Roosevelt Asks $22,888,901,900 For U. S. Army

Chief Executive Signs Nation's Largest Bill For Navy Funds

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt asked Congress Monday for emergency appropriations totaling $22,888,901,900 for various branches of the Army.

At the same time, he requested an appropriation of $1,502,000,000 for construction of vessels by the war-time commission and contract authority for an additional $2,350,000,000.

Largest of the Army items was $13,252,200,000 for "ordnance service and supplies."

Other Army items included $3,391,166,900 for the quartermaster corps; $1,349,000,000 for the Signal Corps; $167,440,000 for the Air Corps; and $171,178,000 for the Medical Department.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A $26,495,265,474 appropriation bill, the largest in the history of any nation, and carrying funds for America's growing Navy, was signed Monday by President Roosevelt.

The measure, providing both cash and contract authorizations, contemplates adding approximately 25,000 airplanes to the Navy's sky force and enlarging the fleet for waging war in two oceans at once.

Detective Kills Chicago Tough

CHICAGO (AP)—A self-proclaimed neighborhood tough got into the wrong neighborhood Sunday, met up with a straight shooting police detective and didn't live to recount his latest foray into crime.

The last few exploits of Joseph Skupien, who police said spent about one-third of his life in prisons, were in a tavern and a police station in the sprawling stockyards district. They ended with the 26-year-old ex-convict lying dead on the police station floor, only a few hours after two men had been slain in a tavern holdup.

Shortly after the tavern shooting, Skupien walked into the new city police station. He waved a pistol and shouted:

"I'm going to rescue my partner. I'll get those dirty squealers."

Sergeant Joseph Connelly stepped toward him, straight shooting Skupien, firing one shot, wounding Skupien in the squad room where 10 witnesses to the tavern killings were awaiting to be questioned by detectives.

Skupien forced two women in front of him, lined up several other persons, including a reporter, against the wall and backed up against a staircase. He threatened to kill any detectives who came into the room.

Meanwhile, detective John Leahy was proceeding to effect Skupien's capture. He was in a room near Sergeant Connelly's and learned of Skupien's plot. He dashed up the stairs, went through a suite of offices on the second floor, and crept down three steps on a landing directly above Skupien, on the stairs in the squad room.

With his pistol about 10 feet from the ex-convict's head, the 42-year-old officer fired two shots. Skupien wheeled and fired four times, two of the shots slightly wounding two witnesses. Leahy then fired twice more, killing Skupien.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph Davies, deputy oil coordinator, demanded Monday that the oil industry take immediate action to build up stocks of industrial fuel oil on the East Coast by converting to its transportation available facilities now used for gasoline and like products.

Davies said he had telegraphed the heads of 15 oil companies calling attention to declining stocks of fuel oil on the East Coast needed by war and other heavy industries.

Mac Arthur's Men Repulse Jap Attacks

Fortifications Of Manila Bay Silence Enemy Gun Batteries

WASHINGTON (AP)—General Douglas MacArthur reported Monday his troops on Bataan Peninsula in the Philippines repulsed new attacks by the Japanese while the Manila Bay fortifications silenced several enemy big gun siege batteries on the Cavite shore.

A War Department communique said heavy infantry fighting had occurred at several points on the peninsula with hostile dive bombers active overhead, but all attacks were repulsed by the American-Filipino defenders.

In the duel between the Corregidor string of fortifications at the entrance to Manila Bay and the hidden Japanese guns which have been bombarding the forts for several days, the forts scored several direct hits on enemy batteries.

Synchronized with the renewed heavy pressure on the Bataan front was the systematic bombardment of the American forts which still bar the entrance of Manila Bay to Japanese naval forces.

Enemy land batteries, firing methodically every four minutes, threw big shells for the second successive day at the island fortifications which command the harbor's mouth. Nevertheless, no serious damage to the forts was reported in the War Department communique.

On the Bataan Peninsula, MacArthur's report to Washington Sunday told of Japanese pressure on both the right and left flank of his line, accompanied by twenty-four hours of heavy aerial bombardment of the American-Filipino positions.

Japs Gain Some Ground
The Japanese, the War Department communique disclosed, gained some ground in an infiltration thrust against MacArthur's right, which is anchored on Manila Bay. The enemy, however, was thrown back in a sharp counter-attack.

Details of the heavy fighting on the left, or China Sea, flank were not disclosed, but it is on that side of the Peninsula that the Japanese have been using suicide detachments in a costly and futile attempt to turn MacArthur's line.

Colonel Davies Welcomes Cadets

Colonel J. Davies welcomed the newly arrived cadets to Sloan Field Monday morning in an address delivered to give some general ideas about the new "Bombardier College."

Directly following the address by Colonel Davies, the cadets received textbooks, and got into the swing of learning to man the army's secret weapon, the bombsight. Two lectures are scheduled for Monday, and all other of the first day's teaching is to be done on the ground. Air training in reality will begin later in the week.

Those who have already registered do not register again. This includes the men between 21 and 36 who registered in 1940 and 1941.

British Charge Axis Sponsored Moslem Outbreaks

Battle Of Propaganda And Diplomacy Rages Over Spanish Incident

By The Associated Press
The battle of diplomacy and propaganda for strategic position in the Mediterranean Basin overshadowed actual war there Monday with the British charging the Axis with sponsoring native outbreaks against them in Spanish Morocco.

London disclosed that a strong protest had been lodged with the commander of the Spanish military forces at Tangier for "Axis-inspired" riots among the Moslem natives following the explosion of a time bomb for which Axis propagandists, with remarkable promptness, blamed the British.

Charge Axis Plot
An authoritative London source said the attention of the Spanish government probably would be directed to Axis attempts to embitter British-Spanish relations. Spain conceivably could be forced into war by Germany and Italy, old time benefactors of the present nationalist government of Generalissimo Franco.

The inflammatory trend of Axis propaganda over the Tangier incident suggested that this was Adolf Hitler's objective.

Actual warfare in the Mediterranean region was marked by Axis reports of a raid on the British naval base at Alexandria, Egypt, new air attacks on Malta and claims that Axis airmen had scattered British Imperial columns in eastern Libya. The Axis admitted a new RAF attack on Tripoli.

Check Axis In Libya
By and large, the British appeared to have checked the German-Italian counter-offensive in Libya about 40 miles west of Tobruk. The Axis offered no new claims of ground gained.

Spanish Morocco authorities quieted riotous factions in Tangier by martial law after an outbreak which was touched off by the explosion Friday of a time bomb in a taxi loaded with British diplomatic baggage on a Tangier pier.

Fourteen persons on the crowded dock were killed and 36 wounded. The British and the Germans accused each other of inciting the Arabs to violence.

General Bennett Says Situation "In Hand"

Nipponese Warplanes Bomb Batavia And Step Up Air Attacks On Indies

By Clyde A. Farnsworth
Associated Press War Editor

The Japanese fought their way into the fortress Isle of Singapore Monday on a 10-mile front, threatening to overrun the once powerful British base, but after several hours of bloody fighting the situation was reported officially to be "well in hand."

That word came from Major General Henry Gordon Bennett, commander of the Australian forces, in whose zone in the mangrove, swamps and rubber plantations of the northwestern shore the invaders first struck.

"We have taken our stand on a string line and are organizing an attack which is hoped will recover as much as possible of the lost terrain," Bennett said, thus holding out but slim hope that the Japanese could be readily dislodged.

The strong Japanese landing had turned Singapore's ordeal of shell-fire and bombs in the last week of siege from the opposite shore of Johore Strait into a man-to-man, weapon to weapon struggle.

The Japanese declared their beachheads were so well consolidated that tanks already had been ferried across to bolster their shock troops.

Likewise unconfirmed was a roundabout report that Japanese paratroopers had been dumped behind the forward defense positions and already had engaged a British detachment.

Fleet Ready to Attack
The paratrooper story—via Tokyo, the Osio road and Reuters—said also that the Japanese fleet was ready for attack near Singapore "at any moment."

In such a fight Singapore's monster guns—as heavy as 18 inches—might well get in their first good lucks for they were primarily designed to cover the sea approaches.

While the fate of Singapore thus hung in the balance, Japanese air-bombing Batavia for the first time, stepped up their air attacks on the Netherlands East Indies—a development taken at Batavia, the capital, to be a prelude to an attempted landing on Java.

Java, principal island of the N. E. I., is the site of the United Nations' headquarters in the Southwest Pacific.

The importance of Java's defenses mounted in ratio to the Japanese successes on Singapore.

A Holding Operation
For the Battle of Singapore had come, like the American-Filipino defense of Bataan Peninsula, a holding operation, a diversion of Japanese forces from further objectives in their first lunges of conquest.

If, however, the Japanese can be beaten back and kept at a distance, Singapore will remain a potential advance base for the United Nations' eventual counter-offensive in the Southwest Pacific.

More than 100 men were in attendance at the meeting, representing 20 West Texas counties.

How To Shorten The War

The quicker we get serious about this thing, the sooner it's over.
Every saving, every sacrifice, every extra bit of production accomplished now will save three sacrifices, make unnecessary three savings, render unneeded three measures of production next year.

Many Americans have not yet become serious about this war. We know that a desperate rubber shortage looks us in the face, a situation in which every scrap of rubber may be required for military purposes.

We know that the best possible protection against future inflation as well as against present rising prices and unhealthy borrowing from banks is to buy Defense bonds and stamps. And what do we do? We buy the bonds and stamps, all right (over a billion dollars' worth in January) but it is not enough.

Knitting is a help to the armed forces, but what do we do? In too many cases we knit aimlessly, using up valuable wool without first ascertaining that the product is exactly what is needed by the Army and Navy at the time.

The will to help is unlimited. We have not yet learned to correlate our efforts so as to bring them to bear at the point most needed. This will come, but it will come only by each person asking himself, "Am I doing all I can, NOW? Have I assurance from responsible authority that what I am doing is valuable? Have I fully realized that every effective blow struck now may count for two or three blows later?"

It is not at all hysterical to say that the entire future of our country depends on how effectively we fight, not in 1943, but NOW. Almost a tenth of 1942 is already past. In the South Pacific, in Africa, on Europe's northeast coast, on the Russian front, time will not wait for us.

Three Good Rules

Think first, then write, advises the director of communications and control in Hawaii, letters from which place are necessarily censored.

Here are three questions which this office suggests should be asked by every person who takes pen in hand, and while they are aimed at people living in Hawaii, it wouldn't do any harm for all the rest of us to give them a thought.

- 1. Do I know what I am writing? Is it a fact or is it something picked up on the street?
2. Does the person to whom I am writing have any business knowing this?
3. Would the Japanese emperor, Hitler, or Mussolini give their right arm to have this information?

Think it over before you write, even before you talk. Even if it's true, it may be better left unsaid. If it isn't, you may be relaying a vicious rumor actually stamped by enemy agents.

What's Going On Here?

Somebody in the State Department ought to give a simple, clear, public explanation of how these two news items happened to be capable of appearing almost at the same time:

- 1. A ship load of American supplies left for Vichy, France, during the last week of January.
2. British broadcast reports that "Vice Premier" Darlan of France has agreed to send two shipments of supplies week to Nazi General Rommel's forces in North Africa.

Unless a fairly clear definition is made as to just what is American policy toward France since we entered the war (and bear in mind that General Rommel is now fighting us and our policy can scarcely be what it was before Dec. 7) people are going to begin to wonder what's going on here.

Maybe it's all baby-food that is going to France; maybe it's something that cannot even be used to substitute for what is being sent to Rommel. Maybe there is a good answer. Oughtn't the American people to know what it is?

Southland Life's President Predicts Another Good Year

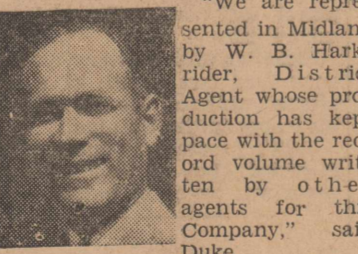

DALLAS (Sp)—Southland Life's record-breaking thirty-fourth annual statement as a barometer. A Morgan Duke, president of the company, finds itself at the present time.

A. Morgan Duke

"The year 1941 has been productive of the most excellent accomplishment in all phases of the company's operations," said Duke.

"Most notable progress has been made by our exceedingly loyal staff of field men. New insurance written for the year just ended has been twenty-five per cent greater than that for the year 1940, resulting in a substantial increase in our insurance in force to a total of $189,313,431."

"We are represented in Midland by W. B. Harkrider, District Agent whose production has kept pace with the record volume written by other agents for this Company," said Duke.

He stressed the part Southland Life and the institution of life insurance are playing in war effort, pointing out that this company has doubled and nearly tripled its holdings of government bonds. He said: "Our holdings of United States Government Bonds have increased within the past year by approximately two and one-half millions of dollars to a total amount in excess of $4,000,000. In addition, we have a sizeable gain in prime quality Industrial and Texas Municipal Bonds.

"Other achievements, of which I am justly proud, include a noteworthy gain in our policy reserve account; a satisfactory increase in other funds for the additional production of our policyholders; and a most encouraging gain of over $2,125,000 in our total admitted assets."

Duke predicted another successful year of operation for his company, for the institution of life insurance, and for business in general over the entire state of Texas.

Most of the raw material for synthetic rubber will be supplied by the petroleum industry.

Importance Of Air Power Demonstrated By Singapore Battle

By DeWitt MacKenzie Wide World War Analyst

The speed with which the Japanese have gained a foothold in force on Singapore Island—supreme symbol of military might in the Orient—certainly offers little encouragement to the defense, and the best one can say for the moment is that the battle for this immensely important base isn't over.

The landing was made on the northwest coast of the island under cover of darkness, and Monday the invaders were driving their way eastward in heavy fighting. This gave further evidence of the strength of the attack, for a message from Sydney disclosed that the zone where the Japs came ashore was defended by Australians who are among the greatest fighters of the Imperial forces.

British Need More Planes

Again the world is being driven home the vast importance of air power, for a very considerable degree of the Japanese success is due to supremacy in this branch. Whether the British are able to hold Singapore depends largely on whether they receive heavy reinforcements of fighting planes with which to stand off the Nipponese swarming the sky.

The Japanese assault was preceded by a violent bombardment from heavy artillery on the neighboring peninsula, accompanied by a terrific assault by air. This continued for 24 hours, at the end of which time the Japs made what appears to have been a neat maneuver.

Previously the Nipponese had occupied Palau Ubin, an island at the entrance to Johore Strait off the northeast coast of Singapore. This was meant to give the impression to the British that the Japanese attack would be made in that zone. Actually, however, the Japs struck at the other side of Singapore, on the northwest coast, and a dispatch from the scene indicates that this was in the nature of a flanking movement against the defending troops which were holding along the northern shore of the island along the Strait.

Would Open Up Strait

If Singapore falls it will, of course, be a disaster for the Allies. Not only will it bring the Nipponese right up against Sumatra, but it will open up Malacca Strait to Japanese ships for an assault against Rangoon and Burma, gateway to the Burma road which is China's lifeline.

Coincident with the Singapore show the Japanese are intensifying their assault against General MacArthur on the Batan Peninsula. If the Japs can get both these bases into their hands, they will be well set for their big attack against the Dutch East Indies.

The Socony-Vacuum Oil Co.'s 8,403-ton China Arrow was torpedoed, shelled and set afire 100 miles off the coast Thursday, the Navy Department announced. Her entire crew of 37 was saved by the coast guard after spending 56 hours in three open boats.

Seattle Flier Now Commands Volunteers

RANGOON (AP)—Bob Nangle of Seattle, Burma command of a squadron of the American volunteer group Monday, succeeding R. J. Sandell of San Antonio, who was killed in an accidental crash two days ago.

Sandell was killed after chalking up seven victories over the Japanese, five in two days. His Tanahawk fighter plane had been damaged when a Japanese flier committed suicide by diving into the plane's tail more than a week ago. It was parked on an airfield at the time. After the plane had been repaired, Sandell took it up for a test flight and it crashed.

Singapore--

It had opened a sharp counter-attack on the Japanese attacking Singapore Island. He said that the invasion was launched on a 10-mile front, across the moat-like Strait of Johore with the drive pivoting on Behr Inlet, at a narrow stretch of the inlet.

Spread Eastward British headquarters acknowledged that the forces which clinched a beachhead during the night on the northwest coast were spreading eastward despite the fierce resistance.

A communique pictured the defenders as straining to the utmost to "mop up the enemy" but the results were not known.

Japanese artillery on the Malayan mainland, a rifleshot away, and Japanese divebombers helped to blast a path for the advancing Japanese—shock troops, and, according to Tokyo, a tank force that was ferried to the first beachhead.

Other air raiders appeared over Singapore City, on the southern side of the island, but these were met by British fighters which destroyed three planes, probably destroyed three more and damaged 13. The Tokyo radio, relaying dispatches which it said originated with land forces on Singapore, pictured the defenders as in flight along the highways leading toward the southern part of the island.

Japanese Estimates

The Japanese estimated the defending forces at 20,000 men. More than 50,000 indications were that at least 60,000 men were on Singapore to oppose the headlong rush by the Japanese troops who had pushed the length of the Malayan Peninsula to Johore Straits since the start of the war in the Pacific.

It was a test of the backs-to-the-wall courage of a woefully thin line of British Imperials against the vast reservoir of Japanese manpower. But, since the defensive traditionally requires less men than the offensive, the dominating factor in the battle of Singapore may be Japanese superiority in planes.

The smoke of the battle and the fog of the communications obscured the course of the fighting, but at least a tentative success for the Japanese was indicated by their report that tank units now had been borne across the narrow Strait of Johore to consolidated positions around their first beachhead at the western end of the island.

The Japanese landing came in the shore zone defended by the Australian Imperial force, toughest of the lot of fighting men at Singapore's command.

Reports from Rangoon, target of the Japanese Burma attack and gateway to the Burma road supply line to China, indicated the Japanese drive was stalled and possibly broken in northern Burma.

Nurse Charged With Death Of Baby Girl

NEW YORK (AP)—"One of the finest nurses that ever walked the floor" of the Bronx Maternity Hospital was charged Monday with the opium-drip slaying of a newborn baby girl whose crying upset her.

That description, augmented by the statement she was "an elegant nurse," was given by Hospital Superintendent Louise M. Wagner as Irma Twiss, 32, herself in tears, was formally accused of homicide in the death of the infant and also accused of feeding the narcotic to another.

"The babies' constant crying drove me crazy," Miss Twiss was quoted by Assistant District Attorney Martin Kraus as saying before being jailed without bail for a hearing Wednesday.

Kraus said the brunette nurse had admitted she was held four days for observation in Bellevue Hospital's psychopathic ward in November, 1940, after she had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets. Neither Mrs. Castro Valle, 33, mother of the dead child, nor Mrs. Fred Fantagone, 34, mother of the other baby—a four-day-old girl—were informed of their infants' fate.

BODY OF PAINTERS WIFE FOUND HANGING IN BARN

MARSHALL, Texas (AP)—The body of Mrs. Florence De Szaak, 26, wife of Painter and Interior Decorator Count Edmond De Szaak, 65, was found Sunday hanging from a beam in a barn four miles west of Hallsville, near the farm residence the couple had leased for use as a studio.

Justice of the Peace H. L. Callaway returned an inquest verdict of death by strangulation.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

All we have to say is that a person has to be pretty patriotic to get up and go to work WILLINGLY when the sky outside says its practically still the middle of the night.

Wanted: Nylon hose in a darker shade—one that will blend with brown shoes. One of our chief objections to this new type of hose (which we have found very durable) is that the shades are too light. Manufacturers, please take heed.

One of the largest cosmetic houses that has been putting out a "rejuvenescent" cream as a powder base now has a "rejuvenescent lotion" on the market. The lotion has a refreshing and soothing effect on the skin as a powder base and we predict that it will be popular as the cream which was one of our favorites for skin care.

No matter what the thermometer says, we know the calendar is pointing toward spring. That's because we saw a window full of tops in a downtown store. Tops and marbles are as sure a sign of spring as are the swallows in other lands.

With Valentine only a few days away, attention turns more and more to that merchandise which has the Valentine air. Seems to us that there are more of the small boxes of candy which the youngsters can buy and which are daintily and attractively packed this year than ever before. Maybe the candy makers are taking into consideration the inroads on spending money that taxes and defense stamps are making this year.

Also one enterprising fountain is advertising a Valentine special sundae—which we've not seen yet but hope it will be thoroughly and sentimentally sweet. (Being a sundae it probably will.)

Martin County Over-Subscribes Red Cross Quota

STANTON—Mrs. B. F. White, wife of County Judge White, has been selected by the local chapter of the Red Cross as chairman of the volunteer service department. Martin County's quota of $1,000 to the National Red Cross was over-subscribed in three days under the new officers of the local chapter, Mrs. Inez Woody, chairman, and Mrs. Ruby Burns, secretary. Contributions continue to come in to the local chapter until the amount raised for quota and the amount over stands today at $1700. The quota of garments to be made by the local chapter and to be sent in by January 31 was reached and garments shipped, consisting of 48 bedshirts; 70 dresses; 33 sweaters; 12 layettes. Mrs. Charles Ebbersol is chairman of production committee.

Reds Launch New Offensive

The Russians, meanwhile, were reported launching a new offensive in the Donets Basin against German battalions whose massed artillery, a Russian expert said, had lost its power. The British radio said the Russians already had announced the recapture of Krasnodar.

Sixty miles west of Khar'kov, Krasnodar is an important junction on the Khar'kov-Dnieperopetrovsk and Odessa railway.

Planes made in the United States were reported performing satisfactorily on the Russian front in the extreme cold which has jammed a large part of the German war machine.

The urgent need of all-out aid to Russia by Britain and the United States was stressed in two addresses in England by Sir Stafford Cripps, who returned recently from Moscow after serving as British ambassador there. He said the defeat of Germany within one year's time was possible but it depended on American and British help.

Noted Geologist To Speak Monday Night

Francis P. Shepard, University of Illinois geologist, and a man who has spent much of his time at sea in investigations of submarine canyons, will talk in Midland Monday night before the West Texas Geological Society. The program, scheduled for 7:45 o'clock, war-time, will be held in the Crystal Ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel.

Shepard is enroute to the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, in California, for some special investigations of submarine geology, and was engaged by Midland geologists to stop over for the local appearance.

The address is free to the public and all interested are invited to hear Shepard.

Mrs. Roosevelt Would Like To Explain Her Defense Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said Monday she would be "perfectly delighted" if congressmen who have criticized certain civilian defense activities and moved to strip it of authority to direct morale-building activities would allow her to explain the situation.

The Office of Civilian Defense has been under congressional fire since the appointment of Melvyn Douglas, movie actor, and Marris Chaney, dancer friend of Mrs. Roosevelt, to high-paying CCD jobs.

New congressional criticism developed as the House took up a $100,000,000 OCD appropriation bill again.

Mrs. Roosevelt, assistant director of the OCD, told her press conference that she did not directly appoint Miss Chaney but had suggested her name. She said she did not appoint Douglas and that questions should be directed to James M. Landis, executive officer of OCD, concerning Douglas and to John B. Kelly, director of the physical fitness division at Philadelphia, concerning Miss Chaney.

In New York, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, director of OCD, said he blocked the assignment of Miss Chaney to the morale division last December.

Deep in the list was the name of General Douglas MacArthur, now holding Batan Peninsula against the Japanese invaders. The bureau reported it had sent the general its check for $629.66, as executor for the estate of Mary P. MacArthur, his mother.

The refunds went out to taxpayers in widely-varied walks of life—stars of the stage and screen, the socially prominent, statesmen, singers, men prominent in high finance, diplomats, industrialists, sports promoters, publishers, bankers and authors.

The largest individual refund—two checks totalling $253,957—went to George P. Jones, Chicago industrialist, while Arthur Curtis James, New York railroad executive, was second with $185,000, and Aldus C. Higgins, Massachusetts industrialist, third with $148,135.

Uncle Sam Also Has Tax Troubles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Having tax troubles?

Here's consolation — the government had them, too, during the fiscal year of 1941.

And those particular woes provided cheery news to thousands who dug too deep in paying past levies, and as a result of over-assessments were refunded a total of $54,006,883.

In a bulky document turned over Monday for law-required inspection by Congress, the Internal Revenue Bureau listed the names of those who paid more than their share and the amounts of their refunds.

Deep in the list was the name of General Douglas MacArthur, now holding Batan Peninsula against the Japanese invaders. The bureau reported it had sent the general its check for $629.66, as executor for the estate of Mary P. MacArthur, his mother.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By William E. McKenney
America's Card Authority

Modern bridge owes much of its popularity and systems of technique to a few pioneers of the game. These men studied all possible methods of playing and bidding. Many of the plays and rules they developed are still in use today.

One of the most colorful of these pioneers was Walter Wyman of Boston, a whist and auction bridge player. He wrote many articles about the game, and collaborated with Milton C. Work in the development of bidding tactics.

Probably no player ever had a greater eye for color in bridge than Walter Wyman. He would record every hand he played or saw or heard of, in which anything interesting or unusual happened, and these records were made into many colorful articles such as the last he published, on "King Plays" and "Queen Plays".

Today's hand was played in a Boston tournament and Wyman happened to be an opponent of the declarer. He noticed a fine play that would escape the ordinary observer, praised the declarer highly, and showed the hand to many of his friends as an instance of foresight.

On the opening lead the ace of spades won the jack and dummy was put in with a high diamond to lead a club for the finesse of the ten. West won and led a heart, putting East in with the ace for a return of spades. The third spade was won in dummy with the king, a second club was led and the queen won.

But the ace of clubs failed to drop the king. South thenupon cashed the queen of diamonds, led the third diamond and finessed the seven-spot. Then the last top diamond was cashed and a squeeze developed. East could not hold both the king of clubs and his heart

We, the Women

By Ruth Millett

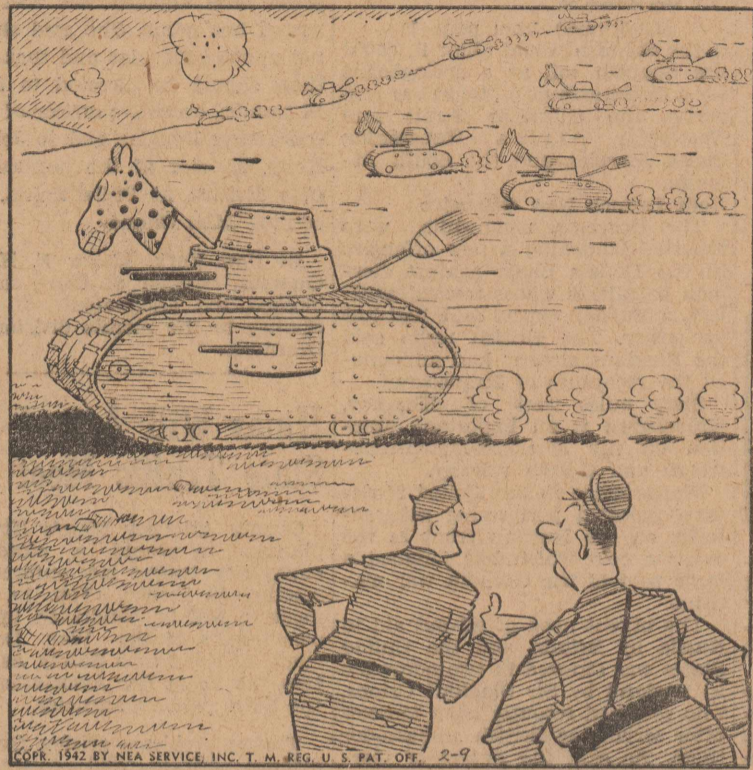

Put a woman in uniform; give her a man-sized job to do for the defense of her country; let her face danger and hardship. In short, make a soldier of her—but you've still got a woman, whose morals stopper. Declarer actually won ten tricks.

How was it possible for the declarer to take a finesse in diamonds after cashing the ace and queen? Because when he first led the eight-spot, not the three. This play loses nothing, and remotely might be necessary to unblock for a finesse—but the average player does not think of this precaution.

The stories have spread fast and furiously, and the women who are hardest hit by the talk are those who move up in the ranks. Just as in this country the business woman or actress who has a phenomenal success is always a target for gossips—so in Great Britain is the "lady soldier" who gets a promotion or a good job.

It's just fresh evidence of the fact that, war or no war, women keep right on being women, jealous as cats if one steps out of the ranks to win some personal glory

WAGGING TONGUES. RARELY CEASE

Over their bridge tables and over their knitting the women who aren't in uniform will spread gossip

They'll do it because women instinctively hate to see women try anything new (look how the homebodies turn up their noses at working women) and because gossip is a form of excitement to women.

It's too much to expect of the sex that they could send some of their women into the armed forces and that the rest would sit back and cheer them on.
