Quail Season To Open November 13

Public hearing was held Monday afternoon in district courtroom in Roby on the Regulatory Game and Fish regulations which Fisher county is under this year, for the first time. The system is working well in most counties of the state and game and fish seasons are set after biologists run survey of amount of game or fish and weather, conditions are considered as well as food supply for wildlife.

Recommendations are made from this hearing and sent to the Commission in Austin who then set seasons. Biologists reports indicated ample supply of quail in Fisher County to carry a longer season. They recommend quail season opening to be Nov. 13 and run to January 31st. Practically all counties in this area will be under this season, also. Question was raised at the meeting of a late hatch of quail being the case in parts of Fisher County this year, but the biologists state that approximately a 4% die-off occurs between the middle of November and Dec. 1st, and they recommend hunters take during this time would be no more than this.

A large landowner asked that dove season be changed to coincide with quail season and many doves are now nesting and the season is open on them. Warden Roy Lynn explained that doves were migratory birds, hence under Federal regulations, and he said work was being done of this problem, but he thinks the afternoon hunting is of great benefit to nesting doves as they have probably fed and watered before shooting time is legal. This gives the birds much protection.

Four game officials in charge of the hearing were well informed and answered the many questions from the floor.

The meeting was tape recorded, which will be sent to the Commission in Austin for actual setting of seasons, but bird hunter can rest assured that they will have the earliest quail season opening in history of game laws for Fisher County--November 13.

Operating type loans in the amount of $249,000.00 were made to 54 families in Fisher County from July 1, 1964 to June 30, 1965. Two farm ownership loans were made in the amount of $22,000.00 and two rural housing loans were made in the amount of $27,000.00. A loan was made in the amount of $38,000.00 to the Sylvester-McCaulley Water Supply Association to extend the water line approximately 8 more miles reaching 30 more families. A total of $276,181.00 was collected on all types of loans.

Over 39,76 families of farmers, ranchers and rural residents in Texas benefitted from Farmers Home Administration loan services during 1965. This is an all-time high according to L. J. Cappelman, State Director for the agency.

Loans made or insured by the Farmers Home Administration in Texas during the fiscal year ended June 20, totaled a record $88,289,230.

State Director Cappelman said that the Farmers Home Administration preserved its long-standing record for keeping its various lending programs in a sound position during fiscal 1965. Repayments of principal and interest by borrowers totaled the largest volume collected in the agency's 30-year history.

"This good credit record signifies the initiative and integrity displayed by the people of rural Texas in their vast self-help effort which these loans represent," Cappelman stated.

Included in the number of Texas rural people benefitting from these programs are the members of 28,245 families forming rural groups that use Farmers Home Administration credit. Most of these groups borrowed funds to develop rural community water systems.

State Director Cappelman emphasized that loans to strengthen family farms and build new rural home continued as the agency's largest program in fiscal 1965.

'As It Looks From Here'

Omar Bureson, M. C.
17th District, Texas

Washington, D. C. -- Hindsight is usually 20-20. The Monday morning quarterback has more answers than a computer. About the net intolerable is the "I told you so" foresighter.

Both are now applied to the Indian-Pakistani conflict over the border area of Kashmir. From the beginning of independence from Great Britain, both these nations have been on a collision course.

Assuming that the conflict can be contained short of a major war, possibly the consequence of what is now taking place may prove something of benefit.

Certain constructive fallouts from this shooting between these people of the subcontinent of Asia could result.

For one, it should prove the absurdity of attempts by any major power to maintain a totally "neutral" free-riding stance in a world of reality.

India has been a practitioner of double-dealing neutrality since her existence as an independent country. She has tried to secure peace for herself on the backs of others through rhetoric of nonalignment. She has done so in the United Nations and now must face the hollow truth since she has drawn the sword. India scorned our own warnings that Nehru's pacificism could not be a safe and lasting policy. This practice now lies dead in the very home of its originator.

Pakistan, who became an ally of the West and the recipient of billions of dollars in foreign aid, turns a smiling face to Communist China the moment we put limitations on our gifts. When she learned that a United States which had given her so much vital aid could not be blackmailed, she no longer remembered any obligation.

Because of our warning that in excess of a billion and a half dollars worth of military equipment should not be used other than for her own internal defense, she chose her friends elsewhere. In other words, Pakistan sought to dictate our own foreign policy and force us to end all relationship with an India, which however, irritating, is a fact to be recognized.

Red China in her immediate and open support of Pakistan is at last unmasked to those free nations who still pay tolerance to her, as not only the sponsor of aggression in South Viet Nam but as an advocate of chaos in all the Orient.

If all of this can be rationalized as a possible benefit there still remains a possibility of even greater good.

By reason of the selfishness which afflicts men and nations, North Viet Nam and Communist China continue to receive benefits trade from several nations with which we are allied.

All of this should profoundly show the delusions affecting the cold war, as well as the hot. The delusion that we can do business with Communists and defeat the international Communist conspiracy; the delusion of neutrality and the delusion that "negotiations" can avoid the bleak duty to fight for vital interests; the delusion that a nation's foreign policy need be only sufficiently sloganistic for everything to be all right -- these all should be casualties of the action in Kashmir.

The light of this action should burn away the fog over an India which had made self-righteousness a public policy, for a Pakistan which thought she could turn from civilized persuasion to crude threats and become powerful at out expense. Not least of the melting delusions should be the idea of our own semi-pacifists here at home who nurse the fragile myth that if we desolve our military might and submit ourselves in the name of peace, we will live in Utopia.

National Highway Week Sept. 19-25

Austin, Texas -- "Building Highways for Tomorrow" will be the theme of National Highway Week in Texas which will be observed this year September 19-25.

The week was designated by Governor John Connally who said the 66,000-mile Texas Highway System is vitally related to the State's economy and the welfare and pleasure of all Texans.

In the proclamation designating Highway Week Governor Connally said the system is "debt-free with its design and construction based on the needs of the next generation of Texans."

"In this context, the Texas Highway Department is indeed 'Building Highways for Tomorrow.' This will be of benefit to the citizens of Texas in fostering understanding and support for continuing efforts to improve our great highway system," Connally said.

Highway Week is sponsored by the Texas Good Roads Association, a non-profit, non political organization which works for better highways in Texas. Since 1913 it has been the only citizens group working for highway progress.

The Texas highway system is administered by the Texas Highway Department. It was created in 1917 by the 35th State Legislature. Administrative control is vested in a three-member State Highway Commission and the State Highway Engineer.

Rest of Grassland Urged By SCS

All living things need a rest and grass is no exception to this rule, states Howard Ragsdale, Range Conservationist, of the Rotan Soil Conservation Service office. Resting grass, or what is commonly called deferment of the range, is keeping all the livestock off a pasture during all or part of a growing season. In planning a system of deferments for a range, a rancher will often run into many problems in determining which pastures will be deferred and how long they can economically be deferred. Also, he will run into the problem of overgrazing on some pastures in order to favor others. A definite, well defined system is the answer to this problem. This well defined system is called range rotation-deferred grazing. In a system of this type, two or more pastures need not be of same size, but should be about the same in carrying capacity for the livestock to be grazed.

A two pasture system can be used and is grazed with one herd of livestock. A system can be used and is grazed with one herd of livestock. A system of this type allows the range to be rested one full year out of three. A four pasture system can be used with two herds of livestock. Under this system each pasture is deferred one complete year out of three. A four pasture system can be used with three herds of livestock and under system, each pasture is rested one complete year out of four. In many cases, a rancher may have a choice of which system or combination of systems that can be used. If this is the case, the need for certain amounts of deferment for a pasture or groups of pastures should be the factor used in determining which system to be used.

A reduction in livestock numbers is often needed to carry out range proper use when using a rotation-deferred system of grazing. The safest level of stocking would be a base herd of about 65 per cent of the carrying capacity of the range. Using this level of stocking, a rancher would run out of forage only about one year out of ten. Nine years out of ten, there will be an excess amount of forage produced, which will vary in amounts from year to year. This excess forage can be utilized by carrying over calves, buying stockers, or leasing out grazing. It accomplishes nothing to defer a range and then overgraze it following its rest.

Among the cooperators of the Upper Clear Fork Soil Conservation District who are planning to apply such a grazing system are Jack McCain, Sweetwater, who ranches about 3 miles northeast of Sylvester and Jack Willingham, who ranches 7 miles east of Rotan. Through the use of a range rotation-deferred grazing system, Jack Willingham states that he believes he can obtain maximum grass production and increase pounds of beef produced per acre.

Headache may well be humanity's number one malady.

It masquerades under many names - sick headache, coffee headache, hunger headache, allergy headache, fever headache and Sunday headache - to name a few.

But what really happens when your head hurts? A common misconception is that the brain hurts when you have a headache. But the brain itself - while marvelously sensitive in some ways - is an unfeeling mass of gray tissue. You can probe, but burn, or smash this tissue without it hurting.

Other structures of the head, however, are extremely sensitive to pain, including the scalp, blood vessels and some of the brain coverings.

Some of the processes causing headache include: swelling of arteries within the head; a pulling, inflammation or irritation of the head's pain-sensitive structures; prolonged contraction of neck muscles, a pain spreading from another source such as an inflamed eye; or an emotional disorder.

Headaches can be important since they may be the warning sign of a serious condition, which possibly could be controlled if detected early. They can indicate glaucoma, fever, high blood pressure, anemia, central nervous system injury or infection, epilepsy and tumors of the brain and head.

They can also warn of intoxication by such poisons as carbon monoxide gas. Or, headache can indicate sensitivity to certain solvents, the elements in some liquors, to antihistamines or to noise.

Excessive use of sedatives, even those used for treatment of headache, can be dangerous and possibly cause a headache. Don't take larger amounts of painkillers than your doctor orders, and don't take them over a longer period than he advises.

A headache can be an important symptom. It might be triggered by life-threatening diseases in about one percent of its victims. Nine out of ten are the common variety which

Some Students Affected By Social Sec. Changes

The most important effect that will be felt in 1965 from the recently adopted Amendments to the Social Security Act will be that on certain students aged 18-22, and on all current beneficiaries of the old-age, disability, and survivors insurance portions of the law.

An unmarried student, whose parents is entitled to retirement or disability benefits, or whose parent is deceased and was insured under social security, can now be paid (effective with January 1965) monthly benefits while he is a full-time student -- in high school, college, or university, vocational or trade school. Any such student, or his parents, should immediately write his social security district office for free leaflet Number OASI-1965-4. If he feels that he is eligible, then prompt contact should be made with the social security office, or with a representative of that office when he is in or near the student's location.

All current beneficiaries under social security will receive a 7% increase in their benefit rates. This, too, is effective as of January 1965. With some 20 million such amounts to be refigured, the following timetable will be employed. The checks due to arrive about September 3 (for August) will be in the same old amount. Then in mid or late September an extra check to cover the raise for the months of January-August will be mailed out. Checks mailed for delivery about October 3 (for September) will be in the new rates. For example, a person who has been receiving a $60 check will get a $60 check about September 3, a $33.60 check about September 20th, and a $64.20 check about October 3. No action needs to be taken by such beneficiaries as this will be done automatically.

Mmes. Porter-Shell Give HD Program

Mrs. J. W. Porter and Mrs. Alyne Shell gave program on Selection & Care of Foundation Gaments to the Rotan Home Demonstration Club Friday, Sept. 3, in the home of Mrs. Porter.

To often women who shop wisely for dresses, coats, shoes, and like garments practice unwise "economies" in buying foundation garments. They are content with girdles that do little more than anchor the hose, and bra's that just serve nothing more, says Mrs. Porter. The reason for wearing Bra's may be summarized in four words: Fashion, beauty, health and comfort.

The material the Bra is made of determines the degree of support and uplift it gives, says Mrs. Shell. No other garment a woman wears are so important to her health, comfort and appearance, as her foundation. Good foundations that fit well, corrects posture which contributes to good health, says Mrs. Porter. Refreshments were served to Mmes: Homer Aaron, C. A. Ragan, C. C. Roach, W. P. Curry, Barney Bigham, W. L. Terrell, Alyne Shell, and the hostess, Mrs. J. W. Porter.

Letter From Redden

Rotan, Sept. 14, 1965.
Dear Folks:
We have sure enjoyed our living in Rotan and you people have been so good to us and we sure do appreciate what you all have done and I have enjoyed our work with the Churches here and my, we are so glad for you good people and what you did in time of Glenn's sickness. And Glenn has sure come a long way. But having to carry him to school five times a week, and we are going to move back to Abilene, selling our place here, as soon as possible. We are going to carry Glenn five days a week to school, and it takes too much money and time to stay in Rotan, but you all have been a blessing to us.
Fate Redden, Willie and Glenn.

Miss Gayletta Little of Dallas spent the weekend here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Little, Miss Little was a spring semester graduate of North Texas State University and is now employed with a law firm in Dallas.

Mrs. John Head went to Houston last weekend to visit relatives. She attended a ball game in the Astrodome with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bridges and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Bridges.

Mr. and Mrs. Denny Ivey of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Price of Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Smith of San Antonio all visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Ivey last weekend.

Con. Service Urges 'Tying Down' of Soil

Supervisors of the Upper Clear Fork Soil Conservation District urge that each acre of soil be tied down this year. In 1965 approximately 3500 acres of land was severely damaged in Fisher County by wind erosion. According to Milburn Cook Work Unit Conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service in Rotan, most of the damage was caused by lack of ground cover during the blow season. Not only did the lack of cover cause wind to erode the soils but it caused many side effects such as: "Blinding dust multiplied road accidents", "Wind blown sand and pebbles blasted the paint and chrome on automobile and scarred and pitted windshields.", "House and windows were damaged" and wind blown soil poured into many ponds and reservoirs, reducing their capacity.

How may this type damage be halted? Cook suggests the use of cover crops. Cover crops should be planted along turn rows, barrow ditches and along tops of terraces where much of the blowing is triggered. The heavy equipment that is being used to farm now day pack and smooth the soil along turn rows and get it ready to blow.

On cotton fields were enough protective residues are not produced to control wind erosion, a cover of small grain or winter peas should be considered. A small grain drill may be used between the rows in a skip row system or the field can be drilled solid if it is especially susceptible to blowing. Small grains use very little moisture until after February. At this time the small grain should be under-cut by sweeps and the foliage left on top of the soil for protection. Small grain such as wheat or rye may be planted as late as November 1. Winter peas should also be planted by November 1.

Jack Willingham, SCD Supervisor, urges each and every farmer and rancher to take a good look at his particular situation and help control wind erosion by getting a good cover on the soils early this year.

New Crop Potatoes Are Arriving

New-crop sweet potatoes, mostly locally grown, are coming to market now, reports Mrs. Gwen Glyatt, Texas A&M Extension Service consumer marketing specialist.

These potatoes have not been cured to remove excess moisture, therefore they are not good "keepers."

Buy them in amounts that you will use in a week or 10 days.

Sweet potatoes which come out of storage later in the season are more mature, will keep better, and are better for baking.

In selecting sweet potatoes, pick those that are smooth and plump to avoid waste; choose those that are fresh, bright and dry to avoid decay. Pick those uniform in size and shape for baking. For mashing or frying, choose the large, odd-shaped ones.

Handle potatoes carefully because they bruise easily. Sweet potatoes are high in vitamins A and C and they contain some iron. They are also a good source of energy.

Pretty Clothes and Pretty 4-H Girls Go Together

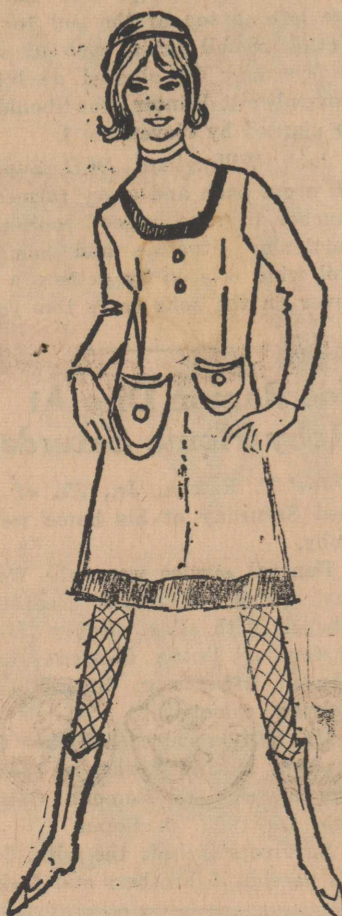

PRETTY clothes on pretty girls are a common sight in 4-H circles, particularly among the more than three-quarter million girls from 9 to 19 enrolled in the national 4-H Clothing program, observes Miss Mamie Hardy, head of educational field activities for Coats & Clark Inc., sponsor for 25 years of the clothing program.

Sketched here are some of the fashions that 4-H girls are putting into their fall and winter wardrobes. In their clothing projects they learn how to sew on and care for new fabrics, and to choose color, line and design. The "learning-by-doing" is guided by local volunteer clothing leaders and extension home economists.

Miss Hardy conducts numerous workshops for extension personnel. Her newest is called "The Shape of Things" which teaches how to get different

One member admitted: "I wanted to quit several times as junior clothing leader, especially when a girl came to club with a zipper in wrong for the thousandth time. But with a little more patience and one last explanation that finally hit home, we both scored a victory."

Something "extra" is offered the young seamstresses by Coats & Clark. Awards consisting of medals, educational trips to the National 4-H Club Congress and a dozen scholarships of $500 each will be claimed this fall by top-ranking 4-H Clothing program members.

shapes in garments by use of various interfacings, backings and linings.

"Several generations ago," said Miss Hardy, "stiffeners used in garment construction gave exaggerated shaping and made the garment uncomfortable. Today's inner fabrics have changed to keep pace with the many new types of outer fabrics designed for contemporary living."

"The secret of good lines is knowing which type to use to achieve a softer and more comfortable effect," Miss Hardy added.

Workshop techniques will in turn reach local 4-H leaders who will pass them on to the girls.

Patience, persistence and pride in workmanship are three essential requisites for getting ahead in the clothing project, according to the 4-H'ers.

Beauty Treatment For Youths Skin

It's a smart mother who knows that a girl's appearance has an affect on the grades she brings home from high school, says Mrs. Lynn Parks Stiles, Texas A&M University Extension Service consumer education specialist.

These are the years, of course, when daughters are likely to have complexion troubles, known as adolescent skin. Anxieties about facial blemishes can actually destroy self-confidence. This, in turn, can affect ability to concentrate on studies.

The best thing a mother can do is to add another subject, beauty care, to her daughter's schedule. It should not be a sophisticated routine, but a simple soap and water program that medical authorities recommend for difficult skin.

Mothers can teach daughters to apply dense, warm suds to the face like a mask. Let this mask dry, then rinse it off and apply a second coating of suds. Next, rinse the skin thoroughly.

Such a simple treatment helps draw oil from the skin and flush out dirt that otherwise would cause blemishes. The treatment is better, some beauty experts say, than hard scrubbing which can injure youthful skin, adds Mrs. Stiles.

Mrs. Perry Eaton visited Sunday in Jayton with Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Yarborough.

Building Highways For Tomorrow

Austin, Texas -- "Building Highways for Tomorrow" will be the theme of National Highway Week in Texas which will be observed this year September 19-25.

The week was designated by Governor John Connally who said the 66,000-mile Texas Highway System is vitally related to the State's economy and the welfare and pleasure of all Texans.

In the proclamation designating Highway Week Connally said the system is "debt-free with its design and construction based on the needs of the next generation of Texans."

"In this context, the Texas Highway Department is indeed 'Building Highways for Tomorrow.' This will be of benefit to the citizens of Texas in fostering understanding and support for continuing efforts to improve our great highway system," Connally said.

Highway Week is sponsored by the Texas Good Roads Association, a non-profit, non-political organization which works for better highways in Texas. Since 1913 it has been the only citizens group working for highway progress.

The Texas highway system is administered by the Texas Highway Department. It was created in 1917 by the 35th State Legislature. Administrative control is vested in a three-member State Highway Commission and the State Highway Engineer.

Rotan High Receives Victory Bell

Rotan High School received the old city firebell, Tuesday, August 31. The old fire bell originally stood on the main street, and now is to be used as a Victory Bell in all sports.

The Victory Bell has been mounted on wheels, and will be transported to all games. The bell will be rung following all scores and victories and has been painted orange and white.

The exact weight of the bell is unknown, but it is believed to weigh over 400 pounds. The bell stands two feet high, and is thirty-four inches in diameter. An official bell ringer will be elected in a school election.

The original instigator of the old fire bell was Tom Green, who was the first fire chief of Rotan. The bell was bought in 1911, and was used as Rotan's first fire alarm.

The old fire bell stood in front of Rotan's first city hall, which originally stood where primary now stands. After electricity came to Rotan the old bell was stored in the city warehouse, until the time it was mounted in its frame on main street.

The Rotan Chapter of the FFA gave their time and effort to build the trailer and mount the bell.

Senior Rings Arrive First Day of School

The Senior Class of Rotan High School received 33 senior rings. The rings are standard design with a blue stone. The stone is encrusted with the emblem of a Yellowhammer. This is the first time Rotan High has had its rings encrusted. As a senior, I believe these to be the best looking rings yet.

Friday Night Heroes To Receive Stars

Coach Schkade has a system which gets the most out of his players in each game. He grades each boy accordingly on offense and defense.

The offense is graded by the film and it shows how each boy carried out his assignment. A chart with the roster on it receives the color which each boy makes. Orange indicates honor roll, black-winning hammer, white-team member, yellow-losing hammer.

Defense is graded by a point system. If the player receives 20 points or more he is entitled to a star which is put on the headgear. Intercepted pass, covered fumble, and kickoff tackle is worth five points; tackle, three points; assistant tackle, one point.

In the Hamlin-Rotan game Randy Hughes and Joe Carrillo were on the honor roll. Stephen Baugh, Larry Kelley, Perry Hunsaker, Glen Murphy, and Larry Van Loon received a star.

In case of one player receiving both honors he is awarded a hitting hammer to go on his headgear.

FIRST ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH

F. W. Akers, Pastor

J. Edgar Hoover says, "The Church is God's appointed agency in his world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God."

I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision. Acts 26:19
The vision of God's work and the desire to help others should always characterize the Christian.

Early churches used steeples to make the building higher than all others in the city. People could see God's House from any direction, and could easily find their way to a place of worship. Today, with many office buildings towering into the sky, churches are not always the tallest buildings. However, churches still point the way to God, and provide a place of worship. ATTEND CHURCH SUNDAY.
