THE PROPHET JEREMIAH
International Sunday School Lesson for October 15, 1935.

Golden Text: "To whomsoever I shall speak thou shalt go, and whatsoever I shall command thee thou shalt speak." Jeremiah 1:7.

Lesson Text: Jeremiah 1:8-10; 28:1-4.

For five weeks our lessons will be based on selections from the book of Jeremiah. This is the longest of the prophetic writings. The twenty-five chapters consist largely of various discourses uttered by the prophet, not necessarily in chronological order, while the remainder of the book recites various events and episodes of the prophet's forty years activity. Jeremiah is a very interesting character, a man who followed the line of duty through very hard and unfavorable tasks.

Jeremiah was born at Anathoth, a little town a few miles from Jerusalem, not very far from the birthplace of the prophet, Amos. Early in life, Jeremiah came to Jerusalem where he was the ally of the good King Josiah in his various efforts to reform the people of Judah. Throughout the reign of the last five kings of the nation Jeremiah continued to preach the inevitable judgment approaching his countrymen for their sin and repudiation of Jehovah which culminated with the captivity of Jerusalem and the captivity of a great number who were carried to Babylon. Jeremiah remained in Judah for a few years afterwards then went into Egypt, where tradition asserts that he met a martyr's death.

In the first chapter of the book Jeremiah tells of the divine call which he received and relates how he sought to avoid the duty of preaching the destruction of his people by remonstrating with the Lord that he was not a good speaker. In this respect he was like Moses, who sought to avoid his call to service by saying, "I am not eloquent." Other great leaders of Israel had done likewise, Saul, Joshua Paul, Mark, etc. But God knows the hearts and possibilities of men and he refused to accept Jeremiah's excuse, saying to him that he should not be afraid for Jehovah would be with him. So God spoke to Moses and so did Jesus himself subsequently tell his followers that they should not be anxious as to what they should speak when called in question for their ministry.

It required a great deal of courage for Jeremiah to accept and carry out his mission so thankless and unappreciated by those he sought to save. The priests and prophets of his day were corrupt and worldly-minded. The kings and rulers were devoid for the most part, of any serious religious acceptance of Jehovah, and the people, as a whole had been drawn to the worship of various idols and the neglect of their spiritual well-being. To these, Jeremiah was asked to deliver a message of condemnation, punishment and sorrow, which by its very nature was a declaration that would array the recipients against him, laying him open to being called a false prophet and a traitor to his country. Regardless of this, unmindful of his own townspeople, who sought to take his life, the treachery of his own family, or the punishment which infuriated rulers meted out to him, Jeremiah persevered in delivering his unpopular and rejected message. That required a high moral courage and a fidelity to duty rarely encountered in human beings.

Men have been very often called upon in the centuries past to plead unpopular causes and to oppose the pursuit of error by their own popularity and the liability of personal suffering and persecution. To oppose one's own country when it goes to war requires much fortitude and reserved moral strength but it has been done. Lord Chatham fought the British war on the American Colonies John Bright opposed the policy of his nation in the Crimean War and, during the Boer War, there were English statesmen who condemned it thoroughly. Our readers may probably remember the German Prince, Lichnowsky who, during the World War, issued his book attacking some of the claims and representations of the ruling clique. The same great need for courage and frankness in religious matters has been evidenced in the lives of many great leaders, whose words and actions show that they were sustained by a firm assurance that God was on their side. Bishop Latimer was once rebuked by Henry 8th and ordered to apologize for some of his remarks in a sermon. As he began to preach the following Sunday, he audibly reminded himself that he was speaking before the King of England who could take his life, but, further, that he was ambassador of the King of Kings and had orders to deliver his message. So John Knox declared, "I am in a place where conscience bids me speak the truth," and Luther made his celebrated avowal: "Here I stand; I cannot otherwise; God help me." Such men as these, Huss, Wycliffe and many others, had the same moral courage that Nathan possessed of old when he dared to accuse and condemn the great King David for his sin.

Jeremiah faithfully delivered his painful message. At the gate of the temple on the festival day, at the royal palace, at the gates of the city, or wherever he could obtain the largest audience, this faithful servant of duty delivered the condemnation of God to his hearers. Those who were entrusted with religion had proved faithless and Jeremiah quotes God to them, "the pastors are become brutish and have not sought the Lord." The expedient and false prophets received this message from God through him, "the prophets lie in my name; I sent them not, neither have I commanded them, neither spake I unto them." Even Zedekiah, the king, received a message from God in all its frankness and condemnation, unsoftened from the mouth of this stern but sorrowing statesman, for when Zedekiah enquired as to the approaching Babylonian invasion, he was told of the pestilence, sword, famine and captivity that awaited his people. Then, warned Jeremiah, God had said: "I myself will fight against you with an outstretched hand and a strong arm, even in anger and in fury, and in great wrath." Is it any wonder that such condemnation brought upon him the enmity of those he assailed?

In the 26th chapter, we see Jeremiah in peril from the united opposition and hatred of the rulers, priests and prophets. Because he had dared to cry out that the temple would utterly be destroyed as occurred at Shiloh, the false priests and prophets assailed him and challenged his right to speak for Jehovah. To do this meant death and the ancient people of Judah, like most people of today would do, refused to accept a message which condemned them spiritually and nationally and read in the future the punishment which awaited them.

So, accusing him of being a traitor to his people and a blasphemer, just as Jesus was subsequently accused, the priests and prophets arraigned him before the people. Jeremiah's answer was that he uttered the message of God and he reiterated his call that they repent and mend their ways so that Jehovah might relent. But realizing that he was in their power, he warned them that if they put him to death they would bring innocent blood upon their hands. So earnest and impressive was his defense that the verdict of the princes and people was that "this man is not worthy to die, for he has spoken to us in the name of the Lord our God." Unfortunately for Judah, however, they did not believe this sufficiently to turn from their evil ways and destruction came upon them.

CITY ORDINANCE

An ordinance defining and authorizing the licensing of dealers in second hand or used motor vehicles, prohibiting the use of public streets, alleys, marts and squares by such dealers as such, repealing all ordinances in conflict herewith, providing a penalty and declaring an emergency.

Be It Ordained by the City Council of the City of Haskell.

Section 1

No person or persons, corporation or firm, association or copartnership shall hereafter pursue the business of dealing in second hand or used motor vehicles upon any public street, alley, square, market place or mart within the corporate limits of the City of Haskell, nor shall any person or person, corporation or firm, association or copartnership solicit business for any dealer in second hand or used motor vehicles in or upon any public street, alley, mart, square or market place within the corporate limits of the City of Haskell either in person or by posting signs, placards or any other advertising.

Section 2

No person or persons, corporation or firm, association or copartnership shall hereafter pursue the business of dealing in second hand or used motor vehicles or solicit such business for any dealer as defined in Section 1 hereof within the corporate limits of the City of Haskell at any place other than as prohibited in Section 1 hereof, without having first secured a permit from the City Council of the City of Haskell and having paid a license fee therefor as is hereinafter provided.

Section 3

Any person or persons, corporation or firm, association or copartnership desiring to pursue the business of dealing in second hand or used motor vehicles or solicit such business for any dealer as defined in Section 1 hereof within the corporate limits of the City of Haskell, at any other place than as prohibited in Section 1 hereof shall make application in writing to the City Council of the City of Haskell for a permit to conduct such business, said application shall set out the name of the party desiring such permit, the premises upon which it is desired to conduct such business. Such application shall also show with exactness all private residences within one hundred yards of such premises or any part thereof if such premises be an open lot or yard or any part thereof be open and not an enclosed building. Such application shall be passed upon by the City Council within 90 days from the date such application is filed with the City Secretary of the City of Haskell, provided however that if such premises or part thereof be an open lot as above set out public notice of such application shall be given in some newspaper published in the City of Haskell for at least ten days prior to the granting of the permit giving notice of such application and setting a time for a public hearing thereon. After such public hearing the City Council

Section 7.
Any person violating any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in any sum not less than $5.00 nor more than $100.00 and each day such business is pursued or solicited shall be deemed a separate offense and punishable as such.

The fact that no adequate regulations exist in the City of Haskell governing such dealers in second hand or used motor vehicles and the fact that the operation of such business without adequate regulations has created nuisances to nearby residences and the fact that the public streets, sidewalks and alleys are blockaded and will be blockaded creates an emergency and imperative public necessity that the rules calling for ordinances to be read at three several meetings be suspended and that this ordinance take effect from and after its passage, and it is so ordained.

Passed and approved this 3rd day of October, A. D. 1935.

HASKELL MERCHANTS TRIM WINDOWS FOR FAIR

The public square of Haskell will reflect the spirit of Haskell County's Golden Jubilee Celebration with the merchants and business men of the town cooperating in decorating their stores and show windows in a manner typical of the old west or picturing some phase of the history and development of the County.

The Fair Association is offering prizes in this connection for the decoration of show windows. The prizes will consist of season tickets to the fair or races, four season tickets being given to the store taking first place, three to the store winning second, two to the store winning third and one to the store winning fourth. Appropriate ribbons will be given to all winners and to the winners of fifth and sixth places.

These windows will be in place for judging on Saturday before the fair begins and many are expecting it to be one of the most attractive features of the fair with store owners given a wide latitude in the preparation of their windows.

In addition the Haskell Fire Department is cooperating in the decoration of the town with banners and streamers as in the past. With the windows decorated and the store fronts and streets adorned with banners and streamers, Haskell will be in her best holiday dress for the county's birthday party.

OLD SETTLERS DAY TO HONOR PIONEERS

The old settlers of Haskell and the surrounding counties, judging from the interest being shown by them, are looking forward to a real reunion during the Golden Jubilee Fair celebrating the 50th anniversary of Haskell County.

The entire Jubilee has been set apart for them with free admission to all grounds under the control of the Association, the races, midway, and old settlers reunion, membership cards being issued for their purpose.

The old settlers special day will be Thursday, October 17th. The morning of this day will find the fair grounds open to them for a picnic and barbecue in their honor. As one of the principal attractions of the picnic there will be an address by some prominent Texas figure.

The Hon. James V. Allred has been invited to make this address and in advent of some development in the Special Session of the Legislature will be present for the occasion.

In the afternoon the old timers program will merge into the racing program with the old settlers being honor guests at the race meet. Between races, old fiddlers will have a chance to contest for prizes and ribbons. Those interested in entering this event are requested to get in touch with Garland Orr.

In addition to the fiddlers contest, a Style Show of the 90's will be staged featuring the styles and fashions of Haskell's early days. All those who attend the reunion on this day attired in the fashion of the pioneer days will be admitted without charge, it being the desire of the association to create a real old time atmosphere for the entire program.

During the day and between races prominent old timers will be introduced to the crowd with an especial introduction for the old settler longest in the county, the oldest old settler, and the one coming the longest distance to attend the reunion.

CELEBRATING OUR 50TH ANNIVERSARY

On the eve of celebrating the 50th anniversary of Haskell County with a Fair, as well as a Golden Jubilee and old settler's reunion, it is well to pause and reflect as to the meaning of a fair.

This is our 10th annual Fair and once again we are able to say that the exhibits are more numerous and the displays more lavish than ever before.

A Fair is not just a means of blowing off steam that accumulated but it is to display the progress of the past year. Farmers and Ranchers get together and perhaps one man has a crop or a breed that is making money and another that is not. These men will gravitate together, even though they come from extreme parts of the country and will exchange ideas, each benefitting from the other.

The County Agent cannot take a specimen of his handiwork to every individual in the county, neither can every individual travel all over the county to see how his neighbors are doing things in a better method.

Therefore, a Fair is essential. It gives the merchant a chance to display his wares and his implements so that everyone living in the trade area can see them, watch the machinery work, and usually get reliable information from a factory expert there on the Fair Groups. The Farmer can see the advantages of rotation and diversification, and the Stock Breeder can get ideas for the improvement of his herds.

The prize winners can always demand and get better fees for their services and this brings about a spirit of competition that reflects for the good of the entire country as everyone benefits from an increased standard of living. Not only the individuals themselves but the business houses that supply them, the professions that serve them and the country that governs them.

Of course, a fair isn't considered complete if there is not a show to entertain but once again it is more or less a gathering of kindred spirits that goes to make the show appear funnier, and more entertaining than would be if there were no others of similar tastes to enjoy it with you.

BY "RAS"

A man's worst enemy is often right under his hat.

An economist has been defined as a man who knows everything and can't do anything.

If you can't "take it" don't admit it. When a man loses his fighting spirit, he's whipped.

Home is where you scatter the Sunday newspapers all over the premises.

Common sense in an uncommon degree is what the world calls wisdom.

Another example of over-production: the hundreds of bills already introduced at the state legislature.

Mrs. Edwin E. Wickliffe and son, Barry of Chillicothe are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Kaigler.

VIEWS and REVIEWS

Bernard M. Baruch, financier: "Fighting countries can do without war gas and machine guns quicker than without wheat and other food and clothing."

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., President General Motors: "We have reached a point where we are convinced the depression is behind us."

Lewis W. Douglas, former Director of the Budget: "The various acts of the New Deal make a complete picture of Socialism, each part fitting into a perfect design."

James A. Parley, Postmaster: "People without resources can hardly be allowed to starve."

William J. Cameron, Henry Ford's man: "The American mind has made a remarkable recovery of equilibrium."

George Barton Cutten, President, Colgate University: "Nothing could threaten the race as seriously as social legislation."

LEADERSHIP

Every emergency seems to bring out one man who towers head and shoulders above the rest. He is the one toward whom the others turn for leadership. It is the same with most lines of endeavor. Merit causes one firm or business to stand out.

We appreciate the large number of people in Haskell and neighboring communities, and those in rural homes, who call us for service. This, in our opinion is positive evidence of the outstanding merit of Kinney Funeral Service.

MARCHING!

PUBLIC HEALTH ENEMY NUMBER ONE

Again America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ, marshals his forces. Your family may be the next to be stricken!

Leading doctors tell us that fifty per cent of all disabling diseases start with a "common cold." America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ, strikes with such viciousness that sixty per cent of the population has three or more "colds" each year. Think of this startling total of over two hundred million illnesses—many of which could be avoided!

The common cold germ shows no favor. Invisible but dangerous, this Number One Enemy of Public Health stalks like a bandit in the night ready to rob you and your loved ones of health and energy. Cold germs find a fertile field in inadequately ventilated and improperly heated homes during winter.

Strike at the root of fatal winter illnesses by the simple precaution of providing proper ventilation and adequate heat in every room in your home. It's good health insurance! COMMUNITY NATURAL GAS COMPANY.

Tune in each Thursday night at 6:45, WFAA-WBAP, beginning Oct. 17, for vital facts to help you guard your family against Public Health Enemy No. 1

Mr. Wimbish announced that Mrs. Persons asks us to help them find a surrey to use in the pageant during the Fair.

And speaking of the Fair, Miss Davis has reminded us that we may have free admission provided we were living in Haskell county before the year 1900.

Mr. Wimbish: "Why were you late this morning?" Joe Isbell: "Well, you see, mother set the alarm clock for six and there are seven in the family."

Wallace P.: "To whom are you writing?" Paul R.: "My girl." Wallace P.: "Why are you writing so slow?" Paul R.: "Because she reads so slow."

Earl W.: "If you tell dad that I failed again, you are going to be in a position to answer a question that the great minds of the world have been studying about ever since the beginning of time."

Roy W.: "And what question is that?" Earl: "Can the dead speak?"

Mr. Sullivan: "George, why do I never find you at work when I come around?" George Decker: "It's on account of those rubber soled shoes."
