Jody the Diadectes discovered near Seymour

By Chris Flis

Special to The Knox County News-Courier

SEYMOUR —It's difficult to imagine living in Seymour 290 million years ago. It's hard to imagine what a million years is, for that matter. But 290? Million?

The Whiteside Museum of Natural History has been on this planet for roughly 450 days. Yes. Days. And we're thriving. I think Seymouria would be proud. And the discoveries keep coming. The exploration of Seymour's enigmatic, biological past has helped us to paint a vivid picture of great beasts large and small, some of which would have given us a terrible fright had they lived for another quarter of a billion years.

Jody the Diadectes is the latest sleeping giant to rustle in its dusty sheets—the discovery made recently a few miles from town. So far, we have a stunning, complete skull- as well as numerous ribs and vertebrae. This is quite enough material to say there is, at least, a partial skeleton slowly being exposed.

Diadectes is a favorite of mine, and is always favored by museum guests. I often overhear children and adults cautiously whisper, "He's so cute—I wish I had one as a pet." A symphony of giggling ensues. I don't blame them—he does have a rather adorable, English Bulldog-esque mug, with droopy forlorn eyes, and a beefy neck you just want to throw your arms around. And then all 800 pounds of him sits on your lap, resulting in your best impression of a marvelous Maverick Café pancake. Ouch. But who exactly is Diadectes? And why is he so important? Simply, he is one of the very first big land herbivores on the planet, with specialized teeth that helped him to eat plants.

Discovered by Edward Drinker Cope nearly 150 years ago right here in Baylor County, his remains continue to surface and are easily recognized due to the sheer mass. The skull is incredibly robust—as is the rest of his skeleton. It is easy to see why his nickname is the Permian Tank; he was built for walking on land with immense muscles in his back, shoulders, and legs.

If you look up Diadectes, you will get some very good information on him, but you will also see him referred to as both a reptile and an amphibian. Paleontologist Dr. Robert Bakker and I have had countless discussions on the delightfully odd nature of Diadectes, who as Dr. Bakker says, is both very primitive and incredibly specialized.

The most current scientific data indicates a close kinship with Pelycosaurs and mammal-See JODY, Page 8

Front doesn't bring enough needed rain

Special to The News Courier

While other areas of North Texas reported larger amounts of rainfall over the weekend, only about a quarter of an inch was reported in Munday and Knox City. Slightly larger totals were reported from the northern part of Knox County.

Farmers do need moisture now because of the drier than normal

However, it appears the effects of El Niño will not bring rain until next month, according to Dr. John Nielsen-Gammon, state climatologist and Regents Professor of Atmospheric Sciences at Texas A&M University, College Station.

"Once we get in October/November, the northern two-thirds of the state should generally start to see above-normal rainfall," he said.

The front that moved through on the weekend did bring cooler temperatures, but more warm weather was expected as fall arrived yesterday.

Thornberry votes for pro-life bills

WASHINGTON - U.S. Congressman Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) voted in support of two pro-life bills last week, one that would strip all federal funding from Planned Parenthood and the other would ensure babies born alive following an abortion receive the proper care provided to other newborns.

To say it has gone quickly is an understatement. While far from perfect, he shows strong character and leadership traits. I'm not sure any of his friends would follow him into battle just yet, but they'd join him at the

Both he and his older brother, Jackson, age 12, are growing quickly. Sutton Hawk hit a spurt earlier in the year and he got within about three inches of big brother (he currently outweighs Jackson by 10 pounds). But this summer, Jackson shot up several inches to not only put distance between the two, but pass his mom in height coming in at just under 5'8.

Palafox was a passenger in a 2015 Jeep Cherokee that was struck by a 2011 Ford F-150 that failed to yield right of way.

The driver of the pickup dropped his cellphone, according to the DPS, and drove through a stop sign as he reached to pick it up, hitting the Jeep.

Palafox was pronounced dead at Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene. The pickup driver and the driver of the Jeep were treated and released at Anson General Hospital.

We, as drivers, never think it will happen to us until it does. Then it's too late."

"We are not true multitaskers. You can only put 100 percent into one thing at a time. When you're behind the wheel driving, make driving that one and only task," DPS officials said.

Mustangs out kick Paint Creek, 28-26

By James McAfee The Knox County News-Courier

BENJAMIN — The Benjamin Mustangs broke into the win column thanks to succesful PAT kicks by David Torres that provided them with a 28-26 win over Paint Creek on the road last Friday.

The victory avenged a 60-33 setback to Paint Creek last season that ended the Pirates' 24-game losing streak.

Coach Jacob Navarro felt the Mustangs played well. "We played with enthusiasm and heart and our goal is just to get better than the week before; and that's just what we did," he said.

Justin Rainwater scored twice on the ground and threw to Torres for another touchdown, finishing the night with 10 of 16 for 170 yards. What proved to be the winning TD came on a return of an intercepted pass by J.C. Espinol.

The Mustangs did gain returns of 40 and 20 yards. Paint Creek kickoffs as Rainwater returned two for 47 yards and Damian Landi and Caleb Barrientez added good field position after Meanwhile, the Pirates had no return yardage.

Benjamin also won the junior high game by a 38-32 margin.

Well, after a two-week absence, I'm back at my column. Had a little sick "spell"-spent about four days in Knox County Hospital and I'm finally getting my strength back and feeling better. Had a bit of trouble with blood pressure and my heart, but I think I'm back on the road to recovery. I will see a cardiologist in Wichita Falls on Friday for consultation and evaluation. Thanks to everyone who has shown so much concern during this time.

Being sort of out of circulation for a couple of weeks, my news is pretty scarce this week. I am encouraged about the football teams. Hounds in showdown with Borden County

By James McAfee

The Knox County News-Courier

KNOX CITY — The Knox City Greyhounds got maximum mileage out of only 13 plays from scrimmage in racing past the out-manned, short-handed Jayton Jaybirds, 57-6, here last Friday night at Greyhound Sta-

The Greyhounds, now ranked No. 2 in sixmanfootball.com's rankings, improved to 4-0 headed into a Friday night showdown at home against No. 3-ranked Borden County, which outscored defending state champion Crowell, 58-48, to open the season.

Coach Charles Steele indicated Friday's game would give the Greyhounds an opportunity to see how they stack up against the rest of the state as the Coyotes are one of the state's best.

"We executed well on offense and flew to the ball on defense," he said about last week's game.

Anthony Estrada was honored for the big hit and scored on a pass inteception. Christian Abila and Brady Hawkins shared offensive player of the game honors while Abila and Skylar Neill shared special teams honors.

When it appeared that the game would probably extend into the third quarter, the Greyhounds took advantage of a pair of turnovers to scored 16 points in the final 19 seconds on a pair of Elias Nevarez passes of 29 and 30 yards to Hawkins and Estrada and two successful PAT kicks by Abel Sandoval to end the game at halftime.

The Greyhounds wasted no time showing the Jaybirds that they had the necessary offensive fireworks as Neill raced 50 and 17 yards on the first plays of their first two possessions.

Then Estrada picked off a

Kaden Awe pass and returned it found Hawkins for the extra 47 yards for a TD. Sandovall's PAT kick made it 20-0.

The Jaybirds then converted a fourth and 16 when Awe found an open Tyler Seaton for 37 yards to the Hound 31, Kobe Lidenbe escaped for 21 yards and then scored from two yards on the first play of the second quarter, narrowing the deficit to 20-6.

The Greyhounds needed five plays to cover 45 yards with Abila going the final four yards to up the margin to 26-6.

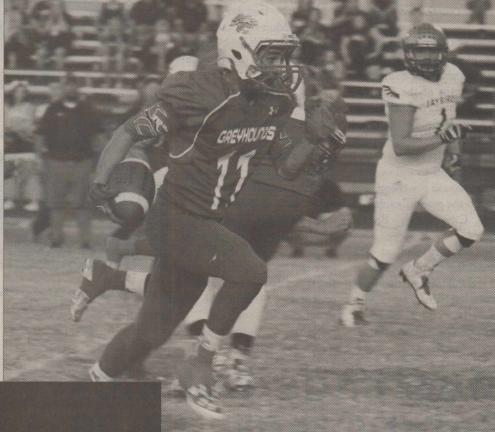

Jayton went for it on fourth down in its own territory, but Neill sacked Awe, giving the Hounds the ball at the Jaybirds' 19. Nevarez found Abila open and he raced to the end zone. When the snap was high, Sandoval picked up the ball and point to stretch the lead to 33-6.

Operating from their twominute offense, Nevarez found Hawkins open for a 43-yard gain and then hit Neill to cover the final 11 yards. Sandoval's PAT kick made it 41-6 with 1:58 left in the half.

Abila recovered a fumble and then Nevarez connected with Hawkins for 19 and 29 yards to reach the end zone. Only 19 seconds remained when Sandoval added the PAT kick.

Attempting to end the game via the "mercy rule," the Hounds were successful with an onside kick with a Neill recovery at the Jayton 30. Nevarez connected with Estrada and he ended the game by escaping into the end zone.

Lightning bolts not the same

How powerful is lightning?

It's a lot more powerful than most people believe, says Brent McRoberts of Texas A&M University. "We know for a fact that not all lightning bolts are the same strength – some are relatively weak while others are incredibly strong," he explains. "At any given moment, there are about 1,800 to 2,000 thunderstorms on McRoberts adds. "Since 1959, an Some lightning bolts seem faint, Earth and it's estimated that there average of about 70 people a year while others light up the entire sky. about 100 lightning strikes each died in the United States from second. A typical lightning bolt contains about 15 million volts of electricity and can heat up the air around it to well over 50,000 degrees (the surface of the sun is about 10,000 degrees). That's why the total energy of one thunderstorm can easily surpass the energy released during an atomic explosion."

If lightning is that strong, how do people survive when struck by it?

The answer is that many don't, lightning strikes," he says. "In the 1940s, although America's population was less than half of what it is today, lightning killed more than 300 Americans each year, on average. In 1943 alone, 432 died, so more people today tend to take shelter quicker when lightning is nearby. Many people do survive after being hit by lightning and there are some strange stories about individuals being literally knocked out of their shoes, or of horseshoes being blown off of horses as the bolt passes through their bodies and of houses being completely destroyed by one bolt. Florida is by far the leader in lightning deaths. From 1959-2014, there were 477 lightning fatalities in Florida, the most of any state and one of the highest totals of any location in the world."

Recipe of the week

By Vonda Carter

The first thing I need to tell you all is "please" do not put a can of chilies into the No-Bake Oatmeal Cookie recipe from last week. My apologies to Theresa, I appreciate her bringing this error to my attention. I hope you will try this recipe (without the chilies), I have and it's really good (luckily I wasn't using my column for a reference). The second thing is that this is the final week for this section, featuring recipes from the Knox County Heritage Cookbook. I hope you'll decide to pick one up. I decided to visit Mexico this time, come along with me and try these recipes. In closing, I would like to say that I have absolutely loved having my own little corner to share recipes from this cookbook, it's been fun, I hope you all have enjoyed it too. I will continue to have the cookbooks available for purchase right here in our office or directly from the Knox County Historical Commission for $20.

Enchilada Casserole

2 lbs. ground meat

1 lg. onion, chopped

1 can cream of chicken soup

1 can mild enchilada sauce

Mary Cartwright, Munday 1 pkg. tortillas

Wanda Lou Navratil Hardin, Gilliland

Finnice Imogene Walker Turnbow, Knox City

1 sm. can taco sauce

1 sm. can chopped green chilies

Grated cheese

Brown hamburger meat and onion; drain. Mix all ingredients together; simmer a few minutes. Tear tortillas in pieces, line a 13x9x2-inch pan or two smaller ones. Put a layer of meat mixture on tortilla, layer of shredded cheese, another layer of tortillas, then meat mixture. Bake 30 minutes at 350 degrees. In last few minutes of baking, top with more shredded cheddar cheese. Serve hot. This freezes good. Serves 8-10.

Cover bottom of skillet with oil and heat to medium. Pour in comet rice, enough to cover bottom of pan also (about one cup or so). When rice is nice and brown lower heat and add a cup of water, a can of tomato sauce, Ro-Tel, chopped onions, chopped pepper (bell, serrano, jalapeno or Anaheim works good), garlic salt, pepper, comino and caldo de pollo (chicken flavored bullion). Cover and simmer for about 45 minutes. All amounts are guesstimated to your liking

Cherry Enchiladas

Cherry pie filling

6 flour tortillas

¼ tsp. almond extract

1 T. sugar

1 stick margarine 1 ½ c. water bill of $422.29. DirectTV asks customers to sign or agree to what attorneys call an adhesion contract, meaning consumers have no power to negotiate or modify the terms. So while the consumer is locked into a two-year commitment, the contract pparently, I don't carry the weight makes no mention about guaranteeing the service will be acceptable.

After Burley heard Williams' story, he contacted DirecTV and within two hours got word that it would waive the fee.

I experienced a similar situation when I decided to not keep DirecTV service when we bought our new home in Munday, but didn't realize how the agreement worked. So I ended up having my debit card charged $385.32. However, repeated calls to customer service didn't get the same offer to waive the fees.

Realizing that I had been charged for services, I called customer service back and found out from Suzie that DirecTV would give me credit of $297.50 if I decided to renew. She also promised a new and improved dish that would have helped me get better service last winter.

So I am giving DirecTV a second chance now that I understand the agreement better, but still think there should be some kind of warranty offered if you aren't satisfied with the service you are getting.
