A Voice From the Country

Earl Cantwell
Gems & Allegorys

A bit of satire calculated to challenge each of us to a close self-examination.

Morbus Sunbaticus, or Sunday Sickness, is a disease peculiar to church members. The attack comes on very suddenly on Sundays: No symptoms are felt on Saturday night; the patient sleeps well, and awakes feeling well; eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on and continues until services are over for Sunday morning. Then the patient feels easier and sits down to a hearty dinner.

In the afternoon he feels much better and is able to take a walk, automobile ride, go visiting, talk politics and read the papers. He eats a hearty supper, but about church time he has another attack and has to stay home. He retires early, sleeps well and awakes Monday morning refreshed and able to go to work. And he does not have any return of the symptoms until the next Sunday.

The peculiar features are: 1. It attacks members of the church. 2. It never makes its appearance except on the Lord's day. 3. The symptoms vary, but never interfere with his appetite or sleep. 4. It never lasts more than 24 hours. 5. It generally attacks the head of the family and continues to spread until every member of the family is affected. 6. No doctor is ever called. 7. It always proves fatal in the end to the soul. 8. No remedy is known for it except repentance and prayer. 9. Real heartfelt salvation is the only antidote. 10. It is becoming fearfully prevalent and is sweeping thousands to destruction.

The Perfect Church. I think that I shall never see, a church that's all it ought to be: A church whose members never stray, beyond the straight and narrow way; a church that has no empty pews; whose preacher never has the blues; a church whose deacons always "deak"; and none is proud and all are meek; where gossips never peddle lies; where all are always sweet and kind; and all to other's faults are blind, such perfect churches there may be, but none of them are known to me. But still, we'll work and pray, and plan to make this one the best it can be.

Even a tombstone will say good things about a person when he is down. So may I live that the man who carves my epitaph on my tombstone won't feel like a prevaricator.

To the unbeliever: The fact that you have never experienced the love of God does not prove that it does not exist . . . God purposes that we should love Him, not just the things that He gives us . . . If there is a tug-of-war, let the rope be the love of God . . . Those who really love are but one step from heaven.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

As you know, there are numerous definitions of the word "love" in this world of selfishness, greed and lust for power.

Some years ago I jotted down a few versions of my own, and would like to share the re-typed poem with my kin and friends at Silverton.

During my entire 71 years, I have never known much nicer and caring people as those down there.

But, alas, since my hand is slower, and so is my mind, I don't "turn out" quality poetry like I used to; so I'd take it as a great favor if you'd let the readers of BCN share just one more of mine.

Loney Stout

P. S. I guess you know to continue sending my BCN to this same address, where I have lived for thirty-nine years, eight months and one day today. (I moved in here November 6, 1952.)

Respectfully yours,
Loney Stout

1609 N. Fairfield
Amarillo, Texas 79107

P. P. S. Just wanted you to know how long I've lived here; I KNEW you'd send the paper to the above address. (Smile)

LOVE IS...

by Loney Stout

Love is a many "splintered" thing, soft, tender, but with a cutting sting; it's likened to a fragrant rose, where harmful thorns also repose.

Love is pleasure for just a while, then can, in turn, be something vile . . . but if, alas, we are confused, it's because vanity love's abused.

Love is a warm, caressing touch, a glance that says "I love you much," a sweet and tender heart-felt song . . . and "I forgive you when you're wrong".

Love is children down on the floor, whose precious presence we adore . . . and whose painful tears we kiss away so they're soon back to fun and play.

Love is involved in world confusions, and often suffers great contusions; but should we try our very best it can survive with zeal and zest.

Love is like the ocean blue . . . calm at times . . . but tumultuous, too . . . but again by trying our love can be as deep and endless as the sea.

Love is fickle and quite unsure, but for those who would endure could be something very nice, and more than worth the sacrifice.

Love is a simple understanding—not pretending nor demanding; merely seeking what we give, to use and share it as we live.

Love is oftentimes WHAT it seems . . . more than "looks" and fleeting dreams—more than reaching for a star; just simply being what we are.

Love is a flower, a budding tree, and other GIFTS for us to see, a taste of food, a breath of air, and many things that we can share.

Love is watching the quiet sunrise, reflecting the beauty in our eyes . . . experiencing feelings yet untold, while viewing arrays of shimmering gold.

Love is also suffering pain—even when we've nothing to gain except the feeling we are right while helping others in their plight.

Love is accepting assistance, too, and courtesy to say "I thank you" . . . to compromise and share together storms as well as fairer weather.

Love is frequently misconstrued, makes us selfish and sometimes rude; but deep down in each person's heart we know God's love and Satan's apart.

Love is something we know when we have committed some kind of sin—and though in pain we try to make some restitution for our mistake.

Love is a feeling we have for another . . . for aunt, uncle and our mother; for brother, sister and all we know, and even compassion for our foe.

Love is made in perfect sequel . . . for every person their share is equal; for every daughter, son and wife—it's fully allotted throughout life.

Love is a problem at its best, but if and when it's put to test, make sure we try with all our might to use the method God deems right.

Love is a promised eternal life, relief from pain, grief and strife; and harken the words inspired above; He's not a mere symbol, BUT GOD IS LOVE!

(I John 4:8)

Board members of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers voted unanimously to approve a new operating budget for the 25-county producer organization at its July 8 meeting in Lubbock.

The PCG board approved a budget totaling $301,675 for fiscal year 1992-93, which began July 1.

Finance Committee Chairman Jackie Burris noted in his remarks on the previous year's expenditures that PCG staff members were able to trim approximately $38,000 from estimated overall expenses during the previous year.

One of the biggest topics of discussion at the meeting was the current crop situation and the probable loss of 1.8 to 1.9 million acres of cotton on the High Plains. Board members unanimously passed a resolution encouraging the release of Disaster Program funds earmarked for 1992 crop losses. Approximately $655 million is available for 1992 crop losses and can be released at the Administration's discretion.

The PCG Board heard a report on the 1992 Boll Weevil Control Program from Program Coordinator Roger Haldenby, who noted that the mapping phase of the program began July 6 and will continue for approximately six weeks.

He explained that although severe crop losses have been devastating for producers across the High Plains they have also had at least one positive effect. The late start for most of the remaining cotton is helping prolong the period the boll weevils emerging from hibernation are unable to find food to survive. "The lateness of this crop has helped lessen the impact of what appeared to be one of the largest weevil populations to come out of overwintering in many years," says Haldenby.

Board members also were briefed on the outcome of the Universal Cotton Standards Conference recently conducted in Memphis, Tennessee. Board member Myrl D. Mitchell, a cotton producer and ginner from Lenora, reported that approval was given for the separation of Color and Leaf in the USDA grading system. He noted that the change would take effect beginning with the 1993 crop.

In other business the PCG Board approved President Wayne Huffaker as PCG's representative in the upcoming National Cotton Council, Cotton Incorporated and Cotton Board caucus. Huffaker was given authority to negotiate on behalf of PCG at these meetings. The Board also elected new members to the PCG Nominating Committee: Myrl D. Mitchell; Steve Verett, Ralls; Larry Nelson, Tulia; Don Langston, Lubbock; Lloyd Cline, Lamesa; Rex McKinney, Lubbock; R. T. (Bob) Newton, Enochs.

A presentation was made to retired PCG staff member Cotton Fanning in recognition and appreciation of his many years of service to the High Plains cotton industry. Fanning joined the PCG staff in 1963 and retired in 1991.

BEAT THE HEAT AT YOUR HOUSE OF WORSHIP; IT'S COOL

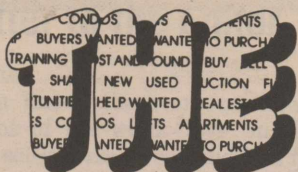

During the oppressive heat and humidity of summer, remember that your House of Worship is always open, all the year 'round, and always ready to revive your spirits. You'll find it cool inside, and you will leave there feeling refreshed in more ways than one. You will learn that God made this world you're living in, and established the four seasons, including summer, so that we could grow our food and enjoy the beauties of nature that unfold along with the calendar. Remember even in the heat of summer that He made the water that you may have a chance to swim in, the cool grass on which you might enjoy a picnic, and the balmy star-studded nights. So don't forget to attend your House of Worship regularly this summer; it's the "cool" thing to do.

Now God comes to thee, and all times are His seasons.
- John Donne

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven."
- Ecclesiastes 3:1
