Commissioners approve wind farm tax abatement

By James McAfee The Knox County News-Courier

BENJAMIN-The Knox County Commissioners Court approved a tax abatement for Lincoln Clean Energy and its Horse Creek Wind, LLC during its regular monthly meeting here Monday at the Knox County Courthouse.

The Chicago-based company assumed the wind farm project, scheduled for Haskell and Knox Counties.

Will Ferguson, based in the company's Austin office, told the commissioners that the wind farms would now be erected first in the eastern portion of the area in Knox County instead of starting in Haskell County. He added that the project would likely start in Novemeber after certain environmental permits and contracts were finalized with landowners.

The commissioners also approved a resolution to allow the use of county roads and an agreement whereby the company would repair any damages.

Judge Travis Floyd mentioned the county would get $1,900 per megawat, which could result in close to a $1 million over 10 years.

After hearing from Sutton Page of Stamford on the projected benefits of continuing a cloud seeding program with nearby counties, the Council gave its support to sharing a $40,000 commitment with other entities in the county. Commissioner Johnny McGowan will join Ricky Ake in attending future meetings on the proj-

The commissioners accepted a bid of $2,520 from Jeremy Eaton on tax resale deed on property in Knox City and a bid of $7,000 from Jose Castorena for another property in Goree.

In addition, a bid of $89.40 from Dell was OKed for a mini tower to be used for the computer in the Justice of Peace's office, using technology funds.

Glenn Albritton of TxDOT explained details of a sidewalk, wheelchair ramp project around the Courthhouse and extending to the Benjamin school that could be part of a grant program from the Travel Alternative Program. Of the estimated $300,000 cost, the county would be liable for only $40,000 cash and $20,000 in service duties. The commissioners approved a resolution to support the application for the grant, being finalized by Jimi Coplen and Lorrie Coop.

The Council also approved a resolution to continue support for the Regional Homeland Security Program and an agreement between the Knox 911 and the West Central Texas

Council of Government's 911.

The commissioners heard that the Extension office had received grants of $1,200 for a new sewing machine and $1,500 for a gardening project. In addition, Coplen gave details of a car seat giveaway planned for April 30 and an special underage drinking program called "Shattered Dreams" at Knox City High School in May.

Jerry Coplen also mentioned a grant of $9,000 to $11,000 would be forthcoming from the Friends of the National Rifle Association for the Knox shooting programs.

JP Rodriguez indicated $8,648.29 had been collected in fines with $5,81937 staying in Knox County. He added that arrest warrants seem to be helping collect old fines.

The other heads of departments also provided reports before the Commissioners took care of the financials.

Munday to increase water rates $5

By James McAfee The Knox County News Courier

MUNDAY-The Munday City Council approved a $5 increase in the minimum water rates, effective May 1, during its regular meeting here Tuesday night. The overage fees for going over 5,000 gallons will be reduced from $25 to $15 for each 1,000 gallons.

The feeling was that the changes in rates will keep more people from having their water turned off.

City administrator Winston Stephens also noted that having a higher rate would improve the city's standing with the Texas Department of Agriculture when it comes time to apply for grants.

In addition, the Council approved participation with other Knox County entities in the cloud seeding project with a cap of $5,000.

Stephens was given the OK to go forward with plans t together a proposal for an aviation grant with TxDOT and to look into studying the feasibility of reopening the city pool by doing some testing about possible leaks. Mayor Bob Bowen and Council member Tracy Blair were not present and the meeting had to be delayed 20 minutes for Mayor Pro Tem Ryan Cottingham to get from another meeting in order to have a quorum.

KNOX CITY-Having grown up in a small agriculture community in Idaho, nurse practioner Gordon Ross welcomed the chance last month to move to Knox City to join the staff here at the Knox County Hospital, taking care of emergency room duties.

Ross pointed to six years working in a trauma center in Bethesda, MD when he was in the Air Force as the reason he liked such assignments. "It just seems to be my calling," he said. "I love working in a small town ER."

After 28 years in the Air Force, Ross accepted a position at the Runnels County Hospital in Winters last October prior to coming to Knox City.

Ross grew up in Burley, Idaho before leaving to attend Northwest Oklahoma State University in Alva, OK and then deciding to join the Air Force. He also attended the Uniform Services University to further his training.

Taylor Thompson emerged with a silver medal with her 80 finishing in second place, two strokes ahead of Leslie Mavo of Paducah.

Happy, led by medalist Mitchell Downing's 73, and Motley County also qualified boys teams with 346 and 365 totals.

Motley County, White Deer and Higgins advanced girls teams to the state tournament while Shaley Good of Fort Elliott took medalist honors with a 70.

The competition was reduced to 18 holes after the first round was cancelled because of rain and high winds.

DISTRICT TRACK MEETS TODAY

The District 7-1A and the District 8-1A track meets are scheduled today in Knox City and Munday. The top finishers in each of the varsity races for boys and girls will advance to the area event, scheduled Wednesday at Phillip McAfee Track in Munday.

Munday's Moguls and Mogulettes enter the 8-1A competition as the teams to beat based on early season performances.

The Paducah boys and Spur girls get those roles in 7-1A, but Knox City is expected to be a challenger to both teams. Munday school officials tried to change the 8-1A event to Wednesday because of an 50 per cent chance for rain on Thursday, but the event couldn't be moved up.

Tips for enjoying wildflowers

AUSTIN - Springtime in Texas is known for the beautiful wildflowers that blanket the fields and roadsides across our state, including the state flower, the Bluebonnet. Here are a few tips to help everyone enjoy the wildflower season safely and lawfully. While there is no law against picking the state flower, laws do exist against damaging or destroying rights-of-way and government property. So even though picking a few flowers may be okay, individuals should not dig up clusters of flowers or drive their vehicle into a field of flowers. Flower fans must also consider laws against criminal trespassing and make sure they are not on private property when stopping to enjoy or take photos of the wildflowers. Individuals should also be cautious of snakes, fire ants and other potential dangers while observing wildflowers. DPS encourages motorists to be mindful of laws against impeding traffic and exercise caution when slowing down to enjoy the view; and if you decide to stop, choose areas with light traffic conditions. For the safety of yourself and others, consider the following tips while enjoying Texas wildflowers:

TEA gives school districts reprieve on math accountability

AUSTIN-School districts have been granted a one-year reprieve from accountability in one of the major factors in determining successful education.

Commissioner of Education Michael Williams last week announced the Texas Education Agency would not use the scores from the grades 3-8 mathematics State of Texas Assessments of Academic Readiness (STAAR) as part of its process of identifying successful and unsuccessful districts.

Williams said the decision was made after conversations with teachers, parents and superintendents regarding new curriculum implemented this year that's much stricter.

IThe teachers I have spoken with have confidence that Texas students will, in time, adjust to the more rigorous math standards, but for accountability purposes asked for a transition year," Williams said. Based on what I hear from those working in the classroom, I agree.' It's a decision coming on the back of one made last school year, which suspended the requirement that fifth- and eighth-grade students pass their math exam to earn promotion to the next grade.

Cotton planting running behind

COLLEGE STATION - Only about 5 percent of Texas cotton is planted, down from the five-year average of 12 percent for this time of year, according to the latest weekly reports from Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service personnel across the state.

But numbers can be misleading, according to Dr. Gaylon Morgan, AgriLife Extension state cotton specialist, College Station.

True, wet conditions and uncertainty about cotton prices have held back plantings in many areas, but the usual planting date for the Rolling Plains, South Plains and Panhandle, where the bulk of Texas cotton is grown, is still about a month away, Morgan said.

much behind," he said. "We still have plenty of time to get cotton in the ground. We're not a month behind; maybe a week to 14 days behind, at least in the Upper Gulf Coast and the Blacklands. The Coastal Bend is definitely behind, with the final plant date being mid-April and the expected planted acres will definitely be down. The Rio Grande Valley faced a similar challenge with its April 1 final plant date."

Overall, the outlook for a Texas cotton crop is good, Morgan said. In most cotton growing areas, the soil moisture profile is better than it has been for some years. "If Meth may be the most destructive force to ever hit rural America. Unfortunately, it is still out there, as bad as ever.

With it's addictive nature common knowledge, why would anyone try it?

This day and age, it should be more than evident that this poison can ruin you from the first try.

Still, people continue to try it. And they continue to get addicted ... 97 percent to be exact.

If someone set a glass in front of you and told you that 97 percent of the people

Somewhere along the line we've become more tolerant of the drug. We all know people on it, but we also know once someone is on it, they are trapped and our efforts are often futile.

Very few can kick the drug alone, but they tend to only associate with those that also do it.

Usually, once addicted, the road leads two places: prison or death.

It's imperative that our youth be protected from this drug. Thinking, "it can never happen to us,"

Route for water line Wichita Brazos Museum to needs clearance

BENJAMIN-The City of Benjamin has tion state. filed a public notice giving all concerned parties until April 23 to make comments about proposed activity in a floodplain.

Mayor Ronnie White indicated that an evaluation showed the necessity to use a slightly different route whereby 290 linear feet of the 3,500 linear feet of the new 8-inch water would be in the floodplain.

Modification of the floodplain is anticipated to be incidental. According to the project engineer, the improvements will not alter the drainage runoff flow. Therefore, the disturbed floodplain will return to its preconstruc-

Additionally, the project will not increase the amount of runoff because additional impermeable surfaces will not be created. Therefore, impacts to the floodplain will be negligible.

White added that construction of the water line has been delayed until clearance is received from the necessary agencies.

In other city news, it was announced that there would be a city-wide clean up April 25. Residents are reminded to call Benjamin City Hall at 459-3131 or 256-3962 by April 23 for the pick up of large items or items needing to be shredded.

Natural gas pipeline eyed in Big Bend area

ALPINE - A consortium of two companies owned by a pair of billionaire businessmen won a $767 million contract to build a 143-mile natural gas pipeline through mostly private ranch land, but ranchers and landowners are up in arms over the plan.

Rancher Mary Luedeke said talk about condemning something by eminent domain doesn't sit well with West Texas landowners. "I'm here to try and find out where it's going and what their intent is, and to not be painted into a corner by my ignorance," Luedeke said.

The pipeline, which would run south between Alpine and Marfa toward Presidio and connect with a large pipeline on the Mexican side near Ojinaga, would deliver up to 1.4 billion cubic feet a day of natural gas from the Permian Basin for Mexican Federal Electricity Commission's power generation and industrial use.

There currently are no energy transmission pipelines in the Big Bend region, or any oil or gas production.

Benjamin News

By Gladene Green

It's a cool, damp and windy Monday morning, but so far not much rain-just an occasional sprinkle once in a while. I don't know if we'll get anything more than that or not. We can still hope!

We have a few on the ailing list this week, but I'm also glad to report that most of them are making progress back to better health.

Buddy Tolson says he's doing much better since his surgery of a couple weeks ago. Still sore, of course, and will be a while, but he says that is getting better day by day.

Barbara Ryder had foot surgery on Thursday, but thankfully it was not as bad as the doctor had thought it would be. It's still pretty painful but is improving slowly. She's back in Lubbock today for a post op check up.

Imagean Young had a little mishap Thursday. She started to get out of her car and somehow lost her balance and fell, hitting her head on the cement carport floor. She cut a pretty good gash in her forehead, and that required 11 stitches, but other than being sore, that is about all that's bothering her. Of course, she's very thankful that she didn't break a bone.

Judy Barnett is finally feeling "almost" back to normal. She's had a bout with shingles, plus a reaction to some of her medication, but it's about all cleared up now-and she was ready. She's been perfectly miserable for about three weeks.

Daniel Jackson is still on crutches as a result of hurting his ankle several weeks ago while participating in track. He's better also, but still can't walk without the help of the crutches. It shouldn't be too long before he can put them aside.

Irene Reed had to go to the ER Sunday. She had an irritating rash and some welps on her neck. Some of "us" shade tree doctors sure thought she had the shingles, but turns out she had been bitten by a swarm of buffalo gnats, and I guess had an allergic reaction to them. Anyway, after some shots and medication, she's much better and very glad it wasn't the shingles.

Latest report on my great clude pictures, news articles, and items from fire departments in each community while the toys exhibit will include many items of interest from past to present.

Anyone interested in loaning family treasures to the museum for display for the coming year should contact the museum office Tuesday-Friday, 1-5:00 p.m. at 940-459-2229.

grandson, Dillon, is that he got a good report last Tuesday from his doctor. He goes back April 28, and what happens then determines the next step regarding treatment.

Here N There

Billy Jay and Dink Jennings of New Braunfels visited me on Wednesday. They also visited Bud Conner and Hazel Stockton and other friends while in the area.

Corrine Parrish was excited a couple of weeks ago as she celebrated her 93rd birthday with a few friends and family members. Corrine has had some health problems but is doing much better, and that's good to report.

Jan Carver spent the weekend in Abilene with her brothers and their wives, Jerry and Barbara Anderson, who live near Waco, and Dennis and Evelyn Anderson, who live in Abilene. This was their "Christmas" get together. They had to postpone it a couple of times but finally found a time that didn't have a conflict. I'm sure they all enjoyed it.

Joe Trepanier is planning to move back to Benjamin if all goes as he hopes it will. He's going to move into the mobile home that his son, Carl, lived in. We hope he does make the move back over here. He will be an asset to the community.

Debi Moorhouse and Kim Decker of Munday were in Ft. Worth a couple of days last week for Kim's sons to see their doctor.

The Women of Benjamin met on Wednesday night. The attendance was down, but we did enjoy good food and lots of good fellowship. We had postponed the meeting several times due to various reasons, but we voted on Wednesday to have it on the first Wednesday of each month, and anyone who can attend do so. That way, we won't have to decide each month about whether or not to meet. Like anything else, there's never a time that fits everyone's schedule. So keep that in mind--first Wednesday of each month at 6 p.m. at the Baptist parsonage. It's an enjoyable time.

Final Notice and Public Explanation of a Proposed

Activity in a 100-year Floodplain

To: All interested Agencies, U.S. Fish and Wildlife, U.S. Corp of Army Engineers, Texas Commission on Environmental Quality, Texas Department of Agriculture, Groups and Individuals

This is to give notice that the City of Benjamin has conducted an evaluation as required by Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990, in accordance with HUD regulations at 24 CFR 55.20 Subpart C Procedures for Making Determinations on Floodplain Management, to determine the potential affect that its activity in the floodplain will have on the human environment for 2013 Texas Community Development Block under TDA STEP Contract 713036.

This notice is to inform interested parties that the original layout of the project has been changed. The new waterline route within City limits will install 3,500 linear feet of new 8-inch water line along:

On Goree St from Elevated Storage Tank to N. Bedford St On N Bedford St from Goree St to Hays/US 82 On S. Cooper St from Elevated Storage Tank to alley North of Hays/US 82 On Alley north of Hays/US 82 from S. Cooper St to S. Stewart St.

The remaining water line route will remain unchanged.

A map of the proposed area is available at City Hall. The Grantee shall install new 8-inch water line. Contractor shall acquire the right-of-way needed for part of the water line.

Approximately 290 linear feet, or .013 acres, of the new transmission line along the Alley north of Hays/US 82 is located in Floodplain Zone A.

The City of Benjamin has considered the following alternatives and mitigation measures to be taken to minimize adverse impacts and to restore and preserve natural and beneficial values: The City's waterlines are aged and deteriorated, resulting in water loss and frequent maintenance issues. (i) Alternative considered: move the project away from or around the floodplain. However, existing structures in ulterior routes would increase the environmental footprint and project cost. (ii) No Action alternative. This option would result in continued deterioration of the water lines, eventually resulting in a water loss detrimental to the City's citizens. Alternate material and methods are considered, but the project engineer has determined the items proposed are best suited for the project and in the best interest of the environment (iii) The following mitigation measures will be taken to minimize adverse impacts and to restore and preserve natural and beneficial values: Follow best soil erosion management practices and a water pollution prevention plan; Take necessary safety precautions during construction. The project will comply with state and local floodplain protection procedures.

The City of Benjamin has reevaluated the alternatives to building in the floodplain and has determined that it has no practicable alternative. Environmental files that document compliance with steps 3 through 6 of [Executive Order 11988 and/or 11990], are available for public inspection, review and copying upon request at the times and location delineated in the last paragraph of this notice for receipt of comments. This activity will have no significant impact on the environment for the following reasons:

Modification of the floodplain is anticipated to be incidental. According to the project engineer, the project improvements will not alter the drainage runoff flow. Therefore, the disturbed floodplain will return to its preconstruction state. Additionally, the project will not increase the amount of runoff because additional impermeable surfaces will not be created. Therefore, impacts to the floodplain will be negligible.

There are three primary purposes for this notice. First, people who may be affected by activities in the floodplain and those who have an interest in the protection of the natural environment should be given an opportunity to express their concerns and provide information about these areas. Second, an adequate public notice program can be an important public educational tool. The dissemination of information about floodplains can facilitate and enhance Federal efforts to reduce the risks associated with the occupancy and modification of these special areas. Third, as a matter of fairness, when the Federal government determines it will participate in actions taking place in floodplains, it must inform those who may be put at greater or continued risk.

Written comments must be received by the City of Benjamin at the following address on or before April 23, 2015: Benjamin City Hall, 303 S. Hinton, P.O. Box 286, Benjamin, Texas 79505 and (940)459-3131, Attention: Tami Gaddis, City Secretary during the hours of 8:00 am to 4:00 p.m., Tuesday through Thursday. Comments may also be submitted via email to Benjamin_texas@yahoo.com.

uanah Parker always draws a crowd, and a catchy title for an event doesn't hurt either -- even at a historical conference

"Elvis Has Been Sighted at the Laundromat, George Washington Slept Here and Quanah Parker Was Born Simultaneously in Both Texas and Oklahoma: Parsing the Truth as to Quanah Parker's Presence, Travels and Fame" was the intriguing title of a standing-roomonly presentation Friday in Amarillo at the annual meeting of the West Texas Historical Association.

The presenter was Holle Humphries, facilitator and researcher for the Quanah Parker Trail, a 52-county historical project that accounts for 81 roadside arrows across the Texas Panhandle and Plains. Childress has an arrow;

Post has two. The 22-foot-tall steel arrows also stand in Memphis, Benjamin, Floydada, Wellington and other places in the readership of Blackburn Media, excluding Oklahoma, but only because the Sooner State isn't part of the Texas Plains Trail Region, the official heritage tourism division that is home to the Quanah Parker Trail project. (See quanahparkertrail.com.)

Places that claim to be Quanah's birthplace, based on varying reports, some from Chief Quanah himself, include Elk Creek in the Wichita Mountains of Oklahoma and various sites in Texas -- Cedar Lake near Seminole, Tahoka Lake and Wichita Falls. Humphries mentioned all the sites and noted that Quanah lent credence to some of the claims because of travels he made in Texas toward the end of his life. Quanah died in 1911.

The marker at Cedar Lake is a 1936 Texas Centennial Marker.

"Texas was reinventing itself in the late 1930s and identifying with its cowboy culture to counter the downside of losing the Civil War," Humphries said, noting that Quanah fit the cowboy and Indian image. Indeed, the presentation after Humphries' concentrated on Chief Quanah's positive relationship with ranchers at the turn of the 20th century.

A picture of Quanah taken later in his life was part of Humphries' presentation. Visiting the place of one's birth in one's latter years is a Comanche custom, she said -- a fact confirmed later during the conference by Ardith Parker, Chief Quanah's great-granddaughter.

"Having lost his mother and his father afterwards, Quanah, like us, sought the answer to nature of his origins as a Comanche of the Plains," Humphries said, tying all of Quanah's birthplace legends together but still offering no explicit answer as to which place

Freeman and Hensley talked about the importance of Quanah as a figure of importance not only to his own people but also to ranchers of his era -- men whose empires shaped the culture of Southwest Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle and Plains.

You could write an entire volume on Quanah Parker's relationship with Anglo ranchers and how that defines us," they said.

Hensley and Freeman mentioned a missing 200-page manuscript referred to in a letter written by Laura Birdsong, a Quanah descendent, to Samuel Burk Burnett.

"If it were to be found, there may be a whole lot more about Quanah Parker's life that we are able to discover."

The historians at the conference, some professional and some not, listened intently on a broad range of topics and heard Bill Neal, Hardeman County native, speak at a banquet Friday night.

Texas State Historian Bill O'Neal, WTHA president, introduced Bill Neal, whose middle initial is "O," and shared, with his characteristic humor, stories about incidents that have happened because of the similarity in their names. The two have nicknames for each other, O'Neal said, namely "Period" and "Apostrophe."

Neal, author of "Getting Away with Murder on the Texas Frontier" and other books about the legal system on the frontier, entertained the crowd with excerpts from his book and also from his life. His talk was titled "Courtroom Gladiators of Yesteryear: Tales of Those Audacious Frontier Lawyers." Even as Neal spoke, a figure of Quanah Parker stood next to the podium, a largerthan-life effigy put in place as a backdrop to the presentation of a special award, following Neal's address, from the WTHA to the Quanah Parker Trail. The $1,000 award from the Tillapaugh Public History Fund, announced by O'Neal and J. Tillapaugh, director of the fund and past WTHA president, recognized the Quanah Parker Trail for commemorating the history of West Texas in an extraordinarily successful way.

Other trails, including the Great Western Trail from Texas to Dodge City and points beyond and the Potter-Bacon Trail through West Texas, both cattle trails, were also topics at the scholarly conference. The conference participants also made their own trails in and around Amarillo, taking bus tours to the Charles Goodnight House at Goodnight on Thursday and, among other places, to the now-vacant Herring Hotel in Amarillo, a downtown landmark built in 1926.

Barbara Brannon, director of the Texas Plains Trail Region, lingered at the old Herring for a closer look at the building after the bus tour departed. Brannon took a second look at the basement, where a mural executed by the renowned Panhandle artist H. G. Bugbee is still partly intact, and she also took the stairs to see each floor and the roof.

"In the Plains and Panhandle we are lucky to have a few surviving gems from the era of the grand hotel. Visitors are eager to recapture the sense of the authentic past they embody, and we should work hard to preserve and reuse them. What we've seen from projects like Big Spring's Hotel Settles is that a revived historic hotel serves as a magnet for other redevelopment like no other building can.'

Notice of Drinking Water NITRATE Violation

Mandatory Public Notification Language

The Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) has notified the City of O'Brien water system that the drinking water being supplied to customers had exceeded the Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) for NITRATE. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (U.S. EPA) has established the MCL for NITRATE at 10 mg/L, and has determined that it is a health concern at levels above the MCL. Analysis of drinking water in your community for NITRATE indicates a level of 12 mg/L for EPoo1. This violation occurred during quarter 4 2014.

Infants below the age of six months who drink water containing nitrate in excess of the MCL could become seriously ill and, if untreated, may die. Symptoms include shortness of breath and blue baby syndrome. If your child is under the age of six months, the child must be given an alternative water supply for any consumption. Boiling the affected water is not an effective treatment for nitrate removal.

Most consumers do not need to use an alternative water supply. However, if you have health concerns, you may want to talk to your doctor to get more information about how this may affect you. At this time, the health effects to fetuses of pregnant women is unclear. If you are pregnant, you may also choose to use an alternative source of water for drinking and cooking purposes.

Steps to Correct the Problem:

The City of O'Brien is currently in the process with the help of the Texas Water Development Board to be able to blend water from the City of O'Brien's water well and surface water from North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority

Please share this information with all the other people who drink this water, especially those who may not have received this notice directly (for example, people in apartments, nursing homes, schools, and businesses). You can do this by posting this notice in a public place or distributing copies by hand or mail.

If you have questions regarding this matter, you may contact Sam Watson at 940-658-3313.

s much as I usually like to see more drama on the closing nine of the Masters, it was nice to see 21-year-old Dallas native Jordan Spieth continue his hot streak--two wins and a pair of seconds in his last four starts-and win what is likely not his last major.

In becoming the first wire-to-wire winner at the Masters since Raymond Floyd in 1976, Spieth set all kinds of records, just missing the best winning score ever at Augusta National when he failed to convert a five-footer for par on the final green.

"It's the most incredible week of my life," Spieth said after getting his green jacket. "This is as great as it gets in JAMES our sport. This was the ulti-MCAFEE mate goal in my golf life."

While Spieth does occasionally let a drive leak to the right, his putting more than makes up for these few mistakes. He has that ability to focus and see things clear and perform at his best when the pressure is on--something only the great players seem to have.

Watch out Rory, Jordan has his eyes on that No. 1 ranking in the world! "The ultimate goal is to become the number one player in the world," said Spieth. "I'm not quite there yet."

However, it's too early to even start thinking if he could come close to being a threat to Jack Nicklaus' record of 16 majors.

It's nice sometimes to hear a sports story that isn't about just winning. That's why I wanted to pass along this interesting story about a college softball game that Becky Offutt sent me last week.

Sarah Jakalski hits a home run, her first ever, with two runners on late in the game that would allow Western Oregon to beat Central Washington for the conference title. However, in her excitement, she failed to touch the bag as she rounded first base. The coach yelled for her to come back. Pivoting to go back, her cleats get caught and she fell to the ground in excruciating pain with what turned out to be a torn ACL. She literally crawled back to first base.

When her coach asked the umpire if he could substitute a runner, he was told her home run would be recorded as a single and the runners would have to return to second and third base. Her teammates then asked if they could carry her and were told if they touched her it would be an out and the inning would be over.

Mallory Holtman of Central Washington went to the umpire and asked if there was anything in the rules that would prevent players from the opposing team carrying Sarah. Upon hearing it would be OK, three girls picked up Jakalski and carried her around the bases, lowering her uninjured foot to touch each base. As a result, Central Washington lost the game, 4-2.

John Smith, who passed it along to Becky, noted the story was a victory for the nobility of character that so seldom is not allowed to surface because too many of us are controlled by self interest. I agree.

While sharing good news, my friend from Oklahoma, Jim Mills, had praise for CBS newsman Bob Scheiffer, who announceed his retirement recently. Mills wrote him a letter, praising his values and devotion to journaism , and got back a a nice personal note signed "Bob." Mills noted, "I put him in the same category with Walter Cronkite and Edward R. Murrow and it is nice to know he is a regular guy that answers his mail."

Closer to home. the new restaurant in Munday, Caroline's, opened last week, giving residents another dining option for breakfast and lunch. I heard some good reviews. I heard at another meeting Tuesday that the hours may be extended to include dinner.

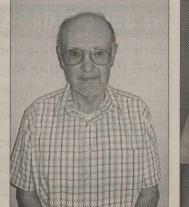

Going back for breakfast earlier this week, I did find out that I made a mistake in the caption identifying the Garcias. Monica is Caroline's sister-in-law, Victor is Caroline's son and Tony or T.J. is Monica's son. I apologized. Even after eight months, I still don't know all the family connections, but should have double checked.

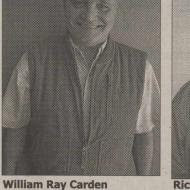

Even better news for Munday residents, more eating places will be opening in the near future, including White's Fisherman just a half block away. Ground was also broken on another place next to the Munday Clinic. In addition, a donut shop is also scheduled to open.

In closing, remember "life is short, spend it with someone who makes you laugh."

What exactly is "Doppler radar" that the weather folks refer to?

It's the type of radar that uses microwave radiation to detect the strength and movement of severe storms, says Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University. It's named after the Austrian scientist Christian Doppler, who in 1842 discovered many of the principles of waves that we know today.

"Doppler radar allows us to observe the movement of precipitation, such as rainfall or even snowfall and ice crystals, by using waves that bounce off these substances," he says. "Water drops and snow and ice will reflect these waves and send them back to a transmitter or receiver and because it's so precise, Doppler can tell us the movement of storms and how intense they are. It usually does this with the use of a colored monitor or screen showing severe storms as dark green, blue or red."

McRoberts says Doppler radar is very effective."It's the most advanced weather radar system there is," he explains.

"The unique aspect of Doppler radar is that it allows us to look inside a storm. We can project rainfall amounts and detect the movement of storms, even tornadoes, better than ever, and this gives meteorologists a method to give the public advance warnings, sometimes even up to an hour."

Up until the 1980s, many weather stations were using radar technology that was used in the 1940s and 1950s, but Doppler radar eventually replaced all of those. Today, there are 160 Doppler sites around the U.S., and most of these are operated by the National Weather Service. The rest are used by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) or by the Department of Defense."

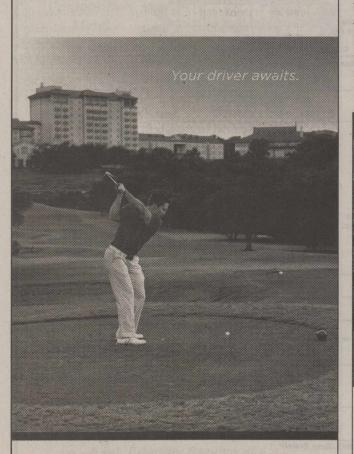

Because cancer never sleeps, Relay For Life is traditionally held overnight on an outdoor track so that participants can walk through the night in support of local survivors and the fight against cancer. This year, Relay activities will span a 12-hour period during the day

When local governments want to increase tax revenues, they are required to publish notices in the newspaper so that you will know. But that right to know could disappear.

Local governmental entities across the state want to hide their public notices on little seen, rarely visited government websites.

What you don't know will affect you personally!

If it is not in the newspaper, you won't know about it.
