Over $71,000 Waiting For Haskell Farmers In The County Agent's Office

Approximately 1450 cotton contracts have been signed in Haskell county by planters out of a possible 2,000 contracts, it was revealed by R. H. Maxwell, county agent, Wednesday. The above total is slightly over 200 above the number which had been signed up to January 31, when the first "dead-line" for signing was supposed to take effect. The remainder have come into the office since that time under extension terms.

It is figured that before the new time limit takes effect, Haskell county planters will be signed up to the amount released for cottonplow signers.

Another item affecting every person in Haskell county which several farmers have neglected, according to the county agent, is the signing and returning of the Special Cotton Survey cards. Whether a farmer intends to sign a cotton contract or not, he is urged to return the card filled out to the best of his ability to his local committeeman, or to the county agent's office. This information, so Maxwell states, is very necessary so that Haskell county may present this data to the State Department of Agriculture.

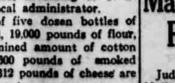

Saturday, February 3, saw the closing of the best Poultry and Pet Stock Show to be sponsored by the Vocational Agriculture boys in several years. Several hundred entries Two Planes Will Be Used from the different parts of this county helped to make this show the largest as well as the best for some time. The twenty dollar prize money set by the donator, an Abilene poultry house, went to the best display of Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes and Barred Plymouth Rocks. Fred Gilliam, F. M. Robertson, Rev. H. R. Whatley and H. K. Henry were the principal winners.

The culminating event of the poultry show was the judging contest held Saturday morning. Throckmorton, Abilene, McClain and Haskell were the only schools represent-ed. The beautiful ten-inch loving cup given by R. A. Crowell Jewelry Store, went to the McClain judging team. Haskell and Abilene were a close second and third, respectively.

Your Eyes and What They Do To You

The eyes are not a supernatural part of the body at all. They are controlled by simple muscle action and nerve force, the same as all other parts of the anatomy. Therefore, because you can see and read clearly normal size print is no proof you are free of eye strain. Some persons who see best need glasses worst. It is just as logical to assume that because you see normally, you can use your eyes all day without tiring them as to assume that you can run all day without tiring because you can run a short distance. At birth nature gave to you a certain amount of nerve energy. This energy was allotted to a certain part to the eyes a certain part to the arms, a certain part to the legs, a certain part to the stomach, etc. And of all the external members of the body, the eyes are the only ones which act neighborly with the vital organs, borrowing nerve energy from them. Therefore, continued usage of defective eyes will aggravate, and in many cases, cause indigestion, constipation, and slight symptoms of appendicitis, heart palpitation, nervous exhaustion and hysteria. And these troubles resist any medical treatment until the eyestrain is removed by properly fitted glasses.

A few other direct results of eye strain are, pressure in top of the head, pain in back of neck, in and around the eye balls, dry, itchy eyes, swollen lids, dizziness, nervousness and headaches after doing close work for a while.

Hay fever is a direct result of eye strain and the only cure is properly fitted glasses. No serum or other medical treatments have ever permanently stopped one case of hay fever. They give only temporary relief. This weed or bush, or what-not supposed to cause hay fever has not been discovered. If this weed argument were true, we would all have hay fever, as we are exposed alike.

The following symptoms, noticeable among school children, are due directly to eye strain. These children are nervous, irritable, often bothered with styes, under weight, light eaters, often complain of the eyes, head or stomach hurting, make low grades in their school work and some fail. In some cases, the child's eyes will cross; in others will turn outward.

There is a certain type of children, if their eyes are not given proper attention, who will develop an abnormal relation between the convergence and accomodative functions of their eyes. Such children may be known by the following characteristics:-they have precocious minds, are full of curiosity, adventurous, masterful, investigative, alert, and are always seeking detailed information. These children develop the focusing function of their eyes too fast and as a result become latent hyperopes. If they complain of any physical discomfort, it will be headaches after doing close work or the stomach hurting.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

The United States News, published by David Lawrence in Washington, and claiming to be a medium of accurate and unbiased information regarding the activities and operations of the national government, said in a recent issue:

"The theory on which officials are working is that with billions about to flow into the pockets of farmers and workers on CWA and PWA enterprises, private business will be stimulated greatly.

"Then demand for labor will be counted on to pick up.

"Under codes, hours now are restricted so that work will be spread as industry seeks to fill the new demands for its goods.'

That is the theory. It is the basis of all vast endeavor that President Roosevelt has undertaken for our national rehabilitation and recovery, and as the theory works itself out, as there is good reason to believe it will, there will come the gradual transfer of the burden of unemployment from public enterprise to private industry. It is understood that the President hopes he will be able to begin the transfer of this load by the middle of next summer, and that by the end of another year the job will have been virtually completed.

We should bear in mind, however, that the combined efforts of the President and the Congress cannot accomplish the monumental task which has been undertaken without the enthusiastic and whole-hearted support of all classes of citizens. Workers, employers, business men, politicians, farmers-in fact unemployed as well as the employed must enter into the effort and help put it over. He who attempts to rock the boat in this emergency to advance partisan ends is not loyal to his country.

AGE AND EFFICIENCY

The late William James, reputedly the greatest American psychologist, is said to have declared that most men are old fogies at the age of 25. Bruce Barton interprets this statement to mean that by the age of 25 most men have formed permanent prejudices and have closed their minds to all new ideas.

If this theory be correct, which we do not believe, there are certainly many striking exceptions. Many men long past the age mentioned have struck out into new fields of endeavor and have developed abilities in later life of which they gave little promise in their youth.

As to the continuance of executive and creative activities to ripe old age, innumerable examples may be cited. Consider Oliver Wendell Holmes, an active member of the Supreme Court of the United States until he was past 80; President Hindenburg, of Germany, at 86; Thomas A. Edison, who continued at work until a short time before his death at 84. The list might be continued almost indefinitely. Some other notables who prolonged their activities far beyond the allotted span of three score and ten may also be mentioned. Sophocles finished his "Oedipus at Colonus" at 90; Michael Angelo did some of his best work after he was 80; Clemenceau wrote his memoirs at 84; Tennyson wrote his lyric masterpiece, "Crossing the Bar," after he was 80; Goethe completed "Faust" at about the same age.

More than one person remarked ast week that those "Footlight Paade" beauties depicted on the side of the Service Cleaners' buildingsho must have felt the chilly weather.

-NOF-

Considerable criticism was heard by this writer anent the extolling of various people's virtues and strong points for men only-that we should have mentioned the women. Can't be done, Clarence, because ook at the trouble we would make for ourselves if we mentioned that me certain woman was beautiful and another intellectual! Would we make enemies?

-Wor-

Really, we should say something or the much fairer sex, so after consulting Walter Murchison, Jr. P. M. Robertson, Tom Davis, Foster Davis, Judge Ratliff, D. P. Ratiff, T. R. Odell, F. L. Daugherty, Judge Grissom and B. C. Chapman, our attorneys, we'll say that they are ALL beautiful, intellectual ourteous, charming, kind, considerate, etc., etc., etc., and reserve the right as a newspaper man to correct any mistake in next week's sque.

Not that it matters, but our thivy has never sported a license plate that didn't have orange and lack colors-Kansas, California, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas.

When you hear someone remark hat newspaper advertising "costs money", ask him how much money te spends on those "graft" schemes that strangers place before him, noney that leaves your county and pay no taxes and do the community ittle good. In other words, when lickers sell their so-called advertisng spaces, they pass the names of the "easy mark" along to other grafters and the process is done over and over again! Every dellar spent with strangers on alleged advertising (Heaven forgiv: such slander) doesn't help the schools the churches, the county or the business

A SIGN OF RECOVERY

It is worth remembering that not all of the vast amount of money spent by the Federal government in the past year is going to prove a complete loss. Some of it is coming back, and recently it has been coming back at a pretty lively rate.

Harvey Couch, head of the directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, reveals that the RFC is now collecting fully $1,000,000 a day from its borrowers. The corporation has loaned something more than three billions in its career, and more than a third of that already has been paid back.

Not only does this indicate that a severe strain on the treasury is being lessened, but it is an excellent sign of reviving business, and when Mr. Couch adds that applications for loans totalling $330,000,000 recently have been canceled, it becomes apparent that prosperity is on the way back at a fairly rapid gait.
