The improved V-S engine is fitted with all-aluminum cylinder heads, steps in motor design in many years. Because aluminum dissipates heat more rapidly, the use of the aluminum cylinder heads permits higher compression pressure and results in increased speed, power, and smoothness, faster acceleration and added fuel economy.

Smooth engine suits also from the basic 8-cylinder design and the 3-point rubber mounting. Cylinder blocks are set at a 90-degree angle. The crankshaft is fully counterbalanced and the crank throws are at 90 degrees. Opposing pistons and connecting rods are even in weight. All of these features combine to place all moving parts in natural balance, resulting in exceptional smoothness of operation. The engine is fitted with down-draft carburetor, air-intake silencer and a diaphragmtake silencer and a disphragmtype fuel pump.

Peatures of the 112-inch wheelbase chassis include an extremely straddle mounted rear axle pipion, transverse cantilever springs, internal expanding mechanical four wheel brakes, 17-inch welded steel spoke wheels and tires of 5.50 inches section.

In the new three-quarter floating rear axle, the driving pinion is mounted in a double taper roller thrust bearing at the front and a straight radial roller bearing at the rear. This maintains permanent alignment of the pinion with the ring gear under all driving conditions and results in extremely quiet axle operation.

The frame is cushioned by four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers which are both automatically and thermostatically adjusted for every variation in weather or road surface conditions. The shock absorber links are insulated

The transmission is of the synchronized type, with helical constant mesh gears, and functions unusually quiet both in second speed and during speed changing. The clutch is of the double-disc type and is spring cushioned for soft en-

"A $10 Gold-piece ---for Sale Cheap"

Not so long ago, an interesting experiment was made, to test the "sales-resistance" of the public. Several men paced the down-town streets of a large city. hawking their wares. And the wares, believe it or not, were ten dollar gold pieces-offered for sale at a dollar. No one bought; the price was reduced to fifty cents; finally to a quarter . . . still no sales!

Only after this experiment appeared as news in the papers did those who turned down the bargain gold become convinced of their mistake. They doubted the evidence of their own senses when they were offered something for nothing, but they believed in the opportunity they'd lost when the newspapers told them the story.

In the papers that you read, you are offered a parallel opportunity-equally genuine, and sponsored by people of proven responsibility. What! You've never seen it? Stop for a minute and think. This newspaper cost you a trifle—which you gladly paid to learn what's happening in the world, to read about people and events. But there's other news here of vital importance to you-about things and sroices, about automobiles, clothing, food, household waresabout all those things which you pay money for, to live.

The advertisements! Your newspaper-pennies buy this news too. If you read the advertisements, let them show you how, where, what and when to buy; they will save you dollars . . . and put money in your pocket just as surely as if you purchased a bargain gold-piece.

A NEW DEAL FOR THE FARMER

Congress is again wrestling with the problem of farm relief, and a new scheme known as the "domestic allotment" plan has been embedied in a bill which has passed the House. However, it is not likely to become a law during the present lame duck session, but it, or some other bill of a sweeping nature will doubtless be enacted by the forthcoming special session. Agriculture must live if the nation is to live. The farmer must carry on if industry is to survive.

The domestic allotment plan is patterned after suggestions made by President-elect Roosevelt during his campaign and is said to be the Roosevelt plan for emergency farm aid.

Under this plan the government would pay to farmers, who agreed to reduce production 20 per cent, a bounty equal to the difference between the depressed prices they now receive and the pre-war prices which they received, raising the money for this bounty by taxing flour millers, meat packers, manufacturers of cotton goods and other processors. It is intended solely as a temporary emergency measure until such time as a permanent program can be worked out to include a readjustment of trade barriers, the making of our unit of money a true measure of value, the refinancing of farm mortgages, a shifting of taxes that have borne too heavily on the farm and ranch, and a very real reduction of governmental expenses.

The following is an explanation of the plan in detail by its author. Representative Marvin Jones. Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture:

The aim of this emergency bill is to establish as a minimum farm price for the commodities named, a price in the same ratio to the present general commodity price level as the pre-war farm price related to the general price level in pre-war times. In other words, it would give farm prices today the same purchasing power (measured in terms of other commodities) that they had during the period of 1909 to 1914.

'If this ratio of fair exchange value existed today, the price of wheat would be 93 cents a bushel and the price of cotton would be 12 cents a pound, instead of about 35 cents for wheat and five cents for cotton. Under the terms of the measure, these ratio prices would commence when the new harvesting season starts. The regular market would not be interfered with in any way: the farmer would merely get a certificate for an additional sum representing the difference between the market price and the parity price.

"But the period between now and harvest would be designated as 'the initial period' and the ratio of fair exchange value would be placed at 75 cents per bushel for wheat and nine cents per pound for cotton. These prices would apply only to those commodities now held by the producer himself.

"The farmer would be paid with an 'allotment certificate,' the difference between the normal market price and the 'fair exchange price.' To qualify for this he would have to show proof of a reduction in his acreage or production-of the given commodity by 20 per cent. Such a provision would help eliminate the huge surpluses that are depressing farm prices. The farmers' certificate allowances would cover only that part of the production going into domestic consumption, such amounts to be fixed by the department of agriculture.

Here is a simple example of how the farm allotment plan would work during the initial period, assuming that the domestic consumption of wheat is fixed at 70 per cent of the total crop:

'A farmer hauls 1,000 bushels of wheat to market, The prevailing market price is 35 cents a bushel. He sells his wheat for that price. He is given a government certificate for the difference between that and 75 cents (or 40 cents a bushel) on 700 bushels, which amounts to $280. Thus, he would receive $280 in addition to the price paid by the buyer for his 1,000 bushels. This certificate would be redeemed by the government for cash. half in 30 days and half in six months.

"After the initial period-when the new harvest season starts the full ratio prices would apply. These ratios would be calculated by the Secretary of Agriculture, on 1909-1914 farm commodity prices correlated with industrial prices over the same period to arrive at a parity of buying power. "Where would the money come from?

"A processing fee would be levied by the government on the manufacture of these farm commodities and this fee would be equal to the difference between the prevailing farm price and the pre-war ratio price. The fee would be paid by millers, meat packers, manufacturers of cotton goods, etc. As soon as the pre-war price levels are reached, the bill would automatically coase to operate. Can anyone deny the fairness of such

"Would the processor pass this tax on to the consumer, thus increasing the price the consumer must pay? "As a matter of fact, there should be very little adtional cost to the consumer. The price of flour and the ce of bread today are approximately the same as before the war when wheat was selling for 93 cents a bushd, instead of 35 cents. Since there are 62 loaves of ead in a bushel of wheat, an increase of 60 cents a hel over the present-day wheat price should represent additional bread cost of less than one cent a loaf."

What was your first adventure as a customer before the world? Possibly as a very tiny tot ... with a penny in your fist; and your nose flattened against a show window. Long you debated with yourself—cocoanut strips, or licorice pellets, or chocolate soldiers? It was serious business, for you and the storekeeper.

But he put his best values before you, and in the end everybody was happy—you, because you'd made a satisfactory purchase; he, because he'd made a satisfied customer.

In that transaction blossomed a buying acumen which no doubt has helped to serve you ever since. Likewise, the aim-to-please policy of that storekeeper is to this very day the golden rule of successful merchants and manufacturers. Read any of their advertisements and see. Could they afford to spend money for advertising space and then disappoint you? Of course not. The goods they advertise are their best offerings. They count on them to win both your immediate and your continued patronage.

When there's something you need or want—or might want if attractively made known to you—clutch your pennies and greenbacks in either hand; study the advertisements in this paper; and surely you'll be guided in the direction that leads to the most for your money.
