Colonel Kauffman to address 21 graduating aviators

Twenty-one Specialized Undergraduate Pilot Training students will receive their pilot wings today during graduation ceremonies for SUPT Class 95-08.

The ceremony will be at 9:30 a.m. in the Simler Theater.

The guest speaker for today's graduation is Col. Jerre Kauffman, executive assistant to the commanding general, Idaho Air National Guard.

Prior to this assignment, the colonel served as the Commander, 124th Fighter Group, Idaho Air National Guard, where he was responsible for the training and combat readiness of two F-4G "Wild Weasel" flying squadrons and their related support and maintenance squadrons. He is a command pilot with more than 7,300 hours of flight time.

Today's ceremony is open to the base and will be followed by several events in the Reese Club. A buffet is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. All Reese personnel are invited to the graduation buffet. There will be a parents' social at 6:30

Who needs to chew?

Those tobacco products can take more than the sparkle off your smile.

Small abrasive particles in tobacco products may severely wear away tooth enamel, according to research published in the March issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association.

Researchers from the Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas examined samples from 16 brands of cigars, eight brands of snuff and four brands of chewing tobacco and several unprocessed tobacco leaves used as cigar wrappers.

They found that these tobacco products, like many plants, contain tiny silica particles that are known to be abrasive to teeth. The researchers concluded that when tobacco products are mixed with saliva and chewed, an abrasive paste is formed that, over time, can wear down teeth.

The minute size of most particles prevents the chewer from perceiving the product as being too gritty, but the particles are abrasive in spite of their size.

The authors found that people who habitually chew foreign materials, consume a coarse diet or are repeatedly exposed to air that contains high levels of abrasive dust can experience increased tooth enamel and dentin abrasion.

Dental researchers have known that people who use tobacco products are more likely to suffer from tooth enamel and dentin abrasion than people who do not chew any tobacco products. Until now, researchers did not know what caused this erosion.

The Baylor researchers are among the first to discover that silica is the main cause of this abrasion in people who use tobacco products. The authors found in their research that, on average, insoluble silica comprised 0.5 percent of the weight on an average tobacco sample.

"Tobacco products are known to cause oral soft-tissue lesions, such as leukoplakia and cancer, but they may directly affect the teeth," said William H. Bowles, Ph.D, D.D.S., associate professor in the Department of Biomedical Sciences at Baylor.

Smokeless tobacco also has been linked to an increased risk for oral cancer. Nationwide, 30,000 cases of oral cancer are diagnosed each year and 9,000 deaths are attributed to oral cancer.

The 64th Medical Group Dental Clinic recommends that people avoid using tobacco products and that they see their dentist regularly for an oral cancer examination.

Keep safety in mind during spring cleaning

by Chuck Gerrior
Reese Safety Office

Reese safety officials again offer some very good tips on how to have a safe spring.

□ Use a step stool or ladder with treaded steps to climb or reach. Have the knowledge, skill and proper tools before you try a self-help project.

□ To avoid fatigue, alternate heavy and light work, and take frequent breaks.

□ Always wear heavy-duty shoes or boots with non-slip soles when mowing. Never mow in bare feet or tennis shoes.

□ Life jackets...life vests...personal-flotation devices. Regardless of the name, it won't work until you wear one.

□ Bicyclists must obey traffic laws that apply to motor vehicles. For example, cyclists should always ride with traffic.

□ Cyclists must take responsibility for being visible to motorists, pedestrians and other cyclists.

□ You can usually land a fish while sitting. If you must stand to keep the line from fouling, be sure your companion stays seated and keeps the boat on an even keel.

□ Never hike alone and never begin without ensuring the weather will be acceptable for the duration of the trip.

□ Keep potentially hazardous cleaning compounds capped. Do not leave unattended containers or buckets of water for even a minute if toddlers are about.

For additional safety information call 3045.

Reese garners AF award for outstanding program

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AETCNS) — Reese is one of three Air Education and Training Command bases recognized as winners of the 1994 Nathan Altschuler Award for excellence in educational programs.

Garnering the award from AETC are: Reese; Keesler AFB, Miss.; and Sheppard AFB, Texas.

The Reese Education Center, now part of the 64th Mission Support Squadron Education and Training Flight, is staffed by director Jeffrey Wilbur, Lynn Dodds, Mary Mayekawa, Kathy Wright and Sharon Hopkins.

Rounding out the award's six categories are: Scott AFB, Ill.; Osan AB, Korea; and Castle AFB, Calif. Categories are based on the size of the military population served by the base.

The Air Force established an annual outstanding base education services program of the year award in 1972 to recognize the most outstanding educational programs. In 1983, the award was renamed the Nathan Altschuler Award in memory of the late Nathan Altschuler, a former Tactical Air Command director who made significant contributions to Air Force education over his 32-year career.

The award provides Air Force-wide recognition to the education service centers which demonstrate the highest level of achievement in providing and managing voluntary educational programs during the fiscal year.

MEXICAN RESTAURANT TRENDS

Cinco De Mayo Celebration

(NAPS)—How are you planning to celebrate Cinco de Mayo? Sipping a margarita and sampling some fresh guacamole might be an appropriate way to take part in the festivities.

Many Americans celebrate the Mexican holiday, Cinco De Mayo, by sampling spicy cuisine at their favorite Mexican restaurant.

"The holiday started to become popular in California about 20 years ago as the Mexican answer to St. Patrick's Day," states Lee Healy, director of public relations at El Torito, the West Coast's oldest and largest chain of 112 Mexican restaurants.

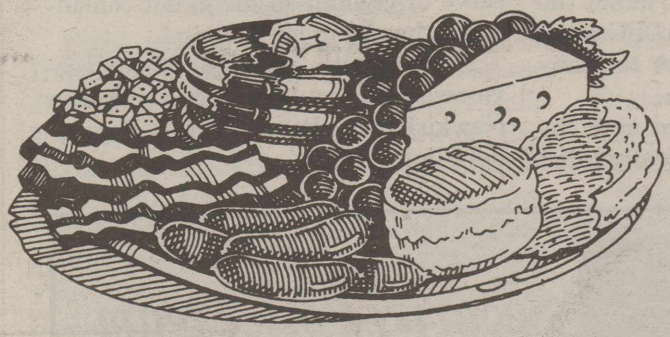

"Outside of Mother's Day, it is our busiest day of the year," claims Healy.

Cinco de Mayo or May 5th marks an important anniversary in Mexican history, a day when Mexicans celebrate their victory over the French army in 1862. That victory served as a rallying point for Mexico's freedom.

Chi Chi's, named "America's Best Mexican Restaurant" by Restaurants and Institutions, is also seeing an increase in Cinco de Mayo business in its 200 restaurants in the Midwest and East due to the growing popularity of Mexican cuisine.

Americans are warming up to chicken fajitas and jalapeño packed nachos, food that's spicy enough to make any meal a fiesta.

Aircraft demonstrations add spice to Reese Air Show

by Ens. Allen Ford
Roundup correspondent

In addition to a performance by the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, the May 13 and 14 Reese Air Show will include several other aerial demonstrations and flybys.

Bud Light Micro Jet

It's fast, it's tiny, it's amazing. It's the Bud Light Micro Jet; the smallest jet in the world.

When people see the red and white Bud Light BD-5, they find it hard to imagine that something so tiny can actually take to the air with a person inside. But it does, zipping across the flight line at speeds approaching 300 mph. Pilots Leo Loudenslager, Bill "Burner" Beardsley and Jack Ekl put the BD-5 through its paces.

WACO Mystery Ship and Wingwalker

During the wing-walking routine, watch in anticipation as Jim Franklin takes off in his UPF-7 WACO with Lee Oman riding on the lower wing. Keep watching as Lee quickly climbs to the upper wing, standing in the wing-walk rack. Witness the action as Lee rides through all kinds of aerobatic maneuvers including torque rolls, tail slides and spins.

Making this act unique, Lee and Jim do together what no other pilot and wing walker have even attempted, the Axle Hang, where Lee will hang by the Wheel Axle underneath the WACO while Jim performs Loops and Rolls.

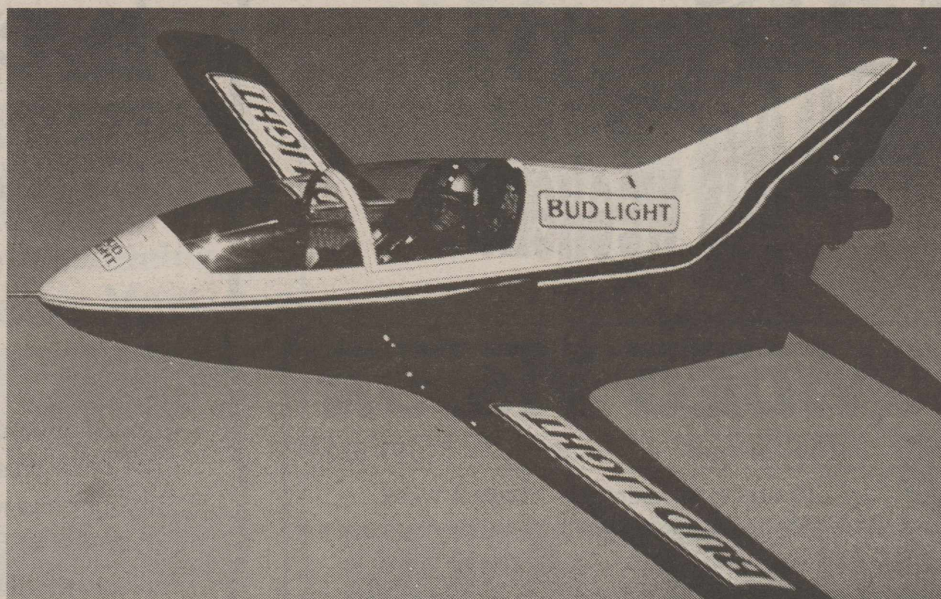

Pfeifler Airshows 327 HP Edge 540

Pfeifler Airshows performance consists of a series of precise unlimited aerobatic maneuvers flown in exacting sequence in front of the showline.

Highlights this year are combinations of tumbles, slides, loops, rolls, and multiple snaps flown both inside and outside. During the performance the pilot will endure over nine positive Gs and five negative Gs. The Edge monoplane possesses the fastest roll rate of any production aircraft today.

With a power-to-weight ratio approaching one-to-one, the vertical performance is breathtaking.

Also performing in the civilian category are a SU-26 and FE-5/AN-2. These are two outstanding aircraft you don't want to miss.

Other Aircraft Demonstrations/Flybys

Other aircraft performing for your viewing pleasure include the United States Air Force's own A-10 Thunderbolt II, F-15 Eagle and F-111 Ardvark.

Also, be prepared for a stunning exhibition from a Marine AV-8A Harrier, sure to be a show stopper. Then all the way from north of the border comes Canada's amazing CF-18.

Several vintage aircraft will also be in attendance, taking you back in time as they entertain and delight. Appearing overhead will be the B-17, B-25 Mitchell, P-38 Lightning, F-6F Hellcat, F-3F, and P-52 Mustang.

AF predicts fewer approvals for service waivers

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFMPC) — For the past five years, the Air Force Military Personnel Center here granted numerous waivers to individuals with active duty service commitments so they could leave the service early. The reason was the Air Force was drawing down one third of its force and the waivers were needed to meet the service's force reduction goals.

But with the closing of a large fiscal 1995 force reduction program and recent opening of a small 1996 program, the evidence points to a majority of the drawdown being over. And because of this, the ADSC waivers, once easy to receive, are now harder to get, according to a personnel official here. ADSCs are agreements between the Air Force and service members where they agree on a number of years on active duty in exchange for such things as training, schooling or accepting an assignment.

"Back in 1988, we had 608,000 people in the Air Force, but by October 1995, the Air Force will have approximately 400,000 people on active duty," said Lt. Col. Chris Livingston, Retirements and Separations Branch chief AFMPC. "Drawdown programs such as early retirement will probably only be offered sparingly. And, according to Livingston, "They will be very limited and only to a select targeted group of people."

With this trend, the use of waivers to shorten or eliminate active duty service commitments in the future is also limited.

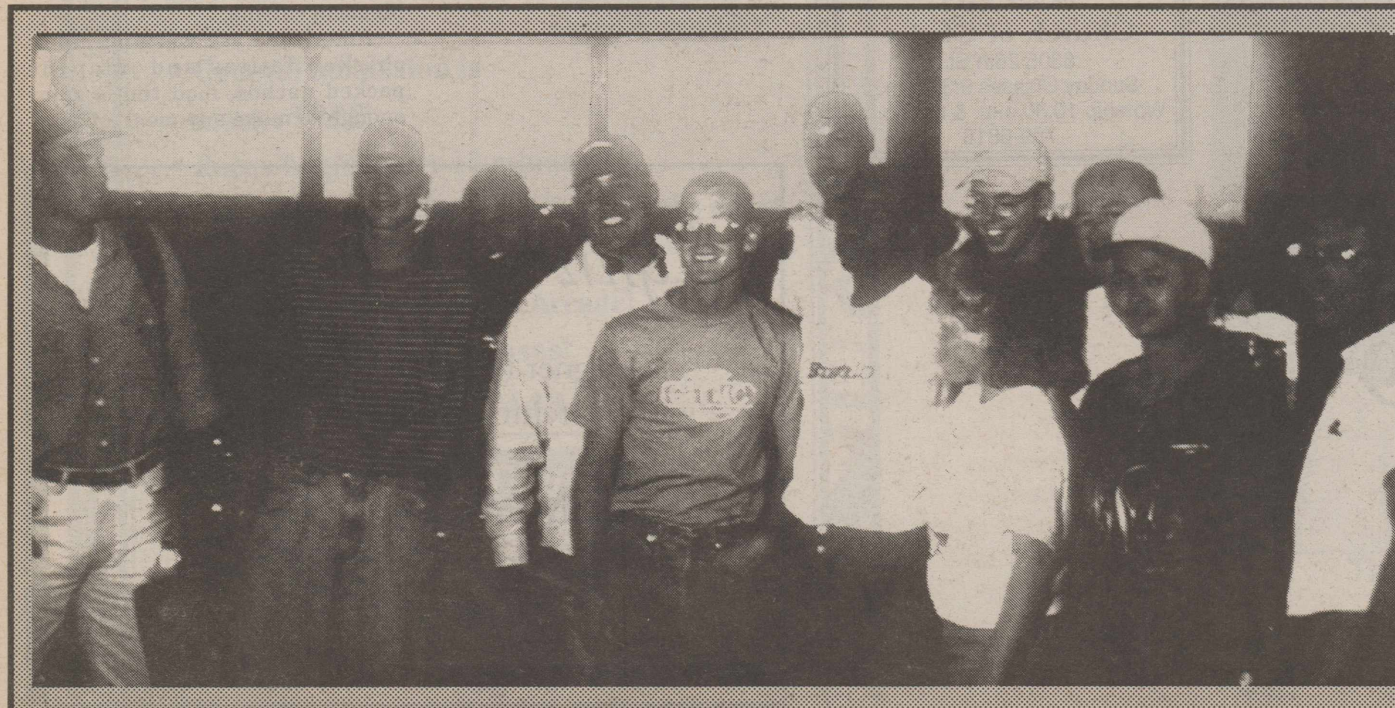

Livingston is the first to admit the major change in handling ADSC waivers will come as a surprise to many people.

"People were conditioned over the past five years that ADSCs really didn't mean anything," he said. "If a person really wanted to leave the service, AFMPC would grant a waiver and they could go. People need to realize, however, the Air Force tightened the use of waivers over the last year and may get even tighter in the future."

"People need to know situations like finding a good job in the Guard, Reserve or civilian sector is not considered a hardship for leaving."

Anyone with questions about service waivers should contact A1C Karen Newkirk at the Reese Military Personnel Flight, 3420.

Security Police team returns from Cuba
