Mackie of the Cutter Laboratory, the disease is known as Equine Encephalomyelitis. The infection is spread through the agency of a carrier present in the summer months as mosquitoes and flies. All sick horses should be isolated and it is important that they be protected from mosquitoes and biting flies.

Horses affected with Equine Encephalomyelitis appear to be drowsy or may stagger and fall when walk-

COURT FAVORS MOVING BRASOS RIVER BRIDGE

The court passed an order directing Judge Melton to make application for a grant to cover the cost of moving the bridge.

Modern Electric Cookery "Seals-In" Vital Health Elements of Foods

In contrast to old-fashioned methods of cookery, the modern Electric Range makes it possible to serve meals of surpassing healthfulness... as well as incomparable flavor

... And the reason is simple. With electricity foods are cooked in a minimum amount of water, or entirely in their own juices. The heat is concentrated directly on the bottom of the utensil... so the steam rises, condenses on the cool lid, and drops back into the vessel... to be used over and over. Thus, all vital food values remain "sealed-in"!

Don't Pour Food-Values Down the Sink!

If you're using an old-fashioned method of cookery, the most valuable elements of your foods are going into the sink... with the water you pour off vegetables and meats!

For Health, for Convenience, and for Economy you should cook the modern electrical way. Prices and terms... right now... allow your purchase to fit into the family budget with ease. Ask for a demonstration of modern Electric Cookery today!

Call us for an individual investigation of your use of electric service, to determine the cost of cooking by electricity in your home. You may be surprised to learn that there are many cases where electric cookery actually decreases the total electric and gas bills.

First Early Fall Wedding Will be in October.

We would advise everybody in Haskell to keep all early October dates open until the date of the wedding of Sir Ronald Texas and Miss Haskell, which will take place as soon as the blushing bride names the date.

Madam Grundy has been as sly and as clever as usual in ferreting out this romance and can give the public a slight description of the bride and how she will be gowned.

Miss Haskell is a decided brunet and adhering to the new type of woman is all curves, and tips the scales at nearly two hundred pounds.

The groom is—but who is interested in the groom, anyway?

This exclusive wedding will be sponsored by the Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Church, of which Judge Odell is the teacher. The sponsors assure the public there will be orange blossoms, evening gowns, dress suits, wedding veil and everything in order, that a big wedding call for. Don't miss it. Watch for the date!

THE FARMER AND THE NRA

The farmer and the resident of our rural communities have a vital stake in the National Recovery Program. Success of the program means a better, brighter day for them and proportionately more than for the industrial worker and the city dweller in general.

While there has been overproduction of certain farm products, underconsumption caused by business and industrial paralysis and widespread unemployment, resulting in a huge loss of purchasing power, has contributed principally to the farmer's distress.

Farm prices have been low largely because the drop in the income of the people has sharply curtailed demand and the farmer must take what he can get for his products, not what they are worth.

The farmer has rightly been called the backbone of the Nation. At no time in our history has his wholehearted help been needed more than now. He can work the more earnestly in contributing to the success of the recovery drive because he knows that when the big turn comes he will share in the prosperity that follows.

President Roosevelt, whose farsighted and dynamic leadership has already initiated comprehensive measures designed to aid the farmer directly in solving his own problems, is depending upon the rural dweller to put a shoulder to the wheel and help get the country back on its feet.

GUARANTEE OF BANK DEPOSITS

Under the National Banking Act of 1933 which becomes effective in part next January 1, bank deposits of $2500 or less will be guaranteed. When the act becomes fully operative next July 1, deposits not exceeding $10,000 will be guaranteed 100 per cent, those under $50,000 by 75 per cent, and those above $50,000, 50 per cent. Figures show 96.76 per cent of deposits in American banks amount to less than $2500 each.

To capitalize the Federal Deposit Corporation, large sums will be contributed by the Federal Government and the Federal Reserve, and each bank will pay to the corporation an amount equal of one-half of one per cent of its total deposits.

Bankers have opposed the guarantee of deposits as they opposed the Federal Reserve System, and vicious, unwarranted and untruthful propaganda has been distributed to the effect that small banks and independent banks would be eliminated under the act. The American Bankers' Association at its recent meeting passed a resolution demanding that initiation of deposit insurance be postponed, but this administration cannot be bluff.

J. F. T. O'Connor, comptroller of the currency and one of the men who will direct the deposit insurance plan, listed before the American Bankers' Association replies by President Roosevelt to all of their many objections to deposits guaranty.

"Injustice to none," O'Connor said, "is the first aim of the National Banking Act of 1933." In direct and forceful contradiction of objections by bankers he said: (1) The public made a loud demand for deposit insurance, as reflected in passage of the law with huge majorities in Congress; (2) The law makes a fact of the theory that depositors have a right to their money; (3) Deposit insurance will banish bank runs by giving assurance of absolute safety; (4) It will obviate the necessity of the postal savings bank and return to the banks more than a billion dollars in deposits; (5) The act will extend credit and modify cash reserves; (6) It will save banks millions of dollars by eliminating interest on demand deposits; (7) The expense and work of setting up the machinery is not prohibitive.

In view of the fact that bankers bitterly opposed the Federal Reserve System which proved to be one of the most constructive measures ever enacted by Congress, the people should not be unduly concerned over their opposition to the guarantee of deposits.

STUDENTS AND BEER

Citizens who are neither fanatical drys nor fanatical wets, but who desire to promote real temperance by whatever means best, are watching with interest the results of the legalization of beer by the recent session of Congress.

Some expressions by college and university authorities on the subject, in the light of their observations since the new law became effective on April 7, seem pertinent at this time.

President Hopkins, of Dartmouth College, where beer is permitted to be sold on the campus, declares that "there would seem to be a tendency for beer to replace hard liquor in undergraduate consumption."

Similar views are expressed by Dean Hawkes and Professor Pitkin, of Columbia University, Dean Works, of the Chicago University, President Britt, of Knox College, and Dr. Fairchild, of New York University, to name only a few who have given special attention to the reaction of students to the new dispensation.

Needless to say, all the educators named desire to see drinking of intoxicants in their institutions reduced to the minimum. Every good citizen desires to promote temperance, and if harmless light beer can be substituted for vile bootleg liquor, a decided gain in the right direction will have been made.

Once Proud Army Post at Marfa May Become Dude Ranch

Fort D. A. Russell at Marfa, not so long ago a bustling cavalry post, soon may suffer the ignoble fate of being converted into a dude ranch. Bids on leasing the Marfa reservation, now deserted except for a care-taking detail, are being advertised for and will be opened October 10 at 10 a. m. at Fort Sam Houston by Col. John S. Chambers, quartermaster of the eighth corps area.

In seeking to lease Fort D. A. Russell the government is offering a million dollar plant, including 434 acres of land and 134 buildings, less than a mile from Marfa. Seventy-nine of the buildings are of concrete. Eight are adobe and the others are of frame construction.

The post has complete water, sewerage, electric and telephone systems, the water supply coming from one well which has a capacity of 300 gallons per minute.

It is a community complete in itself with living quarters, hospital buildings and other structures and would make an excellent plant for a sanatorium, tourist camp or resort, school, dude ranch or similar project, Col. Chambers says.

The post has been abandoned as an army station since the first cavalry was moved to Kentucky early this year to become the first mechanized cavalry unit in the army.

Answers to Inquiries

Q. Will employers be relieved from the terms of the President's Reemployment agreement upon approval of codes covering the industry in which they are engaged?

A. Paragraph 13 of the agreement submitted to every employer reads: "This agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a code to which the undersigned is subject, or, if the NRA so elects, upon submission of a code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this agreement."

Q. After hearings on codes what consideration is given their proponents?

A. Bulletin No. 2 of NRA (covering preparation of codes): "After such hearing, the proposed code may be modified at the suggestion of NRA or otherwise and as so modified it is agreed to by the representatives of the association or group presenting it and ratified by such group or association under such conditions as the administration may prescribe, it will be presented to the President for his approval or disapproval or suggested modification."

Q. Are tips considered in fixing wages in codes or agreements?

A. No, in codes now under consideration tips are expressly excluded.

Q. Can barber shops raise prices for hair cuts and shaves, etc?

A. Pending completion of a permanent barbers' code, the temporary agreement fixes minimum rates of pay and maximum hours but does not fix prices of service.

Q. Are hearings on codes always open?

A. Invariably and so provided in the Recovery Act.

WHEN TIMES WERE HARD

George McKee, Anderson, South Carolina, says times are not hard. Here's the way George puts it:

"Don't talk to me about hard times. I was born eight miles from a schoolhouse, nine miles from a church, 85 miles from New York, 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a corn crib and 8,767 miles from Hong Kong."

"Our nearest neighbors lived two miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old. The only book we had in the house during my early childhood was a Bible and a catalog somebody had sent us. "There were twelve members in our family, but you see we had 3 rooms to live in, including dining room which was also the kitchen. Everybody worked at our house. We thought that everybody else in the world had gravy and bread for breakfast, liver and cracklin' hock for dinner, butter milk and corn pone for supper, 'cause that's what we had—and we liked it."

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the winter time. We had nice white shirts for summer time use. We slept on straw ticks and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle 'till I was nearly grown. Father got hold of two half dollars at the same time and let me hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher but harder to pay than now. We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't ceiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our company room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a home made rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat or tight-rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of all the young-uns under five years of age, and stayed full all of the time."

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month—but not in a car—we used a two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays but not in silks and satins. We neither wrote letters nor received any. We made our own lye hominy, distilled our own lye from our own ash hopper. We drank sassafras tea and never had a yearning for coffee."

"We sopped our own molasses, we ate our own meat; we had heard of cheese but never ate any; we considered rice a delicacy for only the preacher to eat; we knew of some store clothes, but never hoped to wear any; we got a stick of candy and three raisins for Christmas and were happy; we loved pa and ma and were never hungry, enjoyed going naked, I didn't want much, expected nothing. And that's why our so-called hard times are not hard on me."

Forest Corps to Enlist 100,000 More in October

WASHINGTON.—At the present rate of absorption by industries, it is estimated that 100,000 of the 300,000 men in the country's 1,450 Conservation Corps camps will be in regular jobs by October 1. Upon completion of their 6 months' enlistment, all of the men, ranging in ages from 18 to 25, will be discharged between October 1 and 15. Those desiring to reenlist may do so for an additional 6 months, and it is expected that the full quota of 300,000 for that period will be filled promptly. About 900 of the present camps will be improved to make them habitable during the winter, and 570 new camps will be

Advertisements Make The Pennies Bigger

When James Buchanan was President and tall beaver hats were in vogue; when gentlemen wore broad cravats and ladies wore hoop skirts, the pennies they tossed to children were as big as quarters. But the cart-wheel coppers your grandfather got for keeping his lace collar clean were not as big in buying power as the pennies of today.

A penny then might buy a pastry, or ten of them take one to the Fair, but your great-aunt and great-uncle couldn't have gone to a movie at any price.

Sixty years ago the ladies could go shopping for dry goods and buy silks that would make you green with envy, linens that were linens and broadcloths that beggar description. But what their favorite store did not have they usually got along without.

You can pick up your newspaper and in fifteen minutes you can know what the different shops are offering in fabrics, patterns, varieties and qualities that great-grandmother never dreamed could be gathered together under any conditions.

Times have changed, and so have merchandise and business methods. One of the influences that has helped to bring about so much of change, that has helped to multiply opportunities and increase the spending size of our pennies is advertising.

Every merchant, every manufacturer knows that advertising materially reduces selling costs by increasing the demand for and the distribution of the products of hundreds of thousands of mills. Indeed, many of the things we count today as necessities or simple luxuries could not be made and sold at their reasonable prices except as advertising has created a broad market for them, making millions of sales at little prices and little profits.

State Health Officer
Condemns False
Hope to Incurables

In speaking of health racketeers, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer said, "There is no meaner method of hitting below the belt than by holding out false promises to incurables. This fact, however, does not in the least deter the unscrupulous who thus heartlessly prey upon thousands of unfortunate who are in a hopeless stage of illness. Thousands of dollars are extracted annually from individuals whose conditions direct their hopes to the promises made by the unscrupulous gentry who claim to have beaten the untiring researchers of endowed laboratories to cures for cancer, diabetes, tuberculosis, epilepsy, pellagra, and other serious conditions.

"Unfortunately, it is words rather than deeds that creates the miracle. A miracle which, instead of being related to a cure, is entirely associated with the transfer of large sums of money from innocent persons to those whose only interest in health and health matters stops at the cash register.

"It is the sad and killing fact that in addition to the incurables, there are thousands of believing persons who become victims of this type of racketeer, and thus through self-diagnosis and self-treatment, postpone a real investigation of their ailments until the incurable stage is reached.

"Two main rules should be followed in this connection. The first is to have an annual physical examination by a reputable physician. In this way incipient conditions can be discovered and by proper treatment the disease can frequently be conquered. The second rule is to mistrust all high promising statements of 'amazing discoveries.'

Unbelievable
but True

Do you know that today—in this highly enlightened world—there are millions of people who never heard of tooth-paste; millions who never saw a fountain pen and wouldn't know what it was if they saw it; who never tasted ginger ale, or owned a flashlight; millions of women who never heard of a permanent; boys and girls who wouldn't know a tennis racket from a basketball?

Unbelievable, but true? And why! Just because in remote places where these people live there are no newspapers and folks seldom, if ever, see a magazine.

Contrast this with your standards of living—an electric clock on your mantel, an electric refrigerator in your kitchen, a vacuum cleaner, colorful draperies, modish clothing of fine fabrics, food carefully prepared for you by great manufacturers, shoes and hats in the latest style—and then say a great big "Thank you" for advertising.

Without advertising you would be living in a past generation. Listening, open-mouthed, to the stories of some wayfarer with tales of radios, telephones, furniture, cosmetics, silk underthings he had seen in his travels.

Read the advertisements. Always there is something of interest, always something to save you money, time, or trouble.

No Gambling on Weather When New Farm Refrigerator Is Used

Texas farmers won't have to gamble so much on the weather when curing their pork if they use the new farm curing refrigerator designed by the United States Department of Agriculture, and adapted to Texas use by A and M College specialists. Built at a cost of about $28 the box holds from 800 to 1000 pounds of dressed meat. It is not intended for summer use but for emergency use during periods of warm weather in fall, winter or spring.

"It often happens," says Roy W. Snyder, meat specialist in the Texas A & M College Extension Service, "that a warm spell follows the freezing weather in which a farmer does his butchering. If prolonged this box, which thus far is only an experiment, a farmer ought to be able to avoid all these losses and to cure his meat at the most convenient time. The box was used during the cooler part of the year, and only when compelled to do so by warm weather, the farmer will probably find the cost of icing the box fairly reasonable. It is believed that farmers may club together in building a community box, or that one farmer may build and rent to neighbors."

Blue prints of the box and directions for its making and its use have been prepared by the Extension Service and are available through the county farm demonstration agents.

GEOLOGY OF STATE IS OUTLINED IN BOOK JUST ISSUED

Austin, Texas, Sept. 16.—Bringing the study of the rock strata of Texas quite up to date, the Bureau of Economic Geology of the University of Texas has just issued a 1007 page volume on the physical features of the State. This volume is regarded by geologists as the most valuable contribution perhaps ever made to the study of this branch of the physical features of Texas. The contents of this book is the result of several years of field surveys made by members of the staff of the Bureau. All that is at present known of the rock strata of the State is described. The published work is a continuation of the studies and findings that were conducted and published several years ago by the late Dr. J. A. Udden while he was director of the Bureau of Economic Geology.

The new volume bears the authorship of Dr. E. H. Sellards, present director of the Bureau, and two members of his staff. Dr. Sellards' theme deals with the pre-paleozoic and paleozoic systems in Texas and a bibliography and subject index of Texas geology. The second part of the volume is the work of W. S.

Atkins on the mesozoic systems in Texas, and the third part was written by F. B. Plummer on the cenozoic systems in Texas.

Although the first crude map purporting to show some of the surface physical features of what is now Texas was made more than 400 years ago, it has been only in recent years that the science of geology has brought to light in this State facts connected with such surface conditions that have resulted in the development of oil and gas which have already brought almost untold millions of dollars of wealth to the country.

"As early as 1837 an attempt was made to develop Texas resources through the establishment of a State geological survey known as the Shumard Survey," Dr. Sellards said in the preface to the new volume. "This survey terminated in 1861 and owing to its short duration, no very definite results were obtained. However, several publications of value by B. F. Shumard, and one by G. G. Shumard, subsequently issued, resulted from work done at this time."

"A period of well-directed and well organized investigation in Texas geology began about 1884 with the initiation of geologic work by the United States Geological Survey. Among important United States geological publications on Texas of this and later dates are those of Dr. R. T. Hill.

"In 1888 the State initiated a third State geological survey. This survey, commonly known as the Dumble Survey, continued until 1894. Two reports of progress, four annual reports, four bulletins, and one special report on lignite, were issued by this survey. The Texas Mineral Survey, under the direction of Dr. W. B. Phillips, established in 1901, continued through 1905. Several bulletins were issued by this survey.
