Patterson - Schott Vows Are Exchanged in Claude Saturday

Kimberly Rae Patterson and David Lee Schott exchanged wedding vows Saturday night at the First United Methodist Church in Claude, with the Rev. Don Travis, pastor, performing the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Ronald and Allean Patterson and the granddaughter of Mrs. Lena Patterson and Mr. Cecil Goodin, all of Claude. The groom is the son of John and LaQuetta Schott and the grandson of Mrs. W. E. Schott, jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Chitty.

The couple were united before a brass archway decorated with greenery, fushia and pink flowers, and satin bows flanked by two brass candelabra containing white candles. In the center of the bows, the bride's mother had fashioned small white needlepoint hearts trimmed in lace with the bride and groom's names and wedding date stitched in pink. Large bouquets of fushia and pink flowers were on each side of the candelabra. The altar was decorated with candles intertwined with greenery. In memory of the bride's late paternal grandfather, Clarence Patterson, his bible was laid open on the unity candle table just behind the brass archway. The pews were decorated with fushia and pink satin bows.

Music was provided by Melba Wood at the organ and Montie Goodin at the piano, both of Claude. Marti Beth Byrd of Claude sang "Always" and "Through the Eyes of Love," accompanied by Kelly Goodin, cousin of the bride, of Lubbock on the flute. Kelly Clem of Oklahoma City sang "Household of Faith."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long formal gown of white taffeta, with a Queen Ann neckline and princess line bodice with beaded Alencon lace appliques, bridal pearls and sequins. The gown had a princess waistline with long sleeves puffed at the shoulder with beaded lace and bridal point cuffs. A full taffeta skirt with diamond-shaped appliques was edged with scalloped Alencon lace. A wide ruffled bow was attached at the center of the skirt. An attached chapel train was edged with Alencon lace and bridal beads and sequins. Her elbow-length whisper illusion veil was attached to a beaded rope headband featuring lily of the valley sprigs and pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of carnations and roses accented with light pink and fushia satin ribbons.

To carry out tradition for something old, the bride wore wedding rings in memory of her great-grandmothers, Nannie Boles and Sarah Elizabeth Patterson, and Grandmother Lucille Goodin. She also carried handkerchiefs of her great-grandmothers, Clara Goodin and Stella Goad. Something new was her wedding ensemble. For something borrowed, the bride wore her mother's pearls. She added the traditional blue garter which her mother had made for this special occasion. The groom wore silver and gold cuff links belonging to his late paternal grandfather, W. E. Schott, jr.

The bride presented her mother and the groom's mother single long-stemmed pink roses at the end of the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Tracy Patterson of Lubbock, the bride's sister. She wore a tea-length gown of fushia glitter spun satin with sweetheart neckline, short puffed sleeves, dropped waist, flared skirt and attached bow at the lower back waistline. Bridesmaid was Kelly Clem. Her pale pink dress was identical to that worn by the maid of honor. They carried bouquets of carnations and roses tied with fushia and pink satin ribbon.

Flower girl was Desiree Ollinger of Claude. She wore a pale pink dress fashioned similar to those of the other attendants. Matt Cowart of Dallas, cousin of the groom, was ringbearer. He carried a pillow made by the bride's mother on which she had cross stitched "With this ring I thee wed" accented with white lace and pink satin ribbons.

Best man was Clay Schott and groomsman was Bryan Schott, both brothers of the groom from Silverton. Ushers were Robbie McWaters of Silverton and Barry Eddleman of Matador. Candles were lighted by Bryan Schott.

The mother of the bride chose a tea-length dress of navy blue shantung silk. The groom's mother wore a tea-length dress of satin in a pale pink. Both added corsages of white gardenias.

Lisa Hickman of Stephenville and Frieda Saenz of Seymour registered the guests.

RECEPTION

A reception was held in fellowship hall following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a fushia cloth overlaid with a hand-crocheted cloth made by the bride's late maternal grandmother. The four-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and a "Precious Moments" bride and groom on top. Punch, mints and nuts were served from crystal and silver appointments. The bride's bouquet and pink candles in crystal holders served as the centerpiece. Leslie Stephenson and Buckie Baker, both of Amarillo, and Gena Baggerman of Claude served at the bride's table.

The groom's table was covered with a light pink cloth with a Quaker lace overlay. A basket of fushia and light pink flowers and a "Precious Moments" bride and groom in their honeymoon car accented the table. The two-layer chocolate cake was heart-shaped and was decorated with the couple's names. Coffee, chocolate mints and nuts were served from silver appointments. Serving at the groom's table was Lisa Schott, the groom's sister-in-law from Silverton, and Lynn Schott, cousin of the groom, from Canyon.

Passing out rice bags to the guests was Mishon Ollinger of Claude. Other members of the houseparty were Cenee Ollinger and Kelly Harris of Claude, and Crystal McBee, cousin of the bride, of Amarillo.

The couple took a wedding trip to Tres Ritos, New Mexico.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Claude High School and is a 1988 graduate of Clarendon College where she was a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society. She will graduate in December from Tarleton State University in Stephenville with a degree in business.

The groom is a 1985 graduate of Silverton High School, attended Clarendon College and is currently a Lance Corporal in the United States Marine Corps stationed at Camp Pendleton, California. He will be leaving in July for a six-month overseas tour of duty in Okinawa, Japan.

REHEARSAL DINNER

SCHOOL SUMMER VACATION TO BEGIN SOON

Once again, school soon will be out. Major V. J. Cawthon, Regional Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, wants to remind all motorists that they must change their driving habits this summer.

"We must be more observant for children playing in or near the street, especially at night, because most children will be allowed to stay up longer and will be playing outside in the dark," Major Cawthon said. "Now that school is almost out for the summer, many families will be taking their vacations and I urge all motorists to use extra caution in and around recreational areas and roadside parks. Parents can also do their part by keeping a watchful eye on the younger children who may not know the safety rules."

According to Greek historians, kissing began when menfolk wanted to know if their womenfolk had been sipping wine.

Quitague Catholic Manuel Cruz, who is helping coordinate the project locally with Father Rex Nicholl, pastor of Our Lady of Loreto Church, Silverton, said several Catholics in the area have either moved from the area or left the church for other denominations because there was no facility to help accommodate their religious needs.

"The center is going to be wonderful when it is completed because we have needed a place to meet for a long time," Cruz said, adding that Father Nicholl comes to Quitague once a month to say Mass in someone's home or in the local bank community room.

Other times, Quitague Catholics commute to Turkey or Silverton for Mass and the Catholic Church Sacraments.

The structure is being funded by a grant from the Catholic Church Extension Society of America and by local funds.

SPS Files to Credit $13 Million To Texas Customers

Southwestern Public Service Company (SPS) filed Monday to distribute $13 million in credits to its Texas retail customers, primarily representing these customers' share of proceeds from SPS's sales of electricity to other utilities.

A residential customer who uses 1,000 kilowatt hours a month would receive a credit of $10.21.

These new credits are separate from and in addition to previously announced credits related to recent SPS rate reductions.

As a participant in an experimental market program, SPS has been able to sell electricity to western utilities as far away as California on a competitive basis, said Jerry Diller, SPS's group manager of rates and regulation. Under the program, 75% of the difference between the cost of production and the sales price is to go to customers in the SPS service area, Diller said.

"Previously, these sales required time-consuming approvals of individual transactions and a rigid price formula established by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission," Diller said. "Under the experimental program, utilities are able to buy and sell electricity in what amounts to a daily auction."

The credit also represents proceeds from SPS sales to other utilities made in the traditional regulated manner.

SPS has been successful in the bulk-power market because it is a low-cost producer, Diller said.

"Demand has been high because several power plants in the western United States have been out of service for various reasons," Diller said. "Also, hydro-electric power from the Pacific Northwest was limited due to relatively dry conditions."

These circumstances will change, Diller said, so it is difficult to predict if SPS sales at past levels will continue.

SPS filed the requested credit with the Public Utility Commission of Texas (PUCT). If approved, the credit would be recognized in August electric bills.

"We also are requesting that the PUCT establish a procedure whereby we can pass on any future credits from such sales on a periodic basis as they accumulate," Diller said. "Under present PUCT procedures this is not possible."

The proceeds from these bulk-power sales to other utilities are treated as a fuel-cost credit. The $13 million credit requested by SPS includes approximately $2 million in traditional fuel savings resulting from lower costs for coal and natural gas. The credit also includes interest at 11.7%.

Divided We Stand Together We Fall?

Citizens from Quitaque and Silverton met May 16 to evaluate the Media Day held May 6 in Briscoe County.

Wayne Hughes from the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission was present to offer his view of the success of Media Day and to make suggestions on how to expand efforts to promote Briscoe County to the world.

Mr. Hughes noted that the Media Day defines some of the future tasks facing the people of Briscoe County. He made two suggestions: (1) That the people need to keep a unified front by using the talents of all the citizens of Briscoe County. Mr. Hughes feels that the spirit of the people made Media Day a success. The people must use the talents of each person in the county in order to survive and prosper. Each person in the county has ideas and talents that can be the key to economic and cultural development of Briscoe County. (2) Briscoe County needs a county-wide organization with the sole purpose of promoting the assets of the whole county. This organization must include rural and town residents of the county. In order for the county organization to be effective, the people of the county will have to put aside divisive differences and work together. The services of a paid professional guide for the county-wide organization was recommended—this to be a "get-it-done" individual.

In August of 1988 an article from the Texas Extension Service Agent who serves Briscoe County appeared in the local newspaper. The following are quotes taken from that article, "Pulling Together." "The key ingredient in progressive communities is the 'sense of community' (i.e. county) or common thread that pulls everyone together." People who work together for the good of all, rather than for their own individual recognition are the most important people in building a strong county.

"There is no one perfect solution for rebuilding dying rural communities." All must support and improve existing businesses, bring in industry, develop tourism potential, start new businesses and improve the looks of the communities in the county.

All of the projects mentioned must have people willing to take the first step of faith, commitment of their time and talents to the project or projects which interest them most. Briscoe County has many talented people already involved in each of the listed projects. What is needed now more than anything is lots of willing people. Could this be you?

Change is a must if the county is to survive. Those who look at change only from the standpoint of how it affects them as individuals rather than what is good for the people of Briscoe County can do great harm to any efforts to put Briscoe County back on the map.

Briscoe County has many people who are strong individuals and very successful in their chosen careers: businessmen, farmers, teachers, ranchers, government employees and clergy. By combining the talents and resources of these strong leaders with the ideas and willing spirits of all the people in the county, Briscoe County can grow strong.

Every resident who has an interest in Briscoe County's future is invited to the next county-wide meeting. Each person's life is affected by the decisions that are made by any group representing Briscoe County. Please come to the meeting and express your ideas on how we can make Briscoe County the "Golden Heart of Texas Panhandle, Land of Real Livin'." The meeting date has not been set.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock has now gained statewide support for its objections to increased loan program cotton quality discounts for 1989.

The more severe penalties will mean millions of dollars in lost income for Texas cotton producers in 1989, PCG President Steve Verett of Ralls has pointed out. And, he adds, the effect of this year's discount increases will figure into the discounts for future years as well. USDA figures the discount as a simple average of the previous year's loan discounts and average spot market quotations for the first seven months of the same marketing year.

That system in the past has resulted in smaller loan program discounts following a year when the market imposes quality discounts below those contained in the loan schedule. Producer observations, on the Plains at least, indicate that that's what happened in both 1987 and 1986. Discounts narrowed in 1988, as expected. But for 1989, the spread between the base quality and lower qualities widened, and PCG is leading an effort to determine why.

Verett called the issue to the attention of the Texas Association of Cotton Producer Organizations (TACPO) in Dallas May 2 and found solid backing for PCG's position that producers are due an explanation. TACPO, made up of eight regional cotton organizations that represent virtually all Texas cotton production, agreed to join in an attempt to develop the Beltwide data needed to make a case for smaller discounts.

Assuming the success of that effort, Verett says, the next step would be for TACPO to present its findings to appropriate USDA officials as justification for discount revisions.

TACPO members also discussed and generally approved the work of the Federal Crop Insurance Commission, created by Congress last year to recommend changes needed in the multi-peril crop insurance program offered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Myrl D. Mitchell of Lenorah, cotton spokesman on the Commission and Chairman of the PCG board, reported on 26 recommendations submitted to Congress in its interim report in April.

Most significant for cotton producers, Mitchell said, were the Commission's call for (1) more adequate yield guarantees, with producers given the option to use established program yields in lieu of actual production histories and transitional or "T" yields, (2) more effective unit division, including standardized unit definitions within regions, (3) the ability of tenants and landlords to insure all interests under one policy, (4) institution of a price election for cotton based on the futures market, (5) expanded use of ASCS acreage certification to expedite loss adjustment procedures, and (6) final claim settlements based on mutually agreed upon appraisals at time of loss.

The Commission's final report, expected to include other recommendations that would require legislation, is due by July 1.

Although the fate of the 1989 cotton crop on the High Plains is yet to be determined, the threat of a crop disaster for many producers is "too obvious to be ignored."

So says a statement prepared by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, and presented in Amarillo May 19 to a hearing before the House Subcommittee on Wheat, Soybeans and Feed Grains. On hand to give an oral summary of the statement and answer committee questions was PCG Vice President Larry Nelson, Hale and Swisher County farmer and ginner of Tulia.

The hearing was called by Subcommittee Chairman Dan Glickman (D-KS) as an outgrowth of the severe drought that devastated winter wheat crops in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Congress in 1988 passed legislation giving federal assistance to last year's drought-plagued corn and sorghum producers. But the Administration advised the National Association of Wheat Growers that any extension of that bill's benefits to winter wheat producers would have to come from Congress.

In response, both Chairman Glickman and subcommittee member Bill Sarpalius (D-TX) have introduced legislation. The Chairman's bill would give aid only to drought-affected wheat producers who planted in 1988 for 1989 harvest. The Sarpalius' measure would extend the 1988 disaster relief program to all 1989-planted crops and add freeze damage to the list of covered losses.

The PCG statement said "All indicators point to a subnormal if not disastrous year," citing a severe shortage of subsoil moisture all over the High Plains, the general absence of rainfall for seed germination on dryland farms, and the ever-present threat of wind and hail losses.

And if the threat of widespread losses becomes reality, PCG continued, "producers who lose a cotton crop will suffer just as much and will need and deserve help just as much as those who lose a corn or wheat crop."

PCG earlier had projected 1989 cotton acreage in its 25 counties at about three million, 1.8 million of which is without irrigation.

GARLIC OIL

With Parsley and Chlorophyll

Garlic contains potassium, phosphorous, a significant amount of B and C vitamins, as well as calcium and protein. It's generally accepted that garlic acts as a diuretic, stimulant, expectorant, and sweat promoter. For centuries, it has been a common European remedy for colds, coughs and sore throats. European physicians have reported that garlic has two outstanding medical properties. One is that it tends to open up blood vessels and reduce blood pressure in hypertensive patients. The other property is antibiotic, and several researchers have found that garlic in large amounts can be effective against bacteria that may be resistant to other antibiotics. The addition of parsley and chlorophyll helps remove the aroma of this natural herb wonder, leaving no after-taste or bad breath. Contains no preservatives, no artificial color or flavor, no sugar and no starch.
