Of the $652,000.00 in road bonds that are outstanding in Haskell county the state has agreed to assume the sum of $421,902.00.

Originally the three issues covered by the agreement amounted to the sum of $792,000.00, including the issue of 1918 in Precinct No. 1, for $150,000.00, and the two issues of March 1, 1930 in the sums of $517,000.00 and $125,000.00, approximately $140,000.00 of the three issues having been retired.

Up to the President

Washington. — The information that we receive here in Washington indicates that the country at large is rather sitting on the edge of its chair waiting to see how President Roosevelt is going to play the hand he has received in his "new deal" which he asked. Equipped as he is with the greatest powers ever accorded a President of the United States, the situation surely is up to the President. Upon his administration, his playing of the cards, depends the result, the success or the failure of the program.

It is quite apparent since the smoke of battle cleared and congress closed up shop that the President suffered considerably from the riotous outbreak in the senate and the house over the veterans' compensation question. I mean that personally the President lost some of his prestige and his program, so well planned, was somewhat disrupted. It must be explained, however, that the general principles which Mr. Roosevelt laid down as the "new deal" have come through unscathed. Hence, I repeat that the Chief Executive is confronted now only with the problem of making things move in accordance with the promised pledges in his campaign and to which he tried to adhere with all of the solemnity of an oath.

The President is wholly mindful of the responsibility he assumed in asking congress, in effect, to make him general manager of about everything in the nation. He showed that quite unmistakably when he affixed his signature to the last gist of bills ground out by a non-too-willing congress. In a statement at that time, Mr. Roosevelt described the national recovery-public construction bill as "the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by an American congress," but he added that if it were to succeed "it demands the whole-hearted cooperation of industry, labor and every citizen of the nation." The President counseled patience as well as asked co-operation, and how better could he show that the superhuman job lay ahead?

In two pieces of legislation particularly has the President been given powers as wide as any ever accorded in wartime. He has been made master of our agricultural destiny in one and under the terms of the other he has assumed the job, as he described it, of putting the government in partnership with industry. Instead of the necessities of the situation in wartime, however, we find the work to be done is that of encouraging consumption of foods and other commodities instead of rationing of foods and clothing and materials that might be needed for the forces at the front. Instead of speeded-up production, we find the President with almost dictatorial powers to reduce production of agriculture. The depression seems to have made things run backward.

As the several agencies to administer the new powers are set up under the President's guidance, it appears more and more as though he is going to meet with difficulty of a serious character. The President cannot keep his hand on the steering wheel of every one of the various machines. That is beyond human comprehension. He must delegate the work to others. There are going to be many many mistakes. These always occur. It cannot be avoided. But the President is going to have to shoulder the blame for all of it.

Possible Difficulties

What I have been trying to present is a picture of a situation in which the President is the pivotal point.

Let us pursue one or two of the possibilities. The congress at the request of the President voted some $500,000,000 in federal money as outright gifts to the states for relief. When the President had the relief representatives of the states here recently he told them that the federal government would not countenance "the building of a lot of useless projects under the guise of relief." Mr. Roosevelt was emphatic in his declaration. But the question one heard around here was "how many of the state office holders and politicians will see that such a policy is enforced?"

Another salient: the industrial recovery section of the bill putting government into partnership with industry entails organized co-operation of each of the numerous industries. Leaders in the individual lines of commercial endeavor have been coming in here for conferences on codes of practice. Outwardly, every one of them is sincere, and, be it said to their credit, most of them are inwardly sincere in their effort to find some means to accomplish economic recovery. But among those who are visiting Washington for these conferences are some entirely willing to take advantage of circumstances or situations that will give their own firm or plant or factory an edge over their competitors.

It would seem difficult for that end to be attained where the conferences are above board and there is a free discussion, but the trouble is that the reason some firms are larger than others is that they have knowledge of a competitor's weakness. And don't believe for one moment that these same men will not watch for such opportunities in framing the codes of practice—codes of ethics, really, for the conduct of business—that are to be employed in this new partnership arrangement!

As a third example, permit me to cite possibilities in the new farm mortgage arrangement that the President worked out to help debt-ridden farmers, and congress enacted into law. It provides that holders of farm mortgages may, under certain conditions, exchange them for bonds of the federal land banks, and allow farmers, under prescribed conditions, to borrow for refinancing their debts aside from the mortgage. No one doubts the sincerity of the program, nor does anyone question but that it is needed and that it will be of immense help to farmers. Yet attention was called during the debate in congress to loopholes through which a team and wagon can be driven.

As I said earlier, observers here are convinced that Mr. Roosevelt can check malfeasance in any of the numerous directions if he acts in time and with firmness. His loyal supporters insist he can and will sense any tendencies of that kind as they develop, but his opponents, or rather opponents of his programs, claim he will be unable to discover them until the infection has become a festering sore. I do not propose to set down a conclusion respecting these arguments, nor the probability or possibility that any of the conditions may eventuate. My purpose solely is to suggest what can happen and where we would be headed should the danger become real rather than theoretical.

I called attention to the above fact that congress had somewhat disrupted the President's program but that, all in all, it had given the President the widest powers ever accorded in peace time. The reason there was a breaking of party lines in congress was because some senators and representatives awakened toward the end of the extra session to the fact that they had voted away almost all of the powers they were supposed to exercise.

Mr. Roosevelt was not entirely victorious in this battle. He succeeded far beyond expectations of many Washington analysts, but sore spots were created that are going to be hard to heal. So it probably is just as well that there will not be any meeting of congress again until January, 1934. The President can proceed to carry out the program he has in mind under authority which congress gave him, upon his own responsibility.

The Roosevelt administration, being now about four months old, has disclosed strong Keep Public privities in the direction of publicity for itself. It seems to have adopted the title of a well-known show "Of This I Sing," and the pep-pal are going to be told in considerable detail of what is being done. KANSAS CITY MAN WRITES OF VISIT TO THIS SECTION

The following article was written for a Kansas City newspaper by Rev. J. Clay Park, son of M. E. Park, of near Weinert about his visit to Texas recently. Rev. Park is pastor of the Community Gospel Church in Kansas City.

I have just returned from a two weeks' trip to my "Old Home Town," having been able to make this trip through the kindness of the Community Gospel church and Mr. and Mrs. Pete Kober. I feel I must tell you about it.

We left Kansas City June 2 driving south to Tulsa. All along the way we found the small town merchants and farmers swinging into line with the national spirit of optimism. Our first stop was for supper five miles south of Fort Scott at a beautiful private park where we met a real "Sage" whom we asked about the times. He replied, "Well, I can tell times 'ar' getting better by the number of transports passing by, it's a sure sign that never fail." And thus it was each one interviewed had his own pet theory for feeling that times were getting better.

In Tulsa, we were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lusk. Mrs. Lusk is the daughter of the writer, who took pleasure in showing us their city and the points of interest that attracted us were the lovely estate of Waide Phillips, the pride of Tulsa; the great Community church, a mighty power for good, and the marvel of "The Million Dollar Boston Avenue Methodist Church."

This structure, the last word in architectural beauty, gave nothing for the imagination in church, Sunday school and young people's equipment. Its designers anticipated every need, and for three hours we roamed through the halls, galleries and class rooms, thrilled at their arrangements, and that evening sat in its auditorium, chilled at the extravagant expenditure of money.

Mrs. Lusk joined us for the trip on to Texas. On the way, we saw the interesting, yet pathetic territory because the inactivity was great in the oil fields of Oklahoma stretching across the state in an almost unbroken field from Tulsa to Burkburnett, Texas. With the shut-down and controlled production of their oil wells, those Oklahomans are thriving, happy and expecting better times and still boasting of their vote last November.

Crossing the Red river into Texas, the great cotton fields, the state's main agricultural pursuit, were occupying the attention of the farmers, as men, women and children were in the cotton fields. In some instances replanting was the order. The planters were happy with the prospect of a good crop and the price reaching upward the depression has been forgotten.

Haskell, our destination, 100 miles southwest of Wichita Falls, was not the Haskell of my boyhood days with its thousand acres of range over which roamed the wild long hored cattle and the broom tail ponies. Gone were the cowboys of old, who whooped them up as they rode the trail or rode into town on Saturday night, dropped rein and paid their respects to "The Road to Ruin," the only saloon in the county.

Into their organizations that the proper supply of information may be made available to those writers who continue at their regular means of livelihood. It has helped the unemployment situation among the writers, anyway, for where the government has hired men, their places have been filled from among others whose salary checks have been small or have been missing altogether as a result of slack business for the newspapers.

Administration leaders justify the policy on the ground that correspondents cannot be familiar with every phase of government and particularly now that we have so many new laws and new activities resulting from the new deal. The public is entitled to have the facts, the leaders explain, and the use of high-class newspaper men in publicity jobs in the government, therefore, constitute a service to the public.

This attitude, of course, has a basis in fact and there is merit in the argument. But there is another side to the proposition. It has been the record of other administrations that employed an array of writing talent that a considerable amount of plain, unadorned propaganda somehow managed to get into official statements and information released through these channels. It is the average writer's function to report the news. He or she cannot openly question the truth or the accuracy of an official statement. Consequently, if the statement be of the propaganda sort, there is little the writer can do about it. The decision has to be left to the editor of the paper.

This once frontier town is today a up-to-date modern county seat town of three thousand citizens catering to the farming element and showing little of its earlier struggle as a cow town. Even the court house has gone modern.

My father, M. E. Park, the force that drew me down there, was the center of interest, a ranchman, farmer and sheriff for many years, now retired, and my sisters, Mrs. T. A. Pinkerton and Mrs. C. M. Kaigler made our trip a most interesting one.

"Our cup of joy runneth over" when we preached at the First Christian church and had before us our relatives and friends of thirty-three years ago.

The return trip brought us thru central Oklahoma and at Chickasha we were caught in a real sand storm which later gave way to a heavy rain which was needed and extended across the state into Kansas.

We visited the great wheat fields of southwestern Kansas and found the combines running day and night, the farmers happy because of an unexpected good yield in production and the price of wheat bringing 100 per cent more now than at this time last year, while some of the farmers were preparing to hold their grain, believing in dollar wheat.

So Wednesday June 14, after covering approximately two thousand miles, we were happy when the skyline of Kansas City came into view.

cleaning, washing, ironing, raised big families, went to church on Sunday, and were too busy to be sick.

Men wore whiskers, square hats, Ascot ties, red flannel underwear, wool watches and chains, chopped wood for the stoves, bathed once a week, drank 10 cent whiskey and 6 cent beer, rode bicycles, buggies or sleighs, went in for politics, worked twelve hours a day and lived to a ripe old age.

Stores burned coal oil lamps, carried everything in stock from a needle to a plow, trusted everybody, never took an inventory, placed orders for goods a year in advance, and always made money.

Today women wear silk stockings, short skirts, low shoes, no corsets, an ounce of underwear, have bobbed hair, smoke, paint and powder, drink cocktails, play bridge, drive cars, have pet dogs, go in for politics, and are always sick.

Men have high blood pressure, wear no hats, some no hair, shave their whiskers, play golf, bathe twice a day, drink poison, play the stock market, ride in airplanes, go to bed the same day they get up, are misunderstood at home, work five hours a day, play ten, have forgotten politics and their Government, and die young.

Stores have electric lights, cash registers, elevators, never have what the customer wants, trust nobody, take an inventory daily, never buy in advance, have overhead, mark up, mark down, quota budget, vertising stock control, annual semi-annual, end of the month, lar day, founder's day, reunion, and economy day sales, and make a cent.

Taxes....

IN TEXAS the natural gas industry and ultimately the gas consumers are required to pay four special tax levies to the state as follows:

Under one article of the state statutes, the gas companies pay an annual franchise tax. Under another article, gas distribution companies are required to pay a tax of one-half of one per cent of their gross receipts in all cities and towns with a population of from 2,500 to 10,000, and one per cent of their gross receipts in towns of over 10,000 population. Under still another article, a gross production tax of two per cent is levied upon all natural gas, and under a further article gas pipeline companies are required to pay a gas utilities tax of one-fourth of one per cent of their gross receipts.

The natural gas utilities are required to pay to the state two special tax levies which no other utility is required to pay. In addition to the various special taxes collected by the state, the gas utilities are required to pay many other tax levies, such as Federal Income Tax, Revenue Stamp Tax, Ad Valorem taxes levied by Road Districts, Water Improvement Districts, Levee Districts, Independent School Districts, and the Ad Valorem tax levies made for the support of the various city, county and state governments.

This company is willing to pay, and should pay, its just share of the reasonable cost of government; however, there appears to be a constant and growing tendency on the part of some tax assessors, tax boards and tax commissions to increase the values and raise the taxes of the gas utilities entirely out of proportion to the values and the taxes levied upon other personal property. Ultimately, this must result in a higher price for gas to the consumer. Under the present burden of taxation it requires approximately 56c out of every bill rendered to the gas consumer to pay taxes. Such taxes must be charged as an operating expense to the customer, because the company cannot control this expense and is merely a collector of the tax.

CASH RELIEF ASSURED FARMER IF ACREAGE CONTROL GOES OVER

College Station.—Cash relief this summer at the rate of $6 or more per acre for land retired from cotton production and possible additional payments later on options on Government cotton are in store for Texas cotton farmers if the campaign for voluntary acreage reduction under way in every county in the South this week shows Southern farmers ready to plow up as much as 10,000,000 acres. O. B. Martin, director of the Extension Service of Texas A. & M. College of Texas, has been advised by the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture. The goal set for Texas is a minimum of 4,493,000 acres.

In drafting the Extension Service to administer the Farm Act, Secretary Wallace named Mr. Martin state cotton administrator and directed county agents to take charge of the reduction campaigns in the counties. In furtherance of these orders county agents this week are bringing details of the Government offer to farmers in practically every cotton growing community in Texas. They are being helped in this by vocational agriculture teachers, farm and civic leaders, and home demonstration agents, Mr. Martin says. He points out that Secretary Wallace has stated that a decision on whether the provisions of the Act will become operative as to cotton this year will be made within a week or 10 days after the reduction campaign ends this week.

The cotton acreage retirement plan offers the farmer two choices of benefits in return for reducing his acreage at least 25%, and not more than 40%. By the first plan he would receive in cash this summer from $6 per acre to $12 per acre for every acre retired, the exact amount depending on the yield per acre. In addition he would be given an option at 6 cents per pound on as many bales of Government owned cotton as the acreage retired would yield at its ordinary rate. This cotton the Government may sell at some time during the year and pay the farmer the difference between selling price and the option price.

For the second plan open to the farmer he would be paid a straight cash rental ranging from $7 per acre to $20 per acre for every acre retired, exact amount depending on what the land ordinarily yields.

The schedule of payments on the first plan is based on what the land retired would ordinarily produce, as follows: from 100 to 124 pounds of lint per acre, $6 cash payment per acre; from 125 to 149 pounds, $7 per acre; from 150 to 174 pounds, $8 per acre; from 175 to 204 pounds, $10 per acre; from 205 to 274 pounds, $11 per acre; and land yielding more than 275 pounds lint per acre, $12 per acre cash payment.

Farmers wanting all cash payment and not desiring to take an option on Government cotton are offered a higher scale of cash rental payments than offered under the first plan. These are based on what the land retired would ordinarily produce, as follows: From 100 to 124 pounds lint per acre, $7 in cash per acre; 125 to 149 pounds, $9 per acre; 150 to 174 pounds, $11 per acre; 175 to 224 pounds, $14 per acre; 225 to 274 pounds, $17 per acre; and yields more than 275 pounds lint per acre the cash payment would be $20 per acre.

A RECORD WITHOUT A PARALLEL

When, on March 4, Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated as President of the United States the country faced a serious emergency which demanded prompt and vigorous action.

Calling the Congress into special session on March 9, in less than 90 days of actual work the President has proposed and the Congress has accepted a program for domestic reconstruction which in its scope and rapidity of its enactment is without a parallel in peace-time history.

The program includes: The emergency banking act rushed through Congress on March 9, the day the special session convened; the economy act providing for the balancing of the budget; beer legalization and taxation; the reforestation project to give employment to at least 275,000 idle men; the emergency agricultural relief bill; farm mortgage relief; emergency relief granting $500,000,000 as an outright gift to the states for relief through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; control of traffic in securities; Muscle Shoals and Tennessee basin development; relief of small home owners; railroad reorganization; repeal of gold clause; banking reform act, including guarantee of deposits, and industrial control and public works act.

When Congress adjourned on last Friday it had established, in co-operation with President Roosevelt, a record for public service unequalled in the nation's history. The improvement in economic conditions since March 4 adds to the high hopes of results when the whole vast program is in operation.

WHISPERS

In New York State, and in a number of other states, it is a crime to knowingly circulate a false report about the financial stability of a bank.

This has been done to check, so far as possible, the whispering epidemic which has been one of the most dangerous features of the present world depression.

Often a whisper has nothing more malicious back of it than the habit of individuals to pass along hints or rumors that have been imparted to them.

"A whisper is like a snake and should be treated as such. We crush the head of a serpent, trample it under our heel. We should do the same thing to a whisper."

FATHER'S DAY

Certain unknown persons, possibly the greeting card makers, have been trying to work up enthusiasm over Father's Day.

Generally father is taken as a matter of course, and not a great deal of sentiment attaches to him or his job.

Speaking of songs, a recent writer says: "The most popular themes are indicated by such words as 'mother,' 'sweetheart' and 'home.'"

And we suspect that he generally feels as if he were playing a comedian's part on Father's Day, if anyone reminds him that there is such a day.

IMPORTANCE OF LITTLE PROBLEMS

If all of us did our bit on the little problems, we should have no big national problems. Even periodic unemployment could be much lessened if each owner of a business, or employer of labor, developed a scheme to protect his employees from disaster.

Each day we should ask ourselves what we can do that will make life easier tomorrow. Those who speak or write for the public should think in terms of what individuals can do and less in terms of what the municipalities or the League of Nations can do.

The man who mows his lawn, cleans his backyard and trims his shrubbery, is doing his part to make his neighborhood and city attractive.

Snap Shots

Now that the special session of Congress is over, maybe the political plum crop will ripen a little faster.

The theory that Gomorrah was located at the bottom of the dead sea sounds a little salty.

They weren't called rackets in the old days, but maybe you can remember the fellow who kept ruffling off the same watch.

"There really isn't much to tell," is frequently the preface to a remarkable yarn.

See where a Kentuckian shot another for calling him a common liar. Well, nobody likes to be called common.

The older generation didn't know how to croon through a megaphone, but as youngsters they got the same effect by hollering down a rain barrel.

A legislative program which did not include a lot of new taxes would be remarkable indeed.

The refiners took advantage of the half cent federal tax to slap an extra cent on the price of gasoline. Those boys never overlook a bet.

A stenographer who appeared at the office in shorts one of those hot days explained that she dressed that way because she could get more work done. Maybe, but how about the others in the office.

The fellow who gets married on a shoestring generally finds himself barefoot before long.

Some of the uplift organizations want newspapers to cut out crime news. Now, if they could persuade the other folks to cut out crime everything would be lovely.

A cross-eyed man went to a dance recently. When the music of a fox-trot struck up, the man made a bow and said: "May I have this one with you, darling?"

Two wallflower girls looked in his eyes and smirked—and both of them answered: "Sure thing!"

Lucile—I saw Myrtle last night and we had the nicest little confidential chat.

George—I thought so; she would not speak to me today.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SCOUT ENCAMPMENT AT CAMP TONKAWA TO BE HELD FROM JULY 16th TO 30th

Davis Scarborough, Eagle Scout, son of Judge Dallas Scarborough, and a member of the law firm headed by his father, will direct swimming and Junior and Senior Red Cross Life Saving tests during the Camp Tonkawa program July 16-30, for the Scouts of the Chisholm Trail Council.

President R. A. Maddox and Camping Chairman Harry Ninde urge all Scoutmasters to go to Camp Tonkawa with their Troops as each Troop will be kept intact.

Frequent Council Fire programs will be held and two Courts of Honor are scheduled. An Athletic Field is being prepared and the best program ever offered Chisholm Trail Council Scouts will start with Sunday supper July 16th.

From the "Chuck Wagon" a publication of the Fort Worth Council, Boy Scouts of America: "With all the disastrous effect in other fields caused by the depression it is gratifying to note that there is on field that the depression has not entered, that is the field that should be the environment of every normal boy.

Fathers and mothers of Scouts should go to the Scoutmaster who leads their boy and with him plan the troop's summer camp for this reason. The facilities at the Council camp are for all Scouts. The Camp is not operated for profit.

May we not all work together to the end that all boys shall come through this period of depression with as few marks from it as possible and more than that, adequately equipped to carry on in the future, come good times or bad.

Camp Tonkawa is the coolest camp in West Texas. There never has been a night during camp session when it was not necessary to crawl under blankets. A hearty welcome awaits you and the Big Adventure starts July 16th. The Camp Leadership is of the highest type. Graduate nurses are on duty at all times. Miss Jewel Gabbert will have charge of the First Aid Station. Miss Gabbert spent four weeks at the Camp last year. The entire camp program impresses all as being ideal for the development of the Scout in every respect.

Professor—Is this wrong: "I have et"? Freshman—Yes. Prof.—What's wrong with it? Fresh—You ain't et yet.

"I have used Thorford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynona, Ark. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

Modern Electric Service . . . a Partner of Industry

Modern transmission line electric service has played an important and vital part in the progress and development of West Texas. With a new period of expansion awaiting this territory during the next few years—this dependable, economical and elastic power supply is destined to play an even greater role in the industrial drama to be enacted here.

Electricity has been the equalizing force that has enabled progressive small towns to compete on an industrial basis with large centers of population. Because of the adequate, inexpensive power supply furnished to this territory by the West Texas Utilities Company, it is possible for West Texas cities to go after, and secure, the valuable payoffs of industrial establishments. Much progress has been made during the past ten years—and considerably greater advances will be made during the coming decade.

The West Texas Utilities Company, serving 161 progressive cities, towns and communities in this "Land of Opportunity," will continue to work for the development of West Texas. With three major generating stations, numerous auxiliary plants, more than 2,600 miles of transmission lines and scores of office buildings and warehouses throughout the 250,000 square miles it serves—this company's future and yours are inseparably linked. Working together we will accomplish marvels of progress during the next few years.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule? . . . and adds only a small amount to your bill?

TEXAS SCENIC BEAUTIES SKETCHED ON TRAVELAX ROUTE

Take the word of a widely known Texas artist, Guy F. Cahoon, the highways of the Lone Star State afford a variety of scenic beauties not excelled by any other section of these United States. Mr. Cahoon has made travel sketches illustrating many parts of the world, but these sufficient subjects at home to make him especially enthusiastic regarding the natural beauties of his own state.

"In Western Texas the motoring vacationist and his family can revel in the inspiring grandeur of rugged mountains," says Mr. Cahoon. "In Northern Texas they find long stretches of straight, smooth highway to intrigue them onward, mile after mile, over level, picturesque plains. In East Texas the traveler thrills to the peace and beauty of the wooded country as he motors through stately pines. To the south he enjoys a wealth of luxuriant, sub-tropical plant life as he travels through the palm-bordered roads of South Texas and the Gulf Coast country. Truly, a variety of scenery as wide as the range of sports and interests to which they lead." The above illustrations were sketched by Mr. Cahoon for the Portland Cement Association and show typical scenes along the Travelax Route. Maps showing concrete highways in Texas (The Travelax Route) are now being distributed by the Association and may be obtained by writing their offices at Dallas.

trailer, several car seats, a wagon sheet, and other articles the young people were provided with a new and comfortable means of transportation. Their course of journey took them through the state capitol where they spent one night; the next day was spent in San Antonio where they viewed the sights of the old Mexican city. Upon arriving at Kerrville the Haskellites received much publicity and notice for their determination to attend the conference. The young folks could not do much sight seeing the first day because of frequent visits of the "covered wagon" from the West. The San Antonio Express, Kerrville Sun, and Howl o' the Hills all gave praise to the young people from

Haskell county. At the conference were representatives from every part of Texas. This year's group numbered 648, which is the largest registration ever had during its twenty-seven years of organization. The spirit of the group showed that the young people had become reconciled to the changes in living conditions brought on by the three years of depression; everyone was happy, filled with the conference spirit, eager to do as the faculty members and group counsellors directed them and at the end of the eight days meeting were able to hold their heads high and prove to those that are prone to be skeptical that the young people have not 'gone to the dogs.'

Some of the courses that were taken by the Haskell group are: Presbyterianism, Missions, Program Building, Vocational Guidance, Evangelism, and a study of the Book of Acts. Our group especially enjoyed the fellowship and teachings of Rev. R. M. Wilson, who conducted a meeting here last summer. Besides the above named courses of study the young Presbyterians had a program of rest hours, swimming on the Guadalupe river, baseball and tennis, and a program of entertainment after the night services. The last night of the conference the young people were lead on a "Mystery Ramble." They walked to the top of a nearby hill in couple formation which formed a line over a mile long. As they reached the crest of the hill a huge cross was lighted and from this cross each Presbyterian group lit its fire by the use of a smaller cross. This consecration service held in silence among the hills culminated the meeting.

Taking your Dollar to Market . . .

Every year your family, and every family of your acquaintance, spends about 70 per cent of its income just for living, exclusive of rent—so economic experts tell us. Think what this means—seven dollars out of every ten invested in food, clothing, household utilities and all the multitude of things that keep a family comfortable and happy.

That part of spending is readily understood. But do you realize that every manufacturer and retailer of these necessities is planning how he can get your dollar?

It's a big job to spend so much money wisely and well. It requires careful business methods to get the best possible returns from each dollar that leaves the family purse.

The clever woman goes for help to the advertisements in her newspaper. There she finds a directory of buying and selling. She learns about the offerings of merchants and manufacturers. She compares values. She weighs quality and price. She takes this opportunity of judging and selecting almost everything she needs to feed, clothe, amuse, instruct and generally bring up her family.

Do you read the advertisements? You will find them willing and able to serve you in the daily business of purchase.

RODEO JUDGE

Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton, rancher and cattle inspector, is president of the veteran cowboys of Texas who will hold their annual convention in Stamford during the Texas Cowboy Reunion July 3, 4, and 5. To be eligible for Rhoades' organization, a man must have been in service as a cowboy at least 35 years ago. In 1898—just 35 years ago—Rhoades won the championship in bronco-riding in a big cowboy reunion held at Haskell. Rhoades will serve as one of the judges in the rodeo during the Cowboy Reunion starting at Stamford Monday.

NEW BUILDINGS UNDER CONSTRUCTION; OTHERS ARE BEING REMODELED

The new brick building on the northeast corner of the square is nearing completion and will be one of the most attractive business houses in the city when completed. The building is one story, divided into four store rooms and two nice office spaces. The postoffice will be moved to the corner building as soon as completed, occupying the same space in which it was quartered before the destructive fire last January. Another store room will face west on the square which will probably be occupied at an early date by a new dry goods firm. Two small stores and two office rooms will face north on Walton street.

section and when finished will be one of the most attractive small church buildings in the city. The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Fields is being remodeled, and other residences are being re-roofed and repainted and many minor repairs on homes and business houses is being done at this time.

The Gulf Refining Company have under construction a modern service station on Clark street one block south of the courthouse square and when completed will be of the same standard design used in all Gulf Company stations. The Church of Christ have added a number of class rooms and baptistry, and the lawn around the church and parsonage is being sodded with Bermuda.

40,000 EXPECTED TO ATTEND TEXAS COWBOY REUNION

Presbyterians have bought a large quantity of the brick that was in the Baldwin building, which partially burned a few months ago and they will add to their church building some time in the near future. The Assembly of God Church has the brick work and a large part of the woodwork finished on their new church building on Clark street two blocks south of the business

With the opening of the Fourth Annual Texas Cowboy Reunion still three days off, visitors already are drifting into Stamford in readiness for the celebration which opens on Monday July 3, to continue through the 4th and 5th. Reunion officials are predicting a total attendance of 40,000 this year, an increase of 10,000 over last year's record crowd. From a small beginning in 1930, the Texas Cowboy Reunion has grown in three years into a celebration which attracts attention throughout the Southwest and even draws interested visitors from the North and East.

Visitors this year will find the Reunion grounds much improved, the seating capacity of the grandstand at the rodeo arena doubled and an improved traffic system, all of which is expected to add to the comfort and convenience of the crowds who attend the celebration. The assembling of pioneer cowboys and cattlemen to renew acquaintances, swap stories and revive memories of the Old West is one of the big features of the annual Reunion. These oldtimers have their own organization and 543 members registered at the Reunion last year. Men who were actively employed as cowboys on the ranches 35 years ago are entitled to membership. Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton is president of the organization. Badges will be issued to all oldtime cowboys over 55 years of age which will entitle them to free admission to the rodeo and grandstand, a chuck wagon dinner each day during the Reunion, admission to the square dance each night and other courtesies.

M. and Sunday and Monday July 23 with 'King of Jazz' featuring Paul Whiteman and his band; and Tuesday, Wednesday, July 24 with 'Air Hostess' featuring Evelyn Knapp, James Murry, and Thelma Todd. It also lists Thursday, July 27 with 'The Great Jasper'.

The cowboy rodeo, which is the feature attraction of the Reunion, is different from the usual run of rodeos in that cowhands from the ranches, rather than professional rodeo performers, are featured. Improvements on the pens and chutes this year are expected to add more speed to performances. More than $1,000.00 in prizes will be given. Contests will be held twice daily—9:20 a. m. and 8 p. m., in bronco-busting, calf roping, steer riding and wild cow milking. The 10 cowboys making the best time in the roping events will compete for the championship on the night of July 5. Winners will receive special prizes. In addition to these attractions, a cutting-horn contest will be held on July 5, and a special calf roping contest for cowboys over 55 years of age on July 2nd and 4th.

SAGERTON MAN IS FOUND DEAD ON CANYON HIGHWAY

Bryan Hankins, aged 36, son of Mrs. Anna Hankins of Sageroton, was found dead one-half mile north of Canyon, Texas, Thursday morning June 22, about 10:30 o'clock, by two highway patrolmen.

Sergeant R. H. Routh and Patrolman Boyce Long first discovered the body as they went from Amarillo to Canyon, but thought he was asleep. When they returned they investigated and found him dead.

Neatly dressed, lying on his back, his hat was nearby, and at his feet were two cigarette butts and one freshly rolled un-smoked cigarette and an unstruck match. His left hand was over his heart, and as there were no marks of violence or signs of poisoning, death was attributed to heart failure.

Besides $12 in cash and a few personal effects, two identification cards showed the bearer was a member of Kit Carson Post, American Legion, Panhandle, Texas.

He was on his way from his mother's home at Sageroton, to the home of George Hankins, a brother, at Panhandle, Texas, to harvest wheat.

Funeral services were conducted from the family home Friday at 4 p. m., with Rev. Henry Littleton of Hamlin, deceased's friends of 20 years standing, officiating. Interment was made in Fairview Cemetery with W. N. Kinney of Stamford in charge.

Deceased is survived by his mother, four brothers, and two sisters. One brother, Don, who lives in Los Angeles, Calif., was unable to reach home in time for the funeral services.

URGES SAFETY FIRST IN CELEBRATING FOURTH OF JULY

On July Fourth Texans will celebrate the One Hundred and Fifty-Seventh Anniversary of our National Independence. Thousands of people will lay aside their business cares and in various ways celebrate the occasion. The Texas State Department of Health believes in this observance but desires that it be as free from accidents as possible and has issued a warning in this connection.

Perhaps it is asking too much of "Young America" to insist that the use of blank cartridges, firecrackers, and other dangerous noise makers be dispensed with, but certainly their use should be indulged in with great caution. If an accident should happen with any of the above articles, the first thought should be of lockjaw or tetanus. Every wound should be cleaned thoroughly and all foreign matter removed. Every puncture or lacerated wound should receive prompt attention. A doctor should be consulted at once and tetanus antitoxin administered if necessary. The use of this serum is a preventive of lockjaw. Care should also be used in case of burns.

If swimming is to be a part of the day's activities, care should be taken to select a safe place. Of course pools that have guards are the safest places, but unprotected places will claim their number of bathers and those that cannot swim should be very careful and not venture beyond their depth. In case of accidental drowning artificial respiration should be started at once and continued until medical assistance arrives.

According to the Vital Statistics records automobile accidents always show an increase on holidays as there are more people on the road on those days. Care should be used in driving; keep on your side of the road, give the other fellow a little more than half the road, have lights all tested and inspect your brakes. If every one would drive carefully and practice common courtesy a large number of accidents and deaths would be avoided.
