The critical temperature for dairy cows has been found to be 80 degrees Fahrenheit. At temperatures much above this, milk production, body weight and feed consumption decline. This emphasis the fact that comfort may be as important in hot weather as proper feeding and milking practices.

"Shade is the best cooling device that dairymen can economically provide for their herds, along with plenty of cool water, of course," says Arch Meeka, extension dairy specialist.

A few feed sacks stretched over a pole frame large enough to shade the water troughs will keep water as much as 20 degrees cooler than unshaded water. It is easy to see that shade and cool water together will go a long way toward putting more milk in your cooler, and more money in your pocket.

Milo is replacing corn in poultry feeds. Since 1950 the use of milo in poultry feeds has increased rapidly. Now milo makes up about 50-75% of the grain in poultry rations.

It is just as good as corn in most respects and better even, in some. Milo has 2% more protein than corn and in most places it costs less, too.

The only aspect in which milo falls below is its coloring value. Because it does not have enough yellow pigmentation it fails to add the rich yellow color desired in egg yolks and in the shanks of broilers.

About 2 1-2-5% alfalfa meal or corn gluten meal with 15-20% corn in the grain ration will put enough yellow color in yolks and fats.

Why not use a cheaper feed, its just as good?

Several grasses of the bluestem group have been introduced and grown in Texas under trial and observation as warm-season perennial forage plants, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist.

Eight of the more important grasses in the group are: Angleton grass, Medio bluestem, Pretoria 90 bluestem, Gordo bluestem, Kleberg bluestem, Caucasian bluestem, Australian bluestem and K. R. bluestem. These grasses are the subject of a miscellaneous publication written by Trew entitled, "Introduced Bluestem Grasses for Cultivated Pastures," and released by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The publication gives a description of each grass, where it is adapted, how to establish each, and management after establishment. Also included is a section on how to determine the pounds of pure live seed in a sack when you know how many pounds of seed is required to plant an acre.

The publication has a table which shows the pounds of hay cut from several of the grasses at four different locations in East and South Texas.

For a copy of the bulletin, come by the county agent's office.

farm and city are rapidly disappearing. The old distinctions between rural and city are disappearing, says Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist. Rural on-farm people now outnumber farm people by a ratio of 5 to 3 and it appears certain that more non-farm people will live in the rural areas in the future.

Herbicide sprays for brush and weed control should be applied when wind speed is 10 miles per hour or less.

ONE OF THE 7 BIG BESTS CHEVROLET GIVES YOU OVER ANY CAR IN ITS FIELD

Take it, not from us, but from official results of this year's Mobilgas Economy Run: Chevy's pennypinching 6 delivers the most miles per gallon in its field. For a pair of these Chevrolet sixes with Powerglide walked away with the first two places in their class, getting the best mpg figure—a whopping 22.38—of any full-size car. And here are more expert, impartial opinions and on-the-record facts backing us up on Chevy's other six bests:

BEST TRADE-IN

Check the figures in any N.A.D.A.* Guide Book. Chevrolet used car prices last year averaged up to $123 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

BEST STYLE

It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "Chevrolet establishes a new high in daring styling."

BEST BRAKES

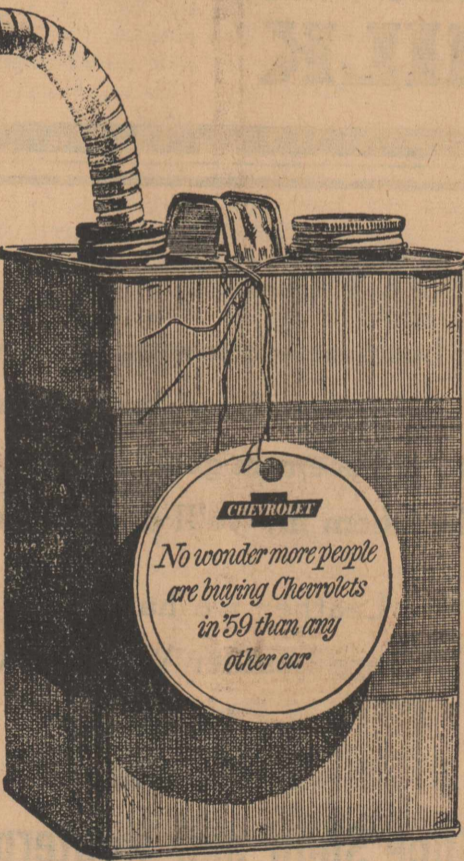

In direct competitive tests of repeated stops from highway speeds, conducted by NASCAR†, Chevrolet out-stopped both of the other leading low-priced cars—and why not: Chevy brakes are far larger, built with bonded linings, to help lengthen brake life by as much as 66%.

BEST ROOM

Official dimensions reported to A.M.A.‡ make this clear. For example, Chevy front seat hip room is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars.

BEST ENGINE

Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "Indeed this device is surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

BEST RIDE

MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself, instantly. And your Chevrolet dealer can tell you about a long list of other advantages besides these 7 big ones!

'As It Looks From Here' Private Enterprise

Omar Burleson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C.—Perhaps our nation has been more health conscious than at the present time. Some diseases, such as smallpox and tuberculosis, which at one time took a fearful toll of lives, have now been practically eliminated by medical science.

As some of the older diseases are eliminated, seemingly new ones appear which were unheard of a few years ago. It is entirely possible some may have existed, but were not recognized for what they were.

Cancer continues to be one of the top killers. It strikes 450,000 Americans every year. It is estimated that unless prevention or cure is found, 40 million men, women and children now living will be stricken by cancer, and 26 million of them will die. It is the number 2 killer in the Nation.

Aside from the cost in human lives, the 700,000 cancer cases under treatment at any given time are estimated to cost $300 million in hospital bills each year. This, added to the cost of lost wages and production, becomes a staggering figure.

At the present time there is being spent nearly one hundred times as much on military research as that spent on cancer research.

Money alone will not buy a cure for cancer, but without adequate funds to provide research facilities and new experiments for the discovery and treatment of cancer, the disease will remain a dread to hundreds of thousands of people.

Tremendous gains have been made in discovering the causes of cancer, in detecting early stages, and in its treatment. Break-throughs appear near, according to some of the experts, in treating several types of cancer. About twenty drugs are already in use and proving effective against thirty forms of cancer for periods ranging from weeks to several years.

Included in the President's budget is $75 million for cancer studies and research. Some in the Congress are insisting this be increased. As a matter of fact, the House of Representatives reduced other items and added $8 million to the President's figure. It is understood that the Senate may possibly increase this sum to over $100 million.

There is a question as to whether vast new sums of money pumped into cancer research can be used effectively. If used effectively, it would provide greater facilities and equipment for experimental work; train more people through fellowships; obtain more qualified

Gaining In England

"Britain's 13-year-old experiment in socialism, it now appears, is being written off as a failure. Private enterprise emerges stronger than ever."

Thus speaks U. S. News & World Report in a detailed feature article. These and other such findings come from highly authoritative sources, including a parliamentary committee, industrial and management organizations and other experts. Matters have been reached the point where Labor Party, which carried the banner of full socialism for so long, is changing its stand.

In general terms, the magazine sums up certain facts that have emerged. One is that efficiency in the nationalized industries has tended to be lower than in comparable private industries. Another is that nationalized enterprises have higher running costs, for the reason that their managers aren't under the same pressure to keep in the black as are private enterprise managers; the government picks up the tab for losses. A third is that prices in nationalized industries are kept artificially low for political reasons, bear no relationship to costs, and personnel through better salaries; build more laboratories; increase grants to universities and hospitals; and boost contracts to pharmaceutical and other industries.

To be effective and practical, common sense must be applied by those charged with administering any program, but it does take money.

the result is higher taxes. And, surprising as it may seem to some, labor relations have been no better in nationalized enterprise than in private enterprise, and in certain fields they have been much worse.

As a specific example, U. S. News describes what has happened in coal, one of the basic enterprises socialized by the Labor Party between 1946 and 1951. More than a billion dollars has been poured into the mines to modernize and maintain them and the coal labor force has been increased by 11,000. Yet the mines produced less coal in 1957 than in 1951. There have been constant deficits, amounting to $75 million over a 10-year period. And labor troubles have been rampant, causing huge production losses.

On the other hand the steel industry—which was returned to private hands after a brief period of state ownership—provides what U. S. News terms "a striking contrast." Production has greatly expanded, a profit has been earned and prices have been reduced. Wages are high by British standards and labor relations have been excellent.

Other socialized enterprises have had a melancholy history. The Commission which operates railroads and other commercial transportation showed a $425 million deficit in the 1947-57 period. British Overseas Airways Corporation dropped $75 million. The government-owned cable and wireless service just managed to break even. And the deficits don't include government assistance for capital investment programs. Meanwhile, private enterprises have been prospering, have paid their own way, have financed expansion and improvement out of earnings and by private investment, and, as a rule, give better service at lower cost.

This, in brief outline, is why socialism has produced a vast amount of expensive disillusionment in England. The effects promise to be far-reaching indeed. The U. S. News article ends: "One result is that political lines are being redrawn.

"In effect, more and better capitalism is the new campaign slogan of Britain's Labor Party. Old-fashioned socialism is quietly being ditched."

MY DADDY SAYS...

"My Daddy says that the electricity that lights our house comes from the Electric Cooperative and that if it hadn't been for the Cooperative we might still be using a kerosene lamp."

That's right young lady. Twenty years ago your Dad and some of his neighbors got together and borrowed money to build their own lines. They are paying the money back with interest. During the drought the payments were sometimes hard to make but they never missed a one. When you're old enough to have your own farm, remember the electrical system wasn't given to you. You are paying your own way with interest. It's a wonderful story of rural people working together to make a better life with Rural Electrification.

Christian Science Service Sunday

1001 Crane St. Sweetwater

The spiritual power of Christ Jesus' teachings and example will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Sacrament."

One of the key statements of Jesus to be read from the Bible is this from John (6:63): "It is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life."

Correlative citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include (25:26-31): "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

The Golden Text is from II Corinthians (13:14): "The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all."

Chains of Misconception

More than three hundred people from all walks of life recently applied a scientific yardstick to the knotty problems of health care for the aged at a Salt Lake City conference. Their conclusion was that private enterprise can handle the job.

A spokesman for the health insurance industry told of the progress that has been made in this field—6 million people over 65 are now covered under voluntary programs, and coverage is expected to increase significantly during the next few years.

Dr. Louis M. Orr, president-elect of the American Medical Association, presented a program designed to "break the chains of misconception" about the nation's aging population. He pointed out that a person at 65 has before him years of creativity and activity, provided he is giving the opportunity; that the vast majority of our 15 million old people enjoy reasonably good health and are not all in dire need of medical care; that the needs of these senior citizens are far needs, in that they include occupational, economic, social and psychological factors; that the physicians of the country have taken an active interest in the needs of the aged, and are concerned with helping to provide low-cost health insurance for those who need it; that medicine's program will meet the health needs of the aged while preserving the dignity and freedom of the individual, and that "our effectiveness in meeting the challenges of this new world of aging will depend ultimately on our understanding of its magnitude."

Dr. Orr added: "Any government plan would be compulsory, financially back-breaking, subject to political pressure, and hopelessly snarled in red tape." This is what we must avoid—and what we can if private enterprise, in all the many areas concerned, is permitted and encouraged to do the necessary job.

Mr. and Mrs. Kyle Martin of Anson and Dr. Jack Callan of Abilene visited Dr. and Mrs. C. U. Callan Sunday.

CHURCH GOVERNMENT

Let us think about the simple God-given system of church government described in the Bible.

New Testament churches were simply the Christians in given localities who met to worship in their own communities and who were governed by their own elders. Each congregation was called a church and each was governed exactly alike—by QUALIFIED MEN WHO WERE APPOINTED FOR LIFE TO OVERSEE THE CONGREGATION (1 Tim. 3:1-7; Acts 20:28). The Bible calls these men 'elders', 'bishops', 'overseers' and 'pastors' (Titus 1:5, 7; Acts 20:17, 28; Eph. 4:11). Their work was to oversee the local congregation as shepherds oversee a flock.

The position and work of elders must not be confused with the position and work of the deacons. Deacons were "servants" (1 Tim. 3:8-13), who could be given duties but who had no authority to oversee the flock. Preachers were simply proclaimers of the gospel and in no instance was the preacher called "the pastor". All in the congregation were under the authority of Christ, and overseen by the elders (bishops) who are subject to Christ and who were to uphold the Word and to use it in their work.

Each congregation was independent of all other congregations. Each group of elders had authority only over the one congregation where they worshipped. No bishop had authority over a fellow bishop nor was there a distinction between elders and bishops. No group of elders had authority over a second congregation that had bishops. There was plurality of elders in each congregation (Acts 14:23).

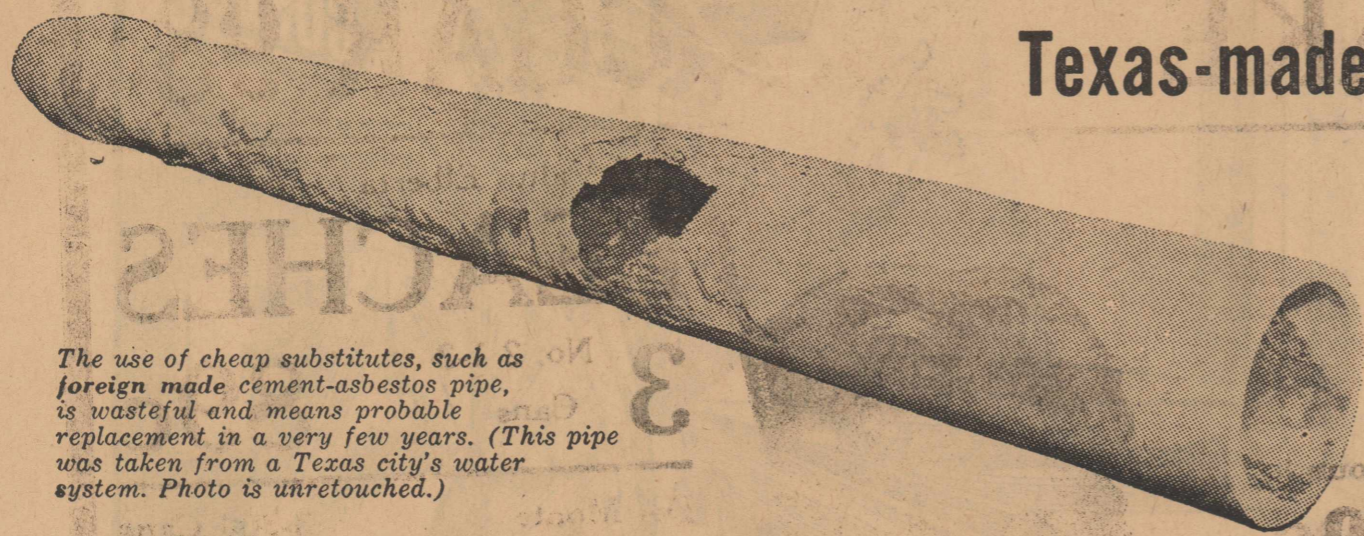

The New Testament church was not governed by tier of church dignitaries even having authority over another below or by man or a group of men ruling over several congregations. Such systems developed after the days of the New Testament. If we are going back to the Bible let us go all the way back to the simple God-given system of church government. (D. H.)

ROTAN, TEXAS

Mr. Tax-payer:

Which of these pipes will your city use?

Texas-made Lone Star cast iron pressure pipe will last over a hundred years!

The use of cheap substitutes, such as foreign made cement-asbestos pipe, is wasteful and means probable replacement in a very few years. (This pipe was taken from a Texas city's water system. Photo is unretouched.)

Officials of most Texas municipalities know that when they buy and install cast iron pipe they are helping to support the American economy and the high standard of living we all enjoy. They are buying products made in America for use by Americans. They are not fooled by the slightly lower initial cost of foreign goods because they realize that this "paper savings" will be more than offset by the cost of excessive maintenance.

Domestic cast iron pressure pipe is time-honored, centuries-proved, and is backed by strong, resourceful American companies that will be in business for years on end to guarantee their product.

Really, who backs foreign-made pipe? Who answers for it when it fails? To whom will the few all-advised pipe-buyers look for the answers to these questions when trouble develops? Were they penny wise and pound foolish?

Take a look at some of these important factors back of the initial price tag, then pick up the telephone and call the first city official you think of and tell him you appreciate his good judgment in buying American-made cast iron pipe with your tax dollars. If he has been buying Lone Star pipe, tell him that we, too, appreciate the business!

TO MY NEIGHBORS AND FRIENDS:

Since I am leaving here in a few days for Lebanon and other Middle East countries, I wish to take this opportunity to thank everyone in the surrounding territory for your friendship. It has been a real pleasure to live among you, the best people on earth. You have been good to me and mine, and I have enjoyed living among and doing business and rearing my family here. I appreciate you and please treat my family as you have me, in my absence, during my visit to the Old Country with other American-Lebanese to hold convention among these people and thereby create a better feeling and understanding between them and the United States, which is badly needed at this time in order to fight the danger of Communism and show them our way of life. These meetings over seas has the blessings and approval of U. S. State Department. I am honored to represent the Southern Federation of American-Lebanese Clubs during this visit, and I shall take with me your friendly spirit and good feelings.

Please remember me in your prayers and I shall do likewise, during my visit to the Holy Land visit in August. Again thanks and may God bless you all. Sincerely, Cecil Lotief.

Corner on Cotton

BY BOB COLLINS

There have been some fairly small sales of Russian cotton to Europeans at a price below even Mexican growths... this really can cause you concern if you project the incident a little... Russia sold some Strict Middling 1-1/16" for October-December delivery at about 26 1/2 cents per pound... this is considerably under the U. S. price even with the eight cents subsidy... now suppose that Russia decides to really upset the cotton market in her economic war... subsidy won't make any difference since the Russian economic system doesn't have to recognize the cost of producing cotton and can throw the fiber on the market at any price that suits the Reds... fortunately Russia's customers are a little suspicious... as well they may be... look what happened to some of Red China's customers recently: after sales were made at very low prices, the shipments just stopped and left the buyers holding the bag... nobody seems to know why, but it won't help either Red China or Russia to gain contented customers; however, the low prices of the Red's cotton will cause lots of buyers to take chances on delivery... one cheery note, though, some European spinners are willing to pay a little higher price just to get the traditional assets of doing business with American cotton shippers: continuity and reliability of supply... assets, incidentally, that our government programs often-times place in jeopardy.

Farm Land Up

Value of farm land topped all records in March... across the country farm real estate now averages $108 per acre and that's up eight per cent over March, 1958... the figure of $108 per acre breaks down to an average price of $83 for land... $25 for buildings.

Mexican Plantings

Cotton plantings in Mexico are down considerably from the 2.5 million acres of 1958... cause is tight credit brought on by declining prices... no estimate on total '59 acreage yet... we'll guess the Mexican production will be down 30 per cent.

Mills Position Good

U. S. cotton mills now have best profit margin in over two years... spread between cloth selling prices and raw cotton costs was 27.18 cents a pound in April... one year ago it was 22.75.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—I am a service-disabled veteran drawing extra compensation because I have a 17-year-old son. He has just enlisted in the Marines. Will the extra payments continue, since he has not yet reached age 18?

A—The extra payments may not be continued after he joins the Marines. Once your son is in service, he can no longer be considered a legal member of your household for purposes of the extra compensation payments.

Q—I have arranged to leave my GI life insurance dividends on credit with the VA. Will I continue to get premium-due notices?

A—Yes. Dividend credits are used only to prevent lapse of a policy. Must I inform the former beneficiaries of my action?

A—No. You have the right to change beneficiaries at any time, without their consent or knowledge.

Q—I am going to school quarter-time under the Korean GI Bill. At what rate am I using up my GI training settlement?

A—VA considers that you are using your training entitlement at quarter time rate. For example, if your course lasts for a year, you will have used up one-quarter of a year's entitlement, or three months.

Nothing can live without food, suitable temperature and an appropriate amount of moisture. This applies to man, animals, fish—and plants.

It also applies to bacteria. The range of needs for bacteria is slim, but when they are present bacteria can be very prolific, multiplying themselves by the millions in mere minutes.

That is why food poisoning is so much more common in warm weather—and why you need to be especially careful now about preparing food and storing it.

The main rule to remember is that bacteria which are apt to cause food poisoning thrive best in lukewarm foods.

Thus if you make it a hard-fast habit to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold, the chances of bacteria getting a foothold are slim.

However, there are certain foods that have proven to be more susceptible to bacteria's growth and the resulting food poisoning conditions.

For instance, egg and milk mixtures including custards and meats, either in salads or sandwiches, and potato salad—one of the popular picnic foods—are often quickly suspected when food infections occur in summer.

Making sandwiches and wrapping them in wax paper to let stand for hours before eating is just asking for trouble. So keep them well refrigerated.

Potato salad can give lots of trouble. The best way to avoid it is to chill all the ingredients before mixing, and then store the salad in SHALLOW containers in the refrigerator. Deep bowls retain the room temperatures in the center portions.

Everyone loves a picnic. Enjoy them, but a portable ice box and a thermos bottle are musts if you are going to minimize the chance of summer food poisonings.

4-Hers Aim For Top Quality Crops

Scientific agriculture is widely practiced today to produce both quality and quantity crops. Under the direction of the State Extension Service, 4-H Club members are learning modern farming techniques employed in soil and water conservation, and in growing and marketing crops.

By participating in these projects, rural youth put into practice the latest methods recommended by the USDA and leading industrial agricultural researchers. Throughout the state hundreds of farms have been improved and incomes increased as a result of 4-H'ers carrying out the objectives of these programs.

Incentive awards are offered by leading business firms in recognition of outstanding achievement. After demonstrating ability in their farm projects, 4-H boys and girls look forward to winning the top state award, an all-expense paid trip to the 38th National 4-H Congress at the Conrad Hilton hotel, Chicago.

Members receiving the state award then become eligible for a national 4-H college scholarship worth $400. Recipients will be announced during the Congress, Nov. 29 to Dec. 3.
