? You can buy apples almost any time. Pumpkins are available in a can twelve months of the year. And you can buy a frozen turkey as easily in July as in November.

We Americans take for granted what was a real treat in our parent's time. But in the midst of this material plenty, there is a danger of spiritual famine. To keep the proper perspective, to appreciate the gifts of life to the fullest we need the Church and the story it has to tell us.

Maybe you can't be a pioneer — a Pilgrim. But you can follow your forefathers' example at Plymouth that first November. You can utter genuine thanks in the church of your choice.

THE CHURCH
FOR ALL ...
... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The BACKYARD NATURALIST™

By Craig Tufts, National Wildlife Federation

MOCKINGBIRDS MAKE FRIENDS AND ENEMIES

Mockingbirds are amazing. Virtually no other familiar bird sings such an incredibly varied song so noisily at such frequent intervals. Surely no other bird defends its territory more aggressively.

Mockingbirds can inspire love, awe, anger—and sometimes down-right belligerence. Their antics have long been known in the South. However, over the past 30 or 40 years, northerners too have become well acquainted with “mockers” as the birds have pushed north (as far as New Hampshire, Maine and southern Canada). Apparently they’ve been attracted by an increasing abundance of suburban berry-bearing shrubbery. They’ve become a delight and/or an aggravation to a whole new audience.

Mockingbirds definitely do things their own way. Most birds confine their territory-marking to breeding seasons, usually when the male delineates the periphery of “his” chunk of earth by moving from song perch to song perch and vocalizing. Not so among mockingbirds. A female as well as a male will defend a separate winter territory against raids on staked-out food supplies such as berries and other fruits. If your bird feeder happens to lie within a mockingbird’s territory, even though a mockingbird generally will not use a seed feeder, you can expect to see other birds chased off, even physically attacked.

Such assertive behavior can be especially distressing to you if you’re trying to attract, feed and house bluebirds in an effort to increase the bluebird population. In late fall, both bluebirds and mockingbirds shift their diets from insects to fruit. Encourage bluebirds to remain in your yard through the winter by stocking an empty nest box with raisins and currants. The bluebirds will investigate the box and discover the food. The mockingbirds will likely never catch on that a favorite food is inside.

On the plus side of mockingbird behavior is the highly entertaining performances they can put on—in search of food, in defense of their territory, or during courtship. You can’t dispute the charm of their versatile song—no matter how loud and long. And you can’t help being amused when you see a mockingbird “wing-flashing.” It goes into its act on the ground, stretching its wings forward in a stuttering manner. It’s thought—though not proven—that on a sunny day the shadow of the fluttering wings may spook insects out of the grass. At any rate, when the bird spots a bug, it races roadrunner-fashion and/or flutters into the air to grab a flushed insect.

For mockingbirds all winter long, plant some of the fruit-bearing trees and shrubs that they prefer: wild grape, dogwoods, viburnums, hollies, mistletoe or junipers. Multiflora rose is, in many areas, the mainstay of the mockingbird’s winter diet. But it matches the mockingbird in aggressiveness and, in most areas, has been labeled a pest. Like the mockingbird, it has its downside, but both the mocker and the multiflora may deserve a place in your backyard wildlife habitat.

Five Days Of Destiny In Texas

What were the five most important days in Texas history? “Obviously, the battle of San Jacinto, April 21, 1836, is the most important. That’s what this year’s Sesquicentennial celebration is all about,” says Mike Kingston, editor of the Texas Almanac. The Texas army’s victory over Santa Anna and his Mexican troops affirmed the Independence from Mexico that had been declared at Washington-on-the-Brazos just six weeks before. “Without that victory,” Kingston explains, “The massacres at Goliad and the Alamo would have been just forgotten footnotes in Mexican history.”

But in the 1986-87 Texas Almanac, the editor selected four other days on which events had substantial impacts on national and world history. Some of these are debatable, says the editor. “But the point of selecting the days is to generate some thought about what events are important in Texas history and why.”

Two of the other days selected by Kingston, after writing a short history of the state for the current Almanac, are January 10, 1901 and November 22, 1963.

In 1901, Kingston explains, the discovery of Spindletop near Beaumont moved Texas and the rest of the world into the oil age. “That discovery and subsequent ones made available a cheap and plentiful supply of energy that unleashed tremendous industrial growth. Certainly Texas would not have been the same without Spindletop,” Kingston says.

The Kennedy assassination in 1963 changed the face of national and state politics for a generation, Kingston argues.

The other two days? You have to read the book.

But what about days that were left out? “The contribution of the cattleman should have been recognized,” the Almanac editor confesses. “But there is no single day that can be pointed to. Cattle drives began with the Spanish ranchers moving herds to the Mississippi River in the 18th century. And the major impact on the state’s economy came with the great drives to Kansas and Missouri after the Civil War. But there is no single day to pinpoint as the beginning of this industry.”

Kingston also points out that the man who supported the state’s economy long before either the cattleman or the oilman should have been recognized. That was the cotton farmer. “Almost any day from the first year Stephen F. Austin’s colonists arrived to well into the 20th century could have been set aside for this farmer. It was not until the 1920s that the value of either oil or cattle surpassed that of cotton in the state’s economy,” Kingston says. “That fellow has never got the attention he deserves in Texas history.”

The Texas Almanac can be purchased from the Briscoe County News in Silverton, in paperback for $8.95 plus tax.

“A man must have a certain amount of intelligent ignorance to get anywhere.”
