WAAC Officers And Auxiliaries Are Enjoying "Out Where West Begins"

A trip through the 816th WAAC headquarters at the Midland Army Air Field, makes every woman wish she had enlisted in the WAACs.

Twelve auxiliaries and three officers of the WAAC are now on the job at the post. More than a hundred WAACs are expected to arrive at the post within the next ten days.

First Lt. Mary L. Race, commander of the WAACs, came here from Daytona Beach, Florida, and is a native of New Jersey. This is her first visit to Texas, and she is impressed favorably. None of the cadre now at the post has ever been in Texas before.

Must Keep Physically Fit

The WAACs here will drill about three hours a week, and will have physical training only three hours each week. They have passed through the routine of drilling and are now ready for the bigger jobs, but they must keep fit.

"Yes, indeed, we can go out, without our uniforms, but only when we wear formal evening attire, and that lets everyone know that we can accept invitations to homes, to parties, to dances and any other social function, where we can dress formally," said Second Lt. Hortense Menzel. "Of course, we will attend the squadron dances and parties, and when we go out at times away from the post, the officers act as chaperones for the auxiliaries."

When queried as to whether they carry with them their formal and party dresses, Lieutenant Menzel said they usually have one, "but if the need arises they can wire home for another that will arrive quickly. Of course, we cannot carry with us many clothes, with exception of our uniforms. We are allowed five shirts and three skirts each, and the post laundry takes care of our laundry."

WAACs Play Tennis

For recreation at the post, the girls will play tennis, and soon there will be a swimming pool, which they might be privileged to enjoy at certain hours.

"We are already planning a trip to Carlisle, New Mexico. Sgt. Betty Longman, a native of Washington, Pennsylvania, said. She, with Lieutenant Rice and Lt. Menzel, is hoping to get to see all of West Texas while she is here.

Interesting living quarters are provided at the barracks for the WAACs. The front room of two of the large two-story buildings will be used for a "day room," where the girls can write and smoke and lounge. This is a small day room, and not the huge living room also provided in another building.

Commissioned officers each occupy a bedroom to themselves. In these rooms, are carpenter-made vanities, with mirrors and vanity seats, and on either side are the cabinets for cosmetics, and all needs of the WAACs. The beds are single beds, made up with sheets and pillow cases, and on top there is an all wool olive drab blanket, stretched tight.

Non-commissioned officers share a room with two beds, and other facilities for two people. A huge room at the rear of the barracks building has approximately 70 beds, all of which are double deckers. These are occupied by auxiliaries. Each double decker has a vanity and place for clothing, and the upper floor is arranged just like the lower one, and will be cool, for the roof is insulated. There are two of these large buildings, which will accommodate more than 150 WAACs. The large room for the bath is most interesting. There are many lavatories, and showers, and all equipment is new. A number of the auxiliaries were busy washing the sand from the new porcelain in the bath room.

A Beauty Shop

Another building houses the large living room 70 by 35 feet. This room is for the WAACs' evening hours and when they wish to visit. It will be equipped with lounge, great comfy chairs, divans, cases of books, library tables, and reading lamps. There is a cold bottled drink machine and the room has fountains for iced water.

Behind the large living room is the joy of the WAACs—the beauty parlor. It has electrical connections for ten chairs, and will be provided with permanent wave machine, shampooing lavatories, and chairs, vanities, and all other up-to-date equipment for the beautician. Beauticians from Midland will go out at specified hours in the daytime and evening to do work for the WAACs.

Most interesting is the mess hall. Various members of the auxiliaries were busily getting the kitchen in order, and seeing to the table arrangement of the dining room.

The dining room known as the "mess hall" is equipped with ten or fifteen long well built dining tables. Each is highly polished. The kitchen connects directly with the mess hall.

Modern Kitchen

Here is the most up-to-date equipment. There are fryolators which will fry anything from a potato chip to a doughnut, electric food mixers, huge in size, great numbers of muffin pans, scores of huge aluminum pitchers, a solid wood butcher block, and "stock pots." Stock pots come in 20 gallon, 15 gallon and 10 gallon sizes. They are made of heavy aluminum and each has a spigot.

They are used for soup making, and other boiling. Closely connected with the kitchen is the dish-washing apparatus. All dishes, pans and trays are scalded and sun dried in the open air. Also in this building is the refrigerated store-room for dairy products, fresh eggs, and fresh meats. The refrigerators on the other side of the store-room is about the size of four great refrigerators, and it is all electric.

When dining in the mess hall, WAACs eat from heavy aluminum trays with indented receptacles or wells for the different foods. One well is for meat and potatoes, two wells on each side are for vegetables, and others are for salad and dessert. The cups are of plain white heavy china or porcelain.

"We are given the very best of food, and when we get in perfect order, we should like for you to see just how well the WAACs are taken care of by the government," said Lieutenant Race, who is very much interested in being in Midland, wants to become acquainted with more of the Midland citizens.

Showers Tea Is Social Courtesy For Miss Frances Ellen Link Wednesday

Outstanding among courtesies this week honoring Frances Ellen Link, bride-elect, was the shower tea Wednesday afternoon at which Mrs. W. Iley Pratt and Mrs. O. F. Hedrick were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Hedrick, 800 West Michigan.

Peach, green and white were predominant colors in the decorations. Large baskets of peach gladioli and shasta daisies were placed at vantage points throughout the house.

Mrs. P. J. Mims and Mrs. P. F. Bridgewater were at the door at different hours during the afternoon, and in the receiving line were the hostesses, the bride-elect, Mrs. L. C. Link, Mrs. J. A. Terbet of Abilene and members of the bridal party, Misses Sarah Lew Link, Emily Lamar, Ella Stuart of Strawn, Charlotte Kinsey, Rosemary Johnson of Houston, and Mrs. Norman Goodman. Miss Link wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Frank Stubbeman and Mrs. W. L. Simmons ushered guests into the dining room where Miss Eleanor Hedrick poured punch for the first hour and Mrs. John M.

Speed, Jr., poured for the second hour. A silver bowl of white carnations, dahlias and shasta daisies on a mirror reflector centered the lace-laid table, and tall white tapered vases of white carnations and pink peonies repeated the pastel color scheme and bore the names, "Frances and Jack" beneath a silver "wings" insignia.

Furnishing music for the occasion were Miss Doris Lynn Pemberton, Miss Margaret Mims, and Miss Fay Dublin, who gave piano numbers, and Miss Glenna Graham who gave several violin selections, accompanied by Miss Elaine Hedrick.

Others assisting in receiving the guests were Mrs. Sam Preston, Mrs. R. E. Kinsey, Mrs. R. Steel Johnson of Odessa, Miss Muriel McHargue, Miss Martha Jane Preston, Miss Kathryn Francis, Miss Joan

Service Men Will Have Square Dance

Honoring service men a dance will be given Thursday evening in the U. S. O. headquarters, with Mrs. Clara Hood Rugel in charge. The event will take the form of a square dance, and some 150 to 200 service men and their sweethearts are expected to be present. Refreshments will be served.

Proctor, Miss Sue Shepard and Mrs. Frank Miller, Miss Mary Lee Snider presided at the bride's book. Gifts were on display throughout the receiving hours.

Approximately 100 guests called.

Red Cross Wants More Workers

Mrs. A. N. Hendrickson, head of the surgical dressings department of Red Cross work, with headquarters in the courthouse, announces that the department has shipped this week 45,000 gauze sponges to a medical depot in Colorado.

More workers are needed at the headquarters to complete the three months quota, and Mrs. Hendrickson also wants all women workers to know that the Red Cross surgical dressings headquarters is open every day at 9 a. m. with exception of Saturday. Workers may work half a day or until 4 p. m.

All women of Midland are urged to report to the headquarters and help out on the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Shelburne and son left Tuesday for Fort Worth where they expect to make their home.

Gay Nineties Show To Be Given Again Friday And Saturday

"Orphan Nell," a melodrama of the gay nineties, will be repeated Friday and Saturday nights in the City-County Auditorium. The curtain will rise at 9 p. m.

New gags will be introduced, and memories of the gay nineties will be brought back by the barbershop quartet and the chorus girls in the colorful costumes of yesteryear.

A change of costumes will be introduced.

Everyone in the city is urged to come up and help in the hissing and booing of the villains and the cheering of "our little Nell," and her hero.

Rehearsal will take place at 7:30 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. D. R. Carter spent Thursday with friends in Odessa.

Coming Events

Friday, June 18

The Belmont Bible Class will meet at 3:30 p. m. in the educational building of the First Methodist Church.

The Delta Pegasus Club will entertain with an evening picnic honoring husbands at Cloverdale Park.

Miss Joan Blair, who has been visiting in Wichita Falls and Pampa, has returned home.

Father's Day Fete

Ginger waffles and vanilla custard sauce make a tasty main dish by GAYNOR MADDOX, NEA Staff Writer.

Sunday, June 20th, will be Father's Day. Ask some of his friends to a buffet supper. Have cold cuts, potato salad, watercress sandwiches, and for a special Father's Day treat, hot ginger waffles with vanilla custard sauce made on the spot.

Vitaminized margarine is used in the recipes in place of butter.

Betsy Beckham Bundy's
Advice To The Lovelorn

Q—I have a lovely home and have never entertained as houseguests any of my old friends who live in another and distant city. I wish to invite them to come soon, and I will appreciate having you tell me just how I might give the invitation. I want them to know just how long to stay, but I do not wish to appear "chinchy".

A—When writing your friends just tell them simply that you are planning to have them as houseguests from July 1st to July 15th, and are wondering if those dates would be satisfactory to them. In designating the July 15th date, you would show that you want them only to spend a fortnight.

Never insult a friend by inviting her to your home and designating that she remain one night or one day. Few trips are worth the effort of staying one day or one night, unless such visits be just ten to 30 miles in distance. I consider it almost an insult for a person to invite an old and close friend to her home and designate that the friend remain one night, or a day and a half. If you are too close to entertain friends it is best never to extend an invitation than to insult them. Most visits when made between friends are at least three days.

Some people prefer stopping in the hotel, and just seeing their friends for a few hours, but that is a rather cold way of dealing with close friends.

DALLAS (AP)—Quentin Altizer, slim lefthander of sandlot baseball, is one fellow who likes to worry. Altizer has just finished hurling Naval Air Station of Grand Prairie to the first half championship of the Dallas Victory League, a loop in which about half the players the former professional performers, several of whom have been in the majors.

"I want the manager to tell me several days in advance when I'm going to pitch," he explained. "Then I can worry about it and when I get on the mound I'm on edge and ready to go. I guess in that way I just get all the worry out of my system beforehand."

May Join Majors
Major league clubs have been making passes at Altizer for several years.

"I've always had a good job, and didn't want to go into professional baseball where you don't make much money unless you're in the big show," he said. "I didn't want to sign with a major league club and be sent to a minor league farm."

Altizer, now a seaman first class who may enter combat duty at any time, says after the war, if everything is well, he may take that deferred fling. He's only 24.

Has Eye Troubles
The blond left-hander has a record of nine victories against one defeat this season. The loss was in a non-league game with Waco Army Flying School in which he opposed Sid Hudson, the ex-Washington hurler. He lost it because he probably was pressing too hard and because of his eyesight.

Altizer can see all right except for such things as the fingers of a catcher below his mitt. Thus he had to figure out some way of the receiver giving him signals that the customary fingers below mitt system.

He thinks too much night work weakened his eyes. One season he worked from 1 a. m. to 1 p. m. went home and slept a couple of hours, then got out to the ball park by 6 p. m. for a night game. "Why, I have gone for a week with no more than 12 hours sleep," he said.

NEW YORK (AP)—Since that celebrated war bond auction of baseball players, the fans have acquired some new material to burn the umpires' ears. Mel Ott contributed a $5,000 double and a $10,000 homer against the Dodgers Tuesday before Larry Goetz chased him out of the game for a two-bit protest.

Dana Bible Expects Daring Football With Anything Happening This Fall

AUSTIN (AP)—There will be no danger of over-coaching in college football next season, says Dana X. Bible, the veteran University of Texas mentor, who takes the view that the boys will not have much time for athletics and "we certainly will not go through long drills on fundamentals."

"There is a big question as to whether the military groups will have time to take part in inter-collegiate athletics," he said. "If they do have some free time, we certainly should not use all of it in hard grind. We shall have our practices short, snappy and as interesting as possible."

Greenberg, who advanced Wednesday along with top-seeded Pauline Betz of Los Angeles and Billy Tabert of Cincinnati, encountered lanky Robert Odman, University of Washington's ace, who is the most impressive of the meet's unseeded players.

Fight manager Al Weill now owns the contract of young Lou Hanbury, Washington battler who outpointed NBA featherweight champion Jackie Callura in a non-title fight.

Players Traded Off By Major League Clubs Making Impressive Starts In New Uniforms

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Danny Litwhiler ran right into a wall at Sportsman's Park in his debut with the world champion St. Louis Cardinals after being traded by the Philadelphia Phillies and other players have shown just as strong an urge to make an impressive beginning in a new uniform.

Connie Ryan, the day after he was traded to the Boston Braves by the New York Giants, hit the first home run of his major league career to beat his former teammates. Coaker Triplett bowed before his new followers at Philadelphia with a home run and a triple that beat the Braves.

Fischer Does Good Job
Rube Fischer, the rugged, right-handed pitcher whom the Giants had just brought up from their Jersey City farm in the International League was ordered out onto the mound at the Polo Grounds against the Giants' bitter rivals, the Brooklyn Dodgers, and proceeded to pitch a seventh-inning victory, 3-2, with the help of a two-run homer by his manager, Mel Ott.

Browns Split Pair
The Washington Senators turned back the New York Yankees, American League leaders, under the floodlights of Griffith Stadium. The Senators were held to six hits, but Rookie Tommy Byrne had a spell of wildness in the eighth inning that helped them rally for five runs to win 8-3.

Phils Beat Braves
The Dodgers' loss was their third in a row, but it did not cost them any additional ground in the National League pennant chase because the Cardinals also were beaten, 4-1 in 11 innings by the Cincinnati Reds.

nameless graves and numberless cells—for all of them—there was no second chance, no other choice.

But for you—a choice still remains. For you—among all the peoples of the world, the road to freedom is still clear.

Never before have we been able to measure the price of freedom for ourselves and our children in such tangible terms. Will you help to keep the road to freedom open? Will you invest—all you can—in War Bonds?

It's not so much to ask. Many of us are making more money than we have for years. The things we'd like to buy with that money are scarce—or unavailable. So, we're asked to loan money at good interest—$4 for every $3 when the Bonds mature. Money to help pay for the war—keep prices down—provide peacetime jobs and peacetime goods and a generally decent world for all of us when the war is won.

Harriet Carlock Is Bride Of Lt. Briscoe In Military Wedding

Miss Harriet Carlock, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ingham of Midland and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Carlock of Tucumcari, N. M., was married recently to Lt. James B. Briscoe of Tucumcari.

The wedding took place at sundown in the air base chapel at Columbus, the impressive double ring service being conducted by the chaplain of the Columbus Flying School.

The bride is a graduate of the high school at St. John's, Ariz., and continued her education at Texas State College for Women at Denton. She received her degree at the University of New Mexico at Albuquerque. She pledged Alpha Delta Phi sorority and was a member of Phi Lambda Theta and Kappa Omicron, national home economics fraternity.

In 1940 she received a signal honor by achieving second place in the annual popularity contest at the University of New Mexico in which she was chosen representative of Alpha Delta Phi. Further honors were recorded when she was chosen maid of honor to the popularity queen. For the last year and a half she has been a member of the faculty of the Roy schools and also conducted an adult nutrition class at Roy.

Lieutenant Briscoe is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Briscoe of Tucumcari. He was graduated from high school at Columbus, and attended the University of New Mexico until the time of his enlistment in the Army Air Corps in 1942. He is a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity. When called into the service he was sent to Nashville, Tennessee, where he was assigned to the cadet replacement center. He received his pre-flight training at Maxwell Field, Montgomery, Ala., and his primary training at Jackson, Miss.

Immediately following the ceremony Lt. and Mrs. Briscoe left for Tennessee where the groom will continue his training at the four-engine school there.

Squadron 476 Dance Is Huge Success

The dance given Tuesday evening by Squadron 486 of the MAAF Bomber School, was a great success, and was attended by more than 800 guests. The Jive Bombers furnished music.

Special guests were Lt. and Mrs. Hunt, Major Lambert and his daughter, Miss Lambert, and Lt. and Mrs. Hall.

In the jitterbug contest, the winners were Sgt. William Fitzpatrick and Miss Billie Rose of Odessa. They were presented with $5.00 in war stamps each.

Judges were Second officer Mary L. Race of the WAACs, Third Officer Barbara Holland, Miss Hortense Menzell and Lt. Snodgrass of the MAAF Bomber School. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Miss Sue Cowden is visiting friends in Fort Worth.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you know the maid in a friend's home should you say, "Good morning, Mary" when she opens the door for you?
2. If an older woman whom you know slightly refers to her husband as "George"—should you also call him "George" when speaking of him to her?
3. Is it all right for a bride to call her husband's mother and father by their first names?
4. At a small and informal party is it all right to introduce people by their first names?
5. How might one address a "first-name" acquaintance in a letter?

What would you do if—or to whom you have only recently been introduced calls you by your first name—
(a) Take offense and continue a formal mode of address?
(b) Revert to first names yourself?

- Answers
1. Yes.
 2. No.
 3. Yes, if they want her to.
 4. Yes.
 5. "Dear Mary" or "Dear Mary Smith."
- Better "What Would You Do?" solution—(b).

Laval Will Command Vichy Miniature Army

MADRID (AP)—The new 3,000-man "first regiment" which the Germans have authorized Pierre Laval to organize as the only legal armed force of the Vichy government will be under personal orders of Laval himself, dispatches to Spain said Thursday.

Informed sources who cannot be identified by name said the vest pocket army's real duties would be to form a special emergency guard for Laval.

Outdoor Music Program Born During World War One Regaining Popularity

BY JOHN SELBY
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK — The New York Lewisohn Stadium Concerts project, parent of all out-of-door summer music ventures in the country, is not the same thing it once was. The change has come so gradually that half the regulars dimly realize it—but it has come. When it began as a war morale measure 26 seasons back under Arnold Volpe's conductorship, the stage was only a platform with a backstop, and it sat close up to the towering concrete bleachers. The programs were almost exclusively orchestral and an audience of 3000 persons was considered excellent.

Large Audiences
Now, audiences over 20,000 are commonplace. The stage sits almost a block from the bleachers, soloists are very frequent, ballet and opera share the season, and a set of traditions has grown with the years. One is the invariable

Gershwin night, usually with Oscar Levant playing the piano and veterans from "Porgy and Bess" singing excerpts from that work. Another is Lily Pons night, which stuffs every corner of the huge place.

In the old days everybody heard directly from the stage. But now the blessings of amplification make the least whisper of the strings sound in remote places—even across the street in the rows of apartment buildings. And people who sit in the more expensive table seats up front have, in the past, sometimes been able to hear the same music three times: once direct from the stage, once from the amplifiers high overhead, and once from the echo bounding back from the colonnade at the rear.

New Stage

When Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheimer, chairman of Stadium Concerts, opens the season Thursday these disadvantages will, she hopes, be eliminated.

Last summer the old stage blew down; now a new one, deep enough for grand opera and ballet, has been erected with sight angles rearranged so that the people in the 25-cent seats at the sides can see. Twenty-four special events have been arranged so far for the eight weeks of the season, starting with an All-Tchaikovsky program on opening night under Fritz Reiner.

with Artur Schnabel as soloist in "the" concerto.

De Lo Douglas has returned from Childress, where he was stationed in the service.

Business, No Pleasure

OAKLAND, CALIF. — (AP) — It's strictly business, sighs Sailor Victor Hakon as he glances eagerly at the ankles of each passing girl.

He told police he had playfully fastened his wrist watch on his girl's ankle—then forgot to remove it, and hasn't seen her since.

HYSTERIA
CHAPTER XIV

I THOUGHT all this out as I went onward along the path. Mattison's cottage looked very peaceful and cozy.

I knocked a couple of times and when Mattison didn't come, I opened the unlatched screen door, crossed the porch and called into the living room: "Mr. Mattison—Mr. Mattison."

He didn't answer. But surely he wasn't far away or he wouldn't have left the radio playing. I went in and sat down to wait for him.

The Cottage fireplace is fashioned out of rough field stone. It is rugged and picturesque and a couple of niches are built in each side to contain bric-a-brac. It annoyed me to see that the niches were bare; a woman would have filled them with books or gay pottery. Harriet had. And that reminded me that the flat stone in the bottom of one of the niches was loose. There was a small cavity underneath it. We had had a joking habit of leaving notes there for Walter and Harriet in the old days.

That came back to me now like a flash of sheer inspiration, and the next moment I was looking cautiously around to see if Clint Mattison was yet in sight.

I HEARD his footsteps on the porch and then his form loomed black in the doorway.

"I hope you don't mind my making myself at home," I said. "I wanted to see you so I just came in and waited."

"Of course not," he said heartily. He crossed the room with long strides, took his pipe out of his mouth, laid it on the mantel and sat down in the chair across the hearth from me. He didn't glance once at the niche in the stone mantel wall where I had just hidden Derek's wallet. The money and Kathy's ring were still in it. I would have removed them if I hadn't been so hurried.

Kathy came running out the study door as I reached the terrace. She reached out her hands to me as she had when she was a child and needed help.

"Gram, where have you been?" A question she was to ask me later in a far more tragic moment. "Margaret's having hysterics. It's—terrible."

Hysterics aren't a pretty sight even when a neurotic woman has them, but seeing Margaret, who had been one of the staid and firm bulwarks of our lives, go to pieces was as devastating as being caught in an earthquake.

I sent Kathy to phone for a doctor and hurried into the bathroom to wet some towels in cold water. I laid them on Margaret's head. It seemed a long time before the doctor came. He gave her a hypodermic. She relaxed slowly and her sobs became a moaning.

"She'll go to sleep now," the doctor said looking down at her. "If she wakes and shows any signs of returning hysteria, give her a couple of these. Repeat every two hours if necessary."

He had opened his medicine case while he spoke. He took out a bottle of white pills, poured ten or twelve of them into his palm, put them into a small envelope and handed it to me. I put it on the night table beside Margaret's bed.

Margaret did go to sleep and was still asleep at bedtime when I slipped into her room to see if she was all right. I stood for a moment looking at her. Even in sleep her face was sorrowful, and she seemed to have grown thinner these last few days. She made a gastically small hump beneath the quilt.

I went to bed and to sleep in spite of my harried thoughts. But not soundly. Time after time my subconscious fears broke through in frightening dreams and woke me up.

That was how I happened to hear Margaret.

Marine Raiders' Songs Recorded

BY LIEF ERICKSON
AP Features

AN ADVANCED SOUTH PACIFIC BASE — The lulling, lusty and occasionally obscene songs of the First Marine Raider battalion, have been recorded on wax for posterity and the Library of Congress.

They hit the beach at Tulagi last August 7. In the weeks and months since then, the Raider boys have turned out anonymous volumes of verses as cocky and tough as they are.

Eight Raider singers, too undisciplined as vocalists to be formally called a double quartet, gave out with their songs for the Marine Corps' own sound-recording crew headed by Technical Sergeant Edward Adolph, former New York newspaperman.

Recording Cast

The Raider singers who made the recording, to be filed in the Library of Congress as an example of fighting men's folk songs were: Sgt. William C. Vollack, 22 Tuttle St., Wellington, N. J.; PFC Thomas F. Powers, 36 Allen St., West Springfield, Mass.; PFC Joseph H. Kennedy, 3018 49th St., Stora, Long Island, N. Y.; PFC Edward W. Dunn, South Laguna, Calif.; PFC George W. Ward, 2824 Cahava Road, Birmingham, Ala.; Corp. Lee M. Minier, Prospect, N. Y.; PFC Rufus J. Rogers, Reidsville, Ga., and PFC Eugene Pullerton, 715 South Lincoln St., Carthage, Mo.

All except Rogers and Pullerton participated in the first Solomon landings. Ward was awarded a Silver Star.

Working with Sergeant Adolph in the sound unit making the records were Tech. Sgt. Hal Goodwin of Springfield, Mass., and Tech. Sgt. Art King, who was the announcer.

The recording crew will go into the Marines' next action with portable radio equipment, to record actual battle noises and immediate eyewitness accounts as reported by announcer-reporters on the front line.

Italian Prisoners Make Good Farmers

DALLAS — (AP) — Some Italian prisoners have trouble distinguishing young corn from Johnson grass and are generally awkward on farm work, "but they pick it up and like to do it," Col. Daniel B. Byrd, chief of the prisoner war branch of the Eighth Service Command, said Wednesday.

Returning to the Italian prisoner of war camp near Hereford, Texas, Colonel Byrd said it has "available or will have available apparently an ample supply of labor to meet local needs."

Rate of pay, the officer said, is based on the prevailing wage for free labor on the same class of work, but because prisoner labor is considered not as efficient as free labor, prisoners' wages are scaled down 75 to 50 per cent. A minimum of $1.50 a day has been set.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By William E. McKenney

A new trophy was put in play this year at the Old Dominion Tournament in Washington. It was the William Cheeks Trophy for the men's half event, and was won by Thom Wallace and J. W. Boyd, both of Washington. This was their first championship victory. Boyd's play of today's hand was certainly of championship caliber.

When the hand went down, Boyd (South) could count only seven sure tricks. By unblocking in one suit and employing a nice end-play, however, he was able to produce the two extra tricks needed for his contract.

The opening lead was won by declarer with the jack of hearts.

A small diamond was played and won in dummy with the king. A low diamond was returned, and when East showed out, Boyd played the eight-spot and let West win with the ten. West returned the jack of spades, and Boyd made a nice play by allowing that trick to hold. West continued with the six of spades and dummy's ace won. The six of clubs was led, East played low and declarer played the seven-spot. West won with the eight and exited with the queen of clubs. Boyd played the ten from dummy, and won in his own hand with the king.

Now he cashed the ace of hearts and led a low club from dummy, finessing the nine-spot. West discarded a diamond on this trick, and a heart went on the ace of clubs. Then declarer played the queen of hearts, forcing West to win with the king, and now all he could do was to return a diamond into South's ace-jack.

Post Hospital Has Training Program

A special training program for all medical officers, medical administrative officers, nurses, dental officers, aviation medical examiners, veterinarians, sanitary corps officers and enlisted men attached to the station hospital at the bombardier school has been established. Lt. Col. Clifford P. Michael, hospital commanding officer, has announced.

In charge of the training program, which embraces a wide variety of subjects, ranging from military hygiene to minor surgery to the latest techniques in prevention and control of communicable diseases and special first aid techniques, is Lt. William A. Taylor, recently assigned to the hospital from the AAF Gulf Coast Training Center headquarters at Randolph Field.

Convicts Sentenced To 249 Years Each

GROESBECK — (AP) — Two escapees from the Retrieve Prison Farm pleaded guilty to charges of robbing 12 Coolidge, Texas, business houses June 2 and were sentenced to 249 years each on 16 indictments in 74th district court Wednesday.

The two men, C. M. Mershon and Walter LeMay, are still wanted in several East Texas counties on similar charges.

Finally Finds Prey

PORTLAND, ORE. — (AP) — William Hatley, Jr., head of the local office of the U. S. Secret Service, arrived in January and since has tracked down several counterfeiters and wrongdoers.

Only Wednesday, though, did he succeed in tracking down a vacant house in which to live.

Kids Want More After Day At Movie Theater

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — Six-year-old Jerry Larrimore and sister Arleen, 5, went to the theater when it opened in the morning.

The janitor found them at midnight after they watched seven features, four news reels, four government shorts, four cartoons, a preview and a stage show.

Mrs. Anna Larrimore, their mother, said Jerry yawned when police brought them home — then asked: "Can we go back tomorrow, Ma?"
