QUIT KICKING AND GO TO WORK

Continual howling about reduced earnings of many corporations is doing much to prolong the depression, intimidating the individual and drive money into hiding.

Why shouldn't corporation and private earnings fall below the peaks of two or three years ago? We were then living under abnormal conditions.

When an automobile salesman without any capital could open an expensive show room and sell automobiles as fast as he could get them, we were not living in normal times. When a bond salesman without any practical experience, capital or knowledge of the intrinsic value of the securities he handled, could open an office equipped with expensive furniture and oriental rugs, and sell securities, bonds, and stocks, etc., to a clamoring public, and make money faster than he ever dreamed of, ordinary caution should have warned anybody conditions were not normal. When a real estate operator could take practically worthless land and sell it at fabulous figures which no normal crop value could justify, it should have been self-evident that there was something wrong. And so on through every line of industrial, agricultural and financial activity.

During ten years of inflation, countless persons came to think that by their own ability and shrewdness they were creating wealth for themselves by speculation when, as a matter of fact, most of them were creating nothing and saving nothing while they lived in a fool's paradise which they thought would last forever.

The majority of persons have more today than they had in pre-war times but they complain about having less because they are making comparisons on a false basis.

This is true of individual and it is true of companies. Industrial concerns expanded beyond any normal requirements. They have endeavored to maintain operations on an inflated basis which cannot be done because there is no longer any artificial demand to maintain such production.

All over the nation, one-man industries and one-man farms are starting again on a deflated basis. You can drive through the country and see little "shacks" springing up on cheap land and in the far-away places. The occupants of these little homes are going to produce their living and gradually make a little surplus. The big farmers who bought high-priced land on the strength of high-priced crops, as well as the industries which built and equipped plants at peak prices and built up peak overheads, are all going to have to readjust themselves to the basis of the man who is starting at the bottom today. The laboring man who enjoyed war time wages for the past decade, is in the same boat.

The same inflation that affected industry and the individual also affected government and taxation, and government is among the last to recognize conditions and reduce its mushroom expansion accordingly. The trouble with government is that its managers (our public officials and public servants) will not reduce their own functions voluntarily. The reduction will have to be forced by a tax-weary people who, after they have adjusted their own personal and business affairs, will turn to their governmental problems which in a large measure they have permitted to expand, by their own indifference, without check during the past decade.

Emphasizing the term "hard times" has become more or less a racket indulged in by a growing army of theorists who would remedy our ills through schemes which try to create employment at public expense, thereby further discouraging industry through exorbitant taxation, thus creating more unemployment. Most of our economic doctors are afraid to state in plain English that we are on a new basis; that products of all kinds will be selling at pre-war prices; that a large part of our unemployed are going to have to make employment for themselves at wages more nearly what they received before the war. Many of the jobs they enjoyed will never return because the conditions that produced them are gone forever unless we start another world-wide war, which would be a terrific price to pay to stimulate employment.

It may be hard medicine to take but it is reality and the sooner we recognize the conditions and adjust ourselves to them, the sooner will we conquer the depression by merely returning to more normal standards of living.—Industrial News Review.

Willie was having trouble with his arithmetic. Said teacher: "How many do Mother and Daddy and Baby make?"

"Two and one to carry," said little Blockhead Willie.

Son—Saw, pop, the girl I've my mind set on doesn't seem to be much of a talker.

Old henpeck—Don't let her fool you, my boy, your mother played that very same trick on me.

AN ARMY of Salesmen Who Take Little Time

When a salesman calls upon you, your subconscious question is, "How much time will he take?"

Yet an army of salesmen comes marching into your living-room regularly. They take your time only when you can spare it. They present their products to you briefly and politely, without a single interruption during your moments of consideration. They retire at your wish, or tell you more if you desire.

Are you learning all you can from these salesmen—the advertisements in your local newspaper? They come from the market places of the world. They bring the latest facts about the things you want and need, suggest other things you might want or need. They can make life more pleasant, efficient and economical. But you—and you alone—are the judge!

Can you afford to deny an audience to these salesmen? They do more than try to sell you something. They bring you the news of what your neighbors and your countrymen are doing in the world of business.

Advertisements do not ring doorbells—but receive cordial reception from intelligent, discriminating people everywhere. Again and again they point out the only true bargains—sound merchandise at fair prices. When you read the advertisements, you are helping yourself to better things!

THE WORST HAPPENED
With bowed shoulders Homer Smith entered his house. His dragging feet scuffed their way through the front hall into the kitchen where his wife was preparing the evening meal. The smile faded from Mrs. Smith's face as she noted the woe-begone appearance of her better half. "Homer!" she cried, slumping into a chair. Homer Smith stared straight ahead with dead eyes. "Tell me, darling," pleaded his wife. She came over to Homer and lifted his chin into her hand. Homer Smith moistened his lips with his tongue. "The worst," he said dismally, "has happened."

Your Electric Power Supply MUST Be Flexible

Electric power, to serve any community adequately, must be flexible. It must meet all requirements, large or small—from a large factory to a small household—at any time and at any place.

Small local plants serving single communities lack this flexibility . . . they lack the variety of volume and demand which enables a larger system, serving a wide area by transmission lines, to operate efficiently.

The transmission line delivers larger amounts of power AT ONCE without the delay of installing additional equipment. Thus it clears the way for a rapid and permanently expanding industrial growth.

The present day industrial progress of small communities is based in a large measure on the ample and economical power supply which resulted when transmission systems replaced inefficient and expensive small local plants throughout the nation.

The West Texas Utilities Company, through its widespread 2,500 mile transmission line network, makes available to 125 progressive West Texas cities and towns over 100,000 horsepower of electric energy—ready at the turn of a switch.

Patient—I guess you're right only that isn't the gal's name.

Mother—What kind of a show did daddy take you to, Bobby?

Bobby—It was a dandy, mamma. They had ladies dressed in stockings up to their necks.

"The man who named me a cow-catcher made a mistake," reflected that part of the locomotive, just after having tossed aside the eighth shifter for the day. "He should have called me the can opener."

Doctor—An operation is absolutely necessary to save your life. Patients—And what will it cost? Doctor—According to your earning capacity. What is your salary? Patient—Only twenty dollars a week.

Doctor—On second thought I believe an operation can be dispensed with. Take this pill and get out.

Motorist—I'm sorry I ran over your hen. Would a dollar make it right?

Farmer—Well, you had better make it two. I have a rooster who was mighty fond of that hen and the shock might kill him too.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" "I don't see," said the prisoner sadly, "why I should express an opinion and try to interfere with the jury's guessing contest."

The boarding house mistress glanced grimly down the table as she announced: "We have a delicious rabbit pie for dinner."

The boarders nodded resignedly—all that in but one. He glanced nervously downward, shifting his feet. One foot struck something soft, something that said, "Meow!" Up came his head, a relieved smile crossed his face as he gasped. "Thank goodness!"

Parson—Does your daughter trust in God, Brother Jones? Brother Jones—She must, judging by the company she keeps.

Down in Arkansas a man was tried for assault and battery with intent to kill. The State produced as evidence the weapons used, a rail, a gun, saw and rifle.

The defendant's counsel exhibited as the other man's weapons a scythe blade, pitchfork, pistol, dagger and hoe.

After being out several hours, the jury gave this verdict: "We, the jury, would have given a dollar to have seen the fight."

"What's the difference between a gambler and an unsuccessful business man?" "The gambler knows his odds, and the other owes his notes."

"How did you happen to propose to your wife?" "I didn't propose to her. I was just an innocent bystander."

ARISTOPHANES Stands Bewildered

Aristophanes remarked of women, 2300 years ago, "They dip their wool into hot water, according to the ancient plan, all of them without exception, and never make the slightest innovation. They sit and cook as of old. They carry upon their heads as of old." Could you summon Aristophanes into our today—he would stand appalled at the speed of women's present innovations.

Just about everything you are accustomed to becomes out-moded, discarded, in an incredibly brief time. Ways of cooking, serving, traveling; of keeping clean, healthy, beautiful, young—these are the modern tasks, "as of old." But science in alliance with factories and kitchens keeps new ways coming along so fast that poor old Aristophanes and those soft-sandaled women would be breathless with keeping up. Yet you are used to swift change . . . used to comforts that a short while ago were luxuries . . . that a little way from now will seem Grecian-quaint themselves. From advertisements in your newspaper you reap news of these ways to live healthfully, richly, advantageously—young!

Sit and cook as of old? Carry upon your head as of old? No, you carry IN your head knowledge of the best that is buyable. Advertisements give you easy, happy surveys of new ways. Glance over all the advertisements you can, every chance you have.

BONUS ARMY TRAGEDY.

Every thoughtful citizen will deeply deplore the tragic ending of the bonus army siege at Washington.

While we cannot condone the threat of violence offered by a number of the veterans, it must be remembered that the tragic human problem of unemployment and want was involved in their behavior. The country has a real sympathy for their plight, and it is hoped that cool heads will now prevail and that responsible authorities will find more effective and desirable methods of controlling them than gas and bayonets.

Let us remember also that a great deal of the blame for the disorders rests not with the veterans, but with the self-seeking politicians who misled them and encouraged them to come to Washington on their futile mission.

Undoubtedly the veterans blundered when they deserted their own leaders and refused to move from government property to private quarters, leaving no alternative but to employ prompt and effective means for quelling the rioting and defiance to civil authority. The capital cannot be surrendered to the veterans, or to any other group that goes beyond the bounds of law and order. The veterans have the right to agitate peacefully for what they consider due them, and there will be an opportunity at the polls in November for an expression of their demands, but they stand to gain nothing and lose much by resorting to intimidation.

It is a time for patience and restraint. It is a time when we need wise leadership and the exercise of wisdom and discretion in handling the situation. Let us hope that someone other than soldiers will come forward to counsel with them and persuade them by the force of logic and reason that it is to their interest and the interest of all the vast army of unemployed everywhere that they disperse and return peacefully to their homes, where, in November, they can give an impressive expression of their demands.

STAY AT HOME

The Austrians, hard pressed by the financial ruin of their country, have sought to conserve their resources by ordering their people to stay at home and spend their money there, where it will be of some benefit to their own country.

No one can buy a railroad ticket to a foreign country except in the money of that country, and no Austrian money may be exchanged for foreign money unless the applicant can prove that he is a commercial traveler or otherwise has business to transact in a foreign country.

This is perhaps carrying matters with a high hand and interfering with the liberties of the people in a manner that would not be tolerated in this country, but it serves as food for thought whether some voluntary plan of the same nature might not be a good thing to put into practice in this country.

It begins to look as though out debtors in Europe are planning to repudiate their debts to us. Why would not it be a good plan for Americans in arranging their foreign travel to stay away from those countries which thumb their noses at us and virtually say, "Collect if you can?" We have not the figures at hand as to the volume of money annually spent by Americans in foreign travel, but we venture to say that it would go far in paying the amount due us annually from foreign debtors. If we must pay the debts of the war, let us do it out of money that we would otherwise spend in Europe.

This is a great country of ours and it might be a good idea to get acquainted with it while we are paying for the European war. We might even get to like it better than we do Europe.

Contests among school children which are promoted by commercial enterprises are frowned upon by the National Education Association, which declares the pupils are being exploited to the detriment of their school work. The association also protests against observance of so many special days and weeks in the schools for the same reason. These objections are well founded. The schools should be devoted to education, and not to boosting anybody's private enterprise.

A GOOD SELECTION

President Hoover undoubtedly pulled a neat bit of political strategy when he appointed Atlee Pomerene, distinguished Ohio Democratic leader, as chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. In giving to the Democrats control of this great governmental agency, Mr. Hoover has completely disarmed critics of the administration who had begun to charge that this great reconstruction agency would be used for the advantage of the Republican party.

While the $80,000,000 loan to the Dawes bank gave some justification to such charges, and created a situation which pointed to future trouble, the corporation, now under Mr. Pomerene, and with a Democratic majority of directors, promises to have clear sailing so far as partisan possessions may go.

The appointment of Mr. Pomerene is a most meritorious one. He is a man of ripe experience and unquestioned capacity and integrity. The country can be sure that under him the board will never become a partisan organization.

DAYS WE'LL NEVER FORGET

Little Willie—Yah, I saw you kiss my sister.
 Boy Friend (hurriedly)—Ah—er—here's a quarter.
 Little Willie—And here's ten cents change. One price to all. That's the way I do business.
 First Husband—Do you believe a rabbit's foot ever brought luck?
 Second Hubby—Yes, I do. My wife felt in my pocket once and thought it was a mouse.
 Mrs. Lafferty—Ten stitches did the doctor have to take in me said man after the fight.
 Mrs. O'Hara—Tin? Wax that all? When the doctor seen MY poor husband carried in this mornin', he says, "has anyone got a sewin machine?"

A private was shaving himself in the open air when his argument came along.
 Sergeant—Do you always shave outside?
 Private—Of course. Did you think I was fur-lined?
 "Doctor, tell me what's wrong with me, in plain English, please."
 "You're lazy," said the doctor.
 "Now tell me the scientific name so's I can tell my wife."
 Present day counterfeiters might plead in extenuation that folks must have something to use for money.

Customer—Why don't you advertise?
 Country Storekeeper—No, sirree. I did that once and it pretty near ruined me.
 Customer—How was that?
 Storekeeper—Why people came in and bought dern near all the stuff I had.

A Boston man predicts that kissing will be extinct in 100 years. He apparently believes the world will come to an end in the meantime.

THE COMMERCIAL USE OF TEXAS HIGHWAYS IS A PRIVILEGE, NOT A RIGHT

● The highways of Texas are the property of its citizens. They constitute a system of nearly 200,000 miles of road of which 20,000 miles are designated as State highways and the remainder are county roads. All types of road are represented in this system, less than 5% have so-called "permanent" surface.

The total cost of these highways is unknown but it amounts to many hundred million dollars. From 1917 to 1930, inclusive, counties and road districts of the State issued $248,592,834 in bonds for the construction and improvement of roads and bridges. In the two-year period ending August 31, 1930, the State Highway Commission expended $89,032,825, of which $22,488,426 was for maintenance of the State highways.

In view of these tremendous costs the preservation of our highways from rapid wear and destruction is a matter of very vital interest to their owners, viz., the public. It is especially important that they be made to outlast the life of the bonds, which run from 20 to 30 years.

The use of the public highways for commercial purposes is not a right but a privilege which may be withheld or granted subject to such restrictions, regulations and charges as the Legislature may see fit to impose. Such regulations are intended to promote safety, preserve the highways and safeguard the interests of the public.

Texas Railroads, which pay the entire cost of construction and maintenance of their own roadbeds and, in addition, make substantial contributions to the cost of Texas highways, are thoroughly regulated with respect to their services, rates, methods and practices. There is no good reason why commercial users of the highways, built and maintained at the expense of the public, should not likewise be regulated to such extent as the public interest requires and pay such charges as will represent proper compensation for the privileges granted them.

● The statutes governing highway transportation as enacted by the Forty-second Legislature represent the wishes of the citizens of this State and express their desire to give equal rights to all and special privileges to none. These statutes should be given a fair trial and their value ascertained. Unless this is done, a chaotic condition in transportation as a whole will surely ensue.

Alexander Store at Spur Leases New Location

From The Dickens County Times—
Henry Alexander & Company this week secured a lease on the Cowan building and will move into that location in the near future. This is one of the exclusive dry goods firms in our city and at present is located in the Davis building just north of the City National Bank. Mr. Alexander, the manager, stated that he did not know just when the change would be made, but it will not be many days off.

Self-Feeding Is Popular In Foard County

From The Foard County News—
Greater interest is being shown by the farmers of Foard county in the feeding of hogs than in many years and large numbers of self-feeders have been constructed during the past several weeks and are now in operation on farms all over the county.

Practically all of the feeders have been built on plans furnished by the A. and M. College Extension Service. They are weather proof, economical and simple to build and inexpensive to maintain and have proven to be one of the most economical and convenient methods of producing pork, according to local farmers who have tried this method.

Two Rule Boys Hurt on Road Work Monday

From The Rule Review—
Monday was an unlucky day for those employed on road work on the paving of highway 18. Wayne Teague had the misfortune to lose the middle finger on the left hand and two other fingers badly injured. Oscar Thomas received a leg injury. Both boys were in the Stamford sanitarium for several days. Seven other men, we understand, have been injured in various ways.

Cotton Suffers From Hot Winds

From The Chillicothe Valley News—
During the past few days farmers in some localities of the Chillicothe area have witnessed their cotton suffer from the hot winds, saying squares were being shedded and the leaves turning black.

Relief must be had immediately or else the crop will be short, it is maintained.

Munday Cotton Oil Mill Now In Operation

From The Munday Times—
With a supply of 800 tons of seed carried over from last season the Munday Cotton Oil Mill started operations on Wednesday morning and will in all probability continue throughout the approaching fall, as the supply of seed a hand will keep the mill in operation until seed from the new crop begins coming in.

The mill was closed early last fall when the price of cotton seed products reached such a low price that it was unprofitable to continue and the large supply of seed has been carried over, and with cotton prospects so favorable at this time it seems likely that the mill may have the longest continuous run in its history if prices of its products remain at a price level that will make its operation practical.

The mill provides quite a nice payroll and business houses and the public in general will be benefited by the action of the concern in starting operations at this time.

85 Cars Grain Shipped From Throckmorton.

From The Throckmorton Tribune—
Up to the present there has been 85 cars of grain shipped from

Throckmorton over the Cisco and Northeastern line. Most of the grain was wheat. There was one car of oats and four cars of barley. This figure is above the number for the same time last year. No estimate could be made as to the amount that has been carried out by trucks. It is estimated that between 30 and 40 per cent of this year's crop is still in the county. Most of the threshing is finished. Some few have small amounts that will be threshed within the next week. Wednesday's rain stopped threshing temporarily.
