THIS WEEK

- 2 A local reader has some thoughts about the nation's chief executive.
- 4 Bob has scam warnings from Sheriff Blackburn.
- 5 Clarendon ISD names its servant leaders for the month.
- 6 And a local senior is headed to the state cross country meet.
- All this and much more as The Enterprise reports in this week's amazing edition!

City residents given notice to boil water

The City of Clarendon has issued a boil water notice following a water line break Tuesday morning.

In notice published in this week's Enterprise, residents are advised to boil their water prior to consumption.

To ensure destruction of all harmful bacteria and other microbes, water for drinking, cooking, and making ice should be boiled and cooled prior to use. The water should be brought to a vigorous, rolling boil and then boiled for two minutes. In lieu of boiling, purchase bottled water or obtain water from another source.

Once testing confirms the city's water is safe, the Enterprise will update readers through ClarendonLive.com, Facebook, and Twitter.

Voters casting early ballots thru Nov. 2

Early voting began Monday for this year's General Election and will continue through next Friday, November 2, at the Donley County Courthouse Annex.

There is only one contested race at the county level this year as County/District Clerk Fay Vargas (D) faces a challenge from Republican Robert "Bobby" Woodard

Other local candidates running unopposed are County Judge John Howard, County Treasurer Wanda Smith, Precinct 1&2 Justice of the Peace Pamela Mason, Pat White for Precinct 3&4 Justice of the Peace, Precinct 4 Commissioner Dan Sawyer, and Precinct 2 Commissioner Daniel Ford.

Also of local interest, US Rep. Mac Thornberry (R-Clarendon) is being challenged by Democrat Greg Sagan and Libertarian Calvin DeWeese. State Sen. Kel Seliger (R-Amarillo) faces Libertarian Jack B. Westbrook, and State Rep. Ken King (R-Canadian) is being challenged by Democrat Ezekiel Barron.

The General Election day will be Tuesday, November 6.

Grant applications are now available

The Donley County Community Fund is now accepting applications from qualified nonprofit organizations for a $1,000 grant to be awarded this year.

All grant applicants must be from Donley County. Grant applications must be received by Friday, November 16, at 5 p.m..

To determine your organization's eligibility to apply, contact Jacob Fangman at 874-3556. Applications are available from Fangman at Herring Bank or at the Clarendon Visitor Center.

Signs of progress

The 400 block of Collinson Street was closed to through traffic Tuesday morning as workers with LA Fuller & Sons began the work of laying pipe as part of Clarendon's $3.9 million water infrastructure improvement program. Excavations will continue this week on Collinson, McLean, and Third streets. Meanwhile, on the east side of town, a portion of Jackson Street remains closed as workers continue to build the new water standpipe there. City Administrator David Dockery asks motorists to avoid those areas for worker safety and says some water customers may have intermittent loss of service as utility crews tie in the new lines.

CC, WTAMU pact assists nursing students

Clarendon College nursing students now have an easy path to earn bachelor's degree from West Texas A&M University after the two institutions signed a new articulation agreement last week.

CC President Robert Riza called the agreement "an outstanding opportunity for our students" and had high praise for the support that WTAMU President Walter Wendler has shown to community college

"You will not find a more supportive university president of community colleges than Walter Wendler," Dr. Riza said.

Wendler returned that respect for the CC president and also praised Clarendon nursing program.

"I have tremendous respect for Robert," Wendler said, "and you have a tremendous faculty and staff at Clarendon College that will go hand in hand and make perfect partnership with us."

WTAMU Undergraduate Nursing Program Coordinator Marietta Branson said the agreement allows nursing students to get their RN through Clarendon College and then finish their BSN at WT.

"You get your core requirements at Clarendon and then do the final 30 hours at WT in residence and in upper level classes," Branson said.

The agreement will allow associate's degree receiving students with up to 90 credit hours to automatically initiate the transfer process for a bachelor's degree at WTAMU even before enrolling. Formalizing the transition will allow aspiring RN licensed nurses opportunity to scholarships, academic support and advising resources at WTAMU.

CC students transferring into WT's BSN program under the agreement will qualify for a scholarship of $225 per course, WT officials said.

Clarendon College Director of Allied Health Sabrina McCain said the agreement will help keep talented students working in the region and fight "brain drain" - a phrase that describes when smart, talented rural youth leave their communities for urban jobs.

"This benefits students and the community," McCain said.

With the convenience of online courses, the nursing program at WTAMU serves hundreds of transfer colleges across the country and has received nearly 50 national rankings since 2014. Students are able

Arts festival to feature two cultural workshops

Cultural workshops are planned as part of the tenth annual Clarendon Arts Festival will be held this Saturday and Sunday, October 27 and 28, at the Donley County Activity Center, and this year.

Organizers have been working all week setting up displays and taking entries for the festival, which will also feature Junior Art exhibits by students from Kindergarten through high school.

The event, sponsored by Clarendon's Les Beaux Arts Club, opens to the public this Saturday from 9:00 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Amarillo artist D. Maldonado will host a special workshop Saturday as she shares a part of her yearly Dia de Los Muertos series and Mexican folk art craft projects.

Día de los Muertos, or Day of the Dead, is not a Mexican version of Halloween. Though related, the two annual events differ greatly in traditions and tone. Whereas Halloween is a dark night of terror and mischief, Day of the Dead festivities unfold over two days in an explosion of color and life-affirming joy. Sure, the theme is death, but the point is to demonstrate love and respect for deceased family members.

In towns and cities throughout Mexico, revelers don funky makeup and costumes, hold parades and parties, sing and dance, and make offerings to lost loved ones. This vibrant homage to life is a true community event and one of the most charming and colorful holidays celebrated by Mexican and Latin American cultures. This lighthearted and joyful tribute honors the memory of family and friends who have passed away in a fun and immersive atmosphere.

There will be two workshops hosted throughout the day on Satur-

A Mexican Bingo "Loteria" Matchbox Magnets workshops will be at 9:30 a.m., 3:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m. - These small matchbox magnets are fun, functional, unique, and colorful. In this workshop you will make two Matchbox Magnets from the images of a Loteria/Mexican Bingo game card. Space is limited so be sure to secure your spot early.

A Paper Mache Sugar Skull Workshop will also be held Saturday. The iconic sugar skull associated with Day of the Dead is liked for many reasons; some aesthetically and some for the cultural aspect of what the skull represents within the Dia de los Muertos Holiday. Calaveritas de azucar, or sugar skulls, along with toys, are left on the graves for children who have passed. The skull is used not as morbid symbol but rather as a whimsical reminder of the cyclicality of life, which is why they are brightly decorated. The sugar represents the sweetness of life and the skull represents death. In this workshop you will paint and decorate a 3D paper mache skull as artist D. Maldonado guides you and explains how to customize your skull. The Sugar Skull painting workshop is 10:30 a.m. and the only one like it offered. Again, space is limited so be sure to sign up and reserve your spot early.

White House protest rules need protest

By Gene Policinski

The White House.

To the world, it's the image of the United States. To Americans, it's the "us" in U.S. - and the universally recognized metaphor for the president and the administration behind him.

And for at least 100 years, it's been the prime spot for demonstrators focused on many of society's most important issues - war and peace, abortion and gun rights, health care policies and more.

In First Amendment terms, the White House may well be the premier place we go to exercise our rights of free speech, to assemble peaceably and to petition the government for redress of grievances.

The usual space for protests is on the White House's north side, on a sidewalk along Pennsylvania Avenue, and across the street in the park-like Lafayette Square. While the immediate streets are now closed to vehicles due to terrorist concerns, the sidewalks and green spaces still see daily protests – from a single person adorned with handmade signs to organized rallies that fill the square and beyond.

But the National Park Service has now proposed new regulations and is considering new fees that thousands fear will dissuade most demonstrators from protesting "at the White House." Park service officials want to limit protesters to a narrow, five-foot strip on the curb side of the 25-foot sidewalk and may establish new charges for security, trash clean-up and such things as "harm to turf."

The park service argues the changes are needed to help cover higher costs of dealing with what it says is an increasing number of demonstrations. Critics say the moves are a poorly disguised attempt by the Trump administration to thwart visible, anti-Trump protesters - and even dispute the claim of more protests than in previous years.

According to news reports, more than 10,000 people have responded to a public comment period on the new regulations that ended Monday - most in strong opposition.

What would we lose if we moved demonstrations away from the White House?

No less than a century of permitting citizens to send a direct, audible and visible message to the occupant of the Executive Mansion.

In January 1917, a dozen women met in Lafayette Square to start a protest that eventually led to a constitutional amendment granting women the right to vote. The women - called the "Silent Sentinels" are credited by some historians with creating the first picket line at the White House. Rain or shine, six days a week, they quietly held signs asking, "How Long Must Women Wait For Liberty?" and "Mr. President, What Will You Do for Woman Suffrage?" They stayed on line until June 1919, when Congress sent the 19th Amendment to the states for ratification.

During WWII, crowds were reported to have gathered periodically on the sidewalks at the White House – including a huge gathering Aug. 14, 1945, to hear the news from President Harry S. Truman that the war had ended.

President Lyndon B. Johnson was taunted in the late 1960s by Vietnam War protesters outside the White House, who chanted loud enough to be heard in the White House at all hours: "Hey, hey LBJ - how many kids did you kill today?" During the Nixon administration a few years later, President Richard Nixon could hear car horns beeping - Watergate protestors would ask passing cars to "honk if you think Nixon should be impeached."

Since Trump took office Jan. 20, 2017, Lafayette Square has been a regular stop for marches and demonstrations, though those in the massive Women's March a day after the inauguration were prevented from entering the square because of the viewing stands and security fences that remained from the inaugural parade – obstacles that remained into March.

Yes, social media greatly expands the reach of a march anywhere in Washington, D.C. - and online campaigns potentially reach thousands if not millions more. But the unique opportunity for the physical voices of citizens to be heard across the White House grounds remains a unique feature of American democ-

Yes, there surely are expenses associated with protests and other demonstrations, at the White House and other public areas that might also be affected, but as a nation, we have in the past found ways to absorb such relatively low costs as a price of democracy.

Core freedoms should not be dissected, disassembled or denied via a balance sheet. And there's hardly anything more un-American than finding back-door ways to mute our right to protest, with vigor and passion and at times with volume, at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W.

Amon Carter and Fort Worth, Texas

By all accounts, the late Amon Carter Sr. was the "real deal." This icon - founder of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram in 1906 – was a "mover and shaker" who would gain wide renown.

Never one to sit back and watch, his "MO" was to dive in and deal. He was to Fort Worth and Texas what the energizer bunny is to battery-powered devices, this major player in "all things Fort Worth" for more than 40 years.

His newspaper had the largest circulation in the South for many years, and its success spawned his entry into electronic journalism. He established Radio Station WBAP in 1922, and its ultimate "clear channel" licensure assured the largest geographic daytime coverage of any station in the USA. In 1948, WBAP-TV was Texas' first television station, beginning with "live" coverage of a visit to Fort Worth by President Harry S. Truman....

A leader in philanthropy, Carter was successful in business from an early age. It may have stemmed from sandwich sales on passenger trains stopping in Bowie, not far from his birthplace in

He boldly hawked "fried chicken sandwiches" to travelers. (It was speculated that his profits were enhanced by substituting rabbit for chicken. Rabbits abounded in the rural community.)

Wise County.

Carter "rubbed shoulders" with political leaders, as well as luminaries such as Will Rogers and Bob Hope. His friends knew they could always find the best of "R&R" at Amon's Shady Oaks Farm....

Carter is remembered for his "dissing of Dallas." He avoided ever spending a dime in Dallas, and was said to take sandwiches to maintain his vow during day american visits there. by don newbury

Decades after Carter's death, however,

Ruth Carter Stevenson, his late daughter, surprised a Texas Press Association Convention with the revelation that her parents had honeymooned at Dallas' Adolphus Hotel.

Amon's competitive spirit with "Big D" came alive in 1936, when the Texas Centennial Exposition was going full bore at Fair Park....

He encouraged visits "to Dallas for culture and Fort Worth for fun." Many "Big D" leaders were flummoxed that thousands of exposition visitors opted to check out the "frontier exposition" offered by Carter in Cowtown.

A nearby "cow pasture" became a midway of exhibits, sideshows, a "wild west" extravaganza and a musical circus. They had an outdoor amphitheater, and featured Billy Rose, a noted composer, and Sally Rand, an acclaimed fan dancer.

Rose's "show of shows" - produced in record time – was performed on "the world's largest revolving stage."...

Were he alive today, he'd have "hip deep" involvement in at least two mammoth projects, one a trail and the other a train. Both are scheduled for the early

Costs of both projects are "jawdroppers." The trails – proposed for walkers and cyclists – stretch 64 miles, meandering from Benbrook to Dallas. Cost of the trails is expected to be some $40 million. The 250-mile rail project – featuring Japanese-made bullet trains reaching speeds of 205 MPH – is expected to exceed $12 billion....

Who knows what Carter might have

Few figures in Texas history compare to this bigger-than-life magnate. The late Jerry Flemmons, an all-time great Star-Telegram writer, captured the essence of this icon in Amon: the Life of Amon Carter Sr. of Texas. It is nothing

Warren DNA not all that much Indian

"My daddy always said he fell head over heels in love with my mother the first time he saw her. But my daddy's parents, the Herrings, were bitterly opposed to their marrying because my mother's family, the Reeds, was part Native American. This sort of discrimination was common at the time. So when my momma was 19 and my daddy was 20, they eloped. And together they built a family, my three older brothers and

This is the story that Senator Elizabeth Warren bases her claims of Cherokee heritage.

Because of this tale from her father, Warren has presented herself as Native American in legal directories and to forward her political validity. However, many republicans have refuted her claims for quite a while.

Finally, the DNA test results have come in and show that Native American ancestry might have exited in Warren's family tree anywhere between 6 and 10 generations ago. This would make her between 1/64th and 1/1024th Native American. Given that the DNA wasn't directly traced to 6 generations, it can be assumed that if any, Warren is 1/2024th (0.09%) Native American.

As stated by the Washington Times, the average European American has 0.18% Native American. Also, according to the genetics researcher, Warren's DNA matched natives from Peru, Mexico, and Colombia rather than the Cherokee.

The test results show that Elizabeth Warren is more white than the average American even though she claims to be less and, of course, has been the butt of many jokes from many people, including President Trump. Additionally, the Cherokee Nation have come out saying, "Senator Warren is undermining tribal interests with her continued claims of tribal heritage."

Personally, I don't know why Warren would even take the DNA test. By doing so, she opened the possibility of the proof backfiring on her rather than in her favor, which it has. So why did Elizabeth Warren do this instead of just claiming to be Cherokee? The answer is politics.

Warren knows that without that foothold to a minority group, her political opportunities decrease drastically in the view of the left. That is because the left's fuel is identity politics. To determine your political validity, the left examines how "oppressed" the group that person identifies with is. With Warren being whiter than the average white person, it will be hard for her to compete with other candidates, such as Cory Booker or Kamala Harris, in an election.

Sheriff reminds public of scams

Hi, gang! With the holidays debit card or coming, it's time to have a refresher Green Dot course on various scams. Please card. To check read, copy and pass on to "us" older the status of folks. Scammers love to talk to our your Senior Citizens they are easy targets. ness account Bob

"Scams reminder from Sheriff scam call the Blackburn," Donley County Sher- number on iff's Department.

The Donley County Sheriff's Department has received phone calls from concerned citizens about being contacted by possible scammers. Scammers can spoof any phone number and claim to be anyone they want. Spoofing has become a popular way for scammers to contact people. Spoofing is described as altering the phone number that shows up on a caller ID in order to masquerade as someone else. They can make it look like they are calling from any business or phone number information and bill you for phony that they choose. Some of the most popular scams that we hear about number that comes up in an error are IRS, Greenbelt Electric (call this number to check. 806-447-2536), Southwestern Electric Power (call this number to check 1-800-723-7430), Microsoft, Craigslist, the contact you to provide unsolicited grandparent scam, and law enforcement officers claiming that you have a warrant or that a family member has been arrested and needs to be bailed out of jail.

The Donley County Sheriff's Department will not call to enforce will send you a check, money order, any outstanding IRS taxes. The IRS will never call and demand immediate payment on owed taxes and will always send a letter in the mail before contacting anyone. If you feel like you might owe taxes, you can call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040. You can report any attempted scams your last bill. There have been cases in the past in which the victim was contacted by a scammer claiming to be with Microsoft. These scammers will contact you by phone or email. They try to trick you in to installing malicious software that can capture sensitive data, such as online banking user names and passwords. They will try to convince you to download software to allow them to take control of your computer remotely. They will request credit card services. Do not call any phone message on your computer. Microsoft's error and warning messages never include a phone number. Microsoft will never proactively PC or technical support. Any communication with Microsoft must be initiated by you.

We have seen with Craigslist that a buyer will contact you and want to purchase your item. They or a cashier's check for more than the agreed upon price and ask you to cash the check and wire or send back the difference. The payment method that was sent is counterfeit, but will often be cashed by your bank and discovered as a fraud later. ing or selling online.

The grandparent scam is very common. The typical grandparent scam begins with a male or female You should be suspicious if the caller saying "grandma or "grandpa" and is requiring you to use a prepaid the victim saying is this (fill in the name of your grandchild)? The person says yes this is (your grandchild's name) and (I am in trouble, there's been an accident, I am in jail, I am stuck in a foreign country) and I need your help. They ask you not to tell anyone else and sometimes even put a "police officer" on the phone to talk to you and give you directions on how to pay a bail. They ask you to go to a certain place and buy gift cards or wire money to pay for whatever type of help is needed. They make this seem very urgent and make the victim feel flustered to get them to act on this before checking into the story. In 2017 the FTC reported that $328 million was lost to this scam alone.

A law enforcement agency will not contact you and demand payment over the phone in order to pay a warrant or to bond someone out of jail. Donley County Sheriff's Office will NOT have a bond company call you or recommend a company for you to use.

We will also not contact you and tell you to pay a fine for not appearing for jury duty. If you feel like you might have a warrant and want to check, you can call Donley County Sheriff's Department at 806-874-3533.

Be extremely cautious of anyone asking you to put cash on iTunes cards or any other type of gift cards to pay back taxes, settle debts, pay a bill, obtain loans or grants or pay for merchandise. In almost every case, the caller turns out to be a thief, and the consumer loses their money. Never wire money, provide your debit/credit card or give any personal information to an unverified source.

If you have been the victim of a scam you can call the Donley County Sheriff's Department at 806-874-3533. Please keep this information on hand so that you can pass it on to friends and family members who might not have received it.

Stay safe out there!

Servant Leaders named for Sept.

Again this year, Clarendon CISD Superintendent Mike Norrell says the school is recognizing students who embody the servant leader culture and actions.

"True leadership is rooted in the service of others," Norrell says. "Servant leaders believe that every person has value and deserves respect and that people can accomplish many things, even great things, when inspired by a purpose beyond themselves.

"To be a servant leader is to think of others first and place their needs before your own, to be kind and generous, and to be a positive influence.

"Furthermore, anyone and everyone can be a servant leader, and if we have a campus, school, community, nation, and world of those that respect others and sacrifice their time, efforts, and treasures, then we all benefit."

To foster a culture of servant leadership, CCISD will recognize monthly students from all campuses that demonstrate the characteristics and actions of being a servant leader.

The following Clarendon students have been positive role models and leaders, willing to help others in class without being asked, ethical, courteous and pleasant, respectful to teachers, other adults, and classmates.

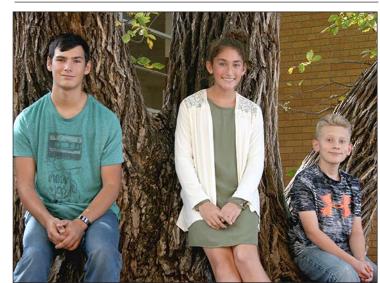

In addition the following students have surprised a new student with a birthday gift and picked up trash on their own.

Servant leaders recognized for September are:

Overstreet to run at State CC meet

By Sandy Anderberg

Bronco senior Kenny Overstreet has been pounding the streets and knocking on the door of a state appearance all season long. The runner has been consistently in the top ten finishers all year and Monday reaped the benefits of his hard work. Overstreet finished seventh in the Regional Meet held at Mae Simmons Park in Lubbock and punched his ticket to the State CC Meet to be held in Old Settlers Park in Round Rock on November 3.

His time for the three-mile course was 17:17.90, which was a little over two minutes off the winning time set by Steven Quintanilla of Sundown. The Broncos finished in 16th place as a team.

"It was a very rewarding day for Kenny," coach Kalen Grahn said. "He was committed to getting back to the state and he dropped his time by twenty-four seconds on this course. Kenny is a very hard working and humble young man and we have 11 days to keep working to drop more time."

Gavin Hall finished the race in 55th place with a time of 18:59.50, and Caton Grahn finished 86th with a time of 20:02.50. Jodee Pigg ran the course in a time of 22:21.90 for 132nd place, and Brandon Santos finished in 141st place at 29:32.50.

"Gavin Hall had a very productive day as well," Grahn said. "He dropped over a minute of time off this course. He did not advance, but he is placing himself in position to be another runner in the future to make a trip to Austin. Caton Grahn has come out to run for us to make a team and I am very grateful for his contribution. Jodee Pigg ran a competitive race and he is in position to go to the next level as well. Brandon Santos has been a reliable steady runner for the past four seasons. He will be missed."

The Lady Broncos also ran at Regionals finishing 14th as a team led by Madi Smith, who finished 26th with a time of 13:06.80. Lillie Dale was 71st at 13:55.10, and Aubrey Jaramillo was 95th with a time of 14:24.20. Emeri Robinson was 111th at 14:48.90, and Brooke Duncan ran the course in 15:05.00 for 124th place. Gracie Shadle was 140th with a time of 15:30.80, and Brandalyn Ellis was 142nd with a time of 15:31.60.

THE CITY OF HOWARDWICK will be taking sealed bids for the following: Coleman 27 gal 5 hp Compressor and 5 ft Woods Brush Bull. All sealed bids must be turned into the city secretary by noon, Tuesday, November 9th. Bids will be opened at the council meeting that evening.

BOIL WATER NOTIFICATION: Due to line break, the Texas Commission on Environmental Quality (TCEQ) has required our system, City of Clarendon Water System, PWS #0650001 to notify customers of the need to boil their water prior to consumption. To ensure destruction of all harmful bacteria and other microbes, water for drinking, cooking, and making ice should be boiled and cooled prior to use. The water should be brought to a vigorous, rolling boil and then boiled for two minutes. In lieu of boiling, you may purchase bottled water or obtain water from another source. When it is no longer necessary to boil water, the water system officials will notify you that the water is safe for consumption. Instructions to discontinue boiling will be issued in the same manner as this notice. If you have questions concerning this matter, you may call John Molder or David Dockery at (806) 874-3438.

If customer wishes to contact TCEQ, they may call (512) 239-4691.
