J. R. Dinmore and family of Howard were here Saturday shopping. Mr. Dinmore is one of the leading farmers of his community and has a good crop for the year but is seeding rain. He had a light shower in his community Thursday afternoon which did quite a bit of good to the growing crops.

The Pekin is Chinese, and is the most popular market duck in America. Its legs are set far back, giving an upright carriage.

While the Indian Runner is not a popular market duck on account of its small size, its flesh is tender and palatable, and its foraging habits give it a game quality that will make it in demand with epicures.

Grain for Geese - Geese should not be fed hard grains, but ground feeds mixed in what are known as mushes and fed in a moist state. A good ration for geese would be three parts of yellow corn meal, four parts of wheat bran, one part of red dog flour or four middlings. To this add 5 per cent of most scraps used during the laying or brooding season 15 per cent. At all times 1 per cent of fine sifted sand and 1/2 per cent of fine table salt. Any kind of green feed will help.

Mistake With Geese - A common mistake made in raising geese is to try to feed them upon grains without sufficient grazing. If the geese have good green feed they will need but little additional. Greed and oyster shell should always be accessible. During the summer a satisfactory method consists in providing one feed a day of equal parts of corn meal, bran and ground oats. During the winter the same grains are satisfactory, but steamed clover or alfalfa hay should be added.

Pedigreeing Chicks - For pedigreeing chicks the eggs of each female may be kept separated by partitioning the egg trays, but the more usual method is to use wire baskets or net boxes. Mosquito netting is hardly sufficient to keep out the flies and other insects. Bags of heavier curtain material made with well bound seams will prove more satisfactory. Bags may be made of different sizes to care for varying numbers of eggs. A careful record of the eggs is absolutely necessary.

Watch Young Birds - Watch young and delicate birds very closely as they are most susceptible to the deadly roop germ. The same is true of fowls suffering from common cold or catarrh. The throat and nasal passages, being already sore and inflamed, are easily infected. Sick birds should always be isolated. They can be much more effectively treated when away from the flock and they cannot contaminate the healthier ones. If the disease should prove to be contagious.

EVERY FARM SHOULD HAVE A FEW SHEEP - Collier Station, Texas, July 31 - When more farmers in Texas add a few sheep to their farming operations as well as the cow and the hen, Texas will have a more balanced system of farming. Ernest Gibbens, of the animal husbandry department, A. & M. College of Texas, said those in attendance at the beef, cattle, sheep and goats section of the Farmers Short Course here.

"No farm animal is capable of returning a greater net profit than sheep when given intelligent attention, not of losing money faster when not properly handled," he said. Mr. Gibbens discussed "Sheep Breeding."

There are two phases of sheep production to be considered, the speaker pointed out in opening his discussion, range production and farm flock. Range production in Texas has changed much in the last twenty years. He went on to point out "Production of sheep on the range of Texas is rapidly going through transitional period from production of a strictly fine wool type of sheep, as was the case some years ago, to the production of good mutton as well as fine fleeces."

Good Woman Passes Away - Mrs. Henry Miller of the Gauntt community passed away at the Knox City Sanitarium last Thursday, July 25, at 11 p. m., after a very brief illness. Friday afternoon after which her remains were brought to this city and laid to rest in Haskell's beautiful burial park. She is survived by her husband and three children.

Fred Lebkowsky was in the city Saturday from the Rose community where he is engaged in farming. He stated they had some good showers at his place last week which was a great benefit to the growing crops.

And especially do we wish to thank the many friends of our mother who were so sympathetic and kind to her during the entire period of her prolonged illness and suffering which covered a period of almost three years. And, in turn, our sympathy is extended to those of you who have already experienced the loss of the one best friend, your mother. May the best blessings of Heaven abide with you all. N. T. Smith, Jason W. Smith, Annie Lou Holt, Georgia Garner, David Smith.

Worth, Dallas and Arlington where they visited relatives and friends and had a real good time. "ADORATION" A POWERFUL LOVE DRAMA AGAINST A WAR BACKGROUND

Our own gorgeously beautiful Billie Dove never appeared to better advantage than in "Adoration," her newest First National picture which is the attraction at the Texas Theatre, Monday and Tuesday.

In exquisite garb, with a role that calls for stirring emotional acting, and supported by a superb cast, she has a splendid opportunity for again proving us that there is no lovelier woman gracing the screen today.

The story is by Lajos Biro, adapted and scenarized by Winifred Dunn and directed by Frank Lloyd, who recently made "The Divine Lady" starring Corinne Griffith. It deals with the plight of Russian royalty and aristocracy following the revolution. They flee to Paris and there their destinies are worked out. The theme of jealousy forms the basis of the story and involves the lovely Princess Elent and her consort, Prince Serge, played by Antonio Moreno with great skill.

Several arresting types are found in the picture. Lucy Doraine in the part of the maid to the princess, a good role, is a former UPA star known as "the girl with the million dollar legs," a genuine beauty from Budapest. Nicholas Soussanin, a native of Crimea, and former Russian stage star, is the villain; Nicholas Bela, of the Comedie Francaise, in Paris, and the Gaiety stock company in Budapest, is the super-villain; Ivan; Emil Chautard, former well known director is a Russian general; Winifred Bryson, Lucien Prival and others complete an admirably selected cast.

The settings are superb, the story is well handled and the direction leaves nothing to be desired. A powerful love drama, with a background of revolution thought with no battle scenes, this picture is wholly satisfying and ends on a note of uplifting happiness.

Mrs. Walter Evans and daughter Mrs. Gladys Wallace of Ft. Worth, spent the past week visiting their Aunt, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Williams, and left Saturday morning for their home. Mr. and Mrs. Williams accompanied them as far as Breckenridge, and spent Saturday and Sunday with their son, Peck and wife and had the pleasure of meeting their daughter Thelma, in Breckenridge, who is an office employe of the Nash Hdw. Co. in Ft. Worth.

W. T. Hambleton of Grandbury is in Haskell this week visiting his brother, H. J. Hambleton, and other relatives and friends.

Mrs. R. E. Mercer who lives south of town, returned this week from Dodson, La., where she spent the past few months with relatives and old acquaintances.

FOUND! M. O. Field who lives in the north west part of the city found an 18 karat Gold Everready pencil which he is anxious for the owner to have. Any one describing and claiming the pencil may have it without cost. It was found a few mornings ago in Mr. Field's poultry yard after a commotion between someone and a dog during the night before. The pencil was picked up by Mr. Field near the fence going out of his poultry lot where he keeps his fine Plymouth Rocks. He heard the disturbance but thought the dog was chasing a calf from the way the barb wire fence was singing when they ran into it.

Life Dedicated to Fight on Tuberculosis

Dr. Edward Livingston Trudeau, the pioneer in the modern treatment of tuberculosis in America, was himself a sufferer from the disease. In spite of his illness, however, he did much experimental work as well as diagnosis and treatment. Dr. J. A. Myers, in a sketch of Doctor Trudeau's life in Hygeia Magazine, observes that perhaps nothing in the whole field of medicine in the last fifty years has done so much directly and indirectly to relieve suffering and extend the years of usefulness of so many people as the principles that this physician laid down at the sanitarium at Saranac Lake.

It was Trudeau who opened the first laboratory for the study of tuberculosis in America. It was he who first grasped the principle of tuberculosis immunity. It was he who did the first experimental work in tuberculosis in this country. It was he who first stained and visualized the tubercle bacillus in this country. It was he who built that pioneer sanitarium at Saranac Lake which has treated more than 6,500 patients and today stands in the front rank of such institutions.

The ancient Cloch-Oir stone from which Clochier, Ireland, is said to have derived its name, has with the consent of the bishop of Clochier, been placed in the vestibule of St. Macartain's cathedral, to preserve it from the weather. The Cloch-Oir stone is said to have been one of the three sacred stones of Erin, the others being the Lin Fall, or Stone of Destiny, which rests under the coronation chair in Westminster abbey, and the Crom Chugh, which is supposed to have bowed before St. Patrick. This famous stone, which has hitherto rested against the north wall of the cathedral, was visited at one time by Caneber MacVessa, high king of Ulster. Canon Maguire, who wrote a commentary on the register of Clochier in 1890, states: "This sacred stone was preserved on the right of the entrance into the church, and traces of the gold with which it has been covered by the worshippers of the idol Cneomed Cebetacht are still visible."

Louisiana Purchase

In the treaty providing for the Louisiana purchase there was no definition of the boundaries of the territory. When the American commissioners insisted upon a definition of the extent, they were informed that the boundaries were the same as they had been when the land was in the hands of the French, that is, according to Barthier's original treaty of retrocession. It included Louisiana west of the Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota west of the Mississippi, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Wyoming, Montana, most of Kansas, Indian territory and Colorado east of the Rocky mountains.

Early Street Lighting

Some form of artificial light must have been in use for domestic purposes from the very earliest times, but though large cities and a high state of civilization existed among the Egyptians, Greeks and Romans, the systematic lighting of streets was unknown to them. From the writings of Libanius, however, who lived in the beginning of the fifth century after Christ, we may conclude that the streets of his native city, Antioch, were lighted by lamps, and Edessa, in Syria, was similarly illuminated about A. D. 500. Of modern cities Paris was the first to light its streets. In the beginning of the sixteenth century it was much infested with robbers and incendiaries, so that the inhabitants were ordered in 1524 to keep lights burning after nine o'clock in the evening before all houses fronting a street.

Farm Building

The Mormon tabernacle in Salt Lake City is 250 feet long by 150 feet wide and 80 feet high and seats from 6,000 to 8,000 people. Its self supporting roof rests on pillars or buttresses of red sandstone, which are from ten to twelve feet apart in the entire circumference of the building. No nails were used in making the roof, the timbers being tied in place with cord and held together with wooden pegs. It was begun in 1833. In its shape the Mormon tabernacle is a perfect ellipse.

River Diodes States

The north bank of the Ohio river is the northern boundary of the state of Kentucky, the exact boundary line being fixed by the low-water mark of the river. The jurisdiction of the state of Kentucky extends to the low-water mark on the Indiana side. The United States government has jurisdiction over the whole river, as far as commerce is concerned. According to the constitution the federal government has a right to regulate commerce, and the Ohio river is the commercial highway.

Amber and Moorehaus

Amber can be made to burn when heated to a high temperature in the air. It is a fossil resin from trees of the pine family and is dug up from the shores of the Baltic sea and the North sea and a few other places. It is a compound of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. Benezolium is a compound of hydrogen, silicon and oxygen and resembles a white clay. It is found chiefly in Asia Minor, where it occurs in masses of clay. Of course, the only connection between the two substances is the fact that they are both used in making pipes.

Camels in Australia

Many camels are used in Australia as beasts of burden. For instance from Wyndham in northwestern Australia the cattle stations are served by camel trains which carry supplies for hundreds of miles into the interior. "The camels are driven by Afghans," says the National Geographic society. "Camel teams are familiar sights in the streets of the little townships, hauling in the great wagonloads of firewood from the outlying district. The first camels were brought to Australia for the use of the early explorers. Later a fine type of bred camels was imported for breeding purposes."

"IT BROUGHT HEALTH AND HAPPINESS TO US" SAYS HUSBAND

Abilene Man and Wife Praise Orgatone For Wonderful Good It Did Them

"I have not only been relieved of troubles that bothered me for three years since I started taking Orgatone, but I am in better health generally than I have been for years. And I want to add that it has also restored my wife's health," said D. W. Sigitz, of 2630 S. Seventh Street, Abilene, Texas.

"For the past three years I have suffered from constipation. This naturally was followed by a bunch of minor troubles which usually accompany this ailment. I had a sluggish liver and felt tired and worn out most of the time. I did not sleep well, lost in health and gradually grew worse.

"I kept hearing so much about Orgatone and what it was doing for people I decided to try it also. Well, I had not finished the first bottle before I realized I had at last struck the right medicine for my improvement was remarkable. I continued taking it and I am glad to say I am a well man and get up feeling rested and refreshed. I have more pep and vitality than I have had in a long time.

"My wife had been suffering from a run down condition, and she saw how Orgatone helped me so she decided to take it and today she is completely rid of her troubles.

"We both never miss any opportunity to praise Orgatone for it has surely brought health and happiness in our home."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Haskell from the Oates Drug Store.

MALE BIRD IS TEN TIMES AS IMPORTANT AS FEMALE

College Station, Texas, July 31—In the poultry world the male is perhaps ten times as important as the female, E. C. Johnson, head of the poultry husbandry department of John Tarleton Agricultural College, Stephenville, declared in speaking before the poultry section at the Farmers Short Course here Monday.

"In selecting males for next year's breeding flock," said Mr. Johnson, "the first point to consider is individuality and this includes constitutional vigor and vitality. Select the cockerel that matures rapidly and normally, one that is masculine and shows the sex characteristics to a marked degree so there is no guessing whether it is male or female. Finally the breeding male should conform to the standards of his breed and variety.

"Ancestry and pedigree are also important," Mr. Johnson said, "and our entire breeding program is based on such work, but sometimes individuality and vigor are sacrificed for a sensational pedigree and this is bad. The trap nest record of a male's dam should show that she laid from 60 to 80 eggs from November to February inclusive, that she is a persistent summer and fall producer, a late moulter, and that she has laid consistently over a long period of time.

"For years we have bred for numbers of eggs and not for size and quality. Egg laying contests are now emphasizing 24 ounces-to-the-dozen eggs and the quickest way to get them is to breed males whose dams have the characteristic of large sized eggs.

"The progeny test, that of getting records on a sire's daughters, is by far the surest and most important thing to consider in selecting breeding males. This is the only sure basis," the speaker concluded, "of forming a judgment as to the ability of the bird to transmit the character of high production."

LATE HATCHED PULLETS UNPROFITABLE LAYERS
College Station, Texas, July 31—Late hatched and poorly developed pullets are certain to be unprofitable layers this fall," according to Clyde Ingram, poultry specialist of the Louisiana Extension Service who spoke before the poultry section at the Farmers Short Course at the A. & M. College of Texas, Tuesday.

E. B. McDonald and family returned from Quanah, where they visited L. E. McDonald a son of Mr. and Mrs. McDonald. They report a good time and E. B. says he got to see his six weeks old grandson while there. He reports some good crops along the way.

mine labor and hasten maturity of growing stock.

"Successful poultry keeping depends upon the ability of the poultryman to produce pullets that are ready to go into the laying house in August or September free from such diseases as coccidiosis, intestinal parasites and paralysis. This is impossible if one attempts to grow young and old stock on the same ground year after year. Vigor is the first condition in the selection of pullets to go into the laying house in the fall. A summer range house provides for an abundance of fresh air and can be moved frequently to new locations, thus avoiding the danger from contaminated soil."

To get good growth and development with young pullets through the hot summer months," he said, "it is necessary that plenty of range be provided, that tender, succulent green feed be abundant, and that cockerels and pullets be separated early in order to make room for the more promising pullets. The undesirable ones of both sexes should be fattened and marketed. Shade is essential, and if not present should be provided artificially. Self feeders on the range will mini-

To Market To Market... Remember the old nursery rhyme: "To market to market to buy a fat pig—and home again, home again dancing a jig!"... There's a reason for that nursery rhyme! Since our pre-historic ancestors laid in the day's provisions by hunting the dinosaur, meat has been the foundation of the housewife's menu. But dinosaurs are out of date, and we no longer are forced to hunt for meat. Our meat shops offer a variety of fresh meats every day. Those meats have been prepared, by sanitary methods, for your table. Haskell housewives can be assured that they are getting fresh meat the year around—in warm days as well as cold. Our meat markets are unusually modern and up-to-date. As provisioners for your table, they are giving you conscientious service.

Seals are possessed of most marvelous instincts, says Gas Lodge. They know, for instance, exactly where to bore the ice to make their bubbling holes and never waste time or effort on ice too thick to be penetrated.

Belated Honors Paid

First British Aeronaut

In honor of James Sadler, the first British aeronaut, a memorial tablet has been erected at Oxford. On October 4, 1874, he "did astonish the people by ascending into the atmosphere with firmness and intrepidity."

Unfortunately, Sadler dropped the fork used to handle the fuel, and it is said he avoided coming down in a wood by using oars. Eventually, after half an hour's flight, he had traveled about six miles.

For 25 years Sadler worked as a chemist, engineer, and inventor, but when fifty-seven he returned to ballooning.

POULTRY

TURKEYS RAISED IN CONFINEMENT

Better Results Secured Than Where Poults Are Free.

In times past many people felt that turkeys could not be raised in confinement, but that they should have a large area over which to range.

The Minnesota and Nebraska experiment stations have been among the leaders in investigational work in turkey production, in recent years, with some such work being done at other experiment stations in various parts of the country.

The United States Department of Agriculture has found that turkey production has declined consistently since 1890, in the face of an increase in the production of all other lines of poultry and live stock.

This decline in turkey production can be explained almost altogether by the fact that farmers have always felt that turkeys should have unlimited range. Because of following this method of production the turkeys came in contact with the chicken yards, to the detriment of the turkey business.

This decline in turkey production can be explained almost altogether by the fact that farmers have always felt that turkeys should have unlimited range. Because of following this method of production the turkeys came in contact with the chicken yards, to the detriment of the turkey business. The disease problem among turkeys which come in contact with chickens is great enough that it has tended to cut down on production among farmers and farmers' wives who have, in the past, raised turkeys and chickens together on the same range. How Much Does Pullet Cost Till Able to Lay? The North Carolina State college has conducted several tests to determine the amount of feed required to start a Red, Barred Plymouth Rock or Wyandotte laying pullet. In one series of tests the entire animal feed was milk and in the other meat meal. In the case of the milk-fed pullets it required 20 pounds of feed from the time the pullets were hatched till they began to lay 21 weeks later. This feed cost 71 cents. In the meat meal flock, nine and one-half pounds of mash and nine and one-half pounds of grain were used and the cost was 57 cents. Adding the cost of the chick, and other costs, the Rhode Island Red, Barred Plymouth Rock or White Wyandotte pullets just in lay would cost $1.50 when milk fed and $1.17 when meat fed. These pullets sell for $2 each at laying time. If you have surplus milk, feed it to the growing birds. In Case of Roup Should any of your fock begin to show symptoms of roup, no time should be lost in starting measures to prevent further spread. All houses, pens and runs should be thoroughly cleaned and sprayed with a strong solution of a good coal tar dip and disinfectant. Droppings, litter and trash of every description should be removed and burned. All unnecessary equipment of every kind should be removed from houses and yards and stored elsewhere.

PRESBYTERIANS TO CLOSE REVIVAL SUNDAY NIGHT

With a swing and precision that augurs well for the success of the campaign, the meeting at the tabernacle under the auspices of the First Presbyterian Church, swung into its second and final week last Sunday.

Capacity crowds had been in attendance all last week, and Saturday afternoon a large number of extra seats were built, but the Sunday night crowd overtaxed the tabernacle, and a number were unable to get seats.

R. G. Fraser of Greenville, Texas, the evangelist, has been bringing soul-stirring and gripping messages each night, as is shown by the steady increase in the attendance each night. His messages have been addressed mainly to church members, in preparation for a final effort on behalf of the unsaved this week. Sunday evening more than fifty people, in response to a reconsecration appeal, came forward, pledging their support to carrying on to a successful termination the work before them.

The music, always a feature of any meeting, has been exceptionally fine. Mr. Fraser leads his own song service, with Mrs. Fraser at the piano. Both are gifted singers and their solos and duets have been greatly appreciated and enjoyed. The work of the choir has been superb, and many words of commendation have been received relative to their part in the service.

The Frasers are stressing the work with the young people, each night preceding the regular service they have been meeting with them for thirty minutes and have a program that is catching and holding them, and lining them up for continued work.

The boys and girls meet each morning at nine o'clock with Mrs. Fraser, and are preparing a program of sacred numbers which they will give on Friday night.

The morning services at 10 o'clock have been conducted by the pastor, Rev. M. L. Baker, his messages are of the type to stimulate his hearers into a greater endeavor on behalf of the unsaved. The church is comfortably filled each morning, testifying to the appreciation the members have for instructive preaching.

The meeting closes Sunday night. The Frasers begin a meeting at Crawford, Texas, on Monday.

Farmer Recalls Destruction of Crops By Hoppers

C. W. Jetton of the Myers school community was in the city Saturday and stated that they were needing rain in his section. In a conversation, going back to his boyhood days he told of a destruction by grasshoppers at his old home in Missouri which was complete knock out to the farmers over a large section of the state. He says that the grasshoppers came like a cloud on the 4th of July and were in such vast numbers that every vestige of growing crop was destroyed and grass was eaten off below the ground and when they left the country, they went like they came. They were gone in a few hours. He said he learned from that experience what hard times were to a country. He is not complaining over the crop conditions at this time.

The creation of Road District No. 3 in Haskell county, which embraces Highway No. 30 through the county, was ordered Thursday by the Commissioners Court. This action followed the appearance of a committee of Haskell citizens before the body asking for the formation of the new district. The district was formed for the purpose of voting bonds to pave Highway 30, which crosses the county north and south, and is approximately thirty miles in length.

With the creation of the district by the Commissioners, it is expected that an election will be held at an early date for the purpose of voting bonds to hard-surface this road. This information will be of interest to the thousands of people who have often complained about the condition of the highway through Haskell county.

Highway No. 30 is considered one of the most important north and south traffic arteries in the State, and if the new road district votes bonds for paving the stretch through Haskell county it will complete the hard-surfacing of the road from Wichita Falls to Abilene, and furnish a through route to all cities and towns in south and east Texas from this section.
