Air Force changes 7-day option policy

WASHINGTON (AFNS) — The Air Force has changed its "seven-day option" policy to give lieutenant colonels and below a "say" in when they separate or retire if declining an assignment.

Changes in the non-voluntarily extended active-duty service policy became effective Sept. 29.

The policy, which gives officers seven days to decline an assignment, applies to all actions requiring an additional active-duty service commitment, including formal education and training.

The Air Force changed the policy to improve customer service while still meeting its needs. As an example, officials gave this illustration:

Captain Jones has 15 months left on her active-duty service commitment before she can separate. She is selected for an assignment to Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala. Since this is a two-year assignment, Jones would have to extend nine months; but she doesn't want to extend.

Under the previous policy, her only option would have been to request a hardship or miscellaneous discharge. Since the Air Force needs her skills, the request probably would be disapproved.

Under the new policy, the captain can:

- Request a separation or retirement date equal to her current commitment. Personnel officials will either approve that date or offer an earlier date of separation, based on requirements.

- Decline the earlier date of separation and keep her original separation date. However, the Air Force could leave her where she is; send her to an alternate assignment, either in the states or remote; or send her to the original assignment location with her current separation date.

"People say they understand the new policy and appreciate the change," said Lt. Col.

Wendy S. Campo, Air Force assignment policy team chief.

She said changes to policy do not include "grandfathering" provisions so people selected for an assignment or training before Sept. 29 fall under the previous guidance.

For more information, officers should contact the Reese Military Personnel Flight at 3420.

Chief Master Sgt. of AF to address wing enlisted

Chief Master Sgt. of the Air Force David Campanale will be the guest speaker for the Reese Enlisted Awards Banquet at the Reese Club, Nov. 18.

The wing will name its First Sergeant, Senior NCO, NCO and Airman of the Year at the banquet.

Tickets for the 6 p.m. banquet are $8 for E-1 through E-4 and $13 for E-5 and above. Call unit orderly rooms for ticket information.

Veterans Day

Safety is key to having a great weekend

by Col. Randy Gelwix
64th FTW commander

On Saturday we will celebrate Veterans Day. This day is set aside to honor all veterans for their service and sacrifice to this country. We will also enjoy a three-day weekend, the second of the fall season.

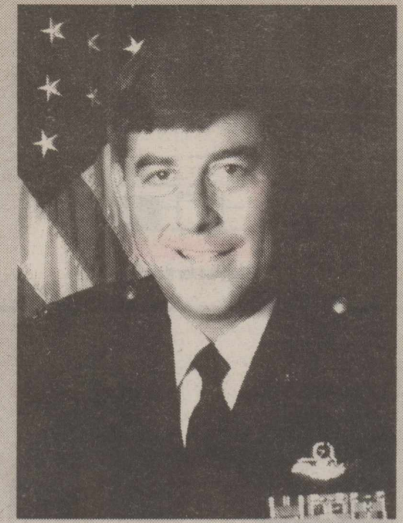

The long, hot days of summer are finally over and some cooler, more unpredictable weather will be setting in.

If you are planning to leave the local area over the weekend, you should take weather and road conditions into consideration. These conditions can sometimes change in a matter of minutes causing unplanned delays.

As I've said before, moderating the consumption of alcohol can eliminate many incidents. If you are planning a weekend gathering and plan to serve alcohol, ensure a designated driver is available.

Again, enjoy this weekend. Remember, we all need to take safety one day at a time!

Col. Randy Gelwix

Reese Village residents responsible for pet care

by Capt. Mauna Schott, USA
Reese Vet Services

Whether you are a new pet owner or have owned pets since arriving at Reese, there are responsibilities that you, as a resident of the base, should be aware of.

Local policy states that only three pets under the category of dogs and cats are allowed in base housing.

Exotic pets, such as ferrets, are not allowed to be kept in base housing. All pets residing on base are required to be registered at the Veterinary Treatment Facility within 30 days of arrival.

Pets must be restrained at all times, either in quarters, on a leash, or under direct control and supervision of a responsible person. Pets are not allowed to run loose on base.

If your pet is picked up by the Security Police while running loose, it will be taken to the Lubbock Animal Shelter.

The owner of the pet will be responsible for all boarding fees and must provide proof of rabies vaccination, or the animal will be vaccinated there at the owner's expense. If you suspect your pet may have been picked up, you should call the Reese Law Enforcement Desk at 3333.

Excessive barking, destruction of property, unprovoked biting of people or other pets, or owners failing to control their pets may result in the pet being barred from the base.

If you have any questions regarding pet control, please call the Veterinary Treatment Facility at 885-3535, or the Law Enforcement desk at 885-3333.

Cold weather increases carbon monoxide risks

by Capt. Ronald Dell
Chief, Bioenvironmental Engineering

Now that autumn is here and temperatures are getting colder, residents of base housing will be turning on their furnaces.

Remembering this information about carbon monoxide will help everyone have a safe heating season.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless and odorless gas produced by the burning of fuel, in this case natural gas.

Because incomplete burning of gas produces higher amounts of CO, Reese Housing Maintenance personnel check burner adjustments during annual inspections.

Residents should never adjust furnace burners on their own!

Symptoms of elevated levels of CO in your home may be headache, fatigue, and/or nausea.

CO poisoning leads to more intense symptoms and possibly confusion, unconsciousness, and death.

As of today, 90 Reese Village units have had CO detector alarms installed and the remaining units should have the alarms installed within the next few weeks.

If your CO detector alarms, do not wait until symptoms set in, leave immediately and call 911 from another residence.

If you do not have a CO detector installed yet, and suspect the presence of CO in your home, leave immediately and call 911 from another residence.

If you require an emergency response to your home, responders will check for the presence of CO, and maintenance personnel will inspect the furnace for malfunctions.

If you have questions about furnace servicing, call Reese Housing Maintenance at 3047.

If you have questions or concerns about carbon monoxide, call the 64th Civil Engineer Squadron Bioenvironmental Engineering Flight at 3327.

If your CO detector alarms, do not wait until symptoms set in, leave immediately and call 911 from another residence.

The 102 Critical Days of Winter

Now is the time to get your yard ready for the cold

by Maj. James Sohan
64th CES Operations Flight

Today marks the beginning of the 102 critical days of winter -- for maintaining your yard.

Since Old Man Winter's first "hard" frost is just around the corner, now is the time to begin protecting your yard against winter's damaging effects, while preparing it for a healthy start next spring.

If you haven't already done so, set your mower height to three inches to help protect your lawn against winter temperatures. Applying fertilizer during the next two weeks will provide your lawn critical nutrients for the dormant winter months, getting it started on the right foot next spring.

Your lawn, trees, and shrubs still need watering on a regular basis. However, after the first hard freeze, cut back on watering to just once or twice a month until spring.

Trim shrubs one final time to keep them looking good through the winter months. If your lawn has a few bare spots, it isn't too late to plant grass. Fescue works best this time of year. Other types of grasses are better suited for the spring season.

The yard inspectors are still out there; so, keep the area around your quarters well-maintained.

You need to rake on a regular basis until all the leaves have fallen, but please don't rake leaves into the street. The Civil Engineer sweepers don't have the capacity to pick up leaves. Bag your leaves and place them near the curb on Monday mornings.

You might need to mow once or twice during the winter months because winter grasses, weeds, and seed heads will sprout throughout the winter.

One good, final edging around the end of November should carry you through the winter, but keep one eye open just in case you need to edge again.

Strong winter winds mean you'll occasionally need to pick up trash and limbs. Specific guidelines on maintaining your quarters can be found in the "ABC's of a Happy Home" brochure provided to you by the housing office when you moved on base.

Following the simple guidelines discussed above should keep your lawn healthy, attractive, and prepared for next spring.

Fertilizer, grass seed, and soil are available through the Reese Self Help Store, Airman 1st Class Chris Watson, self help center, stacks bags of potting soil. The center has a variety of yard care items available.

located in building 552, extension 3415. Store hours are 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday.

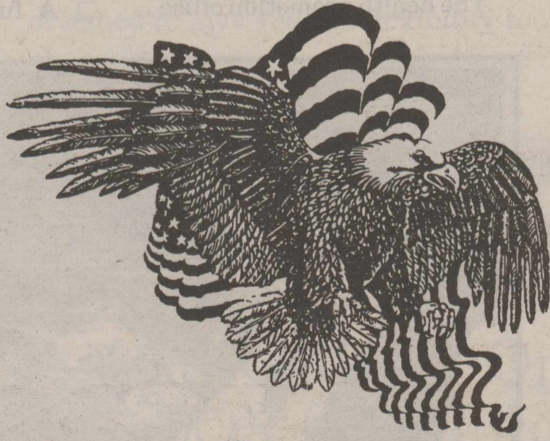

CE will deliver soil on Friday afternoons, but remember to submit your request to the self help store by noon on Thursday for Friday delivery.

Enjoy the winter and look for another article in February, with tips on preparing your yard for the summer.

Need help? Consider family support centers

From personal financial management to relocation assistance, family support centers are there to help.

□ Last year, more than 3 million people Air Force-wide visited family support centers.

□ Some families prepared for deployment, some found jobs for spouses, some had their budgets organized, and some just had questions about the local community.

□ Commanders believe that if people and their families are cared for, the mission will go more smoothly. Family support centers are tailor-made to do that.

□ With a dozen major programs and many more locally tailored efforts, FSCs are one-stop shopping for family needs.

□ Much of the help comes from volunteers. So, if you've got some time and are looking for a worthwhile cause, think about the family support center.

Whether you need help or want to give it, the family support center may be the answer.

CCAF: A class act

Are you enrolled in Community College of the Air Force? If you're enlisted and the answer is no, think about this.

□ Today's Air Force needs smarter, more technical-minded enlisted people than ever before.

□ More than 50 percent of our top three enlisted members are CCAF graduates.

□ Those with a two-year or better degree are promoted at twice the rate of those with no degree.

□ CCAF is the largest community college in the country.

CCAF makes a difference. Contact your local education officer and join today.

Senior NCO Board sets request deadline

RANDOLPH AIR FORCE BASE, Texas (AFNS) — Those master and senior master sergeants wanting to meet the Senior NCO Supplemental Promotion Board have until Nov. 24 to get their requests to the Air Force Personnel Center here.

□ The board meets at AFPC beginning Jan. 8 and those requests received after Nov. 24 will have to wait until the next board.

□ The only exception is for those individuals with a high year of tenure date of May '96 or earlier.

□ A member who believes his or her record may be in error should contact the military personnel flight, career enhancement element.

□ If an error is confirmed, the member should submit the supplemental promotion board request through the career enhancement element.

Reese looks for quitters during annual smokeout

In 1976, the first Great American Smokeout was observed in California. The following year it went nationwide.

This year, from midnight Wednesday to midnight Thursday, the Great American Smokeout will again challenge Americans to "Take a breather" and prove to themselves they can abstain from smoking for 24 hours.

There are approximately 200 active duty members that are using tobacco products at Reese. Every one of them has friends, co-workers, supervisors, subordinates and family members that care for them.

Reese Health Promotions officials encourage friends to "adopt" a designated smoker for this day.

The health promotion office will help by giving all tobacco users a stop smoking survival kit. This kit includes:

□ A pack of headless matches and brochures on the dangers of tobacco use

□ Benefits gained from quitting

□ A pack of gum and hard candy

□ Tips to help quit and information on professional smoking cessation classes

These will be given to each squadron for further distribution.

Throughout the day, various activities will help keep people focused. These activities include:

□ A reminder of the Great American Smokeout on the front gate marquee

□ A fun run (Run Your Butts Off) at 11 a.m. starting at the picnic grounds

□ Tobacco awareness presentations at elementary and middle schools

□ Cold turkey sandwich specials at the dining facilities
A free soft drink (with food purchase) for turning in a pack of cigarettes (at least half full) or a can of chewing tobacco (at least half full), to the cashier at the Doggie House, or a free soft drink or a free game of bowling at the Bowling Center, or get a half-price lunch at the Reese Club

For more information about the Great American Smokeout, or about enrolling in a smoking cessation class at Reese, call Maj. Phyllis Weir at 3242 or Master Sgt. James Koranda at 3860.

New store supervisors

From left, Alfredo Silva and Ronald Havens are new supervisors at the Reese Commissary. Silva is the deputy manager and Havens takes over as the produce manager. The commissary will be open today but will be closed Saturday in observance of Veterans Day.

Who's responsible for ensuring that the buildings are repaired, roads constructed and commodities purchased?

Primarily, civil engineer and contracting personnel working together for the benefit of all Reese Air Force Base people.

The 64th Contracting Squadron is a customer service organization. Last year the office purchased 8,753 items necessary to keep Reese running smoothly. These items included everything from repairing typewriters and roads to maintaining aircraft and providing simulator instruction for the flying mission as well as computer software and hardware.

Contracting teamed up with civil engineer and financial management to award 113 construction projects for fiscal year 95. Many projects are necessary due to impending base closure.

Contracting personnel are tasked with not only providing the taxpayer the "most bang for the buck," but also for meeting socioeconomic program goals mandated by public law. The Air Education and Training Command goals for contract dollars placed with small, socially and economically disadvantaged businesses were all exceeded.

Another noteworthy accomplishment of contracting personnel was spending 98.6 percent of available dollars on a competitive basis. These programs allow smaller firms to compete with larger firms—a process which keeps everyone "on their toes." Also, the citizens of Lubbock will be pleased to hear that over 5 million, or nearly one-third, of available dollars were spent with local firms. In addition, more than one-third of the dollars were spent in Texas.

With the cooperation and support of the wing, a lot was done for Reese AFB in FY 95. Look for even better service from the 64th Contracting Squadron in FY 96.

64th SPS solicit special 'warrants'

The 64th Security Police Squadron is sponsoring a Jail -N- Bail fundraiser from Monday through Nov. 17 to raise money for the Security Police Museum located at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, and various local charitable programs.

All wing personnel are invited to participate.

On Monday through Wednesday, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., the SPS will be accepting "warrants" from base personnel to have anyone in the wing "arrested" due to an accused crime made up by the person placing the warrant. To place a warrant, the price is $5 per half-hour of jail time.

On Thursday and Nov. 17; the "Posse" will proceed to the facility where the accused are located and "arrest" the individual. The individual will be handcuffed and transported to see a judge to determine the sentence. At this time the accused may pay "bail" to be relieved of his jail term.

Col. Edward De Iulio, 64th SPTG commander, gets an "inside view" of a jail cell at the 64th SPS, in preparation for next week's SP museum fund-raiser.

To pay bail, the price is $3.00 per half hour jailed. A phone will be available for use to assist in raising bail money from friends, spouses, or first sergeants of the installation.

Caldwell's family will continue to produce and direct the Opry and this will be the first show since his death. There will be an all-star cast featuring former performers who have gone on to stardom including a finale with a stage full of fiddle players and cloggers.

The show will be held at the Municipal Auditorium at 7 p.m. Tickets are available at Luskey's Western Wear on 34th Street. Lower seats are priced at $6.50 with balcony seats priced at $5.00.

TriCare questions, answers

by 1st Lt. Ward Hinger

Q. I enrolled in TRICARE Prime before Oct. 20, but have not received a prime identification card in the mail. How can I access health care without a prime identification card?

A. If you have completed the TRICARE Prime enrollment application but have not yet received your identification card you will still be able to receive medical care. Simply present your military ID card along with the yellow copy of your TRICARE Prime enrollment application as proof of your enrollment in the plan. Please allow approximately 4 weeks for the ID cards to arrive in the mail.

Q. I enrolled in TRICARE Prime and I am really confused with all the different telephone numbers. What is the difference between the Health Care Information Line and the Primary Care Manager?

A. The different phone numbers provide TRICARE Prime enrollees different services.

The Health Care Information Line can be accessed by dialing 1-800-611-2875. The HCIL provides symptom-based health information and advice regarding seeking medical attention. It is staffed by registered nurses 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

For preauthorization for urgent care after normal duty hours or if you are outside the Lubbock area, the nurse on the HCIL will transfer you to a Health Care Finder who will provide you with a preauthorization number prior to seeking health care.

The Primary Care Manager can be accessed by calling 885-3515. You may call this number after normal duty hours to consult with your provider.

We strongly recommend that you use the HCIL prior to calling the PCM; this will allow the PCM to attend to those cases which are truly urgent/emergency in nature.

TriCare's start date was Nov. 1. Pay close attention to the base newspaper and the Commander's Access Channel for information on TriCare and the enrollment process.

If you have any questions, please stop by the TRICARE Service Center in Bldg. 1300 or call 885-2999/1866.
