Collect Many Tons Rubber In Midland First Two Days

Not Much, But Billy Knows It All Counts

Billie Jones (which is not his correct name) lives down by the railroad track in East Midland. When Billie read in the paper about the drive the government was making to save scrap rubber, he began to wonder what a nine-year-old boy could do in this emergency. There were no discarded tires or tubes around the house, and he hat lost his rubber ball with lots. But Billie had a soap-box auto made of goods boxes, and one of the wheels on this homemade wagon had once been attached to a baby buggy, and there was a rubber tire on it.

"If Uncle Sam needs rubber to win the war against the Japs and Germans, this wheel is needed on a tank or a battlemused Billie, and he brought it to one of the service stations in Midland.

Is there anyone in America who says a Democracy does not get the jeb done so long as we have boys like this?

You will find an assortment of rubber articles in the window at Chamber of Commerce, From the pile at the Ever Ready was sent dolls, shees, chair mats, rubber gleves, balloons, erasers, rubber ends from drill stem, rubber heels, finger stalls, midget tires from ash trays (quite a number), mats for spittoons, garden hose, tires and tubes, rubber sheets, etc.

Victory From The Air

Quite apart from wishful thinking, there is becoming apparent a new note of cautious optimism as to the probable duration of the war.

In part, undoubtedly, this is attributable to the fact that our long retreat before the Axis appears to have been nearly halted. When we resist now we hope for success, instead of having to concede that we're stalling with men's lives for delay. Actually we are taking limited offensives. The tide seems all but halted, and ready to turn in our favor.

But the newer optimism rests also upon more general acceptance of a theory which only a few have advanced consistenly. The idea is spreading that the war can be won from the air by bombing.

Hitler thought that, of course, and tried it out against England. It proved false in his case. Though Nazi planes seemed unlimited and the British had only a few; though massed bombers broke through nightly and devastated important industrial centers as well as residential and cultural areas, Hitler discovered that he could not beat Britain from the air.

Thereupon a revulsion set in. Armchair strategists decided that wars still must be won by the slogging doughboy with his heavy pack and hand weapons. The air force could be an invaluable aid, but no more.

Now, however, Great Britain has begun going to town. Where the Nazis dropped 680,000 pounds of bombs on poor Coventry, the British tossed some 700,000 pounds each on Rostock and Lubeck. Where the Luftwaffe devastated London with 1,200,000 pounds of explosives and incendiaries, the RAF has ruined both Cologne and Essen with more than 6,000,000 pounds of bombs in one night each.

British Air Marshal A. T. Harris forecasts nights soon and '40. Not only that, but he's hasn't been beaten this year and in when 3000 United Nations planes will drop 11 million capable. Charley Grimm, Milwaupounds of bombs on Hitler's industrial areas. pounds of bombs on Hitler's industrial areas.

So we are shifting back to the 1940 Hitler viewpoint. We say the Luftwaffe failed because it did not follow through strongly enough—that we now have the material with which to accomplish against Germany what Hitler failed to achieve against Britain.

Funny how easy bicycle riding looks—when it isn't!

We see girls sailing down the street with all the grace of swooping dove (do doves swoop?) or some other graceful thing. And we think, "Why, there's no trick to that! It's easy." But after struggling with a bike for an hour, we're a wiser woman-and a sadder one to the extent of a cut thumb and miscellaneous bruises shading beautifully into green, and blue.

and black. Guess we must lack what the learned ones would call "motor coordination". We can keep the bicycle upright for the extent of time it takes to push one pedal down but when we start to push the other down our foot won't work fast enough. Before we can get it on to the pedal, the bicycle is leaning perilously toward Mother Earth and only quick action keeps us from going with it.

It's a great sport, bicycling—after you learn how to do it. At that, though, we'd like to try again. We still believe we could

How to Make Your Appliances Run Smoothly and Last Longer*

Your electric fan, and other motor-driven electric appliances, will run more smoothly and last longer if oiled according to the recommendations of the manufacturer. Now that the manufacture of fans has been restricted and many other motor-operated appliances are out of production due to the war, every needed attention should be given them to make 'em last.

A complete cleaning and oiling by a qualified electrician should make your fan operate more quietly and prolong its life. This attention is particularly important after a fan has been idle all winter.

involved in the robbery and murder of a bank messenger, through his protection of Ballard's dissipated son, Junior. Hunter found Junior lying unconscious beside a satchel containing $17,000, the amount taken from the messenger. Hunter had put the boy to bed, discovered next day that Junior had not been drunk, but shot and seriously wounded.

Hunter hides the money, next day finds it gone from a safe to which only he knew the combination. The tires of his car match the fracks of the "death car" which Junior drove and crashed on the estate, and which Hunter is hiding. But the sheriff examines flunter's tires, finds there is no dust on them.
