Board Members Decide Against Calling Annexation Election

At a special November 17th meeting, the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 Board of Directors decided against the annexation of Swisher County, Terry County, Yoakum County, the portion of Briscoe County above the escarpment, and the portion of Hale County not already a part of the Water District.

The board received petitions from each of these areas requesting annexation into the district earlier in the year. Hearings were then held in each county. Testimony from these hearings was considered in the deliberations to determine if the annexation would be of benefit to both the territory requesting annexation and to the existing water district. The board also considered whether the existing water district facilities could support the proposed territorial additions without jeopardizing the quality of service being provided to landowners currently within the district.

Board members cited low attendance and lack of strong support at four of the five public hearings in their decision not to continue with the annexation process.

They noted that the areas seeking annexation would require considerable expense to start water district programs and bring them to the operating level of the existing water district. Cost projections indicated that a 25 to 40% increase in the water district's operating budget would be needed to offer full service to the annexed territories without a lessening in the quality of service in the district as a whole. Under the tax code, no tax revenue could be received from the annexed territories until October 1990, which would have put the water district into a debt position.

"We appreciate the support given to us by the residents of the water district during the past 35 years," said board president James P. Mitchell of Wolfforth. "We did not feel that increasing their water district taxes in order to take on an additional 2.5 million acres in territory would be fair to them."

Santa Letters Needed For Christmas Paper

It's time for the kids to be writing their letters to Santa, and the Briscoe County News would like to publish as many Santa letters as possible in the Christmas edition this year.

Through a special arrangement with the North Pole, Santa has agreed to have the children mail their letters to Box 130, Silverton, Texas 79257, and the letters will be forwarded to Santa in plenty of time for him to fill all the Christmas orders. The letters must be received by the Briscoe County News not later than Monday, December 19.

Club Sponsoring Christmas Greeting Page

Deadline for having your name placed on the Christmas Greeting Page is December 16.

SOCIAL SECURITY IN BRISCOE COUNTY

by Terry J. Clements

A recent report by the Disability Advisory Council recommended that Social Security put more emphasis on helping disabled beneficiaries return to work.

We do not believe that the disability and supplemental security income (SSI) programs for people who are disabled and blind should function as programs of premature retirement or tickets out of the workforce, the advisory group stated.

The advisory council was appointed by Dr. Otis R. Bowen, Secretary of Health and Human Services, in July 1986. Its report contains more than 50 recommendations.

The council stated that the work incentives now in the law should be marketed and beneficiaries should be informed as to how they work.

The council understands that the fear of losing benefits may be a key concern among beneficiaries. The Council believes that this fear is in part attributable to a lack of understanding of how entitlement to benefits are protected under current law despite regular and substantial earnings. The Council believes that SSA can best approach this problem by improving public information and, where possible, clarifying the rules and regulations.

A person gets up to nine months of trial work, not necessarily consecutive, in which he or she can have unlimited earnings without affecting Social Security benefits. After that, an extended 36-month entitlement period is available during which benefits may be paid for any month the person does not perform substantial gainful activity. Medicare coverage is available for at least 39 months after the trial work period.

For more information or to file a claim, call 1-800-2345-SSA.

Prussic Acid Poisoning Is Danger to Livestock

Grazing of certain frost-damaged pastures and forages can lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock, said Curtis Preston, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Although many plants contain the toxic material that causes poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when grazing after they have been frozen and wilted are Johnson and Sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these.

The most dangerous time as far as the grazing of these plants is concerned is following frost when the plant material begins to wilt, said Preston. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has dried completely. This usually takes three or four days of good sunlight. New plant growth usually becomes nontoxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain.

As far as the actual poisoning is concerned, the poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most acute cases, animals become affected within 10 to 15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die in two to three minutes, Preston said.

Symptoms of prussic acid poisoning may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficult breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by suffocation since oxygen remains in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues. This also causes the blood to appear bright red.

Here are some steps to prevent prussic acid poisoning in livestock:

1. Allow plant material affected by frost to dry thoroughly before grazing. This may require a week or more of good sunlight.

2. Feed animals hay or a supplement before turning them in on plants that may contain prussic acid. Animals that are not hungry will not be affected as seriously by toxic material since their intake will be limited.

3. Remove all animals from the pasture if one in the herd shows any signs of poisoning.

4. Call a veterinarian immediately if an animal appears to be poisoned. An antidote to treat affected animals is highly efficient if given early. This product is available from veterinarians.

5. Have suspect plant material checked by the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratories at College Station or Amarillo. Local veterinarians will be happy to submit samples for you.

The overall key to prevent prussic acid poisoning in livestock is to be aware of plant materials that may cause poisoning and then to keep cattle from grazing such plants until a safe period has passed, said Preston.

Traditional Christmas music will be the main repertoire of the Plainview Symphony Orchestra the evening of December 5, at 8:00 p.m., when the annual Christmas Concert is presented at the Plainview High School Auditorium. In its tenth season, the Plainview Symphony will highlight favorite vocal and instrumental music of the Christmas season.

For the VIP guest conductor, Mayor of Plainview, Gene Ridlehuber, will conduct the symphony in "I'll Be Home for Christmas." Previous guest conductors in this series have been Lamont Veatch, former superintendent of Plainview ISD and Greg Sherwood, now athletic director of the Lubbock ISD. The Plainview Symphony Orchestra will present a certificate of appreciation and a complimentary tape recording of the performance to Mayor Ridlehuber following the performance on December 5.

The Christmas Concert will open with Leroy Anderson's "Christmas Festival," which includes specially arranged Christmas songs: "Jingle Bells," "Joy to the World," "Silent Night," and "Adeste Fidelis." Principal trumpet, Ron Caffey, will be soloist in "March of the Lead Soldiers," and Principal Flutist, DeAnn Tackitt, will play the flute solo section of Ralph Vaughn Williams' "Fantasia on Greensleeves."

A special arrangement of "O Holy Night" from the library of Carmen Dragon, conductor of the Hollywood Bowl Symphony Orchestra will be presented by the orchestra for the first time on a Plainview Symphony Christmas Concert, and will feature a solo vocal selection by Jerry Minster, conductor. Also included for the first time by the symphony will be "Carol of the Drum" by Katherine Davis.

The Plainview Symphony Chorus will perform with the orchestra in "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Bring a Torch, Jeanette Isabella," and selected carols from the Alfred Burt collection. The Symphony Chorus will be joined by members of the Junior Guild in singing "Deck the Halls" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas." Mary Jane King is the accompanist for chorus preparation.

Other traditional Christmas selections will be "Chestnuts Roasting on an Open Fire," "Sleigh Ride," "White Christmas" and "Nutcracker Suite" selections. For lovers of the harp, prominent harp will be heard in "Greensleeves" and "Waltz of the Flowers."

The Plainview Symphony Orchestra is supported by administrative and fund-raising activities of the Symphony Board, Ken Sjogren, president; also the Symphony Guild, Nicki Logan, president. Conductor of the orchestra is Jerry Minster and artistic director is J. W. King, jr.

The printed program for the Christmas Concert will include a sign-up section for a drawing to be held during the concert for four Suzuki Violin Scholarships, each scholarship to be a three-month series of Suzuki lessons at the Fine Arts Center, taught by Martha Perez. Three of the scholarships are to be given by the Symphony Board, and one scholarship by the Fine Arts Center. Applications for the scholarship must be made at the concert and on the official form provided. The drawing will be at the concert following collection of the forms.

Family Enjoys Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving week was as busy and exciting as ever in the Elton Cantwell home. The first visitors began arriving on Tuesday when Mark, Debbie, Cally and Cameron Burk arrived from Raton, New Mexico and Devin Cantwell came from Canyon. Roger, Shannon and London Cantwell of Canyon arrived Wednesday evening.

Thursday the turkey was cooking in the oven very early in the morning and others began arriving before lunch time. Stan, Roma, Wayne, Ky and Bobby Martin of Grandview were greeted by pleased family members. Dana, Dorothy, Brian and Kami Martin, Earl Cantwell and Nina Martin arrived before lunch, adding their contributions to the already overladen table of "trimmings."

There were a number of activities going on in addition to eating—watching parades and football games on television, games of "42" and Boggle. One of the highlights of the day was a short puppet show presented by Cally Burk and Devin Cantwell. Cally made the puppets and also wrote the script. She operated the Pilgrim puppet and spoke the lines. Devin very ably did the part of the Indian, Squanto. The original performer, Cameron, took a sudden case of stage fright.

Just about all the children performed "original compositions" on the piano. Onlookers stared in disbelief as "Charles Atlas" demonstrated his amazing strength by "chopping" a brick from the fireplace (without the slightest glimpse of pain upon his face). This didn't bother London. The hearth (minus a brick) was her "stage" and she enjoyed swinging and swaying about, batting her big blue eyes and smiling as grandmothers, aunts and cousins held their breath.

Many guests participated in decorating the Thanksgiving tree on the bulletin board by writing things they were thankful for on fall-colored leaves. Some of the things the Cantwells were most thankful for were health, food and shelter, Jesus, forgiveness, godly parents, strength, a godly wife and dear daughter, and one person said all things. The family truly has been blessed in 1988.

Jack, Brenda and Holly Beth

Gaskins, who spent Thanksgiving in Denver City with his parents, returned Friday and Holly Beth continued to charm her cousins. She ate plenty of turkey, dressing and all the goodies, just like the grown-ups. But she was advising all the family that "milk does the body good." By the time all the visitors left on Saturday, the entire family could probably have benefited by a whole day of nothing but milk!

Comings And Goings

Enjoying Thanksgiving with their mother and grandmother, Carrie Dickerson, were John, Debbie, Meagan and Meredith Welch, Amarillo; David, Rhonda, Ross and Greg Hunter, Midland, and Clinton Dickerson.

Estelle Thomas had to return to Dallas for a second emergency eye surgery on November 25. She was accompanied by her daughter, Becky Woods. She is recovering at home now.

Mrs. Cecil Seane and Mrs. George Seane's three great-grandsons, Chase, Will and Dan Seane, all of Kent, spent Saturday night here with Mrs. Seane.

Man Injured In Farm Accident

Royce Garcia received a compound fracture of the right forearm and lacerations when his arm became entangled in a cotton stripper late Monday afternoon at the Brunson-Teepel farm southwest of Silverton.

Garcia was operating the stripper when weeds got in the mechanism, and his arm was caught in the machine when he attempted to remove the weeds. He was able to extricate his arm from the stripper and was taken by the Silverton Volunteer Ambulance Service to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock where he underwent surgery and remains a patient.

Boy Scout News PTA Update

Next week's meeting will be at the Scout Hut Monday at 4:00 p.m. We want to thank those persons who bought some of our popcorn and Christmas wreaths. We also want to thank Leo Fleming for the donation of our flag pole and Bobby Edwards for putting it up for us. We also want to thank everyone who donated a can of food for our food drive. We still haven't made all the streets here in town, so if you have a Scout knocking at your door, please give him a can or two of food. All the food we get goes to the people who need it the most.

I had a Scout ask the other day, "Why do you always volunteer us to do these dumb things. We don't get paid for it." I told him that is what a Boy Scout is, to help people in need, not for money. I told him, in the long run, you do get paid for what you're doing. God keeps his eyes on your good deeds and the people that help us when we're doing them. If you need a good deed done by the Boy Scouts, we will try to help you the best we can. Sometimes we get many things at once to do, but we want to help. Just ask; all I can say is "yes" or "no."

At last week's meeting, Lance Holt, Stan Gamble, Jeff Smith, Anthony Gamble and Recio Cordes came to the meeting. We prepared some luminarias for Century of Progress Study Club.

GRANDPARENTS WEEK

December 12th through 16th will be Grandparents' Week at the school, when grandparents are welcome to visit in the school and have lunch with your grandchild or one you might "adopt" since many children don't have local grandparents. This is an opportunity to let your "grandchild" know you care about what he does at school and that you feel his work is important.

Ted Kingery presented an eye-opening, informative program regarding the IMPACT network for PTA members Monday night. We appreciate his sincere concern for our youth.

Three cheers for Debbie Holt's Fourth Grade Class in their efforts to complete a reading program in which they cumulatively read over 400 books!

Kindergarten, First, Second and Third grades entertained the students and community with a Thanksgiving program before the holiday. It was a well-prepared combined effort resulting from lots of work. Don't miss the Fourth and Fifth grade Christmas program later this month.

GARLIC OIL
With Parsley and Chlorophyll

Garlic contains potassium, phosphorous, a significant amount of B and C vitamins, as well as calcium and protein. It's generally accepted that garlic acts as a diuretic, stimulant, expectorant, and sweat promoter. For centuries, it has been a common European remedy for colds, coughs and sore throats. European physicians have reported that garlic has two outstanding medical properties. One is that it tends to open up blood vessels and reduce blood pressure in hypertensive patients. The other property is antibiotic, and several researchers have found that garlic in large amounts can be effective against bacteria that may be resistant to other antibiotics. The addition of parsley and chlorophyll helps remove the aroma of this natural herb wonder, leaving no after-taste or bad breath. Contains no preservatives, no artificial color or flavor, no sugar and no starch.

MULCH - YOUR LANDSCAPE'S WINTER BLANKET

Mulch protects your landscape in cold weather. Bare spots around trees and shrubs or plants in a winter garden should be mulched to help the soil around the roots retain valuable heat and moisture.

Perennials generally become dormant in winter, but their root systems are still vulnerable to the stress of freezing temperatures. Adding a two- to three-inch layer of mulch in November helps moderate soil temperature and ease root-stress on even your hardiest plants.

Mulching also preserves soil life. By keeping the biologically active top inch of soil from freezing and drying out, mulching preserves beneficial microbes' ability to fix nitrogen, break down organic matter and control soil-borne diseases.

Good mulching material comes in many shapes and sizes. Some of it is even free and readily available around your house and yard.

Nature's Mulch. Leaves are one of nature's ways of protecting and replenishing soil. They can be used "as is" around trees, shrubs and flower beds. Or you can speed up their decomposition by chopping them up first by running over them with a lawn mower.

Old News Is Good News. Newspaper, either shredded or laid out flat around plants, protects soil and roots and biodegrades into a beneficial soil amendment. Newsprint is also a relatively safe mulch, since the newspaper industry no longer uses lead-based inks. But it's still best not to use full-color pages like the Sunday comics. The dyes in colored ink can contaminate the soil.

Say Hay. Hay and straw are popular choices for mulch, but if you decide to use them, be sure you know their source. Hay that's loaded with johnsongrass or other weed seeds will generate more work than benefit once the growing season starts.

Commercial Products. Store-bought mulches come in many grades. Coarser grades of pine bark, cedar flakes and cypress mulch make useful and decorative mulches for ornamental gardens.

Woven synthetic-fiber products known as "mulching weed barriers" are also commercially available in 25- to 250-foot rolls. The holes between the fibers are big enough for water and air to pass through, but small enough to block weeds. Since the fiber degrades if left exposed to the sun, it is best to put a decorative mulch layer on top of it.

Unperforated plastic sheets are often used as mulch. Their big drawback is that they don't allow adequate air exchange and water penetration to the soil.

Mulch is an excellent remedy for those dried out, compacted and just generally hard-to-work spots in your yard or garden. To

Texas Water Board Completes Report

The Texas Water Development Board, using ground water data collected from 1980 through 1985, has completed and published a report on the state's ground-water conditions. According to Report 309 - Ground-Water Conditions in Texas, 1980-1985, the average annual quantity of ground water available from the state's aquifers in 1980 was estimated to be 12.9 million acre-feet. The report goes on to say, however, that if current and projected rates of water use continue, the average annual quantity of ground water that will be available in the year 2030 is expected to drop to 9.6 million acre-feet.

The report covers the recorded changes in ground-water levels and quality in the state's major and minor aquifers and is intended to aid local and regional water users in operating their present water wells and in planning to meet future water needs.

Report 309 provides interesting and important statistical data gathered from the state's aquifer monitoring network. Changes in the depth of ground water are determined by reviewing the records of 8,200 wells. Maps and hydrographs showing changes in water levels for the period 1980-84 are included in the report.

Findings relative to the occurrence, availability and dependability of the supply of water that can be obtained from the state's major aquifers including the Ogallala, Carrizo-Wilcox, Edwards (Balcones Fault Zone) Trinity Group, Alluvium and Bolson Deposits, Gulf Coast and Edwards-Trinity (Plateau) are discussed and illustrated in the report. Increases and decreases in water-levels or water tables for eighteen minor aquifers are also reported.

Of the 15.5 million acre-feet of water (one acre-foot equals 325,851 gallons) used in Texas in 1984, 60 percent or 8.8 million acre-feet was ground water from the state's aquifers. Most of the ground water pumped, some 78 percent of the 1984 total, was used for irrigation purposes with 74 percent of the 78 percent being pumped from the High Plains (Ogallala) aquifer. Despite the large percentage of water pumped from the Ogallala, over half of the southern High Plains area experienced water-level rises. Reduced agricultural activity resulted in a 23 percent reduction in irrigation pumpage when compared to amounts recorded in 1980. The areas primarily affected by these reductions were the High Plains, (Amarillo, Lubbock, Midland and Odessa regions), irrigated areas of the Pecos region of West Texas, and along the Gulf Coast from Victoria to Port Arthur.

Municipal pumpage in 1984 totaled 1.48 million acre-feet, which accounted for 17 percent of the total pumpage and represented a 10 percent increase over the 1980 municipal pumpage. All of the major aquifers experienced an increase in pumpage in 1984 for municipal use over their 1980 totals.

Municipal and industrial pumpage from the Trinity Group aquifers of the north and central parts of Texas have resulted in water-level declines of over six feet per year in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and 18 feet per year in the Waco area. Decreased industrial pumpage plus the efforts of the Harris-Galveston Coastal Subsidence District have resulted in water-level rises occurring in areas of the upper Gulf Coast which had previously experienced declines.

Pumpage for livestock and steam-electric purposes showed 1984 increases of four percent and one percent respectively when compared to 1980 records. Due to the economic recession, pumpage in 1984 for manufacturing and energy uses showed declines of eight and 35 percent respectively.

There's an old saying that "blue eyes belong to leaders and brown eyes to dreamers..." We can't tell the color of this child's eyes from her picture, but they look a great deal like the eyes of rich wisdom.

Wisdom comes to most of us only after many years of struggle and growth. And even when we feel a bit wiser, we soon realize that there is always much more to learn — that, in truth, learning is a life-long process.

But whatever age and degree of wisdom we may attain, our need for a changeless source of inspiration remains the same. Within your place of worship you will find a power of truth founded on eternal love and maintained by divine wisdom. On such, character is built and wisdom enhanced.

Draw new courage and hope from the wellspring of knowledge that makes men free. Worship this week!

Long-awaited subfreezing temperatures November 16 and 17 sent the last remaining boll weevils on the east Plains scampering for cover and brought to a halt the 25th year of the High Plains Boll Weevil Control Program conducted by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock.

The program format each year calls for aerial insecticide applications at 10 to 14-day intervals from late September until the year's first freeze destroys the weevils' food supply. Objective is to kill the maximum percentage of weevils along the Caprock that rims the eastern edge of the Plains before they enter hibernation sites, thus keeping to a minimum the number that emerge and reproduce to attack fruiting plants the following Spring.

This strategy, adopted by PCG in 1964 at the behest of entomologists and concerned producers, for 25 years has prevented the spread of the dreaded pest into the concentrated cotton acreage west of the Caprock. Cotton growers from all of PCG's 25 counties contribute to the control effort, paying 70 percent of the cost against 30 percent funded by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The 1988 program began September 20 and ended with an unusual sixth application of insecticide to a small acreage November 16 and 17. In between, aerial applicator planes sprayed an aggregate of 663,311 cotton acres with 62,166 gallons of ultra low volume malathion. Those figures compare to 615,008 acres and 57,639 gallons in 1987. Base acres treated totaled about 225,000, located in some 3,500 cotton fields stretching from Briscoe County's Silverton on the north to Vealmore in Borden County on the south.

Other counties in which all or part of the cotton acreage received treatment included Motley, Dickens, Kent, Garza, Crosby, Floyd, Borden, Lynn, Dawson and Lubbock. A total of 14 planes were used, operating from airports at Spur, Roaring Springs, Lamesa, Post, Silverton and Sterley.

Fields in the control zone, monitored by survey teams throughout the season, were sprayed from one to six times as needed. The largest single application, October 3 through 8, covered 189,680 acres. The final wrap-up treatment involved only 22,044 acres. While the overall 1988 program was the largest of the late decade, program officials point out, it was less than half the size of the record 1965 year when over 1.5 million acres were sprayed, requiring almost 190,000 gallons of insecticide.

PCG officials estimate the cost of mapping, surveying, flagging, application and chemicals in the 1988 program at just under $2 million, about $3 per treated acre. The spray contract this year was awarded to Kimmel Aviation of Greenwood, Mississippi, for $5.94 per gallon of insecticide sprayed, the lowest of three bidders. Malathion was secured at $13.85 per gallon. The program employed a total of 165 people at one time or another during the season.
