Two Graduations Are Scheduled At MAAF This Week

Classes of Cadets And Bombardiers End Training Here

Two graduations at the headquarters of the nation's bombardier training program here this weekend will mark another of the three-week milestones of Midland Army Air Field's contribution to victory.

Bombardier instructors, many of them recently returned from active duty in combat theaters, will be graduated Friday at 3 p. m. Described as "the most thoroughly trained bombardiers in the world," these men have behind them an intensive, six-week course in advanced bombing techniques and specialized teaching methods, and to their already wide bombing experience they have added the latest skills and methods brought back from the fighting fronts. From Midland Army Air Field they will go to bombardier schools throughout the nation, where their knowledge, skill and experience will be used in the instruction of future classes of "Hell from Heaven Men."

Cadets Graduate Saturday

The twenty-eighth class of bombardier cadets will be awarded their silver wings and commissions as second lieutenants or appointments as flight officers Saturday at 9 a. m. at ceremonies in the post theater.

"These cadets," officials at the nation's number one bombardier school here declared, "have been trained as fully as it is humanly possible in twelve weeks." They have learned the art of blasting the Axis from A to Z, and in addition to developing the skill of experts in sending their bombs hurtling to pulverize destinations, they have studied such related subjects as meteorology, navigation, target identification, aerial gunnery, camouflage detection, blinker code and the use of evasive action. From Midland Army Air Field the majority of them will be assigned to operational bomber units, where they will join pilots, navigators and gunners for teamwork drill that will weld them into the deadly Army Air Forces aerial combat teams. Some, picked for specialized abilities, will be assigned to bombardier schools as instructors for future classes of cadet Axis busters.

Commissions will be awarded the graduates by Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer at MAAF, and wings will be presented by Lt. Col. Howard Watkins, director of training for AAFBS.

Jap Navy Challenged To Come Out And Fight As Soldiers Rush To Assistance Of Marines

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS—(AP)—Powerful reinforcements of regular U. S. Army troops, landed without loss from warship-guarded transports, fought Thursday alongside the spearhead of Marines on Bougainville against badly decimated Japanese.

The tide of jungle battle—a welter of tanks, mortars and camouflaged men contending in the roughest type of terrain—swung definitely toward the invaders of that last big Solomon island, following the Nipponese fortress of Rabaul.

"Our Bougainville operations were successful beyond our fondest expectations," said Rear Adm. Robert B. Carney after watching the soldiers swarm ashore and after seeing an enemy raiding air force lose 26 out of 60 divebombers and fighters without sinking one of the ships in the convoy.

No Ships Lost

Bombs damaged one transport but Admiral Carney said that "No boat was laid up and all the ships got back to base."

(This naval operation, in waters only 260 miles southeast of Jap warships at Rabaul, afforded a striking contrast to Tokyo broadcasts that 96 Allied vessels have been sunk recently, that it was Nippon's biggest triumph "since Pearl Harbor" and that Admiral Mineichi Koga had been congratulated for his "overwhelming sea and air victories.")

(In New York Wednesday night, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said "Our fleet in the Pacific is so powerful that the Jap hasn't got the courage to come out in the open.")

The Army reinforcements landed Monday at Empress Augusta Bay. At that time, Japanese troops which went ashore the day before from 21 barges north of that beach, had to join with forces on the south in a pincer operation, had begun to infiltrate American lines.

OPA Official Says Excessive Rents Must Be Reduced

An OPA executive told Midland citizens late Wednesday that rent profiteering here must stop promptly or the OPA will open a rent control office and police rentals in Midland County.

D. K. Bondurant of Lubbock, district rent director, met with a special housing committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and made the announcement.

He estimated 10 to 20 per cent of the rentals in Midland are excessive and said he had requested a survey of rents in the community. This will be made by the Board of Labor Statistics.

He has received a number of complaints within the last three months from both civilian and military personnel tenants in Midland County and said that if rents are not reduced to the March 1, 1942 levels by persons who have ignored regulations, the OPA will be forced to open a bureau here and enforce rent control.

Hope To Avoid OPA Control

Col. John P. Kenny, commanding officer of the Midland Army Air Field, and Major R. B. Brown, special service officer at the field, met with Bondurant and the committee which is headed by M. C. Ulmer. Other members are Mayor A. N. Hendrickson, Percy Mims, Judge E. H. Barron, James N. Allison and Bill Collins.

All expressed the hope that landlords who have hiked rents excessively will be persuaded to get into line and avoid federal policing and possibly prosecution of violators in federal court.

Bondurant pointed out that in case of excessive rents if federal control is ordered, tenants may sue landlords for triple damages and much litigation may result.

He said that only capital improvements to property, such as the addition to a room, could be advanced as reasons for increasing rents, and that maintenance repairs, such as painting and papering, were not sufficient to justify rental increases.

If rent control is ordered for Midland, he said, all rents will revert to the levels of March 1, 1942.

Members of the committee discussed plans for a campaign to attempt to persuade property owners to reduce excessive rents promptly so the community can avoid OPA policing.

Nazis Reported Destroying Two Italian Ports

Eight Army Takes Rionero In Drive Through Snowstorm

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS—(AP)—Skilled American mountain fighters of the Fifth Army stormed up the heights and drove the enemy from two mountains, including Mount Rotondo northwest of Mignano where the main inland road to Rome passes through the heavily fortified line that Nazi soldiers have been ordered to hold until New Year's, Allied headquarters announced Thursday.

The Americans smashed forward against German counterthrusts to the peak of Mount Rotondo overlooking the broad valley leading to Cassino, eight miles north of Mignano.

Nazis Wrecking Ports

Meanwhile, an air force statement disclosed that the Germans already were blasting and wrecking ships and port facilities at both the west and east coast ports of Leghorn and Pescara, either in preparation for evacuation of those places or in fear of their seizure by Allied amphibious forces.

Simultaneously, the Eighth Army of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, fighting through snowstorms in the Apennines, advanced five miles and captured Rionero, 40 miles northeast of Isernia and five miles south of Castel Di Sangro on an important trans-peninsular highway.

The Germans had burned and destroyed Rionero.

Meeting only light resistance, the Eighth Army also swept up to the south bank of the Sangro River which empties into the Adriatic and captured most of the territory on the south side of that stream along which the Germans had formed the eastern end of their "winter defense line."

Cassalunga, 15 miles inland from the Adriatic, and Roccascura were taken in the advance.

The Brenner Pass railroad bottleneck between Germany and Italy had been sealed for the time being as the result of a powerful blow by 15th Air Force Flying Fortresses which flew to the Alps Wednesday and smashed railway yards, buildings, locomotive sheds and bridges in and near Bolzano.

Bearing Works Again Hit

This line to Innsbruck was broken at Bolzano once before by heavy bombers from this area, but the Germans had got the service going again. This time it was believed the damage was more serious.

A coordinated strike by the RAF's four-engine raiders from Britain was made Wednesday night against Modane, the French end of the Mt. Cenis Alpine tunnel. Thus, two of the four main routes into Italy.

Allies Plaster Nazi Routes To Southern Italy

LONDON—(AP)—Powerful Allied air forces in Britain and the Mediterranean theater struck with their combined weights at Germany's vulnerable rail routes funneling into Northern Italy through both the Brenner Pass from Austria and the Mt. Cenis tunnel from France.

The RAF's heavy formations of four-engine raiders struck Wednesday night struck a concentrated blow at Modane, France, at the northern end of the Mt. Cenis Alpine tunnel, one of the world's longest. Good weather favored the operation.

American Flying Fortresses from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's command rained explosives Wednesday on the freight yards, locomotive sheds and numerous other installations on the route through Brenner Pass.

All Planes Return

The RAF's planes returned safely from Modane at the end of the seven and a half mile long tunnel. This was the second attack in eight weeks on Modane by Britain-based air forces.

It also was the second recent attack on Bolzano.

The attack on Modane, located on the French side of the Italian frontier, was described officially as "well concentrated" and was favored by clear weather.

The raid nipped German attempts to repair and reopen the tunnel after the damage it suffered as a result of a raid on Sept. 16, and topped a fortnight of Allied air attacks from the south along the Germans' Alpine coastal artery into Italy.

Armistice Day—Then And Now

This Armistice Day finds some 10,000,000 Americans under arms, on duty in virtually every continent and sea around the world. In contrast, on Armistice Day 1918, 4,000,000 had been mobilized and half were in Europe. The intoxicating news of peace that came on Nov. 11, 1918, stilled the guns of a conflict that brought death to 8,538,000 men and wounded 21,219,000. Casualties for this new world conflict may not be known exactly until after the new Armistice Day, but some estimates place the total already at 25,000,000.

Formal Celebrations Of Armistice Day Abandoned For Greater Tasks

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Formal celebrations of Armistice Day were abandoned for grimmer tasks at home and abroad Thursday as the anniversary of the end of the world war was dimmed by the urgent need of getting on with the job of winning a far greater struggle.

For American fighting men it was a day of steady slugging at the enemy. For Americans at home it was, by government request, a day of uninterrupted industrial production.

King George VI of Britain sounded the keynote for the United Nations when he declared it was extra effort that counted.

Apparently fearful the down-trodden peoples of occupied Europe would seize the day for new outbreaks of sabotage, the Germans were reported to have tightened policing of all subjugated areas.

French Urged To Strike

The Algiers radio urged workers in France to strike from the historic hour of 11 a. m. until noon in the factories where they are forced to turn out war goods for their conquerors.

In Washington, President Roosevelt arranged to place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier in traditional ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, but government offices, in contrast to the days of peace, ordered a full working day.

The capital also paid tribute to the memory of the president during the first world war years—Woodrow Wilson—in services arranged at the Washington Cathedral.

Soldiers Forego Observances

In London, the few public ceremonies were brief without pageantry or oratory, and newspapers, subscribing to this as a practical measure, emphasized the urgency of smashing the enemy in the next year.

Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers ordered all United States forces under his command in Britain to forego all observance and work all the harder to bring an end to this war.

That was the word, too, for American armed forces in all other theaters.

McCandless Sets Pipe To Test Oil Show In "1-101"

By JAMES C. WATSON
Oil Editor

Bryce McCandless No. 1-101 Atlantic (Cordova-Union) Ellenburger exploration in Pecos County nine miles east of the Apo-Warner pool, is reported to have run 1 1/2-inch casing to the bottom at 4,085 feet where it is to be cemented and then a test of the section which showed some oil on a drillstem test early in the week will be attempted.

Top of the Ellenburger was encountered around 4,005 feet. The drillstem test was from 4,030-85 feet and considerable oil was reported in the 2,100 feet of fluid recovered during a one-hour period.

An analysis failed to prove that the water which was in evidence was sulphur and it is reported that the operator thinks it might have been drilling water.

Homann Still Drilling

Honolulu Oil Corporation No. 1 Homann, Gaines County development, was reported Thursday morning drilling ahead below 5,414 feet and recovering about one and one-half barrels of fluid per hour which was from ten to twenty per cent oil.

Woodley No. 1 Harless, East Hockley County discovery, had pulled the tubing after swabbing oil at the rate of around three barrels per hour for a considerable period. The tubing had developed a "kink" which had to be eliminated. The operator plans to re-run it and swab some more before re-treating with either 6,000 or 8,000 gallons of acid.

New Youkum Wildcat

E. N. Cain and L. L. Horne have filed a notice of intention to start drilling No. 1 E. A. Graham, as a 5,500-foot wildcat in East Youkum County immediately.

Germans Admit Russians Making New Gains With Superior Forces; Battlefields Covered With Snow

Victorious Red Armies Continuing Drives Toward Poland And Rumania, Force Germans To Abandon Huge Stores Of War Materials

LONDON—(AP)—Russian forces slogging through the wet snows of the Western Ukraine toward Poland and Rumania were "pushing forward with far superior forces," the German communique said Thursday.

Berlin broadcasts pictured the whole Russian front from the invested Crimea to the frozen fields around Nevel ablaze with heavy Soviet offensives.

A whole tank park was reported near the White Russian rail center of Gomel where Berlin said the Russians attacked "with numerous rifle divisions, masses of tanks and planes" in an attempt to break a narrow sector of the front along the Sozh River, tributary of the Dnieper. The Germans said they destroyed 217 tanks.

Reds Near Zhitomir

The fresh Russian gains presumably carried the Ukrainian armies closer than 40 miles from the rail center of Zhitomir, as reported at midnight by Moscow. At that time, the Russians were 42 miles directed by west of Kiev and lunging swiftly forward on a 70-mile front.

The German communique acknowledged the Russians had made "a local dent" in a fresh attack northeast of the Crimean port of Kerch and told of attacks around Perekop on the narrow land bridge tying the Crimea to the mainland.

Violent Russian attacks in force also were reported by Berlin north of the Dnieper Bend iron center of Krivori Rog, northwest of Chervigov above Kiev, and northwest of Simonsk. By German account, the Russians firmly held the initiative in all these engagements but the Nazis insisted they had repelled all the thrusts. The Germans said they were counterattacking successfully southwest of Kiev.

Nazis Leave Stoves

Plagued by rain, snow and fog of the approaching Russian winter, and reeling under the blows of the Russian forces, the Nazis were abandoning huge stores of food and war material in their flight, a Soviet communique declared. The bulletin said that the Russians, fanning out on a 70-mile arc from Kiev, had overrun more than 60 towns—two of them district centers—and captured Komarivka, 40 miles northeast of Zhitomir and 48 miles southeast of Korosten, another rail center indispensable to German north-south communications.

The Red Army thus was more than 45 miles due west of Kiev, in its possession since last Saturday.

Behind the Red Army camps were beyond Vasilev, captured Wednesday, and were less than 20 miles northeast of the rail city of Byelaya Tserkov, Moscow declared. These units formed part of a pincer drive apparently aimed at entrapment of German remnants in the bend of the Dnieper River.

Meanwhile, Moscow advised said, Gen. Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Fourth Ukrainian Army was massing at the top of the Crimea for an all-out assault on the peninsula over the Perekop land bridge and the Sivash Sea causeway.

The Soviet communique also said that Russian marines supported by fighter planes had smashed German tank attacks against Red Army beachheads on the Kerch Peninsula on the eastern tip of the Crimea. Thousands of Nazi soldiers died in unsuccessful counterattacks. Moscow said, and Red Army planes sank two of a fleet of small German torpedo boats attempting to halt Russian landings.

British Declare Lend-Lease Aid Works Two Ways

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The British announced Thursday that they have furnished more than one billion dollars worth of reverse lend-lease assistance to the United States and said the scope of their aid is now being broadened to include raw materials and bulk food stuffs from both the United Kingdom and the colonies.

Their greatest assistance, for which specific figures were given only to last June 30, has been in supplying base facilities, barracks, hospitals and the like for American air and land forces based in the British Isles.

Up to that time the total of mutual aid, as British lend-lease activities are called, amounted to $871,000,000 to the United States and $716,000,000 to Russia.

These figures were contained in a British "white paper" released here and in London at the time of its presentation to parliament. This is the first detailed report of Britain's assistance to other United Nations.

Figures Incomplete

It was accompanied by an official British Information Service summary which stated that at present Britain's cash expenditures under mutual aid, which have separate assistance agreements with the United States, and more than a billion and a half dollars to Russia and other allies.

The British lend-lease does not include reverse lend-lease supplied by Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, which have separate assistance agreements with the United States.

The report was further qualified with the assertion that the figures are not complete and that many of the foods and services furnished to American armed forces in various parts of the world cannot be measured in money terms, either because strict accounts have not been kept or because no accurate value can be placed upon them.

French Proclaim Martial Law In Lebanon Republic

LONDON—(AP)—Reuters reported Thursday that a state of martial law had been proclaimed in the republic of Lebanon on order of the French Committee for National Liberation and that the president, prime minister and several other cabinet members had been placed under arrest.

The development apparently was the aftermath of a dispute between the Lebanese government and the French committee over the republic's status as a free and independent state.

The dispute developed when the newly elected Lebanese chamber of deputies, meeting several days ago at Beirut, gave notice of its intention to adopt several constitutional changes. The French national committee in Algiers informed the chamber it could not permit any changes unless it had been consulted about them.

The chamber's stand was based on the fact that on Nov. 26, 1941, the independence of Lebanon was proclaimed by Gen. Georges Catroux, their commander of Free French forces in the Middle East, after his men had joined the British in over-powering the Vichy garrisons.

Lebanon had been under French mandate since 1920.

The Reuters report said French troops had been ordered to occupy all strategic cities in Lebanon. Arrest of the Lebanese officials, the news agency said, was accompanied by considerable excitement in the streets of Beirut.

Japs Make Wild Reports Of Big Solomons Battle

By The Associated Press

The Berlin radio, broadcasting a Tokyo dispatch, said Thursday that a "third great aerial battle took place off Bougainville" in the Solomons.

"An embittered battle is being waged between units of the Japanese imperial navy and powerful army formations of the enemy," said the broadcast.

It asserted that "the number of American sailors who lost their lives off Bougainville has been estimated at 10,000 men at least."

Soldier Rushes To Side Of Aged And Dying Pet

ALBANY, N. Y.—(AP)—Four months of grieving ended Thursday for Pal, 17-year-old airbase-shepherd, when the dog was reunited with his weeping soldier master.

Special Tech. Franklin E. Higgins went immediately to his pet upon arriving in Albany after a 1,300-mile train trip from Camp Crowder, Mo.

The soldier, granted a special furlough on the request of the Red Cross when Pal suffered a stroke Saturday, burst into tears as he picked up and clung to the dying animal. Pal, recognizing him, licked the master's face.

The shaggy black and tan animal which has been dying of grief since the induction of its 22-year-old constant companion, took nourishment and managed a few feeble steps Wednesday for the first time since Saturday—almost as if realizing its master was rushing to its side.

Mrs. Frank A. Higgins, the soldier's mother, said there is no hope for Pal, but added the reunion will gladden the dog's last hours.

Twenty-Five Years

Today we know that the war which ended 25 years ago is still going on. We can see more clearly than ever, in the perspective that a quarter century lends, that the armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, was just that. We can fit together the various eruptions—boundary disputes, revolution, aggression, civil war—that disturbed the uneasy surface of that armistice until, four years ago, the war broke out again with renewed ferocity.

Seen in this perspective, all the tears, the profound relief, the hysterical joy, the prayerful Thanksgiving of Nov. 11, 1918, may seem a little pathetic. But they were sincere and admirable then. We went to war in 1917 on a wave of idealism. We fought for slogans and believed in them: a war to end war and a world safe for democracy. The idealism was more than public emotion. It was the policy of our government. Idealism moved a president to try to persuade us into the League of Nations. We did not follow, and the League went on without us—accomplishing many things, failing utterly in the crises.

But we tried to do our best for world peace. We were generous and solicitous. We were kind to our enemies. We were patient with our recent Allies when they called us Uncle Snylock. We called disarmament conferences, and proposed plans outside the League for enduring peace.

This country and its former Allies condemned war as an international policy. The world had learned its lesson in 1914-18; it knew that war was brutal and unthinkable. France sat behind her mountains and her Maginot line and England sat behind her Channel, loathing war so much that they would not look while Germany and Italy prepared for it at home, and rehearsed it in Ethiopia and Spain. We sat between our oceans, thinking that if we hated war hard enough, it would not come.

The next Armistice Day will not find us in a 1918 mood. Perhaps we shall be even more truly thankful, but we shall certainly be less emotional. The American mind today is cynical, compared with that of 25 years ago. And that is all to the good. Next Armistice Day, we shall know that the present conflict was only a dreadful, bloody, devastating preliminary to another attempt to build a structure for enduring peace.

We are beginning now, with greater realism and greater wisdom, to draw plans for that structure. This time we know that peace cannot be placed within a shrine, but must be guarded by a stout fortress. It must be built to withstand the problems and differences that will strain the present alliance of fighting nations. We know, all of us, that the end of the shooting and bombing will not mean the return of tranquility. Already old quarrels and new disputes are breaking above the surface of the general sea of troubles. And they will not grow less intense when the fighting stops.

Today we possess the knowledge, painfully acquired, of 25 years' short-sightedness and mistakes. It is a bitter knowledge. But because we have it, it may be that 25 years after the next Armistice Day we shall have done a better job.

U. S. Lists Foreign Property

A report that four suits of wool underwear had been left in Europe some time ago, but were still among the cherished possessions of one U. S. resident, was received by the Treasury Department the other day on one of the returns for its "Census of Property in Foreign Countries." While this report may be indicative of the changed sense of values that war brings on the world, the Treasury experts conducting the survey admit that this report carried things a bit far, and that they're not interested in all this detail. If, however, you own real property worth $10,000 or more, or foreign bonds worth nothing at all, Uncle Sam would like to have you report it to him.

What the Treasury people are interested in is reaching an estimated 400,000 or more individuals and corporations in the United States who own property in foreign countries—factories, farms, homes, money, foreign government bonds, foreign corporation stocks and bonds, notes, accounts and bills receivable, merchandise, jewelry and objects of art, foreign life insurance—any and everything of value.

The Treasury has until Dec. 1 to complete this job. It began in June, but to date it has received only some 54,000 returns listing less than $2 billion worth of property. Best estimates are that there are some $10 billion worth of this foreign property still unaccounted for.

Giving Doughboys Their Due

The infantry soldier has been pretty much the forgotten man of this war. The flyer has captured the public imagination. Most of the young volunteers wish to pilot a fighter or ride a bomber. All of which is not to deride the flyers' heroism, or the magnificent job they are doing. But the infantryman is in there pitching, too. He's the man who eats dust and slogs through mud and rain, mile after mile till he's ready to drop. And he is the man who will one day fight his way through to the streets of Berlin and Tokyo.

So it is good to know that Secretary of War Stimson has authorized two distinctive recognitions, the Expert Infantryman and Combat Infantryman badges, to honor "the case-hardened foot fighter capable of carrying combat into the enemy's teeth." His job isn't glamorous, but he is still a mighty important figure in any man's army.

A California man who fell three stories will recover—and wait for the elevator next time.

Celebrating Armistice Day Twenty-Five Years After

Eden Says Talks Exceeded Hopes

LONDON —(AP)— Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, making a report on the Moscow conference to the House of Commons, declared Thursday the meeting had "exceeded my hopes" and had "brought a new warmth and new confidence into all our dealings with our Soviet and American friends."

The dapper foreign secretary, wearing a red Armistice Day poppy in his button hole, received loud applause from the Commons and then proceeded with a description of the results achieved at the tripartite parley.

"The actual achievements of the conference seem to me to be solid enough," he appraised, "but it was the friendly atmosphere of mutual interest and mutual confidence in which all these conferences took place which, to me, will always make the Moscow conference memorable."

He said a large measure of credit for the success of the meetings must go to Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov for his handling of the long and complicated agenda and added that Secretary of State Cordell Hull must have felt the results justified "his very

Circus Forced To Trim Its Moustache Cups

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. —(AP)— The circus came to town but the big top was short of mementoes that reflected a colorful era of America. A reduction from 90 to 76 freight cars in line with Office of Defense Transportation requirements forced Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey circus to strip itself of unnecessary equipment.

The strippers came across a crate that had been with the circus across the continent since the 1890's. Inside were scads of moustache cups—used by flying trapeze artists, lion tamers and tent bosses and the Ringling brothers themselves in the Gay Nineties.

These cups became a circus tradition when big Al Ringling acquire done to keep his flowing moustache from his brew.

Of measures which were taken to shorten the war, Eden declared, "The results of our discussions under this head, can only be made public as they develop at the expense of the common enemy. I have confidence that the development will be found generally satisfactory by the members of all parts of the house."

Chaplain Says German Prisoners Still Nazis

DALLAS —(AP)— The Dallas News quotes First Lieutenant Maurice M. Hall, chaplain of a prisoners of war camp at Huntsville, Texas, as saying that "60 per cent of the prisoners are confirmed Nazis," and "you might as well preach Christianity to a wall as these Hitlerites."

Hall, a veteran of world war 1, is attending the Texas Baptist General Convention here. His statements were made in an interview.

ELECTION WINDS

Ohio's Governor Enters GOP Race

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The 1944 presidential race had its first public entry Thursday—the name of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for the Republican nomination—and political observers looked for the recent elections to encourage others so to declare themselves.

Bricker's announcement in Chicago Wednesday that he would enter Ohio's presidential primary May 9 was the first such declaration to come from a dozen possible candidates mentioned in both parties and the first from among the three most prominently discussed Republican possibilities. The other two Republicans are Wendell L. Willkie and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Bricker's friends here declared he was "really out" for the presidential banner and not merely the first "favorite son" in a stop-Willkie movement.

Willkie, who has been pictured as confident of winning another nomination in 1944, would not comment on the Bricker move, but his supporters here did not appear to be worried. They said he even had strength in Bricker's own balliwick. Dewey men contended that the New York governor is still the leading man for the nomination.

Others who have been discussed for the Republican nomination are former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, now a lieutenant commander in the Navy, whose name will be entered in the Nebraska and possibly other western state primaries; Gen. Douglas MacArthur,

Chaplin's Butler To Testify In Hearing

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— A gentleman's gentleman, Edward Chaney, has been subpoenaed to appear at a closed deposition hearing Friday and tell what he knows, if anything, about the Joan Berry-Charles Chaplin paternity case.

Attorney John J. Irwin, representing Miss Berry, said Chaney, Chaplin's butler, is ill and may not be able to appear as a witness if the case is tried.

Chaplin has denied that he is the child's father. He agreed to pay Miss Berry $2,500 cash and $100 weekly for the baby's support pending the taking of blood tests.

Parenthood Unit Officials To Be Here Saturday

Accompanied by Mrs. McKinnon, of New York City, a member of the National League for Planned Parenthood, Mrs. Heywood Nelms, Houston, president of the Texas league, will arrive in Midland Saturday from San Angelo, where she has been a guest of the directors of the San Angelo Mother's Health Center and associated clinic of the state organization there.

Mrs. Nelms and Mrs. McKinnon are coming to Midland to help promote future plans for the Mother's Health Center, Incorporated, of Midland County. They are scheduled to speak Saturday morning at 10:30 at the home of Mrs. John P. Butler, 1609 Holloway, and it is hoped that a large group will set aside this hour to acquaint themselves with the program of this vitally important sociological agency. The meeting at Mrs. Butler's is open and anyone who desires may attend. At this meeting Mrs. Nelms expects to clarify the aims of the league and explain in detail its purposes. It is of especial significance at this time that women of the country familiarize themselves with the promotion of better conditions for the children and the league, set up for this purpose, is one of the most important agencies now functioning toward this end, it was announced. Based on the Margaret Sanger school of planning parenthood, the league is rapidly spreading its work throughout the United States and the work it has accomplished will be fully explained at the meeting Saturday.

Midland High School Junior Class Will Present Play Friday

"Ever Since Eve," Midland High School's Junior class play, will be presented in the high school auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday. The play was one of the most successful ones produced in the nation last year.

It is the mirthful story of Susan Blake, a "career girl," and the troubles which beset two loyal musketeers, Johnny Clover and Spud Erwin, editor and business manager of the Preston High School Penguin, when Susan high-pressures herself into the position of assistant editor.

Before the curtain falls on the second act, Susan—always with the best intentions—has almost bankrupted the Penguin, shaken the friendship of the musketeers, and given them the measles. And when her innocent enthusiasm involves all three in an illegal pinball game which almost lands them in jail, Johnny's mother, as mother's will, helps them out and saves their skins as well as those of the young high school principal and the pretty journalism teacher.

"Ever Since Eve," is a light-hearted play, buoyant with the bubbling effervescence of youth. Characters include the pretty and flirtatious "sample package" of Southern charm, the conceited captain of the football team, the loquacious sister, and others drawn straight from the student body of any high school in America.

The Doctor's Daughters

By FAITH BALDWIN

COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant, he joins the Hall household. Nancy Hall, spoiled and bored, is flattered by his attentions but cannot forget Drew Warner. Mrs. Hall would like Nancy to encourage wealthy Frank Edgerton, Edgerton, however, seems more interested in the other daughter, Emily, a visiting nurse intent on her job. He takes her to lunch.

CHAPTER X

THE Lobster Pot was a ramshackle shack at the end of a long wharf. Inside it was clean and polished and simple. Rough wooden tables, paper napkins, clam shells for ash trays and superb sea food.

Frank was talking about New York, where he'd spent some time before coming home. The plays he'd seen, the people he'd met. Emily stirred her coffee and listened idly. It was all very far removed from her world.

He asked, once, "You really like your work?" "Very much."

"You must, or you wouldn't do it," he insisted. "Hard to think of you—going into the kind of houses you—"

"It's not all dirt," she said, "you don't understand the work, do you? We go into a great many very nice homes, Frank . . . in which the people can't afford to pay for trained or practical nurses, or if they have afforded them for a time we take over where they leave off, after they've gone and there's no longer need for twenty-four or even twelve-hour duty. These people pay us, you know, which enables us to take care of the people who can't pay."

"Oh, sure, I understand. But you don't have any good times, do you? I don't have any fun, do I?"

"I don't believe it," she said. "Well, nothing serious," she said.

"I don't believe it," she said. "Well, nothing serious," she said. "I don't believe it," she said. "Well, nothing serious," she said.

She said, laughing, "I have plenty. Are you afraid of catching something? Because I did a very good scrub up before we sat down at the table."

"DON'T be silly," he said shortly. "Ha, well, perhaps I am afraid of catching—"

"What—?" "Cold," he said, grinning. "Ice cold. Or—aren't you . . .?"

"This," said Emily, severely, "is a pretty idiotic conversation."

"It's important," he assured her, "you're just afraid of it, you don't know where it's leading or, if you do, you're scared. Nancy would know all the answers. You're out of practice. Tell me, what are your chances?"

She opened her mouth and Frank said quickly, "Close it. Don't repeat 'chances' after me—a darling parrot. You know what I mean. Any rivals, or, how are you off for boy friends?"

The dark amber eyes were amused. She said gravely, "Let me see. There's Mike."

"Mike who?" "Smilkin. He's 3 and a darling. 'Come out of the kindergarten.' She capitulated, shook her head. "Nary a one, Grandpa," she said solemnly.

He said, "You're kidding." "No. Perhaps," she added, "I haven't had time."

He said, incredulous. "You've lived here all your life, you've been to college and had your hospital training and you can sit there and tell me . . ."

"Well, nothing serious," she said. "I don't believe it," she said. "Emily thought . . . the Harvard boy who had been her roommate's brother—that was a time, six months of feverish excitement, expectancy, letters, telegrams, telephone calls. . . The assistant professor of English in her senior year. He had wanted to marry her. She hadn't been in love with him. The intern—she wondered fleetly if Jim ever heard from him, they had been good friends at the hospital. She had thought herself in love with him for about two months. That hadn't lasted either. She shook her head, again. No, nothing serious.

Except Jim. But that was absurd, she knew Jim, she liked him, she had been glad to see him again. There'd been nothing between them at the hospital, nothing at all. The few times they'd gone out together, they'd talked hospital all the time, between dances. They liked and respected one another. And she'd been glad when he came to Cranberry, when he suddenly turned up again, and became closely associated with her life. Why not, it was much more fun seeing Jim every day than if he'd been some utter stranger. Besides, Jim—and Nancy . . .

SHE looked at her watch. "Sorry, time I moved along," she said.

Frank beckoned the waiter, paid the check, overtopped. He said, "Tomorrow night, then. And where can I take you now?"

"I'll have to get my calls first." She gathered her things together, said, rising, "Don't wait, Frank, please, and thanks, it's been fun," and went toward the telephone booth.

The rest of the afternoon was routine, a sunburn case, two mild cases of flu, a convalescent. She called the office in the middle of the afternoon and Miss Ansing reported that Doctor Thompson wished a nurse to go to 18 Cedar Court, at once, if possible.

Emily said cheerfully, "I'm through, I finished early, there's lots of time." She repeated the name and address and left the drug store telephone booth. Waiting for the trolley she thought, "Doctor Thompson . . . why that's Jim!"

Nazis More Powerful Than Ever

U. S. ARMY CHIEF WARNS AGAINST OVER-OPTIMISM OF AMERICAN PEOPLE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Germany's war strength is greater today than in 1938 and Japan still has a mighty warship poised over Asia, a ranking U. S. Army official was quoted as saying Thursday.

The statement was made by Rep. Outland (D-Calif.) who said he was quoting Maj. Gen. George V. Strong, chief of the Army's military intelligence division, with the general's permission.

Outland, avowedly anxious to prick any bubbles of U. S. optimism over the war task ahead, declared that strong told a secret congressional session several weeks ago that:

GERMANY
1—The German army has approximately three times as many combat divisions in the field today as it had when the attack on Poland began four years ago.

2—The Germans now have 300 well-trained divisions. This year alone they reformed or re-equipped or raised more than 60 new divisions, each of which has approximately 600 machine guns and 300 heavy weapons.

3—The Reich raised and equipped armored, motorized and infantry divisions to replace each of the 20 lost at Stalingrad last winter.

4—The Luftwaffe is larger now than it was in 1939.

5—The number of workers employed in war industries in Nazi-occupied territory has risen from 23,000,000 at the outset of the war to 35,000,000 now. The weapons they are making are in some cases better than any which the United Nations yet have.

6—There is nothing in the German economy that justifies confidence in the immediate downfall of the Nazi structure. For example, German food rations today are higher in caloric content than they were at the outbreak of hostilities.

JAPAN
1—The Japanese still have some 2,000,000 men of military age who have not yet been called to the colors, and they have nearly as many in the 17-20 year age group who are not now subject to the draft.

2—In the air, Japanese strength

Fireman, Save My Leg!

NEW YORK — (AP) — Firemen fought their way through clouds of smoke to rescue one-legged Vladisav Michalowski, 58, trapped in a blazing tenement.

Michalowski refused to budge without his wooden leg.

Fireman Clyde Chadwick groped his way around until he found it. Then, tucking the wooden leg under his arm, he slung Michalowski over his shoulder and descended a ladder to the street.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. —(AP)—Because his last 12 occupants in the past two years have married, a "charmed" room in Smith College dormitory, now the sleeping quarters of WAVES, has a "waiting list a mile long," says the college paper, "Scan." HICKORY, N. C. —(AP)—Deputy Sheriff Charlie Fox said that for the first time in his life "I found a bunk I couldn't bring in." It was an 800-pound Guernsey cow which had eaten a quantity of mash at a liquor distillery and passed out on the spot. Two other cows, drunk but conscious, were conscious, were put in a nearby barn, Fox said.

Simple Picnic In 1932 Started Big Doubles Program

By BETTY PROSSER
CHICAGO—(AP)—When Edward Klink of Silver Lake, Ind., held a picnic in 1932 he really started something.

Klink, a twin, thought it would be nice to meet some other twins. He and his sister advertised and five pairs of twins showed up for the picnic. The next year 40 to 50 pairs attended, and the annual party snowballed each year.

Today the International Twins Association, of which Chester and Warren Doonan, Chicago, are presidents, has a membership of more than 2,000 twins, ranging in age from less than a year to 87.

They hold annual conventions (cancelled this year because of the war) offer prizes for the most identical, youngest, oldest, homeliest, tallest, least identical, etc., pairs, and whoop it up in general.

The Doonan brothers, 37, have been members of the group since 1938. Warren, now with the Navy signal corps, was for a while a police patrolman like Chester, and the two delighted in baffling motorists and police officials alike.

Born in Chicago, the brothers, now married, live within a mile of each other. Chester still residing in the home where the twins were born. There are no twins in their families or their wives' families, and Chester has two children—born three years apart.

Twice As Much Fun
 Twins have "twice as much fun as other people," the brothers agree. "You always have a companion who is closer than other brothers and sisters can be."

The girl whom Warren married went out with Chester first. Chester met his wife-to-be through Warren. The two men joined the police department the same year, Chester having worked at different jobs together since high school days.

Warren's hobby is collecting pictures and articles about twins of any kind—twin chickens, dogs, vegetables.

Twins occur about once in 69 births, the brothers say. They discount the theory that twins are mutually psychic, although one day recently Chester put on a tie he had bought for the association convention, went over to pick up Warren, and found Warren wearing an identical tie.

"Maybe it was just coincidence, though," Chester muses.

Baptist Convention Now Is Free Of Debt

DALLAS—(AP)—For the first time since it was organized in 1903 the Baptist General Convention of Texas is free of debt—a debt which only ten years ago amounted to $2,000,000.

This was reported Wednesday night by Treasurer R. A. Springer, and five liquidated bond issues were burned in a climax to the second day's sessions of the convention.

Springer also reported: the convention's income from all sources this year will be $1,567,000, an increase of 500 per cent over the $310,000 in 1933. Physical property of the convention and its institutions now is valued at $12,000,000, a gain of $5,000,000 in the last decade.

Dr. J. W. Bruner of Dallas, endowment secretary, announced that a $2,000,000 endowment program for hospitals and schools would be launched January 1.

Cinderella Girl Gets Big Chance

NEW YORK—(AP)—Twenty-four hours after Julie Warren set foot in the town—23 beautiful, but unknown—she was rehearsing the ingenue lead in a big Broadway musical. Hers is the overnight success story which, when it happens on the stage, makes Broadwayites scream that life ain't like that.

When she was 16, Miss Warren started playing dark-eyed blonde heroines in obscure movie westerns. She was born in Flint, Mich., had gone to school in Hollywood, played bits in "Kings Row" and "Big Street." Suddenly she decided to try Broadway. Maybe her one acquaintance there, Monte Proser, the night-club tycoon, would give her a job singing in one of his places.

She arrived three weeks ago, went to a hotel, and the next morning started out to see Proser. On the street she met a beautiful friend, Lt. Frank Milan. He had spent the previous evening with Director John C. Wilson, who had been glumly reporting the failure of an established actress to fit a fat part.

Miss Warren was in Wilson's office within an hour. He liked her looks, arranged for her to read and sing for the producer, author and director; and they signed her. Philadelphia critics and staides acclaimed Miss Warren lavishly. The show is a Fields, Roners and Hart adaptation of "A Connecticut Yankee" by Mark Twain.

It was Twain, by the way, who

British Find Sunken Treasure Very Tasty

LONDON—(AP)—British soldiers fired on Japanese bombers with extraordinary vigor during a raid on Ceylon.

They feared not for themselves but for a British ship in the harbor with a precious cargo—beer. Alas, the ship received a direct hit. As the thousands of bottles of beer went to the bottom, the spirits of these thirsty Tommies sank too. But Royal Navy divers came to the rescue and salvaged the cargo.

The Tommies had to wait a long time for their "Neptune's brew," as they called it. But it tasted mighty good.

observed that truth is bound to be stranger than fiction because fiction has to be confirmed to what seems true, or plausible.

HOW TO CURE A STICKY WAFFLE IRON

A waffle generally sticks because of improper preheating or insufficient shortening in the batter. When this happens, remove particles left on grid with wire brush. Then cover the grids with a thin film of salad oil or melted unsalted fat. Let grids heat until they smoke, pour batter and discard first waffle.

SOME OTHER HINTS ON WAFFLE IRON CARE

- 1 Heat iron to right temperature before pouring batter.
- 2 Wipe grids lightly with soft cloth or paper towel after each use. Don't wash grids.
- 3 Cool iron with lid up—never while closed or grids will discolor.

How to conserve eyesight and light!

Eyesight and light are both vital to the winning of the war. Conserve both by following these six easy suggestions:

1. Clean lamp bulbs and reflectors regularly with a damp cloth. Dry thoroughly before using.
2. Use shades with white linings to reflect light instead of absorbing it.
3. Keep all lights properly shaded to avoid glare.
4. Arrange furniture so one lamp serves two or more people if necessary.
5. Always turn off lights in unoccupied rooms.
6. Have eyes examined regularly by a competent eyesight specialist.

Don't waste Electricity just because it isn't rationed—use what you need, but need what you use.
