On Baird Campuses

Baird's luck at the Cisco game was poor. There must be a jinx on winning first games, but it wasn't as bad as all that, only a 6-0 defeat. The Bears promise to go to town this week, the town being Woodson, to be specific, and the occasion? The first regular football game of the season. All we can say is "go to it gang, its all yours."

Maybe they're too young to know about jinxes but the junior football squad took off honors at Clyde, Tuesday. Not being common, you know, but the cubs pinned the pups ears back in a 20-0 score.

The Bears Den is to be finished by the twenty second of next month so they say, and they ought to know, for this time the "they" is former Commissioner Hammans. Immediately after the Athletic field is completed work will begin on the gymnasium.

The High School Pep Squad organize last week with 60 members. The girls are under the leadership of Loyce Bell, Ellen Nunally, and Wyoma King. The Uniforms will be red flannel military dresses. Miss Lourie, sponsor of the "Yippee" squad says that the organization will not disband at the end of the season as it has heretofore but will continue as a girls social club. By the way the organization is now known as "The Red Battalion."

Not to be out done the Grammar school has organized a pep squad to match that of their big sisters for energy and school spirit. The leaders of the younger set are Betty Jane Estes, Elise Adams, and Iva Dell Mitchell. Patty Estes is the president and Miss Buster is sponsor.

The seventh grade Literary club got under way last week with the following officers: President, Billy G. Hatchell; Vice-President, Eugene Swinson and Secretary, Patty Estes.

F. F. A. Club Elect Officers

The F. F. A. Club had a meeting Monday night, Sept 27th, and elected the following officers:

President, Richard Windham
Vice-President, Mill McCoy
Treasurer, Grover Wiley
Reporter, John Willis McGee

Historian, Bob Austin.

The club is going to send Richard Windham and Carleton Gillet to the Kansas City Stock Show Oct. 17.

Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4 to 9

Next week is Fire Prevention Week and we trust all citizens of Baird will cooperate with Mayor H. Schwartz, C. D. Jones, fire marshal and the City Council in their efforts to prevent fires in stressing safety practice in dealing in things that will cause or promote fire likely to cause death or the destruction of property.

Winter is just around the corner and chimney's flues and fireplaces should be cleaned and put in order before they are put in use, when the weather turns cold. All stoves and open fireplaces should be screened. Matches should be kept in a safe place, out of reach of small children. Kerosene stoves and lamps should be properly cleaned. Kerosene and gasoline should not be used to kindle fire. All rubbish about the house and premises should be cleaned away and burned.

Baird Girls Make A C C Pep Organization

Beryl Owens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Owens formerly of Baird; Frances Mayfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Mayfield and Maxine Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Williams, both of Baird, were admitted to membership in the Kitten Klub, women's pep organization of Abilene Christian College, in competitive tryouts Wednesday of last week.

All three students are entered in Abilene Christian College for the session 1937-38 and were selected among thirty-three women students to fill out the Kitten Klub's annual quotient of eighty. Applicants were judged according to general appearance, personality and ability to cooperate in unison drill.

New Pool For Area North of Baird Looms

Opening of a new pool, 12 miles north of Baird, just across the Shackelford county line, is indicated with reported swabbing of 3 barrels hourly from the J. D. Meredith, No. 1, J. H. Grimes.

It had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid in seven feet of lime pay to a total of 1,210 feet. It is about three and a half miles from nearest production and is located 1,600 feet from the south and 1,700 feet from the west line of section 82-12-T&P survey.

This is a rank wildcat and opens a new field in the Baird area. Mr. Meredith and associates have considerable acreage in this area and are planning several other tests.

To Whom It May Concern

For the past few days complaints have been made that trash and cans are being dumped in places in and about Baird. Your attention is called that the City has a dumping place and is the only place to which all matter to be disposed of and should be hauled. Some three years ago at a great expense to the City of Baird, the Dump Ground was put in such condition and prepared for each and every one whose duty it is to dispose of all matters necessary to be disposed of and keep our town in a sanitary condition.

We appealed to you at this time. We appeal to you again, to help us who are serving you and doing all that is possible for us to do for the benefit of each person to help keep the wolf from your door.

We trust this appeal is not in vain; that you will consider it and realize it is only meant to safe guard yourself and the entire Community.

Sincerely,
H. SCHWARTZ, Mayor
W. L. BOWLUS

A novel contest for amateur photographers which reverses the usual order of such competition is announced by Lone Star Gas System in an advertisement appearing in this issue. Instead of asking the contestant to buy something or write an essay about a product, the gas company announces that it wants to buy from its customers one hundred good photographs of gas heating equipment.

"There is nothing to buy, no letters to write, in this contest," the company explains in announcing the contest which opens October 11 and will close December 18. "Your gas company and national manufacturers of heating appliances wish to obtain photos or snapshots illustrating various types of gas heating equipment used in the homes of this section. We need one hundred good photos or snapshots of home interiors that can be used to illustrate gas heating appliances. We want to buy these 100 photos from our gas customers and will pay $10 each for the ten best submitted each week during the ten week contest. At the end of the ten week period grand prizes of $100, $50, and $25 will be awarded for the four best entries submitted during the contest.

In explaining the reason for the contest, company officials said:

"One of the most difficult things to obtain is an interior view showing gas heating equipment in natural home surroundings. We have a definite need for such pictures, for experience has shown us that it is difficult for customers who wish to buy gas heating equipment to visualize how they are considering will look in their home. I will heat comfortably, but will I harmonize with other furniture they wonder? The photos we hope to obtain through this contest will be of great assistance in helping them decide just which type of heating appliance will look best in their home."

The contest is open to anyone in a home supplied gas by any of the Lone Star Gas system companies with the exception of professional photographers or others who may take pictures for commercial purposes, and Lone Star Gas System employes and their immediate families. Companies participating in the contest include Lone Star Gas Co., The Dallas Gas Co., County Gas Co., Texas Cities Gas Co. and Community Natural Gas Co. Entries may be submitted at the nearest gas company office or mailed directly to Lone Star Gas System Advertising Department, 305 South Harwood, Dallas. Folders giving complete information on the contest and showing sample pictures similar to those desired may be obtained from the gas company.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Barton

NEW YORK.—Jack Doyle, the Irish crooner and heavyweight boxer, sometimes known as the "mild Irish rose," said the other day he had quit fighting. But now word comes from San Francisco that the mauling minstrel wants to get back in the ring and that he has signed Harry Brodie of San Francisco as manager. However, his fiancée, Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell Baker Godde, insists that he stick to his singing. Fighting, she says, is too brutal. Mrs. Godde is a daughter of the late Horace E. Dodge, automobile maker, and an heiress of the Dodge fortune. At fourteen, Jack Doyle was heaving a 15-pound shovel on the coal docks at Queens- town. At fifteen, he was sailing before the mast on a Finnish vessel. He's Called "Handsome" Puglist! At sixteen, he was in the Irish guards, doubling in the characteristically Celtic pastimes of singing and fighting. He is six feet four and one-half inches tall and weighs 217 pounds. With his wavy black hair and still unmarred features, he is rated as any very notorious scap on his belt, but he is still only twenty-four. Judith Allen, film actress, divorced him last April, and he awaits a final decree before marrying Mrs. Godde, whose divorce from Timothy Godde, London and Paris textile exporter, is also coming through. He has been here two and one-half years and writes home that he's having a wonderful time.

This writer thought the articles about the telepathy experiments at Duke university were one of the most interesting magazine serials of recent years. Dr. J. B. Rhine, with a large staff of assistants, made what appeared to be the first scientific laboratory examination of thought transference. They reported it a fact of everyday life. Their finding was that minds can communicate over long distances. Now it is announced that Dr. Rhine's book, "New Frontiers of the Mind," will appear soon. It will cover the Duke university experiments.

Dr. Rhine qualifies as a disinterested observer, having vigorously assailed fake occultism in the "Exists Apart From Body" column. Mrs. Rhine has been his co-worker and collaborator in exploring the world beyond the senses. They both took their doctor's degrees at the University of Chicago, later pursuing studies of abnormal psychology. In 1926 and 1927, they conducted in Boston an examination of "Margery," the famous clairvoyant. They reported that "the whole game was a base and brazen trickery, carried out cleverly enough under the guise of spirit manifestations."

Commenting recently on his work at Duke university, Dr. Rhine said: "Our results have a bearing on the general problem of the survival of life after death. They show that the mind has powers not dependent upon the senses, an assumption that is made under the theory that life can exist apart from the body."

Dr. Rhine is head of the unique parapsychological laboratory of Duke university. His telepathy explorations included 100,000 experiments in which he recorded thought transference over a distance of 1,000 miles. He said their validity, as against chance, was in the ratio of 100,000,000,000 to 1.

The Paraguay rebellion is one more reminder that there are no halfway stations on the road to totalitarianism. President Rafael Franco, Gran Chaco war hero, was driven out several weeks ago, because he wanted to meet Bolivia half way and make concessions in the war settlement. Now the rebels are trying to bring him back.

When he set up his dictatorship last October, Hitler was his model. He invoked the "noble ideal of democracy," but proclaimed his own personal iron-fisted rule. He announced an extreme of both regimentation and freedom. It didn't work, but he may be present again and have another try at it.

Old General Estigarriba chased him out in February, 1936, calling him a communist. By February 20, he was back in power, chasing both the old general and the communists. He is now forty years old, trained in the army, withdrawing in 1934 and back in for the war.

Germ Causes Tuberculosis

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON, Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

IT IS hard to convince the average man or woman that tuberculosis is not inherited. They look about them on every side and know that a parent, an uncle, a brother, or a sister of a patient with tuberculosis has died of tuberculosis.

Yet physicians, particularly those working close to tuberculosis, tell us that while tuberculosis may appear to "run in families," it is only "because children catch the disease from an old-timer, a member of the household who has it."

Shortly after I graduated in medicine, a superintendent of a large sanatorium told me that he believed that in at least half the adult population evidences of past or healed tuberculosis could be found. Today it is believed that if every part of the body could be examined some evidence of tuberculosis would be found in everybody, which, for the time being at least, was in a "quiet" state.

Caused by an Organism. Why then, if tuberculosis can be found in practically everybody, do we not all suffer with the symptoms or at least show some signs of it? "The specific or definite cause of tuberculosis is a germ or organism. If a few tuberculosis germs get into a healthy body no harm is done because the body fights back. But if one lives daily with a careless person who has the disease the danger is great. Kissing, coughing and spitting may be the means of spreading tuberculosis germs. Anything which has touched the person's lips may have germs on it."

It would be well for all of us to remember also the first signs—the danger signals—pointing to tuberculosis. These signals may not mean tuberculosis in every case but should cause one to suspect tuberculosis. These signals are: (1) loss of weight; (2) loss of weight; (3) indigestion; (4) cough that hangs on.

Overweight and the Falling Heart. One of the hard tasks for physician and patient is when there is a great amount of fat in and on the body and the patient has a weak or damaged heart. The most effective method of reducing weight is cutting down on the food intake and increasing the exercise. Unfortunately the overweight patient with a heart condition needs food to maintain his strength and can take little or no exercise owing to the strain exercise puts upon the heart.

In addition to getting out of breath easily many of these patients begin to get a little swelling in the feet which means they must get off the feet more, and keep the feet on another chair when sitting. While this may mean less work for the heart it of course means less work or exercise for the body and more fat accumulates.

Therefore when the physician undertakes the treatment of the overweight heart patient he does so, not with fear and trembling as to what must be done, but with fear and trembling that his patient will not follow his suggestions faithfully; that he will continue to eat more than his body needs.

One of the laws that applies to all the organs or functioning processes of the body is briefly: "An organ performing its work with difficulty undergoes a gradual deterioration. If increased activity is persisted in." This doesn't mean that the organs or tissues will not or are not able to do many times the necessary work, but it does mean that if an overload is placed on it, and it has to work with this overload for a long time, the fibers or tissues of the organ lose their strength and elasticity, just as a piece of elastic kept greatly stretched too long will lose some of its power to contract.

It is therefore getting these overweight patients to lessen the amount of their food intake and thus take the overload off the heart (due to its having to nourish this extra fat and weight of the body) that the physician so persistently aims at.

The converse or opposite of this rule is: "If the work demanded of a diseased or falling organ is a little less than it is really able to do, a certain degree of power will be restored." In the case of the heart this is known as "heart reserve."

You can see then how important it is to the overweight heart patient that he get rid of his fat and lessen the work on the heart. "When the heart muscle is suffering from any abnormal mechanical handicap (such, for instance, as having to pump blood to a large quantity of inactive fat tissue) and shows signs of failing, it should be given as nearly as possible absolute rest to regain some of its lost power."

What a food bill when these nine Great Dane puppies start to grow!

Pooches in the Picture Parade

THERE are "blue bloods" in the canine world, just as there are blue bloods in the human world, and some of the blue bloods among the pups are just as funny-looking as some of the blue bloods that walk erect on two legs. This parade of champions is offered in proof.

But no matter how he looks, it is true that the dog is man's best friend, and anyone who has ever owned a dog, whether it be cur or champion, will agree. Some of us may not agree that others choose the type of four-footed friends that we would choose, but aren't we the same way when it comes to choosing two-legged companions?

Yet physicians, particularly those working close to tuberculosis, tell us that while tuberculosis may appear to "run in families," it is only "because children catch the disease from an old-timer, a member of the household who has it."

Shortly after I graduated in medicine, a superintendent of a large sanatorium told me that he believed that in at least half the adult population evidences of past or healed tuberculosis could be found. While this may mean less work for the heart it of course means less work or exercise for the body and more fat accumulates.

Therefore when the physician undertakes the treatment of the overweight heart patient he does so, not with fear and trembling as to what must be done, but with fear and trembling that his patient will not follow his suggestions faithfully; that he will continue to eat more than his body needs.

One of the laws that applies to all the organs or functioning processes of the body is briefly: "An organ performing its work with difficulty undergoes a gradual deterioration. If increased activity is persisted in." This doesn't mean that the organs or tissues will not or are not able to do many times the necessary work, but it does mean that if an overload is placed on it, and it has to work with this overload for a long time, the fibers or tissues of the organ lose their strength and elasticity, just as a piece of elastic kept greatly stretched too long will lose some of its power to contract.

It is therefore getting these overweight patients to lessen the amount of their food intake and thus take the overload off the heart (due to its having to nourish this extra fat and weight of the body) that the physician so persistently aims at.

The converse or opposite of this rule is: "If the work demanded of a diseased or falling organ is a little less than it is really able to do, a certain degree of power will be restored." In the case of the heart this is known as "heart reserve."

You can see then how important it is to the overweight heart patient that he get rid of his fat and lessen the work on the heart. "When the heart muscle is suffering from any abnormal mechanical handicap (such, for instance, as having to pump blood to a large quantity of inactive fat tissue) and shows signs of failing, it should be given as nearly as possible absolute rest to regain some of its lost power."

What a food bill when these nine Great Dane puppies start to grow!

A gloomy Gus is this doleful bloodhound, but he shouldn't be—he's a champ: "Brigadier of Reynalton."

The ultimate in lap dogs is the chihuahua. Here Champion Cecilia of Ety Haven, who weighs only 1 1/4 pounds and has a sleeping suit and specially-built glass house, surveys a few of her laurels. Tiny as they are, the diminutive chihuahuas are always one of the "biggest" attractions of the dog show.

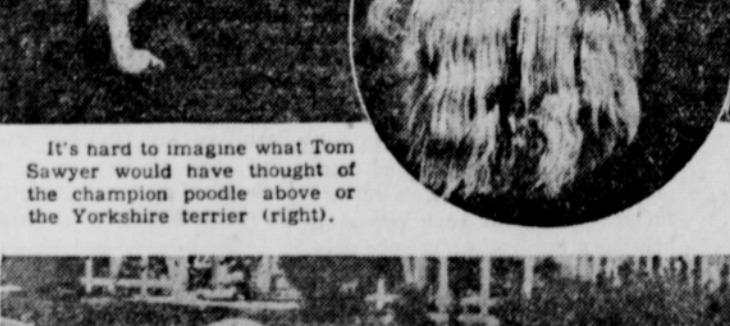

Pugnacious in appearance, but an old "softie" at heart, is the champion English bulldog at the left. Even "Thein's Rio Rita," the champ chihuahua below, could give him a battle.

Turn between two loves is this champion poodle, picture in the "canine rest room" which brought many laughs at a New York dog show.

It's hard to imagine what Tom Sawyer would have thought of the champion poodle above or the Yorkshire terrier (right).

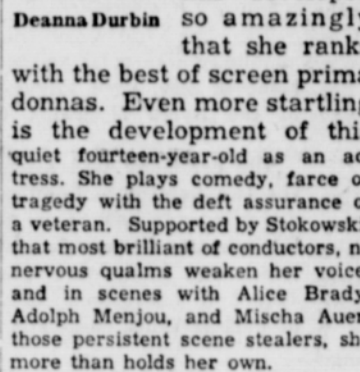

What a food bill when these nine Great Dane puppies start to grow!

IF YOU thought Deanna Durbin a remarkably talented youngster last year when you saw her in "Three Smart Girls," you will think she is nothing short of a baby genius when you see "One Hundred Men and a Girl." Her voice, always good, has developed so amazingly that she ranks with the best of screen prima donnas. Even more startling is the development of this quiet fourteen-year-old as an actress. She plays comedy farces with tragedy with the deft assurance of a veteran. Supported by Stokowski, that most brilliant of conductors, no nervous quavens weaken her voice, and in scenes with Alice Brady, Adolph Menjou, and Mischa Auer, those persistent scene stealers, she more than holds her own.

RKO has already finished the screen version of "Stage Door" with Katherine Hepburn and Ginger Rogers in the leads. The dialogue, everyone says, simply sparkles, and although Hepburn and Rogers are at their very best in it, Andrea Leeds and Lucille Ball, who play small roles, draw a big share of the enthusiastic comment.

Bill Powell paused in New York briefly on his way to the Scandinavian countries for a much-needed vacation. He has been near collapse ever since the death of Jean Harlow, to whom he was engaged to be married. When he comes back, he and Myrna Loy will make another sequel to the "Thin Man." Far from being tired of the roles that brought them their biggest success, he says that they enjoy them more than audiences do.

Very few actors enjoy success in Hollywood for more than five years, but producers never find a newcomer who can handle Alan Hale roles. He has just signed to play little John in the new version of "Rehoboth Beach" with Errol Flynn. It is the same role he played 15 years ago when Douglas Fairbanks made the picture.

It looks as if all Hollywood will be trying to congregate on the Bing Crosby set soon, for Bee Lillie, the elegant Lady Peel no less, is going to play opposite him. If you missed Bee on a recent Vallee hour, you should shed one tear at least. She gave the sketch that she has done innumerable times—"Two dozen double damask dinner napkins, please," and it was even funnier than before.

Maybe Eddie Cantor is awfully smart to switch his radio program from Sunday nights to Wednesday nights to Wednesday, because the Sunday night competition is going to be even more fierce than usual this winter. There will be Jack Benny, of course, Phil Baker, and Joe Penner, but in addition there will be two big screen favorites with new programs—Rosaland Russell and Tyrone Power. Robert Taylor had better hurry back from England if he doesn't want Tyrone to displace him as Matinee Idol Number One of the younger set.

Eddie Cantor

Humphrey Bogart is getting to be so popular on the screen that producers are toying with the idea of making a hero of him, but every time they bring up the subject, Humphrey takes to his heels and runs away. He played a smirking hero once, back in 1930, and neither audiences nor directors wanted to see him again. It wasn't until he played the murderous Duke Mantee in "Peafied Forest" that they forgave him. Since then he has specialized in the deepest-dyed villainy in "Black Legion" and "Bullets or Ballots." In "Dead End" he is so magnificently villainous that hero and heroine, Joel McCrea and Sylvia Sydney, have a hard time distracting attention from him.

ODDS AND ENDS—Constance Bennett is going to make another goofy comedy like "Tupper" as soon as she and sonneteer Frank Looney's cosmetic company... Eria O'Brien Moore, who plays "Nana" in "The Life of Emile Zola," is being boomed by thousands of admirers for the much-disputed role of Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind" Western Newspaper Union.

County Agent's Column

By Ross B. Jenkins, County Agt.

Mr. Steve N. Foster and Mr. G. Broadfoot of Clyde attended a meeting of the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association at Dublin along with the Callahan county agent, Ross B. Jenkins, representing Callahan county Wednesday September 22nd.

Mr. W. B. Starr of Scranton Community is president of the association. Tom Robinett of DeLeon is vice-president. At the meeting it was learned that the government is planning to come into the peanut field with a program that will buy the surplus peanuts produced in the United States in order to insure the farmers a fair price. Tentative arrangements are that peanuts will be stabilized at about 94 cents per bushel in this area for No. 1 grades and about 88cents for the No. 2 grade. It has not been definitely given to the public yet but this is the price that is expected to be paid by the secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace. The money to pick up this surplus will be advanced by the R. F. C. and they will be reimbursed from funds accumulated from the tariff from which about 135 million dollars a year is expected.

The meeting was started by Mr. V. I. Glass, District Seven Agent of the Extension Service. Mr. C. E. Bowles, Cooperative Marketing Specialist, appeared on the program and Congressman Clyde L. Garrett spoke to the farmers and county agents and told them that one of the disappointments of his during this past session of Congress was that Congress did not pass a permanent farm program but felt encouraged over the fact that both the Senate and the House has given the President a signed agreement to take up farm legislation as the first matter for consideration when the new Congress meets.

Mr. H. G. Lucas, president of the Texas Agricultural Association pledged his support to the peanut program and all the resources of his association. Mr. Starr pointed out that by the government buying the surplus which is extended will be about 10 per cent of the crop and with an estimated expenditure of two to six million dollars that the farmers will receive an increase of 18 to 25 million dollars for their crop. Tentative plans will be that farmers will deliver their No. 1 and No. 2 peanuts to bonded warehouses where they will be graded and checks will be issued to them that day.

The southwestern area of which Texas, Oklahoma, and Louisiana are the principal producing states produces about 650 thousand tons annually. Therefore, it is expected that this area will have a surplus of about 6,500 tons. Last year there was no need for peanut program because the price of oil used for food was so high that peanuts needed for candies and other edible uses were crushed for the oil to be used in cooking, paints etc. Oil has dropped though, over 5050 per cent in value during the last four months and has caused the peanut crop to drop in value also. If the government did not enter the field just now it has been estimated that the price of peanuts would fall to 45 cents or may be lower, but with a stabilized price it has expected that they will stay up around 90 cents throughout the season.

At a meeting at Cross Plains Monday with the county agent plans were started whereby a bonded warehouse will be started in that city for the storing of peanuts. A like movement will be started in Clyde and it is hoped that sufficient storage may be found to enable the farmers of that vicinity to sell their peanuts direct to a government grader who will be stationed at the warehouses.

CHAS. D. STRALEY AT 4-H WILDLIFE MEET

Mr. Chas. D. Straley, rancher of Oplin and range member of the Callahan County Agricultural Conservation Committee accompanied the county agent to Kerrville Thursday afternoon for a 2-day session composed of county agents and 4-H Club leaders from some thirty counties that are now interested in the preservation of wildlife. County Agent Elmo V. Cook and Club Leader Higginbotham of Eastland County also made up the party to the meet.

It was pointed out at this meeting that all of Texas can hope to have a reasonably good supply of quail in a very short time if the birds are given adequate food and shelter. Dr. Taylor, recently employed by the Texas Agricultural Department at A & M. College, pointed out that when America was first discovered there was a adequate supply of wildlife which included plenty of hawks and snakes, which some men figure today are the cause of our diminishing wildlife, along with millions of head of buffalo, deer, antelope, prairie chicken, quail, and an unlimited supply of fishes. As man cleared up the forests and denuded the ranges of protective grasses he literally drove the wildlife from the face of the earth. If we expect to rehabilitate our forests and ranges with wildlife we must imitate the original conditions.

In line with the wildlife conservation comes range conservation. If pastures are left to grow a sufficient coverage of grasses and weeds to enable wildlife to survive so will these ranges also hold the water in check and thus prevent erosion and at the same time soak more moisture into the subsoil.

4-H boys will be encouraged to handle the pastures and farms of their parents in the preservation, control, and development of birds. Such covers will be planned and attention will be given to growing food for birds. Quail are especially given to Johnson grass seed, Colorado grass and most every kind of weed seed so these birds, to be encouraged, must have an abundance of these plants which we often times call weeds. Fence rows then should be left with 10 or 15 feet of natural vegetation growth. It might be supplemented with wheat, any of the vetches, and millet to grow wild. In order that quail may receive protection from their natural enemies they must have sufficient cover.

PLANT PEACH SEED NOW

Those who wish to grow their own peach seedlings that will be ready to bud next June should plant the seed now. Plant them in rows about 2 inches deep and about 3 inches apart in the drill. Rows should be at least six feet apart.

STEP ON THE WORMS

October is a good worm killing month. Orchard owners should check their trees, looking for wax with sawdust mixed with it at the ground line. If such is found there are borers present which should be treated with one ounce of paradichlorobenzene in a circle 2 inches from the body. Before applying the paradichlorobenzene scrape off all the gum from the trees and loose bark. Cover with 1 inch of soil and let this stay for 6 weeks. This will kill the small worms and the eggs deposited by the moths, then remove this dirt from around the trees and hill up with fresh soil.

RANGE PROGRAM

The range program, developed during 1936 and 1937, will be continued in 1938. The range program will be a part of the 1938 conservation program.

variation program.

PEANUT GROWERS MEET

Recently the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association with headquarters to be at Brownwood was formed and Callahan is one of the five counties included in the area. Mr. J. V. Starr of Eastland County was chosen president of the association. Steve N. Foster of Rt. 4, Cisco represented Callahan County and became one of the charter members. This association met Wednesday at Dublin for furtherance of the Program. Farmers are urged to consult their county agent in the area affected or some of the officials of the organization to learn more fully how it can be entered by them and thus increase the price that they will receive for their peanuts. The government will subsidize the peanut grower about the same way as is being done for the cotton producer if members will sell through the peanut association. A guaranteed price, in other words, will be made to all members in this association.

As has often been pointed out, peanuts always go up after the farmers have sold their crops. This year it is planned to stabilize the price at about 70 cents per bushel, which is above the price being offered locally. Then peanuts will be placed in government warehouses to prevent them leaking out into markets which would cause a depressing effect. This type of cooperation has been clearly illustrated during the recent cotton, wheat and other A. A. A. Programs, and farmers now realize that by all staying together they may control the price paid for their products but if each man tries to be a marketing agency of his own he comes home discouraged and with very little money with which to pay the year's bills.

COUNTY H. D. NEWS

By Miss Clara Brown, Agent

Old birds make good chicken for canning, stated Miss Clara Brown to a group of home demonstration club women in the home of Mrs. J. M. Simmons of the Lone Oak Club.

Because of the precooking and temperature under pressure which is necessary in the process of canning, a better quality product is obtained when older birds are used. The texture of the meat is usually firmer, the broth more concentrated and the flavor more like that of your birds. Canned chicken, the older birds give a continuous season for serving chicken dishes, which are easily and quickly prepared. Chicken should be pressured removed from the bone and canned in No. 1 or 2 tincans or in 1-2 pint or in pint glass jars. Liver, gizzards and heart should be canned together as they will spoil the taste of other meat.

The chickens that are to be canned should be killed and bleed well the day before canning and should be thoroughly chilled. Miss Brown gave out recipes for preparing chicken dishes from canned chicken.

TECUMSEH H. D. CLUB NEWS

Tecumseh H. D. Club met with Mrs. Dolph Hodges, Monday evening.

The home demonstration agent demonstrated Butter Cakes and Comfort Frosting. She stressed standard measuring equipment and accurate measurements and proper temperature while baking, if desirable results are to be obtained. Cake Layers should never be stacked while warm as this encourages the icing to soak in.

The president took charge of the meeting and Achievement Day plans were made and plans for social entertainment for the husbands of the club members were completed. The cake that had been baked was served with iced punch to 15 members and visitors.

Mrs. Clyde Johnston, is busy completing plans for her pantry demonstration to be given by her at the October Achievement Event in the Eula H. D. Club. Mrs. Johnston has built a new rock cellar added shelves sufficient for storing her large supply of canned foods.

36th Division Annual Reunion At Fort Worth Oct. 9-10

The annual reunion of the Veterans of the 36th Division (Texas-Oklahoma) will be held in Ft. Worth, Saturday and Sunday, October 9th and 10th, 1937.

The 36th Division (war-time) composed of Texas and Oklahoma men was mobilized at Camp Bowie Ft. Worth, Texas, on October 15th 1917, under command of Major General E. St. John Greble, U S A

It trained at Camp Bowie until July, 1918 when it sailed for France under command of Major General William R. Smith and upon arrival in France was billeted the Bar-sur-Aube area until September 26, 1918, when it was moved to the vicinity of Chalons and on October 6th commenced to relieve the Second Division, A. E. F., then fighting with the French 4th Army at Mont Blanc. The 36th drove the enemy to the Aisne River and stayed in the lines until October 29th 1918, when it was relieved and returned to the 1st Army Reserve, A. E. F.

The Division had a total of 2,601 casualties, Officers and men as follows:

- Killed in action—21 Officers and 469 men.

Drive To Improve Relations Between Landowners And Tennants

A new drive is being launched to improve relationships between landowners and those tenants who are being financed by the Farm Security Administration (formerly Resettlement), it was stated by J. S. McKight, county supervisor.

Recommendations of a committee of supervisors are now being printed for families in these two states who are being financed by Farm Security can blaze a trail for the remainder of the 147,000 Texas and Oklahoma tenant families, the supervisor said.

The committee report recommends that leases be prepared at a conference between landlord, tenant, and county supervisor. The lease should always be in writing, it was suggested, because "disturb frequently exists, and because of the human element of forgetfulness as to what agreements have been made." A long-time lease was recommended, in place of the one-year lease commonly used. Cancellation leases were suggested, for use by either party, for reasonable cause, at least ninety days before expiration of any lease year. "Where it is absolutely impossible to obtain long-time leases we feel that one-year leases should be automatically renewed, unless one of the parties gives notice sixty to ninety days before expiration", the committee said.

Each Farm Security borrower is working under a long time plan and it was recommended that the lease encourage him to make improvements which will aid in carrying out that plan. Improvements which he makes should be considered the property of the tenants and he should either be allowed to remove them at expiration of the lease, the report said, or an understanding should be included in the lease as to how the tenant should be compensated.

Present division of crops, on the "third and fourth" basis, was declared inequitable. "On good land it is usually to the disadvantage of the landlord, and on poor land, to the disadvantage of the tenant" the report declared, urging that "a fairer distribution should be made, based upon the respective contributions of the landlord and tenant". However, the committee condemned the "bonus" or "privilege rent", now being used in many counties of Texas and Oklahoma. It recommended that payment for special privileges be made in labor. It was also recommended that county Farm Debt Adjustment Committees act as a conciliation boards, to settle landlord-tenant differences.

Gather round chillun and see what Ole Doc Grate has stewed up for what ails you.

The interview this week is a special treat, and though the Scotch are said to be a wee bit on the thrifty side here is one time a Scot gives and gives generously. -Mrs. Lee Estes:

Mrs. Estes came to Texas from Missouri in 1876. The Henry house hold settled at Belle Plain. At that time the county seat was at Callahan city but the closest court was at Eastland. Eastland was a long ways to travel to bring suit against a person so the early settlers did pretty much according to their own judgement. The country was wild then. The cowboys would ride up to the bars in the saloons and order their drinks without ever dismounting. Despite the fact that there was only "home made" law there was a certain feeling of neighborliness and good fellow ship that is not to be disputed. True, the battle went to the strongest but there were willing hands to help the weaker survive.

W. L. Henry, Mrs. Estes' father was the only blacksmith in this section of the country and people for several counties around came to him for work. However blacksmith work wasn't his only service to the community for he got the town up every morning by hammering on his anvil. Mr. Henry was a typical Scotchman and wanted his neighbors up and stirring at sunrise. Henry was also a blacksmith after he moved his family to Baird in 1882. There were very few houses here then and not many stores. Mr. Schwartz and his brothers had a business and Mr. Bowyer was practicing law at that time.

It was in Baird that Mrs. Estes met her husband. His family were also pioneer settlers. Mr. and Mrs. Estes went to school together and were childhood sweethearts. This puppy-love ended in marriage which was long and happy. Mrs. Estes was educated in Baird and has seen her children and grandchildren go to school here, and is proud of the records. One of the most universally liked people in town. Mrs. Estes has seen many changes in the place and has, as she puts it, seen many of the old timers go over the hill. With people like Mrs. Estes here to tell us of the struggles of the past and to cheer us on to improve I can't see how we possibly do other wise.

Eula Locals

Sept. 26.—Well how is The Star force? We are all ok out this way. We have had a real warm summer and it is rather dry, but we have made a pretty good crop. Most farmers have enough feed to run them. The cotton crop is not bad. The price has hurt us, but after all, this is a fine country. We could use a good rain, so we can sow wheat for winter pasture. Our school will start Monday, Oct. 4th and we are looking forward to a good school. Mr. Penn of Haskell, is our superintendent. The Eula gin has ginned up to date, 452 bales of cotton. I think cotton is about tw-thirds out. We have had a fine season to gather cotton. Commissioner B. O. Brame is doing some fine work on our roads and we thank him very much. N. M. George was in Eula last week buying feed. If The Star will accept this short letter we will come again soon. Wishing everyone who reads The Star, the very best luck.

Drops "Parity Prices"

ONE of the administration's chief policies for agriculture has been abandoned, Secretary Wallace announced in Washington.

Sec. Wallace

"I don't think there is any way of getting enough money out of the Treasury," Wallace said.

Wallace also talked about the soil conservation program, under which farmers must hold acreage of major crops below the 1928-37 average in order to obtain benefit payments.

The secretary still believes that national control over production of the major farm crops is necessary.

Douglas Heads SEC

WALL STREET didn't like the idea of having William O. Douglas as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The commission, said the former Yale professor, is not interested in prices as such and will interfere with market trends only when the forces that shape them are artificial.

"The government cannot provide any substitute for investment judgment," he pointed out.

Roosevelt Goes West

NOMINALLY to visit his daughter in Seattle, actually to find out what recent events have done to his popularity among the people of the Middle and Far West.

The President had nothing to say, before his departure, concerning Justice Black, who was on his way back across the Atlantic and was scheduled to take his seat on the Supreme court bench before Mr. Roosevelt's return to Washington.

Plan to Fight "Polio"

JUST before leaving for the Pacific coast, the President announced that he was organizing a new foundation to direct the war against poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis. It will carry on an educational campaign supervised by experts and put within reach of all doctors and hospitals.

Mr. Roosevelt also gave approval to John Biggers' plans for a voluntary enrollment of the nation's unemployed, to be carried out with the aid of the Post Office department.

Madam Perkins Snubbed

FOR the first time in the history of the Labor department, the secretary is not asked to address the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Legion Head Hits Nazism

FOUR hundred thousand members of the American Legion and their families and friends gathered in New York for the annual convention of the organization.

Colmer declared attempts to subjugate judiciary would destroy the "checks and balances" in government; and he proposed that the American Legion undertake an educational program on the principles set forth in the Constitution.

The commander's warning against perils from without led him to condemn severely German propaganda in the United States and the alleged action of the German government in fostering the organization of Nazi groups and camps in this country.

The Legion elected Daniel J. Doherty, a lawyer of Boston, Mass., national commander and awarded the 1938 convention to Los Angeles.

Besides condemning Communism, Fascism and Nazism, the convention called for a larger and better equipped army and navy and for a ban on the export of helium gas.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Our National Bird. LAS VEGAS, NEV.—Those folks back East who're agitating to make the turkey our national bird are late.

Old Ben pointed out that the eagle was a robber and a tyrant and was the emblem of various European monarchies, whereas the turkey was not only our largest and gamest wild bird, but a native of America.

To be sure, young turkeys aren't so smart. They love to get their feet wet so they may die from it. In dry sections, young turkeys have been known to jump down an artesian well 90 feet deep in order to get their feet wet.

But if we are going to make a change in emblems, why not choose the worm—the humble, dumb, unresisting worm—as typical of most of the present populace?

The Sucker Crop.

PARLIAMENT, next month, will pass statutes to curb stock market tricksters, fly-by-night brokers, and bucket shop operators who, it's estimated, are fleecing the British public to the tune of $25,000,000 annually.

We've tried it and it doesn't work. As Barnum stated, a sucker is born every minute—and sometimes twins. But the crooks who prey on the sucker crop, like the Dionne quintuplets, come along in batches.

This is the rule of supply and demand balanced. In good times, there are just enough suckers to go around. In hard times, the suckers grow scarce, but when one comes along, the crooks raffle him off and the winner takes all.

By the way, brother-member, how many degrees have you taken?

Restrained Statements.

A WAYFARER in Oklahoma, who claimed to have starved himself for forty-one days, on being asked how he felt, replied that he felt sort of hungry.

For underemphasis, I can think of but a single instance to match it. In my youth, we had a policeman in our town with a nervous mannerism of killing folks.

One night, I was passing Uncle Tom Emery's saloon and snack-stand for colored only. A group of subdued-looking customers fetched out the limp remains of a dark person who had been bored thrice through the heart.

"Uncle Tom," I inquired of the proprietor, "isn't that Monkey John?" "Sho' is, suh."

Smoked Glasses for Snakes.

ON THE way here, I attended this year's snake dance. The snake dance has become indeed a strange sight—for the snakes. If the tourists don't modify their wardrobes by next year, I expect to see the snakes wearing smoked glasses.

The commissioner of Indian affairs wants the Navajos to grow fewer goats. The Navajos are balking. Goat hair is a profitable crop; goat meat makes good eating—for an aborigine stomach, anyhow—and goat smell is agreeable for Navajo noses.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—What amounts to a bad case of jitters over possible war and its effects on America, aggravating a business situation which is none too satisfactory, is obvious in administration circles, particularly in the Federal Reserve board.

This is the second reason for the recent action sterilizing $300,000,000 of the frozen gold. The effect desired to remedy both troubles was to insure continuance of low interest rates.

Government bonds have been selling at a price absurdly high—from an investor's standpoint—even with due allowance for their tax advantages. Moreover, the banks have entirely too large a proportion of their assets tied up in government securities.

But that secondary reason to make money cheaper for investment purposes in order to encourage expansions by existing business concerns and the development of new business, was also quite important.

Most experts in international affairs do not believe there will be a world war this year. They think the nations most likely to provoke such a war are not ready.

Memory is still green about what happened to American business at first, when the war broke out in Europe in 1914. After a while business boomed, the war babies in steel and munitions grew and bloomed.

But all this was much later. The first reaction was such a crash on the stock market that it was necessary to shut it down and keep it closed for months.

Take Precautions

Nobody knows just what would happen this time, should the crisis develop this year instead of 1938 or 1939. The year 1939, by the way, is preferred by most experts as the most likely time for the next world war.

This cushion, most experts figure, would be necessary for only a short time. Ways and means would be found by the belligerents to get needed supplies from America despite any and all obstacles.

Very confidentially, of course, officials admit that the neutrality law would not prevent United States manufacturers from selling airplanes, or tanks, or cotton, or copper to neutral countries from which they could quite simply be shipped to belligerents.

All of which, however, does not reassure the people who seem to want to get rid of their securities so as to be ready to jump into something new under changed conditions.

Gets a Laugh

There are lots of chuckles in Washington, and especially in the State department, at James W. Gerard's new job. The idea of the wartime ambassador to Germany and Democratic war-chest fund provider figuring in a tourist agency strikes the average diplomat and the average political bigwig as sort of a comedown.

But the job is far from a joke. Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes does not think it is a joke. Neither do the railroads leading to the West, nor the hotel men from the Rockies to the Pacific.

For Gerard's job is to make desirable to his old friends in Germany and throughout Europe—and to their friends—and through the resulting publicity to many more—the attractions of Yellowstone, Yosemite, Glacier and Grand Canyon National parks, to mention just a few of the highlights.

All of which means a lot more money spent—money which otherwise would stay in Europe. It means a lot of food sold in the most profitable way.

But that's just the commercial aspect of his "joke job" that Gerard has undertaken.

It's a bromide in the West that the New Yorkers think anything west of the Hudson river is unimportant, save perhaps on election nights. "Out there" is just the provinces, from which one returns, when one has to go there at all, as speedily as possible.

But if that "west of the Hudson river" is changed to "west of the Mississippi" a lot of folks in this country might be included!

An Eye-Opener

The late Charles F. Murphy, famed boss of Tammany Hall when that venerable institution amounted to a lot more than it does now, had plenty to say to friends when he returned from the Democratic national convention at San Francisco.

When it comes to Europeans seeking to understand America, and usually writing a book about it after a few weeks' stay, the question becomes even more important. It sounds as if Gerard's job is just to sell the cultured Europeans, whom he got to know during his diplomatic service, the western scenery of America.

But a visitor cannot see the Grand Canyon, and Yellowstone, and Glacier and Yosemite without seeing a pretty good cross-section of the United States doing it. And he or she would get a very different slant on this country from that which is normally acquired by the average distinguished visitor on a lecture tour.

It may actually prove very important in future international relations!

About Sugar

Sugar always has been political dynamite, is now, and probably always will be. Concern about the interests of the housewives and consumers generally has been the bunk, in the opinion of this writer and most observers, ever since sugar became an issue under the original protective tariff, with just one exception.

That exception was under the Underwood-Simmons tariff bill, passed immediately after Woodrow Wilson entered the White House, and which did not prove very satisfactory. It deprived the government of a revenue of around $60,000,000 a year, which, in those days, was important money from the Treasury standpoint.

From the progressive viewpoint, the worst tariff of all was that passed under President Hoover, in which the duty on sugar was fixed at two cents. It happens, however, that Americans were paying, during that period, just two cents above the world price. In short, the duty determined precisely the differential.

Hits Consumer

Assuming this, it becomes interesting to discover just what they are doing to American consumers of sugar in the way of profiteering. According to computations following the formula approved by the United States District court for southern New York, the profits of the refiners during 1936 averaged seven cents on every hundred pounds of sugar.

This profit seems rather unimportant, from the housewives' standpoint, when one figures that the excise tax on sugar (on both domestic and imported) is one-half a cent a pound, ten times the 1925 refiners' profit. And sympathy with the consumer is rather strained when it is considered that the administration wanted this tax to be three-quarters of a cent a pound instead of half a cent!

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"The Vapor of Death" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO EVERYBODY: Philip J. Cavanaugh of New York City is today's Distinguished Adventurer, and Phil says "adventuring taught him something that he had never even thought of before."

Well, sir, when you come to think of it, that statement is just as true as it can be. You never know when you're going to step off the curb right into the path of a fast-moving automobile, and you never know when you're going to step out of the precincts of your humdrum, everyday life into the territory presided over by an ornery old gal named Old Lady Adventure.

But Life hanging on a thread has no terrors for Phil. He remembers the time when Death hung in the air—without any thread or anything else to keep it from coming down on himself and the crew of swell fellows he worked with.

There were five other men in his crew and their job was almost completed. The only thing left to be done was to break open the main gas line and cut in the conduits that they had laid during the past weeks.

The valves were all shut tight. Phil would have been ready to swear to that. He gave the signal to his men to go to work, and then he went out in the plant's yard to see to the hot lead that they'd be using to close up with.

In two seconds, Phil was through that trap door, and in another two seconds he was down in the sub-cellar. His fears were confirmed. On the ground around the newly made opening lay his crew, draped in all sorts of positions—and out cold.

Somehow or other Phil got those men out of there. The plant engineer helped him, and so did a couple of men who were passing by the plant. They dragged them out onto the snow-covered ground and there Phil left them in the care of the engineer. He would have liked to stay out there in the fresh, clean air himself, but for him the adventure was just beginning. Somewhere in the plant, gas was still escaping. He had to find the leak before it welled up out of the sub-cellar and got into the rest of the plant.

Inside the plant Phil headed for that row of valves again. The trouble must be there. It couldn't be anywhere else. "I tried each one of those valves," he says, "but they were all turned as far as they would go. In desperation I tried them again and again. I believed I tried them all at least a hundred times, and as far as I could see each one of them was closed tight."

And in the meantime, Phil was swallowing a lot of gas. He was groggy, and getting groggy with every minute as he moved from one valve to another trying to find which one was letting loose the flow that was poisoning the air he breathed.

He could have saved himself by leaving his job and getting out in the air—but no such thought ever entered his head. Other lives were in danger, and any minute now the gas might get into the boilers and let loose a terrible blast of flame. He stuck to his post, still trying one valve after the other, until finally he dropped to the floor.

As Phil fell, he reached one hand out instinctively and curled it around a valve stem. Phil doesn't know why he did that, except that it was comforting to have something to cling to and it gave him some small sense of protection. The hand slid down the valve stem to the floor, and as it did, one finger struck on something—the head of a nail!

Dazed as he was, Phil's mind told him that the nailhead shouldn't be there. With a struggle he opened his eyes—and saw what was causing all the trouble. The nailhead lay between the floor and the bottom of the valve-stem, keeping it from going all the way down—making the valve seem closed when it was really part way open.

The next few minutes saw a strange battle—the battle of a mind to keep consciousness while faltering hands opened the valve, brushed that nailhead away, and closed the valve again. Phil did that—and then he passed out.

The cutting-in job was finished when Phil finally came to again. His men, brought back to consciousness, had gone right to work and completed the job, for gas lines have to be kept in service no matter what happens. But there might have been no gas at all in the town of Bay Shore that day if Phil hadn't given the world a fine example of good, old-fashioned sticking to the job.

Mount Ararat

Mount Ararat is a twin-peaked mountainous area situated where Armenia and Persia meet, south of the Caucasus range. It is noteworthy for its extensiveness rather than its height, the highest peak being something under 17,000 feet. The mountain is of volcanic origin. Its lower regions are inhabited and the summits have been repeatedly ascended and thoroughly explored.

The Gulf Stream

The Gulf stream is a strong current which runs up the coast of North America from the Straits of Florida as far north as Newfoundland. Naturally, it has above the average heat, and raises the temperature of the water it passes through. Its influence crosses the North Atlantic and reaches our land. It has thus a great effect on the seas round our shores, and so on our climate, says London Answers Magazine.

"The trail of the killer turned back from here," Dunn said. "It took to the creek. I tried to find where it came out of the creek.

"That's all," Dunn said. "I lost the trail of the dead feller's horse," he said shortly.

"This is a pretty bad thing, Dunn," Amos said tentatively at last. "The big end of the Red Hills cowmen are pretty well stirred up."

"Funny," Dunn said dryly, "how quick the word got round."

"Dunn," the sheriff said, "you wasn't figuring to go any place, was you?"

"Amos," said Horse Dunn, "what you mean by that?"

"The sheriff met his eye directly, but without pleasure. 'I'll have to ask you not to leave the county, Dunn.'"

"And so," Horse Dunn thundered, "you take it on yourself to tell me where I'll go and come!"

"There's plenty stuff has to be cleared up," the sheriff said stubbornly. "One thing, why was those two unknown fellers riding toward the home ranch of the 94?"

"How do I know that?" Dunn demanded. "If they're like the average run of the Red Hills, they was most likely looking for something to steal!"

"All the more reason we have to know where you are," the sheriff retorted. "If it's a cow thief that's dead, who would shoot him on your range but you or one of your boys?"

"Not one of my neighbors," Horse Dunn let his eyes drift to Link Bender's face. "No, not them! They'd never make a move—unless it was to hand the feller his brand."

Instantly Link Bender said, "What do you mean by that?"

In the little moment before Horse Dunn's reply, Billy Wheeler glanced about him, noting the position of the men. Of them all, only Cayuse Cayetano appeared to be unarmed.

Wheeler forgot his own weapon, which he had never drawn on any man. He jumped his horse at Kid Bender, striking down on the Kid's gun hand with his quirt.

In the same instant a gun roared behind him, and he whirled his pony.

Horse Dunn held the smoking muzzle of his gun skyward, and steadied his half-stamped horse with his other hand.

Link Bender sat straight up, his face the dusty gray-green of the brush. Evidently he rode a gun-proof horse, for the reins hung slack on its neck, but it stood.

Old Man Coffee, Horse Dunn, and Billy Wheeler sat in Horse Dunn's room and talked it over.

"Well," Old Man Coffee came to the point, "who shot who this time?"

Briefly, Horse Dunn explained to Old Man Coffee the curious circumstance by which they knew, or supposed they did, that a man was dead by violence—while still they did not know who he was.

Coffee nodded. Billy Wheeler noted that Coffee, the man of dim trails which only dogs could find, did not question Horse Dunn's interpretation of the sign.

"And since when," Coffee inquired, "do you get so stirred up over a possible cow-thief shot?"

"It isn't that," Dunn told him. Horse Dunn now tried to explain to Old Man Coffee why Link Bender's coyote ring could be counted on to make the most out of a mystery killing as a weapon against the 94; but Coffee interrupted him.

"I take it, all you want me to find out," said Old Man Coffee, "is what happened to who, what for, and who done it. That cover it?"

"And where is the killer now," Dunn added.

Old Man Coffee locked bony fingers behind his bald head, and sat staring out the window. "Who's been over the ground?" he suddenly demanded.

"Wait Amos, the sheriff. Link Bender. His boy, they call the Kid. My cowboys here—though I didn't let them trample the sign. An Indian deer hunter by the name of Cayuse Cayetano."

Coffee pricked up his ears at the last name, "Cayetano," he repeated. "How long has this Cayetano been over here?"

"About two years, going on three. Had relatives among the Pintwater Piutes; they took him in."

"He used to be over in the Frying Pan Country," Old Man Coffee said. "What a sweet character he is! Got run out of the Frying Pan by common consent. That was about a year after he beat up the Chinese girl. He—"

"Can he track?" "He couldn't track a barrel of tar through a—" Coffee stopped. He looked angry and disgruntled. "No," he corrected himself, "that ain't so. He's a good tracker. He's better than that—he's a great tracker. Maybe the best I've ever seen."

"He's pretty good, is he?" asked Dunn.

"I think he can smell a cold trail like a hound," Coffee said grudgingly. "and make a fool of the hound. Or maybe he just guesses. But I can tell you this—Cayuse Cayetano will go through this case a-whistling."

"What's the answer then?" "Oh, I suppose I'll have to go out and take a look, and mess around, and make a fool of myself."

"When you going? Now?" "Sure I'm going now. When did you suppose?"

"We'll go with you as soon as you're ready to start. I—"

"The hell you will," said Coffee. "I only got one dog that won't call me a fool if I tell him to trail a horse. That's old Rock, and he's funny. If he thinks people is watching him he flourishes around trying to look smart, and don't get anything done. Give me one cowboy that's seen the ground—one that'll come home when I send him. And you stay here."

and take a look, and mess around, and make a fool of myself." Old Man Coffee growled. "First thing, I'll get it all right—if Cayetano hasn't got it already. After that I'll find out where the killer's horse come out of the crick. That ought to be enough for one day; when I've done that I'll come home to supper."

"When you going? Now?" "Sure I'm going now. When did you suppose?"

"We'll go with you as soon as you're ready to start. I—"

"The hell you will," said Coffee. "I only got one dog that won't call me a fool if I tell him to trail a horse. That's old Rock, and he's funny. If he thinks people is watching him he flourishes around trying to look smart, and don't get anything done. Give me one cowboy that's seen the ground—one that'll come home when I send him. And you stay here."

"Oh, well," Horse Dunn grumbled, "suit yourself. I'm only the victim in this case."

"Well, give me a horse, give me a horse—we going to sit here all day?"

For once Horse Dunn did as he was told. Glumly he watched Old Man Coffee go jogging out of the layout, the black hound dogging it at the pony's heels.

"Will he find the saddle?" Wheeler asked.

"I suppose so," said Horse Dunn gloomily. "But damnation! Much as it means to me, I pretty near hope he won't. The cocky old snort!"

"I guess I'll saddle a pony and take a look around here myself," Wheeler said.

"Wait a minute," Horse Dunn said. "There's something different I want you to do."

Billy Wheeler waited, but Horse Dunn seemed to hesitate. "I wish," he said at last, slowly, "I wish you'd talk to that girl."

Wheeler was startled. "Talk to her? About what, Horse?"

"Well, I'll tell you," Horse Dunn groaned. "It's this way. He hesitated; out among the barns could be heard the grief-stricken hulla-balloo of the hounds Coffee had left behind.

"You two had some kind of a fall out, didn't you?" Wheeler asked.

"You might call it that," Horse Dunn shrugged. "She doesn't understand the way you have to handle things on this range. And now she's down on me for blasting Link Bender free of his gun."

Marian Dunn had been born in this house in which they now sat; she was the daughter of Horse Dunn's brother who had once run the 94. But her father had died when Marian was five years old, and, so far as Wheeler knew, Marian Dunn had since visited the 94 but once in her life—two years ago when she was eighteen.

"Why, she can't hardly even believe that this country is here," Dunn continued. "They've taught her that the country is all settled up—and they're right. Only, they don't understand this dry country, where a steer walks a rod for a blade of grass, and a hundred square miles supports one outfit. When they think of the West they think of some place like Montana, where you can fence a whole herd on five sections of grass and watch 'em thrive. She can't see her 94 as part and parcel of half a million miles of range."

"Her 94?" Wheeler questioned. Horse Dunn did not hear him. "I've fought this country since time out of mind. When you got enemies in this country you've got to rough 'em and force 'em. If a man tries to smash you, you got to smash him first. She tells me we got law here to take care of that, nowadays. I tell you the law we got hasn't the teeth in it that it had in the old days, even!"

Year In and Year Out, Bible Society Finds Good Outlet for "Best Seller"

Agencies seeking to promote foreign trade might profit from the annual report of the American Bible society, observes the San Francisco Chronicle.

Year in and year out, the society goes on with increased distribution. Depressions, hard times, wars, political upsets, industrial activity or unemployment do not disturb the distribution of Bibles.

If people are in trouble, they need Bibles. If they are not in trouble, a Bible makes good reading for leisure hours.

The society's agents put a touch of zeal in their work that might be envied by a sales manager in any other business. If they encounter a tribe of a few hundred or thousand aborigines, they do not try to force Bibles by teaching the savages our language.

They just settle down to a few years of study and translation and first thing you know, there are Bibles in a language of which even the name is unpronounceable.

Also, there is no waste motion in competition. The American Bible society, finding British Bible society agents actively at work in South America, promptly hands over Chile to the British distributors and takes Uruguay instead.

Some of the agents are paid, some are volunteer workers. Among the paid workers there are no sit-down strikes, no organized mass demands. The chief incentive is to get Bibles into the hands of people who have none.

When Argentina levies a gas tax and proceeds to build roads, motor dealers think about getting into that field; oil companies see prospects of oil sales. But the Bible man sees nothing except a quick way to get to people he never has been able to reach before with a Bible.

Perhaps this helps explain why, with a distribution of 276,354,391 volumes in the 121 years of the society's existence, the Bible has held first place as a "best seller." The Bible man will insist that it is because it is the best book.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for October 3

CHRISTIAN SONSHIP

LESSON TEXT—1 John 3:1-6, 18-24. GOLDEN TEXT—But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name, John 1:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What John Learned From Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John's Way.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes Us Children of God?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Sonship.

"Studies in the Christian Life." What an attractive title, and what interesting and instructive studies we are to share during the coming three months!

When setting out on a journey we want to know just where we are going. Just so when we take up a new study we need to define the limits of our subject. We are to study the Christian life—not life in general, not religious life, no, not even life in a Christian land or during the Christian era. It is therefore most appropriate that our first lesson in this series should tell us who the Christian is and how he lives.

I. God's Children—Who They Are (vv. 1-6).

1. They are "Born ones" (v. 1). The Revised Version correctly translates "sons" as "children." We are sons in our position, but we are children by the new birth. A man may attain the legal relationship of a son by adoption, but he can be a child only by birth.

2. They are separated ones (v. 1). The world, that is, unregenerate man, does not belong to this family of God. How hard it is for even church people to understand that fact. They do not appreciate and cannot understand God's children, because they themselves do not know God.

There are only two classes of people in the world—regenerate and unregenerate—saved and unsaved. To which do I belong? Does the unregenerate world really have difficulty in understanding me?

3. They are glorified ones (v. 2). "We shall be like him for we shall see him as he is." What a glorious hope, realized even now by faith in the hearts and lives of God's children. The present difference between God's children and the world is to become even greater, for in that day when Christ "shall appear" (for he is coming again!) God's children shall be like him. Spiritually and morally—yes, and even their bodies shall be transformed. (See Phil. 3:20, 21.)

4. They are purified ones (vv. 3-6). The standard whereby the Christian measures his life is the purity of Christ. The question is not "How much purer am I than my friends and acquaintances?" No, the norm for the Christian life is far higher, we are to be purified as "he is pure."

All sin is a disregard of God's law (v. 4). His children do not thus defy Him. They have taken as their Saviour the one "who was manifested to take away sins." There was no sin in him, and the one who abides in him has victory and does not live in sin. He may fall into some act of sin, but in utter misery and repentance he turns from it to his Deliverer.

Note that the one who does continue in sin marks himself as one who "hath not seen him, neither knoweth him" (v. 6). Church connection, association with Christian people, a profession of interest in spiritual things, none of these will avail; we must know Christ as Saviour.

II. God's Children—How They Live (vv. 18-24).

Love is the supreme test of Christian profession. "We know we have passed out of death into life, because we love the brethren," says John in v. 14 (R. V.). How far should love go? "We ought to lay down our lives for the brethren" (v. 16).

Such a sacrifice is not often demanded of us, but the writer goes on to say that we may show that spirit in daily service to those in need.

1. In loving and sacrificial service (v. 18). Words may comfort and strengthen, especially when they are words of love. Love does not stop with words, however, but acts, reflecting the spirit of God, who not only is good, but does good.

2. In the assurance of faith (vv. 19-21). Assurance is the blessed privilege of the child of God. We'll measure our lives by his divine tests. But after all, even "if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart." Salvation does not depend on either our works or our feelings. It is of God. Does this condone sin? God forbid. We are rather so to walk that "our heart condemn us not."

3. In unquestioning obedience (vv. 22-24). The hallmark of character in a child is obedience. Scripture does not countenance the unfortunate standards of men on this point. The children of God "keep his commandments" which are beautifully summed up in v. 23 as believing in Christ and loving one another.

Favorite Recipe of the Week

Sour Milk Corn Muffins

1 1/2 cup corn meal, 2 eggs, well-beaten, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup condensed milk, 1 1/2 tsp. baking powder, 1/2 cup vinegar, 1/2 cup water, 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/2 cup melted shortening.

How Constipation Causes Gas, Nerve Pressure

When you are constipated two things happen. FIRST: Wastes swell up the bowels and press on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure causes headaches, a dull, lazy feeling, bilious spells, loss of appetite and diarrhea. SECOND: Partly digested food starts to decay forming GAS, bringing on sour stomach (acid indigestion), and heartburn, bloating you up until you sometimes gasp for breath.

Then you spend many miserable days. You can't eat. You can't sleep. Your stomach is sour. You feel tired out, grouchy and miserable.

To get the complete relief you seek you must do TWO things. 1. You must relieve the GAS. 2. You must clear the bowels and GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES. As soon as offending wastes are washed out you feel marvellously refreshed, blue again, the world looks bright again.

There is only one product on the market that gives you the DOUBLE ACTION you need. It is ADLERKA. This efficient, non-nutritive cathartic relieves that awful GAS at once. It often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No waiting for overnight relief. Adlerka acts on the stomach and both bowels. Ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowels only.

Adlerka has been recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years. No griping, no after effects. Just QUICK results. Try Adlerka today. You'll say you have never used such an efficient intestinal cleanser.

HOW LONG CAN A THREE-QUARTER WIFE HOLD HER HUSBAND?

YOU have to work at marriage to make a success of it. Men may be selfish, unsympathetic, but that's the way they're made and you might as well realize it.

When your back aches and your nerves scream, don't take it out on your husband. He can't possibly know how you feel.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smoothing" through with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three decades of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and go "Smoothing Through."
