Stumbling Through

John Bovingdon, the alleged ballet dancer and Office of Economic Warfare expert, has gone, and is now in the process of being forgotten. But the impression lingers that his dismissal is another example of our wartime government's remarkable ability to shut its eyes, fire a gun in the air, and have a bird fall at its feet.

This time it was Congressman Martin Dies who pulled the trigger. Without shouldering too much of the burden of proof, the Hawkshaw of un-Americanism accused Bovingdon of being a former premier danseur and a man of communistic tendencies.

But the alleged ballet dancer didn't get the hook because of Congressman Dies' charges. What seems to have cost Bovingdon his $6500-a-year job was that part of his life history revealed in his answer to these charges. It appeared that some of this history was as new to Civil Service and OEW as it was to the public. It also appeared that these agencies had investigated him no farther than his own recommendation of himself before hiring him.

What Bovingdon told Civil Service and OEW was true, all right. He did have a degree in economics, summa cum laude, and a Phi Beta Kappa key from Harvard. He had taught economics at Keio University in Tokyo, and had traveled extensively and knew several languages, including Japanese and Russian. And it was true that he had been economic adviser to a woolen firm.

But it took the Dies accusations to reveal that this Japanese economic expert hadn't been in Japan for 23 years; that his business experience consisted of something less than two years with this woolen company, between 1920 and 1922; that he conceived of lectures on economics as something to be illustrated by rhythmic bodily movements while clad in a modest G-string; that he had belonged to a band "groping toward intuitive communication"; that, at age 50, he entered Columbia University Teachers College to "tie up his equipment into a something he could sell and then become a part of modern organized life."

That was in 1940, and three years later Bovingdon sold this bundle of equipment to OEW at considerably more than the price of hay.

Next time OEW will probably be more careful before it fills such an important and essentially practical job. But it had to learn its lesson as many other government agencies have, through fumbling and stumbling and hair-pulling.

Yet the amazing thing is that Washington must be given some credit for the fact that we seem to be on the way to winning the war. No one will claim that the way to fight incompetence and promote efficiency is through minor scandals, rows among the big-wigs and presidential rebukes. But maybe they all add up to "democracy in action."

And darned if they don't seem to get results.

One Solution To Manpower Shortage

Up in Jefferson County, Wisconsin, town and city dwellers have adopted a slogan: "No crop lost through lack of labor." And they are proceeding to make that slogan a reality.

The county's 3000 farmers are receiving volunteer help from many more than that number of volunteer "hired men" who won't take a cent for their work. Some of them are a little soft and some are a trifle slow, but they are all willing. And, organized by colleges and county agents and business clubs, they're getting the harvest in.

It is encouraging to hear about the Jefferson County citizens after reading too many stories, in this labor-short year, of townsfolk who are indifferent and farmers who don't want to be bothered by city help who eat more than they earn.

For any communities who want to follow this excellent example, here is a tip worth remembering: Most of the volunteer farm work in Jefferson County is done in the evening. This allows the butcher and the baker and corner druggist to carry on their business as usual, and also prevents their becoming ill from the combination of unaccustomed exertion and midday heat.

Don't Make Soap

Frightened by false rumors of an impending soap shortage, many families have started making their own soap. As a result munition manufacturers are losing the by-product glycerine needed by our Army and Navy. This could be very serious.

It can not be reiterated too much that the government needs all the fats it can get, to make munitions. There is no soap shortage, actual or pending. Those who make their own soap not only get a poorer product, at the cost of much messy trouble, but they are hampering the war effort.

Please don't make your own soap.

486th Bomber Training Sqdn: Capt. Allen M. Springer, our new commanding officer replacing Capt. Vernon W. Henderson, is a veteran of World War I and wears the wings of an aerial observer. He formerly was squadron commander of the 814th BTS and long has been active on this field and is well liked by all the men he commands. Several improvements have been activated by him in spite of the difficulties he has encountered by the shifting of men and living quarters, readjustment of the organization after the recent consolidation, and getting acquainted with his men. But even confronted with those handicaps he has done well and the men are coming to know him better each day, mostly by personal interviews and conversation. For the captain is a man not to be tied down to his desk all day.

Complaining of the heat, one boy suddenly blurted out recently during a "meeting" that he liked Texas all right but there was just one thing wrong with it—it had no "nickel" beer. Another amusing incident last week: one night the maintenance hangar was suddenly bare of its men and nowhere could they be found, but the solution came a few minutes later when they came marching back. Yes, marching—they had "taken a stroll in the cool night air."

Hdq. and Hdq. Squadron, 83rd Bomber Training Group: The routine fumigation, which is working its way around the field, struck the squadron last week. Everyone in the two middle barracks was moved into one vacant building nearest the orderly room and "deadly poison" proclaimed so by ferocious-looking signs on the sealed doors—was released in their "G.I." homes.

After 24 hours, the time required for the gas to do its work on any uninvited guests who had slipped into the barracks since the last fumigation, the men moved back into their respective places and the personnel of the north or corner barracks shuttled down to the stand-by building while their barracks was treated.

The week-end found practically everyone back in place and the boys forgot about fumigation and went back to their favorite pastime: speculating on the course and duration of the war.

When Pfc. George Stephens returned from furlough in Patterson, N. J., last week he was accompanied by his bride, the former Miss Amelia Trues, also of Patterson. They made the trip in a late-model sedan which was one of the couple's first mutual purchases, and have established their new home in Odessa.

816th WAC Post Hdq. Co.: Sgt. Lea Lowery, the supply sergeant, has returned from furlough minus her long hair and a few pounds. She is very "chic" now.

Lt. Mary L. Race, the C.O., displayed her feminine charm the other night when she dressed in her new slacks suit with an "oomph" blouse. It made a charming change.

Cpl. Jane Boldt has learned recently that girls shouldn't yell. "Hey, Joe, how was the show?" to soldiers walking down the street. Their names aren't always Joe. Watch it, Jane.

Attention girls! Pfc. Marjorie Melvin left her "friend" sitting on the day room steps for two hours the other night—he looked very lonely.

We wonder if Staff Sgt. Wanda West is still counting the minutes when her "Willy Bill" will return. It seems that Sgt. Ethel Gill's mail has taken a drop. We are all wondering why!

Fvt. Juanity Pereyra, who recently was assigned to the 491st BTS line supply, is very interested in her work.

491st Bomber Training Sqdn: Pvt. Eddie Farris is the latest man in the outfit to change his address. His wife arrived from Columbia, Mo., and he now can be reached at his new home in Odessa. The squadron is not sticking out its neck, but it is willing to predict that our softball team will make a strong showing in the second half of the enlisted men's softball league. The team will be under the guiding hand of Capt. Alden West, the squadron engineering officer.

The famous lounge room has recently added another improvement in the form of a private library. The books which make up this library were picked by the men themselves, and they range from light fiction to text books on aircraft subjects and many technical studies.

Another innovation of the squadron is the air conditioning system in the recreation and lounge rooms. The unit installed in the lounge also cools the post office and the orderly room. The air conditioners have proved to be an outstanding success to judge from the attendance these rooms are receiving during these hot August days.

Welles And Eden May See Stalin After Conference

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, and Anthony Eden, the British foreign secretary, may fly to Moscow to talk with Soviet leaders after the Roosevelt-Churchill conference.

Disclosing this Saturday night, "D. C. Speaker," who stands for authoritative sources which will not or can not permit use of their names, said definite arrangements had not been made, but that the joint trip is under consideration. Its purpose would be a discussion of war strategy and peace aims, in an effort to reach a closer understanding with Premier Stalin on United Nations collaboration.

The possibility of Eden's coming to Quebec or Washington in connection with the conversations between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill has been reported from London. Such a visit would enable him to coordinate British and American policy preliminary to going to Moscow.

The suggestion that Welles accompany Eden to Moscow was made, it was said, so that he, rather than the British foreign secretary, could explain the viewpoint of the United States government on pending problems in which Russia is particularly concerned.

Mexico City Cooks Return To School

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — Every Wednesday afternoon several hundred Mexico City cooks gather up their copybooks and trot off to school to learn reading, writing and all about vitamins.

The school is run by the YWCA. Miss Katherine Briggs, its director, explains the school really has three courses. One is in reading and writing, one in cooking and the third a sort of catch-all class called, for want of a better name, "first aid in the kitchen."

Small classes of about 12 students permit almost individual instruction in writing.

Old B And C Gas Coupons Will Be Called In Soon

WASHINGTON — (AP) — All old-type B and C gasoline ration books will be called in for reissuance shortly, an Office of Price Administration spokesman said Saturday night, and motorists will be required after September 1 to use a new style of coupons.

The action is intended to halt the use of invalid coupons from expired books, and to nullify any counterfeit coupons which may be in circulation.

Each stamp in the new books reads "Mileage Ration B (or C)." The old coupons read: "Permits delivery of one B (or C) unit of gasoline at time of sale. Office of Price Adm."

Persons having old-style books may surrender them in person or by mail to local ration boards for exchange on or after August 23, the spokesman said. Expiration dates and the number of stamps will remain the same.

Mrs. L. C. Jones of Stanton, who has been ill in Western Clinic Hospital, has returned home.

Texans Rush Service Stations To Fill Up Before Cut Of Gas Rations

Tight-lipped Texans stocked up Saturday so far as ration tickets would allow on the commodity of which their state is the world's largest producer—gasoline.

Two Committees Plan Checks On Changes At A&M

AUSTIN—(P)—Two state Senate investigating committees Saturday toyed with the idea of looking into recent administrative changes at Texas A. and M. College, but a decision was not expected until the middle of next week.

Sen. Houghton Eronowicz of Austin announced that the Senate's general investigating committee would be "open for business" here Wednesday but said he was not authorized under committee rules to say in advance what the agenda would be. Referring to possibility of investigating the resignation of Dr. J. O. Walton as president of A. and M. and the dismissal of H. H. Williamson as director of the college's Extension Service, he added: "We have not yet had any formal complaints, and the committee would have to have something to go on before starting an investigation."

Sen. Penrose Metcalfe, chairman of a Senate committee given broad authority by the 49th Legislature to investigate textbooks and other public school affairs, said he would wait until after the Brownlee committee decided on its course before conferring further with members on a possible investigation of the A. and M. matter, and also to look into "any state institution of higher learning."

At Houston, F. M. Law, chairman of the board of directors of A. and M. said "I would not care to comment on that at all" when informed of the possibility of a legislative investigation.

Few Texans, reports said, pretended happiness over an order forcing them to conserve a product with which Texas abounds.

At Denison automobile owners filled gas tanks, jugs and other containers with gasoline. An informal survey reported by the Denison Herald said that nine of 10 persons interviewed declared they couldn't understand the necessity for the order and asserted they were getting a "raw deal."

Six of eight McAllen filling stations reported gasoline sales jumped 30 per cent Saturday because of "the terrific demand."

Business Brisk
Port Arthur filling stations had a "moderate run," but said they expected business to pick up Sunday. Some customers there asked if they could relinquish coupons with the understanding that they could obtain the full four gallons later.

Galveston filling station proprietors said business was brisk although not abnormal.
Six of eight McAllen filling stations reported gasoline sale increases from one-third to double the usual amount. Beaumont filling stations expected a run late Saturday night and Sunday, Waco gasoline dealers were pressed to take care of a rush of customers, and Fort Worth and Dallas filling stations expected a last-minute buying rush.

Marine Flier Raises Zero Score To Ten

GUADALCANAL—(P)—Capt. Ken Walsh of the U. S. Marine Corps has shot down two more Japanese Zeros to keep his place as the current leading Marine and Navy fighter pilot in these parts.
They brought his total score to ten enemy planes to date, including eight Zeros, one dive bomber and one float plane.

Walsh is a member of a Marine flying unit which has downed 31 planes in aerial combat, destroyed 11 more on the water, and sunk two small boats.
C. W. Branham has been dismissed from the Western Clinic Hospital.

Bomb Targets in Rumania

These oil fields at Floesti—the Texas of Rumania—were turned into a sea of flames by massed American bombers in a raid that presages more air action over the Balkans. Return raids on this area are in order, for it supplies a third of all Axis oil.

McLaughlin Wildcat Made A Flow After Being Shut In 72 Hours

HOBBES, N. M.—After being shut in for 72 hours, C. T. McLaughlin and Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 1 State, wildcat discovery two miles northeast of the Maljamar field in West-Central Lea County flowed 13 barrels of oil in two hours and then the flow dried.
The swab was pulled one time and the flow started again. The flow was made through two-inch tubing with the bottom of the hole at 4,202 feet, corrected steel line measurement in sand. There is no information available as to how long the flow continued.

Pressure Built Up
When opened after the 72-hour shut in the pressure on the tubing had built up to 390 pounds but the pressure dropped considerably during the two hour period of flowing. The well has shown plenty of oil, but very little gas and the sand section near the bottom has been caving badly.
Efforts will be continued to bring the operation in by flowing naturally for a reasonable period. Should that fail a pumping unit may be installed.

The discovery is located at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 7-17S-33 east. It was assured production from a formation topped at 4,170 feet, where the hole filled with oil. It was drilled to 4,201 feet in lime and sand and then cleaned out. One foot more was drilled to 4,202 feet and then the efforts were started to make it kick off.

Grayburg line was logged at 3,995 feet and was drilled to 4,171 feet. The five and one-half inch casing was cemented at 4,132.

Lea County Ordovician Test
Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 1 Federal-Leonard Oil Company, Ordovician test to 9,500 feet in Southeast Lea County is drilling line and anhydrite below 2,985 feet. In the Philmex area and approximately two miles southeast of the McLaughlin and Cosden No. 1 State, new discovery Phillips Petroleum Company is reported to have made location for a new operation. It will be Phillips No. 1 Wyatt and is to be at the center of the northwest quarter of the southeast quarter of section 30-17S-33east.

D. D. Thomas No. 1 Johnson will be another wildcat operation and it is to be in Northeast Eddy County and around one mile east of the Square Lake field. Location is 1,990 feet from the south and west lines of section 28-16S-31 east.

Chaves Wildcat Reported Show
DeKalb Agricultural Association No. 1 J. P. White, South Chaves County wildcat at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 35-10S-28 east, reported a show of porosity and a strain of oil from 2,552-64 feet in a core and some more porosity from 2,564-83 feet.
A drillstem test was taken covering both zones and it showed some oil out mud. The operation is drilling ahead below 2,593 feet.

Vacuum Area Wildcat Dry
Neville G. Penrose, Inc., Fort Worth, No. 1 State, six miles northeast of the Vacuum field in Central Lea County has been abandoned as dry at a total depth of 6,102 feet in lime. Location was at the center of the southeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 3-16S-33 east.

Green Reported To Have Revenge For Expelling By Lewis

CHICAGO—(P)—William Green had "paid off" Saturday to John L. Lewis, seven years after Lewis expelled him from the United Mine Workers of America.
The president of the American Federation of Labor held the deciding vote on a motion which might have reinstated Lewis' miners in the federation. He declined to exercise the chairman's prerogative to break the tie, and the motion failed.

That was the authoritative information which seeped Saturday from the strictly private meeting of the AFL executive council which debated Lewis' application for re-affiliation for two days and then decided to refer it to the annual convention without recommendation.

American Liberators Pound Messerschmitt Factory In Austria

CAIRO—(P)—American Liberator bombers, flying a round trip of nearly 2,500 miles from their African bases, dumped more than 330,000 pounds of high explosives Friday on a German aircraft factory at Wiener Neustadt which has been credited with production of a third of all the Messerschmitt fighters used by the Nazi air force.
Catching enemy defenses completely by surprise, the four-engine bombers completed the long daylight trip to the Danube River city, 27 miles south of Vienna, with every plane "accounted for," a communique from U. S. 9th Air Force headquarters announced.

Returning airmen said bomb bursts blanketed the factory, machine shops and great U-shaped assembly plant which covered 1,339,000 square feet. The plant, one of the largest of the Axis, was said to have assembled Messerschmitt 109s at the rate of 400 a month.

PAW To Attack Problem Of Oil Transportation

AUSTIN—(P)—The Office of the Petroleum Administrator for War Saturday advised Chairman Beauford H. Jester of the Texas Railroad Commission every effort would be made to provide adequate transportation facilities to move a huge anticipated increase next month in West Texas oil production.

The PAW's certification of demand on Texas for September, announced Saturday by Jester, calls for 92,000 barrels more daily than was asked in August, specifying that 72,000 barrels should be produced from sour crude fields.

Tank Cars To Be Used
This put the finger on West Texas fields, from which most sour crude comes. Also, production in these fields has been hamstrung because of inadequate outlets.

"It means simply if we can not absorb the anticipated increase through pipelines now available to Gulf Coast refineries from West Texas, that tank cars will have to do the job," said Jester.
He conferred by telephone with PAW officials, who assured him that strenuous efforts would be made to provide these carriers if they are needed.

1,900,000 Barrels Asked
The PAW's certification called for Texas for 1,900,000 barrels of all petroleum liquids daily in Sep-

U. S. Subs Sink Seven More Jap Merchant Ships

WASHINGTON—(P)—Destruction of seven more Japanese merchant vessels by American submarines waging a relentless war of attrition of enemy maritime power was announced Saturday by the Navy.

In addition five enemy ships were reported damaged.
The successful attacks announced in a Navy communique raised to a total of 309 the number of enemy ships of all types which have been reported blasted by gunfire or torpedoes of undersea raiders since the war started. This total includes 217 craft sunk, 29 probably sunk and 63 damaged.

The wearing down of Japanese ability to maintain supply lines which range from Paramushiro in the North Pacific to New Guinea in the south already is reported to have reached the point at which the enemy is considered by some authorities to be unable to maintain adequate supplies and reinforcements for some of its bases most distant from Japan.
In accordance with its established procedure, the Navy gave no details of the attacks, in which the 12 enemy vessels were attacked.

JAP PLANE TOLL IN CHINA EXCEEDS 1,000

Fourteen Heroes Are Decorated At Pyote

PYOTE—(P)—Fourteen more heroes of the 19th Bombardment Group were awarded 19 new medals at decoration ceremonies Friday on the flying line of the Rattlesnake Bomber Base.

member, as compared with its August request for 1,617,000 barrels daily.

Testimony brought out by the commission during its special hearings to determine the maximum war-production capacity of Texas fields indicated that West Texas could stand an additional 250,000 barrels daily if transportation was available.

The September oil order will be issued following the statewide hearing here Tuesday.

Mrs. M. D. Johnson and baby have been released from Western Clinic Hospital, and have returned home.

Two More Farmers To Cooperate In Program

Two more farmers became co-operators with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District during the past week. B. W. Brown, located about one-half mile southeast of the McClintic School, and W. B. Brooks, about one-half mile south of the Stokes School, deeded complete soil and water conservation plans on their farms with the aid of technicians assisting the district.

Both Brown and Brooks plan to strip corn, rotate the crops and leave all possible stubble and stalks on the surface of the soil during the winter to cut down wind erosion and build up the soil. They will limit the grazing on the cultivated fields as far as possible to prevent trampling and to leave as much stubble as possible.

Brown intends to remove the wings from his lister bottoms to enable him to plow through the crop residue without covering it. This practice will leave most of the stubble on the surface during the blow periods, and at the same time, will gradually work it into the ground thereby improving soil condition and fertility.

YOUTHFUL CAMPER ADMITS MURDER OF 10-YEAR-OLD GIRL
PISHKILL, N. Y.—(P)—A 15-year-old boy camper from New York City sat dejectedly Saturday night under questioning by state police who said he admitted criminally attacking and slaying a 10-year-old girl friend and tossing her body into a cornfield.

State Police Captain Walter F. Reilly said no charge had yet been placed against the youth, apprehended at a summer camp about a mile and a half from the scene of the crime. The battered body of the victim, Elizabeth Voigtal, daughter of an East Fishkill farmer, was found by State Police Sergeant George J. Corsilla in a field bordering the Eastern States parkway. Parents of the child, who had left home Friday afternoon, notified state police when she had failed to return Saturday morning.

The troopers, obtaining the description on a boy with whom Elizabeth was reported to have been seen strolling Friday, went to the camp and took the suspect into custody.

AN AMERICAN Two-Gun Story

THEY are 40 millimeter anti-aircraft cannons produced in quantity for the first time in the U.S.A. by Chrysler Corporation, and installed on fighting ships, on shore defenses, and going with the armies into action on land.

We saw the gun for the first time at the Frankford Arsenal on January 4, 1941. It had never been made in large quantities. Its drawings and specifications were not designed for volume manufacturing methods. Our first step toward making them in large numbers determined the tools and equipment that would be required for large quantity production.

A study of the gun by our planning and purchasing specialists indicated that the making of more than half the parts could be sub-contracted to other companies. We began at once to place orders with some 1836 subcontractors, located in 281 towns in 30 states.

On June 20, 1941, we were authorized to set up to build the gun in two types—water-cooled, twin mounted guns for the Navy, and air-cooled, mobile mounted guns with single barrels for the Army.

The two test guns which we had been working were now completed. Within ten days they were tested by the U.S. Army Ordnance Department and approved.

Plymouth, Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler plants were given their assignments to manufacture certain parts of the guns that were best suited to their facilities.

As gun production got under way the experience gained in years of car and truck production, and the cooperation of Army and Navy engineers, aided us in developing manufacturing short-cuts which saved much time, material and use of machine tools.

One part formerly machined from solid brass was changed to a combination of steel and bronze, saving 50,000 pounds of precious brass per month.

We formed the gunsight plate from powdered metal. This was faster, saving not only machine time but material, too.

We made the flash-hider from a plain steel tube instead of a solid forging, saving greatly in time and over 50% of the material.

Gun barrel drilling time was cut in half, and rifle grooving was reduced from six hours to forty-five minutes. Many other time and material saving short-cuts were worked out as gun production moved ahead.

The care and precision with which each part is made enables us to put the guns together in one-thirtieth the time required before we applied quantity production methods.

From the South Pacific came a thrilling action story, reported by the Incentive Division, U. S. Navy. A fine American battleship, under the command of Captain Thomas Leigh Gatch, in 30 minutes of swift, deadly action, destroyed 32 Jap torpedo planes—many with 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns.

was to re-dimension every part to meet our volume production requirements.

To help speed this work, one of the guns was promptly shipped to us at Detroit with the existing drawings and specifications for its more than 1500 parts. When the gun arrived it was taken apart and studied piece by piece to determine how each part could best be made. At the same time our engineers and craftsmen began the new drawings and specifications for all the parts.

On February 3, came an order from the U. S. Navy to build a pair of test guns at once. As work on these first two guns advanced, our technicians and production specialists continued their efforts toward simplification of construction and assembly, and

New Andrews Discovery Testing

Union No. 1 Biles, 4 1/2 Miles From Fullerton, To Be Completed

By James C. Watson, Oil Editor

Testing was underway Saturday night at Union Oil Company of California No. 1 J. S. Biles, new Clear Fork horizon discovery in Northwest Andrews County, four and three-quarter miles northwest of the Fullerton field.

Cement was drilled out to 7,446 feet and the pipe perforated with 38 shots, four to the foot, from 7,441 to 7,431 feet. Corrected total depth of the hole before 350 sacks of cement had been pumped in to set pipe, has been announced as 7,459 feet.

Drill pipe with packer had been run in Saturday and preparations were set to unload the hole and begin testing.

Early in the week a drillstem test of the section where the perforations have been made recovered 4,000 feet of fluid, mostly oil. The new well is 660 feet from the north line and 1,980 feet from the east line of section 19, block A-31, psi survey.

Another 11,000-Foot Wildcat

Union has filed application to drill an 11,000-foot Ordovician exploration in extreme Southwest Andrews. The new operation will be Union No. 1 E. P. Cowden, at the center of the northeast quarter of the northeast quarter of section 18, psi survey, one mile north of the Winkler County line, and less than five miles from the east line of New Mexico.

The new project is one and one-half miles southeast of the test drilled by Frank S. Perkins and others as No. 1 E. P. Cowden, which went to 3,012 feet in the Mississippi, and was abandoned after indicating production in the lower Permian in the section comparable to the producing horizon in the Fullerton field in Northwest Andrews.

After making some oil by heads from a horizon at 7,680-7,730 feet, the Perkins test was drilled on to 8,012 feet and there abandonment was forced on account of mechanical difficulties.

The block on which the new wildcat is located was assembled by Fred S. Wright and J. W. McMillan of Midland, who turned the deal to Union.

Pro Athletes Are Untouched In New Draft Rule Move

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Despite recurrent rumors and gloomy predictions in sporting circles, baseball and all other sports except racing escaped unscathed in the new draft rule changes Saturday night. Generally, professional athletes got a break that should at least keep them operating as usual a little longer provided they have children born before Sept. 15, 1942, than seemed likely before. The big news for baseball players and most other professional athletes was that the list of non-deferrable activities and occupations was extended without touching them. If a man's job lands on this list, he must switch to more "war-useful" work or risk speedy induction, even if he has children. All jobs connected with "race tracks and courses" were declared non-deferrable. The list will shove all fathers failing to shift out of non-deferrable jobs promptly down in front for the draft boards, which won't need to take any fathers out of baseball, football and other sports as long as they can find enough non-deferrables to fill up their quotas.

Alsab Defeated By Some Chance

PAWTUCKET, R. I.—(AP)—A. S. Hewitt's Some Chance, which raced indifferently last season after a good two-year-old record in 1941, took the measure of the famed Alsab Saturday in the $5,000 added King Philip Handicap at Narragansett Park. Alsab, topweighted at 126 pounds and heavily favored in the wagering, gave away from 14 to 22 pounds to the rest of the field and his customary late charge could bring him up to no better than fourth. Allen T. Simmons' Elre finished second, while John L. Sullivan's Air Master lasted long enough to capture third from the surging Alsab in the mile and one-sixteenth stake. Some Chance negotiated the distance in 1:46 4/5. The victory was worth $4,830 to Hewitt and Some Chance paid $10, $4.80 and $3.80 in the mutuels. Elre returned $23.60 and $10.80 while the show price on Air Master was $7.

Yankees Triumph Over St. Louis

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Bill Zuber's two-hit pitching and Nick Etten's hitting gave the league-leading New York Yankees a 2 to 1 victory over the Browns Saturday, a triumph that marked the ninth straight series the Yanks have won. In chalking up his fourth straight victory, Zuber was touched for singles by Vern Stephens and Don Gutteridge in the second and third innings and would have hurled a shutout, but for errors by Ken Sears and Frank Corsetti. Zuber hurled no-hit ball in the last six innings, although he issued five bases on balls. The score: R H E New York 010 000 100—2 9 2 St. Louis 001 000 000—1 2 0 Zuber and Sears, Muncief and Hayes.

Eurasian Takes 57th Running Of Travers Stakes

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Barclay Douglas Saturday "borrowed back" a colt she sold a few weeks ago for $5,000 and with it won the 74th running of the Travers Stakes, the country's oldest horse race. Her $15.20-for $2 shot, Eurasian, pulled a rabbit out of the hat for the entertainment of a crowd of 28,224 who sat in on the transplanted Saratoga-at-Belmont session, after Bee Mac, a gift to Beatrice MacGuire of New York from Col. Ed Bradley last year, came waltzing in with the 52nd running of the Spinaway Stakes for two year old fillies. These two long-shots—Bee Mac came home at $10.20 for $2—only added to the headaches piled up all day for the favorite players. In the first seven races, only two "chalk horses" reached the paying teller's window. After racing the colt as a two year old, Mrs. Douglas sold Eurasian to the Havahome Stable, Saturday, she lead him back, but Havahome received 75 per cent of the $19,850 purse—$14,887.50 and Mrs. Douglas received $4,962.50. Altogether $2,293,551 was bet on the eight race program, from which the Saratoga Association is donating its entire proceeds to war relief and charity organizations. Estimates were that the contributions would be more than $100,000.

Philadelphia Girl Wins Association's Amateur Golf

EVANSTON, ILL.—(AP)—Dorothy Germain, 19-year-old playground supervisor from Philadelphia, who because of a drouth of golfing activity in the East decided to keep her woods and irons hot in this summer's Women's Western Golf Association tournaments, Saturday won the WPGA's amateur championship. Becoming the first Eastern champion in the history of this 43-year-old event, Miss Germain defeated Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 5 and 4, over the 36-hole championship route of the Evanston Golf Club. For Miss Wall, 24-year-old veteran of seven summers in the women's western wars, the loss was a big disappointment, especially since she was right in the scrap up to the start of the final nine holes. Two years ago she also was a finalist in this meet, only to lose to Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha. Miss Germain took over the crown laid aside by the 1942 champion, Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., who was unable to defend.

The WMC, he said, is as eager to get non-deferrable job holders into war-useful work as into the armed forces. It is even more eager to get men with critically-needed skills into war industry than into military ranks, he indicated. Baby Elwanda Jo Aillo Of Midland Is Fifth Generation For Both Sides Of Mother's Family

Elwanda Jo Aillo, two weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmen Jo Aillo of Midland, had an unusually large number of relatives to welcome her arrival. She comprises the fifth living generation on both sides of her mother's family.

The baby's mother is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Richter of Midland, and her maternal great grandmother is Mrs. T. O. Ballard of Winfield, Texas. Mrs. Ballard's mother, the child's great grandmother, is Mrs. J. R. Strong of East Tallahassee, Alabama.

On the paternal side of her mother's family, little Elwanda Jo has three sets of grandparents in one lineage. Her grandfather's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richters of Midland, and Mrs. R. A. Richters' parents—the baby's great great grand parents—are Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Branch of Midland.

Confusing as this might be to the child, she also has a large number of other relatives—including seven uncles.

Youngsters Given Watermelon Fete

The Intermediate Department of the First Methodist Church was pleasantly entertained Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gwyn with a watermelon feast on the S. H. Gwyn farm northwest of the city.

The group met at the church, and from there "hiked" to the farm. Some 30 youngsters were present, and chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gwyn, Mr. and Mrs. W. Earl Chapman, Mrs. Frank Shepherd, George Jones, and Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Gwyn.

'Kidnap' Breakfast Honors 'Cile Long'

Members of the Fifineella Club were hosts at a breakfast Friday morning in the home of Miss Ann Porterfield, when Miss Cecilia Long was honored. Miss Long will move soon with her parents to Big Spring.

The affair was a "kidnap" breakfast at 8 a. m. A group of the club hostesses drove to the homes of the guests, went in and took them out of bed and to the breakfast. Until the group of kidnapers arrived, the guests were unaware of plans for the event.

The breakfast was interesting in its appointments. It was served "helpy-seffy" style, with huge trays of orange juice, doughnuts, and other breakfast delectables arranged on the table.

Present were Misses Ann Ulmer, Mary Ellen Midkiff, Patsy Pope, Sammy Lee Guard, Marjorie McClure, Shirley Culbertson, Belva Jo Knight, Mary Fern Bray, and Marjorie Barron, the guest of honor and the hostess.

Campus Natural

This blouse and skirt ensemble is a "natural" for campus or class. The moss green soft wool skirt features two large inset pockets. Repeating the accent of their slanting lines are the neck-to-ankle tucks on the long-sleeved jersey blouse. Another double accent is lent by a burnt orange tuck-in scarf and a burnt orange suede belt.

Good Music And Fine Dancing To Be In 'Oklahoma'

Musical arrangements and selections for "Green Grow The Lilacs" the Civic Theater production which will be presented Wednesday and Thursday, promise to be of the most entertaining and appealing variety.

For the first time in its history, the Civic Theater will have a full orchestra in the orchestra pit. In keeping with the setting of the play the locale of which is in Oklahoma Territory in 1900, the orchestra will specialize in hill-billy and homespun numbers.

Roy De Wolfe, who is directing all music for the production, has engaged The Lone Star Ramblers, consisting of Ray Bush, guitar; Austin Copeland, violin; Jasper Henley, banjo; Cat Copeland, guitar; Doyle Fitzgerald, violin; Jack Sinclair, guitar; and Doyle and Dobe Fitzgerald, singers. Other members of the play's orchestra will be Mrs. Ed Hitchcock and Miss Willa Glenna Graham, violins; Miss Nellie Brunson, bass violin; Miss Mickey Joan McDonald, accordion; Charles Rogers and George Woody, guitars.

A girls quartet which will sing such favorites as "Night Time in Havana," "Home on the Range," "Chisholm Trail," "The Last Round-Up" and "Green Grow the Lilacs," included in the singing group are Norma Conley, Belva Jo Knight, Elaine Hendrick, and Janice Pope.

Roy De Wolfe has worked out all musical arrangements in a style that is familiar with the Southwest. He thinks everyone will like these melodies because of their "home-folk appeal."

Square dancing in the play will be done in typical costumes by Mr. and Mrs. George Glass, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Ulmer, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wyche, and Mr. and Mrs. John Butler.

Six pairs of blue jeans in assorted sizes, and one pair of size 9 1/2 cowboy boots are needed by the costume committee of the production. Anyone who can help is requested to go to City County Auditorium on Monday evening, when the group rehearses.

TEACHER RESIGNS

Miss Fay Lovelace, high school teacher, Saturday sent her resignation to the Midland School Board. Her home is in Bonham.

Play Promises Excellent Entertainment

Characters and dancers in the set of the "party scene" of "Green Grow the Lilacs," to be presented by the Civic Theater Wednesday and Thursday at the City-County Auditorium are shown above. Left to right are U. A. Hyde, Helen Armstrong, Mrs. John Butler (with back to camera), John Butler, Bill Wyche, Mrs. George Glass, George Glass, Mrs. Bill Wyche, Mrs. Marvin Ulmer, Marvin Ulmer (back to camera), Virginia Warren, Mary Kendrick, and Glenn Murray.

This scene is one of six in the play which depicts life in the territorial days of "Oklahoma" from which the script of the current Broadway success was taken.

World Wide Spirit Of Brotherhood Is Emphasized Here

The Rev. W. R. Mann was the speaker at the Baptist Brotherhood meeting held last week in the First Baptist church.

Mr. Mann's subject was on missionaries and what they have accomplished to engender world-wide good will and the true brotherhood spirit among the people of the world.

Six major points were contained in a report to be brought before the Midland ministerial alliance for the promotion of the creation of a true brotherhood spirit around the world of today.

Wendell Wilkie, in a report before the Presbyterian Assembly at Detroit, Mich., said that missionaries had done more to establish a spirit of brotherhood than all else. He pointed out that on his trip around the world he readily could observe the respect the natives evinced for missionaries, and wherever he was greeted by a missionary he immediately could feel the friendly spirit of the natives.

Midland Citizens To Attend Bloys Meeting

A number of Midland citizens are planning to attend the Cowboy Camp Meeting at Bloys Camp Ground near Fort Davis which starts Tuesday night and continues through Aug. 24.

It will be the fifty-fourth Bloys Camp meeting. The Rev. L. D. Anderson of Fort Worth will be in charge as superintendent. Serving with him will be the Rev. Samuel L. Joekel of Austin, Dr. Paul E. Martin of Wichita Falls, and the Rev. S. G. Posey of Austin.

Girl Scout Program Is Endorsed By Leaders Of Prominent Organizations

The need for extending youth services in wartime has been wholeheartedly endorsed by the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, by the Midland PTA, by the Marine Corps Women's Reserve and other Women's service organizations and by a number of government agencies, according to information received by Mrs. K. S. Ferguson, commissioner of the Midland Girl Scout Council.

Mr. Kletzer, of Portland, Oregon, president of the national PTA organization, gave her endorsement to the work of the Girl Scout organization in the following statement:

"There has never been a time when the work of youth organizations recently had been asked to the teen-age girl, can mean so much or can make such a significant contribution to the life of our communities. There is a great need for extension of the services of such organizations as the Girl Scouts."

Pledging full cooperation to the Girl Scout organization in Midland, Mrs. E. R. Osburn, president of the Midland City Council of Parents and Teachers, said, "It is the privilege of every parent to share in the Girl Scout program. It is the duty of every parent to see that in his own community this fine character building work reaches girls of all races and creeds."

PTA Cooperates

Mrs. Ferguson said Girl Scouts here always have received the closest cooperation from the PTA. She expressed appreciation to PTA members for their assistance in carrying on the scout work.

Major Ruth Cheney Streeter, director of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve, in endorsing the Girl Scout program, said:

"Semper Fidelis" famous motto of the Marine Corps, comes readily to mind when the Girl Scout Promise and Laws are heard, for in living up to those precepts, the Girl Scouts are preparing themselves to be 'always faithful' to themselves and to their responsibilities as future citizens."

The WAVES, WAACS, SPARS, and WAFS have given Girl Scout-like splendid endorsements both as a training program for girls in wartime and as a preparation for active citizenship in the post war world.

Mrs. Ferguson said Midland Girl Scouts recently had been asked to assist in the WAC recruiting program and that plans are underway to lend full cooperation.

Aid In War Effort

Pointing out that Girl Scouts are recognized by government agencies as making an important contribution to the war effort, Mrs. Ferguson said Midland Girl Scouts have made tag bags for the U. S. Forest Service, have assisted in War Bond and Stamp campaigns, and have assisted in salvage drives.

Many of the girls also have victory gardens.

"A great expanded program of activities is planned for the coming months, but first a number of additional leaders must be obtained if the plan progresses as mapped," she said a number of new troops must be organized in order to make the program available to all girls of the city and that volunteer leaders must be found to head the new groups.

A leadership drive will be held in Midland during the week of August 29-September 4, when every effort will be made to enlist more Girl Scout leaders.

Pre-Nuptial Shower, Afternoon Tea, And Luncheon To Brighten Social Calendar Here During Coming Week

Complimenting Miss Lillian Borquist, whose marriage to Steve Briggs will be an event of Saturday at high noon in the First Presbyterian church here, Mrs. J. D. McClure and Mrs. Dan B. Carter will entertain with a miscellaneous shower Tuesday evening in the garden of the home of Mrs. McClure, 1707 West Holloway.

Belmont Class To Honor Instructor

The Belmont Bible Class held its regular meeting in the educational building of the First Methodist Church Friday afternoon, when Mrs. H. M. Reigle conducted the lesson on the 25th chapter of I Samuel.

The opening prayer was led by Mrs. C. E. Strawn.

Members discussed the plans being made for the covered dish luncheon next Friday honoring Mrs. W. L. Fickett, a former instructor of the class, who has been residing in another state for some time.

The closing prayer was given by Mrs. R. Chanslor.

The Curtain Call

Victor W. Rogers, who takes the part of Ole Man Peck in "Green Grow the Lilacs," has proved himself a "find" in more ways than one to the Midland Civic Theater. Besides enacting a difficult character role, he has shown his adeptness with carpenter tools and paint brushes and has worked faithfully and tirelessly as assistant stage manager for the production. As electrician for the play he has worked out the special lighting effects and spot focusing.

In the role of Ole Man Peck, Vic portrays an old timer in Oklahoma territory who is grizzled, genial, and easily crowding the seventy mark in years. He has gone to parties for high on to 50 years and knows every trick of the party trade—so his own parties are "rip snorters."

Vic is a graduate in geology if the University of California, and has been employed for the past seven years with the Shell Oil Company, Inc. He has lived in Midland for the past four years, since coming here from San Antonio. Vic is a member of the West Texas Geological Society, the Midland Geological Society, and the Midland Tennis Club.

Workers Make 340 Surgical Sponges

Mrs. Fay Holt was supervisor of the Red Cross surgical dressings work when 340 sponges were made. Mrs. L. G. Lewis and Miss Marion Wadley were monitors, and Mrs. Roy Downey and Mrs. J. P. Ruckman were packers.

Others who worked during the morning hours were: Mesdames J. W. Rettig, R. A. Doran, W. L. Feilon, Jr., John Dublin, G. A. Goodale, George Kidd, E. J. Voliva, Don Sivals, G. A. Wakefield, T. R. Higginbotham, Russell Howard, Chilton Hobbs, and F. H. McGuigan.

Outstanding among social events of the coming week will be an informal afternoon tea by the Women's Society of Christian Service, honoring all Methodist women of Midland.

The tea will be held at 3:30 p. m. in the parsonage, and Mrs. Clyde Barton of Kermit, a conference officer of the W. S. C. S., will be guest speaker. Mrs. H. L. Haag will be in charge of the nursery during the hours.

Members of the Belmont Bible Class will entertain with a covered dish luncheon at 1:00 p. m. Friday in compliment to Mrs. W. L. Fickett, former instructor of the class, who has been visiting in Pennsylvania and is enroute to Arizona, and will stop in Midland for a short time.

All present members and former members of the class are urged to be present.

Jaycees Sponsor Labor Day Dance

A Labor Day dance will be held in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer Monday night, September 6, under the sponsorship of the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce, Russell Howard, Jaycee president, said Saturday.

The dance will follow the Labor Day championship calf roping match between Toots Mansfield of Big Spring and Clyde Burk of Comanche, Okla., at the Midland rodeo grounds.

Jaycee directors voted to sponsor the holiday attraction at their meeting Friday noon.

The affair will be strictly informal and dancers may wear their cowboy clothes if they desire. Howard said the dance will be typically western in every respect. Plans for the entertainment still are in the making and committees will be named this week.

A special invitation to attend the dance will be extended to personnel of the Midland Army Air Field. Music will be furnished by Harrison's Texans, a San Angelo orchestra, which is favorably known over this section.

Tuberculosis Group Will Build More Burr Cottages Here

At a one o'clock luncheon held Tuesday in the private dining room of the Scharbauer Hotel, the Midland Tuberculosis Association discussed with members of the County Health Unit the need for six more Burr cottages for the segregation of tubercular patients. The association already has two cottages now in use, and it was decided that the Burr cottages are the most inexpensive as well as the best method of housing a tubercular patient. The patient residing in these cottages does not come in contact with people who would contract the disease, it was pointed out.

Funds for the purchase of these cottages will be obtained through popular subscription. H. S. Forgeron, chairman, said.

The association will work in cooperation with the County Health Unit and together they will solicit funds for the additional cottages, Forgeron said.

The solicitation of funds for these cottages will in no way have any bearing upon the Tuberculosis Seal Sale, which is always an event of November and December by the Tuberculosis Society, the chairman said.

Rev. Mann To Teach Men's Class Sunday

In the absence of W. I. Pratt, regular teacher, the Rev. W. R. Mann, Presbyterian missionary, will have charge of the lesson for the Men's Scharbauer Class Sunday morning. The class meets at 9:45 at the Scharbauer Hotel, and all men are invited to attend.

Every effort will be made to enlist more Girl Scout leaders.

College Girls Major In Smartness

Equally suitable for class, the dean's tea or that mid-week date is this one-piece wool jersey dress that looks like a two-piece. Of soft wool in brown and powder blue hound's-tooth check, it has a snug-fitting hip-length jacket and a slightly flared skirt. The jacket features a powder blue shoulder insert.

Betsy Beckham Bundy's Advice To The Lovelorn

Q. I am 48 years of age, have two married daughters, and feel that now that I have no interests at home, and have been a business woman prior to my marriage, I could be of some help in the war effort. Both my daughters live in other cities, and my husband is dead. I have a small home and no one dependent on me. Do you think that I should be helping?

A. By all means you should be helping do something in the war effort or for yourself. There are many women as old or older than you who are doing fine jobs at working. The idea that women past 40 are unable to do anything is a myth and it has been proven so. No one but a very ignorant person will ever again say that the woman past 40 should be relegated to the "dump heap" so to speak. If she is in good health and has a good mind, she can do as much as anyone else. There is no age to mind and spirit. Ill health, of course, hampers and detracts from one's ability.

If you can go anywhere, just rent out your home, store your furniture, go to some city, take a course in some government work (the government pays you while you learn) and get employment as soon as possible. That is the best course for you to pursue. The old-fashioned idea of having Aunt Sue or Granny hangin' around as "atmosphere" unwanted and to be "fed" is an idea of past generations, and all thinking people know that there is a niche for every ambitious, worthy individual, and it is only the lazy, ambitious, hopeless kind who depend upon others to maintain them, while they still are practically young and capable.

This war has changed many things and there are still many to be changed.

Q. My little girl is working for a woman in her own business and has learned much, but the woman is so ugly and so mean to her that I believe she should not be allowed to work any longer, lest she become cowed and wrecked by her away from that job, although I dislike doing so. It would have been so fine for her to continue in the work.

What do you think?
A. It is unfortunate and I am sorry to be forced to admit it, but very few women are capable of having other women under them. They are inclined to be "heavy," unfair, narrow minded, and mean to other women. Of course there are some big, fair minded women who have been capable bosses, but as a general rule, women as a whole will be held at USO headquarters.

Fellowship Group Has Program Sunday

The Methodist Intermediate Fellowship Group met Sunday afternoon from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. when a program on "The Setting for the Story" was held.

A social hour and refreshments followed the program. Those present included: F. E. Hale, Mildred Moore, J. E. Terry, Billy Adams, Harold Barber, Audie Merrell, Joan Stanley, Nelda Ruth Norton, Helen Shelton, and two special guests, Gene Clements and Betty Chancellor, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gwyn.

are narrow minded when it comes to other women. I have observed many women in business who would be as mean as Satan to another woman, while at the very same time if a young man or boy were under her supervision she would be all entirely different boss. Very few women have breadth of sympathy and understanding when it comes to business. They seem unable to put aside the personal.

They want to become lords themselves, and are envious and jealous of every other woman. They will resort to most vicious acts in their managements, and I would suggest that if you think your young daughter is becoming weakened from working for a woman who is unkind to her, take her away from the job and let her go elsewhere. There are plenty of jobs for the young girl who is well educated and has had business training, and no individual in the world should be subjected to meanness, unkindness, discourtesy, and unfairness, no matter where nor by whom. Take her away from that job and tell the woman at the head the reason why you are so doing.

Q. Yes, many young girls get the "ven" for a diamond, while very young. I would get her one, set with several "chips" in white gold or yellow gold mounting, and there are some very nice blue-white stones in very small diamonds that are appropriate.

Do not let the stones be large, but it is quite all right for her to have one if the stones are small.

Famous Windmill Theater Gains Wide Reputation As 'Nursery School' For Potential Stage-Screen Stars

By Tom Wolf
NEA Staff Correspondent
LONDON—The Windmill Theater, famed as London's only major showplace which never closed its doors during the blitz, is gaining new recognition today as a "nursery school" for potential stage and screen stars.

More than a score of its show girls have graduated to stage and film roles since the start of the war, and currently half a dozen of them are acting on West End legitimate stages.

These include such erstwhile Windmill troupers as Edna Wood and Mary Irwin, both in the new revue "Sweet and Low"; Margaret McGrath, who does double duty in George Black's hit revue, "Strike a New Note"; and his musical play, "Lisbon Story"; and Charmian Innes, in the American hit, "Let's Face It."

To the screen have gone such Windmill pupils as Lesley Osmond and Valerie Tandy, the latter leading lady in "Eyes in Paradise," now being filmed.

The Windmill Theater, as every American soldier in Britain soon learns, is England's closest approximation to that form of theatrical art popularized in America by the Brothers Minsky. Burlesque it is not, for there are no strip tease, no bumps, no corny jokes with double meanings. Such nudes as there are (in a half-dozen tableaux) are somewhat anti-climatic, for British law forbids them to move and producer Vivian Van Dumm's technique sides their charms in lighting only one degree brighter than a London fog.

What Van Dumm's "Revuette" does have in common with the Minskys, however, is a shapely chorus which prominently displays portions of the anatomy which would require very few clothing coupons to cover.

In a wartime London conspicuously lacking any one outstanding theatrical glamor girl, the Windmill chorus comes at close as anything to being the toast of the town.

It is more than accidental that from this chorus a stream of youngsters has graduated to stage and screen, for Mr. Van Dumm's policy is to get 'em young and teach 'em. Girls who show promise in singing or dancing get specialty lessons from topnotch teachers at the Windmill's expense.

After having been through the Mill for a couple of years, a talented youngster has had sufficient experience and training for bigger and better opportunities. Not that there's anything wrong with that offered by Mr. Van Dumm: "My aim has always been to show

Charmian Innes is a sample of the Windmill Theater's graduates, cum honor. She's now featured in the American hit, "Let's Face It," in London.

English women under the best possible condition," says this English Earl Carroll.

"I would rather put a beautiful body in the complete nude, under perfect conditions of lighting and stage atmosphere, than to disfigure it with unattractive costumes."

RATION BOARD OFFICE TO BE CLOSED MONDAY

Because a physical inventory of supplies will be taken, the Midland County War Price and Rationing Board office in the courthouse will be closed all day Monday.

Gifts Being Sent Overseas Should Be Mailed Early

September 15th to October 15th has been designated the period for mailing parcel post Christmas gifts to Army personnel overseas. Gifts for Naval personnel overseas should be mailed between September 15th and November 1st.

The early mailing dates are necessary so gifts can be transported at times when shipping space is available. Arms, munitions, and supplies needed for the fighting men have precedence over gifts in allotment of shipping space.

The arrangement governing gifts for Army personnel this year is different from that which prevailed last year. Under War Department regulations now prevailing, unsolicited Christmas gifts sent by parcel post to Army personnel overseas must be mailed during the period fixed. Gifts may be mailed before September 15th or after October 15th only on presentation at the post office of a letter from the man overseas requesting the article which is being sent to him. This regulation was not in effect a year ago.

Mail Cards Early
To assure delivery on time, Christmas cards also should be mailed during the same period as parcels. Christmas parcels for the men overseas must not exceed the present limitations of 5 pounds in weight or 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. The War and Navy Departments have pointed out that members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing and the public is urged not to include such matter in gift parcels. Perishable goods are barred.

County and city authorities have joined in an appeal to citizens not to dump trash, garbage, dead animals and other things which they wish to dispose of on the streets and highways. This procedure has been increasing recently, it was reported.

Citizens Urged Not To Dump Refuse On Highways And Roads

Health authorities are concerned with the menace to health caused by persons leaving dead dogs, cats and other animals at the sides of roads, where they will decay and breed disease in addition to marring the appearance of the areas.

In an appeal to the civic consciousness of these persons, the authorities urge that dead animals be taken to the city dump north-east of the city and turned over to the caretaker there. He will dispose of the dead animals.

Milwaukee was once an Indian village, called by the natives "Menewaukee," or "good lands."

Informality Marks Fifinella Dance

Delightful in its informality was the dancing party given Wednesday evening in the home of Miss Ann Ulmer, when Fifinella Club members were hostesses.

It was a barefoot dance on the tile porch at the Ulmer home, and the young group enjoyed dancing interspersed by refreshments of iced cokes during the hours.

Care Should Be Used In Picking Woolen Blankets

By NEA Service
Here's good news for those chilly nights just around the corner from the next heat wave or two. Once more you will be able to buy all you want of pure virgin wool blankets, whose manufacture, until recently, was sharply restricted. Now the major portion of our domestic and imported wool is no longer needed for the armed forces, and there is plenty of wool to go around.

True, the new all-wool blankets that families will buy are limited by WPB to four colors, besides white, but these are soft, pastel shades which will go with every color scheme. And they have wide, satin bindings, which add to the richness of their looks.

Wool Is Better
Wool makes a better, warmer blanket, because it is a natural insulator. Nature has locked tiny, insulating air spaces into each porous, crinkly wool fiber, thereby making it a non-conductor of heat. Good wool blankets, which with proper laundering and 'tween-seasons care, will last for many years, are not cheap. Therefore it behooves the woman who buys one to make sure she is getting the most for her money.

In buying, your instinctive first consideration will be the appearance of the blanket. Look for full, clear colors, which are obtained from dyes that do not fade. Buy the finest quality your budget can stand (it's the best economy) and make sure bindings match the color of the blanket, are perfectly stitched, so as not to twist or pucker and are of long-wearing material.

Needs Thick Nap

Feel the blanket. Soft, elastic wools have a springy "come-back" of the live, resilient fibres. Gather a bit in your hand, squeeze it tight and watch it spring back to normal when you release it. The weave should be fine and close, for warmth insurance, durability and aid in retaining the shape of the blanket under laundering.

A good blanket should have a thick, soft nap, for it is the fluffiness of the nap, not the thickness of the actual fabric, that gives warmth and adds to the blanket's luxurious beauty. Another advantage the all-wool blanket has over the part-wool is that the 100 per cent wool one retains its heat-insulating nap after many launderings, whereas the part-wool one seldom does.

"I BELONG HERE, KEN"

CHAPTER XII
KNOWING the truth didn't change essential values. Barbee knew she couldn't go to Ken and say, "It isn't because you're a civilian that I'm ashamed to present you to my family. It's because you're illiterate, because you haven't had my advantages, because we don't belong to the same world."

No, there was nothing to be done about the hurt she had dealt Ken. Barbee decided after a sleepless night. They'd had a couple of dates together, they'd both gone overboard about the other without stopping to think first—at least she supposed Ken had, too, or else why would her snubbing have hit him so hard? But there was nothing to be done about it. Nothing.

It was a stifling day, heavy with an oppressive heat. One of those bad summer days that breed uneven tempers, poor concentration, and accidents. Barbee heard the siren of a rapidly approaching ambulance as she turned in at the guard house gate. She pulled to one side and let it pass. By the time she had parked her car and returned to the guard house to check in for the day's work, the ambulance had picked up its burden and departed.

"Who's hurt?" Barbee asked anxiously.
"Ken Carter," someone answered. "A drum of carbon dropped on him in the furnace room."

Barbee stood there for a moment with the world blacking out around her.
"The guard told her that he'd been taken to Riverview Hospital. It wasn't very far in distance, but it seemed like an eternity in time before she was parking the car before the hospital steps and flying up them to the broad door marked ENTRANCE. It was an hour and a half before they let her go up to the room where they had taken him. She tiptoed in fearfully. Ken, his brown face looking incongruous against the white pillow, seemed to be asleep.

"How is he?" Barbee whispered to the nurse in attendance.
"His left leg is badly crushed," the nurse told her. "The doctor thought at first 'hat he'd have to amputate—but he's going to wait a day."

"Oh, no—no—not that—" Barbee cried.
There was a movement on the bed. "Cut it off—no good anyway—can't get in the Army—can't fight—" Ken's voice was heavy with the anesthetic.

Barbee bent over him. "Oh, don't say that, Ken—don't say such things—" She was crying bitterly.

Ken's vague eyes focused slowly upon her. "Barbee—what are you doing here?"
"What am I doing here?" trying to stifle her sobs. "I'm here because I belong here, Ken."

What was she saying? It was madness. But she couldn't fight it any longer—this wayward love. She and Ken might belong in different worlds, but she loved him. Nothing could change that.

Consciousness quickened in Ken's face. Anesthetic or no anesthetic he could understand that. "Say it again, Baby. Say it again!"

"I belong here, Ken. I love you."
"Later they talked more calmly and reassuringly."
"Do you want to write to your grandmother?" Barbee asked softly. "She ought to know."

"No," Ken was emphatic. "It would only upset her. She wouldn't believe that I'm getting along all right, and she couldn't come to see for herself."
"Why—why not?"
"Because, she's paralyzed—didn't I ever tell you?"

"Oh—Ken—" "What are you looking at me like that for?"

Her voice was small and ashamed. "I've got to tell you, Ken. Even though you'll probably hate me for it. I'm a snob—an awful snob. I—I thought—that is, you said—your grand mother couldn't write, and I thought you meant she was illiterate. I—I thought you were poor white trash from the south."

It was his turn to stare. "So that's why you didn't want me to meet your family?"

She couldn't meet his eyes. "And I thought you were ashamed of me because your brother was in the Army, and I wasn't."

"I guessed that yesterday," she admitted.
Suddenly he began to laugh wholeheartedly. "I don't see anything so funny."

He tried to explain between chuckles. "Don't worry, honey. I can read and write. Maybe I don't talk so correctly—you know southern schools are easy-going, but I've had two years of college. I expected to go to night classes while I worked. That's why I took a room in the University district. But I had to put in too much overtime on the job. A fellow can't work 10 and 12 hours a day and study engineering at the same time. So the engineering will have to wait until the war's over. Does that make it okay now?"

There was nothing wrong with his arms. He drew her close to him.
"Oh, Ken," Barbee was half crying.

She held him off for a moment. "Ken, I'm glad I told you that I loved you before I knew this. Remember, you said once you wanted to be loved for yourself."

He drew her face toward his. "You've got something there, Baby." Then he kissed her very, very satisfactorily.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By William E. McKenney

I have often said that carelessness is a definite weakness in a player's game. Rubber bridge players are sometimes careless in duplicate because they do not try for overtricks. If you have never kibitzed Waldemar von Zedwitz, you know that carelessness is not part of his make-up.

Looking at the North-South hands, you can see that Von Zedwitz did not have much to worry about in making four spades.

He won the opening lead with the ace of hearts and immediately led the queen of clubs. Playing West for the club king, he went

Suppose when Private Bill Jones ran into the Axis boys, out there where these things are settled, he gave only 10% of his fighting power to get the job done! Central Bombardier Instructors' School Expected To Be In Full Operation At Midland Army Air Field By Sept. 3

The Central Bombardier Instructors' School will be in full swing at Midland Army Air Field by Sept. 3, it was announced Saturday by officials of the new finishing school for the teachers of Uncle Sam's Axis blasters.

There will be two classes on hand continuously, with graduations from the six-week instructors' courses scheduled at three-week intervals. The first three weeks of the intensive instruction period will be devoted to ground school studies. The final three-week period will be divided into half days of ground school and half days of actual bombardment practice, navigation and aerial photography.

Specialized Work

Ground school will specialize in all the latest techniques in the theory of bombing, plus detailed instruction in use and maintenance of automatic pilots. Sperry and Norden bombsights, bombing computers and a host of other intricate bombing and navigation devices.

Aerial activity of the CBIS students will be devoted entirely to simulated combat missions, and will include "film bombing," a new training technique by which actual bombing is simulated through use of special photographic equipment operating in conjunction with the bombsight.

Instructors of the CBIS have each been selected for special abilities, and have themselves completed intensive courses in bombardment and navigation training in specialized phases of the deadly art. Some of the instructors hold Ph. D. degrees in science and other subjects closely allied to the business of blasting objectives from the air. Many have recently returned from active duty on the fighting bombardier school. Colonel Russell is from Fort Worth. His wife and two daughters are living in San Antonio at present.

Floyd Is Assistant

Capt. Charles R. Floyd, assistant director of training for CBIS, was the first in the first class of bombardiers to graduate from Lowry Field, Colorado, birthplace of the bombardiers. He was commissioned a second lieutenant Jan. 10, 1941. At that time bombardiers were not commissioned officers, but enlisted men. His next station was Ellington Field, Texas, which at the time was to have been the largest Air Forces bombardier school. Training facilities and weather conditions proved inadequate, however, and the new bombardier school was moved to its present station at Midland Army Air Field.

Albuquerque was his next stop. He reported to MAAF Feb. 1, 1942, and was promoted to first lieutenant on the same day. He was one of the first instructors here. On July 9, 1942, he was transferred to Carlsbad as temporary director of training of the CBIS, and in December, 1942, he was advanced to rank of captain.

Captain Floyd graduated from Jefferson Senior High School at Roanoke, Va., and from Virginia Military Institute. He entered the Army Air Forces as an aviation cadet in July, 1940. Captain and Mrs. Floyd and their daughter, Sheila, will make their new home in Odessa.

Casualty Count

WORLD WAR I	WORLD WAR II
 Killed in Action 37,569	 7400
 Dead of Wounds 12,942	 673
 Wounded 193,663	 17,724
 Prisoners or Missing 4400	 39,268

U. S. casualties for 19 months of war total 65,136—only about one-fourth as heavy as in the 19 months of World War I, when casualties reached 248,589. Comparisons show World War II is lower in every type of casualty except prisoners or missing.

County's Income From Agriculture Totals $4,404,112

Midland County's agricultural income in 1942 totaled approximately $4,404,112, a report released Saturday by County Agent I. O. Sturkie reveals.

Sales of beef cattle accounted for the greater portion of the total, the report shows. About 38,741 head of cattle were sold at an average price of $80 each for a total of $3,234,460.

A total of 19,370 beef cows produced 15,496 calves which were valued at $50 each for the second highest figure, $774,800.

The third best source of agricultural income was from 22,726 acres of cotton, which produced 7,382 bales for an average price of $109 per bale, making a total of $733,200.

Crops Withstand Lack Of Moisture

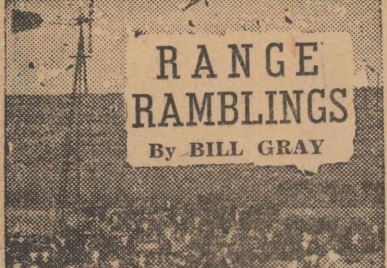

Despite the lack of rain and continued hot weather, Midland County cotton and feed crops are holding up well, County Agent I. O. Sturkie said Saturday. No reports of extensive damage to crops have been made to the agents office.

Cotton crops are not suffering from lack of moisture yet, Sturkie said, and early feed crops are only now beginning to show signs of scorching. If a good rain is received within a week or ten days a bumper crop may be expected.

Observations have shown that both cotton and feed crops which have been planted in a two-row-and-skip-one pattern have withstood the lack of moisture better than those planted solidly, proving that the method is a good drought insurance. In 1941 a farmer who used both methods reported he made as much cotton from the skip acreage as he did from the acres planted solidly to the crop, Sturkie said.

RANGE RAMBLINGS
By BILL GRAY

Probably the most prominent item in a listless West Texas calf market in the last few days was the sale of the Gage Lightning Bar calves—5000 head—to H. L. Wilson of San Antonio. The calves were sold at 13 and 14 cents for heifers and steers, respectively, and for November delivery. They were from the Marathon ranch.

Stockmen annually watch the sale of this big lot of calves as something of a criterion and price barometer for the particular part of the season in which they sell. The prices are considered "good," in view of what is being offered currently.

Less in volume but of equal importance, perhaps, was the sale of the Means calves at Valentine. There were 1,200 head and they sold at the same prices, delivery also in November.

Experience Emphasized

The combat experience of veterans of the various theaters of action is especially emphasized during the course. Serving as a reservoir for the knowledge gained in action against the enemy, the school enables instructors for the "Hell from Heaven Men" to learn and practice the latest bombing techniques almost as soon as they are developed.

CBIS will have its own classrooms, ground school buildings, maintenance buildings, shops, supply rooms, living quarters, mess hall and recreation building.

The school will operate under the command of Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer of Midland Army Air Field, but will function separately from the cadet bombardier school here.

Director of training for the Central Bombardier Instructors' School is Lt. Col. Joseph G. Russell. He was graduated from West Point in 1935, and is a senior pilot and a qualified bombardier. Before assuming his duties at CBIS at Carlsbad, where the school was located prior to its move here, Colonel Russell served as commanding officer of Deming Air Field, also a

McClintick Assigned Here

Capt. Charles R. McClintick, director of special projects for CBIS, was the first among the 50 men in the second class of bombardiers to graduate from Lowry Field Jan. 10, 1941. He was commissioned a second lieutenant at Randolph Field April 21, 1941. He was one of the instructors assigned to Ellington Field, and from there he went to Midland Army Air Field where he was the first instructor of bombardiers to arrive at the new field on Jan. 17, 1942. He was advanced to first lieutenant in July, 1942, and to captain in December, 1942. At Midland he gave instructions to 13 classes of bombardiers, many of whom are today making history all over the world. He was transferred to Carlsbad, N. M., last January and on arriving at his new station he was appointed director of training.

Captain McClintick graduated from Thomas Jefferson High School at San Antonio and from Texas A. & M. at College Station. He majored in petroleum engineering. Captain and Mrs. McClintick and son, Charles, Jr., make their home in San Antonio.

Lt. Louis Bartha Home After Seeing Plenty Of Action In Pacific Areas

Sinking a submarine by hitting it squarely with four 500-pound bombs and taking part in from 50 to 60 missions to bomb the enemy is just a part of what Lt. Louis A. Bartha has been accomplishing in the Southern Pacific, where he has been stationed.

Lieutenant Bartha has arrived in Midland after flying from the South Pacific area, a distance of 7,000 miles, in 37 hours. He flew from San Francisco to here in ten hours.

Lieutenant Bartha, formerly stationed at the Midland Army Air Field, was assigned to New Caledonia, then moved to the New Hebrides, later to Guadalcanal, and then to the Fiji Islands.

His squadron did reconnaissance work around Guadalcanal in 1942 for the fleet moving in during the invasion of the island by the Allies. He has flown more than 50 missions, and most of his flying has been done in B-26 bomber planes, medium bombers called Marauders, which are considered the fastest of all bombers. He also has flown some B-25s.

He took part in 300 hours of combat bombing around Guadalcanal, and his group was one of the first to be in the South Pacific. It operated around New Georgia Island, Munda, Kolombangara and Rekata Bay—a Japanese sea-base.

With four 500-pound bombs he sank a submarine and has been recommended for an air medal and also another award. He will be in Midland until early September, when he expects to be advised where he will be stationed in the future.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Bartha are now residing at 112 Ridgela Drive.

Beesley Is Adjutant

Lt. Wade H. Beesley, CBIS adjutant, graduated as a bombardier from the Albuquerque field. He received his basic training at San Antonio and pre-flight training at Ellington Field. After graduation and becoming a commissioned officer he was assigned to the 97th Bombardment Group at Sarasota, Fla. During a routine flight his plane crashed and the injuries he received kept him in the hospital for nine months. On being discharged from the hospital he was sent to Carlsbad as a member of the fourth class of instructors at CBIS. After completing the course he was assigned to the school as adjutant. He holds that same position here.

Lieutenant Beesley graduated from San Angelo High School, San Angelo College, and from the University of Texas. Mrs. Beesley and daughter, Sandra Ann, are living with Lieutenant Beesley's mother at San Angelo.

Date For Annual Club Calf Tour Set At Meeting

Dates for the Annual 4-H club calf tour were set for September 8 at a meeting of Midland County 4-H Club boys Saturday afternoon at the courthouse. Boys and their fathers will visit each of the members feeding calves and will observe feeding practices and other arrangements.

Following the tour a barbecue will be served the group at Cloverdale Park, County Agent I. O. Sturkie said. Twenty-three club calves are being fed by 4-H members.

Arrangements for obtaining club pigs and lambs were completed at the Saturday meeting. The boys will start feeding the animals about September 1.

Feeding practices were discussed.

Farmers May Obtain Improvement Loans

Farmers in Midland County who need government financing with which to repair their homes and farmstead water facilities or to install new equipment with which to produce food and care for livestock may obtain loans for these purposes from the Farm Security Administration, Oscar M. Fowler, rural rehabilitation supervisor, said Saturday.

Farm Security loans now are available to farmers who cannot obtain credit elsewhere for farmstead and domestic water needs. Loans are open to both tenants and owners.

Purposes for which these loans may be made include drilling of wells, construction of windmills, stock tanks, storage tanks for home and farm supplies and for irrigating gardens up to one acre are some of the purposes for which these loans will be made.

Fowler said these water facility loans are not to be confused with the FSA's irrigation loans which are available only in certain approved areas. The water facility loans available now in Midland County will be made immediately to all qualified borrowers of this agency of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Every state in the union and every one of the U. S. possessions has lost merchant seamen through enemy action since casualties were first announced.
