WILL BECOME PUPIL OF THE FAMOUS GODOWSKY.

Wilson P. Fraser, for four years a pupil of the late Wilbur McDonald and two years a teacher in the piano department of the Fine Arts school of Polytechnic college, will leave in a few days for Vienna, Austria, where he will become a pupil of Leopold Godowsky. Mr. Godowsky is rated as one of the world's greatest pianists. He appeared in a recital here this winter and his reception was most enthusiastic among the Fort Worth pianists. Mr. Fraser will return in September to teach in Polytechnic.—Fort Worth Record

MARRIED.

Mr. John Gilliland of Abilene, and Miss Julia Neal of Elmdale, were married Tuesday night, April 8th, 1913, at Elmdale. John Gilliland is the only son of W. H. Gilliland, deceased, one of the early settlers of Callahan county, and has a host of friends and relatives here who extend congratulations and good wishes to him and his bride.

There was a very good rain at Baird and the north and west part of the county, but we are sorry to say it did not reach the south part of the county. After the rain the wind came from the north and we have had winter weather for several days and fires and overcoats in brisk demand.

Mrs. H. D. Driskill and Miss Inez Franklin visited in Abilene Wednesday.

ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. J. A. Hillis delightfully entertained a few friends last Friday evening, April 4th, with several interesting games of "500" after which delightful refreshments were served to Capt. and Mrs. Powell, Judge and Mrs. I. N. Jackson, Mrs. W. J. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rupert Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hadley, Misses Myrtle and Cora-Nell Boydston, Miss Ruer, of Ft. Worth Mr. B. L. Boydston and Dr. Hill.

Miss Marguerite Seale was hostess to the Question Club last Friday afternoon. Bridge was played at four tables. After enjoying several games the hostess assisted by her sister, Miss Adine Seale, served refreshments of strawberry ice cream and cake to the following members and guests: Misses Edith Collier, Bernice Foy, M. Jia, Aurelia and Mary Bowyer; Ivan Bell, Maude Wilson, Lora Franklin, Nell Reur of Fort Worth, Dora Buckles, Mesdames Reynolds, Stanton of Evansville, La.; H. D. Driskill, W. S. Hinds, Elmer Walker and C. E. Walker.

COTTONWOOD LOCALS.

April 8th.—It is cloudy this morning and we feel good a little, in fact we think the prospect good for rain this morning. The corn that is up needs rain. Some wheat would not make a good crop if it was to rain now, and we want to plant cotton, so you see we are sorely in need of rain now.

You can realize how we appreciate a County Board of Trustees; they did not even open the polls here Saturday, and one year ago there

ENTERTAINED.

Quite a number of Cottonwood citizens visited the Terminal city Saturday, in fact it is getting to be quite a resort for our people on Saturday and trades day.

W. F. Griffin and wife and R. P. Nordyke, all of Cottonwood attended the lot sale at DeLeon a week ago.

Miss Beulah Respass, who has been teaching school at Comal, Coleman County, closed her school there last Friday and returned to her home in Cottonwood same afternoon.

Eld. Bob Williams of Abilene, filled his regular appointment at the Baptist Church here Saturday and Sunday.

Uncle Seth Ramsey, who has been quite feeble for quite a while is considerably improved we are glad to report.

Mrs. J. M. Ferguson, who has been sick for some time is still confined to her room all the time and to her bed a portion of the time.

Mr. John Bennett is quite sick at his home one mile north-east of

COTTONWOOD.

Mr. J. A. Brownlee, our rural man, is having some improvements added to his residence.

Judge Robbins has just completed a residence on his farm three miles west of Cottonwood.

There will be fewer cabbage planted in Cottonwood this spring than for years. The short crops for the past two or three years has rather discouraged the cabbage raisers here.

We with much pleasure acknowledge Uncle "Juan's" compliments and assure him that we read his articles with pleasure and hope he will be here (and we believe he will) a long time yet to wield the "Faber" for The Star, and that it will rain soon to fill up his new tank.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hill were in town Saturday.

Mrs. Parker, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. T. Wheeler, for some time, returned to her home in Dallas, Monday.

"Blessed is 'The Peacemaker'"

We love to tell the story,
About our Flour to you
Of how it won its glory,
And medals—not a few
We love to tell the story
Because we know 'tis true;
It satisfies your hunger
As no other Flour can do.

We love to tell the story
Peace Maker is our theme,
It makes light bread and pastry,
They seem just like a dream.

We love to tell the story
Tis pleasant to repeat;
Because we know Peace Maker
Is surely hard to beat.

We love to tell the story
Of how it makes the cake,
So nice and light and fluffy
You know it is no fake.
We love to tell the story
The biscuits are so nice,
It takes almost a dozen,
Your hunger to suffice.

We love to tell the story
For those who know it best
Say—"Alliance Milling Company,"
Is better than the rest,
Its home is Denton, Texas;
"Peace Maker's" natal town,
Then don't forget its birth place
"Peace Maker" made renown.

Let us send you a sack. It is sure fine. Phone today.

SUNNY BROOK THE PURE FOOD WHISKEY

To arrive at the top in any department of commercial effort one must produce, offer and do better than has been produced, offered or done before. Fifty years ago we determined that Sunny Brook must be the finest whiskey distilled and aged in Old Kentucky and we have never deviated from this policy. Today we are known as the largest distillers of fine old whiskeys in the world.

Sunny Brook reached the top because it surpassed all others in mellow flavor, exquisite bouquet and tonic properties. The friends Sunny Brook made fifty years ago because of its high quality and purity are still its friends, and all over this broad land a majority of the discriminating public demands Sunny Brook and absolutely refuses substitutes of any kind. Sunny Brook is a real honest, straight Kentucky Whiskey and is bottled in bond. Every bottle is filled and then sealed with the "Green Stamp," under the direct supervision of U. S. Inspectors. If you want to know you are getting the best always ask for Sunny Brook—The Pure Food Whiskey. READ THE LABEL.

TWO MORE BILLS VETOED

One Kills Chances of New Higher Court District At Beaumont.

Austin, Texas.—Two more vetoes were added Monday to the already large collection of decapitated bills resting in the department of state. The governor wielded the ax on senate bill 146 creating a new supreme judicial district and locating the court at Beaumont and on senate bill 378 empowering the controller to examine and audit the books, records and papers of state and county officers. Two exact copies of senate bill No. 434 reached the executive offices. They authorize railroads to acquire farm lands for farm and orchard demonstration purposes. One copy was approved and the other vetoed as superfluous.

In addition to the foregoing, two bills were sent to the attorney general to decide whether, under the constitution, they are dead one or alive. One of these, senate bill No. 8, creates the state highway commission, and the offices of state highway engineer. The governor says he wants to approve this measure if it is constitutional, but does not care to sign a bill which will not meet the requirements of the constitution. The same action was taken on house bill 354, providing for the trial of persons accused of being habitual drunkards and authorizing their confinement in the state insane asylums.

CAR BANDIT KILLS PASSENGER.

Shot Through Heart by One of Three Masked Men at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Texas.—A daring hold-up was committed on a crowded street car Monday night by three masked men, and one of the passengers, Louis F. Amman, was shot through the heart.

The robbers boarded an incoming car at a crossing about ten blocks from the heart of the business district and commanded the conductor and motorman to throw up their hands.

While two of the robbers covered the conductor and motorman, the other attempted to relieve the passengers of their money. Louis Amman demurred, saying that the robber did not dare use his revolver, and advanced toward the latter. The robber fired pointblank at Amman's breast.

Immediately the other two leaped from the car, dropping the change belt which they had taken from the conductor, the conductor opened fire and the man who had killed Amman fled through the front door of the car and made his escape.

Many of the passengers on the car were women. The men who committed the holdup wore ordinary handkerchiefs over their features. No arrests have been made.

HUERTA TO QUIT PRESIDENCY.

El Paso Hears That Pedro Lascurian Will be Chosen to Succeed Him.

El Paso, Texas.—To satisfy all factions in Mexico, Gen. Huerta has agreed to the naming of Pedro Lascurian as provisional president, said advices received here direct from the national capital. Lascurian would serve out the uncompleted term of the late President Madero.

As minister of interior relations in Madero's cabinet, Lascurian is entitled to serve as next in line, in view of the death of Madero and Vice President Suarez. The Huerta cabinet would be retained by the compromise.

This arrangement, it is said, has been offered to the constitutionalists now fighting the Huerta government in Northern Mexico. It is declared that Gov. Carranza of Coahuila has agreed and that the Sonora insurrectionists will fall in line. The decision of the president is said to have been occasioned by the recent uprising of Zapata in the south which places the Huerta forces between two fires.

Mexican military men here estimate that Huerta has not more than 14,000 troops in all Mexico with which to meet the situation. This is even less than Porfirio Diaz possessed in combating the Madero revolution.

Arctic Explorers Meet Death.

Christiania.—Failure has overtaken the Arctic expedition under Lieut. Schroder-Stanz. Most of the members are believed to have died upon the ice from exposure or scurvy. Four men have succeeded in returning to Advent Bay, Spitzbergen, and two others are probably safe at Turnenborg Bay. The aviator and the cook died from starvation. Nothing has been heard from Lieut. Schroder-Stanz since he started on a sledge expedition in August of last year.

Texas Annual Egg Loss $1,000,000. Fort Worth, Texas.—Dr. J. S. Abbott of Austin, state pure food and drug inspector, addressed women of the City federation and other people interested in sanitary regulations covering food of all kinds. His lecture was illustrated by stereopticon views. In his lecture Dr. Abbott said that government statistics showed an annual loss of approximately $45,000,000 in impure eggs and that the loss in Texas was fully $1,000,000 each year. He declared that this loss was useless and should be prevented.

New York.—Monday, April 14, probably will be set aside for the day for holding funeral services here over the body of J. P. Morgan. The services will be held at St. George's Episcopal church and the burial will be at Hartford, Conn., the same day.

CARNEGIE'S GIFT WEIGHS A TON

Formal announcement of the gift will be made at the founders' day exercises to be held at Carnegie Music Hall on April 24. The gift arrived in cash. The gold weighed a ton.

Rush Work on Austin Dam.

Austin, Texas.—It was thirteen years ago Monday that the dam across the Colorado river went out above Austin, entailing a loss of $1,500,000 and destroying eight lives. Last year the wreckage was the only sign of catastrophe. Now there are 400 borers and an immense amount of machinery engaged in rebuilding the 600,000 structure and powerhouses. New Lake Austin may be a reality at the end of the summer or fall as rapid progress is being made.

Too Much of a Luxury.

A friend of ours tells us that he went to consult a doctor last week. "I have some queer pains," said our friend. "I see," said the doctor, looking wise. "Do you feel a sharp pain low down on your right side?" "Doc," answered our friend, "I only get $12 a week. Don't go lookin' for any symptoms of appendicitis." The case was immediately diagnosed as indigestion.

FRENCH SEIZE GERMAN AIRSHIP

Landing Made on Parade Grounds at Luneville by Mistake.

Luneville, France.—The German military dirigible airship Zeppelin IV, landed in the military parade grounds here and was seized by the French authorities.

The incident has caused tremendous excitement, notwithstanding officers aboard the airship explained that they had been lost in the clouds and did not know they had crossed the French frontier.

Zeppelin IV, which is of the latest and largest model, carried ten passengers, of whom four were officers in uniform. The captain explained that the Zeppelin was undergoing a test prior to being taken over by the war department. They left Friedrichshafen early in the morning, bound for the Grand Duchy of Baden.

With the intention of making ascension trials, they had mounted to a height of 3,000 metres (about 9,750 feet) and had lost their course in the clouds. They were carried along by a strong wind, and, observing the cavalry, thought they had reached Saarbrücken. As they were short of gasoline, they decided to land.

Dr. George E. Talmadge, assisted by Rev. Dr. Cotton Smith of Washington and Rev. Dr. Endicott Peabody of Groton, Mass., performed the ceremony. The bride's attendants were Misses Helen Coster,

ONE-CENT SUGAR DUTY NATURE OF ULTIMATUM

IF NOT ACCEPTED, PLAN IS TO AT ONCE PUT IT ON FREE LIST.

MEANS TO BE NO BLUFFING

President issues Statement, Being Confident of His Ability to Obtain Support of Congress.

Washington.—Confident of the strength of his position along the tariff line and of his ability to obtain ultimately from congress a satisfactory solution of the problem of sugar, President Wilson has let it be known there was nothing of the nature of bluff about the ultimatum he has delivered to the sugar interests that if they don't accept a 1c duty to expire at the end of three years they will have to take immediate free sugar.

The president thought it wise to make this announcement because he had been informed that the sugar interests believed he would in the end modify his position for the reason that from him had come the original suggestion that a duty be retained on sugar for three years, instead of placing the article on the free list at once as the house Democrats desired. This suggestion from the president, the sugar men regarded as an indication that he did not feel exactly sure of his position and would concede still more if they held out. But the president's announcement cleared up the situation by making it plain that he meant precisely what he said to the sugar men and that the very best they can hope to get is a duty of about 1c a pound for a three years' period, at the end of which the article will automatically go to the free list.

Meanwhile the sugar men are standing pat and declare they will, do so until the question has been thrashed out in a caucus of senate Democrats.

Wonder if Bryan and his boys ever think of the Joline letter while hofmologating around the cabinet table?

The "Police Powers" of the state seems to be unlimited, especially in passing and construing liquor laws.

President Wilson's daughters manage to keep in the lime-light some themselves.

Gov. Colquitt's veto ax is going regularly down at Austin. No wonder some want to take his ax away from him.

We want every voter in Callahan county to read the editorial on the tariff from the Fort Worth Record, reproduced in THE STAR, this week.

The idea of the six great powers of Europe trying to bulldoze poor little Montenegro makes one feel like punching some king or emperor in the snoot if only the opportunity was offered.

We would like to see Baird with beautiful paved streets, concrete sidewalks, sewer system and a greater water supply. Don't you? We can have them, but they will cost something, of course.

What's the matter with Senator Gore, of Oklahoma? There comes whisperings of charges and a resignation from Washington and Oklahoma, and he was Wilson's right hand man too, in the campaign for the nomination last year.

Daniel Webster said the power to tax carried with it the power to destroy a business. The tariff laws have boosted and busted many a business in this country. The little sheep man and the rich man with a heavy income are now the targets for the tariff sharpshooters.

Why should the President and other officials be exempted from the income tax? Will some congressman plain the necessity for or justice in such discrimination? The President draws an annual salary of seventy-five thousand dollars, house to live in and many extras free, and is no doubt better able to pay the tax than any one with a four thousand dollar income who must pay the tax.

We wish Callahan county had at least a thousand miles of macadam roads, and we will have them some day; but we fear the present generation will never see them. We are afraid our children will be unable to pay off the bonds after we are dead—hence we will just make out the best we can and let our children issue bonds for their children to finish paying, which they will do without a doubt.

What is the matter with our banking system? asks a financier. Hanged if we know, but there is something wrong about it we feel sure, because no matter how much we put in them it is all gone before we know it. Then a sixty or ninety day note has a way of coming due thirty to forty days before expected. There is something wrong about the banking system without a doubt. It is too easy to get in debt to them and too hard to get out. We speak from personal knowledge. Congress should correct these things at once.

After July 1st you will have to send to some other state for your booze as the legislature passed a law prohibiting the shipment of liquor from a wet to a dry county. The pros seem to have things coming their way all around. The pros seem to have forgotten the statements they made years ago that they were only fighting the open saloon. Our readers doubtless remember we predicted that when the pros had carried all the counties they could, they would, if the constitution permitted, also prohibit the shipment of liquor into dry counties, and after passing numerous restrictive measures to hamper the shipment of liquor they have done just what we predicted they would do, passed a law prohibiting the shipment of liquor from a wet to dry territory in the state. Whether the courts will sustain this law remains to be seen, but as a majority of the court of criminal appeals are pros it is believed by many that they will hold that the law is constitutional.

They tell us that President Wilson is as guileless as a child and if he does something spectacular the chances are he is not aware of it until he reads about it in the newspapers. That may all be true, but that little stunt in appearing before congress to read his message, looks like anything but guilelessness, it looks like a bid for the spot-light that is so dear to most politicians. The indications are that the country is going to hear a great deal from President Wilson, whom his friends claim is eager to avoid notoriety. Perhaps so, perhaps not!

The country is full of moral uplifters, some of whom need uplifting as much as those they are trying to pull out of the mire. One of the finest speeches we ever heard on a moral question was made by a man grossly immoral himself, but he was not a hypocrite, because he admitted his sins. The speech referred to was made before the 24th Texas Legislature in 1895 on a bill to prohibit assignation houses. The speaker was an able lawyer and a fine speaker, but years ago he passed over the divide and we will not call his name, though no doubt members living who heard the speech will remember it as well as the speaker, who was widely known in Texas at that time.

Champ Clark was reelected speaker Monday without opposition. A. Mitchell Palmer in his nominating speech paid a just tribute to Missouri's favorite son, and said to Champ Clark more than to any other one man was due the enactment of laws that made democratic success possible last year. That is the truth. He sowed and another man reaped. Such is life. We had rather be in old Champ Clark's shoes than Bryan's, who went back on him at a critical time at Baltimore and caused his defeat. Bryan will yet see the day, if justice prevails, when he will reap the reward he justly deserves for his treatment of Clark in the democratic convention.

They are raising a hubbub because President Wilson appeared in person and read his first message to congress. What is the objection to such a method? Washington and John Adams did this, but the custom seems to have died out when Adam's term expired. The King of England reads his messages to parliament, and we see nothing objectionable in a president appearing before congress and telling them in person what he wants. Because a custom has become obsolete is no argument why one cannot revive it if he wants to do so. Some are afraid the president or a governor of a state might unduly influence the members should they appear in person before these bodies. History shows that the personal appearance of Gen. Washington himself before congress did not produce this result but rather the reverse. The same with John Adams, that is perhaps why Jefferson did not follow the custom of his predecessors.

It is claimed that every one of the Texas congressmen are in favor of free meats, cattle, sheep, wool, hides, lumber, sugar, rice and all farm products. If that be true then there is going to be a free fight in every congressional district in Texas next year. The people of Texas do not favor these things and they had just as well make this known to our congressmen now. If the people of Texas oppose free raw material as they have time and time again declared in party platforms, why should they keep men in congress that support measures that a majority of the people oppose. We believe when it comes to a show down the Texas congressmen will be found in favor of a tariff that is fair and just to the producer as well as the manufacturer, at least we hope so, because we have some excellent gentlemen and able congressmen that are sent there to represent the material interest of our great state, not to blindly obey the dictation of the President or his secretary of state. A tariff for revenue and no protection for anything, is what the Democrats of Texas favor, and they have a right to expect their congressmen to reflect these views by their votes. Will they do it?

BREEDING AN AGRARIAN PARTY

Fort Worth Record.

Now the man who resists this programme (free wool) will be accounted a protectionist, and why?

Because he is concerned for this particular industry.

Maybe wool needs protecting; we say nothing as to that.

But the free trader holds that no industry has a claim on the government; that if, in approaching free trade, it is necessary to begin with is called the raw material, do so without hesitation, for there's no obligation on the part of the government to care for a particular industry.

If this free wool programme is carried out, then one of two things is necessarily true; either the democrats in congress are traitors to the party or Editor Ousley is in the remotest part of the wilderness when he clamors for incidental benefits.—Waco Times-Herald.

It no more hurts The Record to be called a protectionist for standing on the Texas Democratic platform of economical justice than it hurts Editor Robinson to be called a liquorite for questioning the wisdom of statewide prohibition. Using hateful names doesn't matter. Let us consider Editor Robinson's argument.

He speaks as a free trader. We answer that the Democratic party has never advocated free trade, nor has there ever been a time since the first custom duties were laid that free trade was possible; it is not possible now. So, what is the use of talking about it?

"If, in approaching free trade," he says "it is necessary to begin with what is called the raw material, do so without hesitation." But it isn't necessary. That's the point precisely. It isn't necessary, because the whole purpose of free trade or of a tariff reduction is to give relief to consumers, and greater relief can be given by putting manufactured goods on the free list than by putting raw materials on the free list.

As we showed yesterday, free wool will reduce the price of a suit of clothes 19 cents; free woolen clothing will reduce the price $7.75. There are practically no imports of woolen clothing; therefore the tariff on woolen clothing is absolute, unconcealed, unblushing, rank protection, because it yields no revenue. There are imports of wool; therefore a tariff on wool is a revenue measure. Removing the duty on wool may be a means of small relief to the woolen clothes, but retaining a duty on woolen clothing is clearly a measure of protection to manufacturers.

There's no obligation on the part of the government to care for a particular industry," says Editor Robinson. But the Democratic party by retaining a duty on woolen clothing will care for a particular industry—will care for one particular industry at the expense of another particular industry, and that is precisely the point of our complaint. It will care for woolen manufacturers because it dares not do so; it will ignore wool growers because it assumes that it can afford to do so without losing office.

Suppose the Texas legislature should undertake to reduce taxes and should begin by exempting the property of manufacturers and merchants. Would the Times-Herald concede that such a process might be "necessary?" Would it not insist that the reduction be ratably applied to all property.

A programme of free wool and taxed woollens is parallel to a proposition to reduce taxes by exempting manufacturers and merchants as a means of reducing the cost of living.

We make no apology for "clamoring for incidental benefits" to the producers of the country. They are the only creators of wealth. All the others of us are "mere agents of conversion, distribution and service." The government is under no obligation to care for them, but it is under an obligation not to injure them in caring for others. We see no fortunes building up in rural places. Instead, we see women and children working in the cotton fields, we see tenants multiplying; we see farmers selling their products at scarcely more than the cost of production; we see city population outgrowing rural population. We are astonished by sad experience that free wool means cheaper cotton, and we know that cheaper cotton means confiscation of farm labor; it means agricultural distress; it means more tenants and poorer tenant families.

If there is any incidental benefit from tariff taxation—and there is no protection to manufacturers—we insist that these people—our people—shall be considered as the more needy as the more useful to the industry of the world. To ignore them, to make their hard lot harder, is a cruel and wicked injustice, and they will resent it—mark the prediction—they will resent it.

If the policy of coddling consumers at the expense of producers is long continued, if industrial interests are conserved and agricultural interests are neglected, if the greedy cities are fattened and the gaunt country is starved, it will not be many years before the producers in self preservation will be driven into an agrarian political party. The Progressive party is even now ready to receive them; it will not miss the opportunity which the Democratic is about to present.

It was cheap farm products—6 cent cotton and 50 cent wheat and 5 cent pork—that raised up the populist party. The same cause will raise it up again under another name, and the next time it will come to stay as a balance of power if not as a dominant power.

Whether that apprehension be realized or not, the fact remains that the pending tariff policy of the Democratic party is to give incidental benefit to one class and deny it to another class, to conserve manufacturing industry at the expense of agricultural industry, and such a policy violates the very first principle of Democracy. It is a policy of New England prosperity, at the cost of Southern and Western prosperity, and no plea of party expediency will save it from condemnation when its rank discrimination begins to pinch.

We hear a great deal about standing by the National Democratic platform by those who advocate free raw material. The democratic platform does not demand any such thing. The democratic party promised to reduce the tariff, but no one expected to have the south and west discriminated against in revising the tariff downward by placing cattle, meat, wool, lumber, sugar, etc on the free list. The democratic party tried free wool, cattle and hides and about put the sheep men out of business as well as crippled the stock interest. All this hair splitting theory about putting raw material on the free list and leave a heavy, if not a prohibitive tariff on the manufactured article, may pass as tariff reform with some, but sensible people will learn the truth in spite of all the specious argument to sustain such a rank discrimination against the south and west. We believe in a low tariff levied without favoritism to any class. Academicians may learnedly extol the free raw material theory as step towards free trade, but you cannot make the man whose business is injured, if not destroyed, believe it. The best evidence in the world that free raw material is not a step towards free trade is the fact that every manufacturer in the United States is either openly or secretly advocating free raw materials. The claim is made that the tax on wool in an average suit of clothes is 19 cents and the tariff on the suit is $7.75. The tax on wool is a revenue tariff and brings in something like fifty million dollars tax to the government. The tax on clothing is prohibitive, consequently brings in no revenue. Any man with sense enough to pound sand in a rat hole, it seems to us, ought to know that the people will not receive any benefit by taking the tariff off wool. The manufacturers will just put this little fifty million dollar donation into their pockets and make fun of the democratic party for being a set of chumps. Why not take the tariff off of woolen goods as well as wool? Let our congressmen from Texas explain to our cattle and sheep men why they should be sacrificed with the chimerical claim that it is necessary for the whole country and a step towards free trade. The advocates of free hides told us this would give us cheaper leather, cheaper boots and shoes. Did it? No; but on the contrary leather and leather goods are higher now than when there was a tariff on hides. Who got the difference? The people did not; then write your congressman and ask them who was benefited by free hides. The tariff is one of the most difficult problems to understand, as proof of this it has never been settled. We have been reading tariff speeches by congressmen and others for forty years and we have lived to see many of their arguments refuted by subsequent events, consequently we have lost much of the faith we once had in tariff experts in and out of congress.

CONGRESS MEETS IN 63RD SESSION

TARIFF BILL OFFERED AND ARRANGEMENTS MADE TO HEAR WILSON READ MESSAGE.

HISTORY-MAKING EVENTS UP

Some Opposition Appears in Senate to Chief Executive Going in Person to the Capitol.

Washington.—Before the initiation and the promise of big things in national legislation, the perfunctory details of the organization of the Sixty-third congress Monday were crowded far into the background.

Champ Clark was re-elected speaker after a glowing nominating speech by Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania; congressmen came up to the speaker's stand in groups and took the oath of office while packed galleries looked on and the usual committees were named to notify the president that the new congress is ready for business.

There is usually much color and enthusiasm about this biennial ceremony but these details were overshadowed by greater things. One was the birth in the house, as a legislative entity of the new Progressive party; another was the arrangement to have President Wilson read his message to the two houses in joint session, and the third was the introduction of the Underwood bill that is to be the Democratic revision of the tariff.

While in the house the forthcoming visit of President Wilson was received with subdued excitement and lively expectancy, this event produced in the senate open opposition from certain Republican and Democratic members. The usual joint committee to notify the president that the house and senate are ready to receive a message from him called upon the president and carried out their instructions.

President Wilson informed the committee that he would be pleased to deliver a message to congress in person at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. When this information was delivered in the house it was met with applause and immediately Floor Leader Underwood introduced a concurrent resolution providing for a joint meeting of the senate and the house in the chamber of the representatives to receive the message. The motion was adopted without comment or demonstration by the house.

Convicted Suffrage Leader Will Defy Court by Going on Hunger Strike.

London.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst leader of the militant suffragists, was found guilty and sentenced to three years' penal servitude at the Old Bailey sessions on charges of inciting persons to commit damage.

The jury added to its verdict of guilty a strong recommendation for mercy, and when the judge pronounced the heavy sentence of three years he crowd of women in the court room rose in angry protest.

As Mrs. Pankhurst stood up in the prisoners' enclosure her sympathizers cheered wildly and then fled out of court, singing "March on, march on," to the tune of the "Marseillaise."

Mrs. Pankhurst denied any malicious incitement. "Neither I nor the other militant suffragettes are wicked or malicious," she said.

Speaking with much feeling, Mrs. Pankhurst fiercely criticized man-made laws and said that the divorce law alone was sufficient to justify a revolution by the women.

In impassioned tones she declared: "Whatever may be my sentence, I will not submit. From the very moment I leave the court I will refuse to eat. I will come out of prison dead or alive at the earliest possible moment."

NEEDED A WOMAN

When She Came Business Picked Up and He Decided She Should Remain.

BY MILDRED CAROLINE GOOD-RICH.

"Business is bad, very bad," said John Moore to a passing townsman, and struck a still more dejected attitude in the doorway of his little store. He posed there, staring gloomily out into the fast darkening street, thinking how very bad was business, indeed, and wondering why he had ever brought his little stock of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes and notions to Riverton.

"I would go to a real live, wide-awake town," he ruminated, "and here I am—trade dull, stock dead, and I don't seem to make many friends. Heigh ho! I suppose being a crusty old bachelor keeps away the ladies' trade. As to others, maybe I'm too slow and old-fashioned. Guess I'll close up. Hello!"

Starting to pull up the awning, the storekeeper's foot touched a moving human object crouched back in the hallway side entrance to the building.

"Here, wake up!" called out John, with a frown. "What you doing there, anyway?"

"I'm not asleep," responded the faint, quavering voice; "and I'm here because I'm too sick and weak to go any further."

The speaker got to his feet with a painful effort. As he came more fully into view John regarded him closely.

"Oh, I see," he said, rather distastefully; "you are the man who was here a month ago, and got in trouble with a riotous crowd down at the tavern."

"That was me," assented the tramp, for such he seemed. "I was arrested. I hoped it was forgotten, for I came back here this morning to find work."

"What Do You Want?"

I found out that people do remember. No one would employ me. Heartsick and footsore, I crept in here to rest—maybe to die. I don't know, for I feel pretty bad," and the poor fellow's eyes filled with tears.

"What do you want?" inquired John, a trifle harshly; "money, I suppose, to buy liquor."

The tramp reached into his pocket, drew out a folded paper and opened it so that his challenger could see what it was.

"A temperance pledge, eh?" remarked John, almost contemptuously. "And your name is Lemuel Price?"

"Yes, sir. I'm through with all that. I've been through with it for over a week. I've done it because I'd got low enough to beg hard earned wages from my motherless daughter."

"If stopping short is going to kill me, all right—at least I'll die sober." The man was shivering as he spoke. There was a feverish flush to his wan face. He looked hungry. John Moore believed his story.

"See here," he said; "if it's a bed and something to eat, come with me."

When John had closed the store he led his pensioner to the neat suite of rooms he occupied behind the store. It seemed to brighten up the place to have company, even poor but grateful company, as Price was.

It was as a new man that the latter entered on the next day. John had fed him on nutritious soup and gruels, he had given him a comfortable bed. Out of his stock he selected a neat, unsalable suit of clothes, and the extra-tramp went out on the street, clean-shaven and encouraged, to again look for work.

"If you don't make it," said John, "come back, and I'll give you board and lodging for helping around the store until you get something better to do."

Price reported that afternoon. He had found a chance to work as a teamster, he said, but, he added, he had decided first to submit a proposition to the storekeeper.

"All right, what is it?" asked John in his usual crisp, businesslike way.

"Well," replied Price, "I don't want you to be offended, but I've been trying to study out why you don't do more business than you do. You have got the stock. Other stores are just rushing. Saturday's, especially, the trade is big. You haven't got your share."

"I have realized that for some time," said John, bitterly.

"Now, I've been thinking up matters for your good, because you have been so kind to me," continued Price, humbly but sincerely. "I amounted to something once. Had a business, and but for drink would have succeeded. If you will let me do a little advertising for you, I'll guarantee results."

Slow-going John Moore was dubious, but finally he agreed to try the experiment. The next day Price cleaned up the show windows. The next he repainted the front of the store in attractive colors. After that he brought a big brass bell and secured it on a standard over the store doorway with a chain running to the inside of the store.

Early Friday morning a sign appeared above the bell reading: "Every twentieth purchase free—announced by this bell."

Just at noon the bell rang. The excited customer, a farmer, was informed that his purchase would be handed to him free of charge. As he left the store John came rushing back to Price.

"Say," he exclaimed, "you'll ruin me! Why, that was a twelve-dollar overcoat!"

"Never mind," replied Price, confidently. "The average will come out right."

This proved to be true. Curious people came in, making only small purchases. The news got around town. The crowd kept up till midnight. Tired out, but elated, John reckoned up the gains of the day. Counting in the presents given, he was over fifty dollars to the good.

The next week Price had a new scheme, the distribution of a free paper cap to children, advertising the store. The rush kept up.

"Mr. Moore," said Price one evening, "the night business is better than the day. That is because you don't get the trade of the ladies. I've a new suggestion to make. You need a woman behind that dry goods counter. Let me send for my daughter, Martha. We can use the two empty rooms upstairs, and you needn't pay either of us a cent of salary unless we earn it."

So this came about. The result was magical. Martha Price, bright, modest, obliging, brought in the female customers in groups. The pleased old bachelor began to humanize himself with pleasant words instead of frowns. Fortune smiled upon him. In turn he smiled upon Martha.

"It's no use denying it, Price," he said to her father one day, "you two have managed to transform a crusty, self-opinionated, behind-the-time, crusty old bachelor into a real human being. As to you, I'm proud of you."

"Some good in the world after all, am I?" responded Price. "I'm so glad, and Martha is happy as the day is long."

John Moore did some deep thinking the rest of that day. In the early evening, when Price was eating his supper, he went over to the counter where his daughter stood.

"Martha," he said, "I'm going to tell you something that I never told any other woman. Having had no experience, I must be rather plain and blunt."

"Yes?" murmured Martha. Her color heightened.

"I love you, and I want you to be my wife. Of course, a crusty old bachelor—"

"Don't call my father's best friend hard names," interrupted Martha sweetly. "I am only a poor girl, but if true love and devotion will satisfy you—"

Then it was his turn to interrupt—with a kiss.

PRES. WILSON READS MESSAGE IN PERSON

CUSTOM OF A CENTURY OVERTURNED GIVES PLEASANT IMPRESSION.

WINS HEARTS OF HEARTS

Declares President is but "Human Being, Trying to Co-operate with Other Human Beings."

Washington.—President Wilson read his first message to congress in person Tuesday. It was a notable event in congressional history, not merely because of its rarity, but because of its naturalness and simplicity.

The evening before the senate rang with a warning that the return to the practice of Washington and Adams would be a reversion of monarchy, and an invasion by the executive upon the domain of the legislative branch of government. With a single sentence and a sympathetic gesture of the hand President Wilson answered this senatorial criticism. He won the hearts of his hearers and justified his course with the very first words he spoke:

"I am glad indeed to have opportunity to address the two houses directly and verify for myself that the president of the United States is not a mere department of the government hailing congress from some isolated island of jealous power, sending messages, not speaking naturally with his own voice—that he is a human being trying to co-operate with other human beings in a common service."

Senator O'Gorman said that the experiment will not be repeated and that history will say that the custom of the president sending his messages to congress to be read by the clerk "was not broken until April 8, 1913, and was never thereafter repeated." However it is stated on high authority that the performance will be repeated by President Wilson during the next our years. The simplicity of the whole affair and the dignified character of his address to congress clearly impressed the philosophic setting for the important tariff bill which furnished the details of the occasion of this extraordinary session of congress.

The simplicity of the event may be judged by the fact that it took but thirty-seven minutes for the president to leave the White House, deliver his message, meet a few members of congress and return to the executive mansion. The only ostentation was the display in the galleries and the presence in the house of representatives of practically the entire membership of the senate.

Twenty-Two Men in German Ship When Storm Turns Her Over.

Bay City, Ore.—Twenty-two men, including the ship's captain, the president of the wrecking company of Portland, and the representative of the marine underwriters, were trapped in the hold of the German ship Mimi, which capsized off the beach here Sunday, after having been hauled off a reef on which she had been fast two months.

How many perished is not known. A heavy sea was pounding the wreck and life savers refused to attempt a rescue until it calmed. They said no boat could be launched and refused to let volunteers take their boat. The life savers were camped on the beach watching for a chance to reach the wreck.

The Mimi, in ballast for Valparaiso from Astor, piled up on the reef on Feb. 13 last. She was not seriously injured and the underwriters contracted with a Portland construction company to float her.

The governor asked the attorney approval or disapproval of bills or general's department regarding his resolutions proposing amendments to the constitution, by reason that two

BURNT BRANCH LOCALS.

April 7th.—Once more the "Death Angel" has visited us and claimed as his victim Mrs. J. O. Hall, wife of J. O. Hall a prominent stockman and land owner of the Bayou country Mrs. Hall was not a permanent citizen of this county, her home being in Oklahoma, but by her short stays on their ranch she has endeared herself to all. The spirit of this noble woman has taken its flight to be with that just and righteous God she so fervently served. To the heart broken husband and family we extend our sincere condolence and may the wife and mother's God be your God through life and may you all meet and join hands in heaven.

Dr. Rumph informs us that Geo. Baum is greatly improved of rheumatism, for which we are thankful.

Esq. Odom of the Terminal is out shaping up and stocking the fields to graze off the small grain. This is disheartening indeed.

Your friend and fellow citizen, J. W. A. is through tanking. Ivey Aiken and sons did the work and did it well and were quick about it. If you need tanking work done you would do well to employ them, as they were rustlers. Water, more water is what we need and we can't do without it any longer. The rains come and the floods descend and we are still on top, though slightly disfigured.

Terrell's speech at the wind up of the legislature was a warm number. Colquitt next then for God's sake give us a rest. There is entirely too much of this blamed buncomb. One wants to be Governor and the other U. S. Senator. What we need is harmonious work for the good of Grand old Texas and less political hell raised.

The inevitable Mike again for the benefit of that solicitous friend of mine. "Mike the forrager" as he was familiarly called, and he was a good one. It took a good forrager to make a good soldier and Mike was the aforesaid and same to the fullest extent, and partial to Shanghis on account of their size. We did not have R. I. Red's Langshangs, Bantams, Plymouth Rocks, and the like in those days, only Shanghis and the Game Cock, the game to fight and the shang to eat on account of size and flavor, and a good Confederate soldier always picked the biggest and best when visiting a hen roost. Mike owing to his nightly expeditions was always sleepy and ready for a nap on all occasions regardless of consequences. On one occasion we were in line of battle and "resting on arms" preparatory to the coming fray. Mike was always ready for a fray, fight or foot race. In a few minutes Mike was sleeping "the sleep of the just" with his head on the butt of his gun. Directly he was aroused by the "call to arms" and prepare for action," springing to his feet he sang in thunder tones:

When this cruel war is over,

No Irish need apply

For every thing is lovely

And the goose hangs high.

At the same time beating dance music to the well known air. All ready for the fray, call to arms and prepare for action.

Fritz Cutbirth visited the Terminal Friday and presented "ye scribe" with a pound each of cheese and crackers and left them in the mail box for good luck.

Ivan and Price Odom are doing the butcher act at the spacious residence of the Squire, so much room the boys don't know what to use it for.

Sad indeed is grain appearances, and if you don't believe it, Uncle Bill, come down and take a peep which will satisfy you.

Squire Duncan and ye scribe visited Cross Plains to get something to eat.

Foss Bond and other relatives visited George Baum who has been very sick at the Brightwell ranch.

Herman and Jno. Aiken Jr., are strictly in the tanking business this week.

Spencer says the cattle are O. K. but water running low, so far so good, but with us it has run out and we are in a fix. We met Will Young at Cross Plains and he said of "plenty water, but the feed bills are heavy on us boys." Which is true from experience we know.

Talmage, that great preacher said: "an east wind blows no one good" and it has been proved with us so far this year.

Alex McWhorter and wife, Jno. Aiken and wife visited at the Brightwell Ranch Sunday. Holland Bond and wife and the brothers of Geo. Baum are in constant attendance at his bedside. "Juan."
