Mrs. J. U. Fields Presents Mrs. J. M. Radford in a Talk on "The Orient."

Always of major interest are the happenings at the Library. Society was agog Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Mrs. Fields made possible a pleasurable occasion in presenting her honored guest Mrs. J. M. Radford of Abilene, Mrs. J. M. Brooks of Abilene, and Mrs. Robt. Reynolds, president of the Magazine Club.

Mrs. Fields in her introduction stated she had always wanted to do something real nice for her club, and felt that there couldn't be anything finer or of more interest, than having Mrs. Radford with her charming graciousness and lovely personality tell of her trip and sojourn in the Orient.

Mrs. Radford talked most vividly of her travels, said "the Orient began at San Francisco," told of interesting events from there to Japan and China. A saying of the Japanese was quoted, that "if you return good for evil, what do you return for good?" She told of the customs, rites, the superstitions, gave menus, related the times when she was the "goat" and reminded us that baby girls are still "unwanted" in those two countries today. Japan wants sons and more sons to fight and for war, while China is more humane, her sons are to be tillers of the soil, nevertheless she too wants only sons. This was a most enjoyable talk.

Mrs. Brooks was then introduced. She told of their newly purchased "club house."

Mrs. O. E. Patterson favored us with two musical selections.

We were then asked over to the Fields' home, where a lovely party awaited us, with a beautifully appointed table, laid with a cloth of finest linen and lace, silver, and four tall pink tapers, centered with a superb cut glass bowl of the loveliest blue, filled with sweet peas, tinting from the palest pinks to the deeper rose. Mrs. Robt. Reynolds poured the tea and Mrs. Joe Jones served the salad from a large platter garnished with celery. The guests were given plates and they partook of the many edibles on the table. Assisting in serving were Mesdames Wallace Cox and C. V. Payne.

This was the nicest party of the season and everyone had a delightful time.

Woman's Missionary Society Honor Mrs. Whatley.

Members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church honored Mrs. H. R. Whatley with a birthday party Saturday afternoon in the basement of the church.

When the guests had assembled, Mrs. L. P. Taylor directed a short program, introduced with her own tribute to a "Pal." Mrs. Vaughn Bailey and Theda Maples gave vocal solos, accompanied by Miss Mildred Simmons and Sue Couch, respectively; Louise Warren and Geraldine Hunt read a number of selections and Sue Couch gave a piano solo.

Several contests were played, the last of which was a fortune-telling contest. When the honoree had been blindfolded, Mrs. Taylor read seven little verses, each presenting a birthday gift beginning with one of the letters in "Whatley." Seven members of the organization brought in the gifts mentioned and were followed by the girls who brought other gifts in a large basket. The last presentation was a large birthday cake, decorated in pink and white.

Refreshments were served to the following guests: Mesdames R. J. Reynolds, L. P. Taylor, W. L. Norton, O. M. Guest, J. W. Gholson, J. E. NEWS FROM OVER WEST TEXAS

Big Gas Well West of Crowell.

From The Ford County News—

A gas sand measuring forty-one million cubic feet was reached at a depth of 3,125 to 3,127 feet in the Texas Co.-L. K. Johnson No. 3 oil test at about noon Wednesday.

This test is located on the L. K. Johnson ranch about 20 miles west of Crowell. The rock pressure at present is 1,000 pounds and the gas is dry.

Officials at the test intend to let the gas run wild until Friday and if oil is not blown in by that time, it is then planned to stop the flow and continue drilling.

On Dec. 1, 1932, at a depth of about 3,008 feet, a gas sand estimated at about 30,000,000 cubic feet was reached in this test and it was several weeks before the gas was shut off so that drilling could be resumed.

Knox County Led Wins With Hog At Wichita Falls Show.

From The Munday Times—

A Knox county lad won recognition in the hog and calf show held last week at Wichita Falls. Price Tremmier of the League Estate, a member of the 4-H club, exhibited a barrow in the 175-225 pound class that not only took first in its class but was awarded grand champion of the entire show.

The hog is of the Hampshire breed and the judge who placed the award expressed regret that the animal could not be entered in the Fat Stock Show at Fort Worth, which was impossible due to the fact that the date for making entries had expired, however, the barrow will be entered in the Lubbock show, and is destined to give some hard competition there, according to W. E. Jones, county agent, under whose supervision young Tremmier had fed his hogs.

More Work Being Done on Knox County Highway.

From The Knox County Herald—

Committees have been busy on the securing of the right of way for highway 16 through the Knox City precinct this week and Wednesday, it was hoped several deeds would be signed for tracts of land.

It is likely that deeds will be signed to all the land for the right of way in several days, and as soon as this is done, work will start right away on the road.

According to the promise of the State, this will mean the paving of Highway 16 from where it now ends, about three miles south of here, through Knox City, to the bridge across the Brazos river north of town. This will include main street of Knox City.

Concrete Work on Brasos Bridge Finished.

From The Newcastle Register—

The concrete work on the last span of the Brasos River bridge has been poured and the work of placing the hand rails is going ahead and this too, will be completed in a few days. Painters are also busily engaged in putting the finishing touch on the structure.

The spirit of helpfulness that moves country folk to help each other make a living on the farm is illustrated in the story of Emmett Nickel of Red Deer community in Roberts county. He learned the "A. and M. way" of butchering and cutting up hogs and beaves from an Extension Service specialist while visiting a neighboring county. Since then he has helped neighbors butcher 40 hogs and 10 beaves, the home agent reports.

Finding no sale from his acre of peanuts grown as a 4-H club demonstration, Robert Heath of Wesley Chapel in Houston county roasted his crop from week to week and sold them in little bags in town every Saturday. With his nickles and dimes he has bought 5 settings of eggs and is going into the chicken business.

The cost of a home orchard large enough for a family of five ranges from $4.50 to $8, says the county agent of Marion county who has planned 100 new home orchards with farmers this year.

Following beef butchering demonstrations in Fisher county, the county agent is helping several farmers tan the hides into leather to be used in repairing harness, furniture and soles shoes.

The entire egg production of 4500 turkeys has been contracted to northern turkey egg buyers by the Brady Cooperative Poultry Producers Association. A new movement, begun last year, the sale of turkey eggs for breeding purposes to distant markets is expected to give an income of about $4 per hen, says the county agent.

Bids for patronage on a basis of price alone get small response from people who know the true worth of good quality in Printing. They prefer to pay the slight difference in the cost of good printing over mediocre printing because of the vastly superior RESULTS obtained—and RESULTS, of course, are Paramount.

Free Press Printing is not, in any sense, cheap printing. It is produced by skilled craftsmen to meet the exacting requirements of its users. But, measured by the standards of real service and satisfaction, it is, after all, the least expensive.

A BLESSING IN DISGUISE

The present banking crisis, despite the inconvenience that it has caused, is a blessing in disguise. It has made evident to the whole nation that the American banking system is radically defective, and has paved the way for a radical reconstruction of the same on national lines. That this reform will come, and in no halfway measure, is certain. President Roosevelt gave direct notice to that effect in his inaugural address.

The big banking interests have allowed declination to continue, and have fought against any fundamental remedy until the credit machinery of the nation has reached a virtual state of collapse. Now, instead of what is best for a small group of financiers, what is best for the country as a whole must be the first consideration. The forty-nine separate banking systems must be replaced by a unified national system, and the ultimate regulation and control of the banks must be nationally determined.

That this is the logical and necessary outcome is due to the fact that the banks cannot be reopened without the Federal Government, in some way, providing for the guarantee of deposits or indefinitely limiting the amount to be withdrawn by depositors; otherwise withdrawals will continue.

There must also be some measure of inflation, as the reopening of the banks will require a willingness to expand the currency sufficiently to assure depositors that they can get their money if they want it. This is almost certainly the one sure way to end the panicky desire to withdraw their deposits, for when every person can get his money, the desire to withdraw will end. It is the fear that they will not be able to get their money which causes people to demand it.

Unless we are greatly mistaken the present trying situation has inspired a popular sentiment which will go a long way in backing up President Roosevelt in his plans for reform.

THE LAW OF DIMINISHING RETURNS

If anything could forcibly illustrate the law of diminishing returns resulting from increasing costs beyond a reasonable figure, the three-cent letter postage has turned the trick.

Postal revenue has been lost which will never be regained from the same class of mail, for the simple reason that the public has devised ways to use third-class mail instead of first.

The same thing will take place with gasoline. As gas taxes are showed up beyond reasonable figures, smaller cars will be used, or larger cars will be used less, and the volume sold will diminish, thereby producing less revenue for the state.

The same thing will also take place with property. Beyond a certain point, the owner cannot pay taxes. When that day comes, he will let the city, county or state take it and the tax rolls will be flooded with unsalable property, and tax deficits will mount.

The public is no different than the horse. You can lead the horse to water, but you can't make him drink. You can tax the public beyond its ability to pay, but you can't make it pay.

The political subdivisions of this nation, from the smallest hamlet to the Federal government, should re-adjust the tax bill and public expenditures to fit the ability of the people to pay.

The papers are filled with reports of meetings of tax experts, state tax commissions and other organizations of "tax spenders" who are in a large measure to blame for the present taxation problems of the people. As advisers on the financial affairs of the people, they have for years taken the easiest course, acquiescing in public demands for extravagant public expenditures without raising their voices in protest or showing where exorbitant spending was leading the people.

Even today, most of the "tax experts," instead of recommending drastic cuts in public expenditures, are finding ways and means to increase existing taxes or hint new methods of taxation.

The same thing is going to happen to every city, county, state and the nation itself, that has happened to millions of families—they are going to have to get along on less money than they thought was possible a few years ago. Instead of increases in taxes or new methods of taxation to balance the budgets, there is going to be decreased taxation and decreased public demands on a balanced scale, which will eventually wipe out the deficits.

Families are paying up their bills now on reduced income simply by reducing their expenses below their income and governments will have to do the same thing. President Roosevelt proposes to cut Federal expenditures 25 per cent, and everyone should cooperate with him to this end.

FIRST AID FALLACIES

How some traditional first aid remedies may do great harm to victims of accidents is explained in a recent Red Cross publication. A few examples may be mentioned.

Rolling a person apparently drowned over a barrel only forces water out of the stomach, where it does no harm. By laying the patient face down and alternately applying and releasing pressure at the small of the back often induces respiration and recovery.

Rubbing frost-bitten parts with snow is also a bad practice. Let the frozen tissues thaw out gradually in a temperature a little above the freezing point.

Some persons put spider webs, ooids of tobacco, soot, salt pork and the like on cuts or infected wounds, "to draw the poison out." These substances only increase the danger of infection.

Whiskey, ammonia, permanganate of potash or the application of freshly killed chicken to a wound caused by a snake bite are all oldtime remedies of no value. The modern course is to tie a bandage between the wound and the heart, cut a gash across the fang marks and suck out the blood and poison as quickly as possible. The venom of a rattlesnake taken into the mouth is said to be harmless, even if it is swallowed.

Many other fallacies are enumerated and warned against in publications of the Red Cross and medical societies. Every person should have some knowledge of what to do and what not to do in emergencies. A more widespread diffusion of such knowledge would no doubt be the means of saving many lives, through giving proper first aid until a physician can be called.

Tip on cost

AUSTIN—There is a very noticeable lessening of talk about the need for new taxes in order to balance the State budget within the last few days. Economy moves gained correspondingly in momentum, following the declaration of a bank holiday. This is true, although it was apparent that perhaps a majority of the legislators were sincerely endeavoring to redeem the pledge to reduce the cost of State government 25 per cent.

Chances of a sales tax are generally regarded as having disappeared. There is less talk of an income tax. Automobile license fees are almost certain to be reduced. The Senate is yet to act on a bill adopted by the House providing for a third lower license fees on automobiles and light trucks. The House has voted to reduce the State poll tax to the constitutional minimum of $1. A Senate bill is pending to fix the limit of the State ad valorem tax to 57 cents for this year.

Another new tax measure made its appearance in a bill which would levy a tax of 2 cents per 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas. An exemption clause relieving the first 150 million feet for each producer for each three months, it is claimed, will have the practical effect of relieving Texas consumers of any additional tax burden. The obvious purpose of the bill is to realize revenue from gas exported to northern and eastern states.

Natural gas at present pays a gross production tax of 3 cents. The proposed bill would heavily increase this tax on exported gas. Backers of the bill claim $1 per cent of gas marketed from the Panhandle goes to the North and East. They also claim that the proposed 2-cent tax would yield, based on 1932 consumption, more than $1,700,000 annually, compared with about $120,000 paid in gross receipts last year.

A State budget of less than $60,000,000, as compared with an eight year average of $120,000,000 and last year's figure of $60,000,000 is in prospect, if reductions recommended by the House appropriations committee is finally approved. Judiciary, economy and departmental appropriations have been finished in committee. College heads have been instructed to bring in recommendations for 25 per cent reductions in their budgets. Educational appropriations are incomplete.

Efforts to abolish eight State colleges are apparently defeated. The Senate killed a bill to shut down institutions scheduled to close by the bill were teachers colleges at Denton, San Marcos, Alpine, and Nacogdoches, John Tarleton at Stephenville, Junior A. and M. at Arlington, C. A. I. at Kingsville and College of Mines at El Paso.

There were 10,433 beneficiaries of Confederate pensions on the 1932 rolls. Although there have been 12,243 deaths among pensioners since 1924, the number has dropped only from 12,597 to the figure for 1932.

Payments of the Confederate pensions have more than doubled since 1924, figures being $1,764,000 for 1924, compared to $3,562,000 in 1932. The increase has come by liberalizing pension requirements and increases in payments to individual claimants. In nine years the number of claimants decreased 11 per cent while payments were increased 100 per cent. The pension fund was $2,825,000 in the red at the close of the last fiscal year.

The Comptroller's annual report, just issued, contains some very interesting figures. Tax rolls show horses and mules had an average valuation of $18; cattle, $12; jacks and jennets, $17; sheep, $1.70; goats, 94 cents; and dogs, $14. Average value of land was $9.61 per acre. Since only 5,500 dogs were rendered for taxation, tax assessors might hasten a solution of the tax problem by getting more dogs on the rolls.

The fact that local taxes comprise the greater portion of the tax bill of the average Texan is emphasized by the Comptroller's report. County tax rates average 60 cents for the entire State. The range is from 29 cents to $2.70. Reeves county has the lowest rate and Duval county the highest. School and other special district taxes are not included. City taxes are also additional. The Comptroller has no record of these purely local taxes.

A medicine that does something for women

A woman is old at thirty when she has let herself run down. And she is young at sixty if she knows how to keep clear of chronic sluggishness.
Have you never tried the harmless medicine that is made for this very condition? Do you know that two or three weeks of its gentle stimulation has done the most amazing things for lots of women?
This means of stimulating the system to new life is a doctor's prescription. It is known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is made from fresh herbs, active salts, and pure pepsin. From the day you begin with it, you will feel better; one spoonful dispenses of any bilious headache; a larger dose relieves any constipated condition. A little now and then will keep you guarded from the auto-intoxication that dulls appetite and ambition in any man or woman.
Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is known to all druggists; they always have it on hand. It is the most likeable and remarkable medicine you ever tasted. Try one bottle and compare your condition with the way you felt before!

COLLIE SUPPORTS ECONOMY PROGRAM

AUSTIN March 8th—The youngest senator in the 43rd Legislature is Wilbourne B. Collie of Eastland, Senator from the 24th district, which comprises Taylor, Jones, Haskell, Fisher, Shackelford, Stephens, Eastland, Callahan, Nolan, Mitchell, Throckmorton and Scurry counties. Senator Collie is an active member of the group in the upper House which is leading in the fight for economy in state government. He has favored the abolition of unnecessary jobs both in the Senate and in the various state departments. The Senate voted to reduce the number of its employees almost half.

Collie opposed the long established policy of the use of public funds to pay for subscriptions to daily newspapers for members of the Senate, and this practice was abandoned. He was a leader in the caucus which reduced the pay of all employees in the Senate. The Senate resolution to reduce the per diem of members of the Legislature twenty-five per cent was favored by Collie, and passed by the Senate, but was defeated in the House. In keeping with his economy program, he recently refused to support a resolution which would give each Senator another stenographer.

The present legislature has an unusual amount of legislation to consider. Careful and conscientious consideration of the measures now being proposed is a better method of using his time for the State, Senator Collie believes, than the introduction of numerous bills for whose adequate consideration this session will not provide the time. This is practicing economy for the state in the use of his time as well as its money. Senator Collie is giving the State all of his time, for he has not missed a single committee meeting or roll call on the Senate floor.

Senator Collie is a member of the following twelve committees, a large number for a new member of the Senate: Banking, Congressional Districts, Criminal Jurisprudence, Internal Improvements, Judicial Districts, Privileges and Elections, Public Lands and Land Office, Senatorial Districts (with rank of Vice-Chairman), State Affairs, Town and City Corporations, (with rank of Chairman), Stock and Stock Raising, and also Civil Jurisprudence.

North Ward P. T. A.

Mrs. Crow's room gave an instructive program on Safety at the regular monthly meeting of the North Ward P. T. A. on Thursday March 9th. The program, under the direction of Mrs. Tom Davis, had as the main feature a talk on What the Community Owes the Child, by Mr. A. C. Pearson. Mr. C. B. Bredeve led the devotional.

The election of officers for next year took place at a business meeting following the program. Mrs. C. M. Conner is to be the next president, with Mrs. Tom Davis as vice president; Mrs. M. D. Crow as recording secretary; Mrs. W. A. Kimbrough corresponding secretary; and Mrs. J. E. Reeves as treasurer. The Sixth Grade, Mrs. Jones' room, won the banner for this month by having the largest number of patrons present.

Can Not Imitate Kiss

There is one noise the movie industry has not been able to fake. That is kissing.

In the sound libraries maintained by the studios are thousands of feet of film covering hundreds of such varied notes as a train whistling, a pig grunting, and the blue bird singing his native song. But kisses, strangely, are missing.

When kiss effects are required, the principals must actually perform. Sound engineers have learned from experience that one man's osculation is another man's comedy. Kissing in serious dramas is mostly silent, anyway, if it is to be effective, and the gentlest smack must be actually delivered under the microphone as well as before the camera to be convincing.

They have tried to duplicate that noise in the sound libraries, but it just cannot be done.

Links American Nations

The Pan-American organization is the official international organization of all the republics of the western hemisphere, founded and maintained by them for the purpose of exchanging mutual information and fostering commerce, intercourse, friendship and peace. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of all the Latin-American governments and the secretary of state of the United States.

Water Boy of the Desert

The little towns located along the desert routes of northern Africa formerly depended upon the camels to carry water to them. The animals were loaded with goat skins filled with water and the quantity carried was quite limited on account of the character of the burden. Automobile tanks with a capacity of nearly 20 tons now carry water over the sands to these settlements. The natives have never been given to any great use of water, but now they are enabled to make use of it a trifle more generously.

Muscle Function When Brain Gives the Order

If you were to examine your muscles under a microscope you would see that they are made up of bundles of thread-like cells, called "muscular fibers." These fibers are about one inch long, and are so fine that they measure only about 1-500th of an inch across. But although so small, each tiny fiber is protected by its own sheath!

Now, you know that if you are tickled by a feather you cannot keep still, because you feel an irritation. Something like that happens when your brain sends a message through your nerves ordering your muscles to move. The part you want to move is irritated or excited so that it cannot keep still.

The brain's message is sometimes called a "stimulus," because a stimulus is something which rouses people to act. It is also called a "nervous impulse." As you know, an impulse is something you do on the spur of the moment, because you very much want to do it, and, of course, you move because you very much want to do so. Movement is energy, set free by a stimulus from the brain.—Exchange.

Improper Use of Money Makes It Root of Evil

"Let us no longer cheat our consciences by talking of filthy lucre," once wrote J. M. Barrie. "Money may be always a beautiful thing. It is we who make it grimy. We are ever sending it to places where it has no business to go, and tarnishing its unalloyed character with unhalloved transactions in shop and market place. It is not money that is to be condemned; its unprincipled users and abusers like to make it the convenient scapegoat for their own sins and shortcomings."

There is a truth expressed here that is easily overlooked. Money has no character of itself. It is for us, its users, to say whether it shall be grimy or clean, ugly or unattractive. In order to do this we must begin early. Otherwise, instead of mastering money, money will master us. "Mammon is the largest slave-holder in the world," declares a thoughtful philosopher.—Montreal Family Herald.

Famous Old-Time Wagon

The Conestoga wagon originated in Pennsylvania. The reason for the name is uncertain, but it was probably so named because it was first built in the valley of Conestoga, in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania. It was a huge affair, heavily built, with the wagon bed higher at each end than in the middle. It was constructed in this concave shape in order that the contents might not spill out when going up and down hill. It was topped by a dull white cloth covering which had a similar curve. The underbody was generally painted blue, with upper works of bright red. The wagons were customarily drawn by six horses. The wheels had iron tires of four to six inches in width. The traces by which the wagon was pulled were heavy, short, thick, linked iron chains.

When Kingfisher Hungers

That expert bird fisherman, the kingfisher, is said to suffer much from hunger during rough weather. It is the habit of this bird to hover 10 to 25 feet above the surface of the water poised on quickly beating wings until a fish is sighted. Then the kingfisher, with partly closed wings, drops head foremost into the water and rarely fails to catch his fish in his bill. However, unless the water is comparatively clear, the bird is unable to sight a prospective meal in the water.

Hibernating Insects

Although a large percentage of our moths and butterflies winter as pupae, and most of the rest of them as caterpillars or in the egg stage, there are a few exceptions that hibernate as full-grown adults. The mourning clover butterfly is a notable example of this. Occasionally they are seen in late November and again in February, having been lured from their hiding places in woodpiles or similar places of shelter by unusually warm weather for the time of year.—Detroit News.

Eat 'Em

Shirley Jean went visiting next door recently. The lady of the house had a number of writing tablets. Thinking to please the child by giving her something to take home, she said: "Shirley, what kind of tablets do you write your letters on?"

Shirley was puzzled, but replied: "My grandfather is a doctor and he sends me white ones. But we don't write on them, we eat them."

The "Tyler Grippe"

When John Tyler was President a man from Boston called at the White House and shook hands with the Chief Executive. A few hours later the man contracted influenza. He told his friends that apparently he had caught cold from shaking hands with the President, after that influenza was commonly called the Tyler grippe, the name being suggested by a pun on the word "grip." The term, once common, is now seldom heard.

Mother Plover Buries Eggs to Insure Safety

Observations of a bird that buries its chicks alive to protect them from enemies and from the hot sun are reported in Ibis, organ of the British Ornithological Association, by A. L. Butler, Egyptian ornithologist.

This bird is the Egyptian plover, found in the upper Sudan country. The instant a strange noise is heard or the shadow of a hawk falls over the desert sand, he recounts, the chicks instantly flatten themselves in the nearest depression, usually the footprint of some large animal. Then the mother bird shovels sand over them with her bill until they are completely covered.

The chicks are covered in the same way to protect them from the sun when they are not feeding, he observed. From time to time the old birds will sprinkle water over the sand from their beaks to cool their offspring. This practice continues until the chicks are about three-fourths grown.

After the eggs are laid, Butler observed, the mother bird covers them with sand during the day, the incubation process being carried on by the heat of the soil. At night, when the sand cools rapidly, she uncovers the eggs and broods them.

Colorful Eastern Life as Viewed by Traveler

Turkestan is the ancient name of the vast sweep of land between the Caspian sea and the borders of Mongolia. It is larger than England, France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy combined, with a population of 10,000,000, divided largely among five nationalities: Turkomen in the west, Uzbeks in the central portion, Aryan Tajiks in the southeast, Kirghis in the northeast and Kazaks in the northern steppes.

Bukhara, an ancient holy city, is another colorful spot of the East. It has preserved more than 800 mosques, and its bazaars are daily chapters in its history. It is not an uncommon sight to see a Kirghis, a Turkoman and an Uzbek striking a bargain with their rapid jabbering of a tongue strange to American ears or nearby the bazaar a native preparing a goat-skin to make a waterbag, using the shade of a tree for his workshop.

The famous Bukhara rugs, which have furnished many American homes, come from the cities, and travelers can watch diligent natives at work on them. Outside the city can be spotted Kazak yurts, which to you and me is a house made of felt.—Boston Transcript.
