Severe weather warnings issued by the National Weather Service are ineffective if the public does not receive the warning or is not knowledgeable on safety procedures.

A tornado drill is scheduled for the Texas Panhandle Warning Area on Wednesday, April 8. At approximately 10:30 a.m. that day, there will be a special test of the NOAA Weather Radio alarm system, as well as transmission of a Tornado Drill

Exercise on the NOAA Weather Wire. The drill will give those in their homes, schools, hospitals and businesses an opportunity to see if they can receive a warning in a timely manner and then take the same precautionary actions that would be carried out during an actual tornado event.

Some cities will test their local siren and warning systems when the drill alert is issued.

If there is threatening weather in the area on April 8, the drill will be postponed until the following day.

Hospitals Save Money With Pharmacy Policy

Comparison shopping — searching for the best quality product at the lowest price — is a craft many consumers have perfected to a science. Hospitals, like consumers, are honing their comparison shopping skills in order to save money without giving up quality care.

These cost-conscious hospitals are turning their attention to the pharmacy, where efforts to purchase the most safe and effective brand-name drugs at the most reasonable price are expanding.

Savings from one therapeutic category, such as ulcer drugs, may mean the hospital is able to afford other high priced, but therapeutically important medications, such as the AIDS drug AZT.

For years, hospitals have comparison shopped for multi-vitamins and antibiotics. These days, they also are examining other commonly prescribed medications, such as the category of anti-ulcer drugs called H<sub>2</sub>-receptor antagonists.

Indeed, hospitals are saving tens of thousands of dollars a year by establishing lists, or formularies, of preferred medications. Pharmacists at the hospital then recommend that, whenever possible, physicians prescribe the preferred medication — the one that offers the best value.

To choose a preferred medication, a committee of the hospital's physicians and pharmacists reviews the medical literature and discusses clinical experience to determine whether all brands of drugs within a particular class are equal in safety and efficacy. They also measure costs to help decide which drug provides the most value.

At St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Boston, as with many institutions across the country, the medical staff and pharmacists evaluated years of clinical research comparing ulcer medications — particularly Tagamet® (cimetidine) and Zantac® (ranitidine), two of the world's most commonly prescribed drugs. Based on a review of more than 50 clinical studies, the hospital's pharmacy and therapeutics (P&T) committee determined that the two drugs indeed are equally safe and effective in the treatment of peptic ulcer disease.

Where they differ is in value: Tagamet costs about 15 percent less than Zantac. As a result, by recommending that our physicians prescribe Tagamet rather than Zantac for appropriate patients, St. Elizabeth's Hospital of Boston can save $35,000 per year.

Savings from one therapeutic category, such as ulcer drugs, may mean the hospital is able to afford other high priced, but therapeutically important medications, such as the AIDS drug AZT.

Indeed, formulary programs have been so successful with ulcer drugs, antibiotics, and multi-vitamins, that many hospitals plan to extend them to include other classes of medications, including calcium channel blockers (for the treatment of high blood pressure) and nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory medications (which are used to treat arthritis).

Value-oriented programs, such as the preferred formulary program, illustrate that it is possible for a hospital to cut its budget for brand-name pharmaceuticals and continue to deliver quality healthcare. Implementing this policy successfully requires time, planning, research, and the support of the hospital medical staff; most hospitals — and their patients — have found it well worth the effort.

Spicy Salad Adds Tex-Mex Appeal to Summer Meals

What's a cookout or a picnic without a bean salad? Whether it's made with one, two or more kinds of beans, crunchy, cool and colorful bean salads have long been favored warm weather fare.

This summer, take a bold new approach to bean salad with a spicy Texas-style recipe created by the Pace® Picante Sauce Test Kitchens. A sure-fire crowd pleaser, San Antonio Black Bean and Corn Salad begins with convenient canned beans, monterey jack cheese and a bright mix of summer's best vegetables. For its garden-fresh flavor and tongue-tingling jalapeno heat, its light and zesty dressing relies on mild, medium or hot Pace® Picante Sauce. A summer salad essential, the one-of-a-kind sauce adds big-as-Texas taste appeal to any salad. Stir it into mayonnaise, sour cream or bottled dressings to wake up any salad's flavor, or savor it solo as a great-tasting, fat-free, 5-calories-per-tablespoon salad topper.

Serve San Antonio Black Bean and Corn Salad at picnics, cookouts or patio suppers all summer long, and keep it in mind for brown bag and briefcase lunches, too.

In-Home Services Are Provided by MH/MR

Two in-home services provided by Central Plains Center for Mental Health/Mental Retardation and Substance Abuse are designed to enhance the quality of life of the individuals they serve, but many people who qualify for these programs are not being served.

The problem is communication. Central Plains Center simply hasn't been able to reach the individuals who could use the service. So, Central Plains Center is making an effort to let the public know about In-Home Family Support and another program—In-Home Training and Support Services.

In-Home Family Support provides financial assistance to persons with mental retardation or autism as well as children eligible for Early Childhood Intervention services.

"The purpose of this program is to foster independent choices by persons with a disability or their families," said Patricia Hollingsworth, mental retardation support services coordinator.

"The purpose also is to assist these people to be able to live independently in situations most like those experienced by persons without disabilities and to uphold the value of the family and the dignity, pride and independence of the individual."

She said another purpose of In-Home Family Support is to "support the family as the primary mainstay for many persons with mental disabilities."

This is the third year Central Plains Center has received funding for In-Home Family Support. Currently 24 individuals are served at a cost of $31,000 with $19,000 still available until August.

"Qualified recipients may request up to $3,600 per year for services and items related to their disability and to maintain community living," she said. "An additional $3,600 one-time-only grant may be requested for major expenses such as room construction or renovation."

Unlike many assistance programs, income criteria for In-Home Family Support is based upon taxable income rather than gross income. Persons with a taxable income of $18,346 or less qualify for services without a co-payment. Persons with higher incomes are charged a co-payment based on a five percent increment sliding fee scale. In the case of minors, the family's income is considered.

In-Home Training and Support Services is a different program. It provides assistance in community placement.

"A community service aide provides these services to nine clients with very different needs and abilities," Mrs. Hollingsworth said. "Training programs vary from basic self-help skills such as toothbrushing, domestic skills such as meal preparation, and money management skills such as check writing."

The training follows approved curriculums and is provided in an environment in which the skills are normally used, she said.

Other services provided by the aide include transportation for shopping and assistance in selecting appropriate purchases. Socialization opportunities also are available.

"Persons with disabilities living in independent situations are often isolated from recreation with a peer group," Mrs. Hollingsworth said. "The community service aide facilitates the decisions and planning for outings and provides supervision and transportation."

Mrs. Hollingsworth said persons interested in either support program should contact her at 293-1291.

Women: Let Social Security Know of Name Change

Working women who have changed their names because of marriage or divorce may not get timely income tax refunds if they have failed to change their names on Social Security records.

If the last name and Social Security number on an individual's federal income tax return and W-2 form do not match Social Security records, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) checks on the discrepancy. And they will not issue a refund check while they verify that the name and Social Security number are correct. This could double the usual processing time for a tax refund.

I also would urge women who have changed their last names since they began their working careers to check that all of their earnings are listed correctly on their Social Security records. Failure to report a name change to us is one of the most frequent causes of errors in earnings records. Since eligibility and benefits for Social Security retirement, disability, and survivors insurance are based on these earnings records, it is important to make sure the records are right.

You can do this by filling out a form SSA-7004, Request for Personal Earnings and Benefit Estimate Statement.

Directors Elected at Co-op Annual Member Meeting

One hundred fifty-one members of Swisher Electric Cooperative, fifteen represented by proxy, re-elected Cone Johnson to another three-year term on the cooperative's board of directors and elected Jimmie David Reed and Ross O'Daniel as new directors at the March 21 annual meeting in Tulia.

Reed succeeds Charles Kay and O'Daniel succeeds Ray Tomlinson. Kay, who was president of the board, chose not to seek re-election after eighteen years of service, the last five as president. Tomlinson had served fifteen years on the cooperative's board.

Cooperative attorney Lucian Morehead conducted the election.

Thomas B. Word of Bolinger, Segars, Gilbert & Moss accounting firm gave the independent auditor's report. Word noted that the cooperative had nearly $24 million in assets as of the fiscal year that ended October 31, 1991, and that members' equity in the system amounted to $6.6 million. Annual revenue as of October 31, 1991 exceeded $10 million, leaving an operating margin of over $635,000 and total margins of over $1 million, which included interest on investments.

General Manager Charles Castleberry noted in his report that the average cost of electricity had dropped from 9.8 cents per KWH in 1987 to 7.2 cents per KWH in 1991. Castleberry then directed his remarks toward area development, saying, "You, the member, as well as the co-op need to continue to be optimistic about the future of the area we live in and keep doing all you can to promote our rural area. And say . . . yes we do have a good educational system; yes, our existing hospital and medical services are continually being upgraded to provide quality care; yes, our cities are solving their water problems; and yes we welcome new industries because we believe the lifestyles of rural America are envied by many and our quality of life is great in rural Texas."

Lubbock folk singer Andy Wilkinson entertained members with ballads about West Texas during registration while other members gathered around to drive, ride in and observe the electric powered van provided by Southwestern Public Service. SPS representatives Greg Boggs and Dave Krupnick let members take the van for short drives and discussed the features of the van.

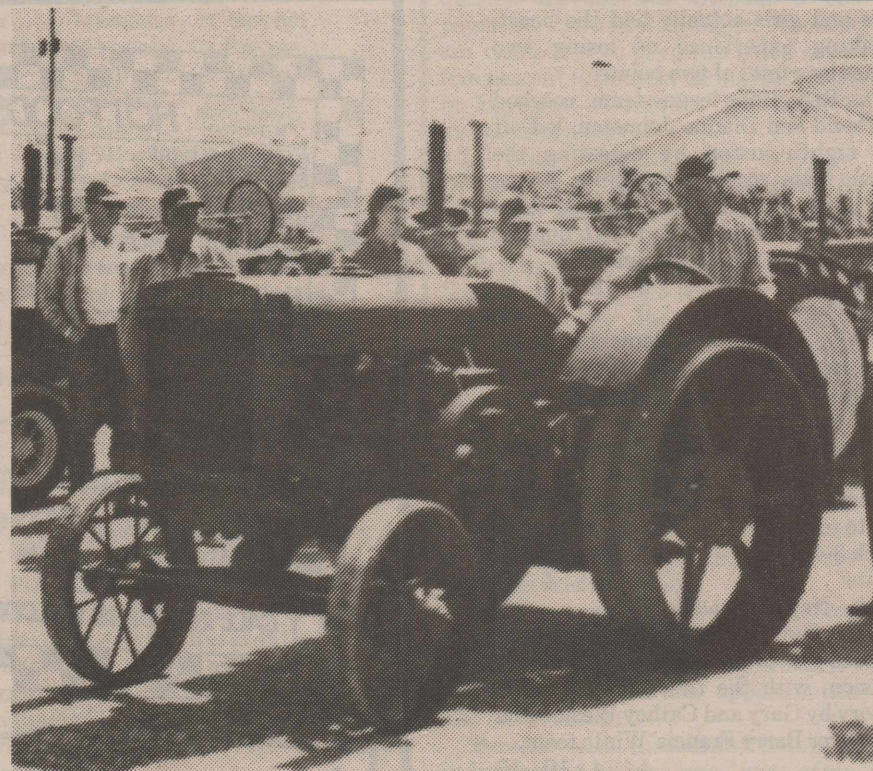

Following a catered lunch in the high school cafeteria, members heard Dick Byers of Bella Vista, Arkansas speak about the value of electricity compared to other products. Tossing handfuls of pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters into the crowd to help dramatize his point, Byers gave example after example to illustrate that if the desire is strong enough, cost is not the object behind people's buying decisions. He showed a newspaper advertisement for a watch priced at $21,000 and noted that a watch guaranteed waterproof to 150' depth and accurate to within one minute a year costs about $3 at most Wal-Mart stores. Both watches keep accurate time, so cost is not the object for people who buy the $21,000 watch. Another example he gave was comparing a $160 living room suite with a $1,600 suite. "You can sit in both of them," Byers exclaimed, so cost again is not the object for those who buy the $1,600 suite.

Byers went on to illustrate that the price of electricity has not gone up the way other things have that people don't complain about. Nickel candy bars now cost 40 cents or more, chewing gum has gone from five cents to 25 cents, yet people will complain about the cost of electricity which makes life better and easier for everyone. Byers said electricity is the best value in the family budget, "always has been and always will be". Elaborating, Byers said "the pre-World War II dollar will buy about 23 cents worth today, but it will buy about $1.20 worth of electricity."

Sixty-one door prizes were given, with the final door prize being a 5-HP 20 gallon tank air compressor won by Mrs. M. C. Fox of Tulia.

At the board of directors meeting following the annual meeting, Eddie Bryan was elected president of the board; Richard Tye, vice president; W. D. Inglis, secretary-treasurer, and Guinn Fitzgerald, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Jimmie Davis is pictured operating his 1925 Spoker D John Deere at the playday held by the Texas Plains Chapter Two Cylinder Club last Saturday in Abernathy. Davis and his wife, Gayle, were hosts for the event. There were 39 tractors there, and well over 100 attended. The club's next playday will be in June at Hart. Dues in the club are $10 a year for a couple, and if you are interested in joining, the club will have a playday here in August. Everyone who owns antique tractors, implements, trucks, cars, etc. will be invited to bring them to Silvertown to take part in the Antique Tractor Show August 8-9.

Herbed Fillet of Beef

Want real beef? Here it is — without too much fat.

- |        |                                                               |         |                                   |
| 1      | fillet of beef(about 1¾ lbs.),all visible fat removed | 1 Tbsp. | olive oil                         |
|        |                                                               | 1       | onion, sliced                     |
| 3      | cloves garlic, crushed                                        | 2       | carrots, finely diced             |
| ¼ tsp. | freshly ground black pepper, or to taste                      | ¼ tsp.  | salt                              |
| 4 to 5 | sprigs fresh thyme or 1 tsp. dried thyme                      |         | Garnish:Parsley sprigs |

Preheat oven to 400° F.

Tie beef fillet in 3 or 4 places. Rub garlic on all sides of meat and sprinkle pepper over all. Place in heavy nonstick roasting pan. Lay thyme across meat. Pour olive oil over entire roast. Scatter onions and carrots around and over roast.

Cook 14 minutes per pound for medium-rare. Remove from oven, sprinkle with salt and cover with foil. Let sit for 10 to 15 minutes before serving.

Makes 6 servings.

A FOOL CAN EASILY BE FOUND ANY TIME OF THE YEAR

During our childhood, we were often so carried away with April Fool jokes that we continued them the next day. Then, someone would admonish us with the little two-liner, "April Fool is past; you're the biggest fool at last!" However, after we grew up, we learned that fools are not hard to find, and that we don't have to wait for a special occasion but can see them all the year 'round. They are the ones who consider attending their House of Worship a waste of time, because things are going well for them at the moment. So don't be a fool, but start now—if you haven't already—to seek God's help and guidance. Then, when something does go wrong, you'll be better prepared to solve it or cope with it. It's the wise thing to do.

- Woodrow Wilson

"Professing themselves to be wise, they become fools."
- Romans 1:22
