All Around
The Town

BY MARY ANN SARCHET

THE PRICE THEY PAID

Have you ever wondered what happened to those men who signed the Declaration of Independence?

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors, and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Revolutionary Army; another had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardships of the Revolutionary War.

What kind of men were they? Twenty-four were lawyers and jurists. Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners, men of means and well educated. But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured. They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor.

Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts, and died in rags.

Thomas McKean was so hounded by the British that he was forced to move his family almost constantly. He served in Congress without pay, and his family was kept in hiding. His possessions were taken from him, and poverty was his reward.

Vandals or soldiers or both looted the properties of Ellery, Clymer, Hall, Walton, Gwinnett, Heyward, Rutledge and Middleton. Francis Lewis had his home and properties destroyed. The enemy jailed his wife and she died within a few months.

At the Battle of Yorktown, Thomas Nelson, jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the Nelson home for his headquarters. The owner quietly urged General George Washington to open fire, which was done. The home was destroyed, and Nelson died bankrupt.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. Their 13 children fled for their lives. His fields and grist mill were laid waste. For more than a year he lived in forests and

It will make a smooth running, more exciting evening if the participants know in advance how their events are set up and where they start. caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead, his children vanished. A few weeks later he died from exhaustion and a broken heart. Morris and Livingston suffered similar fates.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These were not wild-eyed, rabble-rousing ruffians; they were soft-spoken men of means and education. They had security, but they valued liberty more. Standing tall, straight, and unwavering, they pledged: "For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of the Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other, our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

They gave us an independent America! Can we keep it?

Plan now to attend the Little Wrangler Rodeo at 7:00 p.m. Saturday at Wood Memorial Arena to see if Cy Comer and Michael Reagan's practicing efforts will pay off when they compete in Junior Goat Milking.

Plaque Soon To Be Ordered for Donors To Air Conditioning System

Donations are still coming in for the Silverton Future Business Leaders of America Chapter 2021 project of air conditioning the Silverton School auditorium. Mrs. O. C. Rampley reported this week that an initial payment has been made to the installing company and 30 days credit has been granted for the remainder of the amount due. Based on her faith that the contributions would be sufficient to properly cool the auditorium, she ordered the extra five-ton unit installed in the back of the auditorium for maximum comfort.

Several local people have indicated to her that they intend to make a contribution, but for one reason or another they have been putting it off. If you fall into this group, why not sit down right now and get that check in the mail in order to be placed on the plaque—if your donation is $100 or more. It is time to select the plaque, and it is imperative that she know approximately how many names it will need to accommodate. In addition to personal donations, some have donated in memory of a loved one who was a former Silverton student. Others, who were not

New Lake-Record Black Bass Taken On Live Minnow Saturday

Depth of the water at the dam at Lake Mackenzie is 113 feet and the water temperature is 61°, and bass fishing is the best it's been in several years. Bill Seaberg of Lubbock caught a lake-record largemouth bass weighing 7½ pounds Saturday. It was caught in eight feet of water up Williams Creek using a live minnow for bait.

Bass were caught which weighed one and one-half to three pounds. They were being caught on crankbaits, top water lures and plastic worms.

Still no big stringers of crappie were being caught, but C. D. Adams of Amarillo brought in one that weighed 2¼ pounds and Zach Nutt of Floydada weighed in a crappie at two pounds.

Stripers are still a little slow, but the deep water produced a nine pounder for Gayle Cornelius of Hereford, who was using a silver spoon.

Twenty-seven Briscoe County 4-H members will participate in

Wildlife Promotion Program Established For Briscoe County

The Extension Ag-Industries Committee in Briscoe County sponsored a very successful hunting and recreation program in 1986, says Jimmy Burson, committee chairman. With the help of the County Extension Office and supporting local businesses, a brochure guide on Briscoe County was published. This guide listed all the acreage available in the county for hunting, fishing, recreation and who to contact to lease it. It also promoted both Lake Mackenzie and Caprock Canyons State Park. The brochure was distributed nation-wide to individuals interested in hunting. In addition to this, major media such as Amarillo Globe-News and Dallas Morning News did feature stories on the county.

Landowners participating in the program attributed their success in 1986 to the promotion effort. Many said that the people from all over Texas contacted them about possible leasing of land. Each landowner participating in 1986 is being surveyed to determine the gross income to the county.

The Ag-Industries Committee has set guidelines and enrollment dates for the Second Edition of the brochure in 1987. The cost to participate will be $30.00 per producer and $30.00 per business to advertise. The deadline to enroll will be June 1, 1987 at the Briscoe County Extension Office. The brochure will be open to all producers who wish to participate. Businesses will be given a one-half page advertisement for the $30.00 fee.

The book will be distributed to all who received a copy in 1986 and free of charge to those who requested a copy this year. Publication date will be July 15. Income from ads sold will be used for all publication and mailing costs. The book will be free to all who request a copy.

For enrollment forms, you can contact Dirk Aaron, Briscoe County Extension Agent, in Silverton at 806-823-2343 or 806-847-2251.

dana tied to their arm who will be running the arena and watching for their safety.

In the past there has been a problem with poor view from the stands because of so many parents in the arena helping or taking pictures, especially during the calf riding. This year we ask that parents remain outside the arena and view the calf riding from behind the chutes; however, if you have a hesitant preschooler or younger student who seems reluctant, frightened, or shy about participating, please feel free to enter with him or her for support and encouragement if you feel you are really needed. David Reagan will be taking pictures during every event and the pictures may be viewed Tuesday, May 19, in the school cafeteria where copies can be ordered at cost.

Don't forget: three events are free--the Boot Scramble (4-9 years), the Greased Pig Contest (10-14 years), and the Cow Chip Throwing (school staff only).

Ya'll come and see the fun!

Last Friday was JAMS DAY in the Silverton Schools, and those judged best dressed that day were (left to right) Santos Segura, Lyndall Ivory, Richie Hill, Tyra Younger, Mike Long, Melissa Garcia, Stacy Minyard, Paula Garvin and Stan Fogerson. There were four divisions: K-4, 5-8, high school and faculty. Mike Long stood behind the children so that the glare off his legs wouldn't ruin the picture. The event was sponsored by the Student Council, and those who didn't dress appropriately were fined.

Big Doings 'n Silverton Is Huge Success

About 100 persons attended the style show sponsored by Tiffin's Dept. Store in the Pioneer Room at First State Bank Saturday. Silvertown exes, have donated in the names of their young children who are presently enrolled in the school.

Mrs. Rampley stressed the fact that small donations are also greatly appreciated and needed to complete payment on the project. Several checks come in daily for $5, $10, $15, or whatever people can afford to give. She says one of the greatest rewards of conducting this project is seeing the reaction of her students to the generosity that is being expressed. She feels they are learning a great lesson in love and giving, because some of them honestly did not expect people to respond to their call for help in updating the school. The teenagers have had many lessons about supporting their school and community, and now they have had the opportunity to see that lesson put into action and to help record its progress.

Mrs. Sid Richards was surprised with a birthday dinner in the home of her brother and sister-in-law, the Obra Watsons, on Wednesday of last week. Other guests were her sister, Mrs. Norman Nettleton and her husband of Whitesboro; a brother, O'Neal Watson and his wife, Sallie, of Amarillo, and her husband, Sid Richards. The day was spent visiting and recalling many happy experiences. Mrs. Pauline Turner called in the afternoon.

Small Microwave Ovens Are Different

The compact microwave ovens that have become a fixture in many singles' apartments, college dorms and office lunchrooms can't perform like the larger ovens.

The difference, says home economist Dr. Susan Quiring, is in the cooking wattage.

"Most microwave recipes and package directions on prepared foods are developed for ovens with wattage outputs of 600 to 700 watts. The smaller ovens typically have lower wattage outputs from 400 to 500 watts," explains the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

She says that one of the factors that determines cooking speed is output wattage. If it's less than 600 watts, cooking times may be 20-30% longer than times recommended in the directions.

"It's still best to check the food at the time stated," Dr. Quiring says, "then more time can be added if necessary."

Cookware may fit too tightly for even heating of food in some compact ovens, says the home economist. If the dish seems too large for the oven, she advises making smaller portions or using two smaller containers and cook each separately.

Dr. Quiring reminds oven users to make sure the food doesn't touch the top of the oven. It should be two to three inches from the top for even heating and to prevent damage to the oven.

"Before using any foil in the oven, check the manufacturer's instructions," emphasizes the specialist. "Then, if you are using an approved foil container or foil for shielding it should be at least one inch from the oven walls. If it's too close, small lightning-like flashes can occur, causing damage to the interior of the oven."

She also suggests checking the manufacturers manual to see if there are some foods that cannot be prepared in your oven. Popcorn, for example, may not be suitable for cooking in all low-wattage ovens.

"If you don't have the oven manual and are unsure of its wattage, check with a local dealer that carries that model, or write the manufacturer, says Dr. Quiring.

According to surveys by the National Center of Health Statistics, about 45 percent of black men smoke, compared with about 35 percent of all men.

WHEN GOD

CREATED MOTHERS...

When the good Lord was creating mothers, He was into His sixth day of "overtime" when the angel appeared and said, "You're doing a lot of fiddling around on this one." And the Lord said, "Have you read the specs on this order?" She has to be completely washable, but not plastic; have 180 moveable parts... all replaceable; run on black coffee and leftovers; have a lap that disappears when she stands up; a kiss that can cure anything from a broken leg to a disappointed love affair; and six pairs of hands...

The angel shook her head slowly and said, "Six pairs of hands... no way."

"It's not the hands that are causing me problems," said the Lord. "It's the three pairs of eyes that mothers have to have."

"That's on the standard model?" asked the angel.

The Lord nodded. "One pair that sees through closed doors when she asks, 'What are you kids doing in there?' when she already knows. Another here in the back of her head that sees what she shouldn't but what she has to know, and of course the ones here in front that can look at a child when he goofs up and say, 'I understand and I love you' without so much as uttering a word."

"Lord," said the angel, touching His sleeve gently, "Come to bed. Tomorrow..."

"I can't," said the Lord, "I'm so close to creating something so close to myself. Already I have one who heals herself when she is sick... can feed a family of six on one pound of hamburger... and can get a nine-year-old to stand under a shower."

The angel circled the model of a mother very slowly. "It's too soft," she sighed. "But tough!" said the Lord excitedly. "You cannot imagine what this mother can do or endure."

"Can it think?" "Not only think, but it can reason and compromise," said the Creator.

"Finally, the angel bent over and ran her finger across the cheek. "There's a leak," she pronounced. "I told You You were trying to put too much into this model."

"It's not a leak," said the Lord, "it's a tear."

"What's it for?"

"It's for joy, sadness, disappointment, pain, loneliness and pride."

"You are a genius," said the angel.

The Lord looked somber. "I didn't put it there."

This was borrowed from Erma Bombeck, and I think it says volumes about mothers. Happy Mothers Day!!

Weather Drier Than Normal During April

The weather during April on the Texas South Plains in 1987 turned out to be both drier and cooler than normal.

Temperatures averaged 2.5 degrees below normal and ranged from 0.6 degree below normal at Matador to 4.4 degrees below normal at Friona.

Maximum temperatures averaged 1.2 degrees below normal and ranged from 0.5 degree above normal at Crosbyton to 3.7 degrees below normal at Lamesa. The highest temperature report of the month was 98 at Paducah and Seminole on April 19.

Minimum temperatures averaged 3.7 degrees below normal and ranged from 1.4 degrees below normal at Spur and Tulia to 7.2 degrees below normal at Friona. The lowest report of the month was 20 at Friona on April 1 and Dimmitt on April 3.

Precipitation averaged 0.99 inch below normal and ranged from 0.28 inch below normal at Levelland to 1.62 inches below normal at Paducah. There was even some light snow reported during the first week of April at some locations.

In Silverton, precipitation for April amounted to only 0.10 of an inch, well below the normal 1.49 inches for the month. This brought Silverton's precipitation for 1987 to 3.72 inches, still above the normal 3.67 inches figure. It is very dry here now, and some rain is needed.

Silverton's average daytime maximum temperature was 71.9 degrees, and the average minimum overnight temperature was 38.2 degrees. This gave a monthly average figure of 55.1 degrees.

Cotton Producers Enroll 95.9 Percent Bases In ARP

Cotton producers in the 25-county High Plains area represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, have enrolled 95.9 percent of their effective cotton bases in the 1987 acreage reduction program.

A preliminary report from the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service at College Station shows an aggregate effective base of 4,367,043 acres for the 25 counties, of which 4,188,422 acres have been signed into the program.

In Briscoe County, there are 70,855 total base acres and 51,995 effective base acres. Acres enrolled total 54,182.

"Effective base" is a new term in this year's program, ASCS explains, used to indicate net acreage eligible for annual program participation, as opposed to "total base" which includes bases entered into the 10-year conservation reserve program. Total base for the Plains comes to about 4,708,759 acres, 341,716 acres greater than the effective base. An inexact total base for the area results from the state office not having a total base figure for Yoakum County. The absence of that figure made it necessary for PCG to use as an estimate the county's total base reported for 1986.

Also, county-by-county figures on effective base and acres enrolled make it obvious that some small revisions of the preliminary report will be required in the final version. Five counties, for example, show more acres enrolled than were eligible for program participation. Presumably this could occur when producers signed into the annual program early, then put some or all the enrolled acres into the 10-year conservation reserve during the February CRP bidding period. Thus the CRP acres would be deducted from a county's effective base but would still show as enrolled acres. However, PCG points out that revisions probably won't affect the final program participation figure for the area by more than a few thousand acres.

Producers signing into the program agree to plant no more than 75 percent of their effective bases in return for program benefits. Therefore if producers plant the maximum allowable, planted acreage on all participating farms would come to 3,141,317. However, current law permits producers to plant as little as 50 percent of permitted acreage and still qualify for 92 percent of deficiency payments. How many producers will go the 50-92 route and the percentage level of their plantings, PCG says, is anybody's guess.

Pushed for PCG's estimate of 1987 planted acres, executive officer Donald Johnson reveals that "for lack of a better figure, we're using three million, plus or minus 100,000."

Water Level In Texas Lakes Reach Record Highs

Statistics gathered routinely by the Texas Water Development Board indicate that for the first time in record-keeping history, reservoir conservation storage in the state surpassed 30 million acre-feet (one acre-foot = 325,851 gallons). At the end of March, Texas reservoirs contained 30,013,670 acre-feet of water, representing 94 percent of the total conservation storage capacity in the state. Conservation storage is the water stored between the lowest outlet of a dam and the top of the normal operating level. Additional storage is provided in some reservoirs above this level for flood protection. An additional 737,430 acre-feet of water was reported in flood storage.

By way of comparison, during March of the drought of 1984, the state's reservoirs held 82 percent of their conservation storage. By September of that year, the reservoirs showed a decline of 16 percent to 66 percent of capacity. This was a drop of 5,049,010 acre-feet of water in six months.

Since the drought, the most significant rise in storage capacity has occurred in the Rio Grande basin where International Falcon Reservoir has increased 54 percent from a low of 21 percent last year to its present level of 87 percent of capacity. Least improvement has been in the Canadian River basin, where Lake Meredith has remained at 44 percent capacity.

The Texas Water Development Board monitors 71 reservoirs throughout the state. These reservoirs represent 98 percent of the total conservation storage capacity in Texas. Other sources of information on reservoir water levels include the International Boundary and Water Commission, the U. S. Geological Survey, and the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Stand Of Cotton Isn't Always Easy To Get

by James R. Supak
Extension Agronomist-Cotton

Cotton planting seed supplies on the Texas High Plains will be limited in 1987. It appears there is adequate seed of acceptable quality for the first planting but supplies of certain varieties are already in short supply.

Some growers may have to change varieties or accept seed from lots with standard germination below 80 percent or Cool-Warm Vigor Index (CWVI) values of 120 or less.

Should the need for above normal replanting be encountered, growers are likely to experience difficulties in obtaining quality planting seed, especially of the faster maturing varieties.

As always, it is important to get an acceptable stand from the first planting. There isn't much that can be done about hail, washing rains and sandstorms that take out the first stand; however, some precautions can be taken to avoid poor stands or replanting due to factors related to seed quality, planting dates and planting techniques.

Establishing planting seed quality is the first step toward getting an early, uniform stand of cotton. Good quality, high vigor seed provides better germination and emergence under stress conditions such as cool, wet weather, planting too deep, crusting, etc. The resulting seedlings are less likely to encounter seedling disease problems and are more tolerant to later environmental stresses.

On the other hand, seed that was produced under poor growing conditions, that germinates less than 75-80 percent in standard germination tests and has CWVI values below 120 will require near optimum conditions to develop an acceptable stand and normal production.

The importance of seed quality and its influence on stand establishment and yield is illustrated in the results of a research test conducted by USDA Ag Engineers at Lubbock. In this study, the engineers used "good" (85 percent germination) and "poor" (65 percent germination) quality seed. The seed was planted at three different depths in a moist soil in mid-May. The results indicated:

Depth (inches)	Germination
2	85 65
3	1002 896
3	998 810
4	844 688

Their findings show that under ideal conditions (two-inch planting depth), the good quality seed produced 10 percent more lint than the poor seed. When both seed lots were planted three inches deep to induce a moderate stress condition, the good quality seed still produced top yields whereas yields from the weaker seed fell another 10 percent.

Finally, at the four-inch planting depth, (heavy stress condition) yields of the higher quality seed were reduced 15 percent while those from the lower quality seed fell an additional 12 percent (or some 30 percent below that of the good seed planted at the optimum depth).

The lesson here is clear: Use the best quality seed available

SPS Survey Shows 5,253,976 Cattle Fed In Area

In 1986 more than 5.2 million cattle moved through the feedlots, and five million were slaughtered in the packing plants located in Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) service territory, reports the electric utility's most recent annual Fed Cattle Survey.

SPS serves a 52,000-square-mile area in parts of the Panhandle and South Plains of Texas, Eastern and Southeastern New Mexico, the Panhandle of Oklahoma, and Southwestern Kansas. The feedlots in the territory fed 5,253,976 head last year, a 3.5% increase over 1985, but slightly below the record 5,259,779 fed during 1984.

"This year is the third in a row that the number of cattle fed has exceeded five million," said Seth Thomason, SPS manager of agricultural and industrial power.

and when forced to use lower quality seed make every possible effort to avoid or reduce stress conditions.

In most years, growers will plant two or more lots of seed that differ in quality. As a rule, wait to begin planting until the 10-day average soil temperature at the eight-inch depth reaches 60 degrees Fahrenheit. Remember that this is the minimum temperature at which the planting of good quality seed is recommended.

If there is a question about even the best seed available, allowing the 10-day average soil temperature to reach 65 degrees Fahrenheit greatly increases the probability of getting a stand and cuts down the chances of seedling disease problems.

Always start planting with the best seed. The time it takes to plant the first lot of seed may allow the soil to warm another one or two degrees and the passage of a windstorm or other weather hazard before planting.

Crusting is a frequent problem in this area. Low vigor seed may lack the energy reserves needed to break through the crust. Rotary hoeing or other tillage operations will be required to aid emergence.

One way to increase the probability of getting a stand from lower quality seed is to increase the seedling rate. Seed technologists and seedsmen generally agree that if the seedling rate needs to be increased more than 25 percent above the usual rate, to get a stand of another source of seed should be considered.

Excessive planting rates (above 25 to 30 pounds per acre) frequently result in accelerated stand losses due to increased populations of seedling disease organisms within the drill row. The weak or dead seed serve as a food source for disease organisms and stimulate their development.

Acceptable yields can be attained from a crop that started with fairly low quality seed. Regardless of the quality of available seed, it is always a good idea to take reasonable precautions that minimize the amount of stress germinating seed and young seedlings are subjected to.

"That's a good indication that the cattle-feeding business is here to stay."

Total one-time capacity of the feedlots surveyed in 1986 was 2,594,975 head, down from the total capacity of 2,619,775 head in 1985.

A reported 5,071,877 cattle were slaughtered at packing plants in the SPS service area last year, 293,039 more than were slaughtered in 1985, Thomason said. There are 15 beef packing plants in the SPS service area, he said, with an annual slaughter capability of 5,509,953 head.

"We get requests for Southwestern's Fed Cattle Survey from all across the nation," Thomason said. "By providing this information, we hope to help stimulate further development in the agricultural sector. The area's feedlots and packing plants were extremely cooperative and helpful during this survey. We commend them for their help."

The survey lists each feedlot in the SPS area, and the lot capacities and number of cattle fed, by counties. There are feedlots in thirty of the counties in the SPS service area.

Charts of the number of feedlots surveyed, number of feedlots with 1,000-head capacity or above, growth of the feedlot industry, and one-time feedlot capacity are included in the report.

Copies of the report and survey are available at Southwestern Public Service Company offices and from Thomason, at SPS headquarters, Tyler at Sixth Street, Amarillo, Texas 79170.

Texas To Observe "Buckle Up" Week

"Texas Buckle Up Week," part of the national "All-American Buckle Up Week," is set for May 18-25, just in time for Memorial Day weekend and summer vacation driving. The Texas observance is sponsored by the Texas Department of Health (TDH) Safe Riders Program.

Although state law requires all front seat passengers to buckle up, only about 50 percent of Texas' drivers fasten their safety belts, according to the latest survey by the Texas Transportation Institute of Texas A&M University. Compliance is down from 66 percent in 1986.

Texas law also requires children less than age two to ride restrained in child passenger safety seats, and youngsters from two to four years of age to ride in safety seats or restrained by safety belts. In 1986, two years after the child passenger safety law was passed, only half of the children observed in surveys by the Texas Transportation Institute were properly restrained.

According to David Zane, coordinator of the Safe Riders Program in TDH's Public Health Promotion Division, said overall death totals on the highways are declining.

"Safety belt laws, combined with the 55 mph speed limit and stricter enforcement of drunk driving laws, have helped reduce traffic accident deaths in Texas to the lowest number in ten years," he said.

In 1986, 3,568 persons died in vehicle accidents, down 3.1 percent from 3,682 in 1985.

"But we know that further compliance with the law could make a more dramatic reduction in deaths," Zane said. He added that drivers and their passengers can protect their lives by buckling up, refraining from drinking while driving, and by driving defensively.

The Texas Safety Belt Survivors' Club, operated by the Safe Riders Program, honors persons who were spared injury or death because they were buckled up. Children who were restrained in a safety seat when a vehicle accident occurred also may become members. Members are awarded a certificate and recognition pin. For an application, contact the Safe Riders Program at 1-800-252-8255.

Spirit and Truth

"Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy; for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are."

I Corinthians 3:16, 17

Many today believe that America is a 'Christian country', and because of this, they believe they too are christian. Others, meanwhile, believe membership on a church roll makes them a christian. This seemingly easy sainthood has deceived many. The word of God puts it very simple: those who defile the temple of God (themselves) shall be destroyed. And regular attendance at any church won't change that: only repentance of the defilement (sin) will change matters. Defilement comes in many forms: alcohol, tobacco, bad language, adultery, gossip, and many more. In what way is your temple defiled? You say it's not . . . The word of God declares, "All have sinned, and come short of the glory of God." Romans 3:23 The temple of God is to be holy; and I say unto you, "Follow . . . holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Hebrews 12:14

A Crown for Mother

You, as a Mother, are honored by your children on a special day — Mother's Day. How the little things they make for you with their own small hands please you and warm your heart.

It warms and quickens the heart of God when you honor Him on His special day. "Remember the Sabbath Day, to keep it holy." Exodus 20:8. Worship God on this next Sunday in the church of your choice. We should honor our loving Heavenly Father even as we expect our children to honor us.

Attend church on Mother's Day.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.
