Bombers Paralyze Italy's Rail Traffic

Relentless Air Attacks Cause Heavy Damage

Allies Down 20 Axis Planes In Assaults

BY EDWARD KENNEDY
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—The steady Allied air scourging of Southern Italy's railways has virtually paralyzed train traffic from the Naples area to the toe and heel of the peninsula, air force officers declared Saturday, with fresh wreckage strewn Friday near Naples and by flying fortresses at Sulmona 100 miles east of Rome.

Some trains are moving, but with great difficulty and many delays, since mainline tracks have been knocked out in countless places, switching stations and other rail buildings demolished, and yards filled with gaping craters, Allied headquarters said.

Wrecked locomotives and passenger and freight cars and in some cases remains of entire trains block the tracks at many points, especially at Benevento Junction, near Naples, where damaged freight cars bar the way to the yards.

Other points hard hit by relentless American day bombing and British night hammering include Naples, Villa Literna, Spri, Taranto, and Foggia.

Freight yards at Benevento were straddled by bombs from U. S. B-25 Mitchells in renewed attacks Friday, and flying fortresses in a heavy assault blasted the lines at Sulmona near the east coast for the first time. B-26 Marauders hammered Caserta near Naples, medium and fighter bombers spread ruin wide over Southern Italy, and RAF heavy Wellingtons followed up Friday night with block-busters on the freight yards at Salerno, south of Naples.

Twenty German and Italian fighters were downed as the enemy put up stiffening resistance, and nine Allied planes were lost Friday.

Aerial reconnaissance showed that the line of extremely heavy destruction extends across Italy from the Gulf of Naples to the Gulf of Manfredonia, and that rail traffic in all the area south of this line is practically at a standstill.

Friday's program was the biggest so far in the number of freight yards hit, and put the Northwest Africa Tactical Air Force planes out in their heaviest attacks since Sicily fell.

Ward County Prison Escapee Is Captured

DALLAS — (AP) — Leonard Earl Wilson, 35, who escaped from the Retrieve Prison Farm, was captured here Saturday by Dallas police. Wilson escaped last Wednesday. He was serving a 15-year sentence for robbery with firearms after conviction in Ward County in 1938.

Stockholm — (AP) — King Christian III of Denmark was reported Sunday to have threatened to abdicate if the Danish government accepts a German ultimatum placing the kingdom under full Nazi military control.

LONDON — (AP) — The Swiss radio said Saturday night that air raid alarms sounded in Rome Saturday afternoon but made no mention of bombing. The alarms may have sounded because of Allied planes winging close to the city to reach neighboring air fields and rail junctions, which have been heavily pounded during recent raids.

Stockholm — (AP) — A Swedish plane carrying four crewmen and three passengers—one of whom may have been an Iranian diplomat—was reported missing Saturday over the North Sea on a flight from Scotland. Swedish planes and some from the German occupation army in Norway began a search.

Soviets Surge On

Red Army Troops Recapture 50 Villages After Breaking Nazi Lines Near Sevsk

LONDON — (AP) — Soviet troops rapidly developing their newest breakthrough on the German lines from fallen Sevsk, plunged on over the bodies of 2,000 Nazi dead Saturday for gains of three to five miles and recaptured more than 50 villages to draw nearer to the vital Bryansk-Kiev railway, Moscow announced Sunday.

British Batter Nuernberg With Heaviest Bombs

LONDON — (AP) — The RAF Bomber Command poured a colossal hail of block-buster bombs Friday night on Nuernberg, Nazi gage city and manufacturing center, and overwhelmed German defenses.

The bomb tonnage in this second saturation blow of the week—following up the Monday night assault on Berlin—was not disclosed.

Thirty-three bombers were lost in this attack and other wide-ranging raids, including Mosquito assaults on the battered Ruhr, and fighter and intruder stabs at airfields and railways in France and the low countries.

It was the eighth raid upon Nuernberg, site of Diesel engine, electric and aluminum manufacturing, and a railroad funnel to Italy. It took the bombers on a 1,100-mile round trip.

The Germans threw up a tremendous force of fighters, the Air Ministry reported, silencing their ground guns which searchlights picked up the raiders, and relying upon the fighters as their main defense, indicating Nazi experimentation for more effective measures.

Reporting that German defenses were overwhelmed, an American officer who flew with the British declared "I never seen so many searchlights or fighters. But as one squadron commander said, 'the German defenses failed once again.'"

Berlin claimed 62 raiders shot down.

There was every indication that the RAF Friday night hit Nuernberg with a bomb load greater than the 1,500 tons which rocked the city Aug. 10, killing an estimated 2,500 persons and leaving 45,000 homeless.

It was an official secret whether the target switch from Berlin was strategic, or due to weather.

Mine Blast Traps About 125 Miners

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. — (AP) — About 125 men were believed trapped deep in the Sayreton No. 2 coal mine of the Republic Steel Corp. near here by an explosion Saturday night.

A company spokesman said approximately 125 men were in the mine when the blast occurred and only three were brought to the surface. Two suffered serious burns.

Bulgaria's King Dies Of Illness; Son Gets Throne

Germans Announce Death Of Monarch

LONDON — (AP) — King Boris III of Bulgaria died Saturday and his six-year-old son, Simeon succeeded to the throne as King Simeon II, the German radio announced.

Boris' death at the age of 49—whether by illness or assassination—raised the critical question whether the Nazis would be able to tighten their slipping control of the reluctantly-aligned Axis satellite, or whether as in the last war the Balkan nation would be the first to open Germany's back door to the Allies.

The proclamation added that the ministerial council "will take over administration of Bulgaria until a settlement of the problem of the regency."

The Germans said Boris had died of a sudden heart disease coupled with lung troubles after a five-day illness. Berlin vigorously denied that this illness had stemmed from a violent quarrel with Hitler at his headquarters, when Boris reportedly refused to send Bulgarian troops to fight Russia.

Unconfirmed reports received in Ankara said Boris might have been shot in the stomach by an assassin.

Boris, one of the foxiest diplomats in Europe, had been king 25 years, and absolute master of his country's political life for nine years. It was doubted whether any member of the Bulgar royal family would be able to hold the nation together.

Simeon's succession would indicate that Philov, Boris' go-between with Hitler, was winning the first round in an attempt to keep control.

Philov also was seen as retaining his grip if a regency with the queen, under German protection, were established.

Big Increase In Population Shown

The Midland County War Price and Rationing Board issued 15,692 No. 2 ration books compared with only 13,934 No. 1 books, which were issued in May 1942, indicating a tremendous increase in the county's population.

The 1940 federal census gave Midland County a population of 11,721 and the City of Midland 9,352.

Ration books go to all civilians and to Army personnel residing in the county who ration away from the post.

No figures on the No. 3 ration books have been released by the OPA which handled registration and issuance of these books.

The influx of oil company employees is given credit for a large percentage of the increase.

U. S. Planning to Retake Wake?

Stepped up American bombings of Wake Island and increase of U. S. offensive action indicated this Pacific atoll may be a potential invasion target. Attack here will avenge at last the heroic stand of U. S. Marines 19 months ago, when Wake fell to Japs shortly after Pearl Harbor.

Many Sections Of State Suffer As Drouth And High Temperatures Sear Crops And Curtail Water Supplies

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Fields, plains, and woodlands of Texas begged for rain Saturday under the continued high temperatures of a prolonged drouth which seared crops and curtailed water supplies in those sections which felt its heaviest touch.

From Abilene, in Central West Texas, which opened its reservoir floodgates to avert a water famine at Stamford, from the burning South Plains about Lubbock; from Wichita Falls across the state from Dallas, Fort Worth, Paris, Waco, Corsicana, Carthage, and in the lower Valley where there was concern over a drying Rio Grande, the reports of drouth came.

Big Spring hit
Big Spring was passing through its worst drouth since 1931, had made the city wholly dependent on its water well supply. The cotton crop was opening prematurely, and feed crops were rapidly deteriorating.

Such coastal points as Houston and Port Arthur, were less affected. Houston reported a temperature high of 87, and no water shortage Saturday. The reading at Port Arthur was 93, and there were occasional thunderstorms.

But from most others reporting the readings were near 100, or above, as they had been many days of a sweltering August.

Victor Shoefelmayr, agricultural editor of The Dallas News, writing after a survey said: "One of the most destructive drouths in years is developing."

"Livestock is being rushed to slaughter in alarming numbers—not only grass steers, mother cows and calves, but ewes and lambs, Angora goats, and their kids. The range from Alpine to Del Rio, reports of range state, is dry as the proverbial bone. Tanks are dry, creeks and springs have quit running in many places. Farmers are hauling water in much of the territory between San Antonio and the Red River."

Lubbock, Fort Worth, Carthage and Paris reported earlier estimates of cotton yield curtailed, and cotton popping open, at Lubbock 20 days earlier than last year. Waco, with 100 degree heat, said cotton was opening fast, but other crops in that section were burned up. Feed crops in the South Plains counties about Lubbock were estimated 50 per cent below prospects a month ago.

War Workers Ordered To Go Out On Strike

DETROIT — (AP) — Approximately 9,000 workers of the Murray Corporation of America were ordered to stop work Saturday by Lloyd T. Jones, president of Murray Local No. 2, United Automobile Workers (CIO), in what he said was a protest against disciplining of 200 employees who were tardy returning from lunch.

The company, producing aircraft and other war material for the Army, charged that Jones and chief shop stewards of the local had instructed employees not to comply with working hours agreed upon by the company and the union and approved by the War Labor Board.

Communications To Sweden Cut; Nazis Rumored Taking Over Full Control As Government Resigns

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Danish telephone communications were severed suddenly Saturday and travelers reaching Malmoe reported that there were rumors in Copenhagen that the government of Prime Minister Erick De Scaevnius had resigned and the Germans taken over full military control of rebellious Denmark.

The 12-day-old crisis in Denmark appeared to have taken a momentous turn as numerous signs pointed either to a political upheaval or full German military dictatorship of the Hitler-held "model protectorate."

May Intern King
Three and a half hours after telephone service between Denmark and Sweden were cut off, telegraphic communication between the two countries also was suspended, the Swedish Motala radio reported in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

Reports to the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter from Malmoe, a city on the southern tip of Sweden which is only a 90-minute boat ride from Denmark, said the travelers also reported new rumors that the Germans planned to intern King Christian in Sorgenfri Castle near Copenhagen.

An indication that extraordinary events were occurring in the little kingdom where a "people's revolt" against the German occupation has seriously slowed the Nazi war effort came Saturday when the telephone communications were cut.

Riot Tolls Increase
The Danish radio announced cancellation of Sunday's athletic events.

The toll of wounded in recent riots passed 200 Saturday when it was disclosed that 30 persons were injured in the Copenhagen riots three days ago. Scores of both Danes and Germans also have been killed.

German Minister Werner Best, who went to Germany for two days to get instructions concerning the crisis, returned with a new ultimatum, the contents of which had not yet been learned.

The Danish government, which previously spurned a German demand for administration of justice by Nazi courts, was reported to (Continued on Page 3)

Volunteer Group Leaving Sunday

Included in a group of men leaving Sunday for Fort Bliss to take final examinations for induction into the armed services are seven volunteers, the Midland County Selective Service board said Saturday. The seven form the largest contingent of volunteers to leave Midland in several months.

Mrs. M. B. Arick, chief clerk of the board, said.

The group is composed of Harry Manning Lobdell, Benjamin True Strong, Joe Ula Tisdale, Ernest Wayne Harris, Robert Healy Wilson, Cecil Sanderford Aycock Jr., and Thomas Williams Green.

Following their acceptance, the men will be given furloughs before entering actual service, the length of time depending upon the branch to which they are assigned.

World Champion

Homer Pettigrew, world champion bulldogger, will come here from his ranch at Grady, N. M., to participate in the champion ship calf roping at the Midland Rodeo Grounds Labor Day, Sept. 6. He is matched against Troy Fort of Lovington, N. M., in a calf roping contest. Each will rope six calves. Pettigrew, one of the nation's outstanding cowboys and rodeo performers, also will give an exhibition of bulldogging.

Possibly Important Announcement To Be Made From Vatican

NEW YORK — (AP) — Because of "a possibly important announcement," the Vatican radio in a broadcast to the British Isles Saturday asked its listeners to tune in Sunday, U. S. government monitors reported Saturday night.

"Will our listeners be on watch for a possible important announcement immediately after mass broadcast tomorrow?" the announcer was quoted as saying. "We broadcast as usual a mass from St. Peter's at 9:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. CWT). Tomorrow the announcements and homily will be in German. Immediately after the mass there may possibly be an important announcement in English."

Getting A Palm-Line On The Old Boy

Inflation? It's Here

The stubborn and still indecisive fight against the "inflationary spiral" of wages and prices is one of the home front's most important battles. And in one sector it is being lost. We have been watching governmental agencies popping away with ceilings and subsidies and Little Steel formulas. But in the meantime another inflationary force has broken through, after a stealthy advance, and seems entrenched beyond any dislodging.

This new inflationary enemy came in when the quality of necessary goods was cut, without a corresponding cut in retail prices. Perhaps economists might say that inflation isn't the right word, but the results certainly are inflationary.

You may have noticed it already in things like this: That suit you bought six months ago fits like a sack and is beginning to wear out already. Your toes came through your new socks after one wearing. Your wife complains that wartime two-way stretch doesn't stretch.

And that's inflation! For you have to replace these inferior articles so much more quickly that the result is the same as if you had paid 50 or 100 per cent more than the price of their pre-war counterparts.

The principal cause of this difficulty is as easy to explain as it is hard to solve: the armed forces require most of our wool and cotton and all of our No. 1 leather; rayon is needed in synthetic rubber tires; rubber itself, of course, has gone to war, along with such things as steel and metallic dyes.

Why can't there be a price reduction to match the reduction in quality? There are several reasons, but the chief one seems to be that labor costs have risen. Some trades, like women's dresses and cloaks and suits, have been given pay increases. In other industries, new and inexperienced labor has upped production costs. Thus, many wholesalers find that, in spite of cheaper materials, they are paying as much in the end because of other adjustments.

And when there are savings in manufacturing costs, they are too small to do the consumer much good. For example, a shirt that used to retail nationally at $2.25 now sells, with noticeably less cloth and no fast color or pre-shrunk guarantee, at $2.24!

Low-price lines are disappearing in all fields. Manufacturers are concentrating on higher priced goods, where there is more profit. And buyers, with more money than ever before, are shunning the bargain counters anyway. So a good bit of our much-talked-of surplus wealth is being drained off in a wasteful way that doesn't benefit anybody.

Several of our usually contentious government bureaus have pondered the situation, and for once they are in complete accord. They all agree that there is no apparent remedy.

—Buy War Bonds And Savings Stamps—

They Want Freedom

Opposing the acceptance of proffered government funds is practically unheard of. Yet that is exactly what the farmers of the country are doing in their battle against subsidies. Through their farm organizations, including their marketing cooperatives, they have made it clear that they fear subsidies for the reason that once an industry must depend upon that kind of support for existence, it is no longer free.

—Buy War Bonds And Savings Stamps—

Above all else, farmers want to remain free. With so many forms and taxes for business, nowadays friend husband can work late at the office and mean it.

Letter combinations are common these days—OPA, FHA, etc.—but none so common as the old IOU.

Fathers Not In Essential Work Face Draft Soon

WASHINGTON — (P) — "They could be drafted tomorrow." Thus Col. George Baker, chief of Selective Service's manpower division summed up Saturday the situation of many fathers sitting tight in non-deferrable jobs under the impression they are immune from the draft until Oct. 1 at least.

He was speaking of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers who haven't transferred from non-deferrable jobs to other work, registered with the U. S. Employment Service to do so, or volunteered for induction. No Immunity Given

He was pointing out that there was nothing in new draft regulations that guaranteed them immunity.

An Associated Press survey showed, however, that most of the thousands of fathers in non-deferrable jobs and not eager to get into uniform figure they're perfectly safe in waiting to see what Congress does about the father-draft when it reconvenes Sept. 14.

It also turned up other major misunderstandings about the regulations: that a pre-Pearl Harbor father who happens to work in one of the 35 essential activities can't be drafted even after October 1.

The truth in this instance is that unless he is personally deferred as an irreplaceable individual, he actually can be inducted before a man not in an essential activity, provided the latter isn't engaged in non-deferrable work. Examples Given

For example, a father engaged in vital shipbuilding but not irreplaceable as an individual could be taken before a taxi driver, a professional baseball player, a lawyer or a banker, whose work is neither essential nor non-deferrable.

Pre-Pearl Harbor fathers in any of these lines, however, hold immunity from induction — but not from reclassification to 1-A — until October 1 providing they are supporting their children in their homes.

Although fathers in non-deferrable jobs lack that immunity, they can get it by taking other work — it doesn't have to be an essential activity, although that holds better opportunity for gaining individual deferment. But it is not something that is not non-deferrable.

Ann Pennington Now Making Comeback In Broadway Production

NEW YORK — (P) — In a stuffy, hat-box-size dressing room backstage at a Broadway theater, Ann Pennington dropped a little wearily to a wooden bench. On the stage, a men's chorus shouted the lively melody of the drinking song from "The Student Prince."

At 50, "the girl with the million-dollar legs" is back on Broadway. It is the first time since 1934, when she starred in the musical show "Everybody's Welcome."

In the current production of the Sig-mund Romberg operetta she is the gay, scatterbrained scullery maid with a few lines to speak, a few lines to sing, a few dance steps to perform.

"I know it's a step in the right direction," she says. "It's the beginning of my second career in the theater. I couldn't have asked for more success as a dancer. It was wonderful, but it's history. Now I want to do something serious, a want to act."

Pierce left the dog with the car as a guard.

Stalin Expected To Confer With Other Leaders

LONDON — (P) — A series of fragile but mutually supporting signs arose Saturday night to suggest that prospects had taken a brighter turn for a meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Premier Joseph Stalin or their high representatives.

The signs suggested, too, that any such meeting would mean substantial satisfaction of Russia's insistence on a new front.

To inquiries about a three-power war conference, a foreign commentator observed simply that he was unable to comment whereas the earlier reply had been that nothing was known of such a conference.

The possibility of the meeting has leaped to the forefront of all British discussion with the publication of reports that Stalin already had agreed to meet Allied leaders and circulations of rumors via Rome that he was making plans to go to the Caucasus soon to meet British and American political and military representatives.

The alteration in the atmosphere was unmistakable. Eden to Moscow?

The anticipated return to London of former Soviet Ambassador Ivan M. Maisky, although ostensibly only to clear up his affairs before assuming the post in Moscow as vice foreign commissar, has led to speculation which was not noticeably discouraged that Vyacheslav Molotov, commissar for foreign affairs, might follow him here.

The belief has greatly increased that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden is going to Moscow for a meeting which would bring Stalin face to face with a man only a little short of the level occupied by Roosevelt and Churchill in the direction of affairs of the western Allies.

The Evening News, in fact, said it understood that Eden would be planning the three-power meeting even before Churchill returns home.

New York Girl Hires Out As Cowhand On Nevada Dude Ranch

By Richard C. Bergholz RENO, NEV. — (P) — You can blame it on the war, Dore Wood says. When you can't find men for a job, you have to find women.

That's how he hired Florence Herrmann, attractive 26-year-old Hempstead, N. Y., girl, as the first dude ranch wrangler in this section.

Wood, owner of the swanky Tumbling D-W dude ranch in historic Franktown, 25 miles south of Reno, said he simply ran out of cowhands for his ranch, so he hired the first competent girl that came along.

And it's a man job Florence walked into. Her work day begins at dawn when she brings in the saddle horses from the Washoe Valley pasture, stables them and helps feed them.

Then she grooms the horses and if none of the ranch dudes want to ride during the morning, she takes each of the horses out for a brief exercise ride.

After lunch, when most of the dudes are up and around, Florence goes riding with them, keeping the inexperienced riders up with the others, guarding against unnecessary risks and generally shepherding the dudes through the scenic high Sierras.

When the rides are over, she grooms the horses, feeds them and turns them out to pasture, then plays bridge with the guests until bedtime.

Foggia Raid Successful

The Mitchells laid bombs on the locomotive works at Benevento by sides tearing up the rail lines, and these flights, meeting the heaviest opposition, shot down 16 of the day's bag of enemy planes. One formation alone tallied 13 of the attackers.

(The Italian high command declared 16 Allied planes were shot down Friday.)

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters announced that last Wednesday's hedgehopping attack on Foggia's airports and rail yards was the most successful ever made in this theater.

A final checkup showed more than 100 JU-88 bombers were destroyed or damaged on the ground and a total of 47 enemy planes shot down. The previous official announcement claimed only 19 enemy planes shot down.

Thirty-eight of these were accounted for by the Fortresses, the largest number they have bagged in any operation in this area. The bag was so great that the interrogators could hardly believe it and spent two days checking the figures.

have rejected the new ultimatum. Germans Seize Cities

Strategically, Denmark is an important cog in Germany's military defenses. An internal revolt could aid any Allied invasion of the country or Northern Germany, which is the shortest land route to Berlin. Denmark also is a major German base for the transshipment of supplies to Norway.

It is estimated the Germans now have 70,000 troops in Denmark.

Severance of telephone communications is a typical Nazi tactic when major events are occurring.

Many signs pointed to full military control for the German army already has taken over at least 10 cities and large contingents of Nazi troops recently were rushed into Copenhagen and Esbjerg.

Danes Are Bitter

A political upheaval could mean the possible internment of popular King Christian or the ousting of Prime Minister Erik De Scaevinius' government, with German Minister Werner Best taking over on the German pattern of rule in Czechoslovakia.

The Danish radio continued to operate, but nothing in the evening's news broadcast gave a hint as to the new turn in German efforts to curb the nation-wide surge of sabotage and clashes between Danes and occupation troops.

If the situation meant that German Gen. Hermann Von Hanneken and his occupation army are about to take over full military control, it threatens to explode even more violence by the Danes against the Germans.

The Danes know full well that Gen. Hannecker will take ruthless measures in suppressing the revolt. Rather than submit to that, they may develop their sporadic outbreaks into an organized revolution.

Danes here in close touch with their mother country said that feeling is even more bitter against the Germans now than when they took over Denmark in the sneak attack of April 4, 1940.

NEW TYPE HAMBURGER

WASHINGTON — (P) — "Boar-burgers" are a new food item in North Africa. A Moroccan sheik gave a general a nicely roasted wild boar. The general gave it to the Red Cross. It ended up in a meat-grinder, and was served up to Yankee soldiers in the form of 500 boar-burgers.

Poles Use Cats To Fool Gestapo

LONDON — (P) — The Poles have kept their sense of humor in spite of German terrorism.

Take the story of the Gestapo-trained dogs, for example, told by a Polish officer who just reached London from Warsaw.

The Gestapo, he said, after trying unsuccessfully to halt the flow of smuggled food into Warsaw from rural districts, trained vicious dogs to seek out train passengers carrying food in their luggage.

They arranged to meet a certain train and turn their dogs loose to track down those carrying food.

But someone tipped off the smugglers. So instead of packing food into their baskets some of them put in stray cats.

When the train reached Warsaw the Gestapo men turned their dogs loose. The Poles threw open their baskets and cats and dogs turned the station platform into a madhouse.

While the Gestapo tried to beat the cats off, the Poles disappeared into the crowd with their precious food parcels intact.

Jitterbugging Going Out While Romantic Fox-Trot Takes Over

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Jitterbugging has taken a nose dive—maybe just temporarily—but right now it's old stuff.

So, if you are going to swing that gal, Private Jones, you'd better be romantic about it.

That's what the Dancing Masters of America believe, and to prove it they have selected "The Furlough" as the dance of the year.

This is a slow-moving, romantic fox-trot reminiscent of the whirls and twirls of the Merry Widow Waltz.

Since the highest peak of dance activity always comes in wartime, say the dance masters, it is usually the slow, romantic type of dance that appeals. One of the reasons is that most people are expending their energies in the war effort.

Another seems to be that girls are lonely. Girls like mixed dances, too. So, "The Jeep," a chugging, change-partners type of dance similar to the "Paul Jones," also is popular this year.

Venezuela Will Get New Freight Airline

CARACAS, VENEZUELA — (P) — A new airline, handling strictly freight and ready to fly anywhere in this vast republic of mountains, jungles and sprawling prairie llanos, is going into operation.

Bolivian President To Name Military Cabinet

LA PAZ, BOLIVIA — (P) — President Enrique Penaranda, whose cabinet resigned Friday, will name an entirely military cabinet, it was understood Saturday night.

The nine-man cabinet resigned in a body as a barrage of criticism was leveled at its members in the chamber of deputies over the suppression of a strike in the Catavi tin mines last December.

"Dear Home Owner: I suppose millions know that, because of war, they couldn't rebuild a home that burned today. But few realize this: Leading fire insurance companies we represent provide many seldom-heard-of extra services that guard our homes and lives and vital industries from fire. Among these are:
FIRE PREVENTION ENGINEERS
To keep fires from starting, hundreds of trained men check our towns and cities regularly—study fire hazards, water supply, alarm systems—to help authorities plan better fire protection. Today, these men are making thousands of special checks to safeguard war industries, materials and food.

Out of each premium dollar, 97 1/2% on the average has been applied to the payment of policyholders' losses, taxes and other necessary costs of operation. Only 2 1/2% has remained as "profit"—to strengthen the companies' ability to pay unusually heavy losses should they occur in the future."

HAPPINESS AHEAD

CHAPTER XII
"HELLO, Blair," he said when he followed Mary Evans into the room. "You wanted to see me?"

Sam Blair nodded curtly. "This is Miss Cleveland," he introduced Pat. "She's the girl who followed Atherton from Midvale to the bridge project."

A shadow of apprehension flitted across Rand's face and his cold gray eyes swept around the room before he spoke.

"How do you do, Mr. Blair?" There was no hint of concern in his tone. Then he turned back to the policeman. "What did you want of me?"

"We want you for the murder of Joe Parker and Randolph Atherton," Dave announced quietly when Blair hesitated.

Rand whirled on his heel. "What is this?" he shot at Blair; but Blair's hand was poised over his gun.

"Yes, Mr. George Rand Atherton, the jig is up, Blair," Dave jerked his head at the prisoner. "he's all yours. Call in your bloodhounds. You see, Pat, he said to her, 'we had to see if you would recognize his voice. Surprise was the only way out.'"

"Did you say Atherton?" Pat looked her astonishment.

"That's right, Pat. He's Randolph Atherton's brother."

It was then that George Rand acted. One brawny hand shot out and drew Pat in front of him, directly between him and Sam Blair's gun.

The other hand flashed into his coat pocket, reappeared clutching a vicious-looking automatic.

"All right," he barked at Blair. "Don't move, any of you."

"Now, that's better," Rand's voice was silky with satisfaction. "Don't any of you move a muscle. That means you, too, Elson!" he rasped, for Dave had tensed to lunge forward. "One move and—" He jabbed the gun hard into Pat's back by way of finishing the sentence.

"So you did kill them?" Dave, they all knew, was making a desperate play for time.

"Yeah, I killed 'em."
"Mind telling us why?"
"Elson, you're so smart, suppose you tell it yourself."

"All right," Dave agreed, "I will. You—and not brother Randolph—have run the Atherton Construction Company all these years. He was just a dupe and a badly frightened one at that. So badly frightened that, when he got the jitters, you killed him to save your own skin. When Joe Parker found out what had been suspected for a long time—that inferior material was going into every building or bridge that your outfit put up—you killed him. But you shouldn't have written that threatening letter on his own typewriter. That was the tip-off."

He looked at George Rand. The gun was still uncomfortably close to Pat.

"Yes," he went on, "using Parker's own typewriter and sending those red roses to his funeral with Randolph Atherton's card—" He shook his head. "It was a little too obvious, especially after your brother told Pat that he knew nothing of them."

"I should have finished you off that night in Parker's house, Elson."

George Rand Atherton accented his words with a shove that whirled Pat around toward the dining room door.

Once outside the man darted a quick look around, then he dashed past her. Following him with her eyes, Pat saw the dim outline of a car at the back gate.

Roar of the starting motor brought a mad rush from the house. With a single motion Sam Blair was behind the steering wheel of his own machine. It tore around the corner to pick up the trail.

Pat found herself half smothered in Dave's arms.

"Pat, Pat," he was whispering against her hair. "Darling, you might have been killed."

Darling, she thought, he called me darling. A warm glow spread over her. Even her ankle felt better.

CLEM, Mary, Dave and Pat went back into the house.

"Dave, do you mind telling me just how you found out about George Rand?" Pat's curiosity immediately got the best of her.

"Atherton?" He grinned sheepishly. "Well, chicken, money works wonders sometimes. I merely suggested to that cute reheaded bookkeeper that she should stroll out for a soda."

"And then you went through the Atherton books? So that's how a Naval Intelligence man works!" Dave chuckled. "Sorry to disappoint you, honey," he told her, "but Aunt Sarah Harrington gets more credit than I do. She told me this afternoon about the tall, handsome man who waited for Mr. Parker one day—and used that typewriter. So," he shrugged it off lightly, "we laid a little trap."

Twenty minutes later Sam Blair returned. One look at his ruddy face told them something had happened.

"His car went off the bridge into the river," he informed them. "He didn't have a chance."

Pat sighed. "Perhaps," she whispered, "it's better this way. There won't have to be a nasty trial or—"

"Or anything, darling. Just happiness." Pat smiled up at Dave, her blue eyes happier than they had been for a long time. Happier than they had been for three years.

"Just happiness, Davey." She was vaguely aware that Clem and Mary Evans and Chief Blair had gone, but it didn't matter. Nothing mattered but Dave—and their future together.

Former WPB Official Emphasizes Wasteful Government Spending In Letter To Committee

WASHINGTON —(AP)—A former his activities showed such entries as these:
"July 21. Punched pages and put them into note books."
"July 23. Made one trip to Standard Oil building."
Attaches of the committee, formally known as the joint committee on reduction of non-essential federal expenditures, said every mail brings dozens of letters alleging wasteful government spending along with suggestions for saving money. The committee in turn seeks to get action by the appropriate government agencies on the suggestions it deems sound.

The former employee who complained he didn't have enough to do now has been drafted into the Army, and told the committee he was glad of it.
"I certainly have not been earning $3,200 a year," he wrote. "I may have earned a messenger's salary or a file clerk's salary, but no more. I feel it would be more accurate to say that I did not hold a job, but merely occupied a chair and a desk."
He said a great deal of time was spent by his fellow employes in personal conversations, long telephone calls and studying racing forms.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
When a pair stops short of game and then discovers it has enough cards to make game and even a possible slam, an argument naturally starts. I listened to the argument on today's hand. South said, "I opened a minimum hand, a bare two and a half tricks. Over two diamonds, I bid two hearts to show a minimum hand. When you bid two spades, I kept the bidding open by bidding two no trump. When you bid three diamonds, I thought it was a sign-off."

In my opinion, South was entirely wrong. When he signed the hand off at two hearts, North made a very constructive bid of two spades, which an opening bidder could not pass. South's bid of two no trump was correct. North's three diamonds was another constructive bid, practically telling partner that the distribution was six diamonds and four spades. North did not jump the bid to four diamonds because he realized that three no trump might be the maximum on the hand, and he did not want to force his partner to bid four no trumps. But in bidding three diamonds, North had hopes that, if South had a fit in diamonds, there might even be a slam in the hand. South was wrong in passing the three-diamond bid. He should have taken into consideration the advantage of a club lead up to his hand—and doubtless, if North passed, a club would have been led.

Strike Notice Rule May Be Abandoned

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Officials administering the two-month-old war labor disputes act disclosed Saturday night that they already intend to ask Congress to scrap the act's strike notice provision.

These officials, none of whom would permit quotation, cited figures showing that there have been 380 such notices filed so far and 13 strikes voted.

While an actual strike has not resulted, they contended that local unions and independent groups have been using the strike ballot provision as a handy tool to serve half a dozen purposes, none of them intended by the act, and confusing the entire labor relations picture.

Dr. Henry W. Harper, University Prof, Dies

AUSTIN —(AP)—Dr. Henry Winston Harper, 84, dean emeritus of the graduate school of the University of Texas, died Saturday after falling to rally from a recent operation.

He had been in failing health, and was on modified service at the university as professor of chemistry when his illness became acute.

Dr. Harper came to Texas in 1881, and served the University of Texas for more than 50 years. Since college days he was distinguished sartorially by the constant wearing of an arterial-red satin bow tie—emblem of a college pact. To insure having the same quality and color, he bought the material by the bolt.

CIO Board Members In Favor of Travel Pay

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Coal miners are entitled to payment for travel time underground, CIO members of the National War Labor Board asserted Saturday in an opinion dissenting from a recent decision by the board on the portal-to-portal issue.

An agreement between the United Mine Workers of America and the Illinois coal operators was disapproved by the board on the grounds it did not constitute a "genuine settlement of alleged claims arising under the Fair Labor Standards Act."

Mistaken Invitation

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)—William Mednick awakened, saw someone near his bed going through his pockets and grumbled, "Take what you want, but please don't make so much noise."

He was dozing off again when he realized it wasn't his wife, but a 200-pound negro woman who was heading for the door with his wallet.

Pajama-clad, he caught her a block away. A neighbor took her to police headquarters—and Mednick went back to bed.

RANGE RAMBLINGS By BILL GRAY

West Texas is not the only parched range. It's dry from the Rio Grande to Saltillo, reports Howard Cox of San Angelo, ranchman and horse breeder, who has just returned from a month in Mexico.

"Baked" is the word for the big Bar S. west chunk of ranch land lying west of San Angelo in the Merizon sector. Ranch hand's fought three blazes the past week, one of which roared to within nearly a mile of the ranch headquarters. Louis Ferr, manager of the Bar S., is in Kansas on a grass pasturage deal.

For several days trucks could not be booked except for several days ahead in the Eden country as ranchmen sent old ewes to Fort Worth to market, according to Jimmy Daniel, ranchman-warehouseman. Few if any calf contracts have been taken place around Eden, Daniel, like many other larger operators, still holds.

The cattlemen around the immediate San Angelo vicinity are known to usually hold out for the better prices in the fall and that's why they are asking 13 and 14 cents now, while buyers are offering only 12 and 13 cents. All the deals that are made with very few exceptions, are at 12 and 13 cents.

O. K. Harkey, commission dealer, says he finds a general asking price of 13-14, heifers and steers respectively.

It's at 12 and 13 cents that Sol Weatherly, of Triplett Cattle Company, Amarillo, is buying his calves to supply his firm's northern orders. Saturday Weatherly shipped 300 calves bought from W. E. Barron at Rotan at 12-13 cents, weights running from 375 to 390 pounds. The calves went to Illinois feeders.

It's still an eleven-cent lamb market on the range. They are paying that in every part of West Texas and quite a few lambs have been going out, bulk being from the lower country—Del Rio. Example of the dry weather around San Angelo is told in the lightness. Ed Hobbs sent out 500 a few days ago, averaging 52 pounds. They also brought 11 cents and went to Kansas feeders.

Ashby McMullan of Big Lake during the last week sold 200 yearling ewes at $9 a head to go to Fort Reno, Okla.

A ranch deal, just being concluded the last of the week, involves Van Horn and Rock Springs ranches. R. L. Stansberry of San Angelo and his son, A. L., residing on their 9 1/2-section Rock Springs ranch, traded this in on the 28-section ranch the Stansberys are buying from Bud Barriedel, located 16 miles west of Van Horn. The Stansberys got $1250 an acre for their Rock Springs country and the Van Horn land they are buying was figured in the deal at less than $1250, but the price was not disclosed. The younger Stansberry is to move to the Van Horn ranch. The elder Stansberry ranches 23 miles southeast of San Angelo.

Bert Merritt of Camp Wood, in Real County, last week bought back his lease (45 cent an acre) on his five-section ranch that he leased five months ago to a Mr. Gilbert of New Mexico. Bill Stroman of San Angelo, who ranches near

Bombardier School To Help Midland Meet Huge Quota In War Bond Drive

Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer of the Midland Army Air Field, Saturday pledged the supreme effort of the bombardier school to aid Midland in meeting its huge Third War Loan quota of $1,744,000 next month, as campaign leaders made plans for the biggest drive ever staged here.

Tentative plans call for a breakfast meeting of campaign workers at the Scharbauer Hotel Thursday morning, Sept. 9, the opening day of the drive.

Following that will be a big street parade in downtown Midland by the Midland Army Air Field, featuring its band and equipment.

To Visit Every Office Campaign workers will visit every office and store in the city. Pledge cards asking persons to invest at least 20 per cent of their cash assets or bank deposits in War Bonds during the month, or to buy at least an additional $100 War Bond will go to all bank depositors with bank statements.

Other outstanding features are being planned for the campaign as leaders are determined that Midland will do its part for the fighters.

At the meeting Friday were M. C. Ulmer, Ralph Barron, C. L. Klapproth, Paul McHargue, J. N. Allison, and Bill Collyns.

"We're all in it and every citizen must do his part even if it means doing without something for awhile," they asserted.

"Remember War Bonds are the safest and best investments in the world."

Rock Springs, notes a scarcity in mutton goats in the Edwards County area — wanted to buy young muttons but found the owners asking $550. Bud Ellis of San Angelo has been announced to succeed the late Ed Mertz as inspector for the Southwestern Cattle Raisers in the San Angelo area. Willie Miers of Sonora, part owner of Colplay, mare that beat C. C. McBurnett's Chant Thru in a five-eighths race in San Angelo two weeks ago, says Colplay awaits another challenger in the "country-bred" class. He says no lambs are for sale in Sutton County at 11 cents.

Fall wool will bring $1.08 clean basis, according to Rome Shield, Texas chief appraiser. The price set by the government means around 45 cents in the grease.

This is headline news in West Texas. Fall shearing is yet to begin, but an average of three committees work daily in appraising wool (spring clip) throughout Texas, Shield reported.

Rice Owls To Start Practice Wednesday

HOUSTON—(P)—Following an 11 day rest Rice Institute's Owls launch fall football workouts Wednesday in preparation for their opening game against the Randolph Field Ramblers here Sept. 25.

"We hope to be able to have a varsity team of around 40 youths," said Head Coach Jess Neely Saturday, "and then we can get a lot more done in the limited time we have to work with them."

"If we can handle a B team, that would solve the problem, still giving every youth who wants to an opportunity to fight for a berth on the squad."

Maryland Naval School To Have Top Grid Squad

BAINBRIDGE, MD.—(P)—If football "makes" and experience mean anything, some of the East's major eleven can begin quaking in their cleats right now because those are the things that the Bainbridge Naval Training School Commodore have the "most-est of."

Bainbridge Naval Training Station jumped into the football swim so fast that the nickname Commodore is just as tentative as the schedule, which Ensign Joe Maniaci, head coach and former Fordham Rams and Chicago Bears backfield star, hopes to announce later this week.

Many Top Players

Maniaci summoned about 60 candidates to a short workout this week and what he saw would bring tears of joy to the average college coach these days.

For instance, there was a guy named Bill De Correvont, whom the nation's football headline readers heard plenty about when he carried the mail for Northwestern.

As a running mate at fullback, Maniaci could insert a fellow named Harvey Johnson, William and Mary big gun and All-Southern Conference ace last year. Looking down the line further was Paul Anderson, former Purdue back who helped spark the Great Lakes Training team to the big 1942 season.

Good Assistants

Others included Clive Mosher, Pittsburg Steelers tackle last year; Len Akin, a stalwart at guard for the Chicago Bears in 1942; and Howard Hickey of Arkansas, ex-Detroit Lions end who also was with Great Lakes last fall.

Maniaci wouldn't say what system he planned to employ, but his seven years with the Chicago Bears and their famed T formation would be a good guess. As aides he has such experienced gridirers as Ensign Bill Ragazzo of the Cleveland Rams and Philadelphia Eagles and Ensign Maurice Orr, former Southern Methodist star.

To avoid the Jezebel look, stand at an open window and apply your make-up in the light of day, suggests film player Lynne Baggett.

Selected to serve as Miss Ratliff's court of honor were Nettie Gray, Sylvia Shepart, Marjorie Hall, Wynell Calloway, Alice M. Skelly, and Catherine Sheffield, all civilian employees at the school.

Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer of the bombardier school, crowned the beauty queen and led the grand march at the dance which followed in Ector County Auditorium. The Hell from Heaven Swingsters, MAAF orchestra, played for dancing.

In charge of arrangements for the party was Miss Maxine Durrett, an employee at the bombardier school.

The campaign is designed to reach all residents of the county and to impress upon them the necessity of obtaining additional leaders if scouting is to be made available to all girls of Midland.

A full program of special activities has been arranged for the week. The drive is being directed by Mrs. K. S. Ferguson, commissioner of the Midland Council.

Other members of the council, including the Rev. Hubert Hopper, Miss Ruth Perrine, Mayor A. N. Hendrickson, Mrs. R. W. Hamilton, Mrs. George Ely, Mrs. R. L. Aiken, Mrs. Joe Koenig, Miss Fannie Bess Taylor, Miss Marjorie Spencer, Mrs. L. T. Boynton, Mrs. Robert Turpin, Dr. James H. Chapple and Bill Collins, are assisting in the drive.

Open Enrollment Booths. Tables and booths for volunteers to enroll for any type Scout work will be located in one or more downtown stores. The booths will be staffed by uniformed Girl Scouts. Scout literature will be available at the booths.

A Girl Scout film, "Volunteers for Victory," is scheduled at the Yucca Theater Sunday through Wednesday.

League Of Women Voters Want No Amendment Now

In a statement issued Thursday on the 23rd anniversary of women suffrage, Marguerite M. Wells, president of the National League of Women Voters, referring to the pending equal rights amendment calling for equality of rights for men and women, declared that any further "equal rights" amendment to the Constitution is unnecessary and inappropriate, a frivolous demand upon the attention of a Congress concerned with the fate of this country and the world.

"Twenty-three years ago occurred the greatest single addition to a democratic electorate ever made — the enfranchisement of the women of the United States. On that date the "equal rights amendment" was officially proclaimed to be a part of the Constitution.

"When, then, is this Rip Van Winkle 'equal right amendment' Congress now proposes to refer to the states for ratification?"

"It can add nothing to the opportunity of equal citizenship given women in the 19th amendment to the Constitution. Its introduction in Congress makes an unnecessary and frivolous demand upon the attention of members of Congress at a time when the fate of our country and world demands all their attention. It proposes to clutter up the Constitution with an unnecessary declaration of doubtful meaning 23 years after women have won equality with the rest of the electorate."

"Any gallantry male members of Congress desire to show women has no place in the Constitution of the United States. Any recognition women wish to earn, they may now achieve through their equal rights as citizens of the United States in the amendment to the Constitution."

"Mrs. Fred Furman, president of the Midland chapter added: "The patriotism with which American women are now serving their country is belittled, not honored by a proposal to toss women a bouquet in a form of an unnecessary and inappropriate amendment to the Constitution."

L-85 Figure Is Needed For New Dress Fashions

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Beauty Editor

When you were learning your A-B-C's, the letter L probably didn't seem important to your silhouette. But today it's going to help you reduce your waistline.

WFB's new L-85 fashion ruling specifies less and less material for the body beautiful. Designers are now turning out winter fashions, which conserve more cloth than they did under the 1942 restrictions.

Reputation At Stake
American women have a reputation throughout the world for their beautiful figures. But the candid camera reveals that we are not all bathing beauties.

Some of us find we must take a size larger each year when we shop for our fall wardrobe. In spite of rationing, the only exercise some women have allowed themselves this summer is bending an elbow for that second helping.

If we are going to trim down that excess avoirdupois we'll have to work at it. Here are three exercises suggested by Ann Delfield to help you get in shape to fit into the new L-85 clothes without the aid of a shoe horn.

L-85 Exercise
Letter L—Start with both legs up in the air—then lower legs slowly to right side down to the floor, then up. Do the same exercise lowering legs to left side. Do this exercise ten times. (Good for the waistline.)

Figure 8—Lie flat on back, arms out to side, then over head, knees drawn up to chest. Drop both knees over to floor on right side. Pull up right side towards elbows as far as possible, then over to the chest. Drop both legs to the other side and do the same thing. (Good for the upper hips.)

Figure 5—Start out in standing position. Hands on hips. Blow out the air in lungs. Then lift your rib cage up towards head as high as possible. Very slowly twist your knees from one side to the other as far as possible.

Do these exercises regularly, cut down on those second helpings, and you'll have an L-85 figure before you know it.

you prefer your may have any number of assisting hostesses and members of the "house party," but neither is absolutely essential.

Encampment Of Home Demonstration And 4-H Groups Was Great Success

Highlights on the Friday program of the Midland County Home Demonstration Encampment, held in Cloverdale Park Thursday and Friday, were addressed by Judge E. H. Barron, Bill Collins, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and Miss Dosea Hale of College Station.

"Helping Youth Shoulder Adult Vocation" was the subject of the talk given by Judge Barron, and "The Importance of Community Cooperation" was discussed by Collins. "Morale Building" was the topic given by Miss Hale, specialist in child welfare work.

Miss Alpha Lynn, home demonstration agent, was in charge of the program on chair seat weaving for 4-H Club members during the afternoon program which concluded at 3:00 p. m.

Pepper-Upper in Music
Mrs. S. L. Alexander, one of the home demonstration club officers, took a leading part in the council encampment held Thursday and Friday.

She led the group singing, and injected pep into the youngsters. Mrs. Alexander has a good voice, and she has accomplished much in her leadership with the county children groups.

She gave a book review, the title of which was "The Soong Family" Friday, which was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Alexander has given much time and labor to the advancement of the Home Demonstration work in the community, and served as one of the leaders in various capacities, during both days of the encampment.

"It has been a most successful meeting, and everyone seemed very much interested," said Miss Lynn. "We were very fortunate this year in having Miss Hale with us, as we had expected to have her here last year, but she did not get here."

"The 4-H groups of girls have had much profitable instruction, and have been given some splendid ideas from which I know they will profit," Miss Lynn continued.

"We have had splendid cooperation from all the community women, and much interest has been manifested by every one, for which I wish to express my sincere appreciation."

Betsy Beckham Bundy's Advice To The Lovelorn

Q. Please help me in preparation for an afternoon tea, which I plan to give in honor of my young daughter who is leaving shortly for school. I want to have it very nice, and will appreciate your suggestions.

A. An afternoon tea is a lovely social function, by which you may entertain many friends at one time. I would suggest having the tea from 3 to 6 p. m. and extend invitations to certain groups, one group to call at the hour from 3 to 4, another from 4 to 5, and still another from 5 to 6.

Select a certain color note to be carried out, and extend this color scheme into all the rooms. Have your hour interior look as spacious as possible, and decorate every room with clusters of your favored flower—If obtainable I would suggest premier roses and candytuft. These two flowers make a beautiful and effective combination, and there is nothing more lovely. On the dining table, which should be dressed in handsome pastel toned satin damask or lovely cut-work or linen cloth, have as the central figure a huge flaring glass bowl of premier roses and candytuft. Use tall white tapers, in glass candlesticks with triplicate stems. Sterling receptable and candlesticks are just as effective. Have a handsome silver tea service at each end of the table, from which tea may be served. On the table have dainty silver or glass bon-bon dishes of crystallized orange peel. On a huge glass or silver canape tray have dainty canapes of your preference. You might make these tiny and dainty, of anchovy paste or whole anchovies, and have them cut in attractive shapes, such as triangular, round, oblong, etc. Keep them small, however. Another tray may have English brown bread sandwiches, made with butter and white cream cheese. Place on the top of each of these dark sandwiches a slice of stuffed olive.

Make up a quantity of fresh pecan nuts. Butter them liberally and place in the oven to brown. Upon taking them out, salt them generously. Have silver or glass receptacles for the nut meats. Pecans are best peanuts are not appropriate. Other nuts, such as almonds and butter nuts may be used.

On a very large canape tray have some home-baked cookies; you might have white cookies on half the tray and dark ones on the other half. The spiced cookies with raisins and nuts are nice, as are also the chocolate "rocks". Be sure to keep them dainty and serve them fresh. The white sand cookies in pulverized sugar are nice to place on the same tray with the chocolate rocks, thereby creating contrast, which is always effective.

You might obtain some tiny, dainty candies, of very small design, such as the bullet size, in pink, blue, white and yellow, and scatter these among the cookies. They are effective. With your table laden with all this, effectively placed, and your presiding hostesses at either end of the table, your tea should be a great success.

For presiding hostesses select the most beautiful women in the circle of your friends, and they should be attired in evening or dinner gowns. The interior of the home should be darkened and the lights on. The candles should be burning.

If possible, you should have string music. If you have a friend or acquaintance who is a harpist, there is no lovelier music than the harp, and the harpist should be attired as beautifully as possible, and stationed in a remote corner of the living room or the solarium, or some distance from the dining room, to make the music barely heard so as not to disturb the party "chat-ter."

You can entertain a large number of friends in this manner, and if you prefer your may have any number of assisting hostesses and members of the "house party," but neither is absolutely essential.

Wartime Rationing Causes Worries For McDonald Observatory Scientists

By Homer G. Olsen
Associated Press Staff

This is a case where a can of beans competes with all the constellations in the heavens. Proving that even when your interests lie billions of miles away, you can't escape world war. Such, at any rate, has been the experience of the staff of McDonald

Observatory, operated by the universities of Texas and Chicago high in the Davis Mountains of West Texas. Rationing Catches Up Given an 82-inch telescope so that it can look at every bit of the sky except for a small circle around the south pole, not to mention having a houseful of other intricate astronomical apparatus, you'd think the fellows out there on 6,791-foot tall Mount Locke had everything they need. But wartime rationing catches up even with those who live in the realm of pure science. "Restrictions in the use of gasoline and rubber have enhanced the difficulty of living on Mount Locke," Dr. Otto Struve, director of the observatory, recently wrote friends at the University of Texas. "Conditions have become even more critical," he said, "since rationing of canned goods went into effect. Most of the observers have been used to depending to a large extent upon canned goods for their meals."

Staff Depleted Nearest supplies are at Fort Davis, 16 miles away, where the staff also goes to get its mail. Struve, a former officer in the Imperial Russian army, spends his time between the McDonald Observatory and the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., which he also directs. Not only has the war's impact felt by most civilians been encountered also by the scientists in West Texas, but needs of the armed forces have considerably depleted the staff. Struve reports five observatory assistants now in military service, while three of the senior astronomers are in research work bearing directly on the war effort. Most Visitors Soldiers One of these latter is Dr. Daniel W. Popper whose discovery of a so-called double star dwarfing our sun in size was recently announced. Another sign of the times reported from McDonald Observatory is that nowadays most of the visitors are soldiers. The number of visitors, of course, is considerably fewer than in pre-war years. But whatever the vicissitudes of war, the Mount Locke astronomers manage to keep plugging away at their work. Only last month it was disclosed that a cosmic ray meter had been installed at the observatory, and under the direction of Dr. Elmer Dershem would be used to measure the intensity of rays in that vicinity.

Staff To Be Enlarged When they have opportunity to relax, the scientists can usually find horses at nearby dude ranches, and a certain amount of fishing. Sometime later this summer the staff will be enlarged by the addition of two observers from the Argentine. They are Dr. Carlos Ulrico Besco and Dr. Jorge Sabade, both from the National Observatory at La Plata. These are not, however, the only foreigners who have joined in research activities at the observatory in recent years. Sometime ago Dr. Polydore Swings, a distinguished Belgian scientist from the University of

Beautiful Eyes Need Good Care

By Betty Clarke
AP Beauty Editor

You can't burn the candle at both ends and have beautiful eyes—and your eyes just won't be beautiful until you've learned how to care for them. Eight hours' rest each night is the minimum requirement for the girl who wants to take a home course in eye beauty. Those fine lines that etch themselves around the eyes are a sure indication of lack of sleep or poor health. Boric Acid Helps Scaly, red or granulated lids are signs of an inadequate diet. Spinach, kale, beet greens or other dark green leafy vegetables and a yellow vegetable, such as the carrot, are rich in vitamins and should be included in the diet every day. An eye-bath of boric acid should precede the evening make-up after exposure to sun and wind. It will also help ease those tired pink lids that are the result of eye strain, a common ailment now that so many women are working at desks or on assembly lines. A good exercise for the eyes is to sit in your room, selecting a spot midway up the right wall, another on the left wall. Select a mark on the ceiling and another on the floor. Then, with a quick, sliding motion of the eyes, glance from left to right, then up and down. Be sure that your glance is on the spots you have selected. Use Mascara Right Mascara will help to enhance the beauty of any healthy eye—but be sure you use it right. To apply mascara, the brush should be swept across the upper lashes to cover each individual hair, then brushed upward to distribute evenly. Finally the lashes should be pressed upward for that natural curl. A model never applies mascara to the lower lashes. If she wants to make her eyes look larger she will draw a fine line with an eyebrow pencil out from the corner of her eye about a quarter of an inch. A clear sparkling eye is a healthy sign, as well as the first requisite of beauty.

LENGTHY FRIENDSHIP EL PASO—(AP)—Lt. and Mrs. William J. Spence were so fond of Chaplain Carl O. Dutton, Fort Bliss, that they came all the way to El Paso from Spence's Washington air base to have Chaplain Dutton christen their year-old son Joseph.

THE TOOLPUSHER

By James C. Watson

—Neville Alfrey, accountant with the Midland office of the Railroad Commission of Texas, is due to change jobs Sept. 1. He has accepted a situation with Culbertson & Irwin, Inc., local operators.

—A. A. (Jack) Bradford, one of the most versatile citizens of West Texas, was in Midland during the week. Jack operates a bank at Rule, an automobile business at Haskell and a ranch and other properties at Sweetwater.

—On top of that he is associated with the AAA Oil Corporation in developing the Boyd lease in the Cochran County sector of the Slaughter field.

—Phil Kendrick, Abilene wildcat, was circulating among members of the fraternity in Midland during the week. Phil had his first taste of the oil business in the Burk Burnett boom. He has handled a multitude of exploratory operations in the West-Central Texas district during the last decade and is working on another one now.

—A check of drilling operation in the Permian Basin made at the end of the week by one scout who was anxious to see what was going on showed there were over 435 active operations in his book.

—A local independent remarked the other day that the only things holding up a real development campaign in West Texas were money, material and manpower. This gentleman said he figured all three of these items would be made available as soon as some people in Washington who are at present hampering the oil industry in its efforts to deliver the goods for the winning of the war, were waked up—or something.

This gentleman said he figured all three of these items would be made available as soon as some people in Washington who are at present hampering the oil industry in its efforts to deliver the goods for the winning of the war, were waked up—or something.

McLaughlin Wildcat Indicates For Production Of 10 Barrels Hourly

HOBBS, N. M.—Apparently good for a production of approximately 10 barrels per hour, C. T. McLaughlin and Cosden Petroleum Corporation No. 1 State, wildcat discovery two miles northeast of the McLaughlin field in Western Lea County is in process of completion.

After drilling to a total depth of 4,228 feet in a sandy lime operators ran tubing to about 4,200 feet. Following one pull of the swab the well started flowing and put 25 barrels of oil in the tank before the separator went off.

During one hour and thirty minutes Friday afternoon, following repair of the separator a flow of 15 barrels was made and then the flow died, with considerable oil still standing in the hole.

The well was shut in late Friday to allow gas pressure to equalize between the casing and tubing. The shut in was scheduled for at least 24 hours.

Will Try To "Kick Off"
Operators expected to open the operation late Saturday and swab in an effort to make the well "kick off" again. They are hoping they can start the flow and keep it going.

Action of the wildcat indicates, the owners think, that it is good for at least 10 barrels per hour production, through a one-quarter inch choke on tubing.

Skelly Oil Company No. 1-U State, 660 feet from the north and east lines of section 5-228-356, 4,200-foot wildcat test about six miles south of the Lynch field, and in the western side of the south third of Lea County has set 15-inch casing at 96 feet in red beds with 100 sacks cement and is preparing to drill plug and start making hole. The test was spudded within the week.

Another Deep Test In Lea
El Paso Natural Gas Company No. 1 Ginsburg is a new Ordovician test for Southeast Lea County. Located 1,980 feet from the north and 560 feet from the west lines of section 7-258-38east, No. 1 Ginsburg is announced as a 10,000-foot operation.

It will be approximately one and three-quarter miles northeast of the R. Olson Oil Company and Atlantic Refining Company No. 1 Langlie, which drilled to a total depth of 9,594 feet and was stymied by granite several months ago.

The Olson and Atlantic No. 1 Langlie was 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 11-255-37east and on the east side of the Langlie field where the production is from the Permian sandy lime at an average depth of 3,530 feet. It took numerous tests of the sections from approximately 4,000 feet to the total depth and reported several interesting shows.

To Test For Tubb Pay
A thorough checking of the zones between 4,800-4,900 feet in the No. 1 Langlie will be started immediately according to announcements just released. Those tests will determine if the well can be made a producer in the Tubb section of the Permian.

Work Is To Start On New Magnolia Pecos Crude Line

Work is scheduled to start early in the week on the job of laying the new Magnolia Pipe Line Company outlet for the Apo-Warner Ordovician high-gravity crude petroleum in North Pecos County.

Between the field and the Magnolia tank farm at Imperial twelve miles of four-inch line will be put in. The gathering system which will be put in the field to connect the producing wells to the carrier will require approximately 39,000 feet of pipe.

Construction of a small pump station and tank farm is included in the field work which has been contracted by Magnolia to Permian Basin Construction Company, of Odessa.

That concern is moving in and quarter of section 12-268-37east is drilling in lime below 3,423 feet.

Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 2-J State, outpost to the Rhodes field in South Lea County is preparing to test show for production topped at 3,248 feet in the Permian sandy lime. This well is 1,857 feet from the north and 765 feet from the west line of section 27-265-37east.

Barney Cockburn No. 1 Shell-State, at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 29-178-33east, a wildcat test one mile east of the McLaughlin area is drilling below 715 feet in red beds.

T. F. Morrow, No. 1 State 660 feet from the west line and 660 feet from the north line of section 22-128-35east, 5,500-foot wildcat test in far Northeast Lea County is building derrick.

B. H. Tolon No. 1 Seth Alston, 660 feet from the south and west lines of section 17-138-35east, and about twelve miles southwest of Tatum in Northeastern Lea County is a new wildcat operation for which spudder is being moved in.

DeKalb Agricultural Association, Inc. No. 1 J. P. White, at the center of the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 35-

Completion in 30 Days
Completion of the project is expected within 30 days. When the new system is available the Ordovician crude from the Warner-Apo area can be moved without it having to be mixed with the lower gravity oil produced from the shallower zones in the Pecos County territory.

Application has been made by the Magnolia Pipe Line Company to the Petroleum Administration for War and War Production Board to lay two 8-inch loops along its 8-inch welded line from its Midland station to the Slaughter pool in Cochran, Hockley and
