SOCIETY

Blake-Hines.

Miss Elizabeth Blake and Mr. Wilis Hines were united in marriage on December 16th at 4:30 p. m. by Rev. C. A. Tucker, pastor of the Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Hines is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe A. Blake. Mr. Hines is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Hines of Rule.

Baptist Missionary Society.

The Baptist Woman's Missionary Society met Dec. 19th at the church with 12 ladies present.

The meeting opened by singing "Silent Night", with prayer by Mrs. Lampkin. The devotional was given by Mrs. Gilstrap. Mrs. I. N. Simmons had charge of the program Topic "The Gifts Christ Brought". The following ladies had part on the program: Mesdames Lampkin, Paxton, R. C. Couch, Sam A. Roberts, Whiteker, Scott, Cate, Ellis and K. D. Simmons.

A short business meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Whatley. Prayer was offered for our sick, led by Mrs. Paxton. We were dismissed to meet next Monday in circles.

Postoffice Force Entertained.

Thursday night December 15th, Mrs. Leo Southern was hostess to all the postoffice employees and their husbands and wives for a Christmas Tree and "84" party at the Magazine club room.

Bunker Hill

Everyone is enjoying the sunny weather after having two weeks of bad weather.

The wedding bells have been ringing in this community. Herbert Spitzer, of Old Glory, and Miss Lena Boedeker were happily married Thursday at the Lutheran Church at Sagerton.

Albert Berry of Stamford and Miss Bessie Mae Chatwell surprised their many friends by getting married Saturday evening. They will make their home in Stamford.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newton and children spent Monday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Reese of Rule.

On account of the bad weather we couldn't have our Christmas tree and program Friday night, and the program will be Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Chatwell and children of Rochester, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Hagle and little son of Pleasant Valley, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Berry of Stamford, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knipling and daughter Melba, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Chatwell.

Several from here attended the dance at the skating rink at Stamford Saturday evening.

Mr. John Hammitt of Rule spent Tuesday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Boedeker spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Newton near Sagerton.

W. W. Newton and J. E. Newton made a business trip to Haskell Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Chatwell visited their daughter, Mrs. Berry of Stamford Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Morgan and daughter of Aspermont spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts and baby spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Roberts.

Locust Has Appalling Record of Destruction

In spite of fuller knowledge of the life and habits of the grasshopper, the discovery that he emerges from permanent breeding grounds and does not materialize from the ether to satisfy the vengeance of deity, and some improvement in the methods of exterminating him and curbing his activities, this insect still manages to do about as he likes.

In many countries and in all periods of his history he has left his record of destruction. The most appalling report of his depredations comes from the pen of St. Augustine, who tells of a plague in Numidia which resulted in the death of 800,000 men. Pliny writes of swarms of African locusts that crossed the Mediterranean to Italy in his time. South Africa has suffered keenly from swarms of migratory locusts, and great damage is done by them to the crops of Argentina and Chile.

Butterfly Variations

Size, form and color of butterflies are strongly affected by time or place of birth. This finding has been announced in a bulletin of the Smithsonian Institution, based on an intensive study by Austin H. Clark of the butterfly life of the Middle Atlantic states. Clark found that several species found in this part of the country have two or more broods a year—one emerging from the pupae in early spring, a second in midseason, and possibly a third in summer. The individuals of these broods differ so strikingly that only an expert would recognize some of them as belonging to the same species.

Land of Extremes

The highest known point in the United States, exclusive of Alaska, is the summit of Mount Whitney, in California, which is 14,490 feet above sea level, and the lowest known dry land in the United States is in Death valley, also in California, which is 276 feet below sea level.

In mid-June campers were driven away from the vicinity of Lake Tahoe by a cold storm which approached the severity of a blizzard. A few days later at least one of these parties encountered a temperature of 108 degrees at Bakersfield.

An Old Friend Back

The professor had left his berth in the sleeper to find a drink of ice water and was hopelessly lost in the middle of the aisle. It was about midnight. The train was speeding through the country.

"Don't you remember the number of your berth?" asked the porter.

"I'm—er—afraid not," was the reply.

"Well, haven't you any idea where it was?"

"Why, oh, yes, to be sure." The professor brightened. "I did notice at one time this afternoon the windows looked out upon a little lake."—Union Pacific Magazine.

South African Natives

Have Own Newspapers

In South Africa there are now nearly a score of newspapers entirely conducted by natives. The blacks, in fact, have the same fondness as the whites for seeing things in black and white. One of these papers has celebrated its twenty-first birthday, and it boasts a circulation of a thousand copies a week. Many of them are published in native languages, and reach a very high standard. A few contain items in English which are sometimes unconsciously amusing.

In a recent report of a wedding readers were told that "Among the presents was one sugar basin and a milk job."

Most of the native papers are very strong on advertisements. Pickle and sauce manufacturers are great supporters of these columns, and a good trade appears to be done by the makers of a lotion for taking the astrakhan kinks out of woolly mops of hair.

One might expect that some of these papers would show strong anti-white feeling. This, however, is not the case. Political questions are dealt with, but in the fairest and most open manner, and most of the native papers make strong appeals for a closer understanding between the black and white races.

London's Coat of Arms

The "popular" story given in many old histories, and sometimes repeated today, is that the weapon which appears in the arms of the city of London is a dagger. It is supposed to commemorate the weapon with which the then lord mayor, Sir William Walworth,

Electoral College Not Bound by States' Will

The electoral college is the device set up by the federal Constitution for the election of President and Vice President of the United States. It is composed of electors chosen by popular vote in each state, the number in each case equaling the number of congressmen—senators and representatives—to which the state is entitled.

Each elector is bound by precedent and party loyalty, though not by law, to cast his vote in accordance with the will of his state as shown at the November election.

The college never meets as a body. The creation of this rather awkward and sometimes unsatisfactory device by the authors of the Constitution is supposed to reflect their distrust of democracy and their unwillingness to leave to the masses of citizens so important a task as choosing their Chief Executive. The theory has been completely abandoned, though the machinery continues. In effect, though not in fact, voters have long voted directly for President and Vice President.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Allkaloids Are Vegetable

The alkaloids, favorite term of the detective story writer who likes to slay his victims with mysterious poisons, are, in truth, highly poisonous in some cases and highly beneficial in others.

All of the alkaloids are of vegetable origin and come under the general chemical term of bases—that is, substances which unite with acids to form salt and water.

Among the common and important alkaloids are those of tea and coffee, nicotine of tobacco, morphine from opium, quinine, atropine, cocaine, strychnine and other such substances.

Infantile Paralysis

"Byron, who had club feet possibly resulting from infantile paralysis, or poliomyelitis as the doctors call it, was fond of athletics and found that his handicap did not apply when he was in the water. From constant exercise in water he became so strong he eventually was able to swim the Hellespont, just as did Leander in the golden days of Greece," Dr. John Kubrah told readers in Hygeia Magazine in his article entitled, "Polo."

Ferris Wheel Designed to Rival Eiffel Tower

The Ferris wheel was named after its inventor, George W. G. Ferris (1859-1930), an American engineer and steel bridge builder, who was born at Galesburg, Ill. He organized an engineering firm at Pittsburgh, where he lived after 1883. His imagination was fired when Daniel H. Burnham, chief of construction for the World's Columbian exposition in Chicago in 1893, challenged the civil engineers of America to design something novel and unusual to rival the Eiffel tower at the Paris exposition in 1889. Ferris conceived the idea of constructing a gigantic revolving wheel on which to carry people up into the air for amusement. His friends and business associates advised him against its construction. The country was in the midst of a business depression and financing the undertaking was a difficult task. Even those in charge of the exposition at first regarded the scheme as fantastic and waited several months before granting Ferris the concession. The fair had already opened when the Ferris wheel was completed. It was the chief attraction at the fair and proved to be a profitable investment. Engineers from all over the world admired the daring and accuracy in its design and the precision in its construction. The wheel was 300 feet in diameter, 825 in circumference and 30 in width. It carried 36 cars with a seating capacity of 40 passengers each.

Early Rebellion Over Vast Manorial Estates

The first settled territory in New York was along the Hudson and consisted of vast estates or manors granted by the Dutch government to patroons. The patroons held the land in fee and collected rents from the settlers. At first there was little objection to the system, but even before the Revolution trouble had begun. After the death of Stephen Van Rensselaer, one of the descendants of the original patroons, the rents fell in arrears and the "anti-renters" organized to resist payment. The anti-renters, supported by Seward Whigs and "Barnburner" Democrats, became a power in state politics. The state, however, was beaten in a suit testing the title of one of the patroons, and troops were sent to Rensselaerville to enforce the law. In 1845 an officer was shot in Delaware county while trying to collect rents and the governor proclaimed the country in a state of insurrection. The slayer was convicted of murder, but later pardoned by the governor. That was the end of the "anti-rent" war. Later the manorial estates were broken up.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Old American Road
The earliest of all the white man's roads in this country was the old Bay path connecting the Plymouth Pilgrims with their Puritan neighbors when they settled in Boston in the 1630s. Most of the white man's early highways were glorifications of old Indian trails. When they got more civilized they had their little "thank-you-marms," the raised places across the road that formed the braces for the cart or wagon wheels to rest while the horses caught their second wind on the uphill grind and the leaders for the water guiding its way into the ditch. By night the same "thank-you-marms" were "kiss-me-quickies" (no explanation necessary). Marlon Nichol Rawson, in "From Here to Yonder."

Endurance
It is only when there is no possible amelioration that endurance is fine courage. To be the genuine article we mean, of course, that it is to be accompanied by a respectable show of cheerfulness, that one's sorrows be kept off the housetops, and that the sympathy of one's neighbors be not drawn upon to exhaustion. As endurance in this vale is more or less a matter of endurance from first to last, this species of courage is more important in the long run than any other.—H. B. Merriam.

Reverence for Trees
Trees have always held an important place in the imagination of primitive man. This special regard for trees is not restricted to African races, but appears in the art and mythology of almost every nation. In the growth of a tree man saw a resemblance to his own life. Their age-long existence was to him a symbol of immortality. It is not surprising, therefore, that tree worship goes back to the earliest times, and one of the established traditions among the ancients was that of a World Tree.

Man's Weakness
A man who is so minded may resist many things. He can stop drinking and staying out nights. He may, as a matter of ethics and fairness, overcome the temptation to give himself the best of it. He is so constituted that he can hold in check his disposition to show performance for the benefit of the Indian. He can break himself of the habit of talking about his children. But he always succumbs to the opportunity to give advice.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Some ancient seals portray man-headed bulls. Now we have bull-headed men in real life.

"Air Mail" Coming to Texas Theatre

The booking of "Air Mail," Universal's great drama of the men who wing their way across the continent with the government mail, has been announced by Manager Leon of the Texas Theatre to open an engagement there Thursday and Friday, January 5 and 6.
This exciting picture, it is said, tells the story of the unsung heroes to whom facing death and danger is just a part of the day's work. Events center around a desert airport mail relay station where a group of flyers of different types of character and various pasts are gathered to "put the mail through" regardless of all obstacles. The drama of their lives in the constant shadow of a flyer's death, and the clashes of personalities in the isolated station provide this film with unusual power and excitement, according to advance reports. An authentic insight into the lives and duties of these intrepid airmen and some of the most spectacular aviation photography yet brought to the screen makes "Air Mail" a veritable ace among pictures, Mr. Leon states.
With "Air Mail" Universal heralds the opening of the new motion picture season.
Ralph Bellamy, Pat O'Brien, Russell Hopton and Slim Summerville enact the featured male roles of the rapid action film with Gloria Stuart and Lillian Bond providing the feminine leads with expert characterizations. Important parts are also portrayed by William Daly, Leslie Fenton, Frank Albertson, Tom Carigan, Hans Furberg and David Landau. The famous John Ford directed "Air Mail" from the story by Dale Van Every and Lieut.

Commander Frank Wead, who worked on that other air epic, "Hell Divers."

ORIGIN OF FOOTBALL

What is said to be the earliest mention of football in America is contained in a book on Virginia published about 1609, just two years after the first permanent settlement at Jamestown.

But the real origin of football goes back to ancient times in Greece and Rome, where the game called "harpaston" or "harpastum," was played.

Early football rules were more in keeping with the name of the game, as the ball was kicked only, and not carried.

"This stone commemorates the exploit of William Webb Ellis, who with a fine disregard of the rules of football as played in his time first took the ball in his arms and ran with it, thus originating the distinctive feature of the Rugby game."

The first intercollegiate football game in America was played in 1869 between Princeton and Rutgers, with 25 men on each side.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION

The Federal Court just recently upheld the action of the Radio Commission in cancelling the license of Station KGEF, in Los Angeles.

The decision is of great value both to the public and to all who are interested in clean broadcasting and the legitimate use of the air.

This was the station operated by Rev. Bob Shuler, who made quite a stir during the recent campaign as a candidate for U. S. Senator.

The decision uses strong language and is as follows: "If it is to be considered that one in possession of a permit to broadcast in interstate commerce may, without let or hindrance from any source, use these facilities, reaching out, as they do from one corner of the country to the other, to obstruct the administration of justice, offend the religious susceptibilities of thousands, inspire political distrust and civic discord, or offend youth and innocence by the free use of words suggestive of sexual immorality, and be answerable for slander only at the instance of the one offended, then this great science instead of a boon, will become a scourge and the nation a theater for the display of individual passions and the collision of personal interests."

THE RACKETEER KING

One of the most pointed articles on the subject of governmental waste to come to our attention lately is from the Public Service News of Kansas City, which declares that the high cost of government has now become our greatest racketeer, which makes Al Capone and other of his ilk look like pikers.

It declares that 20 per cent of the annual national income is required to satisfy the demands of this super-racketeer. In other words, one dollar out of every five earned by the American people goes to pay for the wild extravagances of government, as compared with one dollar out of every $30 fifteen years ago.

This staggering burden is not borne by any particular class. Every man, woman and child in the nation must pay a share of tribute to the ogre of governmental waste. This 14 billion dollars comes out of capital, savings and payrolls.

An aroused public finally put Al Capone away. Whenever the people get sufficiently exasperated with the greatest of all public enemies—the high cost of government—it, too can be suppressed.

All over this country the voters and taxpayers are organizing to put a stop to the encroachments of the king of racketeers. Public officials who fail to heed the growing demand for economy in government are on the road to oblivion.

Mr. Bradshaw came to Omaha in 1910 as General Attorney and with Mr. Frazer organized the Association into the strongest fraternal insurance company in the world.

He engaged in litigation on behalf of W. O. W. in nearly every state of the Union and in federal courts with a very large degree of success.

Members of the Board of Directors regard Mr. Bradshaw as one of the outstanding legal minds in the fraternal insurance field.

"No man was ever more fortunate than I in his mother," said Mr. Bradshaw. "Her loving prayers follow me all the days of my life, and I owe all of my success to the early training and care she gave me."

Mr. Bradshaw is a past president of the Fraternal Society Law Association and also of the Legal Section of the National Fraternal Congress.

Mr. Bradshaw approved more than $200,000 of bonds purchased for the organization, and is largely responsible for the excellent securities it has in its portfolio.

W. O. W. has had a steady consistent growth during the 43 years of its existence. It has approximately 400,000 members throughout the United States.

Mr. Bradshaw was very active in politics and business in Little Rock. He became associated with Woodmen of the World as Head

New Chevrolets Add Over 85,000 People to Payrolls of Nation

TOP: New 1933 Chevrolet roadster climbing hill at General Motors Proving Ground. LEFT: New Fisher "No-Draft" Ventilation system illustrating how each passenger may have individually-controlled ventilation instead of being subjected to a sweep of air through the car, with resultant discomfort and danger to health. RIGHT: New rear-end of all closed models screening all unsightly underparts of the car.

Chevrolet's public showing of its new 1933 line means a material spurt to national employment and materials consumption, since this company is the largest manufacturer in the largest industry in the world. More than 85,000 people are back at work, 30,000 in the company's twenty domestic factories, 21,000 more in Fisher body plants working exclusively on Chevrolet-Fisher bodies, and more than 36,000 in dealerships throughout the nation. As many more are indirectly benefited by the announcement, through making their livelihood by building parts for the car which Chevrolet buys from independent suppliers. Chevrolet's 1933 volume totals nearly 400,000 cars and trucks with a retail value in excess of $300,000,000. This is said to be one of the greatest contributions made by any company this year to the economic welfare of America. In the new line, now on display at all dealers, is a variety of models featuring longer wheelbase, new Fisher "No-Draft" Ventilation and many other features which the company has designed to retain for its leadership in the industry it has enjoyed for four years out of the past six. Other features included in the new line are more power and speed in the engine, which is newly cushion-mounted; improved free wheeling, plus Synchro-Mesh transmission with Silent Second gear; a new "Starter-ator" that greatly simplifies starting; such safety elements as shatter-proof glass in the windshield; larger and lower bodies by Fisher, in the new "Aer-Stream" mode; three fewer controls, with really automatic features in some of those retained; an Octane Selector that insures the highest possible operating efficiency from all grades of gasoline, besides a uniform gasoline cost per mile; dash instruments of airplane type, for instant, easy reading; positive brakes; and still easier steering. With all these, and many more, the price range continues to be mindful of the buyer's pocketbook. It has been found possible to equip the new Chevrolets with many elements that used to be confined to cars selling at several times Chevrolet's base price. Since October first, trained former employees have been going back to work in Chevrolet's widely distributed manufacturing and assembly plants, with welcome additions to the general purchasing power, made possible by more wage money in circulation. Throughout November, the increase in employment continued to a seasonal peak to the middle of December, when concentrated operations incident to prompt dealer stocking were in full swing. More than twenty million dollars worth of the new cars were in dealers' hands when the national introduction was made.

"Little Stories for Bedtime" by Thornton W. Burgess

STICKYTOES TELLS JOHNNY CHUCK A SECRET

WHILE Johnny Chuck was stuffing himself in order to make more fat before seeking his bed to sleep the long winter away he did a lot of thinking. You know one can think and eat at the same time very nicely. What was Johnny Chuck thinking about? He was thinking about the coming winter and the curious ways in which his friends and neighbors would spend it. When other people do things in a different way from the way we do them we are very apt to think their ways are curious, quite forgetting that to them our way may seem just as curious.

To Johnny Chuck there is only one sensible way of spending the long months when rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost roar and howl and pinch and squeeze, and that is to curl up comfortably way down where Rough Brother North Wind and Jack Frost cannot reach him and there sleep until they have gone back to the far Northland. Johnny Chuck always thought of it as the only sensible thing to do. He sometimes quite forgot that it was the only thing he could do and so took the credit for sense and wisdom which really didn't belong to him. You see, Johnny has no choice in the matter. He has to sleep that way, because in the winter there is nothing he can eat.

"I Think," said he, "That I Have Got Quite as Much Sense as They Have."

But this is not so with many of his neighbors. Some of them eat things which can be kept for a long time without spoiling, like nuts and seeds, and these who eat these things pack them away into store-houses or hide them where they can find them. Then in the winter they sleep in bad weather and come out to play a little and to get food from their hiding places in pleasant weather. Happy Jack Squirrel and Chester the Red Squirrel do this. Striped-Chipmunk pops up for a breath of fresh air on warm, sunny days in winter. Jimmy Skunk is another who sleeps only part of the time. He does not store up food in storehouses, but like Johnny Chuck himself stores it up in the form of fat. But he does not depend on this wholly as does Johnny. He likes to come out and prow around a little when the snow is not too soft and deep.

Then there are others like Reddy and Granny Fox, Old Man Coyote, Billy Mink, Shadow the Weasel and Little Joe Otter, not to mention Peter Rabbit, who always manage to find enough to eat through the winter and so do no more sleeping than they do in the summer. That is why they are provided with thick, warm coats. The same thing is true of the feathered folk, except that none of them sleep all winter. Those who cannot find food fly away to the sunny Southland where they can find it.

Johnny Chuck was thinking of these things as he ate and ate, and it seemed to him that his way was far the best way. It saved a great deal of work and worry. He never was cold. He never was hungry. It made no difference to him what the weather might be. He wondered that everybody didn't do the same thing. He knew that wise Old Grandfather Frog does and Old Mr. Toad does. Thinking of Old Mr. Toad reminded him of Stickytoes the Tree Toad, who had spent the summer in the apple tree of the Old Orchard. He and Johnny had become great friends, being such near neighbors. At the thought of him Johnny stopped eating.

"I wonder," said he right out loud, "where he spends the winter?"

"Where he spends the winter?" asked a small piping voice. It was the voice of Stickytoes himself, and there he was almost under Johnny's nose.

"Why, you!" exclaimed Johnny Chuck. "I was just thinking of you and wondering if you have as much sense as your cousins, Old Mr. Toad and Grandfather Frog. They do as I do, sleep all winter, and I was wondering if you do the same thing."

Stickytoes chuckled. It was a throaty little chuckle. "I think," said he, "that I have got quite as much sense as they have. In fact I think I've got a little more. Can you keep a secret, Johnny Chuck?"

"Certainly I can," replied Johnny Chuck. "Just try me and see."

Stickytoes hopped a little nearer to Johnny Chuck and whispered.

Johnny Chuck's eyes grew round with surprise. "Do you really mean that?" he asked, as if he could hardly believe what Stickytoes had told him.

"Every word of it," replied Stickytoes, "but remember it is a secret. Now I must hurry or I shall be too late." Stickytoes wished Johnny Chuck a long sleep with pleasant dreams and started on.

HENRY OWENS HOME AT ROCHESTER DESTROYED BY FIRE

From the Rochester Reporter: The home of Henry Owens, on the John Jones farm west of Rochester was burned Monday afternoon. The building and some of his household goods were consumed. The fire was supposed to have originated from a defective flue. The family was fortunate in that they received no burns or injuries.

NEW POLICE SIGNAL LIGHTS ARE INSTALLED AT STAMFORD.

From the Stamford American: New police signals in the form of red light flashes have been installed on the City Hall. They are controlled by a switch in the police station and are so arranged as to attract the attention of the officer on duty regardless of his whereabouts. There was a great deal of difficulty in locating the officer by the old method of blowing a whistle, especially during the clamor of Saturday night shopping. Bill Gay of the fire department was instrumental in getting the new equipment.

PNEUMONIA FATAL TO SAGERTON YOUTH.

From the Rule Review: Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon of last week at 2:30 at the Lutheran church in Sagerton for Herman Knippling, 22, who died of pneumonia late Monday. Rev. S. C. Hallier of Winters conducted the last rites for the young man and interment was made in Highland cemetery.

Mr. Knippling was engaged to be married and the date had been set for December 21 of this year. His fiancée was Miss Alma Nedick. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Knippling who live eight miles southwest of Rule; two sisters and four brothers.

FUNERAL RITES FOR DAVE EILAND HELD AT MUNDAY SUNDAY AFTERNOON.

From the Munday Times: Funeral services for Dave Eiland, pioneer Munday citizen, were held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock at the Baptist church, with the Rev. W. H. Albertson, pastor, conducting the services, assisted by the Rev. H. C. Hand, pastor of the Methodist church. Following the services at the church the remains were laid to rest in Johnson cemetery.

Mr. Eiland died at his home at the Munday Hotel, which he and Mrs. Eiland had been operating for several months, the last several weeks of which time he had been confined to his room, and his death had been expected for several days. In the death of this good citizen Munday has lost one of its pioneer citizens and business men, he having come to Munday back in the days when the town was located in what is now called West Munday and is said to have established and operated the first barber shop to be operated in Munday, and had been associated with the business interests of the city almost continuously since that time, being for a number of years local manager for the Haskell Telephone Company here, and later engaged in the barber business in the city, in which business he was engaged at the time of his death.

Dave Eiland was born in Denton county, Texas, May 19, 1880, and came with his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. R. G. M. Eiland, to Baylor county in 1888, and he has resided in this section continuously since that time except for one year spent in Colorado. In 1910 he was elected District Clerk of Knox county and served in that capacity two terms, returning to Munday following his official tenure.

Mother's Cook Book BANANA DISHES

NOVEL recipes are always welcomed by the housewife who is constantly looking for appetizing dishes to please the tastes of her family.

Banana Marmalade.
Peel and slice bananas, using two pounds of bananas and the same amount of sugar and the juice of a lemon. Put into an earthen dish and let stand one hour. Turn into a preserving pan and cook gently, stirring constantly as soon as it thickens. Test by dropping a little on a plate; if it sets it is ready to pour into jars. Serve with toast at tea.

Bananas Cooked in Cranberry Juice.
Wash a pint of cranberries and cover with a cupful of cold water. Cook quickly ten minutes and press through a sieve. Halve six large bananas lengthwise and cover with the juice of half a lemon. Add one and one-half cupfuls of sugar to the hot berry juice, stir well and pour over the bananas. Place in a hot oven and bake until the fruit is tender. Remove to a glass dish and cool. The cranberry jelly will make a thick, rich sauce for the bananas.

Bananas With Bacon or Sausage.
Cut each banana into halves crosswise, then lengthwise, roll in flour, cook in hot bacon or sausage fat and serve around the bacon or sausage.

Banana Muffins.
Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter, add one-half cupful of brown sugar, one beaten egg, two mashed bananas, two cupfuls of flour, one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful of milk. Cream the butter and sugar together, add egg well beaten and the mashed pulp of the bananas. Add the dry ingredients with the milk. Mix well; drop into greased tins and bake in a medium oven twelve minutes.

Banana Pie.
Bake a shell and fill with thinly sliced bananas which have been lightly sweetened, and a teaspoonful of lemon juice added to them. Cover with a rich, thick custard, cooked and cooled, and top with a few spoonfuls of whipped cream. Serve well chilled.
