Soviet dispatched declared Tuesday that wavering German troops had retreated another 20 miles on the eastern approaches to Rostov, while on the Lower Don front the Nazi high command was reported throwing masses of tank-led infantry into a desperate new attempt to halt the Red armies.

Once again, a series of brilliant Russian strokes overshadowed the news from other fronts in the global war. There were Allied bombing attacks on the Italian port of Naples and on Germany's war foundries in the Ruhr.

Hitler's high command acknowledged that the Russians were keeping up the offensive in three major sectors, reporting tersely:

Who Fixes Wages And Why

If there is an unusually heavy fall of what looke like snow over the United States this winter, a large part of it may turn out to be stuff that doesn't melt but will burn. They will be letters from workers asking in effect, "How do I go about getting a raise?" Or they will be letters from employers saying, "It is next to impossible for us to keep old workers or get new ones at the existing wage levels which have been put under control by government order. How do we go about increasing wages to meet these conditions?

All such letters and variations thereof will be queries for more information on the government's wage stabilization program—one of the least understood of all the wartime controls, yet one which will effect every wage earner in the country. Indirectly it affects every member of every family right down to the sub-deb's allowance.

Briefly stated, the reason wage stabilization is necessary is that wages represent the biggest single item in the total cost of the war. The government is now spending for war at the rate of $6 billions a month, or $200 million a day. Since approximately 70 per cent of the national income is wages and salaries, it is fair to say that 70 per cent of the war cost is wages. That amounts to $4.2 billion a month, or $140 million a day.

If the total cost of the war runs to $300 billion, $210 billion will be wages and salaries, not just to the men in the armed services, but to every man, woman and child who does a lick of war work. If the cost of the war is to be kept down, if taxes which go to pay those war costs are to be kept down, wages must be stabilized.

The principal reason for keeping wages and salaries under control, however, is to prevent inflation. If wages are permitted to rise without limits, the cost of the goods produced by labor and the services rendered by labor must rise with them. That's inflation. To prevent it, the government is actually interested in seeing that you have no more money to spend than there are goods and services to spend them on.

By last September it was apparent that everything which had been done up to then in the way of price control and wage adjustment was still not sufficient to check inflation. On Oct. 2, Congress therefore passed an amendment to the Price Control Act authorizing the President to take this drastic wage control step. Moving rapidly, the President created the Office of Economic Stabilization, with ex-Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes as

Under the President's order, however, the major part of this authority was delegated to the War Labor Board, which had been set up previously to handle wartime labor disputes. Director Byrnes divided the respon-

All other wages-workmen's pay calculated on an hourly, daily, or piecework basis—was left with the War Labor Board. Salaries-under $5000 a year, except for executive or professional employes not covered by a union wage agreement—were also left under the jurisdiction of

All other salaries-pay computed on a weekly, monthly or annual basis—were assigned to the control of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the Treasury Department.

General orders, rulings, regulations and interpretations of the War Labor Board, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Secretary of Agriculture will therefore govern all actions on wage stabilization for the duration of the war.

Hofun for your eyes!

Eyes are now being used at least 20% more in the home than they were a year ago . . . based on a recent survey of over 3,000 people in 914 families. Because of this, remember that lots of things which are fun for you, are work for your eyes. There's extra need to watch your light and guard eyesight!

"Yes siree, it'll whistle tomorrow!" Many a man now gets a big kick out of being the repair man around home. But you'll spend less time at it and see better if you avoid glare by having the right size bulb in your fixture.

"This plane's going to be a honey, sis" . . . and so is that new doll dress. But close work like this means greater risk of eyestrain. See that the lamp they work by is close enough and has at least a 100-watt bulb in it.

It's a game now for Mom . . . but how she works at it, trying to make everything, including Dad's socks, last longer! If she'd only move the lamp back close to her elbow, she'd find mending less tiring, and less strain for her eyes.

HOW TO GET MORE OUT OF LIGHT!

- 1. Keep bulbs and reflectors clean ... dust and dirt waste more light than you think.
- 2. Replace dark shades or shades turned yellow; get more light.
- 3. Arrange lamps and furniture so each Jamp can serve two or more people if necessary.
- When you buy a lamp bulb, buy carefully; be sure it's the right size to protect eyes.

'I AM A MURDERER'

BY MORRIS MARKEY

THE STORY: This is the story of the "perfect crime"—the murder of Col. Wesley Hope Merriwether in the library of his Long Island estate—and of the events leading up to it. The Colonel's daughter Cynthia has a halfhearted suitor in polo-playing Fred West; a bashful suitor in Mitchell Grace, the Colonel's secretary; a close friend in Henry Prentiss. But Cynthia seems most attracted to Vaughan Dunbar, a stranger who appeared at the Merriwether home one night with a message from his fellow foreign correspondent and Cynthia's friend, Bill Stewart.
