

Grandmother Compares Present With Long Ago

JENNY and her great-grandmother were having a little chat while they waited for the announcement from the maid that Christmas dinner was ready. Grandma Smith had been born and reared in the South. She was spending the holidays with her daughter in the North. Grandmother was in her early nineties, but a remarkable woman for her age. Tall, erect, spry, she would never grow old mentally for she was too progressive in her thinking.

"Jenny, as I looked around the house just now, I couldn't help but realize what a difference a generation or two has made in our mode of living. I couldn't keep from comparing this day and home with a Christmas Day and home I knew long ago. You know, Jenny, Andrew and I were married on one Christmas, years ago. Andrew built a little cabin on a plot of ground he owned. It was perched up on a hill. I thought it was the loveliest, most beautiful cabin ever built in the whole world. And it was. It was the last word in cozy, home architecture of the times. Inside it had a dirt floor and a few pieces of hickory furniture which Andrew had made. I wore all the linens and other cloth which we used. We were so happy. We had a big home wedding. One of my wedding presents was a tin cup. That cup was a prized possession, much talked about and envied by my neighbors. Sometimes I wonder, we lived so simply—and happily—and now how complex are—"

The dinner gong boomed forth a welcome sound. The family gathered and with joyful chatterings hurried in to the festively arranged Christmas dinner table.—Eleanor E. King. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

LETTER GOT THERE

SHE didn't have Santa Claus' address, but she knew that Aunt Mary must have it, so she wrote the following letter to him and sent it in care of "Aunt Mary, New York," having first read it to her mother:

"Dear Santa Claus: "I hope you are well. Are you? Won't you have to come this year in your airplane, or your automobile? Here is my list: "Too teddy bears in dresses. A doll's writing desk. A doll, not a girl doll. A doll's house (it is in the corner bookshop that is kept by Miss Sinclair). One bear brown and the other white, I think that is all. Your loving friend."

The letter must have arrived, for the presents did.—C. G. Hazard. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Christmas Card That Ended His Loneliness

FOR several years circumstances had made James Wingall move from town to town so that he seemed to lose almost the entire connection with his past. He was so occupied with trade he did not note the passing years, nor realize that almost all his schoolmates now were married and he a bachelor of thirty-five.

One Christmas Eve, however, when he returned to an empty hotel room, it was with feelings that in spite of his business success, something vital was lacking in his life. Perhaps that was why he disliked Christmas so. When business ceased, nothing else remained.

In the solitude of his room, he opened the few Christmas cards which still sought him out. Every one he scanned he tossed aside, except one from the first girl he had ever kissed. He held it tenderly and read it many times. "You faithful dear," he murmured, and going to the telephone, inquired when he could catch a train. He had decided to go home and see his friends again, and find a partner, if he could, to make life really a success.—H. Lucius Cook.

The Christmas Spirit; It Can Never Be Cheap

SHE worked in what was considered a second-rate store in a big city. To her, though, the store was a beautiful one. And when it was decorated at Christmas time with its tinsel and gay Christmas touches, she thought it the most beautiful place on earth.

She loved the jewelry that was sold there. Sometimes she would hold a bit of cardboard from which hung a cheap earring to her ear and would think that when she got her pay the following week she might buy a pair. They were certainly becoming and would be more so when off the cardboard.

How crowded the store became around Christmas time. The people would look and admire and buy. She would be so busy. It was splendid to be busy, and even to be tired with the Christmas rush. There was something so stimulating about the Christmas rush.

There were several floor walkers in the store—an extra one was added for the Christmas season. True, their presence was not so magnificent as the floor walkers in the great, expensive stores, but they were grand to her. And she loved to say, with a beautiful manner:

"Just a moment, madame; I will call the floor walker."

And then, this Christmas, greater happiness than ever came to her. A most wonderful floor walker came as an "extra," but they said he would be taken on for good—he was such a capable man.

And she took him on for good. For hadn't they fallen in love with each other at once?

Oh, to some the store might seem cheap, the people in it might seem funny imitations of the people who belonged to the very expensive stores. But there was glorious Christmas happiness in that store. For it radiated the Christmas spirit. And the Christmas spirit can never be cheap!—Mary Graham Bonner. (© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Expensive Presents Do Not Give Most Pleasure

MR. AND MRS. GORSE were invited to spend Christmas with Mrs. Gorse's wealthy sister on her farm. "But we can't; we can't," insisted Mrs. Gorse. "Our rent has been raised this year, and living is so dear in town we cannot afford presents that even her children will enjoy."

"It's us they want, and not our gifts," rejoined Mr. Gorse. "You leave the presents to me."

On Christmas Day the Gorses drove up to the big white country house in their flyer. Such a welcome as they received. Not an idle nor an embarrassing moment—even for Mrs. Gorse who discarded so reluctantly the weight of city poverty. Laughter, music, fun prevailed. And after dinner, when the grown-ups peeked into the nursery to see what the children were doing, Mr. Gorse had his triumph. The children had discarded their expensive toys, and sat in a circle on the floor playing industriously with some ten-cent magnets he had brought.

"You know our children's likes better than we do," said the charming hostess, as she led the Gorses back to the living room. "And nothing I received pleases me so much as the books you brought me, unless it is to have you here on Christmas day."

Even Mrs. Gorse knew that her words rang true.—H. Lucius Cook.

Boy Suffers With Broken Arm

Albert Alexander, small son of Mr. G. W. Alexander, of the Cottonwood community is suffering with a broken arm.

While he and his brother were hauling wood about a month ago, he was thrown from the wagon which broke his right arm. He was getting along nicely, until one day last week. He was in the lot among the stock and a mule kicked him on his right arm and broke it again. He was rushed to Monday to the doctor who reset it. On last report he was doing nicely.

Will Attempt to Change Marriage Laws of Texas

Progressive legislation with respect to marriage in Texas, as suggested during the recent meeting in Fort Worth of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Association, will be proposed to the Legislature by J. C. Duvall, representative from Tarrant county.

The bill as outlined by Mr. Duvall will raise the ages of parties about to be married from 14 to 16 years for women and men, to 16 and 18 years, respectively. It will also make it necessary for the contracting parties to undergo a physical examination by a physician appointed by the county for that purpose, and any person found afflicted with a venereal disease would be denied a license. A further clause in the bill provide that the marriage license will have to be obtained and published ten days in advance of the marriage.

White Christmas Trees

To prepare white Christmas trees take branches of evergreen of desired size and dip in thick starch to which a small box of borax has been added and while trees are still damp sprinkle each with artificial snow. The trees when dry may be placed in pots or baskets and the top of earth covered with moss. A larger tree may be made to glitter with artificial snow by sprinkling it on while the branches are moistened with glue. Tufts of cotton and glass icicles may be used for trimming.

The Greatest Improvement of Recent Years!
THE HOT PLATE VAPORIZER
Standard Ford Equipment
Ordinary carburetors were designed for a finer grade of gasoline than most people now buy. Today's gasoline must be burned differently to get full results. The Hot Plate Vaporizer pre-heats both raw gasoline and air making a perfect fuel mixture which burns to the last atom because it is perfectly vaporized.
Average results show an increase of miles per gallon, with excellent acceleration, abundant engine power, smoothness at all speeds, and practically no carbon deposit.
The Hot Plate Vaporizer applies exhaust heat to the fuel feed so that the engine is constantly supplied with super-heated vapor fuel of exceptionally high combustibility.

No Fires on Christmas is Plea

Proclamations by all Texas mayors asking the people for a "fireless Christmas" have been requested by G. M. Holton, State Fire Marshal of Austin.

Holton has written letters to all city fire marshals in the State asking them to advise the mayors of the need of the proclamation. Fire marshals were requested to co-operate "by daily inspection of the entire business district of your city; rigid enforcement of rules and regulations of this department; the discharging of fire works, etc." Special attention to vacant lots covered with dead weeds was asked.

Practice of using candles and in flammable materials on Christmas trees and the shooting of fireworks was called dangerous.

Dealers who keep fireworks for sale in broken packages must pay $1.00 per month or fraction of month on each $100 worth of insurance on their buildings and those who keep fireworks in broken packages will be charged 50 cents, Holton said.

COTTON PROBLEMS IN SOUTH AMERICA ALSO

Discussing cotton growing in South America before the Social Science Seminary at the A. & M. College of Texas recently, Ernest L. Tutt, manager of the district office of the United States Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Houston, expressed the opinion that South America presents no very promising prospect at present as a competitor of the United States in cotton growing. The potential cotton growing area in South America is very extensive, however, and cotton production now being carried on there to considerable extent, he said.

Labor and cultivation methods are among the problems of cotton growing in South America, Tutt said. Argentina has a cotton zone about half as large as that of the United States, but Brazil has an area with soil and climate favorable for cotton growing much larger than that of this country. Production in Argentina increased from 100 bales in 1922 to 135,000 in 1926, but the demand occasioned on labor forced wages almost to a point where the cost is excessive, he added. The hoe is still in general use in North Brazil. Southern Brazil is more progressive, he said, but coffee has become an established crop there, pays better profit, and is preferred by the growers. Immigration is rather slow, he said.

HARD TO DESCRIBE

Mother had spanked little Mary, the minister called and found Mary sobbing in the hall.

"Well, well," asked the minister in a consoling vein, "what's the matter?"

"It hurts," sobbed Mary.

"What, my dear?"

"The back of my lap."

Santa Claus Letters to be Published Issue of Dec. 18th

Following the custom of a number of years past, The Free Press will publish letters to Santa Claus in the issue of Dec. 23, giving the kiddies an opportunity to let Old Santa Claus know of their wants in time to get around and distribute his presents to all the little folks.

It will be necessary to write on one side of the paper only, so that Santa can read your letter easier, and to sign your name. Little tots too young to write the letter themselves may have their parents write it for them, but all letters written in fun, or by older children for a joke, will be consigned to the waste basket.

Address your letter to "Santa Claus, care of The Haskell Free Press," and be sure and mail it in time to reach the office not later than Saturday, Dec. 18th.

A. & M. GRADUATES AS CITY MANAGERS

Graduates of the A. & M. College of Texas are taking places in growing numbers in the field of city management. Five Texas towns now have A. & M. men as city managers, these being Waco, San Angelo, Temple, Bryan and Lufkin. Recently McAlester, Okla. engaged an A. & M. man as city manager, this being F. C. Higginbotham, graduate in agriculture of the class of 1919.

A. & M. men serving Texas cities as administrative heads are E. E. McAdams, class of 1911, at Waco; J. Bryan Miller, 1918, at Bryan; E. V. Spencer, classes of 1912 and 1915, at San Angelo; V. R. Smitham, classes of 1915 and 1926, at Lufkin; George E. Byars, 1910, at Temple.

Spencer and Smitham took the graduate course in city management at the College, established three years ago, and conducted by E. W. Steel, professor of municipal and sanitary engineering.

Moves to Haskell Co. From East Texas

W. A. Taylor and family of Vernon, Texas, Johnson county, have moved north of Rule, on the John Mayo place in the Cook Spring community. Mr. Taylor and family comes to Haskell county well recommended as good citizens. The people of Haskell county are always glad to have such people and feel that they will like Haskell county fine.

The way some young fellows around Haskell drive it appears they're flirting with the girls and courting the undertakers.

Now that everyone agrees there are too many laws, we suppose they will pass more laws to abolish a few of those we have.

The other fellow may not know as much about his business as you do, but it's always a good idea to proceed on the theory that he does.

SOCIETY and Club

High School Boys and Girls
The Haskell High School boys and girls met at a meeting of the Haskell High School faculty and student body last evening to perfect plans and teams for entering the Spring Interscholar League, the cotton situation that presents the people at this time was discussed and a definite decision reached for the Haskell High School boys and girls and yes, the teachers too. The program and overall. Supt. J. D. Neff, Principal M. B. Lebo, Miss Ramsey and Spanish teacher, L. English proved their loyalty to the school by being among the first to put overalls with the boys reading the new uniform. And the teachers in their classrooms in gingham dresses and other cotton materials; if their dresses as well as dresses were some longer they could be taken for a pair of 1900 school girls. "And cotton is well if the parents of the Haskell High School boys and girls have no other reason for remembering the stamp in the cotton market of 1926 than that was the year that the Haskell boys and girls went back into school, the drastic cause will be rendered worthy of the onslaught. The difference in the prices of cotton and the school wear will pay up the old debt on the 1926 crop and the demand for cotton goods will place the cotton acreage back to normal. We will enter and complete faith in the Haskell school boy and girl, and know that they can be depended upon to be out in any crisis. Individually they are not going to wear cotton and keep up with the rest of their class against it, we don't blame them, we know that this peculiarity extends to mother and dad. But when the school votes for a measure, they make a 100 percent. Here's a Rah, Rah, for the High school boys and girls at King Cotton—reenthroned.

Senior Epworth League Has Thirty-seven Present.

The Senior Epworth League is doing some constructive work under the leadership of the pastor Rev. W. B. Vaughn and the president, Miss Imogene Scott. There were thirty seven present last Sunday evening and a splendid program on loyalty was rendered. Miss Maidee Watson was the leader and after several spirited songs were sung the new Presiding Elder, Rev. Hamblin of Stamford, led in prayer and Miss Marjorie Rogers rendered a piano solo, talks on loyalty were given by Misses Helen Caldwell, Martha Rogers, and Lewis Smith. Mrs. C. M. Kaiger then introduced the Presiding Elder, Rev. Hamblin to the league, and he won their hearts in a snappy talk that revealed his knowledge and love for young people. A committee was appointed to plan a winter roast for the week.

Haskell, Texas Thurs., Dec. 16, 1926

The city of Haskell gets three date lines in Monday's Star-Telegram, and none of them sensational news—just wholesome community progress such as we can enjoy with sufficient effort and proper organization, coupled with unselfish interest. If we believe in diversification, let's preach it and if we preach it let's practice it.—Knox County Herald.

JARDIN ON COTTON

In many cotton growing communities farmers heard recently over the radio a relayed account of a discussion between a representative cotton farmer and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine. But more general reporting perhaps would serve a purpose. Secretary Jardine agreed with his visitor that while the present prediction in the South is largely due to the over-production of cotton, the real remedy rests in securing the co-operation of bankers and merchants in promoting a safe-farming policy in the South. The discussion, as reported by the Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore, brought out the fact that cotton cultivation during recent years has increased from around 33,000,000 to almost 48,000,000 acres; that with one-fourth less acreage that was planted last year the world's requirements of American cotton could be supplied.

Secretary Jardine said: "We must convince the banker that the cotton farmer is an unsafe man to do business with if he continues to grow cotton and little else. A banker or merchant who will not actually encourage his customers to grow the necessary food and feed required for farm and home use and little of something to sell has adopted a short-sighted policy."

"We must learn how to adjust production to market demand. But in reducing acreage, we must adjust the program to the circumstances of the individual farmer. It would be unwise and dangerous in most cases for cotton farmers to turn entire or even largely to other cash crops, but no farmer can go wrong by providing homegrown products for his family and farm livestock and have a little something to sell besides cotton. If every farmer in the South will be sure to do this next year, an average of 25 per cent reduction in cotton acreage will probably result."

"The whole problem of adjusted production rests in the hands of the merchant and the banker, working in close touch with the farmer and our federal and state agricultural institutions."

The inference of these remarks is obvious. The ultimate of real government assistance has been obtained. There is sufficient credit available for any marketing needs. The remainder rests with the cotton farmer, and with the local banker and merchants who are the cotton farmer's advisors and the dictators of his financing arrangements.

Secretary Jardine has more than a good word for the cooperative marketing associations. In fact he believes that the opportunity for establishment of the cotton crop on a basis of economic production is tied up altogether with the question of success of the cooperatives in quelling the majority of cotton growers as members.—Star-Telegram.

KILL THE RATS

From every quarter of the city and county it is reported that rats are emigrating here in large numbers. Now is the time to put out poison, trap or kill in any way the rodents as they come in. When the country is once well stocked with rats the raising of chickens and turkeys is a hard deal and if everybody everywhere will make a raid on the rats now it will greatly help matters for the poultry raisers over the country. Press reports say that the business men in some of the larger cities have called a meeting to provide plans of how to get rid of the rats. You may treat this warning lightly, but it's a fact that the rats should be killed.

WEST TEXAS TRIUMPH

The triumph of the West Texas agricultural exhibit at the Sesqui-centennial Exposition in Philadelphia must appear remarkable even to those who know the supremacy of West Texas farm products. For when a world's fair is concerned and field is open to every agricultural State and Nation, it is no excellence of products alone that counts. There are the matters of arrangement, or showmanship and the technical difficulties of maintenance. Most of the exhibits of the Sesqui-centennial were installed by expert display men, with vast funds and every resource of quick transportation and communication back of them. Many state exhibits were financed by large legislative appropriations. The West Texas enterprise possessed 41c none of these supporting advantages. It had no legislative appropriation to back it up, it had no professional decoration expert, its supplies and replacements had to be shipped 2000 miles. But West Texas did have the best agricultural country in the world to draw from, and it did have earnest and intelligent co-operation by Chambers of Commerce and farmers throughout West Texas. And West Texas did have a thorough agricultural showman in the person of B. M. Whiteker, exhibit manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, whose prize-winning record is a reason for pride. As a consequence West Texas exhibit won the gold medal emblematic of agricultural supremacy of the United States, the award being made a point system which took into account arrangement and scope of the exhibits as well as excellence of the products shown.

The advertising value of the West Texas victory at Philadelphia can hardly be computed. But something of its effect can be imagined when it is pictured that many of the exhibits in the contest came from regions where people still think West Texas is part of "the great American desert"—Star-Telegram.

Willing to Drop It.

A prisoner was in the dock on a serious charge of theft, and, the case having been presented to court by the prosecution counsel, he was ordered to stand up.

"Have you a lawyer?" asked the magistrate.

"No, sir."

"Do you want a lawyer to defend your case, then?"

"Not particular, sir."

"Well, in these circumstances, what do you propose to do about the case?" came the next query.

"Well, I," answered the prisoner, yawning extravagantly, as if wearied by the whole performance, "I'm willing to drop the case far's I'm concerned."

To Be Exact.

"I must say those biscuits are fine," exclaimed the young husband.

"How could you say those were fine biscuits?" inquired his mother when they were alone.

"I didn't say they were fine, mother. I merely said I must say so."

Experience may be a good teacher, but she turns out mighty few graduates.

bad spells relieved

"NOTHING can take the place of Thedford's Black-Draught with us because we have never found anything at once so mild and so effective," says Mrs. Hugh Nichols, R. F. D. 4, Princeton, Ky. "When the children have spells of indigestion and upset stomachs, I always straighten them out with a dose or two of Black-Draught. 'Several times I have suffered with bad spells of indigestion myself and found I would soon get relief if I took a course of Black-Draught. I was troubled with a bad accumulation of gas and severe pains across my stomach and lower bowels. Now when I feel a spell of this kind coming on, I head it off by taking Black-Draught—a dose every night for a few nights will prevent the trouble and save me much pain and suffering. 'My whole family uses Black-Draught for biliousness and constipation. 'It is a splendid medicine.' Sold everywhere. 25 cents."

C. O. DAVIS REPORTS POULTRY IN FINE SHAPE

In this issue will be found the add of C. O. Davis, owner of Sunset Poultry Farm, Rule Texas. It will be of interest to every one interested in better poultry to turn to it and read. Mr. Davis informs us that his flocks are in the best condition for the time of the year that he has ever had. With the doubling of his incubator capacity he hopes to be able to take care of all custom hatching that he can get. All over the United States the keeping of poultry is becoming a prime industry with many families instead of being merely incidental to the home life of the farm. People are learning that chickens are not properly incidentals, but are objects of prime and special consideration. Those interested in getting early hatching or baby chicks should begin now to make preparation to take proper care of early chicks. Also make your reservation for hatching space and the placing of your order for early chicks. Mr. Davis invites you to come to him with your poultry problems, he will gladly help you in any way that he can. He extends an invitation to visit his farm at any time.

The many friends of this young man will be glad to know that he is doing nicely.

Last Sunday was the birthday of Master Sam Hugh Smith, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Smith, and when it came time to bring out the cake, Mrs. Smith came forward with a "sure enough cake" with two lighted candles, and when Sam Hugh had blown out the latter, the cake was cut and every body had a piece even to the Superintendent, Mr. O. E. Patterson, who had already been in the department once but for some unaccountable reason came in again to "look things over," and the secretary, John Rike arrived just in time also.

Figures Prove Talk Easier Than Writing

Twenty-two billion telephone conversations, fifteen billion letters and postal cards, one-fifth of a billion telegrams, annually—that's how the American people keep in touch with one another. The telephone transmits half again as many messages as the first-class mail, and one hundred and ten times as many as the telegraph. Even these comparisons understate the service of the telephone, for every telephone conversation is a two-way communication. Each telephone connection is therefore equivalent to two letters, post cards or telegrams. The relative use of the telephone is really double that shown by a mere comparison of the total number of telephone conversations, letters and telegrams. No other nation has developed the "telephone habit" to such an extent as we Americans have. But no other nation has anything like as many telephones as the United States, either in actual number or in proportion to population.

RAINY DAYS DO NOT DISTURB BUSINESS

A day of rain from morning to night used to mean big falling off in business for all storekeepers. It doesn't have that effect now. Encouragement of the use of the telephone has overcome bad weather.

When bad weather keeps many customers at home they use the telephone, says the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

And the progressive storekeeper does not wait for calls to come in, but he calls up some of his customers, particularly when he knows he has something special to offer that would be of interest to them. As a rule, customers like to feel that the store they patronize constantly is also interested in them, and an occasional telephone call of this sort often succeeds in selling goods which might not have been brought to the customer's attention had he or she made the call in person.

SELLS TURKEYS FOR NEAT SUM OF MONEY

Mrs. J. M. Hinkle of the Roberts community sold 62 turkeys a few days ago which brought her the neat sum of $345.75. She also left 12 head on her yard for breeding stock for another year. Mrs. Hinkle is one of the most successful poultry raisers in the county and her success in raising turkeys this year did not come by chance or accident but from care and knowledge of how to grow turkeys. Thousands of dollars have been brought to Texas through the efforts of the women of our state through the poultry industry.

A Message from— SUNSET POULTRY FARM

The prosperity of many farmers in Texas and the southwest does not rise and fall with cotton prices. These farmers do not rely upon one crop for their cash income. They are the ones that in 1926 produced nearly $150,000,000 worth of poultry and poultry products. The farmer who raises poultry as a part of his regular farm program has a year-round income, regardless of the price of other farm commodities. Pure-bred poultry again in 1926 proved a timely and certain source of cash to those who produced it. A flock of pure-bred poultry on your place next year will greatly add to your profits.

Baby Chicks from Single Comb White Leghorns

We will have the best hens and pullets to breed from this year that we have ever had, and of course will have a higher grade of baby chicks to sell from them. We have over 200 hens with trap-nest records. In the summer we had 700 pullets that we have selected the best 300 for our use and sold off the balance. These pullets are all early and full grown and will make fine breeders. Every cock or cockerel that we will use will be pedigreed from a 250 egg dam or better.

Prices on baby chicks will be $15.00, $20.00, $25.00 per 100, according to breeding.

Baby Chicks from Other Breeds

Last year we had so many calls for baby chicks from some of the heavier breeds of poultry that we have decided to secure eggs from some of the standard-bred flocks that are in the county. R. I. Reds, Barred Rocks, White Wyandottes, Light Brahmas, priced from 16c to 20c each as many as you want.

Custom Hatching

We have installed another mammoth incubator, which will give us a hatching capacity of 25,000 eggs every three weeks. We will start our machines the first Monday in January. Will set 72 trays each week. Trays hold 120 eggs for the light breeds and 112 for the heavy breeds. Price per tray $3.50. Phone or write us to reserve you as many trays as you wish to set, giving date you prefer.

Remember that the early hatched chick will be the one that will lay Fifty Cent Eggs next fall.

ATTENTION.
Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs will be at the Haskell High School Wednesday December 22nd, at ten o'clock for a day of instruction in Parent Teachers work.

Mrs. Marrs is authority for this work also educational work. She is not only a state but also a National officer of the P. T. A.
You who do not understand the purposes and manner of conducting an association now have an opportunity of learning this from the best posted woman in Texas.
It is not often an opportunity of this kind is offered you so do not deprive yourself of the pleasure and benefit of Mrs. Marrs instruction.

We invite and insist that each school district have at least one, more if possible, representative at this meeting. This invitation is to each district in Haskell and surrounding counties. Lunch will be served at noon to out of town visitors. Come be with us, this means you.

SUFFERS FROM INJURY RECEIVED IN FALL

She will be missed by her classmates at school during her illness.

Nine Counties Are Planning Highway

Plans for voting a bond issue for $4,000,000 simultaneously in nine counties of Northwest Texas, the funds of which will be used to hard surface approximately 200 miles of the Lee National highway. State highway No. 28, extending from Vernon, in Wilbarger county, to Farwell, in Palmer county, were given out by G. A. Lider of Floydada in Austin last Saturday, where he was securing information from State highway officials. He stated the project is being undertaken without State or Federal aid and that the election would be held shortly after the first of the year.

The plan is being pushed without the aid of the Commissioners' Court, but bureaus in each of the nine counties are working to put the ballot across and start the work. The counties interested are Wilbarger, Foard, Cottle, Motley, Floyd, Hale, Lamb, Bailey and Farmer, and the highway will go through Vernon, Crowell, Paducah, Mattador, Floydada, Plainview, Otton, Muleshoe and Farwell, giving a direct trade route from the north to the West Texas Plains.

Three meetings already have been held by workers in their respective districts and local unions are actively promoting the election, according to Lider, who is also acting as the representative of Judge C. L. Glenn of Mattador, president of the Texas section of the Lee highway, and Dick Coffee of Vernon, vice president of the Texas section.

TOLD THE TRUTH, BUT—

A Scotch lad, having taken a prize in a difficult examination, was confronted by his teacher, who asked doubtfully:

"Who helped you with your question paper, James?"

"Nobody, sir."

"Come now, my boy, I know all about your capacity and abilities, and I know you never answered those questions alone. Tell me honestly, now, didn't your brother do part of the work?"

James, after some deliberation, answered:

"No, sir, he did it all."

EVIDENTLY

"Is that a lion or a lioness, paper?"

"Which one, dear?"

"The one with its face scratched and the hair off its head."

"That must be the lion."

T. C. U. Students Looking Forward to Christmas Holidays

By Louise Scott

Thanksgiving holidays the same old grind of classes and lectures, then comes the glorious days of merriment during Christmas holidays. It was good to have our holiday, it is good to be in school again, but it is great to know that Christmas and New Years' with the accompanying round of gay parties, dinners and other forms of entertainment are not far off.

Unkind fate! The football season is ended and not for another long year will Mary and Katy go here and there to attend the exciting and thrilling combats of the warriors of the gridiron.

Freshmen at Texas Christian University are fast becoming a part of the scholastic whirl. Anita Grissom of Haskell has just returned after spending the holidays with a classmate, Virginia Cunningham in Bonham. Anita will spend Christmas in Haskell as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Grissom. She is a popular member of the class of '30 and has received some conspicuous honors since her entrance in the University. She is one of fifty girls on the T. C. U. pep squad.

COMMERCIAL BLUE PRINT PLANT OPENED AT ABILENE

Abilene's first commercial blueprint office was opened last week in room 214 of the Alexander building, by the David S. Castle company, architects, and the first work was put out by the modernly equipped plant.

T. L. Hiner, who has been with the local company since the first of the year, is in charge of the blueprint department. He came here from South Texas, but for several years was in business at Rule.

The complete equipment for the plant will cost about $3,000. The Pease Automatic Printer, for making washing and drying the blue and the white prints, has already been installed. Sheet washers and dryers will be installed during this week.

The installation of this plant greatly simplifies and hastens the work of the blue printing. Work which by the ordinary methods used by the architects would require a day, can now be done in this department with the electrically driven machinery in an hour. The machine can take tracing 42 inches wide, and can be operated at any time during day or night, or on even the cloudiest days.—Abilene Reporter.

A PENALTY THAT IS FEARED

New York State, which has a driver's license law, is finding an effective weapon against unsafe driving in the provision giving authority for suspending or revoking licenses. The latest report of the Commissioner of Motor vehicles shows that in the 16 days ending October 30 driver's permits were taken away, temporarily or permanently, from 790 motorists in the State. Forty-two of the revocations were for drunkenness. A number of others were for reckless driving. A few licenses were revoked because the motorists fled from the scenes of accidents in which they had figured.

Two of the revocations in Manhattan were penalties for the human error of being too smart. A couple of motorists had offended the laws. Not content to take their medicine, they attempted to outwit the law by obtaining new licenses while the suspension was in force. The attempt was detected with the result that their suspensions were changed to revocation of their licenses.

A driver who is forbidden to drive loses a prized privilege. All drivers know that. They would rather pay heavy fines than lose the privilege of driving. Consequently the power of revocation or suspension of the privilege of driving is one of the most effective measures that can be devised against unsafe driving. Whether the deprivation is to be temporary or permanent should depend upon the offense. When the order of suspension or revocation is supported by provision of jail sentence for those who violate it, the law becomes as nearly a perfect legal weapon against unsafe driving as can be obtained.

Texas should have a driver's license law, with provisions for suspension or revocation for cause, and with jail sentences to make the salutary lesson to motorists stick.—Star Telegram.

DIRTY TRICK

A man was standing in front of Einstein's door as a funeral procession went by.

"Whose funeral?" he asked of Einstein.

"Chon Smith's," replied Einstein.

"John Smith!" exclaimed the man.

"You don't mean to say John Smith is dead?"

"Vell, py golly," said Einstein, "vot you dink is doing mit him—bracticin?"

Answering 77,000,000 "Callers" Daily

The American telephone system, in its traffic department, is handling 70,000,000 calls with 167,000 employees located in 6,000 different offices.

Such an organization, to operate successfully, cannot be a "soulless" corporation. It must be intensely human, for all its business centers around the desire of one individual to speak with another individual—a personal transaction. As the telephone business grows, its complications increase. The traffic problems involved in handling a few thousand subscribers a few years ago, are vastly increased in handling communication needs of nearly 17,000,000 subscribers today. Despite increased complications, telephone service today in the United States is the best the world has ever known.

A very fine type of girl is employed in telephone work. These girls are carefully selected, are given intensive training and paid during the period of learning. The proper housing and caring for 167,000 girls is a serious problem and entails great responsibilities. It calls for the highest type of management and personal work, demands the best building construction to safeguard employees from fire, furnish plenty of air, light, rest and recreation rooms. The larger offices have quiet rooms where a girl may get away from the crowd and lie down if she is feeling indisposed.

In many locations it is not convenient for operators to go home to lunch, and the telephone company now serves about 140,000 meals a day. The best of food is furnished at actual cost, not figuring any charge for rent, heat, light or equipment.

Could any company successfully maintain an efficient service which involves personal communication between its employes and 70,000,000 callers a day, and not be a human organization? No; and that is why American telephone service so far outstrips the telephone telephone service of Europe.

J. S. HAYS GIVES RECIPE FOR SUGAR CURED MEAT

Through the request of many farmers to J. S. Hays for a recipe to sugar cure meat he handed us the following for publication.

To one cup of salt add one tablespoon each of red and black pepper and two tablespoons of brown sugar. White sugar may be used if preferred. Add one table spoon of salt per.

Rub the mixture well into the meat from both sides for several minutes, and sprinkle a good layer of it on the flesh side and wrap well with four layers of news paper. Tie paper down well with plenty of cord and then place in flour sack which hang meat up for use.

This mixture is enough for one ham. Meat so treated has a fine dainty flavor.

EDITOR TELLS OF VISIT TO HOME OF FARMER

There is no better known farmer in Haskell County than John T. Therwhanger who lives about 12 miles north of Haskell on the old Benjamin and Haskell road. He is what you might call a stock farmer and has practiced the process for many years. He does not count his stock by numbers but by quality.

This farm when visited by the Farm Editor of the Free Press last Thursday was found to be run in keeping with the same business principals noted in other visits in the past.

In order to make a sermon forceful and impressive the Minister must give a chapter for every statement. In other words his statements if they are to carry the message of truth must be backed by the facts well proven. In this little narrative of the success of this farmer the writer will proceed to give the facts which are known and are vouched for by Mr. Therwhanger.

He has one brood mare from which he has raised four of the best work horses in Haskell county. One of these is now two years old and will stand 17 hands high and weighs 1800 pounds. You will not find such stallions on many farms in Haskell County other county in Texas.

He has made a success with a small herd of Champion Durock Jersey hogs. He bought one Durock sow which cost $1.00 early last spring and he has sold $216.00 worth of Hogs and will keep plenty for his meat and Lard will have more than $100.00 worth of hogs for the market before the year is out.

Mr. and Mrs. Therwhanger have some of the best Rhode Island Red chickens in the county. They expect to keep a pen of reds and stock the farm on the outside with White Leghorns. They already have a fine bunch of chickens now laying. Mr. Therwhanger is prepared to raise hogs and chickens for he has plenty of water, lots of houses to take care of them.

He keeps a line of pure Jersey cats and has one of the champion milk butters cows in the country. Mrs. Therwhanger sells a great deal of butter during the year.

They have just completed a modern new residence on the sight of the old home and the work on the new one was completed last week. This is one of the strongest and best built residences in the county. The lumber of the old home was used in bracing the framing to strengthen and make secure every part. They are delighted with this new home and the Editor of the Free Press was given a warm welcome and was served a good lunch at the noon hour and Mrs. Therwhanger prides herself on making good coffee, which was served with some real fried chicken, and home cooked biscuits.

It is an inspiration to visit this home and see the great barns full of feed which you will find instore for the winter and the good stock that will greet your eyes on every hand.

POWER ON FARMS MEANS FIVE BIG ADVANTAGES

Extension of electric service to rural communities is resulting in five major advantages to farmers according to an analysis of the situation by Dr. E. A. White, director of the committee on the relation of electricity to agriculture, as reported by the Texas Public Service Information Bureau.

These advantages are—improved living conditions; increased production per worker; decreased operating costs; improved quality of farm products; timelessness of farm operation as result of dependable power supply.

It is estimated that between five and ten per cent of the six and one-third million farms of the United States now have electric service, said Dr. White, and twenty state organizations have been formed since 1922 to study farm electrification problem.

"It is no longer a question whether or not there is to be rural electric service in the United States," declared Dr. White. "It already exists, and additional lines to serve farmers are being constructed. The taking of a new form of energy to agriculture, making it an integral part of farm living conditions and production, is a tremendous undertaking.

"In the last analysis, we are more concerned with systems of farming than with specific operation. For this reason there is a feeling in the United States that with some notable exceptions, such as irrigation farming, rural electrification may still be looked upon as an experiment, not as to its ultimate desirability or coming, but as to the changes in our agricultural system which its general introduction will bring.

"It is most gratifying to report that electric light and power companies of the United States are giving constructive attention to rural electric service development. Nineteen operating companies already have one or more men devoting full time to this class of service. Others are organizing rural service departments, thus giving the work the same recognition as is accorded other classes of business.

"The character of the effort being expended in this direction promises to place rural electric development on a sound and aggressive basis."
