

POULTRY

INFERTILE EGGS BEST PRESERVED

Only Fresh, Clean and Sound Should Be Used.

Only those eggs that are fresh, clean and sound of shell should be preserved or "put down" for use in winter. One spoiled egg will, in many cases, cause the entire lot to spoil.

To be absolutely sure that the eggs are fresh and the shells sound, they should be candied," says A. G. Oliver, extension poultryman at the North Carolina State college.

"An old shoe box may be used for this purpose by cutting holes in it to fit the egg and fitting it over a lamp or an electric bulb.

"This test will show up any porous or cracked shells and will also show if germination has started. This is a safety first precaution and, as it takes only a few minutes time, should be practiced by every housewife before putting down any eggs."

For best results infertile eggs should be used, but fertile eggs can be used with good results if they are put down each day. If this is done the danger of germination will be eliminated. Never wash the eggs before preserving as this removes the natural protective coating on the shell.

In preparing the solution, Mr. Oliver advises one quart of water glass to nine quarts of pure water. The water should be boiled and cooled before mixing with the water glass.

For containers, a clean stone jar is the best, but tin or wood vessels may be used. A six-gallon jar will hold about fifteen dozen eggs. Mr. Oliver states that the eggs at the top of the container should be covered by at least one and one-half inches of the solution. It is not necessary to fill the jar at one time, as fresh eggs can be added each day, but the jar, however, must be filled to the top and covered with the solution.

The containers should be kept covered to prevent evaporation and should be stored in a cool place until needed.

Give Good Ventilation

During Summer Months

Plenty of ventilation should be provided for brooder houses during the hot summer months, advises John Vandervort, extension poultry specialist at the Pennsylvania State college. Ventilators at the rear of the chicken house and windows at the front and on the sides should be kept open to allow free circulation of air. Mr. Vandervort says, results of poultry demonstrations among college fields prove that pullets reared in hot, stuffy houses are likely to be stunted and unprofitable.

Frequent cleaning of the house in the summer is necessary also to prevent flies from breeding and to keep the air in the building pure. Coarse wire netting placed around the roosts will keep the pullets from the manure, one means of helping to prevent tapeworm infection.

POULTRY FACTS

It requires 21 days to hatch hen eggs.

Pullets are not so easily chilled as hens.

Home-made feeds are the best for turkeys.

Ducklings can be brooded much like chicks.

It is stupid to attempt to have the duck eggs clean.

Baby chicks of a reliable hatchery is a sound investment.

Milk and liver oil, corn products, and leafy green food make chickens grow.

Flocks can be culled at any time, but the birders must go if the chicken enterprise is to pay.

Gather eggs regularly, twice each day, during excessively warm or excessively cold weather.

Turkey hens will lay in places prepared for them. Boxes or barrels placed suitably will do very well.

Poults, like young chicks, should be raised on a fresh range—one which has not been frequented by turkeys or chickens the year previous.

In order to make the greatest profit on chicks, it is necessary to raise as large a percentage of the chicks hatched as possible. In order to do this they must be kept warm and healthy.

If you were troubled last season with your little chicks dying with bowel trouble, try sulpho carbolate of zinc in the spring in the drinking water, about three-fourths teaspoonful to each gallon of water.

Pullets should not be allowed to come into maturity too quickly. Normally, a pullet starts to lay eggs as soon as she has reached maturity and her body ceases to grow.

Records which have been kept on some farms indicate that the profits from poultry have doubled when the chickens were given skim milk or tankage to supplement the ordinary ration.

The boy of course was the first to bring the intruder. The oars were brought into action and the fish was killed which would have been around 6 feet in length. SARGON A BLESSING TO HER, SHE STATES

"Sargon has done more for me in a few weeks than all the other medicines I took put together during the ten years I suffered."

"I had awful attacks of nervous indigestion and my stomach was in such a disordered condition I could not eat a good meal. I couldn't even drink a glass of buttermilk without suffering. In fact, for the ten days before I started Sargon I had not swallowed one mouthful of solid food; I had lived on orange juice. I had sharp pains in my stomach and was so weak I had to give up and go to bed. My nerves just went all to pieces and I never got a good night's rest."

"Sargon has surely proved a blessing to me. I can now eat most anything I want, without bad after effects. My nerves are normal, I sleep fine and never have to use a laxative any more like I did before I started taking the Sargon Soft Mass Pills."

"This remarkable treatment has given me my health and I feel like telling everybody about it."

Show your husband this new range

Here's a kitchen investment that pays its way

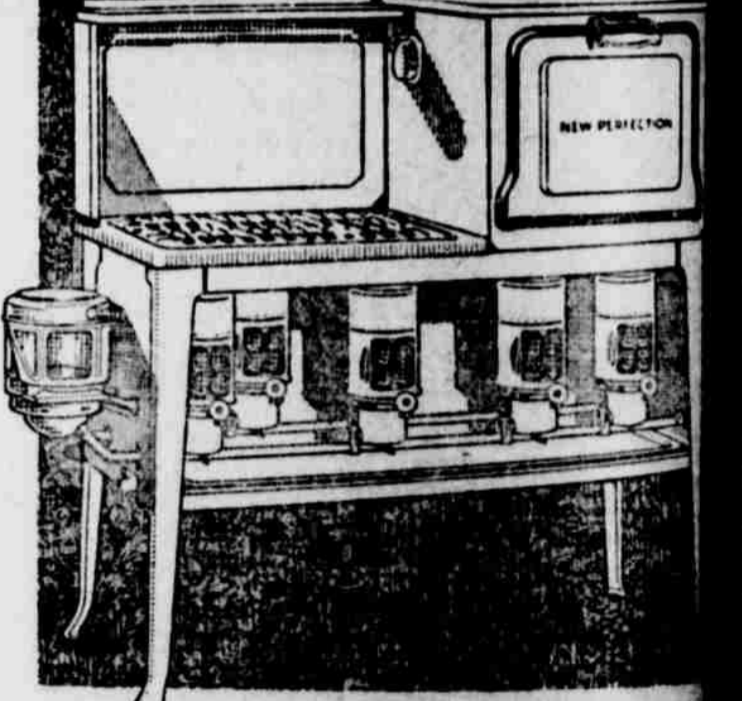

NEITHER you nor your husband would buy a stove for its beauty alone. But this beautiful new range is the most sensible buy you can make. Because every feature that makes it better looking, adds to its convenience and long life.

Look at the modern, straight-line design. Notice how compact it is... how carefully it is built to save steps... to speed up cooking.

7 features on the oven alone

See how bigger meals can be cooked in smaller space, and foods kept warm, with the grouped burners and all-grate top. Examine the oven, with its seven time and labor-saving features. It is built-in... air-insulated... enamelled... has five rack positions... accurate heat indicator... counter-balanced drop door. It bakes with "live heat", which means quicker cooking and better flavored foods.

Rub your hand over the finish: smooth shining porcelain enamel... can't get out. A damp cloth keeps it clean.

Look at the Superflex burners: "Little Giants" as swift as standard burners; one "Big Giant", swifter still. Note the automatic wick stops which give perfect flame control.

This beautiful range comes in all white or with a trim of gay color... with long Perfection or short Puritan chimneys. A similar model burns gasoline. Can also be had in the three different sizes. Prices, $18 to $164. See them at your dealer's. He will doubtless offer convenient buying terms.

Haskell Church of Christ

In last week's Free Press we noticed an explanation of (1 Pet. 3:21). There was also an explanation of (Jno. 9:31) week before last. With all due respect to the explainer who no doubt was conscientious in his work we affirm that those explanations were not true to Bible teaching. In other words that they were wrong. For the sake of truth, let us study both of the above passages separately.

1 Pet. 3:21

The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us, (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The one who wrote the explanation in the Free Press said the expression—like figures, had reference to another figure, and to be found in another verse, but the verse reads—the like figure. Again he says, in reality they were not saved because of water. But the Bible says in (1 Pet. 3:20) that "Eight souls were saved by water." Then he tells us that we are saved by Baptism figuratively in spite of such passages as (Mark 16:16); (Jno. 3:5); (Acts 2:38); (Acts 22:16); (Rom. 6:3); (Gal. 3:27) and (Luke 7:30). But of Baptism is a figure, we also have another figure or picture or form mentioned in the Bible. Baptism is a figure, picture or form of the burial and resurrection of our Lord, and the death, burial and resurrection are the very facts of the Gospel. (1 Cor. 15:1-8) which is God's power to save (Rom 1:16). Now since Baptism is a form of the burial and resurrection of our Lord, (Rom. 6:16-18) no wonder Peter said, an antitype, immersion now saves us also (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh (dirt, grease, etc.) but the requirement or request of a good conscience toward God (Baptist Translation of New Testament). Then according to the Baptist Translation, you seek or request a good conscience in Baptism, or immersion, which saves, or Baptism saves us.

Again in their article on (1 Pet. 3:21) their explainer said that the blood purges the evil conscience. Correct. Without the shedding of blood there is no remission (Heb 9:22) and he shed his blood in his death (Jno. 19:34). Then since the blood saves (1 Jno. 1:7) and it is in his death, we must get into his death where the blood is in order to be saved. But we are baptized into his death (Rom. 6:3) Therefore if we can be saved without Baptism, we can be saved without the Blood of Jesus Christ. Then (1 Pet. 3:21) means exactly what it says—That we are saved by Baptism and that Baptism is not for the purpose of washing the dirt and filth off of your flesh.

Jno. 9:31

Now we know that God heareth not sinners; but if any man be a worshipper of God and doeth his will him he heareth.

A part of the explanation of this verse is correct "that these words were spoken by a man who had been blind from birth; and that if Christ had been a sinner he could not have healed him." But these words do teach that God will not hear a sinner in answer to prayer. Let us study the passage closely for a minute. "Now we know that God heareth not sinners"—This is a direct statement that God will not hear a prayer of any sinner. "But if any man be a worshipper of him, and doeth his will, him he heareth"—The words "any man" includes every man. Then there are two conditions mentioned before any man's prayer is heard. First—he must be a worshipper of God. Second—he must be doing the will of God. There is just one kind of person that worships God and does his will—a Christian.

Therefore if any man be a Christian, God will hear his prayer. The clause (But if any man be a worshipper of God and doeth his will he heareth him) is a positive statement. Then the negative of this (But if any man be not a worshipper of God and doeth not his will heareth him not) is just as true. For a man that doesn't worship God and doesn't do his will is a sinner. Then God will not hear the prayer of a sinner. Get your Bibles and run the marginal references on Jno. 9:31 and you will find these verses—Job. 27:9; Ps. 18:41; 34: 15-16; 65:18; Prov. 1:24-26; 15:29; 28:9; Is. 1:16; Jer. 11:11; 14:19; Ec. 9:18; Mich. 3:4 and Zech. 7:12. Read these verses and you will see that God doesn't hear a sinner's prayer. What can a sinner pray for? Not for Saving Power.—"For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ for it is the power of God unto Salvation" (Rom. 1:16) not for remission of sins because—"Then Peter said unto them, Repent and be Baptized everyone of you in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ for the Remission of sins (Acts 2:38). Can a sinner pray for anything? No. Isa. 50:12, Behold the Lords hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear; but your iniquities have separated between you and your God; and your sins have hid his face from you that he will not hear.

Our last lectures were on "Gardening" and "Kitchen Equipment." Every night at 7:00 we went to a picture show. The main show was based on Agriculture. We were given a signal at 10:15 and at 10:30 all lights should be out. Saturday August 3, we left College Station at 3:39 for Galveston. We were in Houston an hour and our chaperone took us to the business section of the town and also went through the new Rice Hotel. We left Houston at 10:00 and arrived at Galveston at 11:00 o'clock. There we were carried to a park. We then went to the dock and saw one of the largest passenger ships of the U. S., "The Mohawk." At 2:00 o'clock we went 25 miles out in the "Galvez" an excursion boat that carried 350 people. We stayed out for three hours. After we went to the beach and went in bathing, we left Galveston at 9:15 Saturday night arriving at Haskell at 6:15 Sunday evening. By Eufaula Stanford and Juanita Mapes.

HOUSEWIVES BUYING LABORSAVING DEVICES Extreme shortage of domestic servants has sent the American housewife into the market for every kind of labor-saving household device. In 1928 she invested $108,000,000 in electrical washing machines and $18,000,000 for gasoline engine-operated washers. The number of electrical machines bought last year was 809,884 and about 800,000 more will be installed this year, bringing the national total up to more than 6,000,000. By early 1930 a total of a billion dollars will have been appropriated from the family exchequer for the cause of immaculate, trash, sweet-smelling garments, cleaned and returned in the home. "The American home is growing smaller in size, and each year it is being more intelligently arranged and equipped," says Silas H. Altorfer, heading the company that makes ABC washers. "Newspaper advertising has gone far in educating the housewife in the art of expert buying. At the end of 1928 there were 17,700,000 electric irons in use in American homes. Vacuum cleaners numbered 7,700,000, electric toasters 5,325,000, electric refrigerators, 1,223,000. Electricity is being turned to use faster in the American home than anywhere else in the world. More than 1,000,000 new residential users were added in 1928. In 70 per cent of the newly wired homes, the electrical washer is the first important appliance adopted to cut labor and confusion. "Washing can now be washed clean, quickly and effortlessly in a smooth Porcelain tub. The modern principle of spinning clothes dry in a centrifugal water extractor is finding great favor. New methods of washing make it possible to hang the clothes on the line in the sunlight and fresh air much earlier than old methods permitted. Satisfaction of home laundering with its guarantee of weather conditions is one reason why one wired home of every three in the United States has an electrical washing machine.

BETTER GET MARRIED

If statistics recently compiled by Dr. William F. Ogburn of the University of Chicago are to be accepted as accurate, those who desire to retain health, sanity, and even life itself, should get married if they are not already that way. He declared that most of the inmates of poor houses and insane asylums are unmarried; also that the death rate for single men and widowers is twice as high as that for married men. It has often been asserted that married men live longer, but a cynic once declared that this was not literally true, as "it only seemed longer." However, Dr. Ogburn's researches seem to bear out the idea that married life is really conducive to longevity. To be on the safe side, therefore, a young fellow had better get married, provided, of course, he can find some one who is willing to assume the role of party of the second part.

W. M. WHITEHEAD
WRITER FROM CALIFORNIA

Los Angeles, Calif.

Free Press:

My interesting experiences have been since I wrote you but in recollecting them, I hardly where to begin.

Most of the past week was spent at Long Beach, where I visited Mr. Long Beach's mother, and other relatives. Fortunately for me, we have a kin people in this section.

One afternoon, a nephew of his mother and me to Gerard, and town forty miles out. He and we passed numerous orange groves, where the trees were covered with the golden fruit; in fact, it seems to be the height of the orange season. Many of the oranges are bordered with evergreen trees, and on this occasion we rode two with a white rose hedge over the entire front.

When we entered the Toluca Pass, a wonderful ten mile drive, through the mountains to the highest point, where we had a grand view of the surrounding country, then began a descent thru several hundred feet above sea level. Alongside the drive, a crystal clear mountain stream, guided its way to the sea, while here and there, summer homes nestled in the open spaces. The drive is rightly considered one of the most beautiful in Southern California.

Coming out on the Santa Monica highway, we continued the drive to the pier, then through Inglewood to a home, completing more than a hundred mile drive.

I believe that people here think of the gasoline consumed or number of miles traveled, and are fortunate in that those who visit have cars, like to know Los Angeles like a other very beautiful drive which we made recently, was thru Fifth Park, which covers an area of about four thousand acres and traces most of the Hollywood

After picnicking for the day at a lovely, fern-lined stream, we went to the summit of the highest peak, where we had on one side, a panoramic view of Los Angeles, on the other side a splendid view of the bank and Glendale. The upland climb reminded me a good deal of the one to Cloudcroft, though there are no pines, the hills being covered with laurel and holly hedges. Winding in and out over the hills, the drive covers a distance of fourteen miles, the entire being paved. Another mountain drive which is very picturesque was made while visiting a nice residence. This time our destination was Flintwood, a community of attractive homes and a magnificent hotel, high in the hills. From here we overlooked a lovely view of the town of Azusa.

Most delightful trip of which we not told you, and one which visitors are supposed to make, is the one to Catalina Island. We went over on Sunday, as that was only day on which all of our could get away. When we reached the harbor at Wilmington, nine o'clock, a mighty throng of people was there, and I wonder, all of them were going over covered later, however, that of them had merely come with "to see them off." Crowds of people are to be seen anywhere, and that is not surprising. We take into consideration there are a million and a half in Los Angeles, and numerous places nearby. But back to our trip—we pulled away from the wharf in a dense fog, with siren whistles blowing and the fog horn sounding a warning. The heaviness continued until we were far out in the harbor, when all at once a huge ship rose phantom like out of the mist, her prow almost touching our vessel. Many of the passengers seemed to think we had barely escaped a collision.

We secured seats next the rail, on the upper deck, as the rolling motion was not so noticeable here as below, and the outlook was better. When the fog had cleared we discovered numbers of steamships about us, as well as fishing crafts and speed boats, and passengers on deck a big steamer returning from the island gave us a cheery greeting. I thoroughly enjoyed watching the vessel as it ploughed thru the water, throwing up billows of spume, filled with soft blue and white lights. The lights and shadows on the water are lovely at any time, but especially so in the early morning.

We were greatly amused to see schools of flying fish cross our path, and half way over, an aeroplane alighted and skimmed gracefully over the water for a distance of several hundred feet, rising again into mid air.

The crowd on our boat, two thousand in number, was greeted enthusiastically when we landed, by throngs of people lined up on shore. Some very beautiful places were visited during the day, and a trip on the glass bottom boat revealed to us some of the mysteries of the deep, as we viewed rocky hills, valleys and canyons very much as they appear on the earth's surface. These were covered with sea weeds and fern, and inhabited by various kinds of fish. A beautiful sea weed, or kelp, as it is called, adds much to the attractiveness of the submarine gardens, as it has all the appearance of a tree with lacy leaves, being enabled to stand upright by means of the bulbous pods at the base of each leaf. A single branch often grows to a length of four hundred feet, so we were informed, and from this plant comes much of the world's supply of iodine.

One of the most beautiful incidents of the day happened as we turned our faces homeward in the late afternoon—when all were on board and the anchors loosed a string band on shore began playing, "He Lives on High," following down to the very end of the pier, then the band on the bridge of our ship responded with the same air. It had the effect of a benediction on the mass of people aboard, and no doubt many carried the beautiful truth on, as the music floated over the water, and re-echoed from the hills on shore. Going over, we were on the S. S. Catalina, but the return trip was from the Avalon, a somewhat smaller boat, carrying eighteen hundred passengers. The air was beautifully clear and the water placid, with nothing to disturb it except the flying fish and a school or two of porpoise which we passed. Numbers of small boats were to be seen and as we drew into port, we had a good view of the naval fleet, ten huge vessels.

Another event we enjoyed very much, was our visit to the Pilgrimage Play, one evening the past week. This is a companion play to the one given in Oberammergau, dealing entirely with the life of Christ. It is given in an open air theatre, in the Hollywood Hills, the sides of the mountains forming an effective and natural setting for the scenes enacted. In fact the life of Christ becomes realistic before the eyes of the spectators, and they follow him as he tramps over the Judean hills, heals the sick, the lame and blind, and raises Lazarus from the dead; even down to the crucifixion and resurrection. The oriental manners and customs together with the vari-colored lighting, produce a wonderful effect and the entire audience sits breathless and spellbound.

One of the most effective scenes is on the Mount of Transfiguration, high up the mountain side. Christ and the two disciples are shown in snowy white, with a soft blue light envelops them. People journey from far and near to see this play and truly it is beautiful and effective in these hills. A great deal of care is used in selecting the cast of characters, Ian McClaren playing the role of Christ.

Space forbids me telling of the motion picture studios, which we pass repeatedly, and a most interesting visit to the Grand Central Market, on Saturday night—but perhaps all of you will see for yourselves some day.

Just now, people are enjoying the evenings on the beach and making a run for "grunion" or small fish which are brought in by the waves in a certain time of the moon, and left, temporarily, on the sand. It is quite a sport, to run for the tiny white fish before another wave takes them away. Most every night the past week, fires have lined the beach, while people watched anxiously for the "lucky" tide. Needless to say, the hunt proves a joke many times.

HADN'T SEEN A WELL DAY FOR FIFTEEN YEARS, SAYS FARMER

Abilene Man Says Orgatone Has Done Him a World of Good

"It sounds like it would be enough to say that Orgatone relieved me of trouble; that has made me miserable for fifteen years, but that's not all this medicine is doing for me, for I can just feel myself gain in health and strength every day and feel like a different man," said L. G. Calceote, who resides on rural route 4, Abilene, Texas.

"I've been a farmer for thirty years and for fifteen years of that time I've hardly known what it was to have a well day. In fact, for the past four years I haven't been able to do any work at all, my nerve system were all torn up. I was very sore across my back. I never had any sharp pains exactly, but there was a dull aching feeling in my stomach and back practically all the time that made me so miserable and no medicine I took gave me any relief.

"That's what makes it seem so wonderful to be feeling like I am today. I have only taken two bottles of Orgatone and I can tell you truthfully a great many of my old troubles are disappearing. I can eat a good hearty meal and enjoy it, sleep like a log and that soreness in my stomach and back has left me. All I could say would not tell half the gratitude I feel toward Orgatone."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Haskell at the Oates Drug Store.

SOUND HORN THEN REACH FOR BRAKES

"Reach for the brakes instead of the horn," may be a catchy slogan, but the wise motorist uses both, says S. Ewing McNay, president of the Greene County (Penn.) Auto Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. McNay pointed out that automobile horns are a most useful feature of the present day car and have contributed much to safety.

Mr. McNay continued with the statement that: "There's something in the widespread criticism of the current cigarette slogan that seems to fit the motorist like a glove. We are told to reach for the brakes instead of the horn, by a few wiseacre safety advocates who picture horning as the basis of all evil on street and highway. But there is something inherently safe and necessary in sounding the horn, and accidents have been averted through competent signaling with the horn when stopping would have been fatal.

Haskell Baptists

1 Corinthians 15:29 Explained

"Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? Why are they then baptized for the dead?"

This scripture does not mean, as is believed by a few, that a living person can be baptized for a friend who died without being baptized and the baptism will be accepted as a substitute for the dead man's duty. It must be remembered that this whole chapter is on the great doctrine of the resurrection. Paul used many arguments to prove that there would be a general resurrection of the dead. He declared that Christ's resurrection was an evidence that we too should rise. He used the great change that came in his marvelous conversion to prove that the resurrection was an certain as religion is real. In verse 29, he holds up Christian baptism as a proof of the resurrection. The Corinthians did not practice vicarious baptism, but being filled with a God given faith in a resurrection, they were baptized to represent and express their faith in a resurrection. If there is no resurrection it would be folly to submit to such an ordinance and give the world a picture of a false doctrine. Every Christian that is baptized is preaching a sermon to a lost world in baptism. They declare that one day the graves will burst, and as the Christian comes forth from a victory grave, the dead will come from the earth.

PAINS Went Away

My husband was very much run down in health. I had a painful ache across the middle of my back. I had a dull, tired feeling, and I dreaded the thought of having to do my household tasks. I was tired when I got up in the morning. I got no rest. I was sleeping all day long.

My husband had a bottle of Cardui for me. It was not long before I began to show a decided improvement. My strength began to return and I felt much more like myself. The aching pains in my back and my husband's pains disappeared.

Cardui is a wonderful medicine for women. It is sold by all druggists. Write for my name to: Ebbelway, Box 28, P. O. D. 1, Elwood, Okla.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT SHORT COURSES HELD LAST WEEK

The three one-day agricultural short courses held in Haskell County Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the past week were proclaimed a success by the more than 250 people who attended the meetings. The opening meeting was held in the Rule Theatre at Rule, then on Friday at the Courthouse, Haskell and the closing day in the open air tabernacle at Rochester.

O. B. Martin, Director of Extension Work in Texas, was at the opening meeting in Rule and brought a message of optimism to those present. This talk was well worth the time of the three short courses and those who failed to hear the talk are losers for not being out.

S. C. Evans, District Agent, in the absence of E. M. Regenbrecht, Swine Specialist, substituted for this subject and brought out many points of interest. Due to other engagements in this section of the State, Mr. Martin and Mr. Evans had to leave after the meeting at Rule, so could not be present at the other two places in the county.

MAGAZINE CLUB FOR CONTINUING EXTENSION WORK

Issuing a call meeting of the Magazine Club, Monday August 26, the president brought before the membership the fact of the Commissioners Court of Haskell County withdrawing the appropriation set aside as part payment of salary for our County Agent and Home Demonstration Agent. This action on the part of the Commissioners Court is, indeed, deplored by the Magazine Club as the Club was, in a great measure, responsible for the county obtaining the appropriation for the County Home Demonstration Agent and it was through the foresight of some of our progressive business men and women that we have a County Agent and by withdrawing this appropriation we are set back in this work for years to come as this appropriation will be placed in some county now on the waiting list and there are some thirty counties in Texas on this waiting list. This waiting list is, in itself, evidence of the importance of this extension work in the County and in the State.

The Magazine Club sincerely hopes that the Commissioners' Court will reconsider and find it possible to continue this appropriation.

Furthermore, we want to say to the women of Haskell County that we stand ready and willing to cooperate in any and all ways for the betterment and upbuilding of your work and of the county as a whole.
