TxDOT to hold child safety seat checkup

The Texas Department of Transportation (TxDOT) will hold a car safety seat checkup event on February 11, 2016 at the Clarendon Fire Hall from 12:30 to 3:00 p.m.

Inspections are by appointment only. Call Jolie Person, TxDOT Traffic Safety Specialist at 940-937-1179 to schedule an appointment, and allow 30 minutes for each seat.

Three out of four kids are not buckled correctly. This is an opportunity to learn how to buckle your child in correctly and get your safety seat check by a registered technician.

Child passenger safety technicians will check your child's car seat for correct installation, recalls and damage, and the best fit for weight, height, and age.

For more information, contact Barbara Seal at txdot.gov or (940) 937-7288.

Christian radio now on air in Clarendon

Months of planning and volunteer efforts have resulted in a new Christian radio station now being available in the Clarendon area.

The Kingdom Keys Network out of Amarillo is now broadcasting locally at 91.5 FM through a translator at the Christ's Kids Ministry Center. The station features family-oriented Christian programming, and more information and a programming guide can be found at KingdomKeys.org.

Conservation office offers trees for sale

Spring is just around the corner and that means it's time to think trees.

The Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District has a wide variety of small, medium, and large sized evergreens, deciduous shade, shrubs, and fruit trees. Orders are due by February 22, 2016. The trees should be delivered around the second week in March.

Extra trees will be sold on a first come, first served basis at that time. For more information, contact the Donley County Soil & Water Conservation District at 806-874-3561, extension 3, or stop by the office at 321 Sully in Clarendon.

CC to expand dual credit opportunities

Clarendon College Regents okayed changes during their meeting last Thursday, January 21, that will allow high school students to take more dual credit classes.

CC President Robert Riza said the changes will open the opportunity for students to complete a college degree while still in high school.

In other business, Regents ratified the hiring of Dr. Ken McIntosh as a new history instructor and Bennie Douglas to run a clinical simulation lab and accepted the resignation of nursing instructor Kory Dunn.

Benefit raises $45k

"Amazing" is the word is being used to describe the Riley Shadle Benefit held at the Donley County Activity Center last Saturday, January 23.

Benefit organizer Chandra Wright estimates about 2,000 people attended the event, which raised more than $45,000 to help with the expenses of the Clarendon High School senior who suffered a severe neck injury during the Broncos v. Lockney football game last fall.

With donations still coming in, the evidence continues to strengthen the view that Clarendon and her Texas Panhandle neighbors are a very close and supportive of each other.

"For me, I didn't set a goal for us," Wright said. "But we may past the expectations of anybody."

Donations for the live and silent auction at the event came in from all over, and more examples of goodwill are still coming in, including a special fundraising event February 22 in Amarillo.

"The Blue Sky Café will hold a Riley benefit on that day," Wright said. "They are giving 20 percent of the sales that day to help Riley."

She said people in Amarillo, Pampa, Wheeler, and elsewhere already knew Riley's story and were eager to help. And other volunteers gladly helped, particularly one Clarendon celebrity.

"Kenny King was awesome," she said. "He and his wife, Wanda, came and just stayed and didn't leave until it was over. It was brilliant."

Wright was particularly impressed with the Bronco football team and cheerleaders who showed up to serve food and didn't leave until the event was over.

"It's just breathtaking to see people come out and take part in a benefit like that for Riley. It was such a blessing, and there were lots of tears. I can tell you that," she said.

Wright particularly noted the help from her husband Bobby, Keith and Beverly Taylor of Pampa, and Mandy Roberts for helping organize the benefit. Meat for the event was cooked by Bobby Wright, D.J. Edwards, Jeremy Hicks, Tony Herrera, Keith Taylor, and Kevin Winget. "They worked their tails off," Wright said.

Riley's grandfather, Jim Shadle, took the microphone following the live auction to thank the crowd.

"We praise God every day," he told the crowd. "Riley's getting better everyday. God does amazing things everyday. This family is so blessed because of you guys and people beyond you guys. It's so encouraging that people love people."

Charles Clinton and the Optimistics and the Texas Pearl Snaps provided musical entertainment for the evening, and many other people volunteered and participated.

"We just appreciate everyone for the help and heart and spirit," Wright said.

King brings NFL honor to Clarendon

Hometown hero Kenny King received a standing ovation in the Bronco Gym last Friday, January 22, as he a presented special award to Clarendon High School and the community on behalf of the National Football League.

A special golden football noting King's participation in Super Bowls XV and XVIII is now on permanent display at the school, but the former Oakland Raider said he was not the focus Friday night.

Former Clarendon coaches Clyde Noonkester, Bob Lemons, and Jeff Walker were on hand as King presented the golden football to Clarendon ISD Athletic Director Gary Jack.

"It's been a great ride - where I've gone, what I've done, and where I've been - and to be able to come back and do something of this magnitude," King said during the presentation. "It's not that many players who actually get the chance. It's not that many cities, it's not that many towns, it's not that many communities that have this opportunity. So I wanted to make sure that I could come back and share this with Clarendon.

"It's not about me tonight," King continued. "It's about you. It's about the community, and as we all know this is a very strong community."

The large crowd gathered for the Broncos v. Wellington game applauded and cheered the presentation, and King signed autographs and posed for pictures with fans throughout the night and again Saturday at the Riley Shadle benefit.

King graduated from CHS in 1975 after playing football for the Bronchos for four years, including Clarendon's 1973 appearance at the state title game, and played with Jack for three of those years.

King then played for the University of Oklahoma before signing on with the Houston Oilers and later the Raiders in Oakland. In Super Bowl XV, he caught a pass from quarterback Jim Plunkett and ran a record-setting 80 yards for a touchdown during Oakland's victory over Philadelphia. He won his second national title in Super Bowl XVIII in 1984.

Last fall, the NFL kicked off its Super Bowl High School Honor Roll to recognize the schools and communities with a connection to the more than 3,000 people who have played or coached in the Super Bowl as part of the celebration leading up to Super Bowl 50 next month.

When King learned of the NFL's program, he knew he wanted to honor his hometown.

"This is something the NFL is allowing us as players to do for our community," King told the Enterprise Saturday. "I'd been talking to Gary (Jack) about this for some time, but with everything that happened it wasn't the right time," King said, referring to Riley Shadle's injury early in the football season.

King said everything just worked out after Friday's date had been picked, and he was glad that the timing allowed him to help with Saturday's benefit.

Texas humorist to headline Chamber awards banquet

Texas humorist Tumbleweed Smith will be the headline entertainment when the Clarendon Chamber of Commerce holds its annual Awards Banquet on Thursday, February 11, at the Bairfield Activity Center.

The awards to be given that night will be the Saints' Roost Award for a lifetime of service to the community and the Man and Woman of the Year for the man and woman who have made significant contributions to the community during 2015.

Smith is producer of The Sound of Texas, a radio series that began in Big Spring and became the most widely syndicated feature radio show in Texas. In doing his daily program for more than 45 years, Smith has gathered the largest private collection of oral history in the United States. Texas Highways Magazine says he has probably recorded the voices of more Texas characters than anyone else.

Tumbleweed taught broadcasting and speech in the University of Texas system 34 years. He is a syndicated newspaper columnist. His one-man shows have been performed all over Texas and in six other states and four foreign countries. His honors include two CLJO advertising awards, two Telly statuettes, the governor's award for tourism, the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Cultural Achievement Award, The (2012) DAR Texas Media Award, and two Freedoms Foundation Awards.

He is a past district governor of Rotary International and an Admiral in the Texas Navy. He has a star on the Texas Trail of Fame in Fort Worth. Smith lives in Big Spring with his wife Susan. They have two sons, two daughters-in-law, and four grandsons.

This year's Chamber event with a Mardi Gras theme will begin at 6 p.m. with a hospitality and hors d'oeuvres along with a silent auction followed by the banquet, entertainment, and awards at 7 p.m.

Tickets are $20 per person and must be purchased in advance at the Visitor Center located inside Mulkey Theatre. Businesses are also invited to purchase blocks of tickets by sponsoring tables at the event. Table sponsors will get to decorate their tables to reflect their business and the theme of the banquet with a prize given for the best table decoration.

For more information, contact Chamber Manager Bonnie Campbell at the Clarendon Visitor Center at 874-2421 or Chamber President Roger Estlack at 874-2259.

Socialism is the same as coercion

By Richard W. Rahn, Cato Institute

Do you know what socialism is? Hillary Clinton struggled to find an answer when recently asked. Socialism is a system in which the government owns or controls the means of production, and allocates resources and rewards.

Sen. Bernie Sanders proudly proclaims himself a “democratic socialist,” and many in the Democratic Party seem to have no problem with it and, in fact, are embracing him and his ideas. Listening to all of this, one gets the feeling that for a significant portion of the population, history began in the year 2000. There have been the great socialist success stories? Much of the world’s population greatly suffered under various forms of socialism in the 20th century. Not one of the various socialist models proved to be a success.

There was the communist variety of socialism in the former Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, China and Cambodia, which resulted in tens of millions of deaths from starvation and from the gulags. There was the national socialist (Nazi) model in Germany and Italy, which, like the communist version, resulted in tens of millions of deaths. Somewhat more benign, but still coercive, versions of socialism were prevalent in India, many places in Africa and South America, and all resulted in economic stagnation – because productive effort was separated from reward. The two most socialist countries today are North Korea and Cuba – both being very poor and repressive. The average Cuban government worker has a monthly wage that is less than what the average American worker makes in an hour.

Why does socialism always fail, and why will Bernie Sanders’ schemes and, to a lesser extent, Hillary’s ObamaCare version, also fail?

It is true that every country has some socialist enterprises at the federal, state or local levels. For instance, the US government owns Amtrak, and the city of Flint, Mich., owns its water department. Arguably, both would do much better in private hands. France has many more government-owned enterprises than neighboring Switzerland. Even France is still basically a capitalistic free-market economy – but with far less freedom and prosperity than Switzerland.

Why does socialism always fail, and to a lesser extent, Hillary’s ObamaCare version, also fail? Under a capitalist free-market system, the business person seeks to produce goods and services that the consumer wants at the lowest possible cost – which includes having the smallest and most productive work force possible – in order to maximize profits. Under the socialist model, the political leaders decide what the consumers should have (which is often very different from what they want or need). Productivity and innovation are given short shift, needless workers are hired and few are fired. In almost all cases, costs soon outrun revenues, and the losses are made up by ever higher taxes or more debt – eventually causing an economic collapse. As economic stagnation increases, the citizens become more restless and either throw off the yoke of government through the ballot box, as was done in 1979 in the United Kingdom with the election of Margaret Thatcher, or the protesters are imprisoned until often a bloody revolt occurs.

Now back to Bernie Sanders who has proposed “Medicare for all” as one of his many schemes. Professor Gerald Friedman of the University of Massachusetts has examined the Sanders plan (and has no political ax to grind), and he estimates it would cost $40.9 trillion between 2017 and 2026. Hospitals and doctors would be forced to take huge cuts, driving many out of the medical profession, and reducing innovation and standards in health care. Patients would be forced to wait in long queues. It would be like the present failed Veterans Administration health system for all.

Back in 2002, Joshua Muravchik wrote a classic book on the history of socialism, “Heaven on Earth: The Rise and Fall of Socialism.” Perhaps it is time for the political class, including the commentators, to go back and read it and realize again that the next time the socialists will not get it right, because the model is fatally flawed.

What is most disturbing is the idea that America – and its unique success as a nation – was built around individual liberty and opportunity, not collective coercion. All too many no longer understand what the American Founders were trying to, and largely did, achieve. The young people who support Mr. Sanders, and even Hillary, seem to be generally ignorant of why America worked. Many do not want the government to restrict unfettered abortions or their right to smoke pot, but seem to be oblivious that socialism and big government makes everyone into an economic slave. Many workers in the Soviet Union, as is true of North Korea and Cuba today, could not even choose their own profession, or what town or apartment block they lived in. Such restrictions are the logical and necessary outcomes of socialism, unless it is thrown off before it reaches that stage.

Those in the news media who have an opportunity to quiz the presidential candidates would do the citizens a great favor if they could discern what the candidates really know about the Constitution and the arguments made in the Federalist Papers.

Mort muddles in merry mix-up

Uncle Mort, staring down the barrel at his 104th birthday on July 4, lives in utter fascination of the moment – whatever he’s doing, wherever he is. Aunt Maude says he can entertain himself for a good four hours in an empty room with a fly swatter. “Add a fly to the mix, and his day is made,” she laughs.

He gabs about tiniest shreds of minutia. One of his domestic buddies claims Mort’s verbal discourses have been timed at 250 words per minute, with gusts to 300.

Mort’s arrival at the general store on a Saturday morning typically means domino-shuffling is soon to commence. Recently, though, the table was turned – so to speak – because of distraction resulting from a casual glance at the newspaper rack. The stark headline foretold numerous Walmart closings. Clearly, the domino game would have to wait...

“The closings will complicate many lives, way beyond mere inconvenience,” he commented. “Think of the thousands of husbands who had signed off on their funeral plans and now must make critical changes.”

Gripped by the puzzlement, his friends couldn’t imagine what Walmart has to do with husbands’ earthly exits.

Mort clarified: “I know several guys who’d planned on cremation, with their ashes spread at Walmart, thus guaranteeing spousal visits at least twice a week...”

“Some of my best spontaneous conversations have been at Walmart with other husbands resorting to idle conversation while wives shop,” another guy mentioned. “It’s either talk or watch the greater welcoming customers.”

One fellow told about a recent

Walmart session. A “new friend” dominated the conversation immediately, describing what he called “two minefields in life” that get him “off the subject at best and off the track at worst.”

The minefields? “Neon and nylons,” the guy laughed....

the idle american
by don newbury

Another member of Mort’s foursome spoke of a second “mart” in the news.

“Kmart says shoppers with firearms need only abide by state law without checking ‘em at the door.”

He claims, “Saturday night specials are compatible with blue light specials...”

They were all agog about Los Angeles’ re-entry into the National Football League, as well as excited about LA’s proposed new $2 billion sports palace purported to make Jerry Jones’ AT&T Stadium look, uh, “so yesterday.”

Someone rekindled the conversation about San Antonio getting an NFL franchise.

One guy thought they might consider “Toros” for the team nickname.

“Political correctness being what it is, they’d need to clear the mascot idea with the bulls and the lawnmower people,” he laughed....

Soon the subject turned to the upcoming Super Bowl. Mort asked if they knew the toughest job on the planet.

He claimed it has nothing to do with world peace, terrorism, immigration or any other topic covered in TV debates by presidential hopefuls.

Mort feels maybe the toughest sell of all might be TV guys trying to convince advertisers that 30-second Super Bowl spots are worth $5 million a pop....

At morning’s end, they started analyzing NFL play-off games. Talk wasn’t as much about play on the field as the bizarre sideline incident neither players nor officials had ever experienced. It was a “goo!” prior to the overtime session of the Arizona Cardinals-Green Bay Packers game. Team captains and officials gathered for the all-important coin flip to determine first possession. (The blunder assures there’ll be additional “coin toss training” before the Super Bowl.)

You remember the moment – when the coin failed to flip. The official tried again, this time successfully. In the future, maybe instant replay will be called into play, thus giving the networks opportunities to wedge in even more commercials.

What constitutes a flip? Must the coin turn a given number of times? Whatever, it should be a slam dunk. Someone said striped shirts failing to execute successful flips should be “flagged, benched or banished.”

Reflection on the botched coin flip overwhelmed the four old guys. The session ended, though, when the clock struck 12, the “gongs” almost drowned out by a quartet of stomach growls. The geezers were hungrier for food than for conversation or dominoes. So they went home....

Linemen deserve our gratitude

I know this is long so bear with me...

It has been brought to my attention that a local elected official went to the office of one of our local electric companies, and well... for lack of a better way to put it... let their emotions overrule their common sense. Thankfully, the man in charge of the linemen for this company set the official straight.

This had me thinking. How many of us have gotten frustrated and angry when our electricity goes off and it seems like forever before it comes back on? We gripe and belly-ache because we just know the electric company employees are goofing off or aren’t doing all they can while we are either freezing our rear ends off or burning up from the sweltering heat. It’s ridiculous really to think like that. I’m ashamed to admit I’ve been guilty of all the above myself in the past.

I work with someone who has family that works for one of our local electric companies. Listening to the stories and the facts of what these men do every day has opened my eyes and put things into perspective. So, here is some food for thought for those who don’t take into consideration what these linemen are out doing for us:

1. Do you really think the linemen we depend on are goofing off while we sit around in discomfort? Reality check! If you are without electricity, don’t you figure they may be without also? They have family too. I can guarantee those linemen want to get the electricity back on just as much as you.

2. During severe weather, the linemen are working around the clock to get things up and going for everyone. They are human beings, not machines. They just need to eat and get rest, which may be only a 10- or 15-minute power nap if that. This leads to number three.

3. The job these men do is a very dangerous one. They work with live power lines. They put their lives at risk so that we may live in comfort. They battle the elements while doing their work. Can you imagine being out in 20-degree weather with it snowing, ice covering everything and the wind blowing 60 miles an hour while working with a live power line? A power line that is possibly on the ground, snapping and popping? Not me! But that’s what makes these men special, and I honestly believe it takes a certain type of man (or woman) to do the job they have undertaken.

4. Remember also, most of our linemen have families. So when the weather gets bad and the electricity goes out, they lose quality time with their loved ones. They may miss a child’s birthday party, get called out while celebrating an anniversary with their wife, or they aren’t there for Christmas morning to watch their children discover the goodies that Santa has left for them. The list can go on and on.

To make a very long story short, our linemen sacrifice much and get very little thanks in return. I think it is about time someone remedies that. So here it goes...

Thank you! Thanks for all that you do so that we may enjoy some of life’s comforts. You are all a blessing and I am very grateful.

El Niño could bring elevated rainfall

By Robert Burns, Extension Service
COLLEGE STATION – A further strengthening of the current El Niño will likely mean wetter-than-normal conditions continue into spring, according to Dr. John Nielsen-Gammon, state climatologist and Regents Professor at Texas A&M University, College Station.
 “There’s the possibility that this El Niño, although it’s already pretty strong, is actually going to strengthen a bit more because of the wind patterns in the Pacific Ocean,” Nielsen-Gammon said. “You can think of the tropical Pacific as a giant bathtub, and the winds blow the warm water typically over toward the far west end.
 “When those winds weaken and even reverse, that’s what causes El Niño. The winds bring the warm water over to the east, toward South America. And recently we’ve had an increase in those west to east winds.

That’s going to reinforce the effects of El Niño.” As for summer conditions, long-range predictions are always a gamble, he said. But there is some evidence that the current super-strong El Niño will be followed by its counterpart, a strong La Niña that could mean next winter will be dry.
 “Eventually, as the winds change, the warm water is going to slosh back,” Nielsen-Gammon said. “About half of the moderate-to-strong El Niños switch over to La Niñas. They basically overshoot the average conditions. It takes several months. The Pacific Ocean is a pretty big bathtub.”
 This means the wet winter is going to more than likely continue for another few months, with elevated chances of rain through May, especially in the northern part of Texas, he said.
 “Summer in Texas is always a roll of the dice or a flip of a coin, but next winter is almost certainly not going to be as wet as this winter has been. It could be a dry winter if La Niña does develop this fall,” Nielsen-Gammon said.

 Wet and cold conditions prevailed since the first of the year. Scattered snow cover remained in some areas. Winter wheat was doing reasonably well in most locations. Some cotton was left in fields due to wet conditions, stalling harvesting. Yield grades were expected to be lower due to the snow and moisture. Producers were planning for the spring planting season. In Deaf Smith County, total cattle losses from the recent snowstorms were still being calculated, but individual producers lost from five head to hundreds. The high losses were generally associated with dairy producers. Livestock producers were supplementing cattle on rangeland and wheat pasture.

Donley County steps up to help vehicle owners

Donley County is stepping up to assist customers during the second year of the “Two Steps, One Sticker” program for vehicle inspection and registration.
 Beginning on March 1, 2016, the transition year ends, and vehicles will have one convenient expiration date for inspection and registration. Here is what Donley County vehicle owners need to do from that point forward: Take a look at the date on your vehicle registration sticker then follow the two steps.
 Step 1: Pass a vehicle inspection no earlier than 90 days prior to your registration expiration and retain your vehicle inspection report. To find your nearest inspection station in Donley County, visit the Texas Department of Public Safety’s (DPS) website.

 Step 2: After your vehicle passes inspection, renew your registration online, by mail or in person at the Donley County Tax Assessor-Collector’s office, and your inspection status will be verified electronically.
 Remember that your vehicle inspection and registration will expire on the last day of the month that’s indicated on your sticker “Following the two steps will help ensure a smooth registration renewal process,” said Donley County Tax Assessor-Collector Linda Crump. “Before coming to our office or submitting your registration renewal online or by mail, be sure to pass inspection no earlier than 90-days before your sticker expires.”

 For example, if your registration sticker expires in August 2016, you can pass your inspection as early as June 3 which is 90 days before your sticker expires on August 31, 2016.
 The state of Texas stopped issuing vehicle inspection stickers on March 1, 2015, as a result of House Bill 2305 that passed during the 83rd legislative session (2013). The Donley Tax Assessor-Collector’s office has been working closely with the Texas Department of Motor Vehicles to implement the changes required by law.

Voting begins with registering

I have been writing about the importance of voting this year, and it all begins with registering to vote in the State of Texas.

There will be at least eight Republican candidates listed on the primary ballot and at least two on the Democratic primary ballot when you vote on March 1. Everyone must be registered to vote by February 1 in the State of Texas, and this is the only time our voice will be heard regarding our choice for a presidential candidate. So we all have some decisions to make before we pick up that ballot.

First, do you vote Republican or Democrat? Regardless of what you heard at the coffee shop, voting for a candidate in the primary does not brand you a Democrat or Republican for the rest of your life. You may only vote in one primary. Which means if you vote for your choice of president in one you cannot vote for the congressman in the other. These are all Texas voting laws, but what does the Constitution say about voting?

First, it does not give you the right to vote and the Supreme Court has ruled voting is a privilege not a right. Wait a minute, you say, our right to vote is what sets us apart from everyone else so let us examine what that important document says about voting.

When the Constitution was created on September 17, 1787, and ratified June 21, 1788, the only people allowed to vote were free white men who owned property. The 14th Amendment, adopted in 1868 says the right to vote cannot be denied to any male inhabitants who are 21 years of age and citizens of the United States unless engaged in crime.

This Amendment says voting cannot be denied but does not say, "You have the right to vote." Sounds like it to me, but that is the ruling by the Supreme Court. The 15th amendment gives the right to vote to non-white men (Except Indians). The 17th Amendment gives direct elections of senators to male citizens (except Indians). The 19th amendment gave the right to vote to women (except Indians).

Native Americans were citizens of their tribal nations, followed the tribal laws and were not taxed by the United States, therefore they were not afforded protection by the US. They were considered domestic dependent nations until uniformly granted citizenship in 1924 under the Indian Citizenship Act. The 23rd amendment passed in 1961 allowed the citizens of Washington, DC, to vote for president; and the 24th amendment passed in 1964 prohibited the states from collecting a poll tax for federal elections.

The Voting Rights Act of 1965 is considered to be one of the most effective piece of civil rights legislation ever enacted in our country because it prohibits discrimination in voting. The 26th amendment that lowered the voting age from 21 to 18 was enacted in 1971 in response to the cries of GIs fighting in Vietnam but unable to vote. Finally, in 1986 the Uniformed and Overseas Absentee Act guarantees service members, their families, and citizens living outside the United States the right to vote absentee.

If you are planning to exercise this privilege and vote in the Texas primary, you must register to vote by next Monday, February 1. You then have a month to decide if you vote Republican or Democrat. If it is Republican, decide from a long list: Jeb Bush, Dr. Ben Carson, Chris Christie, Ted Cruz, Carly Fiorina, Rand Paul, Marco Rubio, or Donald Trump and possibly more. If Democrat, vote for Hillary Clinton, Bernie Sanders or more.

We have our work to do in this very important election. Good luck.

Kenny King signs football for school

Last week on Friday there was a basketball game, and Kenny King was there.

the cub reporter
by Benjamin Estlack

Kenny King grew up in Clarendon and was in two Super Bowls and set a record for the longest touchdown run. He signed the front of my shirt and the back of my little sister's shirt. He gave a golden football to the school. There were also three coaches that were standing up with Kenny King. The golden football was signed by Kenny King.

Saturday, a benefit was held for Riley Shadle because he's in the hospital and they were raising money for him. At the benefit there were two white footballs signed by Kenny King that were being auctioned off. There was a bouncy house at the benefit that was awesome, barbeque, a live auction table, a horseshoe tournament, and a band playing. I hope Riley gets better soon.

Also there was a lady at the benefit named Jonica and her husband Keith. They offered to give me some old tin off of her old roof to fix my treehouse. When we went out to get the tin, she had two dogs, a herd of goats, a flock of chickens, a cat, a duck, and a cow. When I went to meet the goats, there was one kid you could hold like a dog even though it was heavy. But it was so fluffy and worth it. Thanks, Jonica and Keith, for the tin!

Drugs in the News

Reduce Gout Pain with New Medication

The Food and Drug Administration has approved a new medication to help reduce a high amount of uric acid in the blood. It is intended to be used in combination with another class of medication called a xanthine oxidase inhibitor (XOI). Zuranpic (lesnuarid) works in the kidney to eliminate uric acid into the urine and out of the body. The FDA approved Zuranpic after a careful review of the safety and efficacy data from twelve month long clinical trials in over one thousand five hundred patients.

An increased amount of uric acid in the blood is often associated with a type of arthritis called gout. Increased uric acid in the blood can lead to the formation of crystals in the joints which can be very painful. Symptoms of gout include swelling, pain, and stiffness of the big toe, ankles, knees, or other joints. Gout attacks may cause pain for a few days to weeks and may not reappear for another few months or years.

Livestock producers reminded to report forage losses

Donley County USDA Farm Service Agency (FSA) Executive Director Vance Killian reminds livestock producers who suffered grazing losses that occurred throughout 2015 due to drought or wildfire that they have until Feb. 1, 2016, to report their losses and to enroll in the Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP).

LFP provides compensation to eligible livestock producers who suffered grazing losses for covered livestock due to drought on privately-owned or cash-leased land or fire on federally-managed land. Producers in Donley County are eligible to apply for 2015 LFP benefits on small grain, native pasture, improved pasture. Livestock producers are encouraged to contact the Donley County FSA Office with any questions regarding specific forage crops that are eligible.

Livestock producers must complete the LFP application and required supporting documentation no later than Feb. 1, 2016, for losses that occurred throughout

Eighth and Seventh grade Colts stun Memphis

The eighth grade Colts left Memphis with a big win last Monday night at 28-25. The Colts used a huge third quarter to open the game over the Cyclones and get the win.

Memphis led after one, but the Colts came back to lead by two at the break. Their third quarter surge gave them the confidence to play solid, fundamental basketball and outscore their opponent for the win. Jamal Butler put in 14 and Collin Butler added nine. Clay Ward had three and Trent Smith put in two.

"This was a pretty close game," coach Brad Elam said. "It was back and forth a lot and there was not much offense from either team in the first half. But we got hot in the third quarter and took a commanding lead. However, Memphis was able to tie the game with time running down, but with less than a minute to go, Collin Butler rebounded a missed free throw and put it back in the for the lead, and Clay Ward nailed two free throws to seal the game."

The seventh grade Colts played hard, but could not stop a good Memphis team taking a 14-29 loss on the Cyclones' court. The Colts had a slow start and could never get any offense going against the Cyclones. Memphis took advantage of that and got the win.

"I thought the boys played really well," Elam said. "We just couldn't make many shots. We did get plenty of good shots. Defensively, we played one of the better games of the year. We worked hard and were in the correct place most of the time."

Aaron Roys, Chase Gwinn, and Ivan Gonzalez each had four, and Robert McGuire put in two. The Colts participated in the Childress Basketball Tournament over the weekend and the seventh grade took on Wellington in the first round and was defeated 9-27. The Colts struggled offensively and could never get anything going. Gwinn hit one three-pointer and a field goal to put five points on the board, and McGuire and Gonzales each finished two each. They played Quanah in the second round and lost 14-21. Roys and Gonzalez finished with five each, and Zane Sneathen put in four.

The eighth grade Colts participated in the tournament as well and was defeated by Wellington in the first round 13-30. After struggling the first half, the Colts got things rolling offensively in the fourth quarter to make up some ground. J. Butler had nine and Smith and C. Butler each put in two points. They took on Quanah in the second round and earned a huge 29-25 win.

After trailing the first quarter, the Colts regrouped and turned up the heat offensively. They tied the game at 13 all at the break and took the lead in the third quarter. They were able to execute their offense and add to the lead in the final period. J. Butler put in 17 points to lead the team on the scoreboard and C. Butler and Trent Smith each added six.

Both Colt teams will play Wellington at home Monday, February 1, beginning at 5:00 p.m.

Lady Colts handle Memphis at home

The seventh grade Lady Colts had no trouble handling Memphis at home last Monday night and posted a 48-17 win. Ashlynn Newsome was strong offensively and led the ladies on the scoreboard with 16.

The Lady Colts scored 17 the first quarter while shutting out their opponent. They only allowed Memphis four points before the break. Their dominance was never in jeopardy as they played solid defense the entire game.

Jade Benson finished with nine, Amnesty Oatman had eight, and Kaylin Hicks put in seven. Zhala Basset had four, and Kailee Osburn and Aubrey Jaramillo each had two.

The eighth grade Lady Colts played hard but struggled to get anything going against a strong Memphis team. They finished the game with a loss at 22-38.

The Lady Colts trailed the game in its entirety but were never out of it until the buzzer. They faced a cold-shooting game and could not find a rhythm offensively. Kira Weatherthorn had 10, Madi Gay 6, Raynee Newsome 4, and Darcie Hunsaker 2.

The seventh grade Lady Colts participated in the Wellington Tournament. The Lady Colts took on Shamrock in the first round. They worked hard to stay solid on both ends of the court and it paid off as they won big at 51-9.

The ladies scored 36 points in the first quarter, as they were unstoppable offensively. They only allowed their opponent five points the entire first three quarters. Newsome, Oatman, and Benson finished in double figures with 14, 13, and 10 points respectively. Taviona Hearn and Zhala Basset helped with four each, and Malerie Simpson, Hicks, and Roxie Adams each had two.

The faced off against a good Wellington team in the second round and were defeated, 24-45.

The Lady Colts struggled to get anything going and could never find a rhythm on either end of the court. Newsome 6, Benson 5, Hicks 4, Basset 4, Brooke Duncan 2n Hearn 2, and Oatman 1.

Both Lady Colt teams will take on Wellington on the road February 1 at 5:00 p.m.

Bronco JV keep winning record

The Bronco junior varsity had to dig deep at home Friday night to get a well-earned win over the Rockets at 42-38. They fought hard the entire game and never quit.

Wellington jumped out to the early lead early in the game and held it through the first half of play claiming a seven-point lead at the break. But the Broncos fought back in the third quarter to outscore their opponent and tie the game at 30 all. The Broncos hit 12 for 18 free throws in the game, which was a positive in the win and gave Clarendon the advantage in the game.

Isaac Dunham was solid inside hitting 15 points in the game and giving five for five from the bonus line.

Bear Smith also had a solid game hitting 11 points and shooting 75 percent from the line. Noab Elam finished with nine and, Preston Elam had seven. Daquawne Oliver had four, and Kennrick Addington put in two.

The Broncos will travel to Wheeler Friday, January 29, and take on Memphis at home February 2.

Lady Broncos grab first District win

By Sandy Anderberg

The Lady Broncos traveled to Shamrock last Tuesday night and earned their first District win at 43-35.

The game was close in the first half with just four points separating the teams at the break. Determined to get the win, the Lady Broncos came out after the break and executed their offense good enough to take the lead and outscore the Lady Irish by nine points and take a five-point lead in to the final quarter.

Defensively, the Lady Broncos stayed strong and focused to get the eight-point win. Brianna Butler scored 14 points to lead the team, and Hannah Howard put in nine. Hannah Hommel and Berkeley Alexander worked hard inside to score six points each, while Shaelyn Owiti put in four, and Jensen Hatley connected with a three pointer to finish scoring.

On Friday, the Lady Broncos hosted Wellington and lost 21-57. The Lady Broncos suffered from cold shooting and could never get anything going offensively. they were able to shoot 75 percent from the bonus line, but it was not enough to overtake a powerful Lady Rocket team.

Hommel put in eight and Owiti added five points. Allyson Hogan had three, Butler and Emily Johnson each put in two, and Howard had one.

The Lady Broncos will travel to Wheeler on Friday, January 29, and go up against Memphis at home on Tuesday, February 2, at 6:30 pm.

Broncos turn on defense, beat Wellington

By Sandy Anderberg

The Broncos ended their dry period Friday night when they stunned the Wellington Rockets 45-32 in front of a huge hometown crowd.

The Broncos, now 1-2 in District and 17-5 overall, held control of the game from the beginning despite Wellington's attempt to keep it close. The point spread was 10 after the first three quarters of play.

The Broncos seemed to be re-focused after the two early losses and dominated play on both ends of the court. Both teams were strong defensively and dealt with cold shooting early on, which accounted for the low-scoring game. But the Broncos stayed determined and earned a big win.

Bryce Grahn hit two-three pointers and racked up 15 points.

He also added nine of fourteen free throws in the win. Chance Lockhart hit a three-pointer to finish with 11, going 50 percent from the bonus. Colt Wood had and Marshal Johnson each had five, and Junior Cenicerros put in four, while Keandre Cortez and Chesson Sims had two, and Damarjais Cortez finished with one. Lockhart had seven rebounds, and Johnson and Grahn added six each. Grahn had three assists, and Lockhart, Cenicerros, and Wood each helped with two. Grahn had three steals on defense.

"We did a great job of playing team defense the whole game," coach Brandt Lockhart said. "Colt Wood and Keandre Cortez did a great job of playing defense on their best player."

Earlier in the week, the Broncos lost a close one to the Shamrock Irish at 47-54. The Broncos led until the fourth quarter when they struggled to finish the game. The Irish went to the bonus line 17 more times than the Broncos making just over 50 percent. Shamrock was eight for twelve in the fourth quarter, which helped in their 20-point fourth quarter.

"We had too many turnovers and did not have a good fourth quarter," Lockhart said.

Cenicerros pumped in 16 and Johnson had 12. Grahn finished with eight, Lockhart four, K. Cortez and Sims three, and Wood with one. Lockhart grabbed nine rebounds and Johnson helped with seven. Lockhart racked up five assists and Cenicerros had five.

The Broncos will continue their district schedule next Friday, January 29, in Wheeler and host Memphis on Tuesday, February 2, at 8:00 p.m.

Friends and supporters of Buckner International will join host and Amarillo Globe-News columnist Jon Mark Beilue at 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, Feb. 9, for the "From the Heart" benefit at the Amarillo Botanical Gardens, located at 1400 Streit Drive. Proceeds from the event will provide support for vulnerable children and families served through Buckner programs in Amarillo.

Beilue has worked as a writer and editor at the Amarillo Globe-News for 34 years, the last nine years as a general columnist as well as a columnist for Amarillo Magazine. Prior to that, he worked in the sports department for 25 years, first as a sportswriter and assistant sports editor, and for 17 years as sports editor. Beilue has won numerous statewide and national awards for his work. In December 2014, a collection of his columns was published in a book, "This Might Be A Good Story."

"Our primary goal is to empower vulnerable families and children as we seek to help them pave the way for successful futures in hopes of impacting generations to come," said Kathy McGee, executive director for Buckner Children and Family Services. "We are thrilled that Jon Mark has come alongside us at this event as we strive to increase community awareness of how we can partner together to best meet the needs of our local families."

Extension to offer military caregiver Medicare program

By Kay Ledbetter

AMARILLO— "Back to Basics: Medicare," part of the monthly military caregiving professional development webinar series offered through the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service's Military Program, will be at 10 a.m. Jan. 27.

The event is free and open to all who may be interested, but registration is required, said Andy Crocker, principal investigator and AgriLife Extension gerontology and health program specialist in Amarillo.

The webinars provide professional development and interactive resources for those who may not be able to leave their homes for training, Crocker said.

The Military Families Learning Network will provide continuing education credit from the National Association of Social Workers to credentialed participants and certificates of completion for those interested in receiving training hours.

Rachel Brauner, co-principal investigator and program coordinator with AgriLife Extension's Military Program in College Station, said the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services is the largest health payer in the U.S., covering almost 90 million Americans.

Medicare, the federal health insurance program for adults over age 65 and other qualified individuals, accounts for more than 48 million of those Americans through expenditures of more than $545 billion. But there are so many questions surrounding the services, Brauner said. What is Medicare? How does it work? What should military-helping professionals and caregivers know about the program?

This session will provide a broad overview of the Medicare program's Parts A and B as well as introduce the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid National Training Program as a resource for further training and information, she said.

To join the webinar or for more information on the event, go to <https://learn.extension.org/events/2358>. To access previous webinars, go to https://extension-online.tamu.edu/courses/military_caregiving.php. For a list of more webinars in the series, go to <http://www.extension.org/pages/62581>.

Election ID certificates available at driver license offices

The Texas Department of Public Safety (DPS) is reminding Texans in advance of the upcoming Primary Election that Election Identification Certificates (EIC) are available year-round at all Texas driver license offices for individuals in need of proper identification required to vote.

The 2016 Primary Election is March 1, with early voting from Feb. 16-26. The last day to register to vote is Feb. 1.

Texans can obtain an EIC at any of the more than 220 Texas driver license offices during regular business hours throughout the year.

Most residents already have an acceptable form of photo identification needed for voting and will not need or qualify for an EIC. If an applicant already has any of the following documents, they are not eligible to receive an EIC: Texas driver license, Texas personal identification card, US passport book or card, Texas concealed handgun license, US Military identification with photo, or US Citizenship Certificate or Certificate of Naturalization with photo.

The EIC is free of charge to qualifying applicants and is valid for six years. There is no expiration date for an EIC for citizens 70 years of age or older.

The EIC can only be used for the purpose of voting in an election and may not be used as personal identification.

For more information on the requirements, exemptions and process for obtaining an EIC, please visit: <http://www.txdps.state.tx.us/DriverLicense/electionID.htm>. For more information on voting in Texas, visit the Secretary of State's website: www.votetexas.gov.

The Job of a Lifetime!

Taking care of your teeth is a very important job. It takes a lifetime of good habits to keep your teeth healthy and bright.

You know that you need to brush and floss, but did you know that what you eat is important too? A balanced diet will keep you healthy. That alone should give you reason to smile. Also, it is important to remember that foods from the dairy group – milk, yogurt, cheese - will give you calcium needed for strong bones and teeth.

Gee, the dentist won't let us get away with anything.

Read the clues to fill in the crossword puzzle:

- flat grinding tooth in the back of the mouth
- tool for correcting crooked teeth
- doctor who specializes in the care of human teeth
- pain in a tooth, sometimes a sign of a cavity
- sticky buildup on teeth, helps bacteria grow
- rows of hard, bony, white structures in mouth; grind, bite
- tool used to remove tooth decay to prepare for a filling
- sharp front teeth – four on top, four on bottom, used for tearing
- material used to repair a tooth that has tooth decay
- thin outer covering that protects teeth
- mineral treatment that repairs tooth enamel
- clean teeth twice a day using this
- waxed, silky string used to clean between teeth
- gel or paste used with toothbrush to clean teeth
- little hole in a tooth (due to bacteria)
- "eating away" of teeth by acids, causes a cavity
- the part of the tooth seen inside the mouth
- person who cleans and checks teeth
- a way for the dentist to take a picture inside the teeth, even behind the gums
