Z. T. ROSE DIES AT HOME OF SON IN CONROE, TEXAS

The funeral services of Z. T. Rose, age 84, were held at the Church of Christ this afternoon at 5 o'clock conducted by Elders J. D. Harvey and L. R. Wilson, and the remains laid to rest in Willow Cemetery beside his wife who died on February 8th of this year. Funeral arrangements were in charge of J. H. Kinney of the Kinney Funeral Home.

Haskell county farmers have offered to retire more than 60,000 acres of cotton from production this year, according to an estimate made by County Agent R. H. Maxwell today. The estimate is based on the 2,000 applications that have been made which is averaging approximately 30 acres to the farm. Only fifty applications have been approved by the precinct committee and the acreage offered runs approximately with the above estimate. The applications that have been approved by the precinct committee and received in the County Agent's office gives an average on the estimated yield for the year of 140 pounds of lint cotton per acre. Mr. Maxwell states that he is sure that the county's quota of 54,000 acres to be taken from production will be exceeded when all the contracts are turned into his office. He states that the farmers are showing wonderful cooperation in the acreage reduction movement and in a good many instances the estimated yield is being lowered from the actual figures of the average shown for the past five years in order that the program may be put over in the county. The applications are all expected to be in the County Agent's office and tabulated by the middle of next week.

COTTON MILLS IN STATE SPEEDING UP PRODUCTION

Austin, Texas, June 28.—Texas cotton mills speeded production up during May to levels never dreamed of earlier in the year. According to reports to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research from 26 Texas cotton mills, production jumped from a total of 4,900,000 yards in April, to 7,000,000 yards in May, or 43 per cent; in one month, production, which had been held in check in spite of soaring lint prices and rapid sales, jumped from a low level to one which has been exceeded only seven times since January, 1928. Last year in May, total output amounted to 5,000,000 yards. Sales began showing improvement some three months ago when unmet orders began their steady climb so that the rate of increase did not show such a large gain in May as did production, the Bureau's report said. However, sales reached 4,800,000 yards in May, with only two unmet orders, the report said. Unfilled orders mounted up again among the highest figures on record for Texas mills. The total report stated a gain of 50 per cent over the production of the same month last year.

W. T. HUDSON, PIONEER RESIDENT, DIES TODAY

SMALL HOUSE BURNS MONDAY

A small two room house in the extreme north part of town, was destroyed by fire Monday morning about ten o'clock. The house was owned and occupied by Dan Anderson, colored, who with his family was at work in a nearby cotton patch when the fire was first noticed. The fire department was unable to extinguish the flames, as the house was located beyond the reach of water main. Chemical apparatus was used to prevent the fire from spreading to another residence located only a few feet away which was threatened with destruction for a time.

The fire is believed to have been caused from a cook stove.

GASOLINE TAX LAW INCREASES REVENUE

AUSTIN, TEXAS, July 5.—Comptroller George H. Sheppard wore a broad grin today as he announced to the harassed taxpayers of Texas the first comparative figures on collection of the gasoline tax under the drastic new enforcement law. Here's his good news:

In the great East Texas area alone, gasoline tax payments have increased 150 per cent in 90 days. At the May rate, the state's tax income will be increased over two million dollars a year from this single district.

This $2,000,000 "melon", the comptroller emphasized, will be only a fraction of the state's added revenue as a result of the new law, for it includes no returns from the other five district offices he has created. In these, the bulk of the increases are expected to come from prevention of blending taxfree fuels with gasoline, he said. This practice, as well as out-and-out evasion, is a felony offense now.

"The remarkable record in East Texas proves that we were right," Comptroller Sheppard declared. "In February, the tax was paid in that district on 2,826,247 gallons of gasoline. In March the figures leaped to 4,011,227 gallons, in April to 5,534,313 gallons and in May to 7,004,465 gallons, or 250 per cent of the February income. Furthermore this is only a beginning, if the people will be watchful for evaders and help us. We do not want evaders. We want the tax money. Getting all of it will help everybody."

W. O. Huggins, president of the Texas Good Roads Association, added to the comptroller's statement a reminder of the widespread good which will come from these recovered taxes.

"We must not forget," he said, "that under the present distribution of this tax, every year has been added already in the common school fund, $500,000 in the county bond refunding program and $1,000,000 to the highway fund. It is literally finding money for the state."

GOOD INTEREST SHOWN IN REVIVAL

Much interest is being manifested in the Church of Christ Revival here at Haskell. Brother A. F. Thurman their resident minister, started the services with enthusiasm by preaching two excellent sermons on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 8:30 p. m. After the morning sermon, Professor Don Morris, of Abilene Christian College, made a short talk in the interest of that college. Three little orphan girls from Tipton Orphans Home, gave a touch of pathos to the night services by singing several heart-stirring songs.

Evangelist L. R. Wilson started the main part of the revival on Monday night. He used, as a basis for his sermon, Paul's charge to Timothy, "Preach the Word." Brother Wilson made his audience feel the forcefulness of this charge, and the terrible nature of anyone preaching any other gospel.

The night services are all in the open air. Each night at 8:30. Day services at 10 a. m.

State Health Department Gives Vacation Hints

Vacation days are here again bringing a desire to get away from the daily grind and a longing for a change of scene. Pleasures without regrets is a goal to strive for, and for this reason the Texas State Department of Health urges you to consider the following suggestions in planning your vacation.

First, pick a spot new to you if possible, where you can see new scenes, enjoy new activities, where you may act and dress as you please and, above all, be carefree. Make up your mind to leave all your troubles behind. Second, make sure that the place selected is right from a sanitary standpoint. Be sure that the water, milk and food is clean and pure.

Third, before you leave home you should consider the possibility of being protected against typhoid fever. This protection can be secured through inoculation with typhoid vaccine. Fourth, when you start on your vacation, change your habits gradually. If you take little outdoor exercise during the year, make this your change. Do not try to set a record the first day but increase your exercise gradually.

If your purse will not permit you to go to a summer resort this year, make up your mind that you will get a real vacation at home. Plan your vacation at home, where you can enjoy the best of both worlds.

Friday afternoon the Haskell team goes to Rochester for a game there.

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—The patronage dam at last has broken. With congress out of the way, the administration has begun to serve the pie in a big way.

But Washington observers have noted something new in the pie-dispersing system now being employed. The breaking of the dam that held up appointments while congress was made to do the bidding of the President, and that created such a terrible traffic jam around the pie counter, has shown that being a Democrat in the government service means little more than being a Republican insofar as priority for reappointment is concerned. The flood that came after the dam broke has washed out about as many Democrats as Republicans. It is always to be expected that the winning political party will put its own men in. I have heard no complaint about that course because it has happened so many times in our history that it is taken for granted.

From what I have been able to see and to hear, President Roosevelt cannot be blamed for the ruthless character of the dismissals except indirectly. He has gone so far as to say that some three or four thousand postmasters, now serving under commissions by President Hoover, will be allowed to remain on their jobs until their commissions expire. This has caused a howl among the clique that appears to be bent on grinding its own axes because they want those jobs, and unless the President pointment of many more, and last but not least the public construction administration and the industrial recovery administration are two more agencies offering berths to the score of deserving supporters of the Roosevelt ticket.

It is fair to say that many of the underlings, the clerks and supporting staff in the several new agencies are being named from lists of those who have lost their jobs in the face of economy which Lewis Douglas, director of the budget, is talking so seriously. But as far as I have been able to learn, there is no dearth in jobs that can be and are being filled purely on a political basis. The hardest job the politicians have, it appears, is in sorting out the right applicants to recommend among those thousands that have been receiving while Mr. Roosevelt kept the pie closet locked.

Without wasting any time, the administration has opened the spigot on the tank of millions to speed industrial recovery through use of public money in construction. The last congress voted a total of $3,300,000,000 for public construction. It will be recalled, and now the machinery to use these funds has been set in motion. It takes time to get government machinery ready even to spend money, but the haste with which the operations have been started is looked upon here as commendable although only public highway building and the fixing up of army posts and national cemeteries are involved in the first months.

Out of the gigantic fund, $400,000,000 has been set aside and allocated to the use of the various states in the building of roads and $135,000,000 has been marked for use in reconditioning army posts and national cemeteries. Expenditure of those funds, of course, will make jobs, which is the prime purpose of the program, but there are men in high places who are unable to reconcile the course. Obligation of these funds was permitted after July 1, so that there ought to be a considerable boom in road construction throughout the country in the next few months.

In making the funds available to the states, the federal government laid down several conditions to insure that they would not be used to overbuild one section while another part of the state remained without new highways. Further, the states are required to spend at least 50 per cent of their total share within the confines of cities and towns, for there is where the greatest amount of unemployment exists. Another requirement is that secondary roads, farm-to-market systems and highways of that character, may be constructed with 25 per cent of the state's total, while the other 25 per cent may be expended upon completion of the federal highway system. The point of all this is that the federal government is determined to enforce a distribution of the funds to as many areas as possible. This serves the purpose of providing the work as near as may be to the unemployed and prevents "hogging" of available construction by any section.

The government also put its finger on the methods to be used. It is saying to each of the states that no convict labor may be used, that the contractors must pay wages that permit of a decent and comfortable living standard, and that workers may not be kept on the job longer than 30 hours per week in order that the maximum number of workers may have jobs. This principle is regarded as especially important because it establishes the six-hour day and the five-day week for the first time on a large scale. How long it can be maintained is now a matter of pure conjecture, but it will remain as the principle on all federal grants to states for highway building during the expenditure of these funds.

The allocation of the $400,000,000 fund by states is as follows: Alabama, $8,870,188; Arizona, $5,211,980; Arkansas, $6,748,365; California, $15,607,354; Colorado, $6,874,580; Connecticut, $2,865,740; Delaware, $1,819,088; Florida, $5,231,834; Georgia, $10,061,185; Idaho, $4,486,249; Illinois, $17,570,770; Indiana, $10,037,843; Iowa, $10,065,000; Kansas, $10,089,094; Kentucky, $7,517,350; Louisiana, $5,828,561; Maine, $3,369,917; Maryland, $3,564,527; Massachusetts, $6,597,100; Michigan, $12,736,227; Minnesota, $10,058,506; Mississippi, $6,978,677; Missouri, $12,180,390; Montana, $7,459,748; Nebraska, $7,828,561; Nevada, $4,545,917; New Hampshire, $1,969,829; New Jersey, $3,246,620; New Mexico, $5,782,035; New York, $22,336,101; North Carolina, $9,522,266; North Dakota, $5,504,448; Ohio, $15,454,282; Oklahoma, $9,210,708; Oregon, $6,166,896; Pennsylvania, $15,891,004; Rhode Island, $1,568,708; South Carolina, $5,459,165; S. yardick for measuring business conditions was the tourist travel through the national Capitol building in Washington. Although accurate figures are not available, the corps of guides who lead visitors through the great building on Capitol hill tell that they have had what they call a big year thus far. To the uninitiated, it is plain to see that thousands of persons are making a visit to Washington this year, for there has been a steady stream of visitors passing through those long corridors day after day in an almost unending procession. The same is true of the Washington monument, that tall obelisk ranging 555 feet in the air as a mark of the reverence held for the father of his country. Passing by the monument almost any time during the day, one can see a familiar sight, a queue of tourists awaiting their turn to ride to the top.

A few nights ago some of the folks in the treasury had occasion to work late and in the course of the evening, one of the colored messengers was asked to visit an office for a file of papers, the regular occupant of that office having gone home. The messenger went but came back soon, saying he could not get in. An investigation revealed the office was unlocked. Some further inquiry elicited the information from the messenger that two years ago an official had died at his desk and the messenger maintained he had since observed ghosts in the office.

Tree Might Be Useful in Fight Against Crow

Perhaps if authorities in towns where the starling has been declared a nuisance would plant a few trees of the species Pisonia Brunoni in the areas frequented by these birds a part of their problem would be solved. This tree is known to the natives of New Zealand, its native home, as the "bird-eating tree."

Ordinarily only small birds are its victims, but recently a specimen in the garden of J. Wheeler at New Plymouth, N. Z., is reported to have captured a morepart, a species of owl, which is said to be the largest bird ever trapped by one of these trees.

The "bird-eating" tree has seeds about an inch long that grow in clusters and are covered with a heavy gum. When small birds fly into this tree and their feathers come into contact with the seed pods they are quite likely to be held fast until they are overcome with exhaustion in their efforts to escape. The tree in Mr. Wheeler's garden is said to have trapped hundreds of small birds in this way.

Greatness Linked With Cause They Stood For

There are two kinds of great personalities. Some men and women by the sheer brilliance of their native endowment become individual geniuses, as Michelangelo was in painting or Einstein in science. There is, however, another road to powerful personality open to all of us. We can become interested in something greater than ourselves. We can identify ourselves with it, and stand for it. The more one studies the biographies of men like Washington and Lincoln, of women like Florence Nightingale, Dorothy Dix and Jane Addams, the more one feels that so far as individual brilliance is concerned they might conceivably have been lost in the crowd. What most of all gives them distinction is that they found something in their generation worth while standing for, identified themselves with a cause greater than themselves, and became so representative of it that when you think of it you think of them.—Harry Emerson Fosdick in Physical Culture Magazine.

On Colonial Highways

An important part of the pageantry of the highway, as described by Marion Nicoll Rawson in her book, "From Here to Yonder," a pantography of early trails and highway life, is the peddler with his stock in trade of pewter, wood-ware, tinware, baskets, brooms, brushes.

And now and then we cause upon a "burying lot." A single stone of two divisions commemorates the joining in death as in life of the husband and wife, but with the husband's half higher to show his superior position. Others carry biographical sketches, lists of descendants, daguerreotypes, ambrotypes, verses. This gravestone inscription stops us. "I expected this but not so soon."

World's Most Modern Farm

The most up-to-date farm in the world is located on the border of Surrey and Sussex, in England. The 600 acres contained in the farm are owned by a syndicate of three men. Electricity is put to no fewer than 67 uses on the amazing farm. Each beehive has a chamber electrically warmed; horses and ponies are groomed by means of electrically-operated devices; milking, incubating, hay-drying, insect destruction, and plowing are all done by electricity.—Grit.

Lives of Toads and Frogs

Toads and frogs may live for a number of years if they manage to escape their natural enemies and remain in suitable environment. There is a well-authenticated case of a toad which lived for thirty-six years and was accidentally killed. The common frog sometimes requires from four to five years to mature in the North, and barring accidents which are usual in the natural state, would probably live ten or twelve years.

"Fisherman's Ring"

A ring traditionally said to have been worn by St. Peter and still worn by the pope on high ceremonial occasions is known as the Fisherman's ring. "The Fisherman" is the title of the pope, says the New Catholic dictionary, "because most of the apostles were fishermen. Our Lord said he would make them fishers of men (Luke 5); this term designates especially their chief, Peter and his successor. The papal ring seal is that of the fisherman."

Important Questions

It is never too soon nor never too late to press home on ourselves questions like the following: "What spirit dwells in my heart? What good have I been doing? What works of love have I done? What deeds of charity have I performed? What fruits of the spirit, what evidence of love, have I to show? We must answer these questions some day. Why not press them now on our hearts and reflect upon them?—Chance.

HASKELL GROUP AND THEIR COVERED WAGON

The following is taken from the Howl of the Hills, the Young Peoples Conference paper at Westminster Encampment: "Rev. C. A. Tucker of Haskell showed what a live, determined pastor with a bunch of youngsters descended from hard-headed Scots could do when they made up their minds. They arrived at the Westminster Encampment with this "kivvered wagin" hitched behind their pastor's car. He brought his family and the following conference delegates: Velma Frierson, Pauline Frierson, Willie Bell Frierson, J. C. Frierson, Dixie Orr, Alberta Orr, Betty Ann Hancock, Ollie Hester, Ollie Frazier, Oia Frazier, and Zelma B. McMeans of Rule.

"They had a long trip but enjoyed the fun of it and the camp style meals along the way. And they will continue to enjoy the conference in retrospect for many a month."

Each of the twelve scholars stood highest in a state-wide competition. Horn will have all his expenses for room, board and tuition paid at Culver until his graduation in June, 1936.

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Couch Celebrate Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Couch, Sr., were married on April 26, 1883, in Coleman county, Texas, and in exactly two months and eight days they came to the place where Haskell is located today. Thus their wedding anniversary and the date of their coming to Haskell can be celebrated together.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch ate dinner at Rice Springs, the present location of the town of Haskell, on July 4th, 1883. At that time there was a log and picket house in the forks of the Spring Branch, occupied by a man by the name of "Thistle." The old original spring is almost in the center of the street leading south from the southeast corner of the square, where it intersects the branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch did not locate in Haskell at this time but settled on land east of the present location of the Ferris Ranch, and a part of which was in Haskell county and a part in Throckmorton county.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch's first home was a half dug-out and was just over the line in Throckmorton county.

Then after two years of ranch life they moved to the town of Haskell in 1885. Mr. Couch was elected County Surveyor in 1886 and served Haskell county in that capacity for six years, following which he was County Clerk of the county for six years.

Then for a long period of years Mr. Couch was identified with the Haskell National Bank as an official.

No phase of early pioneer life is unknown to these earliest settlers of Haskell county. Mrs. Couch recalls that in that first "sod" house sickness and accidents must be treated as emergencies as physicians were out of the question.

In questioning Mr. Couch about outstanding experiences of fifty years ago in Haskell county, he responded with two incidents of interest. He and his brother, Dan Couch, were en route to a trading

The traveler today sees very little of the site of Carthage, which was destroyed in 146 B. C. "For centuries after its final destruction," says Prof. Harry Peck, "Carthage was a quarry for both the Africans and the merchants of Europe. . . . Recent times have also added to the work of devastation, since the marble blocks of the ancient walls have been within the past few years in part destroyed by the operation of the Tunisian railway. The aqueduct, over 50 miles in length, is the only remnant of the greatness of the city's past that still preserves a real impressiveness."

Historic Island

Dominica, the largest island in the Leeward group, is a paradise singularly free from every pest inimical to mankind. Columbus passed here without stopping. He was, however, greatly impressed with the island's rugged beauty and upon his return to Spain illustrated its uneven surface to Queen Isabella by crumpling up a sheet of parchment in his hand and throwing it down before her. The island contains the town of Roseau, in front of which the great naval battle between Rodney and De Grasse was fought. Lime juice is the principal export of Dominica.

World's Sweetest Plant

In the hinterland of the Matto Grosso Dr. J. Geraldo Kuhimann, botanist of the Brazilian department of forestry, claims to have discovered the sweetest plant in all the world. This little bunch of sweetness is called "kabebe" by the Indians of the section, but its more scientific name is Stevia reboodiana. It has its origin in Paraguay, being first discovered there in 1890. One might say offhand that any plant of such sweetness must be a variety of sugar cane. Yet it doesn't even belong to that family. But it possesses great medicinal values.

point with some buffalo hides, when there blew up a "blue norther." They immediately unhitched their team, turned their wagon, facing from the "norther" and without eating any supper, bedded down under blankets and buffalo robes and went to sleep. It was so cold when morning came that they slept through breakfast and well up into the day.

The other early day incident that has lingered in Mr. Couch's memory is that he and his brother Dan contracted to furnish a certain number of posts for the Swenson Ranch. Of course they fulfilled the contract.

When Mr. and Mrs. Couch first moved to Haskell, they lived in a two room house, on the lot where their commodious two-story residence now stands.

The name of Couch is so interwoven into the progress of this entire western section, that to name one, implies the other.

Mr. and Mrs. Couch have six children and twenty-one grandchildren.

Things look different in COLD BLACK TYPE

"I hear," said the friend, "that you have just made $50,000 in the insurance business."

"Right—except for one or two slight particulars. It was real estate—not insurance. It was $75,000, not $50,000. And I didn't make it—I lost it!"

Has it ever happened to you that something you've told an acquaintance come back, after many days, so distorted that you hardly recognize it? The spoken word so changes and colors much that we say, that by the time it passes many lips only the skeleton of truth remains.

But how different it is with the printed word! That's why you can trust the advertisements. Had you thought of it that way? Because the manufacturer and merchant are compelled to be accurate in type, you know that the quality of soap, ginger ale, clothing, butter or furniture you buy is as standardized as the calendar. It's all the manufacturer and retailer claim for it. IT HAS TO BE!

Read the advertisements. Read them carefully, critically. Read them for profit! Read them knowing that the truth pays . . . you and the advertiser!

A NEW DEAL IN BANKING

While the Industrial Recovery act is holding the spotlight at the present time, the Glass-Steagall bank reform bill passed in the closing hours of the recent historic session of Congress, is one of great importance.

Inasmuch as millions of our citizens have recently lost billions of dollars in savings, because our banking system has failed to do the most essential thing it should do—protect its depositors, there was a widespread demand for the guarantee of deposits, and this law meets that demand.

State banks which do not join the Federal Reserve system by July 1, 1936, can no longer participate in the plan.

Other sections of the bill may be summarized briefly as follows: They enable the Federal Reserve board to forbid the use of its credit for speculation, forbid banks to make loans to officers, permit the removal of bank officers for "unsafe and unsound practices," forbid interest on demand deposits, permit limitation by the Reserve board of interest on time deposits, order the separation of national banks and their securities affiliates within a year, and compel private banks, such as Morgan's to relinquish either their deposit or their investment business.

Objections have been made against the law, but what do they amount to compared to the alarming record of the past decade which saw the most reprehensible abuse of public confidence? Inspired by popular sentiment the new measure should go a long way in effectively purging and strengthening both the banking and investment business.

THE MITCHELL VERDICT

The verdict of "not guilty" in the case against Charles E. Mitchell, of New York, must come as a distinct shock to every small taxpayer in the United States.

The government had made out what seemed to be a very strong case. Mitchell admitted that he sold National City stock to his wife in order to establish a technical loss so he could avoid payment of an income tax in a year when his earnings reached the huge sum of $3,500,000.

In the light of these facts the verdict of the jury seems incredible. With such a decision the income tax law becomes nothing more than a farce.

It is unthinkable that such a condition should continue to exist, that the vast Wall Street class should be permitted to evade their taxes, while the hard-earned average citizen carries the burden of government revenues.

The Mitchell decision demonstrates one thing—the necessity of drastic reform of the income tax law and regulations.

The Mitchells, the Morgans, the Mellons and their like must be lined up at the tax window, with not a loophole left through which they can escape payment in the future.

CHEER FOR MR. GARNER

Vice-President Garner, who talked very little during the presidential campaign last year, now continues his tradition of silence by refusing an offer of $52,000 a year to talk five minutes a week over the radio.

This latest manifestation of vice-presidential restraint reflects great credit on the author. Because of his skill as a rough-and-tumble parliamentarian and his realistic attitude toward the proverbial porkbarrel, Mr. Garner has been the target of a great deal of hostile criticism, some of it, as he would probably admit himself, deserved.

The refusal is the more impressive because few men in these days of depleted incomes turn down chances to make $1,000 a week for five minutes easy work.

NEWS FROM OVER WEST TEXAS

Receives Favorable Report on Highway 120 Proposed Work

From The Throckmorton Tribune—

Judge Ewell Condon was in Austin last week conferring with the State Highway department regarding the completion of Highway 120 through Throckmorton county.

Judge Condon states that he received a favorable report from the department and it is hoped that the work will be started when the money is available.

Work on the highway to the Young county line is progressing. The right-of-way is being cleared and the fences are being moved back to allow for the 100 foot road.

Construction of Highway 120 Is Asked by Puckett

From The Graham Leader—

D. M. Puckett, district highway engineer, has been requested to present the construction of Highway No. 120 west from Newcastle to the Throckmorton line and south to the Palo Pinto line as the outstanding highway need of Young county.

Material was presented to the state highway engineers this week by the various district engineers showing the projects most needed in the various counties of the state.

Rabbits Are Damaging the Cotton Crops

From The Texas Spur—

"Uncle Bill" Perry and Kim Hisey dropped by the Texas Spur office Saturday of last week in search of a poison formula for rabbits, reporting that these rodents were doing serious damage to cotton.

Rabbits do not ordinarily damage cotton but during a dry spell sufficient to dry up pasture lands they make inroads on field crops and cut down a great deal more plants than they can consume.

At the time we did not have on file such a formula but County Agent G. J. Lane has supplied us with one which has been used successfully and which we are passing on.

Mix thoroughly one pound of salt with one ounce of powdered strychnine and place in containers convenient to the rabbit runways for a salt lick. A good container can be made by drilling shallow holes into a piece of 2x4 lumber and putting the poisoned salt in the holes.

Modern Electric Service . . . a Partner of Industry

Modern transmission line electric service has played an important and vital part in the progress and development of West Texas. With a new period of expansion awaiting this territory during the next few years—this dependable, economical and elastic power supply is destined to play an even greater role in the industrial drama to be enacted here.

Electricity has been the equalizing force that has enabled progressive small towns to compete on an industrial basis with large centers of population. Because of the adequate, inexpensive power supply furnished to this territory by the West Texas Utilities Company, it is possible for West Texas cities to go after, and secure, the valuable payrolls of industrial establishments. Much progress has been made during the past ten years—and considerably greater advances will be made during the coming decade.

The West Texas Utilities Company, serving 161 progressive cities, towns and communities in this "Land of Opportunity," will continue to work for the development of West Texas. With three major generating stations, nineteen auxiliary plants, more than 2,600 miles of transmission lines and scores of office buildings and warehouses throughout the 250,000 square miles it serves—this company's future and yours are inseparably linked. Working together we will accomplish marvels of progress during the next few years.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

ONE MILLION ACRES OF LAND REMAIN IN THE PUBLIC DOMAIN OF THE STATE OF TEXAS

It will not be many more years until all of the state-owned lands of Texas shall have been sold. It is conservatively estimated that there are approximately one million acres of the original public domain yet to be disposed of. Very little of this is agricultural land in its natural condition, but much of it could be placed under irrigation by the construction of dams and canals. There are approximately 45,000 land sale accounts still carried on the books of the state land office. The total acreage upon which payments are still being made is estimated at more than 50 million acres. The public lands are sold on 40 years' time, with interest at 5 per cent. When final payment is made on a given tract the state issues a patent to the land.

Texas is the only state that owns its public domain, such lands in all other states being owned by the Federal government. When Texas gained its independence from Mexico and became a republic it had no credit, no system of taxation, no resources of any kind except its public domain. In order to raise money President Sam Houston authorized agents to sell land certificates of 325 and 640 acres. More than a million acres were disposed of in this way. All families in Texas during the revolution and all soldiers who fought in the war were given grants of land. Bounties were also given for military service, and donations given to those who were in the Battle of San Jacinto, in the reduction of Bejar and to the heirs of those who fell in the Alamo. These grants amounted to approximately 3 million acres.

Schools Get Grants
Almost a third of the total area of the state has been given for educational purposes. The University of Texas obtained two million acres, counties received about four million acres for school purposes, and 45 million acres were given to public free schools. Institutions for blind, deaf and dumb, insane and orphans were given 100,000 acres each.

In order to make trade and personal travel freer and easier between Texas and the other states, after she was annexed, Texas offered 10,000 acres of land for every mile of railroad constructed and operated within the state. This desire on the part of Texas to keep up with the times saw its results in the building of seven trunk lines, causing the issuance of 22 million acres of land to the different railroads.

From 1846 to 1876 land was given to those who would develop irrigation enterprises, establish manufacturing enterprises, and form dredging companies to make rivers navigable. In this way about four million acres of land were disposed of. The Capitol Swap

In exchange for erecting the state capitol the contractors were given three million acres. In 1879 and 1887 about 300,000 acres were sold at different times in order to meet state obligations.

With the exception of 22,500,000 acres which were given to individuals and companies by Spain and Mexico, Texas has disposed of approximately 176 million acres, the great bulk of which has gone by gift.

The land office of Texas had rough traveling during its early days. Land frauds were numerous, many of which were never discovered. The country was full of rough characters who thought nothing of ransacking whatever came to their notice.

In 1842 the famous archive war broke out. Because of Indian and Mexican menaces, President Sam Houston decided to move the capital of Texas to the better protected town of Houston. With this idea in view, he wrote to Comm. Thomas W. Ward from Washington and instructed him to gather up the state records and carry them to Houston. But the people of Austin learned of the plan and were furious. Over-taking the wagons about 20 miles out of Austin citizens captured them and took the records back to Austin, keeping them in a private home. An attempt was made to assassinate Ward in his home, according to a letter from him to President Houston. He told of personal threats made against him, but expressed determination to stand by his post.

Sells Land to U. S.
If Texas had retained all of her original domain it would have been an empire indeed in size. The portion which was sold to the United States government in 1850 now embraces all the eastern half of New Mexico, one corner of Oklahoma and Kansas and a narrow strip extending north and south through Colorado, reaching almost to the Wyoming line.

When Texas was admitted to the union it claimed the Rio Grande from its mouth to its source, as its western and southwestern boundary. The region around Santa Fe had never acknowledged Texas' right to govern and the question arose as to whether that disputed strip was a part of Texas or New Mexico. The point was raised and discussed chiefly by men powerful in politics, who did not want to see slavery extended over such a broad scope of territory as was embraced in Texas' original domain. It was really a contest between the slave territory and the several free states. That complaint is heard more and more that the legislature is partial and unfair in the enactment of its laws; that the resources of the vast western territory, which has been opened to settlement during the last several years, are not properly appreciated by the lawmakers from the older and more settled regions. There is so much discontent of this kind existing on the part of the people of West Texas that Vice-president John N. Garner and others have discussed from time to time the advisability of them seceding from the remainder of the state and creating a commonwealth of their own, under the terms of which Texas was admitted to the union as many as five states may be created out of its domain without any action on the part of Congress.

Taking your Dollar to Market . . .

Every year your family, and every family of your acquaintance, spends about 70 per cent of its income just for living, exclusive of rent—so economic experts tell us. Think what this means—seven dollars out of every ten invested in food, clothing, household utilities and all the multitude of things that keep a family comfortable and happy.

That part of spending is readily understood. But do you realize that every manufacturer and retailer of these necessities is planning how he can get your dollar?

It's a big job to spend so much money wisely and well. It requires careful business methods to get the best possible returns from each dollar that leaves the family purse.

The clever woman goes for help to the advertisements in her newspaper. There she finds a directory of buying and selling. She learns about the offerings of merchants and manufacturers. She compares values. She weighs quality and price. She takes this opportunity of judging and selecting almost everything she needs to feed, clothe, amuse, instruct and generally bring up her family.

Do you read the advertisements? You will find them willing and able to serve you in the daily business of purchase.
