O'BRIEN MID-SCHOOL GIFTED AND TALENTED STUDENTS enjoyed a day at Texas Tech University and had the opportunity to visit the Tech Athletic Offices where upon they were surprised when Lady Raider standout Sheryl Swoops walked in. She greeted the students, signed autographs and posed for pictures. From left are Ritchie Carnes, Diana Estrada, Jason Brandon, Miss Swoops and Amy Hunt. Mid-School G / T Students Visit Tech, Meet Sheryl Swoops

The seventh and eighth grade Gifted / Talented class ventured to Texas Tech University May 11 for a "preview" of college life and were pleasantly surprised by a rare meeting with Lady Raider Basketball star, Sheryl Swoops. The group was visiting the Jones Stadium Executive Athletic Offices when Miss Swoops chanced to walk in. Sheryl cordially greeted the group, signed autographs and posed for pictures. She is the all-time leading scorer for the Lady Raiders, who won the National NCAA Women's basketball title this year. Following graduation, she will be playing professionally in Europe.

Also taking time out of their busy day to visit with the group were head football coach Spike Dykes and Assistant Coach Wally Kline. Coach Kline escorted the group to the "skull" room, where football players view game films and learn plays. The students were impressed with the friendliness of the coaches and the way they made the students feel welcome.

Greta Waldrip, the class sponsor, reported that excitement was running pretty high among the students at having the opportunity to meet and visit with these Tech celebrities. "I have to admit I was excited, too," Mrs. Waldrip said, who earned her coaching degree from Texas Tech in 1978 and has had the opportunity to see the women's athletic program change for the better. She continued by saying, "I made the Lady Raider basketball team in 1975-76, but that was before scholarships were available for the women's teams. We (the players) were going to have to pay

Copper Breaks State Park To Feature Theatre Under The Stars

Gold and red streams of light, the final rays of the setting sun pierce the dusty purple of an evening Texas sky. The audience gathers for a night of theatre under the stars in Copper Breaks State Park just south of Quanah and north of Crowell on Highway 6. "The Summer of the Wild Plum Moon," written by Foard County native Jerry Ayers, shows Thursday through Saturday nights at 8:00 o'clock. This new musical tells of the beginning of a new Texas county, Hardeman, known to some as a barren wasteland that would produce nothing but rattlesnakes and prairie dogs and to others as a great spiritual center providing vital holy and medicinal powers.

This world premiere traces the lives of six pioneers and their dreams of new beginnings. The play introduces the audience to Clara Ana Gerber, the post-mistress and proprietor of the local general dry goods who has come to the new territory to make a thriving business from generations of storefront grocers. Into Miss Clara's establishment comes Colonel G. William Harrison, retired army officer from the Great War, set on making his fortune from the gold just found in the mountains of the area. Nathaniel Henry, a big-time rancher from south Texas, dreams of owning and operating the northward-most cowtown in Texas. However, he meets his classic rival, the farmer, in an unexpected non-traditional form of Mrs. Helene Dermont and her son Brendan who have wagoned to Texas to find a small piece of farmland to call their own. Elizabeth, the daughter of the overzealous rancher, comes to her father's aid to be the school mistress for this rugged and untamed land, only to find that no school building is ready for her and the "three R's."

Juxtaposing this familiar tale of rich cattlemen, pioneer farmers and Victorian dreamers is the poignant story of a young Comanche Princess who must watch a way of life vanish before her eyes. The princess also reveals the story of the Great Spirit of the Land who lives on the mounds north of the Pease River and watches and protects her people and gives special magic to the land.

Through music and dance and drama the audience is given a glimpse of a time when people followed a dream for no other reason but because it pushed them forward into their future, a future set during a time when only the strong could live in a land where only the strong would survive.

To The Editor
Knox County News

On behalf of the 1993 Senior Class of Knox City High School, I would like to thank Dave and Stacy Thompson, Bobby King, Jimmy Tankersley, Christi Whitten and the First Baptist Church for all their help in the graduation and baccalaureate programs. The church allowed Dave, Stacy, Bobby, Jimmy and Christi to use the church audio and video equipment to film the programs so that they could be re-broadcast over channel 17 at a later date, making it possible for parents and students to record the commencement and baccalaureate programs. These people went to a great deal of effort to make this possible, and I know that all the seniors and their parents are very appreciative to them.

We would also like to thank the ministerial alliance of Knox City, Don Roberts and DeOnn Wallace for their help with the baccalaureate program. They were all very helpful and supportive. Bro. Duncan's message was taken to heart by all the class members.

Also, one last thanks to all the parents who helped with the Project Graduation party after the graduation. They all put in many hours in planning and chaperoning the party to help make it a success. Thanks also to the individuals and businesses who donated money and prizes to this worthwhile effort.

Sincerely,
Will Steger
Principal, Knox City High School

for our travel expenses, so I didn't feel I could continue. I regret not making the most of that opportunity and I have always tried to pass on the advice to my students NOT TO GIVE UP on their dreams so easily; even when an opportunity seems out of reach. I tell them to be positive and FIND a WAY! I was really thrilled the students had the chance to meet such inspiring figures. They represent just how far opportunities for all athletes have come."

The students also visited the Ranching Heritage Center, the Museum and the Recreational/Aquatic Center. Those attending were Jason Brandon, Diana Estrada, Ritchie Carnes, and Amy Hunt.

An interesting side note to this story is that prior to going to the athletic office, Mrs. Waldrip reported telling her class she would have to quickly stop to buy more film for her camera. She had remarked to them, "Who knows who we might see? Why, Sheryl Swoops might even come walking in. We'd better be prepared!" (Sure enough, she did!!)

O'Brien Happenings

By Audie Johnston

"Members of Atlanta Christian College's choir tour, we travel around the country by bus, singing at churches. One day we stopped at a restaurant whose specialty is pecan waffles.

When our steaming waffles were served, we all bowed our heads to give thanks. As we prayed, the waitress whispered in my ear, "If you're lookin' for the pecans, they're on the bottom."

Benjamin News

By Gladene Green

With graduation behind us, news will probably be scarce for awhile as the folks all seem to be ready for a rest. Harvest will take priority for a while until the wheat is all out. Each day, with the clouds that appear in the sky, we all hold our breaths afraid of a hard rain or hail that will damage this year's crop. It all looks so good! The harvesters are in the area just waiting for their "cue" to get in the fields. And with good weather, it shouldn't take long to get it out.

CONCERNING OUR SICK
Audrey Nolan was transferred to University Hospital in Lubbock on Tuesday. She is still quite ill.

Shirley Brown was in Houston for her regular visit last week. She has good days and bad but after another series of chemotherapy treatment, hopefully she will begin to feel better. She returns to Houston again the last of June.

Reports from San Antonio are that Grace Snailum was doing fine but had the misfortune of breaking her wrist one day last week. She will have to undergo some therapy later but hopefully won't have too much trouble with it.

Our newest resident in Benjamin, Dalton Hardin underwent by-pass surgery in Humana Hospital in Abilene recently. He is back home and is doing pretty well but having to take it mighty easy.

Little Kayla Hacker, the two year old daughter of Brandi and Cliff Hacker, spent several days last week in University Hospital in Lubbock. She was released Thursday and so far is doing pretty well. Her grandmother and "great grand", Mary Bohannon and Johnnie Williams, were in Lubbock with her and her family.

Leroy West was in Abilene Wednesday undergoing tests and will return Friday for further testing. Hopefully his problem won't be too great and can be helped with medication.

As always, we ask and urge you to remember all these friends in your prayers.

Study Club Has Final Meeting Of Year On Topic Of Education

By Janoma Stephens
Club Reporter

The Knox City Study Club enjoyed their final meeting of the 1992-93 club year Thursday, May 20, in the Community Center. The theme of our program was on Education. How timely as it is time of eighth grade and high school graduation. We do know education begins at birth and ends with death. The meeting was called to order by Ruth Christ, Erma Liles led in giving the pledges of allegiances to the American and Texas flags.

Following the approval of the reading of the minutes by Winifred White, Lena McGee was appointed as Federation Chairman and Janoma Stephens was appointed as Reporter. These changes came about due to the unexpected death of our President, Marguerite King.

William A. White, quoted "In Education we are striving not only to teach our youth how to make a living, but also to teach them to make a "Life", Ruth Christ, Director, led a panel in School Issues. Erma Liles reported on "The School Education Program", Janoma Stephens, "The School's Athletic Program", and the group discussed "A Solution for the Students Needs".

Three ladies who volunteered to spent time with Mrs. Brockett's second grade, joined by Mrs. Austin's second grade this week, were impressed with the children, method of teaching and how knowledgeable and smart they were. The Knox City Club adopted Mrs. Brockett's class as a "Adopt A Teacher", a GFWC (General) project. We are doing to enlarge our involvement next year. Our future lies in our youth and we cannot stress enough that with education (a must) one can do most anything or at least make a good happy "Life". We do need more involvement and would encourage other ladies of our community to join with us in trying to help our youth. We all wish our children and grandchildren to grow and become good, responsible citizens of our community and country.

Officers for 1993-1994 club year are President - Ruth Christ, first vice-president - Frances Dear, second vice-president and Federation chairman - Lena McGee, Secretary-Treasurer - Winifred White, Parliamentarian - Erma Liles and Reporter - Janoma Stephens.

In the absence of Olien Elmore, Janoma served as hostess for the meeting. A great time of fellowship was enjoyed by all ladies present "We Need You".

Researchers disagree about whether dementia is an integral part of Parkinson's Disease. About 15-20% of PD patients overall suffer some dementia. But Alzheimer's Disease and the resulting dementia accompany PD in 1/3 of victims over 65.

So-called character lines in the skin as we age are usually caused by the dermis, the underlying skin layer, becoming less springy as its collagen and elastin fibers become more rigid with age.

Although a power line, especially a downed line may look harmless, it can still be dangerous even if you never touch it directly. SO REMEMBER - STAY CLEAR OF ELECTRIC POWER LINES because power lines are not all insulated and don't come with a warning sign!

Call WTU if you see a downed line and wait for a serviceman to arrive

It's the safest plan of action.

TRAFFIC JAM

What would happen if you lined up cars side by side in both the east and west bound lanes of U.S. Highway 287 — which has a 55 mile per hour speed limit — then asked all the drivers to drive exactly 55 miles per hour? Well, when that was attempted on the Capital Beltway around Washington, D.C., which also has a 55 mph speed limit, the police finally stopped some of the drivers and told them to speed up. This little experiment had apparently caused an eight mile backlog of traffic. This is a prime example of what I believe is the failure of the national maximum speed limit policy.

U.S. Highway 287 is a superb highway built to interstate highway standards from Fort Worth to Denver, except where it passes through cities. At those points, the speed limits are controlled by local ordinances or state law.

I want to make it clear that I am in no way advocating speeding. People are killed everyday by drivers who don't obey the speed limit, drivers who believe they can get away with going just a little too fast because no police are around. There are just too many problems with the national maximum speed limit policy, and I hope to correct those problems with legislation I filed earlier this year.

My legislation would repeal the provisions that established the national policy. One major problem with the current federal law can be seen right through the heart of the 13th Congressional District by anyone who has had to drive U.S. Highway 287 between Amarillo and Bowie. I can't see any reason why the speed limit must be 55 miles per hour on that highway, and I know most who travel 287 feel the same. If the national maximum speed limit were to be repealed, the speed limit on that highway and many others like it could be changed.

Even if the national speed limit is repealed, national standards would still apply, and states would have to follow those when setting speed limits for streets and highways. States would also still receive federal highway funds. The only change would be that states could look at each street and highway individually when deciding what the speed limit on that street or highway should be.

Not every highway is the same, and that's why each state should have the right to set the speed limit on its highways. I believe it would be much better for state officials to look at their own highways and set speed limits than for the federal government to keep the standard 55 mph limit for highways.

Some people will argue that the speed limit was lowered to 55 mph to save lives. But I believe lives are being saved because of tough DWI laws, mandatory seat belt laws, air bags, and better made vehicles.

Almost every weekend I travel the district meeting with constituents, so I have driven thousands of miles in Texas during my years as a congressman. The highways are in excellent shape, and I can find no reason why Texas and other states should not be allowed to set speed limits on their highways. After all, who should know better what is a safe speed limit?

I believe that in most cases when people drive over the speed limit, it's because the speed limit is too low. When car after car is passing you, it's difficult for most people to keep on driving slow. It's a lot like "going with the flow."

Studies have shown that the setting of speed limits below those acceptable to responsible motorists leads to noncompliance, misallocation of enforcement and judicial resources, and safety problems caused by erratic traffic flow. That is why the experiment on the Beltway around Washington ended with the police asking the drivers to speed up.

I'm not ignoring the fact that accidents can happen when people speed. But accidents can also happen when motorists drive too slow, and that's why middle ground must be established. But when that middle ground is established by the federal government, individual cases such as U.S. Highway 287 are not considered. I think it is time they were.

Managed Competition: How Does It Work ?

By Stephen Kuehler,
Knox County Hospital Administrator
One of the most talked about suggestions for changing the health care system is called "Managed Competition". This is the health care reform proposal many health care experts favor. According to these experts, managed competition offers affordable health care to all Americans, regardless of their health, employment or financial status.

Basically, here is how managed competition would operate:

1. All individuals and small businesses would enroll in regional Health Insurance Purchasing Cooperatives, which would act as purchasing representatives for the group.
2. Through their HIPC, everyone would have a choice of one of several competing Accountable Health Plans (AHPs) in their area.

3. Each AHP would offer a standard benefits package which would include access to a primary care physician, preventive medical exams, immunization for childhood diseases, and other benefits.

4. The premiums paid for the basic package would be 100% tax deductible for whoever paid the premium, either individuals or businesses.

5. Patients would be regularly surveyed about their satisfaction with the care they received. The information would be made available to all health care purchasers.

6. If individuals move, they could purchase care from their new HIPC at a comparable standard rate. Since pre-existing conditions are no longer a concern, neither is moving or changing jobs.

As health care reform is debated in the national media, you will be hearing more about managed care and other options for reform. At this point, managed care seems to be one option that will not hurt small town hospitals like ours, but they jury is still out.

METER TAMPERING NOW A FELONY

The State of Texas has recently adopted an amendment to the State Penal Code making meter tampering a third degree felony. A third degree felony comes with a punishment of confinement in the Texas Department of Corrections for a term of not more than 10 or less than 2 years. In addition to imprisonment, an individual adjudged guilty of a third degree felony may be punished by a fine not to exceed $5,000.

Before the amendment of the new law, it was a class A misdemeanor for meter tampering unless the loss of service was more than $200. Under the new law, any meter tampering regardless of the amount of loss is now a felony of the third degree.

Meter tampering consists of, but is not limited to:

- (1) Diverting electricity from passing through a meter device.
- (2) Preventing electric service from being correctly registered by a meter device.
- (3) Unauthorized activation of electric service.

As a special note to our members, it will also be considered meter tampering if a meter is reset and electrical service is restored by anyone other than a Cooperative employee.

All Cooperative meters are sealed. This seal should not be cut or broken without special authorization. In cases where the seal must be cut for emergencies the Cooperative should be notified as soon as possible so that the meter can be resealed.

FEDERAL JUDGES BOW TO STATES' RIGHTS IN SENATE REDISTRICTING

After monkeying with the Texas election process for a year and a half, a three judge federal court ruled April 6th that legislatively enacted plans for the Texas Senate, House of Representatives, and U.S. Congress do not violate the Voting Rights Act. Judge Harry Lee Hudspeth, who was appointed to the court after James R. Nowlin was removed from the panel because of a reprimand from the 5th Circuit Judicial Council, joined Justice Will Garwood in the majority opinion that ruled the plans were fair for all groups.

The court dismissed "with prejudice" the suit brought by the Republican Party of Texas because it had no merit. The ruling upholds the philosophy of Texas voters' right to determine state policy through their duly elected representatives. This ruling closely follows the doctrine of states' rights recently reaffirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court in Grove v. Emlison.

S.B. 1, following the Senate's original intent, preserves the districts formerly represented by Temple Dickson and Bob Glasgow. Under the Senate drawn plan Senate District 30, which I represent, would incorporate more rural West Texas counties and part of Abilene.

The unfortunate and unjustified interference of the courts in this process has had the effect of placing voters in three different districts in less than three years. Voters who have been frustrated by this continuous change in lines can now at least be assured of the district they will be in for the remainder of the decade, and I intend to use my position as chairman of the Senate Redistricting Committee to keep this matter settled once and for all.

Why Not the Lottery?

The rejection of the constitutional amendments by Texas voters has escalated the dilemma of how to equalize school funding. Our goal must be to make sure every school district has an adequate amount of money to give each student a quality education whether that district is big or small, rich or poor. The answer to the problem, however, is a lot more complicated than many people realize.

My office has received a large number of calls suggesting that we simply dedicate lottery profits to education. After all, the lottery will produce over $500 million a year for the state over the next biennium. That sounds great until you realize that all the lottery money, plus $11 billion more out of the state general fund, is already being spent on education. Trying to solve the school finance problem with lottery money would be like trying to spend the same money twice.

Besides that, it would cost the state about $4.5 billion to equalize funding for rich and poor districts once the County Education Districts are gone, many times the amount of the lottery money already being spent on education.

The only way to raise the poor school districts up within a constitutional range of the wealthy districts with lottery proceeds would be to place caps on per-student spending to bring wealthy districts down. That's not the answer. It would be the death of sparse school districts like Jayton, Guthrie and others, whose cost per student is unavoidably high because of geography. We want to assure every student the right to a good education, not weaken our educational system.

WTU Personnel To Provide Economic Development Team

The West Texas agriculture community has gained strong new economic development tools thanks to West Texas Utilities Company. WTU has added Steve Teaff, agribusiness specialist, and Philip Marshall, business development analyst. The two will support WTU's economic development endeavors.

Texas is the leading U.S. producer of cotton, wool, and mohair, yet few finished textiles are produced in the state. The state has long been considered a cattle region, but leather is seldom produced here. These are examples of the kind of processors WTU will target to bring jobs to this region using its economic development resources. The WTU economic development team will zero in on processes and manufacturers who would benefit by having their operations closer to producers in the West Texas area. This would strengthen area economies and give producers ready market for their products. The new agri-business specialist will work with communities and area experts to help strengthen the vital agriculture industry.

Steve Teaff has a farm background and was raised near Merkel, Texas. As the new WTU agri-business specialist, Steve will draw on his experiences in the farm community and knowledge of the West Texas area to improve the agriculture economy. He is a ten year veteran of WTU where he has worked in several areas, most recently as the company's hydraulic equipment instructor. He attended college at Angelo State University in San Angelo and is currently pursuing a business degree. Steve and his wife Carrie have a daughter Bethany, 10, and a son Ty, 7.

Philip Marshall's accounting background will add analytical support to the WTU economic development staff. He had been with the company four years and recently served in the property accounting section. Philip holds a BBA in accounting from Abilene Christian University in Abilene and is a Certified Public Accountant. He and his wife Twyla have one son Luke, 2.
