Buy a new hat! It needn't be an expensive hat, but it ought to be a gay hat—a smart and jaunty hat, a bright and cheerful hat.

For there's nothing that will lift your head so high, nothing that will so quickly restore morale, nothing that will make the whole world sing a new song-no, not even a bequest from an unknown uncle will have the same blithesome effect as a new hat.

And that goes also for eleven other months in the year.
