fully with new federal guidelines aimed at controlling a screwworm outbreak now gripping the state.

The new guidelines, applied to all counties in Texas by the U.S. Department of Agriculture this week, require spraying of all cattle within 72 hours of any planned movement to Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi or Tennessee.

Those seven southeastern states have climates in which screwworm flies can "over-winter" and set up a disasterous situation for next year. Movement of cattle to states other than those seven is not affected.

ICA President T.A. Cunningham of Goliad pointed out that the spraying requirements now being applied to all Texas counties have previously been in force in 39 South Texas counties in the screwworm belt.

"With more than 7,100 cases in the first seven months of this year, and with confirmed cases as far north as the Panhandle, we have an epidemic situation," Cunningham said. "The spraying program is for our good, too.

The spraying requirement will remain in effect until Nov.

Cunningham also called on ranchers to remember these basic steps which are critical to

Rains Girl Recovering From Injury

M. Lou Rains of Sweetwater is recovering from a head injury she received while at work last Wednesday. She was rushed to the Rolling Plains Memorial Hospital emergency room and was in intensive care for a time. ST. JOSEPH'S CATHOLIC

First came the convictions ... solid rock-like convictions ... about man and his rights ... convictions about God and the gifts with which He generously blessed mankind. Then, came a search to implement these convictions; the result was our Declaration of Independence.

American liberty like America itself had its beginning in the quest for spiritual identity. In the wilderness itself the pilgrim fathers searched and labored to build a civilization based on their religious convictions. They probed their minds and hearts and discovered that they shared a common vision of "one nation under God." Again, the Declaration was the inspired result.

If our third century is to be one of "independence," like the two that have preceded it, all of us must continue this quest, and maintain this eternal vigilance of faith and religious commitment.

Now, the center inside part of the nose is a very tender place, especially if you have a ring sticking through it and when pressure is applied to the ring it gets even more tender. A short length of chain is attached to the ring and if the bull tries to go through a fence the chain catches. The pain to his nose is more tremendous than his desire to go through the fence and he usually gives up and decides to stay in his own pasture

The theme of this year's meeting was "Tomorrow's Agriculture in the Rolling Plains". It focused on new developments in weather forecasting, crop and livestock production, and marketing, as well as the financial picture for agriculture.

The Rolling Plains Economic Program encompasses 29 Rolling Plains counties and is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the County Program Building Committees in each county.

Howhigh will gas bills go, and when will they level off?

There is no sure answer. It depends, to a large extent, on what Lone Star has to pay its natural gas suppliers.

Just a few years ago, Lone Star paid only about 19¢ for a thousand cubic feet of gas.

Today, we have to pay almost $2 for a thousand cubic feet of new gas.

But you are still being charged at a much lower rate than that. You see, we are still buying old gas at lower rates under old contracts. So the average cost for gas, the cost that primarily determines your bill, is still just a little over $1 per thousand cubic feet.*.

As our older contracts expire, and new, higherpriced gas is purchased, the average price will continue to rise (even if we don't buy any new gas). We can foresee an average price of around $2 per thousand cubic feet in a few years.

That's quite a big increase. We know because we're almost paying that price right now for new gas. But it should rise much more gradually in the next year or two than it has during the past year. *Monthly reports on gas purchases filed with the Texas Railroad Commission are public record.

These special requirements have been initiated in order to prevent the spread of screwworms into the Southeast, an area which has been free of the parasite for over 15 years.

and the entire shipment of livestock will be sprayed or

dipped with a USDA-approved

Previously, cattle shipped in interstate channels from Texas counties not designated as areas of recurring screwworm infestations were not required to be inspected and treated for the parasite before shipment. Many of these cattle had wounds or disease conditions which could harbor screwworms. When moved without restriction, these cattle could be the means by which screwworms were spread to uninfested states.

Texas has been placed under stricter federal regulation as the result of an increase in the number of laboratory confirmed scrwworm cases in the state in recent months. These cases threaten to facilitate the spread of this parasite of all warmblooded animals.

So far this year, over one-half of the 254 counties in Texas have reported screwworm cases. Even a greater number of cases are expected during the traditionally heaviest months, August through November. The already serious number of screwworm cases reported this year has been due to heavy rainfall in the state, producing ideal environmental conditions for the increase in screwworms. Owners of livestock should constantly check their animals for screwworm infestations and submit specimen larvae (worms) August 12, 1976 Page 7 on the living flesh. Odors produced by the feeding larvae attract other female screwworm flies, which reinfest the wound with their eggs. Untreated infestation often result in the death of the animal.

NEWS

The USDA's Screwworm Eradication Program, operated by APHIS, is designed to eradicate the wild screwworm fly population by releasing millions of sexually sterile screwworm flies every week to mate with the fertile wild flies. Matings between fertile and sterile flies produce eggs that do not hatch, thus breaking the screwworm life-cycle.

How can LIFE INSURANCE help vour business?

There are at least six ways

Individual life insurance policies owned by a busines; on the lives of owners and key employees can accomplish many things:

Protect a key person: Life insurance can provide cash indemnity for the loss of an employee whose skill and know-how were responsible for company profits.

Provide fringe benefits for selected employees: Spl.t Dollar and Deferred Compensation arrangements informally funded with life insurance can attract and retain high-performance employees.

Fund-buy-sell arrangements: Partners and corporate owners find life insurance the ideal medium to assure that cash will be on hand to buy a deceased owner's interest.

Accomplish estate planning objectives: Life insurance owned by a corporation on the life of a substantial shareho der can be used to pay his federal estate taxes, administrative expenses and funeral expenses. If properly arranged, the dollars coming out of the corporation are normally income-tax-free to the estate.

Offer an anchor to windward: Increasing cash values are quickly available for emergency business needs.

Strengthen credit position: Lending institutions are usually more inclined to extend credit lines where life insurance on key company owners or employees is reflected as an asset on the balance sheet.

The use of life insurance by business is becoming more and more common. In this setting, life insurance demonstrates its uniqueness as a financial tool.

Chain Letter Savings Bond Scheme Builds

The Department of the Treasury is aware that, despite its efforts--in association with the Postal Service, Federal Reserve Banks, issuing agents and others--to stop chain-letter activities involving the use of U.S. Savings Bonds--schemes continue to reappear, from time to time.

Chain-letter schemes, including those involving U.S. Savings Bonds--which use the mails to facilitate their purpose--are considered by the postal authorities as in violation of the Postal Lottery and Fraud laws (18 USC 1302, 1341). Such schemes are considered lotteries, because the question as to whether the chain will be broken is a matter of chance; it is also a matter of chance whether a participant will reap anything from his participation.

The fraud aspect enters into the schemes, because representations are made that the participants will, eventually, receive substantial rewards. In the usual case, however, the chain of gullible persons soon vanishes--and there is no way by which a new participant can determine whether there is available a reservoir of interested persons sufficient to move his name to the top of the "list"

Postal officials have warned that, even though the lists of participants are not circulated in the mails, it does not alter the illegality of the operation since, usually, the Bonds or other evidence of participation in the schemes are mailed. There is also the possibility that the scheme may violate state or local anti-lottery laws, even though the mails were not used in any way.

In addition to the fact that chain-letter schemes violate federal law, the Treasury believes that the public should be made aware that such sehemes--which are essentially get-rich-quick endeavors--do a distinct disservice to the Bond Program. Instead of encouraging persons to make genuine investments, they create the illusion that participants are both aiding their government and themselves.

Accordingly, banks and other issuing agents have been requested to refuse to sell Savings Bonds in cases where they know--or have reason to suspect--that the Bonds will be used in any type of chain-letter scheme. This applies whether or not the letters and/or bonds are to be transmitted through the mails.

From time to time, the Treasury's Savings Bonds Division distributes news releases warning the illegality of chainletter schemes involving savings bonds. When a specific instance is brought to its attention, special releases are distributed to news media in the areas involved.

Individuals who purchase Savings Bonds for such chainletter schemes, and who discover that participation may violate certain laws and regulation, may request a refund, using Treasury Form PD-2966. This form is available at many banks; it may also be requested from the Bureau of the Public Debt, Division of Loans and Currency, 536 South Clark St., Chicago, Ill. 60605.
