OWI Under Fire

Probably it was inevitable that the Office of War
Information should be attacked as a propaganda agency.
For one reason, because it is the appointive creature of the party in power, and as such it is natural—if not fair—game for the opposition. For another reason, because the OWI has made mistakes which have provided ammunition for critics.

On more than one occasion Director Elmer Davis has conceded frankly that his office had issued unfortunate material. At other times he has stood belligerently behind releases which were under attack.

It would be easy for Mr. Davis to avoid such troubles. He could confine his output to humdrum factual statements, full of exhaustive statistics on war production and military activities.

Most of his troubles have come from two activities that go beyond this pure routine. One is the preparation of propaganda for the benefit of enemy and neutral countries. In this the objective has been to play up those facts that would help to break enemy morale and demonstrate to neutrals that the farther they stay away from the Axis, the happier they will be about 1944 and 1945 and thereafter.

The other is the preparation of reports based upon fact-finding surveys in connection with often controversial matters—the rubber situation, for example; the performance of American warplanes; war financing; the food production and distribution breakdown.

Conceding that errors have crept into some of these latter studies, we hope that Davis will be neither ordered nor bulldozed into discontinuing such work.

In ordinary times, newspapers could and would make such surveys for themselves, and would keep the public informed about what is being done. Unfortunately, there are enough war secrets involved in most such subjects so that newspapermen can not perform, fully and satisfactorily, their function as watchdogs for the public.

Nevertheless, the public knows infinitely more about the weak spots of government, because the OWI is doing what it can as an agency of public enlightenment, than if the office had avoided that field.

Jackson Hole National Park

In the midst of the disturbance in far off Tunisia, you may not have noticed that diplomatic relations between the United States and the sovereign state of Wyoming have become very strained. The governor of Wyoming, following or paralleling the line of the Swedish government, has made it clear that although his people prefer to live peacefully with their neighbors, they are prepared to resist aggression with force.

This may sound exaggerated or facetious. It is but only a little. It comes pretty close to describing what is happening since Interior Secretary Harold Ickes attempted to seize a piece of Wyoming about quarter the size of the state of Rhode Island.

Ickes had President Roosevelt sign an order proclaiming 221,606 acres of Wyoming land in the picturesque Jackson Hole country as a national monument.

Ickes has full power, it appears, to make national park out of land already owned by the United States or surrendered voluntarily by private owners. But this was neither. It can be taken over only by act of Congress.

Five years ago a congressional committee found Wyoming citizens so opposed to retiring the Jackson Hole land from grazing service—last year it supplied 2,700,000 pounds of beef on the hoof—that the legislators declined to order its transfer.

So Ickes just went ahead anyway. The first that Wyoming's senators knew of the action was when a constituent called one of them up from home and ask "What the heck?" Only he did not say "heck."

So Governor Lester C. Hunt, a Democrat, has given public warning that he will use "all police authority at my disposal to exit from the proposed national monument any federal official who attempts to assume authority." He has notified the ranchers that they may call on him for state police if they have any trouble with national park officials. If he stands by his guns, there can be real trouble.

The area includes 147 homes, six postoffices, nine stores, 10 dude ranches, five hotels and cabin camps, 1095 horses and numerous hogs and turkeys and chickens, and is used by 81 livestock owners with 15,610 cattle.

Excuse Us, Please

A deserved honor was bestowed upon Generals
Dwight Eisenhower and Douglas MacArthur when King George made them honorary Knights of the Bath. It is to be assumed that if either really desired to be known as General Sir Dwight or General Sir Douglas, Congress would grant permission. Neither is likely to ask for that dispensation, or utilize it if it should be tendered.

Something terrible should happen to us for even harboring this thought, but it is just as bad to think it as to say it, so here goes:

We'll bet dollars to doughnuts either general, on many an occasion, would gladly have given title, medal, ribbon and honorary rank for the privilege of a night in a real bath.

He May Be Slow In Starting, But—!

no local girls upon whom to call

C. B. Dunagan Honored On Birthday With Barbecue At Family Home Here

About 50 relatives and friends helped C. B. Dunagan celebrate his 84th birthday Sunday — two days late — when a barbecue supper was served on the lawn at his home, 402 South Weatherford Street. His birthday was Friday.

It was the first time in 25 years his four sons and his daughter had been together at his home at the same time, Dunagan said. In addition, a large number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present.

Dunagan moved to Midland 36 years ago, and has lived in the same home since that time. He was county and district clerk here for eight years, and was connected with the Midland Bottling Company 11 years. He came here from Wortham, Freestone County, where he served as county clerk four years, as assistant cashier at a bank three years, and as postmaster for several years.

His five children present to extend their felicitations are H. B. Dunagan, Sr., of Midland, John C. Dunagan, of Midland, L. E. Dunagan, Sr., of Monahans, Mrs. Zeb Wilkins of Dallas, and Charles F. Dunagan of Midland.

In addition to the honoree and his children, those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Williamson, Mrs. John C. Dunagan and Virginia Ann Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fromhold, Lt. and Mrs. Norris Raun, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brooks and daughter, Ann; Mr. and Mrs. M. F. King, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Vertrees and sons, Ralph and Charles, Jr.; Mrs. S. M. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Navy; Mr. and Mrs. James N. Allison, Mrs. Gay Harris, Lloyd Dunagan of Austin, Mrs. Dixie Smith of Fort Worth, Zeb Wilkins of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Dunagan and children, John and Deanna; Mr. and Mrs. James E. William Ann Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fromhold, Lt. and Mrs. Norris Raun, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brooks and daughter, Ann; Mr. and Mrs. M. F. King, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Vertrees and sons, Ralph and Charles, Jr.; Mrs. S. M. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Jones and children, Joe Lee and Carolyn; Mrs. Clint Dunagan and children, Marilyn, Tony, Walter and Mike; Mrs. Woodrow Beatty, Mrs. J. E. Bain, Miss Ruth L. McCarty, L. E. Dunagan, Jr., of the U. S. Sprinkle and daughter, Elizabeth, and J. C. Roberts.

The bride and groom were attended by Miss Marjorie Quirk, of Camp Bowie, sister of the groom, and Lt. Paul Ruffalo of the bombardier school.

The bride was beautifully attired in bridal gown of white net with round yoke neckline, and bouffant skirt, and she wore a white cap of duchess lace. Her flowers were orchids.

The maid of honor wore a gown of pink net, with ruffled bandeau trim. Her flowers were a corsage of asters.

The bride and groom stood before an improvised altar on either side of which were tall baskets of peach gladioli, and tall white tapers were used effectively in the background.

The wedding march was played by Sgt. Jess Kellerman, and the double ring service was read by the Rev. Cosmos R. Dahlheimer, chaplain.

The bride and groom knelt for the blessing.

C. L. WOOD COMPLETES ARMORED FORCE TRAINING

Pvt. C. L. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wood of Midland, has completed his basic training at the Armored Force Replacement Center, Fort Knox, Ky., preparatory for combat duty.

Mrs. Boyd has been able to learn, her play is the only one of this kind. Thus it has won much praise in papers at Dallas, Fort Worth and San Francisco. "Orphan Nell" ran for nine weeks in Fort Worth in 1937 and was directed by Mrs. Boyd. Her cast was composed of students from NTSTC and TCU and the musicians were from the radio stations.

The difference in the oldtime melodrama and Mrs. Boyd's "Orphan Nell" is that instead of only using the mood music, she combined the blood and thunder type of play with songs as well as music of the musical comedy. So far as Flo Knight Boyd, author of the play, "Orphan Nell" to be presented by the Civic Theater in Midland June 11 and 12, is a native of Oregon but she received her degree from NTSTC at Denton. She was principal of the school at Reinhardt in Dallas County at the time she wrote the melodrama of the nineties, a play whose music depicts the moods of the over-emotional natures and flowing gestures of the hero, heroine and villain, that many will remember as art of its day.

The difference in the oldtime melodrama and Mrs. Boyd's "Orphan Nell" is that instead of only using the mood music, she combined the blood and thunder type of play with songs as well as music of the musical comedy. So far as

WOMEN WON'T TALK

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Derek Grady has been found murdered on the grounds of Kraiktower, Maribe Kraik warns Kathy, her grand daughter, and Margaret, the housekeeper, not to admit to the police that they know who he is.

WANTED FOR KIDNAPING

CHAPTER V
THE larger of the two police officers stepped forward. He removed his cap courteously and for the first time I saw the blunt, square, handsome face and the grave, young eyes of Chief Deputy Sam Shaw.

"Mrs. Kraik?"
I nodded. I knew from his voice that he was the man I had talked to over the phone. Briefly, I repeated what I had already told him and added, "I'll show you where the body is." But first I sent the three men, who were carrying a doctor's case, into the living room to Clint Mattison.

Then I got a raincoat and umbrella out of the hall closet and went down the hall and into my study and through the French doors onto the east terrace.

I stood by silent and shivering while the two officers looked at Derek Grady's body. The rain had splashed the light suit he wore with mud.

Deputy Shaw knelt as I had done. He was careful not to touch the body.

I was trying to screw my courage up for the lie I must tell. I hadn't had much practice. Deputy Shaw saved me the trouble.

He looked up at the other officer and his eyes were bright. "Know who he is?"

The other officer shook his head.

"Derek Grady. Wanted for kidnaping in Chicago. The circulars on him came into the office yesterday." There was huge satisfaction in his tone.

He stood up then, explaining to me that they couldn't move the body until the coroner arrived.

Then the two of them examined the ground around the dead man. But the rain had beaten down the grass and obliterated all possibility of finding footprints. The stocky chief deputy cursed moodily under his breath. At length he suggested that I take him back to the house.

CLINT MATTISON'S arm had been put in an improvised sling. The doctor said he wanted X-rays taken before he set Mattison's arm and asked if it was all right to take him away.

Deputy Shaw seemed undecided. He studied his wrist watch. "We received your telephone call at 1:30. How long before that was it that you discovered the body?"

I frowned in concentration. It must have been a minute or two after Connie had led me to Derek that I had stood there planning what to do. It had seemed like ages. Then Mattison had crashed in his glider, Connie had fainted, I had had to explain things to our amateur aviator, and he with his one good arm had helped me get Connie to the house. Then I had gone directly to the phone.

"Not more than 10 or 15 minutes at the most," I told Shaw.

He nodded his head and his eyes went curiously from face to face. We were all there in the living room, Clara and Sarah, their eyes bulging with curiosity. Miss Lake, she had gotten the twins to sleep and slipped back down stairs. Clint Mattison, Connie, Kathy and I.

The deputy took a paper from his pocket and unfolded it. It was a handbill such as one sees displayed on the walls in post officeobbies, carrying a description of criminals wanted by the federal government.

"Here are some pictures of the dead man," Shaw said. "I'd like to know if any of you recognize him."

He handed the paper first to Clint Mattison who promptly shook his head indicating that he did not know the man.

"All right, Mattison," the deputy said. "You can go with the doctor, then."

THE maids, of course, had never seen Derek. Neither, indicated Miss Lake and Connie had they. Shaw handed the circular to Kathy. She leaned forward studying the pictures with an odd absorbed curiosity. Over her shoulder I could see that one was profile and one a full-face print of Derek. They had been taken when he was in prison. There was a number under them.

Too late I remembered what I had told Kathy. If the police knew who Derek was... I started to speak.

"I don't know that man," Kathy was saying. Carelessly she handed the paper back to Shaw.

Added to my consternation over the blunder I had created was a queer sort of shock. Kathy had denied knowing Derek so convincingly. It made me wonder how many times she was fooling the chief deputy. And I had thought I knew Kathy so well.

The arrival of the coroner created a diversion. Clara let him in. He nodded to Shaw pleasantly and gave the rest of us a scowl. He was a thin man with a gaunt face and dismal black eyes. He and Shaw went out together to look at the body.

Connie sat up on the divan as the hall door closed on the two men. Two scarlet spots burned in her white cheeks and her eyes were strained. "We'll have to phone Walter at once."

I looked at her. "I don't see why we should bother him. You know he has an important directors' meeting this week." Things weren't going any too well at the plant what with labor trouble and one thing and another.

"The police will soon take the body away and that's all there will be to it," I went on soothingly. Connie was tearing her handkerchief to shreds. "Mother—I've got to have him here. I—I need him."

Honesty Cost Plenty
PITTSBURGH —(P)— A building supply company owner walked into the Office of Price Administration here and tossed a check for $20,000 to Enforcement Attorney Lorin L. Lewis.

"I guess I owe that to the federal treasury under OPA regulations because one of my managers has been selling material above ceiling prices," he explained, and walked out.

"We'd never had a complaint about him," Lewis gasped as he recovered from the surprise.

Russia Oversubscribes Second War Loan Goal
MOSCOW —(P)— Soviet Russia's second war loan of 12,000,000,000 rubles was over-subscribed by 2,561,000,000 rubles in the first 24 hours it was announced Monday, and subscriptions were said to be mounting steadily.

In foreign trade the ruble has had a nominal value of 19 cents but conditions governing Russia's economic contacts with the outside world make accurate conversion into the dollar impossible.

(On the basis of a 19 cent figure, however, 12,000,000,000 rubles would be $2,280,000,000,000.)

Everyone who knows me knows my keen interest in the children's ward at Memorial Hospital in New York. I was very pleased recently when Raymond J. McGrover and his A. C. B. L. committee of Brooklyn and Long Island decided to run the Brooklyn and Long Island Championships this year for the benefit of the children's ward. They had a very successful tournament and raised $929 for the ward. Here is one of the interesting hands from the tournament. You might call the bidding a little optimistic, and I don't know why West never bid diamonds. It was also surprising that East did not double the four heart contract. Nevertheless, North made his contract.

OWI Warns Against Extravagant Claims For Peacetime Role Of Aerial Freight-Hauling In Glowing Report

WASHINGTON —(AP)—America's enormous wartime expansion of air transport was described glowingly Monday by the Office of War Information which warned however against "extravagant" claims for the peacetime role of aerial freight-hauling.

The OWI said: "The great wartime expansion of air transport is being accompanied by a vast, worldwide development of airways, communications, and airports which will be available to serve civilian air transport after the war."

Exclusive of certain military air-dromes, there will be about 865 major airports in the United States by the end of 1943, all of them with paved runways of 3,500 feet or more, capable of handling the largest craft now flying. Less than 100 such fields existed in 1940. In addition, there are well over 2,000 lesser fields.

The OWI said that in 1943—when total aviation production will be $20,100,000,000—more than one-fourth of all twin-engine and four-engine aircraft will be transports. But the agency said more "than merely the planes and pilots which America will have available in such great quantities after the war" is needed for a successful air transport system.

"Availability and expense of fuel are limiting factors in air transport today and will continue to be so long as airplanes fly on gasoline," OWI said. "In the words of C. I. Stanton, Civil Aeronautics Administrator:

"It is perfectly obvious that in the not too distant future high-value cargo of all kinds will be commonly transported by air both domestically and overseas; planes will carry passengers, mail, express and freight in ever-growing quantities.

But why stretch the facts? Why claim that air transportation will be the only form of transportation? Far from bringing about a decrease in surface traffic, expanded air traffic will increase it, for the fuel to keep the planes in the air will have to be hauled by surface craft."

As an example of the limitations on air transportation, the OWI quoted Stanton further: "A clipper can carry 8 1/2 tons of freight from New York to England in 14 days in Newfoundland, whereas a 10,000-ton surface freighter can carry from six to eight thousand tons of cargo, together with fuel and stores for the round trip.

"Therefore a good many hundred clipper trips would be needed to carry the tonnage which one 10,000-ton water-borne freighter can handle on one voyage."

Nevertheless, the OWI pointed out the National Resources Planning Board's estimate that "within the next decade or two, air travel in the United States will assume approximately 70 per cent of present-day Pullman rail travel, or about six billion revenue passenger miles (approximately 20,000,000 passengers a year). The Civil Aeronautics Board expects this figure to be reached in 1946."

Trinity River Is Continuing Rise

By The Associated Press
Fed by week-end flood waters from its rampaging East Fork, Trinity River continued to rise below Dallas Monday and was pouring over its banks at Trinidad.

Dallas Weather Observer A. M. Hamrick said East Fork was receding at Rockwall where 11.97 inches of rain fell Sunday morning, but that the lower Trinity was expected to rise for another 24 hours.

Neches Is Rising
At Rosser, some 20 miles south of Dallas, the river was two feet above bank level at 8:30 Monday morning and rising fast, he said.

The State Highway Department reported that the Neches River was rising west of Tyler and that State Highway 64 was in danger of being blocked by high water.

U. S. Highway 67 between Rockwall and Greenville and U. S. Highway 80 between Grand Saline and Mineola were still blocked Monday. Traffic on 80 was being routed through Tyler. Other highways blocked Sunday were open Monday, the department said.

Rail Traffic Continues
Katy railroad officials said that traffic over a long stretch of damaged track between Caddo Mills and Royce City was resumed at 9 o'clock Sunday night.

Nearly four inches of rain in the Corsicana area during the past 48 hours delayed farm work but caused no excessive damage.

Texas Lieutenant Gets Hair-Raising Introduction To Actual Air Combat

AN ADVANCED AMERICAN MEDIUM BOMBER BASE, NORTH AFRICA —(AP)— This was the introduction to war of Lt. Howard Glick, of 2412 St. Calveston, Texas, who had these things happen during his first combat mission as the bombardier of a medium bomber.

Anti-aircraft fire and enemy fighter bullets ripped 75 holes in the rugged plane as it was over a target area in Sicily. Damaged Two Nazis Firing from the nose of the bomber, Glick damaged two attacking ME-109s. Leaving his 50-caliber machine-gun temporarily, he released a load of fragmentation bombs on the target, but four of them stuck to the bomb racks, which had been damaged by the flak.

Donning a parachute, Glick crawled out of his compartment in the plane's nose to try to release the four bombs for fear they would be hit by enemy fire and explode or be set off if the plane was forced to make a crash landing. Fluid leaking from the plane's hydraulic system and gasoline made the catwalk slippery as a cold wind swished in through the bomb bay doors which would not close because the hydraulic system was damaged.

Releases Bombs
Reaching down from his precarious perch, Glick cut the wire on the bombs with a pair of pliers enabling them to fall free, one after the other. Then he crawled back along the catwalk to take up his position by the machine gun and to help Pilot Lt. William R. Kemp of Chicago land the disabled plane.

Members of the crew prepared to bail out as the plane neared its home base, but after tugging with the emergency landing system for five minutes, the wheels slowly came down into position. Kemp then brought the flak-riddled bomber down for a perfect landing.

"Grease monkeys" who checked the bomber found that hoists had been shot in four gasoline tanks, both engines had been hit, the gasoline lines had been broken in two places and the hydraulic system was punctured in eight places.

U. S. Air Force --

may strike through Spain; still weak from the blood letting of the long civil war.

Spain Is Important
Spain would provide either a belligerent with good air bases. For the Allies, observers said, it would be an ideal bridgehead from which to furnish aerial cover for landing operations in Western or Southern France.

Berlin dispatches said German leaders were looking anxiously toward Spain but the Nazis were quoted as saying Franco was prepared for any eventuality.

After the Hitler and Mussolini conference April 12, there was considerable speculation that Spain might figure in Axis plans to buttress Europe, were North Africa lost.

While Italy was steadily being bombed into impotence, Spain loomed ever more important if the Axis hoped to continue aerial blows at Mediterranean shipping.

Gibraltar Base
France's recent appeal for restriction of bombing was interpreted here as a plea not only for Germany and Italy, but for Spain herself. It followed by a month, a peace feeler from the Spanish leader.

The invasion-conscious Germans clamped another state of emergency down on the Norwegian port of Bergen, a potential landing point, and it was disclosed that German defensive demolitions had blasted a 600-yard wide belt, with anti-tank ditches more than a mile from the sea, clear across the four miles of The Hague, Holland.

The Morocco radio reported new mass arrests of persons along the French coast who might have aided Allied invaders. A Spanish report said Gibraltar was practically bare of shipping.

O'Daniel Worried Over Dictatorship Ideas In Capital

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) expressed the belief Monday that high federal authorities were carrying out a plan for "a dictatorship, and regimentation of our people" and declared that a "big house cleaning of elected officials" was necessary to save the nation.

After reporting that he had conferred with "these Washington czars and bureaucrats," he said: "You may think they are ignorant or are not fully informed. I have a different conception of them and their planning. I believe they are taking orders from somebody and that what they are doing is only a part of a plot to change our form of government into 'communism,' 'socialism' or some other foreign 'ism' which means a dictatorship, and a regimentation of our people and abolishing our 'private system' of enterprise."

"The only way to save our nation, if it can be saved at this late hour, is for the people to make a big house cleaning of elected officials of our federal government, and put men in office who believe in our constitution and our American system of private enterprise and who will not only make speeches favoring it, but will vote the same way they talk."

"I never in my life saw as much deceit and deception per square inch anywhere else as there is here in the nation's capital, Austin (Texas) capital, where O'Daniel once served as governor) was bad enough, but this is so bad that it makes Austin by comparison look as harmless as a Sunday School convention."

OPA Regulations Hit By Retail Grocersmen
WASHINGTON —(AP)— Spokesmen for retail grocers told the House small business committee Monday that thousands of them would be forced out of business unless OPA price regulations were changed.

First of a group of witnesses here for three days of hearings on the grocers' complaints, P. M. Brinker of Dallas, president of the National Association of Retail Grocers, said OPA price-margin rulings were so impractical as to lead to a suspension they were drawn by someone whose "experience in the food line has been with his feet under a table, pulling the meat off a chicken leg."

Dodgers Suffer Acute Shortstop Sensitivity

By Judson Bailey
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Brooklyn Dodgers are out of first place and in a dither. The curious club which led the National League from the start of the season until last week-end, when it slipped into the shadow of the St. Louis Cardinals, is afflicted with a malady as acute sensitivity of the shortstop.

This has been a sore spot all the while the Dodgers have been stumbling through the west. Manager Leo Durocher, once one of the flashiest fielders of them all, has remained on the active list this season presumably just to step into situations such as this, yet for reasons best known to himself he has not played a single game this season.

Macon Takes Over

The recent days he has shuffled Arky Vaughan, Rookie Boyd Bartley and Reserve Bob Bragan in and out of the job with credit to anyone. Sunday the Dodgers managed to beat the Chicago Cubs in the first game of a doubleheader, but were shellacked 11-5 in the nightcap and misadventures by Bartley and Bragan, sharing the shortstop role, set up situations which enabled the Cubs to score eight of their 11 runs. They clustered five tallies in the fourth inning and four in the sixth.

In the first game White Wyatt held the Bruins to four hits in 7 1/3 innings but was removed in a surprise bit of strategy with the score tied 3-3 after all the Chicago counters had been scored on Dallessandro's triple with the bases loaded in the first inning.

Macon, who took Wyatt's place, allowed only one hit thereafter and in the 11th inning himself singled home the deciding run for a 4-3 victory.

Meanwhile weather limited the Cardinals game with the Phillies to five innings and a 1-1 tie. Their second game was postponed, leaving the Redbirds high, if not dry, and half a game on top of the senior circuit.

Pittsburgh Takes Pair

Weather also forced postponement of the Boston Brave's second game at Cincinnati, but the two teams got in a 14-inning opener which, the Reds finally won 4-3 on Eddie Miller's single with the bases loaded, Elmer Riddle, going the route, allowed no Boston runs after the first inning.

In the other National League action Pittsburgh made 25 runs to the New York Giants' one in sweeping a doubleheader, 18-1 and 7-0. Bob Klinger pitched five-hit ball behind the Bucco's 18-hit Jack Hallett followed with a four-hit shutout.

The New York Yankees preserved their margin in front of the American League with a pair of victories over the St. Louis Browns, 2-1 in 11 innings and 10-6. The first game, which was St. Louis' seventh overtime tussle in eight contests, was a duel between pitchers Al Hollingsworth and Atley Donald and was decided on three singles in the eleventh. Two home runs by John Lindell and one by Nick Etten, who together drove in eight runs, easily took the nightcap.

Senators Win Twice

Washington's second place Senators, a game behind New York, won twice from Detroit, 5-1 and 8-4. All the Senators' runs in the first game were bunched in the second inning. Their scoring in the after-piece was spread out with Mickey Vernon hitting a triple, double and two singles and stealing two bases.

Boston's Red Sox nosed out Chicago twice 4-3 and 3-2 with ninth-inning rallies and Cleveland divided a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics. The A's scored ten runs in the seventh and eighth frames of the first game to win 12-5 and then were shut out 5-0 in the second by John Salvoso.

The week-end skirmishing ended the inter-sectional round in the two leagues and all clubs will be idle Monday and Tuesday except Brooklyn and Pittsburgh, which are billed for a night game Monday on the Pirates' grounds.

PROWLER BREAKS INTO LOWE'S SERVICE STATION

A door was broken open Saturday night at Lowe's Service Station but a quick check showed nothing of value was stolen.

An attempt was made, police said, to force an entrance into the Humble Service Station on West Wall Street, but the prowler, after breaking a small window, failed to gain entrance to the building.

Count Fleet On Way To Becoming Racing's All-Time Big Money King

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Figger Filberts went into a huddle Monday to count up the folding money that's been cut up among the three-year-olds this spring and discovered that Count Fleet is in a fair way to becoming the turf's all-time "Mr. Moneybags" for one season of galloping.

This is a label that's been pinned on Gallant Fox for 13 years now, ever since he piled up $308,275 as a three-year-old back in 1930. Not even Whirlaway was able to come close on his way to building up the biggest bankroll racing has ever seen during his three seasons of running.

Yet, when the Count cakewalked home by 30 lengths in the Belmont last Saturday, thereby becoming one of racing's six triple-crown winners, his bank account also showed he was in front of Gallant Fox for the same period in the Fox's three-year-old year.

Count Skipping Dwyer

When Sunny Jim Fitzsimmons' gallant galloper took his Belmont he had a total of $172,840 for his wins in the Wood, Derby, Preakness and Belmont that spring. The Belmont Saturday was the Count's sixth straight "jackpot" this year and left his pocketbook full of $174,055 for 1943 up to now, as well as a total of $250,300 for his career to date.

The Fox added $11,500 to his account in the Dwyer that year. The Count is passing this one—It's slated June 19 at Aqueduct—so that some of the other three-year-olds can get a chance to make a living. But after taking a six or seven week vacation until the Arlington classic, he's probably going to run in everything he can and even with taxes what they are, he's a threat not only to the Fox's one-year-old standard but also to Whirl's half-million dollars high.

Advice To Vacationists

"If you have not been vaccinated against typhoid fever within the last two or three years, go to your doctor and secure this protection at once," Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, advises prospective campers, Boy and Girl Scouts, and other summer vacationists as the out-of-door season approaches.

"Typhoid fever," he continued, "is unnecessary and preventable. Every case is due either to community negligence or to the ignorance or carelessness of some individual. There would be no deaths from typhoid if every person were protected by typhoid 'shots.'"

Some of the most serious and far reaching outbreaks of the disease have been caused by drinking milk or eating foods that have been handled by carriers. A typhoid carrier is a person who has had typhoid at some time and who even after recovery carries the germs of the disease in the urine and the discharges from the intestinal tract. Carriers who are careless in their personal habits are likely to infect any food they handle with unwashed hands.

Dr. Cox explained that typhoid germs are picked up and spread from person to person by water, milk, flies, fingers, food. Every case of typhoid is contracted by way of the mouth and the digestive system. "The only way to be absolutely sure of typhoid prevention is by immunization," he declared.

Good Luck Omen Returns To Aid New Rainbow

MUSKOGEE, OKLA. — (AP) — A rainbow in the sky—the omen that impressed the Rainbow Division of the first world war—has returned to inspire the second unit to bear that famous name.

The new division will be activated at Camp Gruber July 14, the 25th anniversary of the old outfit's advance into the Champagne front.

The Rainbow Division originally was so named because it drew its men from many different sections of the nation, but—

Had Good Omen Seen

"It is a historical fact that in overseas action during the first World War the Rainbow consistently was greeted by a real rainbow in the sky before embarking on every important mission," Capt. Harry Gowdy of the infantry school, Fort Benning, Ga., wrote Brig. Gen. Harry J. Collins, commanding general of the new Rainbow division.

Gowdy, once a big league baseball player, should know. He was a color sergeant in the old Rainbow outfit.

"This is significant," Gowdy wrote, "because it appears the same harbinger of good fortune will accompany the new rainbow division. On May 10th, the first day of the activation of the officer cadre of the new Rainbow Division at Fort Enning, there appeared in the sky a beautiful rainbow over the barracks occupied by the officers of the division."

Rainbows All Around

General Collins is ready to believe in the harbinger. He went to Fort Sill, Okla., to meet field artillery officers of the new Rainbow. Accompanied by Brig. Gen. Jess Barner, commandant of the field artillery school, he drove to the officers' barracks in a rain which stopped upon his arrival.

There above the new Rainbow's field artillery officers was a rainbow.

And General Collins' aid, Lt. Roger W. Cutler, Jr., tells of being in Washington recently. He asked a policeman the location of the office of Brig. Gen. William J. Donovan, the "Wild Bill" of Dinwiddie of the Fighting 69th of the old Rainbow. The officer pointed to a building across the street, and riding above it was a bright rainbow.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK — (AP) — The other day Col. Dick Hanley of the Marines, former big-time college coach, told the Washington Touchdown Club that the only good reason for football is that it helps entertain the boys overseas. If football coaches want to do a real service, said Dick, they can take the kids who never played football and toughen 'em up. Fellows who have played the game don't need that extra training. Of course, you might argue, that just what they do. If there wasn't any football, there wouldn't be that group which is ahead of the rest in physical condition. Even though the footballers represent less than one per cent of the men in the armed forces.

Quire, Unquote

Also from Hanley: "Those kids overseas gobble up what news they can get about sports and short wave broadcasts of games entertain them. That's football's biggest service in time of war."

Saturday's (Brain) Children

The Cubs knocked the Dodgers down into second, something on which their bums hadn't reckoned. Let's cheer the army of Glad-der the wonder though Rice and Dodds may steal his thunder.

Jack Charvat, Tulsa, Okla., Tribune: "Let us be taken from the list of 'Beat the Yanks Scribes,' because it's almost wishful thinking to try to beat the New Yorkers on paper."

Service Dept.

When ex-Tiger Barney McCosky landed at the Navy flight prep school at Wooster, Ohio, he didn't think he'd be eligible for the college baseball team so he didn't bring his glove and shoes. He was nearly right, too. He played only one game because he had no time to practice.

Clinching The Deal

Bill Bennings of the Washington Post tells this one about Jack Meier, owner of a horse named Tabellarius, who, says Bill, "has done about everything around the track but run fast." The other day after the nag ran last, Meier decided to retire as a horse owner and offered to sell Bennings all his equipment. "He made out a list this way: 'One bed, $15; two blankets, $3' etc., right down to 'one sack oats, $3.65 and one shank, $1.' 'That totals $47.65 and I'll throw in a tub and a bucket,' Jack offered. 'But what will you take for the horse?' Bill asked. 'Oh,' Meier explained, 'Tabellarius goes with the shank.'"

Crew Of Fortress 'Old Puss' Sends Souvenir To Nazi Announcer On Raid

A U. S. BOMBER STATION IN GREAT BRITAIN — (AP) — The crew of the Flying Fortress "Old Puss" delivered what members described as a "little souvenir for Herr Shick-elgruber" (Hitler) during a recent mission to Lorient where they saw their bombs knock out power installations.

The souvenir was an empty 100-pound training bomb which carried a note to the woman announcer from Berlin's state DNB which the crew sometimes hears.

"Dear Miss Midge," the note said, "This is just a dud but we are sending it to you because we love you so much. Hope to see you soon and leave another calling card—but it will be much bigger. P. S. Please play on your program the song 'Der Fuehrer's Face.' From your fans—the Beaver Bomber Patrol."

"Old Puss" is piloted by Capt. John T. Ford of Crockett, Texas. "Old Puss" was hit 12 times on the raid but returned safely with only one crewman wounded, Second Lt. Joe W. Turner of Lubbock, Tex., co-pilot, who was struck in the back by shell fragments.

The crew bagged two enemy fighters.

The Focke-Wulf which fired the 20 millimeter shell which wounded Turner was shot down by Sgt. George A. Haslip of Providence, R. I., top-turret gunner. The enemy fighter exploded only 30 yards from the Flying Fortress.

The second victim was bagged by Sergeant Frank C. Kazcar of Cleveland, O., waist-gunner.
