Christian Science Service Sunday

Freedom from enslavement of every kind is available through spiritual understanding of the mighty prayer of God. This is the encouraging theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God" which will be presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.

Bible readings will include this verse (Revelation 11): "We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come; because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy this selection will also be read (p. 228): "The enslavement of man is not legitimate. It will cease when man enters into his heritage of freedom, his Godrien dominion over the material senses. Mortals will some assert their freedom in the name of almighty God."

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Barnes of Lubbock visited her mother, Mrs. Pearl Barnes on the fourth.

About Your HEALTH

A weekly public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health. HENRY A. HOLLE, D. D. Commissioner of Health.

During the sweltering heat of Texas summers, most of us can do something to get some relief -- take a cool shower, wear light clothes, find a shady spot or sit in front of the air conditioner.

But babies are not so self-sufficient. They are dependent upon mother to help them beat the heat. The human body constantly produces heat and so must constantly lose it to be compatible with life. Evaporation of sweat cools the body and this process is aided by circulating air. Also, physical exercise increases the amount of heat produced and in turn must be lost.

With these facts in mind, mother can do a lot to make baby comfortable in hot weather -- and she'll have a healthier baby if she does.

Baby should be placed in the coolest spot possible. The crib or playpen should be placed in a good circulation spot -- in the middle of the room or near a window or door. If outdoors, place the baby in the shade.

Placing an electric fan in the room increases the circulation of air around him. This should be one whenever the temperature exceeds 84 degrees and there is little or no breeze. But be sure the fan is out of reach of inquisitive hands.

If an air conditioner is used, it should be set about 78 degrees and adjusted so that the cold air does not blow directly on the baby.

When shopping on hot days, never leave the baby in the car. Temperatures rise to dangerous levels inside a car parked in the sun in a very short time.

Clothing is important. In temperatures below 80 degrees the usual clothing may be worn, but with temperatures between 80 and 92 degrees, just a diaper is sufficient. But when the heat goes over the 92 mark, baby should wear a cotton shirt to absorb perspiration.

The more active the baby, the less clothing is needed at the same air temperature. It helps to change the position of a small baby occasionally.

Plenty of liquids should be offered the baby on hot days -- at room temperature -- and don't worry if the baby seems to lose his appetite a little.

Most babies love a bath. Several a day will help to keep him cool. If the temperature is over 90 degrees, partially drying the baby will have an additional cooling effect.

A bath before napping will help the baby to fall asleep easier.
