Telephone Bells.

Two French engineers have invented an apparatus which substitutes the song of a nightingale for the clamor of the telephone bell, according to the South Bend Tribune. It is said many French householders find the sharp ring in use now so unpleasant that a change was believed advisable. The new device has not been accepted by the government, which owns the telephone systems, however, and there is no assurance that it will meet with sufficient approval. The defects in the scheme are obvious. While it might be more pleasant to be summoned to the telephone by musical notes it is sheer that prompt attention might not be given to calls. The anesthetic telephone bell now in use cannot be argued. When it rings the householder or business man is forced to answer immediately in order to avoid wear and tear on his eardrums. The fact that many telephone calls are worthless because the callers have given wrong numbers need not be taken into consideration. To hear "wrong number" after dropping important matters to answer the phone would not be made more pleasant because one had been lured by a bird call.

When is a lady? The old standards are rather wobbly of late, and a woman's insistence on that term sometimes marks her as eminently unfitted to deserve it. People are coming around gradually to an acceptance of the good plain term "woman," and it is a healthy sign of the times, says the Philadelphia Record. A London Justice recently remarked publicly that woman was a better word than lady, as things are nowadays. "In these times, nearly everybody is a lady," he reflected. "I think better of the other 'title.'" Today we have this and that "women's college, or hospital, or union, or club. But it was not so long ago that one heard only of ladies' seminaries and other feminine institutions. Although associations of women were not exactly plentiful then, they always wished it known they were ladies and nothing else but.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS FROM SMITH CHAPEL

We all feel better over the good rains we have had. Crops sure do look pretty in this part of the world. In fact we have a real good place to live. There was a large crowd out at church Saturday night. Bro. Joe W. English the Knox City pastor, preached and on Sunday Joe Burton from Munday who is attending Simmons University preached to a large crowd that night after the B. Y. P. U. We enjoyed each of the sermons and invite them to come back. The B. Y. P. U. class has on a race. The side that has the largest attendance gets entertained by the losers at the end of the month. So we urge every member and others to come help out on one side, and get in on the social. The young people of the Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. class are going on a picnic Sunday afternoon and are planning for a great time. Ferman McBathe and Leo Little spent Monday in the city of Haskell. S. N. REID SPENDING VACATION IN ARKANSAS

We are in receipt of a letter from our friend and reader S. N. Reid of O'Brien who with his family is spending a long vacation in Arkansas. He was in Hot Springs when the letter was written but he has visited numerous parts of the state. He spoke of having an old time fish fry and a real good time on all his trip up to the time he took to advise us through his letter of his many happenings. He also has been working with the plant board of the state in order to get the quarantine raised so that Texas can ship cotton seed to Arkansas for planting purposes. This he has about accomplished. Mr. Reid is one of the largest shippers of half and half cotton seed in this section of the state and he believes a better market for his products can be had in Arkansas. He says that he has enjoyed the mountain drives and this trip has been one of real amusement. He further stated that rain was falling in bountiful down pours to make fine crops and prosperous times. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mays returned last Thursday from Corpus Christi, Austin and San Antonio. They also visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dutton at Denton. Mr. Emmett Irwin and daughter Anita of Tucson, Ariz. are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Irwin.

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS FROM OOTTONWOOD COMMUNITY

The singing Sunday night was well attended. Roberts was our guest. We were very glad to have them, and welcome them, or any other singing class at any time. We have singing every other Sunday night. Several from this section attended the moon light picnic at Vontress Tuesday night. All report a nice time. The rain did not reach to all parts of the community but those who had rain are wearing different faces. Mr. Buster Bledsoe and Miss Clove Dryden motored over to Hemphigh, Texas Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Shaver Bledsoe spent a few days with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Patterson of Rice. We are still waiting for more rain for the one suffering from lack of moisture. D. B. Smires and family of Rochester were shopping in the city Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Gose had for a two week's visit their children, Dr. and Mrs. A. F. Leach and children and Mr. and Mrs. Felix Gose and baby of Wichita Falls, and they with their son Joseph Gose and Miss Ethel Bland enjoyed a fishing trip for a few days. One Cow Vs. A Dozen Analysis of more than 100,000 yearly individual records from cows on test in dairy herd improvement associations indicates 100 pounds of butterfat a year returned $14.00 each over cost of feed; those that produced 200 pounds, $36.40 over cost of feed, 300 pounds, $56.00 pounds, $138, and 500-pound cows returned $178 over cost of feed. Thus the man milking a 500-pound producer would have more return than if he milked a dozen 100-pound cows, and this would take no account of the added labor of milking and caring for the larger herd or of the much greater expense of providing stable room for a herd instead of a single animal. The figures from returns are based on farm prices from all parts of the country, including whole-milk districts.

MRS. C. M. KAIGLER THANKS FRIENDS FOR VOTES AND KIND WORDS OF ENCOURAGEMENT

I take this means of thanking my friends all over Haskell County for their votes and for their kind, honest, frank words of friendship when they had their own good reasons for voting for one of my opponents. You opened your homes most cordially and in most cases, earnestly invited me to spend more time with you than I felt that I had the time. In my private campaign speech to you, I did not say one thing that I did not say from the platform from evening to evening. The only reason that I was not elected is that I did not receive enough votes to elect me. I know my county geographically better. I am better acquainted with the people all over the county and I am fully confident that when the November ballot is cast that the newly elected officers will be as high a type class of citizenship and will be just as efficient as any set of officers in the past. Again I thank you.

Very cordially yours,
(MRS.) C. M. KAIGLER

To The Voters of Commissioners Prec. No. 4, Haskell County, Texas

It appearing from the returns of the primary election, held on the 28th day of July, that I have been eliminated as a candidate for County Commissioner of Precinct No. Four, Haskell County, Texas, by a very few votes, I take this method of expressing to those who were kind enough to vote for and support me in my campaign, my sincere appreciation therefor. I say this for the reason that I feel very kindly toward both of them for the manner in which they treated me while I was their opponent, and for the manner in which they conducted their own campaign.

POULTRY FACTS

PUSH LAYING HEN FOR FIVE MONTHS

Five months per year is enough in which to push hens into extra laying by extending the feeding hours through the use of lights. The North Carolina experiment station has just completed its second three-year test with laying hens and finds that the period between November 1 and April 1 is the period to use lights. For the remainder of the year, the birds should be allowed to feed during the normal daylight.

"Beginning with the pullet year, we have subjected hens to 36 consecutive months of 14 feeding hours per day, securing the extra hours by using electric lights," says Dr. B. F. Kaupp, head of the poultry department at state college. "This past year marked the completion of the second such test. Our results show conclusively that a hen must have a rest period between each year of exposure to the extra hours. This is needed that she might replenish her depleted stores of vitamins, minerals and vitality. It is not wise to subject a hen to the extra feeding hours for more than five months of the year, and the time between November 1 and April 1 is recommended."

Doctor Kaupp and his associates have found that a sudden reduction of the feeding hours will be accompanied by premature molting and that regular lighting will always give poor results in securing extra eggs.

Cod Liver Oil May Be Detrimental to Fowls

Prof. Eric Agulhr of Stockholm, Sweden, has issued a report which confirms doubt as to how far cod liver oil may be continued in the poultry ration with desirable results. In his experiments with white mice he found that the continued use of this oil made the animals too fat at the end of the feeding period, that there was a swelling of the bodies, and that various organs had been adversely affected. Other experiments with larger animals gave similar results. While cod liver oil may help temporarily, it is possible that it may be positively harmful if used continuously. Apparently it has had no detrimental effects in experiments in feeding it to poultry on this continent, but before it is made a regular article of diet for poultry, it should be given the most careful and prolonged investigation.

Sodium Fluoride Useful to Destroy Parasites

The best thing to treat hens for lice is sodium fluoride. The best way to apply is to dip each hen, but this can be done only on a warm day. One ounce of sodium fluoride to each gallon of lukewarm water. Grasp the hen by the wings in your left hand and immerse her in the water and ruffle up the feathers with your right hand so that the water will go to the skin. Then hold your hand over her nostrils and mouth and duck her head for a few seconds. If the weather is too cold to dip, this can be put on dry. Place a good pinch of the powder on the neck, the back, one under each wing, and a good big one under the vent.

Mrs. J. F. McCrary of Dallas is on a two weeks visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Kirkpatrick and other Haskell relatives.

Poultry Squibs

Poultry parasites are hardy and can live from four to five months after chickens have been removed from the hen houses unless a strong destroyer is applied.

It takes vigorous pullets with long broad and deep body developed to shell out eggs in the dead of winter when the thermometer is hovering around the zero mark.

Without some form of animal food to replace the summer bugs and worms, hens can't lay well, however free-handed you are with grain. This need is supplied by tankage, meat scraps, ground green bone, or skim milk or buttermilk.

Pullets of the heavy breeds can be too fat for laying while it is difficult to get Leghorn pullets overly fat.

The poultry breeder should not be influenced by trifling incidents that irritate the market. He should select and grade his poultry.

The poultry house is both the home of the hen and the factory where winter eggs are produced, and unless it provides suitable living and working conditions the hen cannot be expected to lay well.

Soy bean and clover hay. If brightly cured, may be used to take the place of alfalfa in the poultry ration.

It is much easier to prevent lice and mites getting a start than it is to get rid of them once they get a toe hold.

The Missouri station showed how profitable it is to add animal food to a grain ration. Each pound of tankage or meat scraps, or the equivalent in skim milk (one gallon) brought an extra dozen eggs.

POULTRY

ALL-MASH FEED GOOD FOR EGGS

Poultry keepers who have used the all-mash method of feeding chicks and growing pullets may continue the method for laying pullets. The plan has proved satisfactory for fall and winter egg production at the Ohio experiment station, and is being used by many successful poultrymen.

The only change in the all-mash for egg production, according to D. C. Kennard, station poultryman, is to increase the meat scraps from 5 to 10 per cent and decrease the corn from 70 to 65 per cent. Coarsely ground wheat may be used instead of middlings in the mash. And for best results, Mr. Kennard would also use milk in some form.

Success with all-mash feeding the laying pullets, especially for winter eggs, is largely determined by the kind of mixture and manner of feeding it. The mash should be as granular as possible rather than finely ground. A suitable type of feeder should provide 20 to 24 feet of eating space per 100 pullets. Fresh mash should be fed daily in the evening, the amount being about what will be consumed during the next 24 hours.

Electric lights may be used to advantage. A warm, moist mash fed in the evening, especially in cold weather, may prove beneficial.

Details relative to the all-mash method of feeding layers may be had by writing the Ohio experiment station at Wooster.

NAME OF ACTOR NOW A PROVERB

Lon Chaney has one odd boast—he is the only actor in the world who has practically become a proverb. It happened in Hollywood when some wisecracker pointed to a beetle and remarked, "Don't step on it—it may be Lon Chaney." That remark has been published, cartooned and repeated thousands of times since in every country in the world until it is literally a new proverb.

Chaney who appears in his latest Metro Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle, "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" at the Texas Theatre commencing Monday is one of the most interesting figures on the screen as well as the greatest boxoffice attraction. Born in Colorado Springs, he first saw the inside of a theatre as prop boy in his brother's playhouse. Later he became an actor in musical comedy, a dancer, comedian and singer, then a stage manager.

Early in the picture industry he became interested in films. He played Western heavies and then became a director, directing J. Warren Kerrigan in a series of pictures. He turned to acting to play "The Frog" in "The Miracle Man" and became famous overnight. Since then he has scored many consistent triumphs. Among his successes since he has been under contract to Metro Goldwyn-Mayer are "He Who Gets Slapped," "The Unholy Three," "Tell It to the Marines," "The Unknown," "The Big City" and others.

Chaney is also famous as being the only screen player chosen as one of the authors in the Encyclopaedia Britannica. He has contributed the chapter on make-up.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Montgomery returned from a three weeks visit to the Indian Hot Springs 30 miles south of Sierra Blanco on the Rio Grande River. Mr. Montgomery says this is one of the greatest health resorts that he has known in his long experience and that it did him much good drinking the water and taking the baths. He also has some real fish stories to tell. According to Mr. Montgomery the anglers catch fish in a different manner than is practiced in this country. The ladies help catch fish in that section and throw their aprons over the head of the fish so they can not see to make their escape and become easy prey of the fisherman. Mr. Montgomery is going back next year. He likes to fish.

TELLING THE WORLD

Outside and Inside Dope on Haskell County People As Told By Our Rambling Representative.

There is no section under the sun that is coming into recognition faster and with a surer tread than the great West Texas territory. It has grown in the past few years from ranching on a large scale to farming on the same gigantic proportions. Towns have sprung up all over this section like magic, farms have been broken out, homes have been erected, and the old saying goes, "The man with the plow has taken the place of the lowing herd."

Haskell county because of the many advantages which are too numerous to mention but are outstanding and well known as one of the greatest farming sections in all the west. Her farmers have prospered and have gone forward in a way that seems almost impossible. Her merchants have thrived and expanded where they had ability to command their business. The cities have built substantially and have made their mark in competition with other towns of this great state.

Weinert. The city of Weinert to the north is making a number of improvements here of late and is keeping pace with the record this section of the state has made. Below we give some of the things which are taking place in this progressive city.

Golf Course. Weinert has just established a golf course 1 mile north east of town and the sports of the city have already begun playing. There were 19 charter members and others are expected to come into the club until they will have a splendid membership. The course consists of nine holes and according to reports it is an extra good course and when the greens are sanded which will be done right away, Weinert will be on the map in golfing.

Farmer's Co-Operative Gin. The farmers are now erecting a new Co-Operative Gin in the north east part of the city of Weinert which will be one of the outstanding gins in the county. Work began on the foundation this week and it will be rushed to completion for the 1928 season.

Newson Gin. G. C. Newson of Weinert has raised the old building of his gin plant and is now erecting a new building to house the machinery and he expects to add the latest models of all repairs and new machinery needed to make his gin plant up to the minute.

The Planters Gin. The Planters Gin at Weinert has installed a new round bale press and is making other repairs getting ready for the bumper cotton crop of the Weinert trade territory. This gin will be completely overhauled and made efficient to its task.

CRANSTON WILLIAMSON GIN. This gin plant at Weinert will begin this week overhauling and in addition to this will add a new line of the latest cleaning machinery and everything will be done that is necessary to make this gin ready for patronage when the season opens.

Tom Collier. Mr. Collier of Weinert reports a hog killed by lightning during the Friday night's rain of two weeks ago which broke the drouth. Also two of his mules were injured by the same stroke.

Clint Hawes. Mr. Hawes of Weinert who has been connected with the Highway Garage of that city has accepted a place with the Magnolia People and will be the district agent for their products with headquarters at Munday, beginning his new position August the 1st. His father S. C. Hawes will continue the Weinert business at the Highway Garage.

Gas Mains. Weinert will receive its gas along with other towns because of the fact that the gas mains are just about complete to all parts of the city and they are welcoming this new fuel with much appreciation. Just when they will begin burning gas is not known but some of the citizens think it will be on or before the first of September.

Revival Meeting. A revival is being held at the First Baptist Church in Weinert. Rev. P. D. O'Brien pastor of the First Baptist
