The protest was under provisions of a nine-year-old order of the Texas Railroad Commission providing "that no oil shall be permitted to be transported out of any field or pool in Texas unless and until local refinery consumptive demands shall have been supplied out of local production of field or pool if said local production is sufficient to satisfy local consumptive demand."

The Tender Board approved tender applications for approximately 750,000 barrels of crude for several firms, including major companies at Monday's special hearing. The Arp refinery made its first protest last Saturday.

Selective Service Men Should Adjust Business

AUSTIN (AP)-Selective service registrants should await actual induc-tion into the Army before making final disposition of financial and personal affairs.

That's the advice of General J Watt Page, state selective service director, who assures registrants they will be permitted ample time to return home and adjust such affairs shortly after induction.

You probably have heard about certain government restrictions on telephone service and equipment now in effect. We should like to tell you a little more about these restrictions - why they are necessary, and what they will mean to you.

The reason for them is simple and complete. They are to save materials which are needed to fight the war.

What will they mean to you, the telephone user?

If you have a telephone now, they mean no change except that in many Texas cities affected by war growth you may have to have other parties on your line. And, in all cases, you can't get an extension telephone in your home if you haven't one already.*

For people who have no telephones and want them, or for present users who move to new locations, we shall supply at least party-line service wherever there are now enough lines and switchboards. But in general, where new construction of this type would be necessary, we shall not be able to provide service."

SOUTHWESTERN BELL

This will mean inconvenience and perhaps hardship to a few people now. As time goes on it will probably mean inconvenience and hardship to more people, but we need your help and sympathetic understanding in this important step to save the maximum of materials for the war.

Beside the great savings in materials already made by substitution and wartime engineering, the new restrictions will mean that more lead, iron, steel, zinc, copper, and rubber used in telephone equipment will now go into arms.

In spite of all this, and while telephone service may not be available to all who want it, we believe we can keep the service up to a high standard. At any rate, we shall do our level best. These difficulties are something that neither the government nor the telephone companies can help. They are part of the price of protecting liberty.

> Except for those cases where the need for telephone service has been recognized by the War Production Board as necessary for defense or public health, welfare or security
