BIG SPRING PLANS TO ENTERTAIN W T C C GUESTS

Big Spring is preparing to entertain more convention guests during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention which convenes on May 11, 12 and 13 than ever in its history before. The citizenship is cooperating with convention plans and arrangements 100 per cent said Ray Willcox, local Director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The convention program will be of the business group conference type, such conferences will be heard on Relief Administration, on the securing of the benefits of the self-liquidating loan provisions of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, on the re-organization of county government in Texas, and on budget making in local units of government in Texas. National authorities are being invited to address the group conferences and the general convention assemblies said Maury Hopkins, Asst. Manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Tentative plans call for attendance at the convention of all local committees in the one hundred sixty-seven affiliated towns of the regional Chamber. The first annual contest to be conducted by the West Texas Chamber will close at this Annual Meeting. A silver loving trophy will be awarded the winner in the beautification program. This trophy will be awarded to the West Texas city that has made the greatest advancement in beautification during the past year. Several towns throughout this section have taken advantage of the R. F. C. loan in beautifying their public places, parks, streets, cemeteries, etc. The beautification program was urged as one of the projects to be followed in towns receiving these relief funds.

The election of directors features the first business session of the convention. From the newly elected directors an executive committee of fourteen will be selected.

Invitations have been extended to Vice President John N. Garner, and William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor to be guests of the West Texas Chamber during this occasion.

Reduced rates on the Texas and Pacific Railway will be obtained according to announcement received here this week. A reduction of rates on bus and air transportation will also be asked.

The local committee in charge of the meeting is composed of E. J. Mary and Carl Blomshield, co-chairmen. Other committee heads will be appointed early next week it was announced by President Wendell Bedichek today.

Constructive publicity is a vital part of the work of extension service and a necessary work of the home demonstration club, in the opinion of Mrs. Jess Jossellett, chairman of the writer's committee of Haskell County Home Demonstration Council.

A Reporter's School, conducted Saturday March 25 by the home agent, Eileen F. Partlow, with an attendance of ten home demonstration club women, had for its aim training club reporters in writing farm and home news of interest to the public.

PERSONS AND CASS ARE RE-ELECTED TO SCHOOL BOARD

One of the lightest votes ever cast in a school election here was polled last Saturday, when 27 loyal supporters of the Haskell schools made their way to the polls and cast their ballots for the re-election of D. H. Persons and W. M. Cass as members of the Board.

The light vote indicates that the work that has been done by the Board during the past year, meets with the approval of the citizenship, and they are willing for the schools to remain in the hands of the present trustees.

COUNTY DEMOCRATS ASSESSED $233 IN DIME AROUND PLAN

A dime a Democrat is the quota assessed Texans by the Democratic National Committee. The Texas Democratic organization of which Roy Miller is director, Senator Maggie E. Neal, co-director, and Frank Scofield, finance director, has assumed the task of raising $75,000, which is 10 per cent of the $750,000 deficit of the Democratic National Committee.

This rather formidable sum is proportionate to what Texas has received and expects at the hands of the Democratic party, it was said in a statement released by National Democratic headquarters at Austin.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who is chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, in requesting so large a sum of the Texas organization is actuated by the extraordinary record of this state in the campaign last fall. Texas, it will be recalled, furnished the largest Democratic majority for Roosevelt and Garner, and contributed the second largest sum of money being exceeded only by Roosevelt's own state of New York.

The amount requested from Texas was approximately one-tenth of the number of Democratic votes cast in Texas last November. In determining the quota for each county the Texas organization decided to allot the quota in proportion to the votes cast. Ten cents for each Democratic vote approximates very closely the sum expected from Texas.

There were 2,330 votes cast in Haskell county. The quota, therefore, is $233.00.

Every Democrat in Haskell county ought to feel that the New Deal is worth at least a dime to him," Frank Scofield said. "We are now advising county chairmen of the sums expected of them and anticipate no difficulty in raising Texas' part of the party's debt."

He was married at Belmont, Ala., April 18, 1901, to Miss Bessie Saetens. To this union were born seven children, six boys and one girl as follows: Frank, Plainview; Ernest, Dallas; William, College Station; Wallace, Jack and John Kimbrough of Haskell and Miss Mary Kimbrough of Haskell. Besides the above, five brothers and two sisters and several nephews and nieces survive. A brother, Ernest Kimbrough and son Austin of Athens, two sisters, Mrs. Fannie Clark and Mrs. Harris Pleham, of Rosebud, Texas a brother, Clay Kimbrough, Haskell, and several nephews were present for the funeral.

High School Asked to Enter Speaker in W. T. C. C. Contest

The Haskell High School has been asked to enter a student speaker in the annual My Home Town Contest at the Fifteenth Annual Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in Big Spring, May 11, 12 and 13.

The entry blank and rules of the contest were received this week by Superintendent C. B. Bredelove from C. M. Caldwell, Chairman of the contest.

Contestants must be high school students and each town may select its contestant in any way it desires. The speech must be original and about the home town of the student. The rules provide it shall not contain poetry, and shall not be over five minutes long.

A new loving cup is to be offered to the winner this year at Big Spring—the Thos. Etheridge cup having been won three times by Joe Witherspoon, Jr., of Wichita Falls, who becomes its permanent owner. Witherspoon will not be a contestant this year according to Chairman Caldwell. In addition to a loving cup, the high three contestants will each receive a substantial cash prize and the winner will be given a choice of a number of college scholarships.

The Home Town Contest has been a feature of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Conventions for the past ten years, and the final contest is held before the entire convention on the last morning.

Health Officer Says That Typhoid Fever Is Unnecessary

Austin, Texas.—Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, characterized typhoid fever as a National disgrace and an unnecessary evil, while discussing this preventable disease. He said, "Each year about six hundred Texans die of this disease and approximately six thousand are sick with it. The average duration of illness is about eight weeks; this means that the disease is responsible for the loss of 28,800 days in Texas each year.

Typhoid vaccine is a harmless solution. This is injected under the skin in the upper part of the arm, in three doses, usually at weekly intervals. It ordinarily protects against the disease from two to three years or longer, although one who is definitely exposed to infection should be revaccinated more frequently.

Typhoid fever can be controlled by the use of pure water, pasteurized milk or clean milk, clean food, proper disposal of sewage, screening against the fly and destroying its breeding places, by means of and care of human carriers, and by the general practice of vaccination.

Certain people, apparently healthy, carry the germs of typhoid fever in their intestines or urinary tract and cause many cases of typhoid each year through handling of foods with unclean hands. They are called typhoid carriers and many cases result from personal contact with these carriers.

Bob Whitman of Breckersville visited with friends and relatives here Sunday. He was accompanied from Albany by Miss Maybelle Taylor who visited with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. L. F. Taylor.

Christian Endeavor Party.

On Friday evening March 24th, members of the Christian Endeavor gathered in the home of Misses Ollie and Mollie Hester for a very enjoyable party. We worked jig-saw puzzles, played fort-two and other games. Refreshments consisting of cherry pie with whipped cream and punch were served to about fifty persons. There were several visitors from other churches. Everyone had a lovely time.

Shelton Knigler, Morrison and Miss Louie Knigler Will Teach Bible Summer School.

In response to the many inquiries as to whether or not we will continue our school in expression, music and dance, we wish to say that we are making special plans to do so, and invite the public to shop for their art as they would for any commodity. For reference to our music department, we point with just pride to a score of young ladies and men who have been our pupils for many years.

For our expression department, which teaches all phases of speech arts, we extend a friendly challenge to any town in West Texas, or any one teacher who has had the pleasure of coaching as many first place winners in the annual declamation contest, as have we. A Haskell High School senior girl declaimer has won first place every year since Haskell county has been in the League with the exception of one—two years ago—we tied with Sagerton; and in a second try the young lady from Sagerton won. Also we have taken from one-half to two-thirds of the first places in the other divisions. This year with six entrants in the county meet we took four first places, and two seconds. Again you will pardon the pride we feel in having taught these talented girls and boys who will go to Abilene next Friday to compete for district honors: North Ward Junior boy, Claud Warren, 1st place. South Ward Junior girl, Marjorie Ratliff, 2nd place. High School Junior boy, George William Fouts, 1st place. High School Junior girl, Helen Ballard, 2nd place. High School Senior girl, Helen Higgins, 1st place. High School Senior boy, Crockett English, 1st place. All, with the exception of one, have studied with us, from two to four years. It takes just as long to be proficient in this, as any other art. As for our tap dances, beginning next Tuesday night we will feature tap dances on three special programs that will be advertised later.

We are making a special rate for our summer school and will be very glad to discuss what any member of the family might be interested in studying. See either Mrs. Knigler or Mrs. Morrison.

Mrs. Wm. Silvers left Sunday for Temple where she will visit some time with her son, J. B. Silvers and family.

Mrs. L. E. Frasier was brought to her daughter's home, Mrs. Bob Speck's, last week from Knox City Hospital, where she was operated on the week before. She is getting on nicely and will soon return to her home in Fort Stockton.

Mrs. Chester Speck was operated on for appendicitis at Knox City Hospital last week. She is getting well fast.

Misses Lola May DeBusk and Sarah Greer arrived home last Wednesday from Keams Canyon, Ariz.

Mrs. B. W. Broddy of Benjamin spent the first part of last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Bragg.

Miss Helen Williams returned to her home near Rochester last week from Tech College, where she attended school. She plans to return in the summer and resume her college work.

The Senior Class play was put on last Tuesday night. A large crowd enjoyed it.

Rochester

March, the supposed to be windiest month of the year, behaved so nicely this time we hardly realized when the last day Friday the 31st, passed.

Garden stuff, yes, we can see it grow.

Most of Rochester's population cut their shrubs off as near the ground as possible, as the terrible freeze in February killed the tops. They are coming out nicely. We really think they'll get back to natural in a short time.

We flower growers are very much encouraged over the Mayor ordering owners of chickens living inside the incorporated town of Rochester to pen their chickens. Of course that's encouraging to the poultry growers in any town, as flowers and poultry can't thrive together.

Mrs. Leo Duncan and children left last Tuesday for Breckenridge to spend some time with her parents.

Mrs. L. E. Frasier was brought to her daughter's home, Mrs. Bob Speck's, last week from Knox City Hospital, where she was operated on the week before. She is getting on nicely and will soon return to her home in Fort Stockton.

A Thousand Yous

WHEN you pick up your newspaper and glance over the advertising you quite unconsciously multiply yourself a thousand times.

In half or three-quarters of an hour you can, figuratively speaking, visit every progressive store in town. You virtually poke your head into every department of every department store. You run into the florist's, the confectioner's, the oculist's, the leading groceries, banks, theaters---all the various places that supply the things that make this the twentieth century and life worth the living. Here is a greater choice in clothing, food, furniture, books, musical instruments, pictures, travel, entertainment, opportunities for investment, the service of public utility corporations than any monarch of old could command.

It would easily take a thousand yous, traveling hard all day, to find out for yourself what the advertisements tell you in a few minutes morning or evening.

Advertisements deserve your attention. They deserve your confidence. Without advertising, the prices you would have to pay for many of the necessities you now buy for small change would make a dollar look like a snowball on the kitchen range.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted
by William Bruckart

Washington.—Although the Roosevelt emergency banking program was put forward purely as a solution for the crisis then upon the nation, it has since become apparent that it had a permanent phase that surely is going to carry on far into the future in the shape of a bitter controversy. There is no longer any doubt that the emergency program was based on a plan for a unified banking system for the country, and that, of course, means ultimate death for the state banking structure.

We have long had a national banking system, made up of financial institutions that were chartered by and under the control of the comptroller of the currency in the treasury. We also have had the state institutions that were chartered by and under the control of state authorities and existing by virtue of state laws. There has been a long continuing effort to get them together, but always it has been futile because for the most part the national banking laws were more rigid and the prerequisites higher than the state banking laws required.

It is interesting, therefore, to note how the creation of the federal reserve system back in 1914 made some inroads into the state banking field by providing means whereby those banks could join the national banks in the federal reserve system. There remained advantages to the state banks, however, and one of the means used to offset some of those advantages was the passage of the so-called McPadden act in 1927. This allowed national banks to have branches within the city where their parent bank was located.

Various efforts have been made since that time to enlarge the branch banking privileges of the national banks, but to no avail. There was an enlargement of those privileges in the bill by Senator Glass of Virginia that was passed by the senate in the last congress, although it died the death of a rag doll in the house of representatives.

Now comes the emergency banking law, however, with provisions designed to solve the crisis in our country's financial structure but with some other sections furthering the interests of the national banks. The latter sections were completely overshadowed. Most people paid little attention to them. The main object of the legislation was to get the banks open. The bill was put through congress in the record speed of one day and the state banking interests, hitherto on guard against new encroachments, were in a position where they could do nothing.

Actually, the situation resulting from the passage of the emergency law, aside from the provisions for making currency available, is a tremendously long step on the part of the federal government toward squeezing out the state banks. It does so by making available many more advantages for the national banks and state banks that are members of the federal reserve system than they ever had before.

There are few officials or members of congress who will admit that there is a big drive on to accomplish a great unified banking system.

Their silence, however, does not conceal the fact. State banking representatives who flocked to Washington during the banking holiday in order to protect themselves recognized it. They began fighting, but it was too late. The law was passed.

Their claim was, and still is, that the emergency banking act and the regulations issued under it for the reopening of the banks beginning March 13 resulted in state banks being cast adrift. They were given slightly little consideration. It looks like they will receive less hereafter. So it's the survival of the fittest for them.

This does not mean that the state bank in your community is going to die. The scheme which Washington observers believe they see and which the state bank representatives claim has been worked out operates slowly. It is intended to develop a far flung system whereby the small country banks will be absorbed slowly, perhaps becoming branches of larger banks. Banking facilities will be continued wherever there is need for them, because if the need exists profit can be made out of a bank. Wherefore, there will be an eventual purchase of hundreds of the smaller banks and conversion of them into branches.

Then, the bank of the controversy comes into view. There is one school of thought in the country which holds that the solution of our banking problems is establishment of a few great systems, or at least fewer but stronger banks. There is much support for that idea because of the thousands of bank failures that have occurred in the period of the depression. Senator Glass, the author of the bill mentioned above and one of the ablest banking students of the time, says there are actually thousands of banks in operation that ought never have been organized. There was no need for them. He referred to some of the real small institutions as pawn shops, adding that they were of no service to their communities and that they toppled over at the first sign of a storm.

But there is another school of thought. Those on this side of the question argue against extension of the branch system and the limitation of the number of banks as placing dangerous power over currency and credit in the hands of a small number of individuals instead of distribution of that power among the communities where the banks are located. From this viewpoint, too, it is said local communities will be denied accommodations at the bank with which they must do business. I have heard it argued at length that a branch of a bank in a distant city will have its hard and fast rules, and either the local citizens meet those requirements or fail to get a loan. If that be true, of course, it means destruction of one of the basic rules of credit, namely, the character and record of the borrower.

At any rate, there are the points set up on each side of the question. Undoubtedly, there is merit to each argument. Moreover, experience seems to have demonstrated that varying conditions make the two propositions work differently in different communities. Yet, whatever may be the view one holds, it cannot be denied that the emergency banking act is an enormous stride in the direction of a unified banking system. If it produces stronger banks everywhere, it surely will have been a blessing even though it leaves some spots and heartaches in many communities for the time being as a result of the harshness of its terms.

President Roosevelt's bold action respecting the banking situation resulted in many Move Required persons overlooking what I am inclined to regard as a move that required more courage when considered from the political standpoint. He was able to gain quick and decisive and almost unanimous action on the banking legislation because of the perilous situation. He had no such united support when he asked congress to give him dictatorial powers to cut government expenses. Especially is this true concerning the right he sought to trim down the payments being made to former soldiers, sailors and marines whose compensation was being given in cases of physical disabilities that did not result from actual service in the fighting lines.

No one knows, nor can anyone tell how much money is being paid for disability not connected with the service. It is known, however, that the total payments to veterans exceeds $50,000,000, a vast sum even for our rich country. There seems to be no equivocation about the willingness to pay compensation to veterans who received injuries in the fighting lines. That is undoubtedly their due. It is the least a government can do. But where the compensation is being paid for things that have happened since the war, there surely is room for doubt. That is the type of payment which the President says he is going to eliminate.

Now that congress has put through the legislation permitting the manufacture and sale of beer with an alcoholic content something near what beer had before the days of prohibition, much speculation has arisen as to how the matter will be viewed by the Supreme Court of the United States. The question surely will get to the Supreme court in rather short order. Prohibitionists are not going to be licked without that final test.

In view of these circumstances, it may be interesting to recall an argument made privately by former Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, when he sought to get action on a beer bill in the last session of congress before his term expired. Senator Blaine took the position that it would be unconstitutional for congress to pass beer legislation that would "authorize" the manufacture and sale of beer where it contained an alcoholic content in excess of one-half of 1 per cent. But he contended that if congress enacted legislation declaring there was no penalty to be used where the alcoholic content was below a stated figure, there was nothing which the Supreme court could hold to be unconstitutional.

There seems every reason to believe that the law as enacted in the extra session will stand the constitutional test.

There seems every reason to believe that the law as enacted in the extra session will stand the constitutional test.

MOVIES

MUSIC AND DANCING MARK "HOT PEPPER"

Motion picture devotees who are demanding the return of screen musicals will find enough music and dancing in the Fox comedy, "Hot Pepper" to meet their desires. It is the next attraction at the Texas Theatre. This picture depicts the latest adventures of the immortal Quirt and Flagg, the fighting and loving Marines portrayed by Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen.

Though they are no longer in uniform, they are still the devil dogs created by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson. The 1933 Flagg and Quirt are night club owners, and they dress in regal style. The night clubs are the playgrounds of beautiful women and tailor-made men, and entertainment in one of them is furnished by the flaming meteor, Lupe Velez, and a chorus of singing and dancing beauties.

Miss Velez sings a new song "Ain't Going to Ring No More," and appears in a dance that is said to be sensational. The music for "Hot Pepper" was written by Val Burton and Will Jason, well-known composers.

"RED DUST" HAS ELABORATE SETS

Clark Gable and Jean Harlow, platinum blonde charmer of the screen, are seen together for the second time in their careers in "Red Dust", snuous drama of Indo-China, coming soon to the Texas Theatre.

Miss Harlow played opposite Gable in one of his first important pictures, "The Secret Six." Since then, both have been catapulted to major fame. She recently changed the color of her tresses for "The Red Headed Woman," and Gable scored an outstanding hit in "Strange Interlude."

THE FARM RELIEF BILL

The farm relief bill sponsored by the Roosevelt administration is coming in for the usual criticism where farm relief is concerned. Some claim that it is not in accord with Democratic principles, but they should bear in mind that it is an emergency and temporary measure to meet a serious crisis threatening the utter ruin of the nation's basic industry.

Another criticism is that it is intended to increase the price of farm products by governmental action, and an attempt is being made to array the city consumers against the proposed bill. How long would the cities survive if the farmers ceased to produce the foods that feed them? The inhabitants would starve in a month. At present the farmers' products sell for less than the cost of production. How long will the farmers keep on working from dawn to dark to feed the people at a loss?

For a decade the government has done nothing effective to save agriculture. That is the reason there are 30,000,000 farm people out of the purchasing class today. Because of the loss in trade of these 30,000,000 people some millions of factory workers are in the street. If these 30,000,000 can be restored to the purchasing class, vast numbers of jobless city workers will go back to work and return to the purchasing class.

The plan proposed is frankly described as an experiment, with the promise that if it fails the President will be the first to admit it.

It is passing strange that the guiding spirits of the industrial world who are being benefitted by the tariff, try to block every effort to give the farmers a chance to sell their products at living prices, but we are glad to note that some of them are beginning to see the light. Some are starting to run for cover. A few are becoming almost panic-stricken with fear of the retribution they now to begin to realize is coming.

A leading Chicago financier is quoted as coming out and saying:

"The basic need is to raise farm prices, not simply for the benefit of the farmers or that of their creditors, but in order that they may once more begin to buy the products of industry."

This pronouncement, coming from such a source, is most significant. It shows that some of the more open-minded of the big business authorities are beginning to look the situation in the face, to inquire what is actually wrong and to welcome new remedies.

The depression has now entered on its fourth year. Trade and industry have been at a standstill ever since 1929. Something is needed to make the wheels go round, and President Roosevelt proposes to supply that need. A better era is now coming and everyone should lend a hand.

A BREAKER OF PRECEDENTS

When Franklin D. Roosevelt flew to Chicago to accept the Democratic nomination for President in person, he established a new precedent, and he has been making or breaking precedents ever since.

He is now engaged in establishing a new one or breaking an old one in the manner in which he is building his whole legislative program on the planks of the Democratic platform, which he accepted 100 per cent. It is said that he keeps a copy of the platform in a drawer of his desk and frequently consults it.

With the exception of the emergency banking act, the need for which could not have been foreseen last June, none of Mr. Roosevelt's proposals has gone outside the party platform.

During his four weeks in the White House he has initiated action on the most important platform planks, some of which have been placed on the statute books while others are well on the way. This is unprecedented.

The platform favored immediate and drastic reductions in governmental expenditures by abolishing commissions and offices and consolidating departments, and sweeping authority to do this has been voted President Roosevelt by Congress. He took the first step on Monday by consolidating agricultural credit agencies which will save several million dollars annually.

The platform promised the country a balanced budget and it will get it. A long start has been made in this through the dictatorial power voted the President to reduce Federal salaries, slash veterans' compensation, and the enactment of the beer-for-revenue bill. A cut of 15 per cent in Federal salaries will go into effect tomorrow.

Federal credit to states for unemployment relief, and expansion of public works program were promised, and a huge new appropriation will soon be asked for. The Roosevelt reforestation-unemployment plan whereby 250,000 men will be put to work has been approved by Congress.

Restoration of agriculture and better financing of farm mortgages were promised. The Roosevelt farm bill is now before Congress, and a message will go to Congress shortly relative to mortgage relief.

Another plank in the platform favored conservation, development and use of water power in the public interest, and legislation to accomplish this, using the Tennessee river basin and Muscle Shoals as a gigantic Federal laboratory is already being drafted.

Protection of the investing public through honest advertising of securities, coupled with Federal control of holding companies engaged in interstate business, and divorcement of bank affiliates was another plank in the platform. A message on that subject was sent to Congress on Wednesday, and prompt action is expected.

Repeal of the 18th Amendment and modification of the Volstead act to permit beer were also promised. Beer has been legalized and machinery for repeal has been set in motion.

This is a great record of achievement: in 30 days, and the effect is being felt throughout the country.

Title Cleared to Building Site for Graham Postoffice.

From The Graham Leader—
The United States Government acquired title to the Federal building site, through condemnation proceedings in the Federal Court at Wichita Falls last Tuesday.

Local interest was represented by A. A. Morrison, chairman of the Federal Building committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and S. A. Penix, attorney.

The court action climaxed eighteen months effort on the part of the Federal Building committee to vest the title to the site in the Government, the chief obstacle being Texas statutes which retard the transfer of public property. The architect has been employed and is at present preparing plans and specifications for the building.

The Federal Building committee includes: A. A. Morrison, chairman; M. K. Graham, A. B. Eddleman, J. J. Gallaher, F. T. Arnold, W. G. Mobley and Graham Stewart.

HOUSE OIL INQUIRY DRAGS TO CLOSE (An Editorial)

(By a Reader)

The investigation of the railroad commission is finally completed. The proponents have made their findings. An important section of the investigating committee evidently do not approve the criticisms of the steering committee, but even if given their value, the result remains a platitude to every friend of the commission.

No charge was sustained, or developed to the point of serious consideration, that reflected on the financial integrity of any member of the commission. In the midst of the administration of properties involving hundreds of millions of dollars they have remained personally honest. No contention has been made that the commission does not place first, and protect to the best of its ability, the interests of the state and the people of Texas.

The first criticism is that the appointments are political. This is true of all governmental appointments not under civil service. The test is not the reason for the appointment, but the competence of the employee and by this standard the prosecution does not seem to have made out a case.

The second finding is that the commission has, in East Texas, issued invalid orders. In two years the oil industry has moved a substantial distance along the road of efficient state supervision. A long way remains yet to go. No order regulating East Texas production at this time, can escape the gauntlet of the courts. It seems doubtful if any practical order, will be sustained by the federal courts. Until the United States supreme court finally defines the extent of the powers of the state to control these matters, the enforcement of proration must hobble along under almost superhuman difficulties. To criticize the commission for these difficulties is obviously unjust.

It is charged that some of the majors will welcome the abandonment of proration and that the January price smash had such a purpose behind it. It has greatly increased the danger of a breakdown and may yet bring it about. The federal injunction granted last Saturday to Dainger may also cause a collapse. Obviously some operators cannot remain tied while other operate unrestrained for long periods of time. If for either of these reasons it become impossible to continue proration the fault will not be with the commission. It is rather to be commended for the ability with which it has so far controlled the situation.

The third criticism is the Panhandle gas matter. The facts seem to be that the Panhandle gas district is in the grip of a powerful combination of Eastern utilities in which the Standard of New Jersey and the Cities Service are dominant. They are transporting enormous quantities of gas out of the state. They pay practically no taxes upon the gas and are using their monopoly to crush every local interest. The legislature has twice attempted a correction. The commission for two years has made repeated attempts at reasonable solutions. The attitude of these corporations throughout has remained one of arrogance and contempt for the authority of this state.

The commission was finally faced with a decision as to whether it would longer permit the utilities to drain gas from under the properties of its own defenseless citizens or to allow its people to use their gas for any commercial purposes. It is difficult to see how any member of the Texas legislature has been able to find in this action any just basis for criticism.

This appears to be the complete case uncovered by several weeks of careful investigation. The results justify the faith that Texans have had in the honesty and administrative ability of the railroad commission.

USTIN—Action of appropriation thus far carry out the intention of the Legislature to a government expenses by from 30 per cent. Several of the items have been finally acted on by both houses and are in the governor's hands. There is a difference of some $800,000 between the House and Senate on the emergency appropriations. The Senate amended the House bill to provide for construction of buildings, said to be needed to take care of the increasing number of inmates in various institutions.

This is the only serious difference between the branches of the Legislature with regard to important appropriation bills. For the most part House schedules have been lower than the Senate, but thus far differences have been compromised about serious difficulty.

The one big question yet to be decided is the amount of support to be provided for public schools. The situation is more difficult than other major items of expense, because schools throughout the State are suffering from the double harassment of reduced State support as well as reductions in the revenues of local taxes.

During the past few years State support of the public schools has steadily increased. State appropriation in 1923 was $12,965,000. In 1933 this had been increased to $22,912. Special rural aid appropriations in 1933 were $1,000,000. Local support in the same period increased, though by a smaller ration.

Increases in support from both local and State sources have far outstripped increases in enrollment, earning power of the people and the wealth of the State. Likewise public schools have mounted more rapidly than have the costs of other functions of State government. Illustrating this point, total property assessments in 1933 were approximately $1.5 billion and a half billion dollars, a 10 per cent increase over 1932, compared with increases in expenditures for public schools of 15 per cent and somewhat less for the State and somewhat less for local sources.

It seems fair to point out that school enrollment was increased 10 per cent and taxable property about 14 per cent, public school costs were more than double these percentages are average for the State. The factors vary in many localities.

It will be a difficult problem to adjust these differences going any way. It is clear, however, that if the existing standards of support of the public schools is maintained new sources of revenue must be found.

The income tax bill has received a favorable report from a House committee. The rates for individuals from one per cent on the first $100 of net income up to seven per cent on amounts in excess of $100. For corporations the rates from two per cent on the first $100 to six per cent on income in excess of $1,000.

The sales tax has been killed in a House committee, but is talk of it being brought back as a minority report. Its passage of passage seems also but for needed revenues may be a point support to bring about enactment of a modified sales tax on specified articles.

There seems to be no safer way to end a headache—and there certainly is no safer way—than two tablets of Bayer Aspirin. You've heard doctors say Bayer Aspirin is safe. If you've tried it, you know it's effective. You could take these tablets every day in the year without any ill effects. And every time you take them, you get the desired relief. Stick to Bayer Aspirin. It's safe. It gets results. Quick relief from headaches, colds, or other sudden ailments.

It pays to read advertisements — It will pay you to read this one

The other day a friend gave my wife a recipe for a new Frozen Orange Pudding. We had it last night for dessert.

"This is something new," I said. "Where did you get it?"

"Mae gave me the recipe yesterday. She clipped it from an advertisement."

My wife didn't read that advertisement. If her friend hadn't read it what a treat we would have missed.

Do you read the advertisements? It will pay you many times over to do so. From them you may learn about all sorts of new things. New foods, new ways to use them, new recipes that will add variety to the daily menu.

Right in the advertisements in this paper there are countless things to interest you, to save you money, to bring you the most value for what you spend. And now as a reward for reading this advertisement here is the recipe that inspired it.

RECIPE FOR FROZEN ORANGE PUDDING

Ingredients: 2 egg yolks (beaten); 1 cup orange juice; 1 cup cream (light cream or top milk will do); 4 teaspoonfuls flour; 1-8 teaspoonful salt; 1-3 cup sugar; 1 teaspoonful grated orange rind.

juice and cream. Put in double boiler until thick. Add orange rind, cool and pour into freezing tray of refrigerator—or three or four hours on ice. When ready to serve, top each dish with meringue made by beating two egg whites stiff and adding 1-4 cup sugar. Garnish with orange segments.

Blend thoroughly egg yolks, sugar, flour, salt and add orange

WOMEN: watch your BOWELS

What should women do to keep their bowels moving freely? A doctor should know the answer. That is why pure Syrup Pepsin is so good for women. It just suits their delicate organism. It is the prescription of an old family doctor who has treated thousands of women patients, and who made a special study of bowel troubles. It is fine for children, too. They love its taste. Let them have it every time their tongues are coated or their skin is sallow. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is made from fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other harmless ingredients. When you've a sick headache, can't eat, are bilious or sluggish; and at the times when you are most apt to be constipated, take a little of this famous prescription (all drug stores keep it ready in big bottles), and you'll know why Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the favorite laxative of over a million women!

For their portrayal of the history of the later transition period of the range industry, the introduction of farming settlers, and the fast improvement of cattle breeding, of feeding and finishing cattle in Texas, these papers are a great historical contribution.

"The Hastings family was started in America by S. M. Swenson, whose initials the ranch still bears, and has been intimately connected with the development of Texas since Texas declared her independence nearly one hundred years ago.

"At present, the Swenson Land and Cattle Company is one of the largest ranching firms in the State, grazing some 350,000 acres in West Texas. During the period of operation of the firm it has sold to settlers about 300,000 acres of land, built railroads, erected mills, and even founded towns.
